Book VIII.

[The second grand division of the Atharvan collection comprehends books viii.-xii. It consists wholly of hymns of more than twenty verses, and contains all the hymns of that length except such as for especial reasons were placed in the later books. Leaving out of account the later books, there are forty-five such hymns; and these have been divided into five books, of which the first four, books viii., ix., x., and xi., have ten hymns each, while the remaining five hymns make up the twelfth book. Disregarding ix. 6 and xi. 3 (parvāya-hymns), it may be noted that books viii.-xi. contain all the hymns of from twenty to fifty verses to be found in the first two grand divisions, and that book xii. contains all of more than that number in the same divisions. "Of any other principle of arrangement dependent on the length of the different hymns, no trace is to be observed," says Whitney. For the divisions of book viii., see below. The whole book has been translated by Victor Henry, Les livres VIII et IX de l'Atharva-vēda traduits et commentés, Paris, 1894. The commentary ("of Sāyaṇa") breaks off at the end of hymn 6 and we have no more of it till the beginning of book xi. But in lieu of the missing introductions, Shankar Pandurang Pandit gives introductions of his own, modelled on those of the bhāṣya, and drawn from the same sources, the Kāuṣika, the Keçavī, etc.]

[The Major Anukramaṇī, at the beginning of § 2 of its treatment of book viii., says that, 'up to the end of book xi., the artha-sūktas constitute the norm and the parvāyas, beginning with virāḍ vā (viii. 10. 1), the exception': yāvad ekādaśakāṇḍāntam artha-sūkta-prakṛtis, tāvad viḥāya parvāyān virāḍvā-prabhṛtīn iti. And in fact, all through books viii.-xii., and even to the end of book xviii., every artha-sūkta is by one ms. or another designated as an artha-sūkta (xviii. 2 is an exception, solitary and doubtless casual).—In this place it may be well to enumerate the parvāya-hymns (including those also of the next division) and to print an account of the way in which the mss. present them. The account (barring slight changes) is by Mr. Whitney, and is written on a loose slip of paper found in his Collation-book at viii. 10. 1.]

[The parvāya-hymns are eight in number and are scattered over seven different books. Specifically, and with the number of parvāyas in each, they are as follows: viii. 10 (with 6 parvāyas); ix. 6 (with 6); ix. 7 (with 1); xi. 3 (with 3); xii. 5 (with 7); xiii. 4 (with 6); book xv. (18 parvāyas); book xvi. (9 parvāyas).]

They are called ṣaryāya-sūktas in distinction from those among which they occur and which are named artha-sūktas. The separate portions of which they are composed are called each a ṣaryāya [or also ṣaryāya-sūktā]. Each [ṣaryāya taken separately] is in the mss. numbered as to its verses separately; but they [the ṣaryāyas of a given group taken together] so evidently constitute each a whole, as shown by the sense and likewise by the manner in which the Anukramanīs treat them, that we [R. and W.] regarded it as beyond question that they should be numbered continuously, to save a citation by more than three numbers. [In this connection should be consulted SPP's "Critical Notice," prefixed to vol. i., p. 19 ff.] [See pages cxxxi–vii.]

Each ṣaryāya has its own summing up at the end: if a numbered division corresponding to an ṛc is composed of more than one divided portion, it is called a gaṇa, and its subdivisions avasāna-rcas or gaṇā 'vasāna-rcas. Thus the first division [of viii. 10] is summed up as follows: ṣaryāya 1, gaṇā 6, gaṇāvasānarcas 13; and it is by the latter number that the Anukr. treats it. Similarly the third ṣaryāya [of viii. 10] is summed up as ṣaryāya-sūktam 1, gaṇā 4, gaṇāvasānarcas 8. [Cf. the summation at the end of viii. 10.]

In xii. 5 the divisions are called vacanāni or vacanā 'vasāna-rcas. In ṣaryāyas 5 and 6 of xiii. 4 a distinction is made between avasānarcas and gaṇāvasānarcas, those which have the refrain receiving the latter designation.

The divisions of books xv. and xvi. are likewise ṣaryāyas, and their subdivisions are styled avasānarcas or gaṇāvasānarcas in the same manner.

[The anuvāka-division of each of the ten-hymned books viii.–xi. is into five anuvākas of two hymns each; and that of book xii. (consisting of five long hymns) is also into five anuvākas, but these are of one hymn each, so that here the anuvāka-division and the hymn-division coincide. The comm. divides the anuvākas into hymns in a manner nearly like that described for book vii. (see p. 388): that is, his "hymns" are mechanical decads of verses, with an overplus or shortage in the last "decad" when the total for the hymn (not — as in book vii. — for the anuvāka) is not an exact multiple of ten. A tabular conspectus for book viii. follows:

Hymns	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10
Verses	21	28	26	25	22	26	28	24	26	33 ¶
Decad-div.	10 + 11	10 + 10 + 8	10 + 10 + 6	10 + 10 + 5	10 + 10	10 + 10 + 6	10 + 10 + 8	10 + 14	10 + 10 + 6	6 P

Here ¶ means "paragraph of a ṣaryāya" (such as is numbered as a "verse" in the Berlin edition) and P means "ṣaryāya." The last line shows the "decad" division. These divisions are shown also in the Berlin edition. Of these "decads," anuvākas 1, 2, 3, and 4 contain respectively 5, 6, 5, and 5 (in all, 21 "decads"); while anuvāka 5 has 3 "decads" and 6 ṣaryāyas. The sum is 24 "decad"-sūktas and 6 ṣaryāya-sūktas or 30 sūktas. Cf. again the summation at the end of hymn 10.]

1. For some one's continued life.

[Brahman. — ekaviṃśakam. ārya (ārya?) āyusyam. trāṣṭubham : 1. puroḍhātī trāṣṭubh ; 2, 3, 17–21. anuṣṭubh ; 4, 9, 15, 16. prastārapañkti ; 7. 3-p. virāḍ gāyatrī ; 8. virāḍ pathyā-bṛhātī ; 12. 3-av. 5-p. jagati ; 13. 3-p. bhurīti mahābṛhātī ; 14. 1-av. 2-p. sāmni bhurig bṛhātī.]

Found also in Pāipp. xvi., with verse 17 after 20. [Partly prose, "verse" 14.]

[Hymns 1 and 2 together are used with others in Kauç. in the uṣanayana (55. 17) with touching the student's navel, and again with others in rites for long life (58. 3, 11).

The comm. cites them from Naks. K. 23 in a mahācānti. They are reckoned by Kāuṣ. to the āyusya gaṇa (note to 54. 11). For vs. 10, see below.]

Translated: Muir, v. 444; Ludwig, p. 495; Henry, I, 35; Griffith, I. 385; Bloomfield, 53, 569.

1. To the ender Death [be] homage. Let thy breaths, expirations, rest here. Let this man be here with his life (asu), in the portion of the sun, in the world of the immortal.

Ppp. puts our second pāda last.

2. Up hath Bhaga taken him, up Soma rich in shoots [hath taken] him, up the heavenly Maruts [have taken] him, up have Indra-and-Agni, for his welfare.

Or aśumant means 'rich in rays,' Soma having its secondary sense of 'moon': both were probably in the author's mind.

3. Here [be] thy life, here breath, here life-time, here thy mind; we bear thee up from the fetters of perdition with divine speech.

4. Step up from here, O man, fall not down, loosening down the fetter (pādāṇi) of death; be not severed from this world, from the sight (samāṇi) of fire, of the sun.

The mss., as usual, vary between pādāṇi and pādā, and SPP. adopts the former; the comm. has the latter.

5. Let the wind, Mātariṣvan, be cleansing for thee; for thee let the waters rain immortal things; may the sun burn weal for thy body; let death compassionate thee; do not thou perish.

Pavataṁ 'be cleansing' might properly enough be rendered simply 'blow.'

6. Up-going [be] thine, O man, not down-going; length of life (jīvatu), ability, I make for thee; for do thou ascend this immortal easy-running chariot, then shalt thou in advanced age (? jīrvi) speak to the council (vidātha).

Both here and at xiv. 1. 21, our mss. on the whole read decidedly jīrvis (only P.M. have jīrvī, Bp. jīrvī, here), and SPP. reports all his authorities without exception as giving it, so that it is without question the true AV. reading (as against RV. jīrvī); the comm. reads ajīrvī, and glosses it with ajīrvas, and Ludwig renders 'lebenskräftig.'

7. Let not thy mind go thither; let it not be lost (irō-bhū); do not neglect (pra-mad) the living, go not after the Fathers; let all the gods defend thee here.

8. Do not regard (ā-dhī) the departed, who lead [one] to the distance; ascend out of darkness, come to light; we take hold on thy hands.

Ppp. begins c with ud ā roha, which makes the pāda a good tristubh; the omission of e 'hi would rectify it to an anustubh. The comm. omits e 'hi. Ppp. also reads hastam in d. [With b, cf. v. 30, 12 b.]

9. Let not the dark and the brindled one, sent forth, [seize] thee, that are Yama's dogs, road-defenders; come thou hitherward; do not hesitate; stand not there with mind averted.

Ppp. reads mā'va for mā vi in c. The comm. omits préṣitāu in a; he [twice] supplies bādhatām as the missing verb in a.

10. Do not follow that road; that is a frightful one—the one thou hast not gone before, that I speak of; to that darkness, O man, do not go forth; [there is] fear in the distance, safety for thee hitherward.

[Kāuṣ. reckons the vs. to the abhaya gaṇa, note to 16.8.] Ppp. mutilates tamas in c to tan. The comm. reads purastāt in d. [For iyālha, see Gram. § 801 d.]

11. Let the fires that are within the waters defend thee; let that defend thee which human beings kindle; let Vāicvānara, Jātavedas defend [thee]; let not [the fire] of heaven consume thee along with the lightning.

Our text should read in d mā prā dhāk; the omission of prā is an error of the press. Ppp. reads mā pra dahāt.

12. Let not the flesh-eating [fire] plot against thee; move far from the destroying (sāmkasuka) one; let heaven defend, let earth defend thee; let both sun and moon defend thee; let the atmosphere defend from the gods' missile.

Most of the mss. (not our Bp.P.M.I.) read rākṣatām in d, which SPP. accordingly (following all his authorities) retains, though the accent is not defensible. [I can find no note to the effect that P.M.I. leave rākṣatām unaccented.] Ppp. puts pādas a, b after c, d. The comm. reads sāmkusukāt in b.

13. Let both the knower and the attender defend thee; let both the sleepless one and the unslumbering one defend thee; let both the guardian and the wakeful one protect thee.

In bodhā and pratibodhā, in a, the radical sense is perhaps more that of 'wake.' The comm. understands six rishis bearing these several appellations to be intended. [Cf. the closely related v. 30. 10, above; also MGS. ii. 15. 1 a, b, c, d, and the Index to their pratikas.] A similar formula is found also in K. xxxvii. 10; compare further PGS. iii. 4. 17. Ppp. reads anavadrāṇiṣ ca in b. [In b, the first ca might be dropped, without hurting the meter.]

14. Let these defend thee; let these guard thee; to these [be] homage! to these hail!

After gopāyantu, Ppp. inserts te tvāṇi hasassāyatu.

15. Let Vāyu, Indra, Dhātara, the preserving Savitar, assign thee unto converse with the living; let not breath, strength, leave thee; we call after thy life.

The pada-text has samsūde in a, and the translation follows this (cf. vyasīṣi from root vas), as being on the whole probably the understanding of the text-makers; if they had seen in the word anything of the root mud, they would have divided saṃmūde; and yet it is very likely that it is a corruption for saṃmūde; the comm. glosses it with saṃmodāya, as if the reading were sammūde. No variant from Ppp. is noted.

The comm. divides our 15-17 into two long verses, ending 15 with kathā syāh. His intention seems to be to make just twenty verses of the hymn.

16. Let not the jaw-snapping (?) grinder (jambhā), let not the darkness find thee, let not the tongue-wrencher (?); how shouldst thou be one that perisheth? up let the Ādityas, the Vasus bear thee, up let Indra-and-Agni, for thy welfare.

The translation implies a bold emendation of the unintelligible jihvā ā barhīs to jihvābarhīs, formed like muṣkūbarhīs [at iii. 9. 2]; Ludwig has a kindred conjecture, ā barhīs (aor.). The comm. thinks of a demon's tongue stretched to the size of a barhīs. The rendering of saṃhanu agrees with that of the Petersburg Lexicon, and with the comm's first gloss, saṃhataadanta; he adds as an alternative saṃhatahanur jambho 'sthūladantaḥ. [But cf. v. 28. 13 and note.] Ppp. reads, for b, mā jihva-caryaḥ prasnyuḥ kathāsyā.

17. Up hath heaven, up hath earth, up hath Prajāpati caught thee; up out of death have the herbs, with Soma for their king, made thee pass.

Put after vs. 20 in Ppp., as noted above.

18. Be this man just here, O gods; let him not go yonder from hence; him by what is of thousand-fold might do we make pass up out of death.

19. I have made thee pass up out of death; let the vigor-givers blow together; let not the women of disheveled locks, let not the evil-wailers, wail for thee.

The 'evil-wailers,' perhaps professional lamenters of death or other misfortune, appear again at xi. 2. 11. The comm., in a, has apīḥaran, which SPP., without sufficient reason, is inclined to regard as the original reading. For the fuller use of 'blow together,' see 2. 4 below. [For agha-rūd, see Bloomfield, AJP. xi. 339; Caland, Toten-gebräuche, Note 106*. See also his note 517.]

20. I have taken, I have found thee; thou hast come back renewed; whole-limbed one! I have found thy whole sight, and thy whole life-time.

The verse is RV. x. 161. 5, which has another tvā after ā 'hārsam in a, and the voc. pinarnava [with unlingualized n] at end of b, with both of which variants the comm. agrees, while Ppp. also gives the former. [For the lingualized n, see Prāt. iii. 82.]

21. It hath shone out for thee; it hath become light; darkness hath departed from thee; away from thee we set down death [and] perdition, away the yakṣma.

The comm. also recognizes vy avāt as coming from root vas 'shine,' glossing it with vyāucchat: compare tasmatī vyāucchat PB. xvi. 1. 1. [For the form, cf. Gram. § 890 a and § 167.]

2. To prolong some one's life.

[Brahman. — aśṭāvinśakam. āśy (ārtvy?) āyusyam. trāiṣṭubham *; 1, 2, 7. bhurij; 3. āstārapaṅkti; 4. prastārapaṅkti; 6. pathyāpaṅkti; 8. purastāj jyotiṣmati jagati; 9. 5-p. jagati; 11. viṣṭārapaṅkti; 12. purastādbrhati; 14. 3-av. 6-p. jagati; 15. pathyāpaṅkti; 19. upariṣṭādbrhati; 21. satapthaṅkti; 26. āstārapaṅkti; 22, 28. purastādbrhati; 5, 10, 16-18, 20, 23-25, 27. anuṣṭubh (17. tripāḍ).]

Found also in Pāipp. xvi., all but the last verse, and with 9 before 8. * [Verse 13 appears to be the one upon the strength of which the Anukr. declares the hymn to be trāiṣṭubham (its remaining 27 vss. being exceptions !); and even this is no real trāiṣṭubh. It counts indeed 44 (8 + 12 : 12 + 12) and might be called purastāj jyotiṣmatī.]

1. Take thou hold on this bundle (?) of immortality; unsevered length of life be thine; I bring back thy life, [thy] life-time; go not to the welkin (rājas), to darkness; do not perish.

SPP. with all his authorities save one (which has snū-) reads ṇāṣṭim in a, and this must doubtless be regarded as the true AV. text: compare iii. 17. 2. The comm. glosses it here with prasnuti 'a dripping forth,' and then explains amṛtasya ṇāṣṭi as the stream of water which, according to one direction in Kāuṣ. (58. 14), is to be poured out while the hymn is recited. He glosses rājas with rāga, and explains it and tamas as the two familiar guṇas so called: it is, indeed, a little startling to find the two names here side by side.

2. Come thou hitherward unto the light of the living; I take thee in order to life for a hundred autumns; loosening down the fetters of death, imprecation, I set for thee further a longer life-time.

Some of SPP's mss. accent falsely abhyāhi in a. Ppp. transposes the order of c and d, and reads lokam for arvān in a.

3. From the wind have I found thy breath, from the sun I thy sight; what is thy mind, that I maintain in thee; be in concord with thy limbs; speak with thy tongue, not babbling.

The comm. reads in d viçvāṅgāis and ālopan.

4. I blow together upon thee with the breath of bipeds [and] quadrupeds as upon [new-] born fire; homage, O death, to thy sight, homage to thy breath have I made.

5. Let this man live; let him not die; him we send together; I make a remedy for him; death, do not slay the man.

The majority of the mss. (including all ours save Bp.O.) leave mṛtyo in d accentless. [Both editions read mṛtyo.]

6. The lively, by-no-means-harming, living herb, the preserving, overpowering, powerful, do I call hither, for this man's freedom from harm.

[Pādas a and b are repeated at viii. 7. 6.] The accent of the two participles jīvanām and trāyamāṇām seems to mark them as appellatives rather than proper participles. Naghāriṣṭ, like naghamārā, seems a fusion of the phrase na ghā (or gha) riṣyati etc.; the pāda-mss. chance mostly to agree in the frequent error of reading ṛ for ri (naghaerīṣṭam; Bp. erīṣṭam); the comm. reads and explains nagharuṣṭam, taking -gha- as representing root han: yasyāḥ kopo 'pi na ghātakaḥ; he regards the plant intended as the gāthā (Clypea hernandifolia). Ppp. reads naghāriṣam, adds arundhatīm after sahasvatīm in d, and has hvaṃ for huve. The long ī in śādhīm is expressly taught by Prāt. iii. 6; naghāriṣām is mentioned in the introduction to the fourth chapter (add. note 4, at II. 7).

7. Bless thou [him]; do not take hold; let him loose; even being thine, let him be one of completed years (?) here; O Bhava-and-Çarva, be ye gracious; yield protection; driving away difficulty, bestow ye life-time.

The obscure -hāyas in b is translated here as if akin with hāyana [cf. vs. 8 d]; the comm. glosses sarvāhāyas with sarvagati; the Petersburg Lexicons conjecture 'having complete liveliness or power.' For sān, the comm. reads sam [and joins it with srjā, supplying prāṇāis].

8. Bless thou this man, O death; pity him; let him go up from here; unharmed, whole-limbed, well-hearing, hundred-yearled by old age, let him attain enjoyment with himself.

Ppp. reads him for 'yam in b, and combines in d-e -hāyanā "tm-. The comm. paraphrases ātmanā in d with ananyāpekṣaḥ saṃ. [Read as 8 + 11: 8 + 8 + 8.]

9. Let the missile of the gods avoid thee; I make thee pass from the welkin (rājas); I have made thee pass up out of death; removing afar the flesh-eating Agni, I set for thee an enclosure in order to living.

The comm. reads in c nirāuham; SPP. follows grammatical rule and reads -han jīu- this time [cf. note to i. 19. 4] because all his samhitā-mss. happen to agree in doing so; some of ours, however, do not. The comm. explains rūjasas in b as mārchālaka-ṣaṇṇād āvaranāt. [At 97. 6, Kāuṣ. gives in full, for use in case of a family quarrel (cf. above, introd.), a verse whose first half agrees entirely with the second half of this.]

10. The down-going in the welkin, not to be ventured down upon, which is thine, O death — from that road defending this man, we make brāhman a covering (vārman) for him.

The comm. reads in b anavadhṛsyam; root dhṛṣ + ava is found only in these two derivatives. For rajasām [cf. Gram. § 1209 b] Ppp. has rajasas; the comm. simply paraphrases the former by rajomayam. One or two of the pada-mss. (including our Bp.) leave mṛtyo unaccented in b; Ppp. elides nav-* after it; and, in c, combines pathāi man* (satisfying the meter).

11. I make for thee breath-and-expiration, old age as [mode of] death, long life-time, welfare; all the messengers of Yama, sent forth by Vivasvant's son, moving about, I drive away.

Ppp. reads in b jāramṛtyum, and, in d, caratā rān* (i.e. carata ārād?) apa.

12. Afar niggardliness, perdition, away seizure (grāhī), the flesh-eating piśācās, every demon that is of evil nature — that we smite away, as it were into darkness.

Or 'like darkness.' The comm. reads in b purogrāhim, and, in d, eva for iva. Ppp. has tavāi va* for tat tama iva. 'Afar' and 'away' in a, b anticipate as it were the 'we smite away' of d.

13. Thy breath I win from immortal Agni, from long-lived Jātavedas, that thou mayest take no harm, mayest be immortal in alliance [with him]: that I make for thee; let that prove successful for thee.

A number of the mss. (including our Bp.E.D.) read ṛsyās in c. Ppp. has vanave for vanve in b, and yatrā at beginning of c.

14. Let heaven-and-earth be propitious to thee, not distressing, conferring fortune (? abhiṣṭ); let the sun burn weal unto thee; let the wind blow weal to thy heart; let the heavenly waters, rich in fatness (pāyas), flow propitious upon thee.

Ppp. combines sūryā tapatu* in c, reads kṣaranti in e, and adds further at the end ṣivās te santu ośadhīḥ. The comm. gives adhiṣṭriyāu in b, glossing it with prāptāṣṭriḥ ṣṭiprade.

15. Propitious to thee be the herbs; I have caught thee up from the lower unto the upper earth; there let both the Ādityas, sun and moon, defend thee.

Ppp. reads hāriṣam* in b, and atī for abhi in c, and combines -masā ubhā at the end.

16. What enveloping (paridhāna) garment thou hast, what inner wrap (nīvi) thou makest for thyself, that we make propitious unto thy body; be it not harsh to thy touch.

SPP. reads, "with all his authorities," ādrūkṣnam in ḍ. Our mss. might doubtless all be understood in the same way, but some of them look more like -dā- or -dū-; -rū-, which our text unfortunately gives, is not found in any; neither rūkṣna nor drūkṣna appears to be met with elsewhere; the comm. glosses with arūkṣam; he also reads aṇute for astu te at the end. Ppp. has 'duḥṣnam. [Vait. (10.6) employs the vs. in the paṇubandha on draping the sacrificial post.]

17. In that with a dangerous (? marcāyanti) very sharp (sutejās) razor thou, a hair-dresser, shearest hair and beard, adorning the face, do not thou steal away our life-time.

The translation given implies in c the reading śūmbhan, which, it can hardly be questioned, is the true one, although it is read by only one ms. (our W.) and by Ppp.; the rest of our mss. all have, and our edition with them, śūmbhāni. SPP. accepts the unintelligible śūbham, with the comm., and with, as he reports, the majority of his authorities, the rest reading, like ours, śūmbhāni; the comm. explains śūbham with diptam tejasvi and has to supply after it kuru to make any sense. Ppp. further reads -maṣṭrū in b, and māi 'nam for mā nas in c. According to the distinct direction of the Prāt. (ii. 76), we ought to read āyus pra in ḍ, and its authority is sufficient to establish that as the true text, against both the editions; half SPP's authorities give it, though only one of ours (R.); on such a point the mss. are often at odds, and their evidence of little weight. The verse occurs also in several Gṛhya-Sūtras, AGS. (i. 17. 16); PGS. (ii. 1. 19), and HGS. (i. 9. 16); all read supṛeṣā in a; in b, HGS. has vaptar, PGS. vapati, AGS. and PGS. keṣān; in c, the two latter have cunddhi śiras, HGS. varayā mukham; in ḍ, AGS. and PGS. give asya for nas; all have āyus pra. [Found also MP. ii. 1. 7: see also MGS. i. 21. 7 and p. 153.] [Cf. Oldenberg, IFA. vi. 184.]

18. Propitious to thee be rice and barley, free from balāsa, causing no burning (?); these drive off the yākṣma; these free from distress.

Compare Grohmann in Ind. Stud. ix. 399. The comm. does not connect abalāsāt with balāsa, but regards it as a-bala-asa, and glosses it with śārtrabalasāyā 'kṣeptārāu. Adomadhāu (cf. adomadām, vi. 63. 1, and note) is very obscure; Ppp. reads instead adhomadhāu; the comm. adomadhū, glossing it with upayogānantaram madhurāt. Ppp. reads yatas for etāu in both c and ḍ, and follows it in ḍ by mukata mā 'ṅhasaḥ.

19. What thou eatest (aṇ), what thou drinkest, of grain, milk of the plowing — what should be eaten, what should not be eaten — all food I make for thee poisonless.

The comm. reads strangely kṛchrāt instead of kṛṣyās in b.

20. Both to day and to night, to them both we commit thee. Defend ye this man for me from the arīḍyas that seek to devour [him].

Some of SPP's authorities, also the comm. and Ppp., read dadhmasi at end of b. Ppp. further has rāyebhyas at beginning of c, and nas (for me) in ḍ. The comm. explains arīyebhyas as = ādhanebhyo dhanāpahartṛbhyo vā.

21. A hundred, a myriad years, two periods (yugā), three, four, we make for thee; let Indra-and-Agni, let all the gods, approve thee, not showing enmity.

The second half-verse is i. 35. 4 c, d. The 'periods' here are not at all likely to be those of the later chronology, though the comm. naturally thinks them so. [Alternatively, he makes yugā = 'generations.'] Ppp. has santu for kṛmas in b, and omits te in c. The pāda-mss. read tē : dnu instead of te : dnu: compare under i. 35. 4. [We had a "satukṣpāṅkti" at vi. 20. 3.]

22. Unto autumn, unto winter, unto spring, unto summer, we commit thee; [be] the rains pleasant to thee, in which the herbs grow.

Ppp. has again dadhmasi in b.

23. Death is master of bipeds; death is master of quadrupeds; from that death, lord of kine, I bear thee up; [so] do thou not be afraid.

Ppp. reads for ā ud dharāmi sa mā mṛta [intending mṛthās ?].

24. Thou, unharmed one, shalt not die; thou shalt not die, be not afraid; [men] die not there, nor go to lowest darkness.

Ppp. gives in c pra miyante — a better reading, as rectifying the meter. [Pāda b occurs as vs. i a of a khila to RV. i. 191, with the two clauses inverted.]

25. Every one, verily, lives there — ox, horse, man, beast — where this charm (brāhmaṇ) is performed, a defense (paridhī) unto living.

The verse has a correspondent in TA. (vi. 11. 12), but with a different first pāda: TA. makes it nā vāi tātra prā miyate (nearly as our 24 c in Ppp.).

26. Let it protect thee from thy fellows, from witchcraft, from thy kinsmen; be thou undying, immortal, surviving; let not thy life-breaths (āsu) leave thy body.

Ppp. reads sugantubhyas at end of b.

27. The deaths that are a hundred and one, the perditions (nāṣṭrā) that are to be over-passed — from that let the gods free thee, from Agni: Vāiṣvānara.

Ppp. reads in b nāṣṭrāṭṭa (-tu?) jīvyāḥ. [See note to iii. 11. 5 for "101 deaths."]

28. Agni's body art thou, successful (pārayiṣṇā); demon-slayer art thou, rival-slayer, likewise expeller of disease, a remedy pūtūdru by name.

Pūtūdru is (OB.) Acacia catechu or Pinus deodora; the comm. reads pūtādru and does not attempt [on p. 587] to identify it.* The mss. vary between -nū and -nūs at end of a; our edition reads -nūs (with our P.M.E.s.m.); SPP. adopts -nū, with the great majority of his authorities; the comm. has -nus; Ppp., as noticed above, lacks this verse. There is little to choose in point of acceptability between the two readings.

*[As noted in the introd., the use of the hymn is followed in Kāuṣ. 58. 15 by the binding on of pūtu-dāru (so Bl's text, with the variant pūta; in citing the text, at p. 568, comm. has pūti). This is explained by Daç. Kar. as an "amulet of deodar," devadārumanī; and so Dār. and Keç. to 8.15, and comm. p. 567 end.]

3. To Agni: against sorcerers and demons.

Found also in Pāipp. xvi. (in the verse-order 1-4, 6, 5, 7-14, 18, 15, 17, 16, 19-22, 24, 26, 25, 23). The first 23 verses are (in slightly different order*) vss. 1-23 of RV. x. 87, and most of them are found in no other text. [Cf. Oldenberg, Die Hymnen des RV. i. 246.] *[Namely, with 4 after 6, with 17 and 18 inverted, and with 12 between 21 and 22.]

[Kāuç. reckons the hymn to the cātana hymns (8.25). The comm. says (p. 587, l. 18 ff.) that the whole anuvāka, that is hymn 4 as well as 3, is to be used in a variety of practices, which he details. In the vaçāçamana ceremony (44. 16), after the victim's "breath has been stopped" with ii. 34. 5, the performer takes his place at her right and mutters this hymn. Vs. 22 (not 21) is identical with vii. 71. 1, which was prescribed at 2. 10 for use in the parvan sacrifices, to accompany the carrying of fire thrice about the offering. Moreover, verses of this hymn are used in four expiatory rites as follows: vss. 15-18 accompany an oblation (112. 1) made when the cows give bloody milk; vs. 26 is used with vi. 63. 4 if spontaneous combustion occurs (46. 23); and the same vs. is used (130. 3) when there appears a bright glow without any fire; and yet again (131. 3), when the fire puffs (çvasati). Finally, the same vs. is used by Vāit. (6. 11) in the agnyādheya (with vi. 19. 2 etc.) with an offering to Agni Çuci.]

Translated: Henry, 7, 43; Griffith, i. 392.

1. I pour ghee upon (ā-ghṛi) the vigorous (vājīn) demon-slayer; I go for broadest protection to the friend; Agni, sharpened, [is] kindled with acts of skill (? krātu); let him by day, let him by night, protect us from harm.

This verse is found further in TS. (i. 2. 14⁶); neither RV. nor TS. offers a variant reading.

2. Do thou, of iron tusks, O Jātavedas, kindled, touch the sorcerers with thy flame (arcis); take hold of the false-worshippers with thy tongue; cutting off (?) the flesh-eaters, shut them in thy mouth.

The comm. reads dhyṣṭvā in ḍ, paraphrasing it only with dharṣitvā. RV. has vṛktā, which is most probably to be referred to root vṛj. Ppp. has datṣvā (for dhatṣvā).

3. Apply both thy tusks, thou that hast them in both jaws (ubhayāvīn), the lower one and the upper, being harmful, sharpened; also in the atmosphere go about, O Agni; put together thy grinders upon the sorcerers.

RV. reads dāṇṣtrā at end of a, and rājan for agne at end of c. Ppp. has dehy [in a, apparently] and api for abhi in ḍ.

4. O Agni, split the skin of the sorcerer; let the harmful thunderbolt smite him with flame (hāras); crush his joints, O Jātavedas; let the flesh-eating, flesh-craving [one] divide him.

RV. (vs. 5; its vs. 4 is our 6) reads vṛkṣām for enam at the end. The comm. understands 'a wolf or the like' in d, and takes vi-ci as 'scatter about, dragging him to and fro to eat him.' It more probably refers to the flesh-eating Agni.

5. Wherever now, O Jātavedas, thou seest a sorcerer standing, O Agni, or also moving, also flying in the atmosphere, him [as] archer, pierce with a shaft, being sharpened.

RV. (vs. 6) has a quite different c, yād vā 'ntārikṣe pathibhiḥ pātāntam. Ppp. (vs. 6) reads in d viddhi çarvā. Many mss. (including our Bp.W.E.O.T.) have svrāv in d.

6. By sacrifices, O Agni, straightening (sam-nam) thine arrows, by speech smearing their tips with thunderbolts — with them pierce in the heart the sorcerers; break back (praticds) their arms.

'By sacrifices,' 'by speech' — i.e. in virtue of our offerings and praise. RV. (vs. 4) offers no variant; Ppp. (vs. 5) reads çalyam in b.

7. Both those that are seized do thou win (çṛṛ), O Jātavedas, and also the sorcerers that have seized with spears; do thou, O Agni, first, greatly gleaming, smite [him] down; let the variegated raw-flesh-eating çṣvāṅkās eat him.

This verse differs somewhat, and inconsistently, from RV., which has ālabdham in a, and, without utā, ālebhdhāt . . . yātudhānāt in b, giving the clear sense 'win away him that is seized from the sorcerer that has seized him,' and agreeing with the sing. tām in d. The AV. version yields no acceptable meaning; and most of the samhitā-mss. read ārabdhām in a (including our P.M.W.I.: some of the others not noted), as if the word were after all a singular. The comm. reads çṣvāṅkās in d, and explains it simply as paçivīçeçās. He gives a most absurd version of a, b: 'protect (us) who have begun (to praise thee) and (slay) with spears the sorcerers who have made a noise'! [Comm. seems to read rebhāṇān and to take it from root ribh: cf. note to vs. 21.] Ppp. has our version of a, b, except that it reads utā "lab- in a, and omits utā in b [i.e., if I understand R., it appears to begin b with ārebhāṇān].

8. Proclaim thou here which that [is], O Agni — the sorcerer that is doing this; him take hold of with the fuel, O youngest [god]; subject him to the eye of the men-watcher.

RV. inserts another yās at beginning of b, and Ppp. has the same. The comm. reads çṛṇoçī (explaining it [alternatively] as = çṛṇoti) at end of b, and yaviçṭhya at end of c. [Better, perhaps, in a, 'Proclaim which one he [is]' etc.]

9. With sharp eye, O Agni, defend thou the sacrifice; conduct it forward to the Vasus, O forethoughtful one; thee that art harmful, greatly gleaming against the demons, let not the sorcerers injure, O men-watcher.

Ppp. reads hiṁsrā at beginning of c. The comm. appears to regard abhiṣoṣucānam as a compund.

10. A men-watcher, do thou look around for the demon among the people (vikṣū); crush back his three points (āgra); crush, O Agni, his ribs with flame (hāras); cut up threefold the root of the sorcerer.

The comm. attempts no explanation of the 'three points,' but simply glosses agra with uparibhāga.

11. Let the sorcerer thrice come within thy reach (? prāsiti), who, O Agni, slays truth (ṛtā) with untruth; roaring [at] him with thy flame (arcis), O Jātavedas, do thou put him down (ni-yuj) before the eyes of the singer.

Our nī yuñdhi at the end is a weakened corruption of RV. nī vṛñdhi, which is read also by Ppp., the comm., and one of SPP's authorities. SPP. reads yuñdhi, not heeding the rule of the Prāt. (ii. 20) to the contrary. [Cf. his bhaṅgdhi in vs. 6. And in his "Corrections" to vol. ii., he is at pains thrice to correct vṛñdhi of p. 71-2 to vṛñgdhi.] The majority of the mss. (including all ours save D.R.p.m.K.) accent agne in b; both editions, of course, emend to agne. The comm. paraphrases prāsitim with jvālām; he does not deign to add any explanation to sphūrjāyan. The occurrence of enam in d seems to require us to regard tām as object of sphūrjāyan.

12. What, O Agni, the pair utter in curses today, what harshness (trṣṭā) of speech the reciters (rebhā) produce: the shaft that is born of fury of the mind — with that pierce thou the sorcerers in the heart.

'That' in d is fem., as if referring to the 'shaft' alone; and the comm. regards a and b as describing faults caused by the sorcerers, which Agni is to requite — which is doubtless the true connection. Mithunā is explained as = stripuṁsāu, and capātas as = paraspāram ākroṣatas. The verse is RV. vs. 13, its vs. 12 being found much further on, as our vs. 21. Ppp. again reads viddhi for vidhya in d.

13. Crush away the sorcerers with heat; crush away, O Agni, the demon with flame (hāras); crush away with burning (arcis) the false-worshippers; crush away the greatly gleaming ones that feed on lives (? asutṛp).

RV. (vs. 14) is quite different in d: pārā'sutṛpo abhi ṣoṣucānaḥ. The comm. paraphrases asutṛpas with paraprāṇāir ātmānam tarṣayantaḥ.

14. 'Let the gods crush away today the wicked one (vṛjind); let [his] curses sent forth go back upon him; let shafts strike (ṛob) in the vitals him who steals by [magic] speech; let the sorcerer come within every one's reach.

RV. (vs. 15) reads trṣṭās (for ṣṣṭās) at end of b, and the comm. and one of SPP's authorities have the same. The comm. this time paraphrases prāsitim with prakarṣeṇa abhībḥavitṛm hetim, adding as alternative agner jvālām.

15. The sorcerer that smears himself (sam-añj) with the flesh of men, who with that of horses, with cattle, who bears [off] the milk of the inviolable [cow], O Agni — their heads cut thou into with flame.

Ppp. reads bharata in c. [The āveyena of Aufrecht's RV.² seems to be a misprint.]

16. Let the sorcerers bear [off] poison of the kine; let them of evil courses fall under the wrath of Aditi; let god Savitar abandon them; let them lose their share of the herbs.

'Lose': lit. 'have it conquered from them.' RV. (vs. 18: RV. inverts the order of our vss. 16 and 17) reads ṣivantu for bharantām (with Ppp.) in a, has the proper passive form vr̥ccyantām in b (Ppp. has mṛddhyantām), and leaves enān unlingualized in c; the lingualization in our text is by Prāt. iii. 80, where the commentary quotes this passage.

17. Yearly [is] the milk of the ruddy [cow]; of that let not the sorcerer partake (aṣ), O men-watcher; whatever one [of them], O Agni, would fain enjoy (tr̥p) the beestings, him do thou pierce back in the vitals with thy burning (*ar̥c*s).

Our pada-text divides wrongly mā: ācīt in b; RV. has the true reading, mā: aṣt. RV. also has mārman at the end, making the tr̥iṣṭubh verse regular. Ppp. once more reads vidhi (not viddhi this time) for vidhya in d, and marman after it.

18. From of old, O Agni, thou killest the sorcerers; the demons have not conquered thee in fights; burn up the flesh-eaters together with their dupes (? mūrā); let them not be freed from thy heavenly missile.

We had this verse above, as v. 29. 11. The only variant in the version of RV. (vs. 19) is that, in c, sahāmūrān is put after anu dāha; [so also SV. i. 80, which has besides kayādas for bravyādas]. The comm. regards mūrān as for mūlān, and renders it mūlasahitān 'together with their roots,' and it is perhaps one of the cases contemplated by Prāt. i. 66 — at least, the commentary there quotes this passage as one of the instances of substitution of r for l; and it is very likely that the tradition is right.

RV. (vs. 20) reads again śadaktāt at end of a, and tē for tyē in c; in the latter case, the comm. does the same; he supplies sphuliṅgās as the missing noun in c, d. An accent-mark has dropped out in our edition under the -du- of paścād utē in b.

20. From behind, in front, below, and above, do thou, O Agni, a poet, protect us about with poesy; [as] friend a friend, [as] unaging in order to old age, [as] an immortal mortals, do thou [protect] us, O Agni.

RV. (vs. 21) reads again śadaktāt for utē ttarāt in a, also rājan for agne at end of b, and sākhe at beginning of c; and it combines -mud 'gne between c and d. The comm. has martyān in d.

21. Set thou in the reciter, O Agni, that eye with which thou seest the hoof-breaking sorcerers; Atharvan-like, with brightness of the gods, scorch (uṣ) down the truth-damaging fool (acīt).

The obscure epithet in b is divided in pada-text ṣapharūjāḥ (RV. -jam, and later yātudhānam). The comm. is in part obscure: ṣapharūjāḥ ṣaphavat ṣaphāḥ: nakkhā ity arihāḥ; but he adds as alternative atha vā paṣurūpādharipān ṣaphā api *sambhavanti: tair aruñant' ti çaphârñjah: i.e. 'breaking things with their hoofs.' The irregularity of meter allows us to suspect the tradition of the word. The comm. also strangely explains rebhe as çabdan kurvate rakṣase! [Root rih: cf. note to vs. 7.] Ppp. reads in â aditi for acitam.*

The verse is RV. vs. 12, where it is decidedly better in place.

22. Thee the devout, O Agni, powerful one, would we fain put about us [as] a stronghold, [thee] of daring color, day by day, slayer of the destructive one.

We have had this verse above, as vii. 71. 1; for its different correspondences and variants, see the note at that place; [but Ppp. here ends with bhañgurâvatām]. The comm., though he notes it as 'explained above,' goes on to give a new explanation, curiously accordant with and yet not a little different from the other; the most important point of difference is that, in explaining pari dhtmahi, he there gave us our choice between parito dhārayāmaḥ and paridhātūḥ kurmaḥ, while here he gives us our choice between the latter and dhīyāyemahi. The real reason of the repetition probably is that he this time reads at the end bhañgurâvatām, with RV. [and Ppp.], while before he had no variant from our AV. text. [Here and in vs. 23, W. queries his version of bhañg- as he did at vii. 71, which see.]

23. With poison smite thou back the destructive ones, the demoniacs, O Agni, with keen brightness (çoçts), with heat-pointed flames (arçt).

RV. in b linguizes the particle to śma, and reads daha for jahi; and it ends d with çṣtibhis instead of the anomalous arçtibhis. Ppp. has in c çukreya instead of tigmēna.

The RV. hymn ends with four anuṣṭubh verses, of which only the first two find place thus in our text.

24. With great light Agni shineth out; he maketh all things manifest by his greatness; he forceth away the ill-conditioned' ungodly wiles; he sharpeneth his two horns to gore the demons.

All the authorities read at the end vinṭkṣve, and even the comm. is with them, calling the v a Vedic accretion (vakārōpajanaç çāndasaḥ). RV., in the corresponding verse (v. 2. 9: repeated without variant in TS. i. 2. 147), has vinṭkṣe, which our edition reads by emendation, SPP. retaining the totally inadmissible v, which seems to have blundered into the word out of vī nikṣva in the following verse. RV. (and TS.) has before it rākṣase (sing.).

25. The two horns that thou hast, O Jātaavedas, unaging, of keen thrust, sharpened by devotion (brāhmaṇ)—with them do thou gore, O Jātaavedas, the attacking enemy (durhātā), the advancing kimidn with thy flame (arçis).

At the end of this verse, nikṣva seems to have been taken for a 2d sing. middle; but it is doubtless a corruption* for nikṣa, the root showing an a-stem elsewhere. Ppp. avoids the error by reading nṛcaksah; and also yātudhānam for arçisā before it, which gets rid of yet another difficulty of construction, though it makes the irregular meter yet worse. In our edition, in d, the accent-mark which should stand under the do of jātaavedo has slipped out of place to the left, under ve. * [We must assume that the corruption is an old one if the v of vinṭkṣve is to be ascribed to it. Since the forms from stem nikṣa- are so few (in 3 AV. verses), perhaps we might after all assume that this is a root-class imperative, nikṣ-sva.]

26. Agni drives off the demons, he of bright brightness, immortal, bright, purifying, laudable.

This verse is RV. vii. 15. 10, and is found also in TB. (ii. 4. 16) and MS. (iv. 11. 5); the text is the same in all. [Ritual uses, above.]

[Here ends the third artha-sūkta and the quoted Anukr. says tṛtīyaṁ tu.]

4. Against sorcerers and demons: to Indra and Soma.

Found also in Pāipp. xvi. (with exchange of order between 4 and 5, and between 19 and 20). It is, with no change of order of verses, and with only few and insignificant variants, RV. vii. 104; not a verse occurs further in any other text, so far as known.

[No ritual use of the hymn is prescribed either by Kāuç. or by Vāit. But the comm. regards this hymn as used with the preceding one in a variety of practices: see h. 3.]

Translated: by the RV. translators; and as AV. hymn by Henry, 10, 47; Griffith, i. 396.

1. O Indra-and-Soma, burn the demon, oppress (ubj) [him]; put (arpay-) down, ye two bulls, them that thrive in darkness; crush away, scorch down the fools (acti); slay, push, pin (çā) down the devourers.

Tamovādh may be (so Ludwig) 'increaser of darkness.' The comm. has nothing better than hiṁs to suggest for ubj.

2. O Indra-and-Soma, against [abhi] the evil-plotter, the evil, let heat boil all up [sam-yas] like a fiery pot; assign unavoidable hate unto the brahman-hating, flesh-eating kimīdīn of terrible aspect.

The construction and meaning of the first half-verse are doubtful; the comm. glosses yayastu with simple gacchatu. RV. has agnivān instead of mān in b. In our edition, the accent-sign which should stand under gni in this word has slipped to the right, under mān. [Here W. seems to take sam as intensive and to render its force by "all up." Neither in BR. nor in the Index is it joined with yas: but cf. sam-yāsa.]

3. O Indra-and-Soma, pierce ye the evil-doers within their hiding-place (vavrá), in untenable darkness, whence there shall not come up again any one soever of them; be that your furious might unto overpowering.

RV. reads at beginning of c yāthā nā 'taḥ pān-. In our edition read duṣkṛto in a.

4. O Indra-and-Soma, cause to roll (vrt) from the sky the deadly weapon, from the earth also, a shattering for the evil-plotter; shape out from the mountains (pārvata) the noisy one, wherewith ye burn down the increasing demon.

The comm. glosses svaryā with svaraṇārha. Ppp. has the easier reading pra harataṁ for vartayataṁ in a.

5. O Indra-and-Soma, cause [it] to roll forth from the sky; with fire-heated, stone-smiting, unaging heat-weapons do ye pierce the devourers in the abyss; let them go to silence.

Ppp. reads dīvas for yuvam in b; the comm. has in d nīśsvaram, which would be a good reading, but is against the pada-texts of both RV. and AV. (nīśsvaram).

6. O Indra-and-Soma, be there about you on all sides this prayer (matī), as a girth [about] two vigorous (vājīn) horses, the invocation (hōtrā) that I send forth to you with wisdom; these acts of worship (brāhman) quicken ye like two lords of men.

RV. reads in d nrpātī 'va, as the meter demands, and so do our P.M.W.R.T.K. and part of SPP's authorities, also the comm., and Ppp., and this is, almost beyond question, the true text; but SPP. adopts in his edition nrpātī 'va, with the remainder (a majority) of his samhitā authorities. The pada-reading is probably nrpātī 'vā 'ti nrpātī'va, as all the pada-mss. except our Bp. (both copies) appear to read, and as the RV. pada reads; but we should altogether expect nrpātī 'vā 'ti nrpātī'va, as Bp. reads. The anomaly of the addition of ti after va instead of after nrpātī (first time) is noted in Prāt. i. 82 c; the Prāt. takes no notice of the exceptional combination nrpātī 'va — which is, to be sure, an argument against its right to stand in the samhitā-text: see note to Prāt. iii. 33. The retention of dental n in kinōmi after pari is prescribed by Prāt. iii. 88. Ppp. reads instead pra hiṇomi. [Cf. Geldner, Ved. Stud. ii. 134.]

7. Remember ye with [your] rapid courses; smite the haters, the destructive demoniacs; O Indra-and-Soma, let there not be ease (sugā) for the evil-doer, the hater that at any time vexes me.

RV. reads, in d, nas for mā, and druhā for druhīs. Ppp. ends with (for abhi . . .) api kā cid ud āhuḥ. The retention of dental s in prāti smar- is by Prāt. ii. 102; the passage is there quoted in the commentary. Our comm. glosses ujjayadbhis with bala-vadbhis, and attenuates the difficult prāti smarethām to prāti gacchatam.

8. Whoever reviles with untrue speeches me walking with simple mind — like waters grasped with the fist, let the speaker of what is not be [himself] non-existent, O Indra.

The comm. glosses abhicāṣṭe with abhiṣāpani karoti. The long initial vowel of āsatas (p. śatas) is by Prāt. iii. 21, iv. 90; the passage is there quoted.

9. They who distract (vi-kr) with [their] courses him of simple intent, or who spoil at their will (svadhābhis) what is excellent — let Soma either deliver them up to the serpent, or let him set them in the lap of perdition.

The comm. declares svadhā in b an annanāma, and renders svadhābhis by annāir nimittabhatāih, 'for food'! An accent-mark is wanting in our text over the ya of dāśyanti in b.

10. Whoever, O Agni, tries to harm our taste of drink, of horses, of kine, whoever of our bodies — let the enemy, the thief, the theft-committer, go to want (dabhrā); let him be degraded with self and with posterity.

RV. reads in b yó dāṇvānām yó gādvām, and the comm. does the same. [But SPP. reports that Sāyaṇa's text reads b thus: ye aṇ. ye g. yas i.] A number of our mss. (P.M.W.R.K.) read ut for ut at beginning of d, but SPP. reports no such variant among his authorities. The form sā after ut here is not quoted in the Prāt. commentary. [Join nas rather with the genitives of a and b?]

11. Be he far away, with self and with posterity, be he beneath all the three earths, let his glory dry up, ye gods, who by day and who by night tries to harm me.

RV. reads in d nas instead of mā.

12. It is easy of understanding for a knowing man (jāna) [that] true and untrue words (vācas) are at variance; of them what is true, which-ever is more right, that Soma verily favors; he smites the untrue.

Ppp. reads paspr̥ṣāte at end of b.

13. Soma by no means furthers the wicked [man], nor the kshatriya who maintains [anything] falsely; he smites the demon; he smites the speaker of untruth; both lie within reach of Indra.

14. If I am one of false gods, or if I put upon (? api-ūh) the gods what is vain, O Agni—why art thou angry with us, O Jātavedas? let them of hateful speech obtain (sac) misery of thee.

RV. reads āsa instead of āsmi at end of a. The comm. renders te in d as if it were te; for the difficult apy-ūh he gives simply vahāmi (moghath vyarītham devān stotavyān yaṣṭavyānḥ ca apyūhe vahāmi).

15. May I die today if I am a sorcerer, or if I have burnt (tap) a man's lifetime; then let him be divided from ten heroes who vainly says to me "thou sorcerer."

The comm. glosses vīrāis with putrāis, which is probably its virtual meaning: 'may he lose ten heroic sons.' Our pada-text differs from that of RV. by dividing daṣḍobhīḥ in c. Ppp. reads pāuruṣasya in b.

16. Whoever to me that am no sorcerer (dyātu) says "thou sorcerer," or whatever demoniac says "I am pure (śuci)"—let Indra smite him with a great deadly weapon; may he fall lowest of every creature.

Āyatu doubtless literally 'that have no yātu or familiar demon' (though the proper accent in such case would be ayātū), opposite of yātumānt 'possessing such a yātu,' or yātudhāna 'holding or containing such.'

17. She who goes forth in the night like an owl (?), hateful, hiding herself away—may she fall down into an endless hole (vavṛā); let the [pressing]-stones smite the demoniacs with [their] noises.

RV. again (as in 7 d) reads drukā for drukās in b; also vavṛān anantān dva in c. Ppp. reads dāhas in b; and the comm. has uḥa instead of apa. He glosses khargāla with ulāka.

18. Scatter yourselves, O Maruts, among the people (vikṣú); seek, seize, crush (sam-piṣ) the demoniacs, who, becoming birds, fly in the nights, or who have put defilements (riṣas) on the heavenly sacrifice.

RV. has bhūtvā in c. SPP. reads īśchata in a, because the great majority of his authorities give it. This is contrary to the established usage of both RV. and AV. (but in accordance with that of SV.), although in nearly every such case a part of the mss. lengthen the vowel; part of ours do the same here, as elsewhere. The comm. glosses riṣas with hinsās; and dadhire with dharayanti!

19. Cause the stone to roll forth from the sky, O Indra; [it,] sharpened by Soma, do thou wholly sharpen, O liberal one; from before, from away, from below, from above, do thou smite upon the demoniacs with a mountain.

RV. reads in a dcm- after divā, and some of SPP's authorities do the same. RV. has also prāktād āpaktād and īdaktād in c; the directions admit also of being understood as from east, west, south, and north.

20. Here fly these dog-sorcerers (ṣvāyātu); Indra the unharmable they the harm-seeking seek to harm; the mighty one (ṣakrā) sharpens his deadly weapon for the treacherous ones (piṣuna); now may he let fly (śj) the thunderbolt in the sorcerers (yātumānt).

The epithets like ṣvāyātu in this verse and below in vs. 22 seem by their accent (and by comparison with yātumānt and yātudhāna) to signify strictly 'one having a dog (etc.) for his familiar demon.' The comm. glosses with ṣvarāṇāpadhārīṇaḥ ṣvasahitā [vā]. Ppp. combines at end of b -vo adābhyam.

21. Indra was the crusher-away of the familiar demons (yātú), of the oblation-disturbers, of them who strive to win upon [it]; let the mighty one (ṣakrā) attack them that are demoniacs as an ax the woods, splitting [them] like vessels.

RV. reads eti in d, and no small share of the AV. mss. (the majority of SPP's) do the same (including our P.s.m.I.D.R.p.m.Kp.); both editions give etu. The AV. padā-text, like the RV., divides and accents in b abhi: āvitvāsātām. The Petersburg Lexicons treat the abhi as if in direct combination with the participle; and they translate 'approach with hostile intent,' which is highly arbitrary. The comm. gives no aid, rendering simply abhimukhaṁ gacchatām. Ppp. reads in b -matnām. [W. would probably have changed "crusher-away" to "demolisher" on the revision.]

22. The owl-sorcerer, the owlet-(?)sorcerer smite thou, the dog-sorcerer and the cuckoo-sorcerer, the eagle-(?) suparṇā-sorcerer and the vulture-sorcerer—do thou destroy (pramry) the demon, O Indra, as if with a mill-stone.

As to the renderings of these various names for sorcerers, see under vs. 20. For ṣuṣulūka. Ppp. has ṣulūka, the comm. ṣiṣulūka. The translation of it is a mere guess, to avoid transferring the word.

23. Let not the sorcerous demon reach us; let the kimīdīns that are paired fade away; let the earth protect us from earthly distress, let the atmosphere protect us from heavenly.

RV. reads, in a, b, yātumāvatām āpo 'chatu mithundā yā kimīdinā. Ppp. has kimīdinām. The comm. glosses āpo 'chantu with simple āpa gacchantu. The pada-division of yāt- in a is yātumāvat both in AV. and in RV.; the word is the subject of Prāt. iv. 8.

24. O Indra, smite the man sorcerer, likewise the woman [who is] prevailing with magic (māyā); let the neckless false-worshippers vanish (? ṛd); let them not see the sun moving upward.

The obscure ṛdantu in c is glossed by the comm. with nacyantu; Ppp. reads rujanta instead. Çāḍānām the comm. explains as = hiṁsatīm.

25. Look thou on; look abroad; O Soma, Indra also, watch ye; hurl ye the deadly weapon at the demons, the thunderbolt at the sorcerers

5. Against witchcraft etc.: with an amulet.

[Çukra. — dāvāviṇṣam. ṛtyādānṣāyadevatyaṃ uta mantroktadevatyaṃ. ānuṣṭubham: 1. uparigādādyahā; 2. 3-p. virādādyatṛi; 3. 4-p. bhurīgagati; 5. saṃstārapañkti bhurij; 6. uparigādādyahā; 7. 8. kakumnatī; 9. 4-p. purasikṛti jagati; 10. triṣṭubh; 11. pathyāpañkti;
14. 3-av. 6-p. jagati; 15. purasādādyahā; 19. jagatigarbhā triṣṭubh; 20. *virādgarbhā
prastārapañkti; 21. parāvairāṭ triṣṭubh; 22. 3-av. 7-p. virādgarbhā bhurik cakvāri.]

Found also (except vs. 18) in Pāipp. xvi. * [The Berlin ms. reads -garbhā "stāra-, which is more nearly right.]

[Kāuṣ. uses the hymn, with iii. 5 etc., to accompany the binding on of an amulet in a rite (19. 22) for general prosperity; and again, with ii. 11 etc., in a rite (39. 7) against witchcraft. It is reckoned (note to 19. 1) to the puṣṭika mantras. To the svastyayana gāṇa (note to 25. 36) are reckoned vs. 18 (not 15; and probably not xix. 20. 4, which has the same pratīka as 18) and its fellow vs. 19; and to the abhaya gāṇa (note to 18. 8), vs. 22. The comm. cites from Nakṣ. Kalpa (19) the use of the hymn in a mahā-cāntī called rāudrī. Vāit. passes the hymn unnoticed.]

Translated: Henry, 14, 50; Griffith, i. 400; Bloomfield, 79, 575.

1. This reverting amulet, a hero, is bound on a hero; heroic, rival-slaying, true hero, a very propitious protection.

The comm. calls the amulet tilakavṛṇṣanirmita, thus [cf. comm. to vss. 4, 8] identifying tilaka and srākṭya. Ppp. omits our b and the first words of our c, reading as its b sapāmahas svitraḥ: then paripāṇaḥ etc.

2. This amulet, rival-sl原因ing, having excellent heroes, powerful, vigorous, overpowering, formidable, a hero, goes to meet the witchcrafts, spoiling [them].

Ppp. reads ete in c.

3. With this amulet Indra smote Vritra; with this he, being filled with wisdom, ruined the Asuras; with this he conquered both, heaven-and-earth here; with this he conquered the four directions.

Ppp. reads, for c, anena dyāvāprthivī ubhe ajayat.

4. This amulet of sraktyā, back-turning, reverting, forcible, remover of scorners, controlling—let it protect us on all sides.

Ppp. reads maṇis again for vaṣṭ in c; also viṣvatas at the end.

5. This Agni says, this also Soma says, this Brihaspati, Savitar, Indra; let these gods, my representatives (purōhita), drive the witchcrafts backward with the reverters.

In this verse and the next, Ppp. has the better reading pratisareṇa for -rāis in d. The first half-verse is found again below as xix. 24. 8 c, d. [Cf. also MS. i. 5. 3. The first pāda recurs at xvi. 9. 2.]

6. I interpose heaven-and-earth, also the day, also the sun; let these gods, my representatives, drive the witchcrafts backward with the reverters.

'Interpose'—i.e. between me and what I dread. Ppp. pratisareṇa in d, as noted above; also, for b, utāi 'va brahmaṇaspatim; and, at beginning of c, te te devāḥ pu-.

7. The people who make the amulet of sraktyā their defenses—like the sun ascending the sky, it, controlling, drives away the witchcrafts.

Ppp. puts iva after dīvam in c.

8. By the amulet of sraktyā, as by a seer (ṛṣi) full of wisdom, I have conquered all fighters; I smite away the scorners, the demoniacs.

9. The witchcrafts that are of the Aṅgirasas, the witchcrafts that are of the Asuras, the witchcrafts that are self-made, and those that are brought by others—let these, of both kinds, go away to the distances, across ninety navigable [streams].

'Self-made' (svayaṅkṛta), doubtless 'made by ourselves'; the comm. so understands. 'Navigable'—i.e. not to be crossed without the help of a boat. SPP's mss. do not punctuate between b and c, but the comm. does so, like our edition. Ppp. combines kṛtyā "āṅgirasāḥ", has for b yāḥ kṛtyā "surti uta (the addition rectifying the meter), and combines in f nāvyā 'ti; and in c it puts yās after kṛtyās.

10. On this man let the gods bind the amulet [as] defense: [namely,] Indra, Vishṇu, Savitar, Rudra, Agni, Prajāpati, Parameshṭhin, Virāj, Vāiṣvānara, and all the seers.

11. Thou art the chief (uttamā) of herbs, as the ox of moving creatures (jagat), as the tiger of wild beasts (śodhpad); whom we sought, him have we found, a watcher near at hand (?).

The mark of division in this verse is badly placed in our edition; it should be after çvāḥpadām iva, as in the mss. [and SPP's edition]. SPP. reads at the end, with all the mss., āntitam; the comm. this time (cf. the note to vi. 4. 2) gives us our choice between taking it as one word (= atyantasamnihitam) or two (= tam eva antike); Ppp. avoids the difficulty by reading instead adhruvam. To me the emendation to ānti tām seems unacceptable. The comm. reads before it pratispācinam. Prāt. iii. 10 notes the double form çvāḥpad and çvāḥpad. The first three pādas are found again below as xix. 39. 4 a, b, c; the irregular uttamās instead of uttamā seems due to the influence of the two masculine nouns in the double comparison.

12. He verily becomes a tiger, likewise a lion, likewise a bull, likewise a lessener of rivals, who bears this amulet.

'Lessener'—litly 'one who makes lean'; but, though all the mss. and both editions have -kṛṣṇana, it can hardly be otherwise than a misreading for -kṛṣṇa, which the comm. gives. Ppp. has a wholly different c, sarvā diṣo vi rājati (as our 13 c), and so deprives us of its witness.

13. Not Apsarases smite him, not Gandharvas, not mortals; he reigns over (vi-rāj) all the quarters who bears this amulet.

14. Kaçyapa created thee; Kaçyapa collected thee; Indra bore thee in human wise (?); bearing [thee], he conquered in the conflict (?); the amulet, of thousand-fold might, the gods made their defense.

The obscure mānuṣe, in c, the comm. explains as [a collective] = mānuṣeṣu madhye; he reads in d samkṛṣṇaṇe, which is much more acceptable; one is inclined also to conjecture samkṛṣṭho 'jayat. Ppp. brings no help, only reading abadhnata for akṛṇvata at the end.

[The comm. reckons our e, f as a separate verse, the 5th of his "decad," thus making this "decad" come out with 13 vss. (instead of 22 - 10 = 12, as in the Berlin ed.).]

15. Whoever with witchcrafts, whoever with consecrations, whoever with sacrifices desires to slay thee—him do thou, O Indra, smite back with the hundred-jointed thunderbolt.

The omission of the second yās tvā would rectify the meter of a.

16. Let this back-turning, forcible, all-conquering amulet verily defend [our] progeny and riches, a very propitious protection.

Ppp. reads sahasvān instead of ojasvān in b. Our text should, for consistency, read ōjasvānti s.

17. Freedom from rivals for us below, freedom from rivals for us above, freedom from rivals for us behind, O Indra, light in front make thou, O hero.

Or the directions may be understood as south, north, west, and east. Ppp. has, for c, indra pīṇcān naṣ paçāt.

18. A defense for me [be] heaven-and-earth, a defense the day, a defense the sun, a defense for me both Indra and Agni; a defense let Dhātār assign (dhā) to me.

Compare AÇS. i. 2. 1 [and ĀpÇS. xiv. 26. 1] with a, b; both substitute agnis for ahar. The verse, as noted above, is wanting in Ppp. The comm. omits me in c. The first half-verse occurs again as xix. 20. 4 a, b.

19. Indra-and-Agni's abundant formidable defense, which not all the gods together pierce through — let that, being great, save my body on all sides, that I may be long-lived, attaining old age.

With d compare VS. xxxiv. 52 d, which differs from it only by reading at the end the irregular form dsam. Ppp. has te for me in c, and asat in d [though the pronoun calls for asas].

20. The divine amulet hath ascended me, in order to great unharmfulness; enter ye together unto this post (? methi), body-protecting, thrice-defending, in order to vigor (śyas).

Ppp. reads tvā instead of mā in a, and enyaṃ instead of methim in c. The comm. questions whether mahyāi in b means mahatyāi or mahyaṃ! The difficult and doubtful second half-verse puzzles him (as us) greatly: first he regards 'men' as addressed (he narāḥ), and takes methi as 'a stirrer-up, a destroyer of enemies,' or alternatively as a post in a threshing floor (methi khale yatho 'echirā vartata evam ayaṃ apti 'ti; or, secondly, the gods are addressed, and methi means an amulet representing such a post (methisthānyam mayim).

21. In this let Indra deposit manliness; this, O gods, enter ye together unto, in order to long life-time of a hundred autumns; that he may be long-lived, attaining old age.

22. Giver of welfare, lord of the people, Vritra-slayer, masterful remover of scorners, let Indra bind [for thee] the amulet, [he] that has conquered, is unconquered, soma-drinking, fearless-making bull; let him defend thee on all sides, by day and by night on all sides.

The majority of mss. (nearly all SPP's) put no pause at the end of d (after aparā-jitāḥ). The first two pādas are nearly the same with i. 21. 1 a, b, above (and with other texts: see the note to that verse). Ppp. omits a, b, and reads (better) sarvadā instead of sarvatas at end of f. [An accent-mark is lacking under the so of somapāḥ.]

[Here also ends the eighteenth prapāṭhaka.]

6. To guard a pregnant woman from demons.

[Mātrnāman. — śaḍviṃṣam. mātrnāmādevatyam uta mantroktadevatyam. ānuṣṭubham : 2. pura-stādbr̥hati; 10. 3-av. 6-p. jagati; 11, 12, 14, 16. paṭhyāpāṅkti; 15. 3-av. 7-p. ṣakvurī brāhmaṇaspatyā; 17. tathā jagati.]

Found also in Pāipp.xvi., [but with vs. 8 before 7, vs. 15 between 11 and 12, and vs. 24 between 13 and 14].

[The hymn is reckoned by Kāuṣ. (8. 24), with ii. 2 (which see) and vi. 111, to the mātrnāmāni. It is employed in the simanta rite (35. 20) in the eighth month of a woman's pregnancy with binding on an amulet "as specified in the text" (cf. vs. 20):

Dār. and Keç. and comm. (p. 636', p. 648⁹) say an amulet of white and yellow mustard; the Ath. Paddh. seems to prescribe a "talisman in the form of a doll made of red and yellow mustard plants" (?) and reaching from the woman's neck to her navel. In Dārila's note on the same passage (35.20), vs. 18 is specially cited for the same rite. The hymn is not noticed by Vāit.]

Translated: Weber, Ind. Stud. v. 251; Ludwig, p. 523; Henry, 17, 54; Griffith, i. 403.

1. The two spouse-finders which thy mother rubbed up for thee when born (fem.) — for them [tātra] let not the ill-named one be greedy, the allīṇa nor the vatsāpa (calf-drinker or -protector?).

Weber (and Zimmer after him: p. 321) conjectures that the two 'winners of a husband' are the breasts, and that the reference is to the ceremonious washing of the young child. The numerous names of evil beings in the hymn are in good part unknown elsewhere and untranslatable; of some of them tentative versions can be added in parenthesis. The comm. reads aliṇas in d, and explains it as ali + iṇa [taking ali as diseases (or deities representing them) that fly about like bees].

2. Palāla (straw) and anupalāla (after-straw), çarku, kōka (cuckoo), malimlucā (robber), palījaka, the entwiner (āçrēsa), the wrap-garmented, the bear-necked, the winking one.

Ppp. reads çulkam for çarkum in a; in b, malimṛtaṁ palitakam; in c, açleşam, and adds [cf. vss. 5, 23] at the end muṣkayor apa hanmasi 'we smite away in the pudenda,' which gives a construction to the accusatives of which our text is alone made up. The comm. gives in b palitakam; he supplies nāçayāmi to govern the accusatives.

3. Approach (sam-vṛt) thou not; creep thou not on; creep not down between the thighs; I make for her a remedy, the bajā, expeller of the ill-named.

Ppp. reads javam instead of bajam in d. The comm. identifies baja with the white mustard (çvetasaraçapa) [see introd.].

4. Both the ill-named and the well-named — both seek approach (sam-vṛt); the niggards (arēya) we smite away; let the well-named seek what is woman's (strāṇa).

Ppp. reads icchatām at end of b, and omits the second half-verse. The comm. explains strāṇam as striyāḥ sambandhy aṅgaṁ strīsamūham vā; he takes nāman from root nam. The ṇ of durṇāman is prescribed by Prāt. iii. 84.

5. The āsura that is black, hairy, tuft-born, also snouted (tūṇḍika) — the niggards we smite away from her pudenda, from her buttocks (bhāṇsas).

Ppp. reads, in c, d, asyā bhaṇsaso muṣkayor apa [cf. vss. 2, 23].

6. The after-snuffling, fore-feeling, and the much-licking flesh-eater, the niggards, the dog-kiṣkins, hath the brown bajā made to disappear.

Ppp. reads, for c, rāyaç çukaṣkīṇam; the comm. has ca kiṣkīṇas (for çvaḥkiṣ); and he explains kiṣkin to mean either 'uttering the sound kiṣ kiṣ,' or 'constantly injuring' (from the root kiṣh).

7. He who lies with (nī-pad) thee in sleep, having become [like] a brother and like a father — them, eunuch-formed, tiara-decked (tīrīṭin), let the bajā force (sah) from here.

Tīrīṭin = 'womanish,' as wearing a distinctive woman's head-dress; the comm., however, paraphrases the word with antaradhānenā 'tatah, as if from tīrah-ātin! Ppp. puts the verse after vs. 8, and reads suṭtām for svapne in a, and, in c, d, vajas tan . . . klībarāpān kīrīṭinam. [Cf. RV. x. 162. 5-6 with our vss. 7-8.]

8. He who surprises (tsar) thee sleeping, who tries to harm thee waking — them the circling (pari-kram) sun hath made to vanish away like a shadow.

Both translators understand the second half-verse to mean 'them hath the baja made to vanish, as the sun the shadow,' and the comm. takes it in the same way; but, though that may be the virtual sense, it is not what the line actually says. Ppp. reads, in a, suṭtām chinattī, with ca for tvā in b. The comm. has carati instead of tsarati in a. Nearly all our mss. (all save D.R.) read jāgratim at end of b, but SPP. strangely reports no such variant from any of his authorities.

9. Whoever makes this woman one having a dead child (-vatsā), or a miscarriage, him, O herb, do thou make disappear, lustful [accusative] for her, slippery.

The last pāda is very obscure and doubtful, and quite otherwise understood by the translators; the version given follows the Petersburg Lexicon. The comm. interprets kamalan by garbhadvāram, and añjivam by abhivyaktimad mlakṣaṇopetaṁ vā, and supplies to them kuru. Ppp. reads instead kamalavaṁ dyuvam; it also reverses the order of mṛtdvatsām and dvatokām in a, b. Añjivām (p. añjivodm) is quoted under Prāt. iv. 18 as an example of a word made with a taddhita-suffix beginning with v.

10. They who dance around the dwellings (ṣālā) in the evening, making donkey-noises — they that [are] kusūlas (granaries) and kukṣīlās (paunchy), exalted (kakubhā), karūmas, srimas — these, O herb, with thy smell do thou make to disappear scattered.

One or two of our mss. (as of SPP's) read strīmāh (I.) or sṁmāh (W.) at end of d, or omit the visarga before it (M.s.m.W.O.). Ppp. reads, for c, d, kuṣūlā yaç ca kukṣūlā kakubhā svarasā (-ramā?) sumā; the comm., for the last two words, has kharunāh ṣrumāh; he interprets kusūlas as kusūlakṛtayas, kukṣīlās as bṛhatkukṣayas, and kakubhās as arjunavṛkṣavad bhayamkarākṛtayas. [Over "exalted" W. has interlined "humped?" As for srima, cf. sṁma in OB.]

11. The kukūndhas, the kukūrabhas, that bear skins (kṛtī), pelts (? dūrçā), dancing on like impotent men, that make a noise in the forest — them we make disappear from here.

Ppp. reads kakūndhās karūrabhās kṛtyāir duriçāni bibhrati: kīvāi 'va pr. ghoṣām ye kuruate vane. The comm. has kṛkandhāh kukūravāh kṛtyāir dasyāṇi.

12. They who do not endure yonder sun, burning down from the sky, the niggards, buck-clothed, ill-smelling, red-mouthed, the mākakas, we make to disappear.

Ppp. reads in c rāyāni vastavāsino, and, in e, mṛṣakān for makakān. In bastavāsin, Weber understands -vāsin as 'smelling,' the Petersburg Lexicons (also Ludwig alternatively) as 'bleating' (for -vācin); the comm. avīcarmarvasanān. [For the verse-sequence in Ppp., see above.]

13. They who, putting their excessive self on the shoulder, carry [it], thrusters-forth of women's hips — O Indra, make the demons disappear.

The comm. has several different explanations of the first half-verse, the translators as many more; a literal rendering seems admissible enough. Ppp. reads for b ahin mādhyā bibhrati.

14. They who go before a woman, bearing horns (pl.) in the hand, stayers in the oven, laughing out, who make light in the tuft — them we make to disappear from here.

All our mss., and nearly all those of SPP., read badhvās in a, and our edition follows them. SPP. gives in his text vadvās, with the commentator. In c, he adopts āpākeśśhās, with a small minority of his mss., and directly against Prāt. ii. 94, which prescribes -śhās. One would like to emend to apāk 'standing aloof.'

15. Of whom the front-feet are behind, the heels in front, the faces in front, who are threshing-floor-born, dung-smoke-born, who are śruṇḍas and maṣṭmaśśas, pot-testicled, ayācūs (impotent?) — these from her, O Brahmanaspati, do thou make to disappear by attention (? pratibodhā).

Ppp. reads in c śākadh, in d ye ca mayajā, and in e combines -śhā 'yāc. Some of our mss. (Bp.P.M.W.), as of SPP's, read mūkhāk at end of b. The comm. has, for d, arūṇḍā ye ca mūjmutāh; he explains ayācūvas by ayo vāyur vāyuvad ācūgāminah.

16. With eyes cast about, not looking forward (? āpracañkaṣa), womenless be the eunuchs; make to fall down, O remedy, him who, not her husband, tries to approach this woman that has a husband.

The comm. reads in a pracañkaṣas, and strangely explains it [alternatively] as = prakṣiporupradeṣas; for paṇḍagās in b he has pannagās (pādena na gacchantah); for pādya in c, pātaya. Ppp. gives in e svapati.

17. The bristling, hermit-haired, grinding up, much handling one, hastening up, copper-colored, snouted (? tundēla) and śāludā, pierce thou forth with the foot, with the heel, as a kicking cow a pot.

Doubtless the concluding word should be spandanā, as given by SPP., in accordance, as he claims, with all but two of his authorities. The mss. are always so careless and untrustworthy in their distinction of śp and sy that it must be the sense rather than their testimony that decides in any case which is the true reading. Ppp. appears to have syandanā. The combination upśantam (p. upaśantam: Ppp. upeśantam) is according to Prāt. iii. 52; the passage is quoted in the commentary to that rule; the comm. [and his text] read here upāś. The comm. also has śāladam (Ppp. śāludham) in d, and takes prā vidhya (Ppp. pravṛddhi) in e as pravīdhyā, gerund. Further, he has prāsyāt instead of pārṣṇya, and, at the end, spandanāt. His verse-division is different from ours, as he reckons e, f to vs. 18. He explains martmṛṣam in b as = punaḥpunar mṛṣantam. Ppp. has, for udumbalanī tundēlam, adaram sulatundēnam.

18. Whoever shall handle thy embryo, or shall make it born dead — let the brown one, with formidable bow, make him pierced to the heart.

The comm. explains prati mṛṣāt by pīdayet. The ā of hṛdayāvāddham, and its non-division in pada-text, are the subject of Prāt. iii. 3, iv. 68. [Delete the accent mark under tu in d.]

19. They who suddenly make die those that are born, [who] lie by the bearing [women] — the Gandharvas, woman-seekers (?), let the brown one drive, as the wind a cloud.

Ppp. begins ye sto j-, and ends -abhrāi vātāi 'va rājatu. The comm. explains amno-jātān as = ardhotpannān. The Prāt., ii. 52, expressly prescribes that the final of amnoḥ is not [convertible into] r — which seems a plain acknowledgment that at a later period the word was treated as being amnoḥ.

20. Let [her] maintain what is left (?); what is set, let not that fall down; let the two formidable remedies, to be borne in the under garment, defend thine embryo.

Parisṛṣtam in a is very hard to deal with, both on account of the meaning and because combinations of root srj with pari are hardly met with; the Pet. Lexicon suggests emendation to -ṛṣṭam; as both Ppp. and the comm. have -ṛṣṭam, I have taken the liberty of so translating. The comm. paraphrases it by homādiviniyogāvaśiṣṭāṇi sarśapādāvayam [see the introduction] and makes it the object of dhārayatu. Ppp. also reads yuyātām for yad dhītam in b, and, at the end, nivabhāryayāu. [Whitney queries for a: 'Let what is wreathed about (pari-srj) maintain.' This might refer to bandages swathed around, to support the abdomen. In b, hītām would refer to the embryo (cf. dhātā dadhātu etc.), and dva pādī to untimely delivery (cf. i. 11.4-6).]

21. From the rim-nosed, the taṅgalvā, the shady (? chdyaka) and naked, from the kimīdln, let the brown one protect thee about for progeny, for husband.

Or chāyaka may come from root chā, and so signify 'tearing' or the like; the comm. reads instead sāyakaḥ. Ppp. has at the beginning pavūinasā tañ.

22. From the two-mouthed, the four-eyed, the five-footed, the fingerless one, from the much twining twiner (vṛnta) that creeps forth upon [one], do thou protect [her] about.

All the pada-mss. most absurdly divide anamagurth at end of b; SPP. properly emends to amaṅgurth, but why "with Sāyana" is not evident; Ppp. reads amaṅguleḥ; and further has, in c, vṛddhād adhi pra-. SPP. seems to regard the comm. as reading abhiprasarpataḥ.

23. They who eat raw meat, and who the flesh of men, the hairy ones [that] devour embryos — them we make to disappear from here.

Ppp. combines at the beginning yā "mam, and has in place of our d rāyān [combined keçavārāyān] asyā bhaṅsaso muṣkayor aṇa hanmasi (as in its version of our 5 c, d — cf. 2). The pada-reading keçavārāḥ is quoted in the commentary to Prāt. iv. 18.

24. They that creep away from the sun, as a daughter-in-law away from her father-in-law — let both bajā and piṅgā pierce in into their heart.

Pari in a, though compounded with the verb, has the value of a strengthener of the ablative sense of sūryāt, as ādhi in b of that of śvācūrat. [Cf. Geldner, Ved. Stud. i. 270.]

25. Piṅgā, defend thou [the child] in process of birth; let them not make the male female; let not the egg-eaters injure the embryos; drive thou the *kimūdi*s from here.

In b, lit'ly 'not make the man a woman.' Ppp. puts the mā after pumāṁsam.

26. Childlessness, still-birth, also crying, guilt (aghd), barrenness (āvayā) — that do thou attach to [our] enemy (āpriya), as if having made a garland from a tree.

Ppp. reads, in a, b, mārtavatsam āmābhrogam agham āvayam. The comm. has, for agham āvayam, aghavāvayam, and paraphrases it with aghnānāṁ pāpānāṁ tatphala-bhūlānāṁ dukkhānāṁ vā 'sakṛd vayanam. It is curious that both āvayam and mārtavatsam are quoted in the commentary to Prāt. iv. 18, as if their second member were 'a taddhita beginning with v.' — [Cf. MB. i. i. 14; MP. i. 4. 11.]

[Here ends the third anuvāka, with 2 hymns and 48 verses. It is also the end of the sixth artha-sūkta, which begins with yāu te. The quoted Anukr. says yāu te.]

From this point on, the commentary is wanting until the beginning of book xi.

7. To the plants: for some one's restoration to health.

[Atharvan. — aśtāviniṣakam.* bhāṣajyāyasyam uta mantroktāṁśuadhivēvatāḥkām. ānuṣṭubham : 2. upariṣṭād bhurig bṛhāt; 3. puraṅgnih; 4. 5-p. parānuṣṭub atijagati; 5. 6. pathyāpāṇkti (6. virāḍgarbhā bhurij); 9. 2-p. ārci bhurig ānuṣṭubh; 10. pathyāpāṇkti; 12. 5-p. virāḍ atīṣakvari; 14. upariṣṭān nicṛd bṛhāt; † 25. pathyāpāṇkti; 26. nicṛt; 28. bhurij.]

Found also in Pāipp. xvi. [with verses 16–19 in the order 16, 18, 19, 17]. * [The mss. have sāṣṭāviniṣakam.] † [The Anukr. omits the definition of vss. 15 (triṣṭubh) and 24 (6-p. jagati).]

[Used by Kāuc. in a remedial rite (26. 33, 40, note), "with a gilt and lacquered amulet made [cf. introd. to AV. ii. 9] of splinters of ten kinds of trees" (Kec., p. 327²²), against all diseases. In the pūṁsavana, vs. 27 accompanies (note to 35. 6) the giving of food to the pregnant woman. Vāit. prescribes the hymn for use in the sāutrāmaṇī rite (30. 6) when the priest mixes herbs with the surā.]

Translated: Ludwig, p. 504; Henry, 20, 58; Griffith, i. 408; Bloomfield, 41, 578.

1. Those that are brown, and that are bright (śukrā), the red and the spotted, the swarthy, the black herbs — all [of them] do we address (acha-āvad).

2. Let them save (trā) this man from the yākṣma sent by the gods — the plants of which heaven has been the father, earth the mother, ocean the root.

The second half-verse was found above, as iii. 23. 6 a, b. This time it is also in Ppp. In c, dyāuṣ is read by W.I.R.T. We should expect pūṁsam in a.

3. Waters [were] the beginning, heavenly herbs; they have made disappear from every limb thy sinful (enasyā) yakṣma.

The first pāda is a fragment, in meter and in construction; the omission of āgram would fairly rectify both. As in sundry other like cases, most of the mss. read at the end aninaṣam (or -ṣam); only P.M.W. have -ṣan.

4. The spreading, the bushy, the one-spated, the extending herbs do I address; those rich in shoots, jointed (kāṇḍīn), that have spreading branches (viṣāḥa); I call for thee the plants that belong to all the gods, formidable, giving life to men.

Viṣāḥa might also signify 'branchless.' Ppp. reads in a-b ekaṣṛṅgāḥ pradhavattīr.

5. What power [is] yours, ye powerful ones, [what] heroism and what strength [is] yours, therewith, O herbs, free ye this man from this yakṣma; now (ditho) do I make a remedy.

The last pāda is wanting in Ppp.

6. The lively, by-no-means-harming, living herb, the non-obstructing, up-guiding, flourishing (? puṣyā) one, rich in sweets, do I call hither, for this man's freedom from harm.

Compare 2. 6, with which this agrees in the first two pādas and in most of the last two. The mss. again are much at variance as to the reading of naghāriṣām; Bp.P. M.p.m.E.p.m.O. read [Bp. with -ghā-] naghāriṣām. [Ppp. reads naghāriṣām (as does Berlin ed.) and omits iha and pāda e.] The omission of the obscure puṣyām would rectify the meter; the Pet. Lexx. regard the word as proper name of a plant.

7. Let the forethoughtful ones come hither, allies (medīn) of my spell (vācas), that we may make this man pass forth out of difficulty.

Read medīnīr in b (two accent-signs slipped out of place leftward).

8. Food of fire, embryo of the waters, they that grow up renewed, fixed, thousand-named — be they remedial [when] brought.

9. Wrapped in dvakā, water-natured, let the herbs, sharp-horned, thrust away difficulty.

Literally, 'having the avakā as foetal envelop.'

10. Releasing, free from Varuṇa, formidable, that are poison-spoiling, also balāsa-dispelling, and that are witchcraft-spoiling — let those herbs come hither.

'Free from Varuṇa': i.e., doubtless, 'freeing from the bonds of Varuṇa,' with which he visits guilt on the guilty. Ppp. reads in c-d balāsanācīnī rakṣanācāntiḥ kṛtyād-. Read in our text kṛtyādūṣanīḥ (for -yad-) in d.

11. Let the purchased, very powerful plants that are praised save in this village cow, horse, man, beast.

Ppp. prefixes an additional pāda to each half-verse: śivās te santu oṣadhīr apāḥ; and apā sarasvatī jyeṣṭhān trūy-.

12. Rich in sweets the root, rich in sweets the tip of them, rich in sweets was the middle of the plants; rich in sweets the leaf, rich in sweets the flower of them; partaking of sweet, a drink of nectar (amṛta), let them milk out ghee, food, with milk (gô) as chief (-purogavā).

The mss. (except D. and R.s.m.?) agree in the unmotivated accent babhūva at end of b. Ppp. has instead balena; also, for sambhaktās, sambhūtās 'originated,' which is easier.

13. However many [may be] these herbs upon the earth, let them, thousand-leafed, free me from death, from distress.

All the mss. leave oṣadhīs unaccented at end of b; and most (all save P.M.D.R.T.) accent -pariyās at end of c. [Cf. Caland, KZ. xxxi. 265.]

14. Let the tigerish amulet of plants, saving, protecting from impregnation, smite far away from us diseases [and] all demons.

The pada-text reads sārvā (not sārvāḥ) in c, and the translation follows it. Ppp. has vyāghro in a, and asmāt at the end. Adhi in d is redundant in respect both to sense and to meter.

15. As at the roaring of a lion do they quake; as at fire do they tremble at [the herbs when] brought; let the yāksma of kine, of men, go driven by the plants beyond navigable streams.

The usual expression is 'beyond ninety-nine' such streams. Ppp. reads oṣadhīnām for sah vijante in a. [Over "quake" W. interlines "shrink with fear." He would probably have changed it to "they are all in a tremble," as in v. 21. 4, 6.]

16. The herbs, becoming freed from Agni Vāiṣvānara — go ye stretching over the earth, [ye] whose king is the forest-tree.

We should expect vocatives instead of nominatives in the first line.

17. They who, belonging to the Aṅgirasas, grow on mountains and on plains — let those herbs, rich in milk, propitious, be weal to our heart.

In Ppp. this verse follows our vs. 19. [Ppp. inserts after b vīrudho viśvabheṣajis, and continues tā no mayasvatīḥ śivāḥ: o. s. ḡ. h.]

18. Both what plants I know, and what I see with the eye, the unknown and what we are acquainted with, and those in which we know what is brought together —

That is, probably, their collected or concentrated virtue. Ppp. reads in c jānīmasi for jānīmāḥ ca. [We might render djñātas by 'what we are not acquainted with,' to correspond with W's version of jānīmās.]

19. Let all the entire herbs note (budh) my spell (vācas), that we may make this man pass forth out of difficulty.

Ppp. omits the second half-verse; it is identical with 7 c, d, above.

20. The aṣvatthā, the darbhā, sōma king of plants, immortal oblation — rice and barley [are] remedial, immortal sons of heaven.

Ppp. reads yavasya bheṣajo in c.

21. Ye rise up (ud-hā); it thunders, it roars at [you], O herbs! when, O ye children of the spotted one, Parjanya favors you with seed.

With the second half-verse is to be compared RV. v. 83. 4 c, d. Pr̥cīmātṛ is elsewhere epithet only of the Maruts. The accent abhikr̥ndati is unmotivated [unless, indeed, with Henry, we bring it, with standyati, under the domain of yadā].

22. Of this amṛta we make this man to drink the strength; now do I make a remedy, that he may be one of a hundred years (-hāyand).

W. and O.s.m. read pārayāmasi at end of b; Ppp. has phalayāmasi.

23. The boar knows the plant; the mongoos knows the remedial [herb]; what ones the serpents, the Gandharvas know, those I call to aid for him.

One or two of our mss. (Bp.M. [only one, Bp., if I understand W's Collation-book]) read vtrūdham at end of a. Ppp. puts sarpās after gandharvās in c, and has for d iā ihā "yantu oṣadhiḥ.

24. What [herbs] of the Aṅgirasas the eagles [know], what heavenly ones the raghātṣ know, what ones the birds, the swans know, and what all the winged ones, what herbs the wild beasts know — those I call to aid for him.

Raghātṣ (which divyāḥ 'heavenly' might also qualify) is elsewhere unknown; Ppp. reads instead vagh-; the major Pet. Lex. suggests emendation [apparently withdrawn in the minor: see raghātṣ] to raghāvas 'swift'; Ludwig conjectures 'bees.' Ppp. also combines suparṇā "ṅg- in a. [Render haṁsās by the prosaic 'geese,' since the poetic tone of the AV. is not so elevated as to make that version intolerable. Cf. JAOS. xix., 2d half, p. 154.]

25. Of how many herbs the inviolable kine partake (prā-aḥ), of how many the goats and sheep, let so many herbs, being brought, extend protection to thee.

Ppp. exchanges the second halves of vss. 25 and 26, and makes ābhṛtās and oṣadhīs change places.

26. In how many [herbs] human physicians (bhiṣḍj) know a remedy, so many, all-remedial, do I bring unto thee.

Ppp. [see under vs. 25] reads at the end itī for abhi.

27. Rich in flowers, rich in shoots (prasth-), rich in fruits, also those lacking fruits — like joint mothers, let them milk unto this man in order to his freedom from harm.

Ppp. combines śahmātārāi 'va in c. The first pāda is nearly identical with RV. x. 97. 3 b.

28. I have taken thee up out of what has five ḡalas, and also out of what has ten ḡalas, also out of Yama's fetter, out of all offense against the gods.

The Pet. Lexx. explain -cala as 'a certain measure of distance,' but that sense does not in the least suit the connection, either here or in TB. i. 5. 10¹. Ppp. reads ahāriṣam in a, [ut tvā for atho in c,] and, for d, oṣadhūbhir apīparam. The second half-verse is identical with vi. 96. 2 c, d, above [and nearly identical with RV. x. 97. 16 c, d].

8. To conquer enemies.

[Bhrygvāṇgiras. — caturvinṣam. āndram uta vānospatyam. parasenāhananam. ānuṣṭubham :
2. 3. bṛhatī (2. upariṣṭāt; 3. virāj); 4. bṛhatīpurastātpṛastārāpāṇkti; 6. āstārāpāṇkti;
7. vīparitāpādalaśmā 4-p. atijagatī; 8-10. upariṣṭādbrhatī; 11. pathyābrhatī; 12. bhūrij;
19, 20. purastādbrhatī (19. virāj; 20. nīcī); 21. tristubh; 22. 4-p. ṣakavarī;
23. upariṣṭādbrhatī; 24. 3-av. tristubṣuṣṭiggarbhā parāṣakavarī 5-p. jagatī.]

Found also in Pāipp. xvi.; [but the order of vss. 3 and 4 is inverted; likewise that of vss. 6 and 7]. ["Verses" 22-24 are prose, in Brāhmaṇa style.—Whitney's treatment of this hymn is doubtless only a rough first draft, which he would have revised thoroughly had his life been spared. The understanding of this hymn is so peculiarly dependent upon an understanding of the ritual that I have felt obliged to present the latter with exceptional fulness—without attempting, however, to revise W's version into entire accordance therewith.]

[The text of the "army rites" (16. 9-20), cites expressly vss. 1, 2, and parts of 24, and is indeed largely made up of the names of the objects mentioned in the hymn (see below). Not only Dārila, but also Keçava (Bl., p. 314²⁸ ff.), and the introd. which SPP. gives (p. 658-9) in lieu of the lost comm., are almost instructive details.]

[With vs. 1, the sorcerer twirls a fire-drill (16. 9) made of açvattha and badhaka sticks (16. 11: cf. vss. 3, 4). Thereupon, while reciting the first half of vs. 2, he lays down some "old rope" (jīṛṇa-rajjū, Dār.: apparently to serve as tinder?) "in the place where the sparks [from the fire-drill] fall" (so Dār. and Keç.). When the smoke appears, he exorcises it with the words dhūmām parādṛçyā 'mītrā hr̥tsū ā dadhatām bhayām.

This is the second half of our verse 2, with agnīm left out. When the flame breaks out (agnim jātam), he addresses it with agnīm parādṛçyā 'mītrā hr̥tsū ā dadhatām bhayām.

This is the same half-verse, with dhūmām left out. See Keç., p. 314³¹ ff., SPP., p. 658¹⁸⁻¹⁹.—This now is the fire for the "army rites."]

[Upon it, with use of h. 8, is placed successively (16. 14) fuel of açvattha, badhaka, tājad-bhaṅga ('castor-oil plant'), āhva ('palāça'), khadira, and çara ('reeds'). These things are all mentioned in vss. 3-4; Dārila's list (n. to 48. 1) agrees entirely with this: cf. also Bl., p. xlv. —Next follows the bestrewn of the tracks of the hostile army with various symbolical objects, to wit: first (16. 15), "the fetters aforesaid" (at 14. 28) of hemp and of muṇja-grass smeared with iṅgida; then (16. 16-17), "traps" [kūṭa: see n. to vs. 16] of açvattha, "hempen nets," and "stakes of badhaka." Various expressions in the hymn may be taken either as allusions to these objects or else as suggesting their use: such are the "fetters" of vss. 10, 16; the "trap" of vs. 16; the "net" of vss. 4-8 and 18; the "net-stakes" of vss. 5, 12.]

[In counter-sorcery, iṅgiḍa is the regular surrogate for ghee (Kāuṣ. 47.3). In the rites accompanying iii.6 (the hymn is notably affiliated with ours in respect of substance and expression: cf. "fetters," aṣvattha, khadira; cf. also viii.8.3 a with iii.6.2 a; 10 a, b with 5 a, b; 19 c with 7 c), it is used (48.4) for smearing the threads or symbolical fetters; similarly at 14.28, above; and again (with vi.75: Kāuṣ. 48.31) with a leaf of red aṣvattha.]

[A most interesting critical result is won from the study of the ritual use of our hymn, to wit: that here (vs. 2 c) we have an instance in which both alternatives (dhūmām and agnīm) of an āha have been adopted into the received text. This has given it a semblance of metrical blemish (Henry, Bloomfield, and Whitney all suggest the excision of amitrāḥ), the true meaning of which has been missed by the Occidental exegetes. SPP. (as above) understands Keçava's introd. to Kāuṣ. 14 aright and explains it clearly, p. 658¹⁸.—It may be noted that Ppp. unintelligently, with its agnīm dhūmām (intending dhūmām), has both alternatives, but in the wrong order.]

Translated: Muir, v. 88 (vss. 5-8); Ludwig, p. 527; Henry, 23, 61; Griffith, i. 412; Bloomfield, 117, 582.

1. Let Indra the shaker shake (math) [them], he the mighty hero, stronghold-splitter, in order that we may slay by thousands the armies of our enemies.

Quoted in Kāuṣ. 16.9 [see introd.].

2. Let the putrid rope, breathing on [it], make yonder army putrid; seeing afar smoke, fire, let our enemies set fear in their hearts.

Ppp. reads agnīm dhūmām in c. The different parts of the verse are quoted in Kāuṣ. 16.10, 12, 13, where the 'putrid rope' appears to be understood as an actual rope which is burnt, and of which the 'smoke' and 'fire' are to frighten the foe. It is perhaps quite as likely that the ceremony is founded on a crass misinterpretation of the verse, and that the 'rope' is a poisonous serpent (as conjectured by Ludwig). The omission of amitrās in d would rectify the meter. [With regard to the last and to the whole verse, see the introd.]

3. Crush yonder men out, O aṣvatthā; devour (khād) them speedily, O khadirā; let them be suddenly [tājād] broken [bhañj] like hemp [bhāṅga]; let the slayer (vādḥaka) slay (han) them with deadly weapons (vadhā).

The translation implies the emendation (which is made in our text) of ajiram (p. khadira-ajiram!) to -rām,* and the treatment of tājāt and bhāṅgas (p. tājādbhāṅga-ghoiva!) as two separate words. Ppp. reads in b khadirā 'ciram, and in c combines

-bhañgāi 'va ; for ḍ it has brhajjālena saṁcitāḥ [cf. our 4 ḍ]. Kāuṣ. (16. 14) takes tājadbhañga as a single word, and its comm. explains it as the castor-oil plant (erapda). [In ṣṛṇiḥi I see an allusion to the sorcerer's favorite "reeds" (ṣarā) of vs. 4. Griffith notes the power of the aṣvattha to rend asunder the masonry etc. in whose crevices its seed has germinated. The other word-plays, including that on vādhaka badhaka (cf. bādḥaka and root bādḥ), are evident. See also introd.] * [So also SPP. with several of his authorities.]

4. Let the rough-called one make yonder men rough (paraśā) ; let the slayer slay them with deadly weapons ; let them be broken quickly like a reed (ṣarā), tied together with a great net.

Ppp. combines ṣare 'va in c,* and has at the end (as in 3 ḍ) saṁcitās ; it puts the verse before our vs. 3. The Pet. Lexx. conjecture paraśāhrvā to be 'a kind of reed.' [For the materials of the sorcery, and the "net," cf. introd.] * [As the meter requires ; why then does not the Anukr. call the vs. a puraśtādbrhatt and have done with it?]]

5. The atmosphere was the net ; the great quarters [were] the net-stakes ; therewith encircling [them], the mighty one (ṣakrā) scattered away the army of the barbarians (dāsyu).

Ppp. has an easier but virtually equivalent version of c, ḍ : tenā 'bhidhāya senām indro dasyūn apā 'vapāt. Vss. 5-8 are translated by Muir (v. 88). ["Net-stakes": cf. introd. — For "encircling" W. first had "girding"; abhi-dhā carries the idea of bridling, curbing, or restraining: cf. vss. 7, 8, 9 and note to iii. 11. 8.]

6. Since great [is] the net of the great mighty one, the vigorous (vājñīvant) — therewith do thou crowd (ubj) down upon all [our] foes, that no one soever of them may be released.

Ppp. adds to our first half-verse (with rocanāvatas for vāj- in b) the second half-verse of our 7 (omitting nyarbudaṁ and reading at the end senām), then putting the whole after 7. All the mss. accent mūcyātāi, which, though supported by the usage of sundry Vedic texts (including even RV.), was emended in our edition to agree with the Atharvan accentuation elsewhere. [Henry would read mōci, of which he holds mūcyātāi to be a gloss.]

7. Great, O Indra, hero (ṣūra), is the net of thee that art great, that art worth a thousand, that hast hundred-fold heroism ; therewith encircling the army of the barbarians, the mighty one slew a hundred, a thousand, ten thousand, a hundred million.

The translation follows Ppp. (see under the preceding verse) in reading senām at the end. Instead of our c, ḍ, Ppp. has tena ny ubja maghavann amitrāṇ ṣaṣvatīḥyaḥ.

8. This great world was the net of the great mighty one ; by that net of Indra do I encircle all yon men with darkness.

9. Debility, formidable ill-success, and mishap that is not to be exorcised away (an-apavācand), toil, and weariness, and confusion — with these do I encircle all yon men.

10. To death do I deliver those yonder; with fetters of death [are] they bound (sā); the sad messengers that are death's — them I lead them to meet, having bound (bandh) [them].

Ppp. reads khālās for aghalās in c, and at the end baddhān. All our mss. agree in giving the abbreviated form badhvā. [“Fetters”: cf. introd.]

11. Lead ye them, O messengers of death; O messengers of Yama, restrain (apa-umbh) [them]; be they slain to more than thousands; let Bhava's club (? matyā) shatter them.

Ppp. reads for a mṛtyudātā amuṁ nayata; d is corrupt, but apparently is the same with our d.

12. The Perfectibles (sādhya) go lifting with force one net-stake, the Rudras one, the Vasus one; by the Ādityas one is lifted.

Ppp. has for second half-verse: rudrā dvitīyaṁ vasavaḥ tṛtīyam ādityāir ekā udyatā.

13. Let all the gods from above go crowding with force; let the Aṅgīrases go slaying midway the great army.

Ppp. has at the end vadhāis instead of mahim.

14. The forest trees, them of the forest trees, the herbs and the plants, what is biped, what is quadruped I despatch (iṣ), that they may slay yonder army.

‘Them of the forest trees,’ vānaspatyān, acc. pl. masc.; the lexicographers explain the word to mean ‘fruit tree with conspicuous flowers.’ At the end both of this verse and of the next, Ppp. reads hatān. Bp. reads dvicpāt in c. [For the citation in Kāuç. 73. 5, see introd.]

15. The Gandharvas and Apsarases, the serpents, the gods, the pure-folks, the Fathers, those seen, those unseen I despatch, that they may slay yonder army.

Ppp. makes devān and sarpān change places [and reads hatān again at the end]. [Muir, v. 296, cites MBh. ii. 11. 45 = 461, where the Fathers are divided into seven troops, four of embodied and three of bodiless.]

16. Here are spread the fetters of death, which stepping into thou art not released; let this horn (kūṭa) slay of yonder army by thousands.

Ppp. gives for a mṛtyupaçā yama [that is, ime?] yuktā. Kāuç. (16. 16) speaks of ‘kūṭas of açvattha[-wood] and nets of hemp.’ [Geldner, Ved. Stud. i. 139, renders the vs. and takes kūṭa as “trap”; SPP., p. 659¹³, says niṣādānām prāṇibandhanam; Bl., p. 119 (see esp. p. 585), “hammer.”]

17. The hot drink (gharmā) [is] kindled with fire, this thousand-slaying oblation (hōma); both Bhava and the spotted-armed one — O Çarva, slay ye (two) yonder army.

All the mss. read bhāvas at beginning of c; our edition emends to bhavās. The common construction bhavāḍ ca . . . ṣarva . . . , hatam (cf. the next verse) is much disturbed by the addition of pṛṣṇibāhus, which the second ca forbids to take as a mere epithet. Ppp. reads sahasraṣaḥ and hatām at the end of the two lines respectively.

18. Let them go unto death's burning (?), unto hunger, debility, the deadly weapon, fear; by snare (ākṣu) and net, O Ṣarva, [do thou] and Indra slay yonder army.

Only P. and R.s.m. have oṣam, all the rest āṣam, which must accordingly be regarded as the traditional text, though unintelligible. Further emendation to oṣam 'quickly' is hardly advisable. Ppp. has oṣam. Ppp. also differs much in c, d: indrasyā 'kṣamālā-bhīyām sarva senām amūm hatām. Part of our mss. also (W.O.D.T.) read sārva in d. [Geldner discusses ākṣu, Ved. Stud. i. 136.]

19. Flee (tras) forth, O enemies, being conquered; run, [being] thrust by the charm (brāhman); of them yonder, thrust forth by Brihaspati, let none soever be freed.

The second half-verse is nearly repeated as xi. 10. 19 c, d, below. The pada-mss. absurdly read nutiā (not nutiāḥ) in b. Amitrās is metrically redundant in a. [Rather 11 + 8 : 8 + 8.] The pada-reading of bṛhaspatiḥpranuttānām [cf. iii. 6. 7] is by Prāt. iii. 76, iv. 77, the commentary quoting it under each rule.

20. Let their weapons (āyudha) fall down; let them not be able to fit the arrow; then, of them fearing much let arrows strike in the vitals.

Ppp. reads ṣiṣam for ṣakan in d.

21. Together let heaven-and-earth yell at them; together let the atmosphere, along with the deities; let them not find a knower, nor a foundation; mutually destroying one another let them go unto death.

The second half-verse is identical with vi. 32. 3 c, d, above. Ppp. puts enāḥ before kroṣatām, and adds ubhe at the end of a.

22. The four quarters [are] the she-mules of the god-chariot; the sacrificial cakes [are] the hoofs, the atmosphere the seat (? uddhī), heaven-and-earth the two sides, the seasons the reins, the intermediate directions the attendants, speech the rim (? pārivathya).

Ppp. reads ṣaphā 'ntarikṣa buddhiḥ and omits the clause antardeṣāḥ kimkarāḥ. The verse is quoted in Kāuṣ. 15. 11 [see introd.].

23. The year (samvatsarā) is the chariot, the complete year (parivat-sarā) the chariot-lap, virāj the pole (iṣā), Agni the chariot-mouth, Indra the left-stander, the moon the charioteer.

Ppp. reads, for the first part of the paragraph, ahorātre cakre māma ārāt samvatsaro adhiṣṭhānam: virāj etc. Savyaśthās (p. savyaśthāḥ) is a subject of Prāt. ii. 95. [As for the "years," see n. to vi. 55. 3.]

24. On this side conquer thou; on this side conquer away, conquer completely, conquer; hail! let these here conquer, let those yonder be conquered; hail [svāhā] to these! wail (durāhā) to those! with the blue-red one I stretch down upon them yonder.

That is, probably, with Īva's aid I bring the net down upon them. [Ppp. omits all after the first svāhā.] Parts of the verse are quoted in Kāuṣ. 16. 18-20: 'with "hail to these" he makes a libation for his friends; with "wail to those" [he pours] with the left hand iṅgida on the [staff] of badhaka; having stuck in a branch of red aṅgathā north of the fire, having surrounded it with two blue and red threads, he pulls it up toward the right with "with the blue-red one": evidently artificial adaptations of ceremonies to the words of the text. [For the whole matter, see introd.]

9. Mystic: extolling the virāj.

[Atharvan. — śadvīṇṣam. kacyapeyam uta sarvārṣaṁ chāndasam. trāṣṭubham: 2, 3. pañkti (3. āstārāpañkti); 4, 5, 23, 25, [26]. anuṣṭubh; 8, 11, 12, 22. jagati; 9. bhurij; 14. 4-p. atijagati.]

Found also (except vss. 19, 20) in Pāipp. xvi. [with vs. 23 after vs. 24]. The Kāuṣ. takes no notice of the hymn; [but the Vāit. (33. 8) allows the use of 21 vss. (from vs. 6 to the end) in the sattra sacrifice at the celebrant's option].

Translated: Ludwig, p. 439; Henry, 26, 65; Griffiths, i. 416. — See also Muir, v. 370.

1. Whence [were] those two born? which side (ārdha) was that? out of what world? out of which earth? the two young (vatsā) of the virāj rose out of the sea (salilā); of those I ask thee: by whether [of them was] she milked?

The 'which' is both times katama, implying the existence of more than two; but Ppp. has instead katarasyāḥ prithivyāḥ.

2. He who caused the sea to resound (krand) with greatness, making a threefold lair (yóni) as he lay, the desire-milking young of the virāj; he made his bodies secret (gūhā) in the distance.

Ppp. combines yo 'krand- at the beginning, and reads in b tyabhiṣam śayānani.

3. What three great ones (bṛhāt, n.) there are, the fourth of which [one] disjoins [as] speech — the priest (brahmān) may know it by penance, the inspired one, in which one (ekam) is joined, in which one [is joined].

Ppp. reads catvāri instead of trīṇi in a. Caturtham 'fourth' might also be subject of 'disjoins.' Compare ix. 10. 27 (RV. i. 164. 45).

4. Forth out of bṛhāt [as] sixth five sāmans [were] fashioned; bṛhāt was fashioned out of bṛhatī; out of what was bṛhatī made?

Ppp. reads śaṣṭhaḥ instead of ṣṭhāt.

5. Bṛhatī the measure (mātrā) was fashioned forth out of measure [as] a mother; illusion (māyā) was born from illusion, Mātali out of illusion.

The desire to play upon the root mā 'measure, fashion,' is the leading motive in the making of this verse. The pada-text gives the absurd reading māyāḥ at beginning of c; Ppp. reads after it hi instead of ha.

6. Vāiṣvānara's counterpart [is] the sky above, as far as Agni forced (bādh) apart the two firmaments; from that sixth yonder come the stómas; up from here they go unto the sixth of the day.

For ā mūto, in c, Ppp. reads āmico. The remainder of the hymn, from this verse on, is by Vāit. 33. 8 allowed to be introduced at pleasure in the navarātra ceremony.

7. We these six seers ask thee, O Kaṣyapa, for thou didst join what is joined and what is to be joined; they call (ah) virāj the father of the brāhman; distribute (? vi-dhā) it to us [thy] friends according to [our] numbers.

Ppp. reads prchāmi ṛṣ- in a.

8. After whom, when removed, the sacrifices remove (pra-cyu), [whom], when attending, they attend on (upa-sihā), in whose course (vrata) [and?] impulse the monster (? yakṣā) stirs—that, O seers, is the virāj in the highest firmament.

9. Breathless, she goes by the breath of breathing ones (f.); virāj goes unto svarāj from behind; virāj that touches, that is adapted to, everything—some see her, some see her not.

No ms. [of ours] inserts t between -rāj and sva- in b [but four of SPP's do so], as required by Prāt. ii. 8 (under which this is one of the passages quoted). In d we ought properly to have emended to tve . . . tve (accentless); all the mss. accent the two words, against the uniform usage elsewhere; and the pada-mss. commit the further blunder of giving both times tve tti, as if the word were the Vedic locative of the 2d pers. pronoun (as in v. 2. 3).

10. Who understandeth (pra-vid) the pair-ness of virāj? who the seasons, who the ordering (kālpa) of her? who her steps (krāma), how many times milked out (vi-duh)? who her abode (dhāman), how many times dawns (vyūṣṭi)?

The version is much more literal than intelligent, especially at the end, where we expect rather vyūṣṭam than -ṣṭi. 'Pair-ness,' mithunatvām, means especially the condition of being a pair of opposite sexes.

11. This same is she that first shone forth; among these other ones (f.) she goes about having entered; great mightinesses [are] within her; the woman, the new-going generatrix, hath conquered.

This verse occurred above, as iii. 10. 4. It is found also in other texts in connection with the four verses which follow it here. Ppp. has [in a, b] the same readings as in iii. 10. [4 a, b]; [and, here also, it inverts the order of c and d].

12. The two meter-winged dawns, greatly adorning themselves, move on together toward the same lair (yóni); spouses of the sun, they move on together, understanding, having ensigns, unaging, having abundant seed.

The Pet. Lexx. give the first word in the form chāndaspaḥṣa, although Prāt. ii. 62 expressly requires -aḥṣa-, and all the mss. read it except Bp., which has -aṣṣa-. The verse is found also in TS. iv. 3. 111, MS. ii. 13. 10, K. xxxix. 10. Both TS. and MS. have at the beginning chāndasvati; MS. reads uṣḍāsān, and at the end -retasān; at end of b, MS. gives anusmācarete and TS. anu samācāraṇtī; both have ut for sām in c, and TS. ketūm kṛpṇvān for ketumātī in d. Ppp. reads carati in c.

13. Three (f.) have come along the road of righteousness; three heats (gharmā) have come after the seed; one (f.) enlivens the progeny, one the refreshment (āry); one defends the realm of the godly ones.

The verse follows the preceding in the other three texts also. TS. MS. rectify the meter of b by reading gharmāsas, and for rētas MS. has rētasā and TS. jyōtiṣā; TS. gives rākṣati for jīnuvati in c; and for rāṣṭrām in d TS. has vratām and MS. ṣṣatām.

14. She that was fourth set Agni-and-Soma; the seers arranging the (two) wings of the sacrifice — gāyatrī, triṣṭūbh, jāgati, anuṣṭūbh, bṛhad-arkī, bringing heaven (svār) for the sacrificer.

The meter-names in the second half-verse are all in the accusative, possibly as coördinate with 'wings' in b; but comparison with the other texts indicates that the verse is very corrupt. The translation implies emendation of adadhāt to adadhāt in a; it would not be absolutely impossible to take 'the seers' as subject in a, and 'her that was fourth' as joint object with 'Agni-and-Soma.' Of the other texts (as above), TS. begins with catuṣṭombā bhavād, and MS. with catuṣṭombām adadhād; both rectify the meter of a by omitting āsit; in b both have ṣṣayas as vocative, and after it bhāvanī, and MS. has paḥṣā (for -ṣā) before it; in c, MS. has virājam for anuṣṭūbhām; in d, TS. begins with bṛhād arkām, MS. with arkām alone; and both follow it with yunja-nāḥ svār (TS., of course, sūvar) ā bhārann idām. Ppp's only variant is bṛhadarkī in d.

15. Five milkings after five dawnings; five seasons after the five-named cow; five quarters arranged by the fifteenth — those (f.) [are] one-headed toward one world.

'The fifteenth' (masc. or neut. sing.) might mean also 'fifteen-fold, of fifteen parts,' etc. The verse is found in the three other texts (as above), but in TS. MS. (also in K.?) separated at some distance from those that here precede; also in PGS. iii. 3. 5: all read samānāmārdhānt instead of ekamū- in d.

16. Six [are] born the beings first-born of righteousness; six sāmans carry the six-day (?) [sacrifice]; after the six-yoked plough (śtra) severally a sāman; six they call (ah) the heavens and earths, six the wide [spaces].

The translation implies in b the reading ṣaḍahām; this is given in our text, against the authority of our pada-mss. [which have ṣāt: ahām]; the samhitā-mss. (except O.p.m.) have ṣaḍ-. All the latter read in a -jā rīāsya (p. prathamāṣṣā: rīāsya [cf. JAOS. x. 451].

17. Six they call the cold, and six the hot months; tell ye us the season, which one [is] in excess (ātirikta); seven eagles (suparṇā), poets, sat down; seven meters after seven consecrations.

None of the mss. read ṣṭānūṣ śāḍ in a, as demanded by Prāt. ii. 9. In d the construction of the two nouns is reversible.

18. Seven [are] the offerings (hóma), the fuels seven, the sweet things (mádhū, n.) seven, the seasons seven; seven sacrificial butters (ājya) went about the existent thing (bhūtá); those (f.) are seven-vultured, so have we heard.

The version is as literal as possible; to modify it would imply an understanding of it. The nearest fem. word for 'those' in d to relate to is 'fuels' in a. All the samhitā-mss. combine saptá rtávo in b. Ppp. reads in b nu for ha, and has instead of our c, d: sapta jyāyām paruhūta gāyam saptahotā rtudayajetilās sapta grāhrā iti ṣuṣravā 'ham. Nearly all the mss. (all of ours save E.) read āyam (the samhitā-mss. -am) at end of c.

19. Seven [are] the meters increasing (-úttara) by four, the one set upon the other: how do the praises (stóma) stand firm in them? how are they set in the praises?

The gender of anyás at beginning of b speaks strongly for a compound like the later anyo 'nya; but the double accent and the pada-reading (anyāḥ : anyásmīn) are against it. The pada-text divides ārpitāni (ādrp-) at end of b, but not at end of d. The verse is wanting in Ppp.

20. How did gāyatrī permeate (vi-āp) the triple [stóma]? how is tri-ṣṭúbh adapted to that of fifteen? how jāgatī to that of thirty-three? how [is] anuṣṭúbh that of twenty-one?

This verse, like the preceding, is wanting in Ppp.; and they are in a manner interruptions of the progress of the hymn.

21. Eight [are] born the beings first-born of righteousness; eight, O Indra, are the priests (ṛtvj) who are of the gods; Aditi has eight wombs (yóni), eight sons; the oblation (havyám) goes unto the eighth night.

With a compare 16 a above; here as there all the samhitā-mss. combine -já rtásva, as in b all combine indra rtv-. Ppp. reads from the beginning: aṣṭāu dhāmāni prathamajam tasyā 'ṣṭe 'ndra rtv-; and, in d, api for abhi.

22. Thus thinking what is better have I come hither; in your friendship I am auspicious (śéva); being of the same birth, your skill is propitious; it (m.), understanding, goes about to you all (f.).

The adjectives in a, b are fem., seeming to indicate that the virāj is regarded as speaking. Ppp. has ā 'gām at end of a, and nas for vas both times in c, d. 'It' in d apparently refers to 'skill.'

23. Eight of Indra, six of Yama, seven of the seers, seven-fold; waters, men (manuṣyā), herbs — them five followed (sac) after.

The nouns in c are accusatives, and are apparently summed up in 'them' (tān). All the mss. this time read with our text yamásya ṣṣ- in a-b. Ppp. puts the verse after our 24.

24. Since the heifer milked solely (kévalī) for Indra [his] will (vāṇa), the beestings, [when] first milked, then [she] gratified in four ways the four — gods, men, Asuras, and seers.

Ppp. reads at the end atha r̥ṣin; all our mss. save O. make the combination utā r̥ṣin as in the printed text.

25. What now [is] the ox (gó), who the sole seer, what the abode (dhāman), what the blessings (āṇis)? the monster on the earth [is] simple (ekavīṭ); the sole season — which now is that?

Ppp. reads sāma for dhāma in b. All our mss. combine ekar̥ṣis in a, but all ekart̥is (also Ppp.) in d. It is necessary here and in the next verse to render gāṇis 'ox,' because the accompanying adjectives are masculine. 'Which' in d is the superlative katamā. [Over "simple" W. has interlined "single."]

26. One [is] the ox, one the sole seer, one the abode, singly the blessings; the monster on the earth [is] single; the sole season is not in excess.

Again Ppp. reads sāma for dhāma, and all the mss. (with Ppp.) have ekar̥ṣis but ekart̥is.

10. Extolling the virāj.

This curious piece of prose is (with the exception of paragraphs here and there) found also in Pāipp. xvi. [Pāipp. has the order 22, 24, 23, 26, 25.] [This is the first of the paryāya-sūktas. For the paryāya-hymns in general, see introduction to book viii., pages 471-2, above.]

[Neither Kāuṣ. nor Vāit. makes use of the hymn; but one of the "committals" in the upanayana (Kāuṣ. 56. 13) is to mārtiyuhjaya mārtiyava: cf. vs. 23.]

Translated: Henry, 29, 71; Griffith, i. 421. — See also Muir, v. 370.

[Paryāya I. — trayodaśakam. 1. 3-p. ārcī pañkti; a of 2-7. yājusī jagatī; b of 2, 5. sāmnī anuṣṭubh; b of 3. ārcy anuṣṭubh; b of 4, 7. virāḍgāyatrī; b of 6. sāmnī bṛhatī.]

1. Virāj verily was this [universe] in the beginning; of her when born everything was afraid, [thinking] "this one indeed will become this [universe]."

Ppp. reads 'jāyata for āsit, and, after tasyās, jātāyā 'bibhed eka sarvam: yam eve 'dam bhaviṣyati na vayam iti.

2. She ascended (ut-kram); she descended (ni-kram) in the householder's fire (gārhapatya); house-sacrificing (gr̥hamedhīn) house-holder [gr̥hāpati] becometh he who knoweth thus.

This paragraph and the one following are wanting in Ppp.

3. She ascended; she descended in the fire of offering (āhavanīya): to his god-invocation the gods go, dear to the gods becometh he who knoweth thus.

The introductory clause só 'd akrāmat, which belongs to the paragraphs from here on to 29 inclusive (8-17 counting in this respect as a single paragraph), is omitted by the mss., according to their custom, almost without exception, until the last paragraph, 29, where all give it; it is restored throughout in our edition. R. alone gives it in this paragraph.

4. She ascended; she descended in the southern [dākṣiṇa] fire: justified (?-ṛtā) by the offering, fit for sacrificial gifts [dakṣiṇīya], fit for refuge (vāsateya) becometh he who knoweth thus.

Our pada-mss. divide yajñārtas into yajñāṛtaḥ, which is evidently wrong, for yajñāṛtaḥ [as indeed two of SPP's read]; and the quotation of the word under Prāt. iii. 64 also indicates that the latter is the true accent. Ppp. reads instead yajñāntas, and omits after it dakṣiṇīyas.

5. She ascended; she descended in the assembly (sabhā): [men] go to his assembly, fit for the assembly becometh he who knoweth thus.

6. She ascended; she descended in the gathering (samiti): [men] go to his gathering, fit for gatherings becometh he who knoweth thus.

This superfluous equivalent of § 5 is wanting in Ppp.

7. She ascended; she descended in address (? āmāntrāṇa); [men] go to his address, fit for address becometh he who knoweth thus.

By the connection, āmāntrāṇa ought to involve the idea of a locality. Instead of [line 2?], Ppp. repeats yajñānto vāsateyo bhavati etc. from § 4.

[Paryāya II. — daśakam. 8, 16. sāmny anuṣṭubh (8. 3-p.); 9. uṣṇiggarbhā 4-p. upariṣṭādvirāḍ bṛhātī; 10. 1-p. yājñi gāyatrī; 11 [?], 14. sāmnī pañkti (11. 1-p.); 12. virāḍ gāyatrī; 13. ārcy anuṣṭubh; 15. āsurī gāyatrī; 17. sāmnī bṛhātī.]

8. She ascended; she stood striding (? vikrāntā) fourfold in the atmosphere.

The phrase 'she ascended' is prefixed by only one or two of the mss. (P.s.m.R.), but is implied in the metrical description of the Anukr.

9. Of her gods and men said: "she verily knoweth that upon which we of both classes may subsist; let us call to her."

Ppp. reads at the end hvaṇāmahi (without iti).

10. They called to her:

11. "O refreshment, come! O svadhā, come! O pleasantness, come! O thou rich in cheer (itrā), come!"

Ppp. combines svadhē 'hi and sānṛte 'hi, and omits iti at the end (as in § 9).

12. Of her Indra was the young (vatsā), gāyatrī the halter, cloud the udder;

Ppp. begins tasyā 'gnir vat-. Accent in our text, with all the mss., āsīt.

13. Both bṛhāt and rathantarā were two teats; both yajñāyajñīya and vāmadevyā [were] two.

Ppp. prefixes a tasyās at the beginning. Accent again in our text āstām, with all the mss.

14. Herbs did the gods milk [from her] by rathantarā, expansion (vyācas) by bṛhāt;

15. Waters by vāmadevyā, the sacrifice by yajñāyajñīya.

16. Herbs doth rathantarā milk, expansion doth bṛhāt,

17. Waters doth vāmadevyā, the sacrifice doth yajñāyajñīya, for him who knoweth thus.

For the last two paragraphs, Ppp. reads: te vāi virājāḥ kāmadhuga stanā kāmāṇi kāmāṇi yajamānan maha yaḥ.

[Paryāya III. — aṣṭān. a of 18. 4-p. virāj anuṣṭubh; b of 18. ārci triṣṭubh; a of 19-21. 4-p. prājāpatyā paṇkti; b of 19-21. ārci bṛhāt.]

18. She ascended; she came to the forest trees; the forest trees slew her; she in a year came into being; therefore what is cut of the forest trees grows over in a year; cut off (vraṇ) is his unfriendly foe (bhrātṛeya) who knoweth thus.

Only P.s.m. and R. give here the first phrase, and only R. in the three following paragraphs. Ppp. puts vanaspatinām after sanivatsare. [For vṛṇ, see note to vi. 136. 3.]

19. She ascended; she came to the Fathers; the Fathers slew her; she in a month came into being; therefore to the Fathers they give in a month the monthly [oblation]; he understandeth the road that goes to the Fathers who knoweth thus.

Again Ppp. puts pitṛbhyas after māsi [R's collation, masi], and then reads dadhatas svadhāvān pitṛṣu bhavati pitṛyānam etc. O.R. accent jānāti.

20. She ascended; she came to the gods; the gods slew her; she in a half-month came into being; therefore for the gods they make vāsa in a half-month: he understandeth the road that goes to the gods who knoweth thus.

Ppp. reads tasmād ardhmāse devebhyo juhōti: juhōty agnihotraṁ pra devay. O.R. again accent jānāti.

21. She ascended; she came to men (manuṣyā); men slew her; she at once (sadyās) came into being; therefore on both days they present (upa-hṛ) to men; in his house do they present who knoweth thus.

'Present,' i.e. 'food'; 'on both days' is a queer expression for 'every day.' Ppp. is corrupt, but perhaps means ahar-ahar manuṣyāṇām upa h.

[Paryāyas IV. and V. — dve ṣoḍaśake. a of 22, 23, 26, 29. 4-p. sāmnī jagati; b of 22-24, 28, 29. sāmnī bṛhati; c of 22, 26. sāmnī uṣṇih; d of 22, 23, 26, 29. ārcy anuṣṭubh; c of 23. āsuri gāyatrī; a of 24, 25, 28. 4-p. uṣṇih; c of 24. prājāpatyā nuṣṭubh; d of 24, 25, 27. ārci triṣṭubh; b of 25, 26. sāmnī uṣṇih; c of 25, 27, 28. virād gāyatrī; a of 27. 4-p. prājāpatyā jagati; b of 27. sāmnī triṣṭubh; d of 28. 3-p. brāhmī bhurig gāyatrī; c of 29. sāmnī anuṣṭubh.]

22. She ascended; she came to the Asuras; the Asuras called to her: O illusion (māyā), come! of her Virochana son of Prahrāda was young (vatsā), the metal-(āyas-)vessel [was] vessel; her Dvimūrdhan son of Ritu milked; from her he milked illusion; that illusion the Asuras subsist upon; one to be subsisted on becometh he who knoweth thus.

R. alone gives the first phrase in §§ 22-28. In this and the following paragraphs to 29 inclusive, the text should accent āsit, with all the mss. Ppp. reads vāirocanas instead of vir-. Single points in these paragraphs find correspondences in MS. iv. (p. 21, l. 14 ff.; p. 36, l. 8 ff.) and in TB. ii. 2.9⁶ ff. [cf. i. 5.9¹].

23. She ascended; she came to the Fathers; the Fathers called to her: O svadhā, come! of her king Yama was young, the silver-vessel [was] vessel; her Antaka son of Mṛityu milked; from her he milked svadhā; that svadhā the Fathers subsist upon: one to be subsisted upon becometh he who knoweth thus.

The samhitā-mss. vary a good deal over mārtiyavō 'dhok: P.M. read mārtiyō, R. mārtiyō, E.O.K. mārtiyavō, T. mārtiyāvo; [cf. introd.]. Ppp. has instead ādityo; and it omits rājā after yamas; it puts the paragraph after our 24.

24. She ascended; she came to men (manuṣyā); men called to her: O rich in cheer, come! of her Manu son of Vivasvant was young, earth [was] vessel; her Pṛithī son of Vena milked; from her he milked both cultivation (kṛṣī) and grain; upon those two, both cultivation and grain, men subsist; successful by what is cultivated (kṛṣād), one to be subsisted upon, becometh he who knoweth thus.

Tē at beginning of d is rendered in accordance with the paragraphs that precede and follow; but the pada-text reads tē simply (not tē tti), as if it qualified manuṣyās. Ppp. reads pr̥thus for pr̥thī. An accent-mark has dropped out in our edition under the va of irāvaty in a.

25. She ascended; she came to the seven seers; the seven seers called to her: O rich in brāhman, come! of her king Soma was young, meter [was] vessel; her Brihaspati son of Aṅgiras milked; from her he milked both brāhman and penance; upon that, both brāhman and penance, the seven seers subsist; possessed of brāhman-splendor, one to be subsisted upon, becometh he who knoweth thus.

Ppp. puts this paragraph after our 26, and omits rājā after somas in b.

26. She ascended; she came to the gods; the gods called to her: O refreshment, come! of her Indra was young, the bowl [was] vessel; her god Savitar milked; from her he milked refreshment; upon that refreshment the gods subsist; one to be subsisted upon becometh he who knoweth thus.

Ppp. reads dāruṣpātram instead of camasas in b, and omits devas in c.

27. She ascended; she came to the Gandharvas and Apsarases; the Gandharvas and Apsarases called to her: O thou of sweet (phṛya) odor, come! of her Chitraratha son of Sūryavarchas was young, the blue-lotus leaf [was] vessel; her Vasuruchi son of Sūryavarchas milked; from her he milked sweet odor; upon that sweet odor the Gandharvas and Apsarases subsist; of sweet odor, one to be subsisted upon, becometh he who knoweth thus.

Ppp. has kāuvero vāiḡravaṇo [cf. our 28 b] and dāruṣpātram in b, and rājatanābhīḡ kāuverako [cf. our 28 c] in c. Restore in our text the lost accent-mark under the ti of jivanti in d.

28. She ascended; she came to the other-folks; the other-folks called to her: O concealment (tirodhā), come! of her Kubera son of Viḡravaṇa was young, the raw vessel [was] vessel; her Rajatanābhi son of Kubera milked; from her he milked concealment; upon that concealment the other-folks subsist: he concealeth all evil, becometh one to be subsisted upon, who knoweth thus.

Ppp. gives everywhere phṛyajana instead of itarajana [twice: third occurrence not noted], and reads in b vasuruciḡ sūryavarcaśo and puṣkaraḡarṇam [cf. our 27 b]. P.p.m. and K. read kāveras in b, and Bp.K. read kāverakās in c.

29. She ascended; she came to the serpents; the serpents called to her: O poisonous one, come! of her Takshaka descendant of Viḡāla was young, the gourd-vessel [was] vessel; her Dhṛitarāshṭra son of Irāvanta milked; from her he milked poison; upon that poison the serpents subsist; one to be subsisted upon becometh he who knoweth thus.

All the mss. give the first phrase in this verse, where it is for the last time repeated. Āirāvataḡ is quoted under Prāt. iv. 55 as an example of a word divided in the pada-text notwithstanding its secondary formation with initial vr̥ddhi. Ppp. reads viṣābhayas for vāiḡāleyas in b, and combines -rāṣṭrāi "rāv- in c [R's collation has -rāṣṭrāirāv-].

30. Then for whomsoever that knoweth thus one shall pour out with a gourd, he should reject [it].

A gourd, apparently, being a too simple vessel to be respectful. [The connection of the gourd with serpents (vss. 29, 32, 33), would seem to be the reason for rejection, as Dr. Ryder suggests.] The readings of Ppp. in this division of the hymn are "confused but apparently essentially accordant" with those of our text. Read tād for yād at the beginning in our text.

31. Should he not reject [it], he should reject [it] by [thinking]: with the mind I reject thee.

32. In that he rejects [it], he thus rejects poison.

33. Poison is poured out after the unfriendly foe of him who knoweth thus.

[The quotations from the Old Anukr. for the ṣaryāya-sūkta are given piecemeal at the end of each ṣaryāya. For brevity they may here be given together: I. trayodaṣa; II. daṣa; III. aṣṭāu ca; IV. tataḥ ṣodaṣa; V. ṣodaṣa; VI. catuṣkas.]

trayodaṣa daṣa 'ṣṭāu ca tataḥ ṣodaṣa ṣodaṣa:
virādvāyān catuṣkas tu; ṣaṭ ṣaryāyās tu niṣcitāḥ:

'In the [hymn beginning] "virāḍ vā" (vāi), [the last ṣaryāya is] one of four [avasāna-rcas]; while the ṣaryāyas count six.']

[The summations of gaṇas and (gaṇa-)avasāna-rcas are as follows: I. g., 6; av., 13; II. av., 10; III. g., 4; av., 8; IV. g., 4; av., 16; V. g., 4; av., 16; VI. av., 4.—Total of av., 67.]

[Here ends the fifth anuvāka, with 2 hymns and 59 verses: that is 1 artha-sūkta of 26 verses and 1 ṣaryāya-sūkta with 6 ṣaryāyas and 33 verses.]

[Some mss. sum up the hymns and verses correctly. Thus D. reckons 30 sūktas (that is 24 of the decad-divisions of our hymns 1-9, plus 6 ṣaryāya-sūktas of our h. 10) with 226 verses (i.e. in our hymns 1-9) plus 67 avasāna-rcas. Similarly ms. I. makes 30 hymns; but 259 verses (i.e. 226, plus the 33 of our h. 10).]

Book IX.

[This ninth book is the second of the second grand division of the Atharvan collection. For a general statement as to the make-up of the books of this division, see page 471. The Old Anukramaṇī describes the length of hymns 1, 3, and 5 by stating in each case the excess over 20 verses—perhaps assuming 20 as the normal length. The whole book has been translated by Victor Henry, Les livres VIII et IX de l'Atharva-veda traduits et commentés, Paris, 1894. The bhāṣya is lacking for this book.]

[Paryāya-hymns: for details respecting them, see pages 471-2. The paryāya-hymns of this book are hymn 6 (with 6 paryāyas) and hymn 7 (with 1 paryāya).]

[The anuvāka-division of the book (as is explained on page 472 also) is into five anuvākas of two hymns each. The "decad"-division likewise is as described on page 472. A tabular conspectus for book ix. follows:

Hymns	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10
Verses	24	25	31	24	38	62¶	26¶	22	22	28
Decad-div.	10 + 14	20 + 10 + 5	10 + 10 + 11	10 + 14	20 + 10 + 10 + 8	6P	1P	10 + 12	10 + 12	10 + 10 + 8

Here ¶ means "paragraph of a paryāya" (such as is numbered as a "verse" in the Berlin edition) and P means "paryāya." The last line shows the "decad"-division. These divisions are shown also in both editions. Of these "decads," anuvākas 1, 2, 3, 4, and 5 contain respectively 5, 5, 4, 2, and 5 (in all, 21 "decads"); while anuvākas 3 and 4 have respectively 6 paryāyas and 1. The sum is 21 "decad"-sūktas and 7 paryāya-sūktas or 28 sūktas.]

[Partly prose—14 a and 21 to the end.] Found also [with vs. 3 before 2, vs. 7 before 6, and vs. 18 before 16] in Pāipp. xvi.; [but according to a note in W's Collation-book, vss. 1-24 occur in Pāipp. at folios 226 a, 108 a, 69 b, i.e. in several different kāṇḍas!]. The hymn is called the mādhūsūkta 'honey-hymn' in Vāit. 16. 12, and is prescribed to be recited to accompany the mixing of soma with milk in a part of the agniṣṭoma ceremony. It is reckoned to the varcasya gaṇa (see note to Kāuṣ. 12. 10); and (always in company with iii. 16; vi. 69) is directed in Kāuṣ. 10. 24*; 12. 15; 13. 6 to be recited in various ceremonies. [See also notes to vss. 13, 18.] * [vi. 125. 2 and ix. 1. 1 and xix. 3. 1 have the same pratika (divasprthivyaś). SPP. understands the comm. at iii. 16 and at vi. 69 as intending ix. 1 by divasprthivyaś; but the comm. at xix. 3 understands xix. 3 as intended (cf. Whitney's introduction to xix. 3).—The "honeyed whip," mādhumatī kākā, of the Aṣvins is mentioned in the RV. (1. 22. 3; 157. 4). Oldenberg, Rel. des Veda, p. 209, thinks it refers to the morning dew. Cf. Macdonell, Ved. Mythol., p. 49, 54.]

1. Verily from sky, from earth, from atmosphere, from ocean, from fire, from wind was born the honey-whip; noting (cāy) it, [as] putting on immortality, all creatures (prajā) rejoice to meet it with their hearts.

The irregularities of meter in a and c may be rectified [very unsatisfactorily] by combining prthivyā 'nt- (as Ppp. actually reads) and resolving cāyitu-ā. Divas p- is prescribed by Prāt. ii. 68.

2. Great, all-formed [is] the milk of it; also they call thee the seed of ocean; whence the granting honey-whip cometh, thither breath, thither immortality (amṛta) hath entered in.

Ppp. puts payas in a after viśvarūpam [and combines payo 'syās] and puts tvā in b after uta; and it reads at the end diviṣṭam. It also gives the verse after our vs. 3. The metrical definition of the Anukr. is wrong, since a fair triṣṭubh is restorable by a little resolution (viśu-a, pr-ānas).

3. Men, manifoldly meditating (mīmāṃs-) severally see its movement (caritā) on the earth; verily from fire, from wind was born the honey-whip, the formidable daughter (napitī) of the Maruts.

Pāda c is identical with 1 b, pādas cḍ with 10 c, d. Ppp. reads at end of a prthi-vyāś; at end of d, ugrā anapitīḥ (also in vs. 10).

4. Mother of the Ādityas, daughter of the Vasus, breath of creatures (prajā); navel of immortality (amṛta), gold-colored, dripping with ghee (ghṛtācī), the honey-whip moves among mortals [as] a great brightness (bhārga).

Bp.p.m., Bp.²T. read gārbhas in d, and our edition follows them, doubtless erroneously. [All of SPP's authorities give bhārgas.] With a, b compare RV. viii. 101 (90). 15 a, b [and MB. ii. 8. 15 a, b]. The Anukr. does not heed the redundant syllable in c. [Correct gārbhaḥ to bhārgaḥ.]

5. The gods generated the whip of honey; of it there came to be an all-formed embryo; this, when born [and] tender, its mother fills; it, [when] born, looks abroad on all existences.

Ppp. has at the end bhuvanā 'bhi vaste.

6. Who knows (pra-vid) that, who understands (cit) that which [is] the unexhausted soma-holding vessel of the heart of it? The priest (brahmān) of excellent wisdom — he may revel in it.

'Of it' (b) is fem., and so relates to the 'honey-whip'; 'in it,' at the end, relates to the 'vessel.' Akṣitas (Ppp. akṣatas) at the end of b is plainly an intrusive addition to the pāda; the Anukr., wrongly reckoning the initial a of asyās as unelided, counts 15 syllables in the pāda, and calls both this and the next verse by the unusual and indefinite name mahābṛhatt.

7. He knows those two, he understands them that [are] its two unexhausted, thousand-streaming breasts; they milk out refreshment (ñrj), unresisting.

'Its,' i.e. of the 'honey-whip.' Ppp. reads again akṣatān in b, and it puts this verse before our vs. 6.

8. She that, crying much, great, vigor-bestowing, loud-noised, goes unto her course (? vratā), bellowing at three gharmās — she lows a lowing, she abounds (pī) with milk (pāyas).

'Crying loudly,' lit. 'making to excess the sound ling'; 'abounds with milk,' perhaps rather 'gives milk in streams.' The verse is very obscure; it is in part identical with 10.6 below (= RV. i. 164. 28). Its irregular meter (11 + 10 [11 ?] : 9 + 11 = 41 syllables) is very ill defined by the Anukr. [which seems to scan as 11 + 9 : 9 + 11].

9. Whom, when fattened, the waters wait upon, the mighty (ṣākvarā) bulls that are self-ruling, they rain, they cause to rain, for him who knows this, his desire, refreshment, waters.

'Whom' is fem.; 'they' (c) is masc., = the bulls. Parts of this verse and the following one are lost in Ppp. The Anukr. [seems to scan as 11 + 11 : 9 + 9].

10. Thunder [is] thy voice, O Prajāpati; a bull, thou castest (kṣip) vehemence (? ṣṣma) over the earth; verily from fire, from wind was born the honey-whip, the formidable daughter of the Maruts.

The latter half-verse we had above, as 3 c, d; the former half-verse is repeated below, as 20 a, b [with divt for ādhi at the end]. [Bloomfield thinks ṣṣma is 'lightning': ZDMG. xlviii. 566.] O. reads at the beginning stanayitnūṣ te. The metrical description of the Anukr. means only that the syllables are 40 in all (10 + 12 : 11 + 7), and that one pāda contains seven.

11. As at the early pressing soma is loved (priyā) of the Aṣvins, so, O Aṣvins, let splendor be maintained in my self.

12. As at the second pressing soma is loved of Indra-and-Agni, so, O Indra-and-Agni, let splendor be maintained in my self.

13. As at the third pressing soma is loved of the R̥ibhus, so, O R̥ibhus, let splendor be maintained in my self.

This group of three verses is specially quoted at Vāit. 21. 7 to accompany an offering of ājya. It is one of the passages forming the varcasya gaṇa (see note to Kāuṣ. 13. 1); and at Kāuṣ. 139. 15 it is prescribed to be used, with many others, in the ceremony of initiation of a Vedic student. The verses are not metrical, though the Anukr. calls them anuṣṭubh (as having 31 and 32 syllables). In 12 a the accent-mark under ye has dropped out.

14. May I generate honey; may I win honey; rich in milk, O Agni, have I come; unite me here with splendor.

The second part of the verse we have had above as vii. 89. 1 c, d. The edition reads, with all the mss., vañṣiṣṭya, but it should be emended to vañsiṣṭya (root van); cf. the similar misreading at xvi. 9. 4. Ppp. reads madhu janiṣṭ manu mambikṭyaḥ; and it combines agnā "gaman. By reckoning the first part of the passage as metrical (which it is not) the Anukr. counts out a good ṣurauṣṇih.

15. Unite me, O Agni, with splendor, with progeny, with life-time; may the gods know me as such; may Indra know, together with the seers.

We had the verse above, as vii. 89. 2.

16. As the honey-makers bring together honey upon honey, so, O Aṣvins, let splendor be maintained in my self.

Ppp. reads, for the second half-verse, evā me 'ṣvīnā balam ojaḥ ca dhriyatām: cf. our 17 c, d. The line is, like the corresponding parts of 11-13, not metrical as it stands.

17. As the flies (māksā) smear down here honey upon honey, so, O Aṣvins, let my splendor, brilliancy, strength, and force be maintained.

In a, delete the superfluous accent-mark under dhu. Ppp. has quite another version of a, b: yathā māksā mayuntuyujam dakṣiṇām adhi: and it omits balam ojaḥ in d. The omission of any one of the three nouns in our d would rectify the meter.

18. What honey on hills (giri), on mountains, what in kine, in horses, in strong drink (sūrā) as poured out, what honey [is] there, [be] that in me.

With this verse and the next are to be compared vi. 69. 1, 2 [where the use by Vāit. is given]. Ppp. has only yadi girisyavipān citviṣṭ in place of this verse, and puts it before our 16.

19. O ye Aṣvins, lords of beauty! anoint me with the honey of bees (sāraghā), that I may speak splendid words among the people.

This verse differs only by one word from vi. 69. 2.

20. Thunder [is] thy voice, O Prajāpati; a bull, thou castest vehemence on the earth, on the sky; upon that live all cattle; with this it lavishes (ṣṛ) food (iṣ) [and] refreshment.

The first half-verse is the same with 10 a, b, saving divt for ādhi at the end. 'That' in c is fem. (tām), and might refer either to 'voice' or to 'earth'; 'this' is masc. (or neut., tēna), and might refer either to 'vehemence' or to 'sky'; while 'it' is again fem. The obscurity of the verse baffles interpretation. The Pet. Lex. suggests 'seed' as a possible rendering of ṣṛṣma ('vehemence'). The metrical description of the Anukr. is, as usual in such an irregular case ($10 + 12 : 11 + 9 [11?] = 42$), quite worthless. Ppp. omits the first pāda, reads dīvas for divi at the end of the second, and goes on thus: madhoṣ kaṣaṣoṣ prthivīm anakṣi tām dātārām paṣava upa jīvanti : sarve tena vo ṣeṣam ūrjaṁ bibharti.

21. Earth [is] the staff, atmosphere the embryo, sky the whip, lightning the snapper (? prakaṣṭ), of gold the globule (bindū).

The Pet. Lex. conjectures "Peitschenriemen" for prakaṣṭ. Ppp. leaves the initial of antarikṣam unelided, and for prakaṣas has prakāṣā madhokaṣā ci ghṛtāci.

22. He who knows the seven honeys of the whip becomes rich in honey: the Brahman, and the king, and the milch-cow, and the draft-ox, and rice, and barley; honey the seventh.

One does not see why the Anukr. calls the passage brāhmī purauṣṇih [that is $\frac{9}{4}$ of $12 : 8 + 8 = 18 : 12 + 12 = 42$] rather than simply brāhmī nṣṇih [$\frac{9}{4}$ of $8 + 8 : 12 = 12 + 12 : 18 = 42$]; it is the only example, of either name in the treatise. [The not very sufficient reason for the preference would seem to be the position of the avasāna, which divides the "vs." as $18 : 24$ and not as $24 : 18$.] [Ppp. has in a madhukaṣāyās for kaṣ- and saṣṭa madhumatīm for madhumān bhavati; then follows madhumato lokān jayati (cf. vs. 23).]

23. Rich in honey he becomes; rich in honey becomes his provision (āhāryā); worlds rich in honey he conquers, who knows thus.

24. When it thunders in a clear sky, that is Prajāpati himself becoming manifest to his creatures; therefore I stand with the sacred cord over the right shoulder, saying: O Prajāpati, take notice (anu-budh) of me: creatures [take notice], Prajāpati takes notice of him who knows thus.

In order to make an aṣṭi (64 syll.) of this piece of prose, we have to restore anu and separate tī in ḍ, and to resolve anu enam in e; and to make six pādas the last line has to be violently divided; the pāda-text intimates a division after the second anu. [Ppp. in a-b has a tat also before prajāpatis and in e it reads prajā budhyante for prajāp- budhyate.]

[The hymn begins with dīvas and the quoted Anukr. says "divaṣ" ca catur-uttarāṇi (referring to a plus of 4 over the normal 20).]

2. To Kāma : for various blessings.

[Atharvan.—pañcaviṁśakam kāmadevatyam. trāiṣṭubham : 5. atijagati ; 7. jagati ; 8. 2-p. ārci pañkti ; 11, 20, 23. bhurij ; 12. anuṣṭubh ; 13. 2-p. ārcy anuṣṭubh ; 14, 15, 17, 18, 21, 22. jagati ; 16. 4-p. cakvaṛigarbhā parājagati.*]

[Partly prose—"vs." 13.] Found also (except vs. 4) in Pāipp. xvi. [with vs. 16 before 12 and vs. 24 before 20]. The hymn (vs. 1) is prescribed in Vāit. 24. 10 to be recited, with homage to Kāma, in a part of the Agniṣṭoma ceremony; and in Kāuṣ. 49. 1 it (vs. 1) accompanies the release of a bull in a witchcraft ceremony.

Translated: Muir, v. 404 (nearly all); Ludwig, p. 519; Scherman, Philosophische Hymnen, p. 76 (part); Henry, 84, 118; Griffith, i. 430; Bloomfield, 220, 591.—Cf. Hillebrandt, Veda-Chrestomathie, p. 40.

1. The rival-slaying bull Kāma do I desire to aid (?çikṣ) with ghee, with oblation, with sacrificial butter; do thou, praised with great heroism, make my rivals to fall downward.

Kāma, lit. 'desire, love,' is so thoroughly personified throughout the hymn that the word is better transferred than translated.

2. What of my mind or my sight is not agreeable (prīyā), what of me gnaws, does not enjoy (abhi-nand), that evil-dreaming do I fasten on my rival; praising Kāma, may I shoot up.

The sense of a, b is very doubtful; without b added, a would naturally mean 'what is not agreeable to my mind or sight'; the Pet. Lex. proposes to help the difficulty rather by emending b to yasmād bibhatse yac ca nā 'bhinande. This verse and the following one are included in the duḥsvapnanāṣana gaṇa: see note to Kāu. 46. 9. There is an irregularity in every pāda, but the Anukr. does not heed them. Ppp. has, for b, yan me hrdaye nā 'bhinandanti; and, for d, kāman juṣṭa hānudaṁ bhideyam — thus giving us no help. [Pischel treats the vs., Ved. Stud. ii. 61. Aufrecht, KZ. xxxiv. 459, sees here a root bhas 'verdiessen, taedere.']

3. Evil-dreaming, O Kāma, and difficulty, O Kāma, want of progeny, homelessness, ruin do thou, formidable, masterful, fasten on him who shall seek to devise (çikits-) distresses for us.

Ppp. combines yo 'smabhyam in d.

4. Thrust, O Kāma; thrust forth, O Kāma; let them who are my rivals go to ruin; of them, thrust to lowest darknesses, do thou, O Agni, burn out the abodes (vāstu).

The Anukr. takes no notice of the deficiency of two syllables in d, which in 9 d is made up by the addition of anu. In Vāit. 4. 5 the verse is strangely used to accompany the separation of two sacrificial ladles; in Kāu. 48. 5 it accompanies the driving away of something with a branch.

5. That daughter of thine, O Kāma, is called a milch-cow, what utterance (vāc) the poets name virāj; with that do thou avoid them that are my rivals; let breath, cattle, life avoid them.

Or a might be 'that milch-cow is called thy daughter.' O. reads pāry enān in d; but the passage is quoted under Prāt. iii. 80 as one in which the lingualization of n does not take place.

6. With the strength of Kāma, of Indra, of king Varuṇa, of Viṣṇu, with the impulse of Savitar ('the impeller'), with the priestship (hotrā) of Agni I thrust forth my rivals, as a skilful pole-man (?çambin) a boat on the waters (udakā).

Çambin occurs nowhere else, and the meaning of çamba is doubtful. Ppp. reads in c çicācān instead of sapatnān.

7. Let Kāma, my valiant (vājīn) formidable overseer, make for me freedom from rivals; let the all-gods be my refuge; let all the gods come to this call of mine.

'All' is viśve in c, and sárve in d. The verse is called jagatī by the Anukr., though only d is a jagatī pāda [and that only by count]. Ppp. combines at the end of d māi 'mam [and thus suggests the true metrical rendering of d as a trīṣṭubh: similarly at ix. 3. 15].

8. Enjoying this sacrificial butter rich in ghee, do ye, with Kāma as chief (-jyēṣṭha), revel here, making for me freedom from rivals.

Ppp. reads ghṛtam id in a, and kṛṇvantu in c. The verse is a perfectly good virāṇnāmagāyatrī, but the Anukr. calls it an ārcī pañkti, as if it had 30 syllables.

9. Becoming, O Kāma, in alliance (sarātham) with Indra-and-Āgni, may ye make my rivals to fall downward; of them, fallen to lowest darknesses, do thou, O Agni, burn along out the abodes.

With c, d compare 4 c, d above. The first half-verse presents various anomalies: sarātham demands an instrumental case; we should expect rather a plural verb (but compare vi. 104. 3 a, b); and it should be accented after hi. Emending indrāgnī to indreṇa, and reading pādāyāthas, would make everything right.

10. Slay thou, O Kāma, those that are my rivals; make them fall down to blind darknesses; be they all senseless (-nirindriya), sapless; let them not live any day soever.

Ppp. combines sapatnā 'ndhā in a-b, combines and reads nirindriyā 'ravāḥ in c, and has for d yathā nu jīvāt kalamac [-maç?] cane 'śān.

11. Kāma hath slain (vadh) them that are my rivals; he hath made for me wide space, prosperity; let the four directions bow to me; let the six wide ones [fem.] bring ghee to me.

The third pāda was found above as v. 3. 1 c. It is unusual for the Anukr. to note as bhurij a trīṣṭubh containing a jagatī-pāda. [Cf. Bergaigne, Rel. Véd. ii. 122.]

12. Let them float away downward, like a boat severed from its mooring; of them, thrust forth by missiles, there is no return again.

The verse is nearly identical with iii. 6. 7 above. [Ppp. reads in c sāyakaṣ pra-]

13. Agni [is] a repeller (-yáva), Indra a repeller, Soma a repeller; let the repelling (-yavayāvan) gods repel (yu) him.

[Prose.] This translation is altogether questionable. Perhaps the verse accompanies a ceremony in which barley (yáva) is used, a play on words being intended between yáva 'barley' and the root yu 'repel'; yavayāvan would then be 'going in barley.' Ppp. has for second half yavayanty amum āmuyāyanam amuyās putrañ jīvalokaṁ nītalokaṁ katū 'mum. It is strange that the Anukr. does not note the paragraph as dvyavasānā.

14. With his heroes not safe [-saravavīra] let him go on, thrust forth, to be hated of friends, to be avoided of his own kin; on earth also stay (ava-sā) thunderbolts; may the formidable god massacre your rivals.

The sense of c is obscure; vidyūtas might also be object of the verb: 'they let loose thunderbolts.' Ppp. puts dvesyas after mitrāṇām in b. The Anukr. calls the verse a jagati, although it is a triṣṭubh with one jagati-pāda (like 11). [W. usually renders sārvavīra by 'with all [his, our, etc.] heroes.']

15. This great [earth], both stirred and unstirred, bears the lightning and all the thunders; let the Āditya, arising with property, with brilliancy, thrust downward my rivals, he the powerful one.

The first half-verse is wholly obscure, and the version given commits the grammatical solecism of taking vidyūt as neut. accus. But for the last ca, vidyut might be taken as subject of the sentence. The verse has a triṣṭubh-pāda (a), of which the Anukr. makes no account.

16. What sufficient (udbhū) triply-guarding defense thou hast, O Kāma, worship (brāhman) as extended protection (vārman), made unpierceable, with that do thou avoid them that are my rivals; let breath, cattle, life avoid them.

The last half-verse is [nearly] identical with 5 c, d above, and O. again reads epān in d. Ppp. puts the verse next before our 12. The description of the meter by the Anukr. is unintelligible, since we have (12 + 14 : 12 + 14) 52 syllables, or an atijagati; perhaps parājagati is a misreading for this.

17. Wherewith the gods thrust forth the Asuras, wherewith Indra conducted the barbarians (dāsya) to lowest darkness, therewith do thou, O Kāma, thrust forth far from this world those who are my rivals.

Ppp. reads at end of b tamo 'pabādhe, and at end of d sarvām for dūram. The verse (11 + 13 : 11 + 11 = 46) is a queer sort of "jagati."

18. As the gods thrust forth the Asuras, as Indra drove (bādḥ) the barbarians to lowest darkness, so do thou, O Kāma, thrust forth far from this world those who are my rivals.

Ppp. has again tamo 'pabādhe, but this time dūram. The "jagati" meter is like that of vs. 17.

19. Kāma was first born; not the gods, the Fathers, nor mortals attained (āp) him; to them art thou superior (jyāyāns), always great; to thee as such, O Kāma, do I pay homage.

Ppp. reads in a, b prathamō nā 'nyat puro nāi 'nañ devāsas pitaro no 'ta martyāḥ; and it combines in d namāi 't. The verse (9 [10?] + 10 : 12 + 11 = 42) is a queer "triṣṭubh."

20. How great in width are heaven-and-earth; how far the waters flowed, how far fire—to them art thou etc. etc.

With a is identical iv. 6.2 a. Some samhitā-mss. read sisyadīr in b (O.s.m.R.). [I find no note of R.] The meter is described by the Anukr. in accordance with that of vs. 11.

21. How great are the divergent (viśvañc) quarters [and] directions; how great the regions (ācā), on-lookers of the sky—to them art thou etc. etc.

The verse lacks two syllables of being a real jagati.

22. How many the humble-bees (bhīṅga), the bats, the kurūrus; how many have been the vāghās, the tree-creepers—to them art thou etc. etc.

The verse is a jagati in number of syllables (12 + 13 : 12 + 11 = 48). Bp. accents javāḥ in a.

23. Superior art thou to him that winks, that stands; superior to the ocean art thou, O Kāma, fury—to them art thou etc. etc.

24. Verily no wind soever attains (āp) Kāma, not fire, sun, also not moon; to them art thou etc. etc.

Ppp. puts this verse before our 20, and reads for c, d na vāpaṣ cana kāmam āpur nā 'horātrāṇi nihatāni yañtī na vāi puṇyajāḥ [intending puṇyajanāḥ?] cana kāmam āpur na gandharvāpsaraso na sarpāḥ. The Anukr. accounts the verse simply a triṣṭubh [perhaps counting b as 10 and balancing it with the 12 of c].

25. What propitious excellent bodies thou hast, O Kāma, with which what thou chooseth becometh real, with them do thou enter wholly into us; make evil devices (dhī) enter away elsewhere.

The combination tābhiṣ tvām is an example under Prāt. ii. 84, and is quoted in the commentary there. Ppp. reads vṛṇte at end of b, upa- for abhi- in c, and upa for apa in d. The Anukr. pays no heed to the extra syllable in d. The verse is quoted in Kāuc. 24. 29 in the āgrahāyaṇi ceremony, to accompany the act of lying down (apparently merely on account of the occurrence of -saṁ-viṣ in c).

3. To accompany the releasing of a house.

Translated: Ludwig, p. 464; Zimmer, p. 151 (vss. 1-24); Grill, 60, 188 (vss. 1-24); Henry, 87, 121; Griffith, i. 434; Bloomfield, 193, 595.—Cf. also Oldenberg, IFA. vi. 179.

1. Of the props (upamīt), of the supports (pratimīt), and also of the connectors (? parimīt) of the dwelling (ṣālā) that possesses all choice things, we unfasten the tied (naddhā) [parts].

Ppp. reads upamitaṣ pratimito 'tho parimitaṣ ca yaḥ ṣālāyā viṣṇavārāyā te naddhān vi cītāmasi.

2. What of thee is tied, O thou that possessest all choice things, what fetter and knot is made, that with a spell (vāc) I make fall apart, as Brihaspati [did] Bala.

All the mss. read balām (not valām) in c, as also Ppp. (bṛhaspatiḥ vahanī balam). Our Bp. has in d srañçayāmi : tvāt. The Anukr. seems to imply the abbreviation of iva to 'va in c.

3. He stretched (āyam), he combined (sam-bṛh), he made thy knots firm (dṛḍhā); with Indra we unfasten [them], as a knowing slaughterer the joints.

4. Of thy beams (vañçā), ties (nāhana), and binding (prāṇāhā) grass, of thy sides (pakṣā), O thou that possessest all choice things, we unfasten the tied [parts].

Vañçā is properly a bamboo beam. Prāṇāhā (unchanged in pada-text) seems to occur only here, nor is root nah elsewhere combined with pra; I have ventured to render it as an adj., as tṛṇa appears to call for a descriptive epithet. Ppp. reads naddhān vi in d.

5. Of the clamps (saṁdançā), of the paladdās, and of the embracer (paṛiṣvañjalya) — now of the mistress of the building do we unfasten the tied [parts].

Ppp. reads, in a, b, palidānāḥ paṛiṣvañcanadasya ca; and, for c, sarvā mānasya patni te; it also puts the verse before our 4.

6. What hanging vessels (çikyā) they bound on to thee within for enjoyment, those we unfasten for thee; be thou, [when] set up, O mistress of the building, propitious to our self (tanū).

Çikyā may be an ornamental hanging appendage of some kind.* All the mss. read mānasya patni in d; our edition emends to mān. The pada-text has uddhiā, undivided, in e (as at xviii. 2. 34, and uddhiā at viii. 8. 22); the case ought to fall under Prāt. iv. 62, but root dhā is not mentioned there, though we find han superfluously included. Ppp. reads yāni te antaḥ çikyāny āmedho 'ntyāya kam; and, for d, sarvā mānasya patnyā.

*[As to decorations of this kind, see John Griffiths, The Paintings in the Buddhist Cave-Temples of Ajantā, London, 1896, plates 6, 10, and 13; cf. also Karpūra-mañjarī, iii. 27, ed. Konow, and my note thereon at p. 289. W. has interlined "slings" as an alternative rendering of çikyā.]

7. Oblation-holder (havirdhāna), fire-place (agniçāla), wives' site [and] seat; seat of the gods art thou, O heavenly dwelling.

The paraṣṇih is regular, save for the common variant of a triṣṭubh instead of a jagatī-pāda at the end.

8. The thousand-eyed net (ākṣu), stretched out as opaçā on the division-line (viṣūvant), tied down, put on, do we with worship (brāhmaṇ) unfasten.

Abhihiā in c doubtless contains the suggestion of abhidhānī 'a halter.' Geldner (Ved. Stud. i. 136) wants to make of ākṣu a 'stake' or 'pillar.' Viṣūvant probably means the 'parting of the hair, crown' (so Zimmer), here the ridge of the roof. Ppp. begins with yakṣmopiçam, and has in c the easier reading apinaddham apihitam.

9. He who, O dwelling, accepts thee, and he by whom thou art built — let both those, O mistress of the building, live to attain old age.

The mānasya of the mss. in c is again emended in our edition to mān-. Ppp. rectifies the meter of a by reading yaç citrā (ca tvā?) pr-. The Anukr. pays no heed to the irregularity of the verse (9 + 8 : 8 + 7).

10. Do thou, made firm, tied, adorned (pari-kr), go to him yonder — thou whose every limb, whose every joint we unfasten.

O. reads in a amūtrāi 'nam. Pārīṣkṛtā is unaltered in the pada-text, as prescribed by Prāt. iv. 58. Enam probably indicates the "acceptor" (9 a, 15). Ppp. reads in b tridhā for dr̥dhā, and begins c with tasyās. [As to amūtra, cf. Oldenberg, IFA. vi. 179.]

11. He who fixed (ni-mi) thee, O dwelling, [who] brought together the forest trees — unto progeny, O dwelling, he, [as a] most exalted Prajāpati, made thee.

Ppp. reads pūrvas for çāle in a.

12. Homage to him, homage to the giver, and to the lord of the dwelling we pay; homage to the forth-moving (pra-car) fire, and to thy spirit (? pūruṣa) [be] homage.

Ppp. reads in b kṛṇmasi.

13. Homage to kine, to horses, whatever is born (vi-jā) in the dwelling; thou rich in births (vijā-), rich in progeny, we unfasten thy fetters.

Ppp. lacks, probably by an oversight, the second half-verse.

14. Thou coverest within the fire, the men together with the cattle (paçū); thou rich in births, rich in progeny, we unfasten thy fetters.

15. Between both heaven and earth what expanse [there is], therewith do I accept this dwelling of thine; the atmosphere that pervades (vimāna) space (rājas), that do I make a paunch (udāra) for treasures; therewith I accept the house for this man.

This verse in Kāuṣ. 66. 28 accompanies the "acceptance" of the house in question. The Anukr. calls it an atiçakvart, though it contains only 57 syllables (12 + 12 : 11 + 11 : 11) instead of 60. Ppp. reads at end of b tāi 'māni (an abbreviation which is here acceptable, as making a good triṣṭubh-pāda [such was the case at ix. 2. 7 also]), and in e yac chālāni for tena ç-.

16. Rich in refreshment, rich in milk, fixed (ni-mi), built upon the earth, bearing all food, O dwelling, do not thou injure those accepting [thee].

17. Wrapped (ā-vr) with grass, clothing itself in paladās, the dwelling, place of rest (nivēçanti) of living creatures, like the night — built on the earth thou standest, like a she-elephant, having feet.

That is, apparently, heavy and big on the four corner posts, like an elephant (female because 'dwelling' is feminine) on its feet. With b compare xii. 1. 6 b. The verse as a prastārapañkti (11 + 12 : 8 + 8) has no irregularity which the Anukr. is wont to heed.

18. Of thy rush-work (ṭṭa) I unfasten what was tied on, uncovering; [thee] pressed together by Varuṇa let Mitra in the morning open out.

The verse in Kāuṣ. 66. 24 accompanies the letting down (ava-sr) of the door. [Bergaigne has a note on the vs., Rel. Véd. iii. 122.]

19. The dwelling fixed with worship (bráhman), fixed, built by the poets — let Indra-and-Agni, immortal, defend the dwelling, the seat for soma (somyá).

P. reads nṛmitām in b, and sāumyām in d. Ppp. has a quite different version: catuṣṣraktiṁ paṇicakrāṁ for a; viṣvāna bibhrati ṣālam (cf. our 16 c) amṛto sāumyāni sadah for c, d.

20. A nest (kuḍāya) upon a nest, a vessel (kóṣa) pressed together in a vessel — there a mortal is born (vi-jā), from whom all is generated (pra-jā).

Ppp. has martyas in c.

21. [The dwelling] which is fixed with two sides, with four sides, which with six sides — the eight-sided, the ten-sided dwelling, the mistress of the building, Agni lies in like an embryo.

The pada-text reads aṣṭā-pakṣām in c, by Prāt. iii. 2; iv. 94. [As to pakṣa, cf. iii. 7. 3.] The verse is a good pañkti, involving only the resolution mānasi-a in d, but the Anukr. absurdly treats it as of four pādas; and, in accordance with this, the pada-mss. mark a pāda division after ṣālam.

22. I go forward, O dwelling, turned toward thee, uninjuring, that art turned toward me; for within [are] fire and waters, the first door of right (ṛtā).

Ppp. reads at the end prathamabhā. The mss. all have ca rtāsyā in c-d. The verse is quoted in Kāuṣ. 66. 25, accompanying the action of 'going forward with (ādāya) water-pot [and] fire.'

23. I bring forward these waters, free from yakṣma, dispellers of yakṣma; I set forth unto the houses, together with immortal fire.

We had this verse above, as iii. 12. 9. Ppp. (which omitted it as part of that hymn) reads in a harāmi, and in c abhi (for upa).

24. Fasten thou not on us the fetter; a heavy burden, become thou light; like a woman (vadhū), O dwelling, we carry thee where we will.

Quoted in Kāuṣ. 66. 30. [Cf. again Oldenberg, IFA. vi. 179. — Over "woman" W. interlines "bride?"]

25. From the eastern quarter, homage to the greatness of the dwelling! hail to the gods that are to be hailed!

[Ppp. puts svāhā devēbhyaḥ svāhyebhyaḥ before pracyāḥ: and has a similar order in the following vss.]

26. From the southern quarter, homage etc. etc.
27. From the western quarter, homage etc. etc.
28. From the northern quarter, homage etc. etc.
29. From the firm quarter, homage etc. etc.
30. From the upward quarter, homage etc. etc.
31. From every quarter, homage etc. etc.

In the last verse diçôdîçah should have been printed without space before the repetition, as is our usage elsewhere.

4. Accompanying the gift of a bull.

[Brahman.—caturviṅśakam. āṛṣabham. trāiṣṭubham: 8. bhurij; 6, 10, 24. jagatī; 11-17, 19, 20, 23. amuṣṭubh; 18. upariṣṭād brhati; 21. āstārapañkti.]

Found also in Pāipp. xvi. (in the verse-order 1-3, 5, 4, 6, 8, 7, 9, 10-13, 15, 14, 16-22, 24, 23). Not noticed in Vāit., and not in Kāuç. in a way to cast any light whatever upon it; the hymn is quoted in Kāuç. 24. 19 (with vi. 111) in the ceremony of turning a bull loose, and vs. 24 separately in the same ceremony in Kāuç. 24. 21; also vs. 1 in 66. 18 in connection with a bull; the hymn is reckoned (see note to Kāuç. 19. 1) among the puṣṭika mantras.

Translated: Henry, 90, 128; Griffith, i. 438. — For some of the vss. the reader may consult Hillebrandt, Ved. Myth. i. 330, 516, 382, 358, 525.

1. The bright bull of a thousand, rich in milk, bearing all forms in his bellies, desiring to accomplish (? çikṣ) what is excellent for his giver, the sacrificer — he, the ruddy one of Brihaspati, hath stretched [ā-tan] the line (tāntu).

That is, doubtless, 'has extended or performed the sacrifice.'

2. He who in the beginning became the counterpart (pratimā) of the waters, prevailing (prabhū) for everything, like the divine earth, father of young (vatsā), lord of the inviolable [kine] — let him set (kṛ) us in thousandfold prosperity.

3. A male (pīlmāns), [yet] pregnant, big (sthāvira), rich in milk, the bull bears a trunk (kābandha) of good (vāsu); him, sacrificed to Indra, let Agni Jātavedas carry by the roads traveled by the gods.

W. reads in b vāsoṣ kā-.

4. Father of calves, lord of the inviolable [kine], also father of great gulfs (gārgara); calf, afterbirth, fresh milk, béestings, curd, ghee — that [is] his seed.

The verse occurs also in TS. (iii. 3. 9^a), MS. (ii. 5. 10), and K. (xiii. 9). In b, MS. reads utā 'yām for ātho; for ā, TS. has āmikṣā māstu ghṛtām asya rētaḥ, and MS. the same, save yōniḥ for rētaḥ.

5. The gods' portion [was] that load, the sap of waters, of plants, of ghee; the mighty one (çakrá) chose a drink of soma; a great stone became what [was his] body.

This verse also is found in TS. and MS. (as above), in both texts preceding our vs. 4 (in MS. one other verse intervenes, our xviii. 4. 28). Both have, for a, devānām eśā upanāhā āsit; for b, TS. has apām gārbha śadhiṣu nyāktāḥ, and MS. apām pātir vṛçabhā śadhinām; in c, both have drapsām for bhaksām and pūṣā for çakráḥ; in d, after abhavat, MS. has yāt tād āsit, and TS. tād eśām.

6. Thou bearest a vessel filled with soma, shaper (tvāṣṭṛ) of forms, generator of cattle; propitious to thee be these pudenda (prajāntī) that are here; to us, O ax, confirm those that are yonder.

Ppp. reads at the beginning somasya; its second half-verse is unintelligible. The verse is with no propriety called a jagati (11 + 11 : 13 + 12 = 47).

7. Sacrificial butter he bears; ghee [is] his seed; thousandfold prosperity — that they call the sacrifice; the bull, clothing himself in Indra's form — let him, O gods, come propitious to us, being given.

Ppp. reads in b saahasraṇṇas, and in d smā and çivāi "tu.

8. Indra's force, Varuṇa's two arms, the Aṣvins' two shoulders, of the Maruts this hump; they who are wise, poets, who are skilful (manīṣṭin), call him Brihaspati brought together.

The verse has two jagati-pādas, though called by the Anukr. simply bhurij. Read at the end of b kakūt.

9. Rich in milk, thou stretchest unto the people (vīç) of the gods; thee they call Indra, thee Sarasvant; he gives a thousand [kine] with one face who makes offering (ā-hu) of a bull to a Brahman.

[Cf. Oldenberg, IFA. vi. 183.]

10. Brihaspati, Savitar bestowed on thee vigor (vāyas); from Tvashtar, from Vāyu was brought forth thy soul (ātmān); with mind in the atmosphere I make offering (hu) of thee; let heaven-and-earth both be thy barhīs.

Ppp. reads manas for vayas in a. The Anukr. calls the verse jagati, though two of its pādas are triṣṭubh.

11. He who goes speaking out greatly among the kine, like Indra among the gods — of that bull let the worshiper (brahmān) praise together the members excellently.

All our mss. (save O.) read, like the edition, tāsya ṛṣa- in c, although the passage is quoted as example under the Prāt. rule (iii. 46) that a or ā + r make ar. Ppp. reads in a āindri 'va. The paddhati (note to Kāuṣ. 24. 19) has the verse whispered in the right ear of the released bull.

12. His sides were Anumati's; his flanks (?anūvṛjī) were Bhaga's; of his knees (aṣṭhīvānt) Mitra said: those are wholly mine.

All the nouns are duals. The Anukr. takes no notice of the redundant syllable in c. [Henry would emend thus: -vāntābrav-, i.e. -vāntā abrav-.] Ppp. reads at the beginning pārṣvay āstām.

13. His rump was the Ādityas'; his two thighs were Brihaspati's; his tail [was] the heavenly wind's; therewith he shakes the herbs.

Ppp. reads in b ṣronṭy āstām.

14. His intestines (gūdā) were Sinivāl's; they called his skin Sūryā's; they called his feet (pl.) the upstander's (utthātī), when they prepared (kalpay-) the bull.

The pada-text reads, like the saṃhitā, utthātīh, by Prāt. iv. 62. Ppp. combines gūdā "sani"; it also makes ōur 14 c, d and 15 c, d exchange places. [Ppp. puts yat before ṣṣabham, and for akalpayan it has vika . . . (gap).]

15. His breast (krodā) was Jāmiṇsa's; his vessel [was] maintained as Soma's, when all the gods, coming together, distributed (vi-kalpay-) the bull.

We had jāmiṇsa above (ii. 10. 1) as 'imprecation of sisters'; the word does not occur elsewhere. What part of the bull is his 'vessel' is obscure. The first pāda has a redundant syllable.

16. Those dew-claws (kūṣṭhikā) [were] Saramā's; they assigned the hoofs to the tortoises (kūrmā); the content of his bowels they maintained for the worms, the ṣavartās.

The mss. are divided between ṣavarta (P.s.m.I.O.R.p.m.T.D.Kp.) and ṣavavarta (Bp.E.R.s.m.); while M. and P.p.m. have ṣvaṣavarta, and W. ṣaṣavarta. The occurrence of ṣavartā in TS. (v. 7. 23': also in connection with śubadhya) determined the reading of our text. But our pada-text divides the word (Bp. ṣvaṣavartā; D.Kp. ṣavv-), which favors the reading ṣva, since it implies a combination of the two recognizably independent words ṣvan and varta, 'occurring in dogs,' or something of the sort. Ppp. apparently has ṣivaratrebhyo. [Roth suggests that ṣavarta may be for ṣavavarta 'Aaswurm, Made.']

17. With his horns he pushes the demon; with his eye he slays ruin; with his ears he hears what is excellent—he who is the inviolable lord of kine.

Ppp. reads in a, b rakṣa riṣad rāti. The Prāt. (ii. 70) notes that the reading in d is not yās pāt. Some of the mss. (Bp.I.K.) accent aḡhnyās.

18. With a hundred-fold sacrifice he sacrifices; the fires burn him not; all the gods quicken him, who makes offering of a bull to a Brahman.

The last pāda is the same with 9 d. Ppp. has sarve instead of viṣve in c.

19. Having given a bull to Brahmins, one makes his mind wider; he beholds (ava-paṣ) prosperity of the inviolable [kine] in his own stall.

Ppp. reads in a brāhmaṇyā vṛṣabhaṁ, and in ḍ vi paçyatu. In a, we have to combine (as not very rarely elsewhere) -bhya rṣ-.

20. Let there be kine, let there be progeny, also let there be own strength; let the gods approve all that for the giver of a bull.

Ppp. puts lat after sarvam in c.

21. Let this burly (pīpāna) one, a very Indra, bestow conspicuous wealth; let this one [bestow] a well-milking cow, constantly with calf; let him yield (duh) inspired will beyond the sky.

Ppp. has very different readings, which in part are less unacceptable than those of our text: for a, b, ayanḥ pīpānā indriyaṁ gayāṁ bibharti tejanī; in d, vīpaçyatanḥ puro divaḥ. [For pīpāna, cf. Bloomfield, AJP. xii. 443.]

22. Of reddish form, clouded (? nabhasā), vigor-giving, vehemence of Indra, half-formed, he hath come to us, assigning to us life-time and progeny; and with abundances of wealth let him attach himself to (abhi-sac) us.

The last half-verse agrees nearly with xviii. 4. 62 c, d, where īdadhataḥ and sacadhvam make better meter. It is not impossible to resolve asmābhi-am in c, but sacantām, which some of the mss. read (P.p.m.W.D.), is forbidden by the sense. Ppp. has a wholly different line: prajāṁ asmābhyāṁ dadhato rayiṁ ca dīrghāyutvāya çataçāra-dāya. [Bloomfield translates the verse at ZDMG. xlvi. 566, but overlooks the accent of nabhasā: cf. tāmasā and tamasā (samhitā-form at xi. 9. 22).]

23. Here in this stall, O closeness (upapārcana), be thou close unto us; unto [us] what seed the bull has; unto [us], O Indra, thy heroism.

This is a variant of RV. vi. 28. 8 (with which TB. ii. 8. 8¹² and LÇS. iii. 3. 4 precisely agree); RV. has, for a, b, īpe 'dām upapārcanam āsū gōṣṭh 'pa prçyatām, with rétasi for yād rétas in c, and vīryē at the end: a very different sense; the Pet. Lexx. understand upa-prc as signifying here sexual union. We have to combine irregularly gōṣṭho 'pa in order to rectify the meter of b; the Anukr. does not heed the irregularity.

24. This young male we set toward you here; with him go ye (fem.) playing according to your wills; abandon us not with birth, ye well-portioned ones; and with abundances of wealth attach yourselves to us.

The last pāda is the same with xviii. 4. 62 d. The verse is found, in much more acceptable form, in TS. (iii. 3. 9¹, followed, after one intervening verse, by our vss. 5, 4 above) and PGS. (iii. 9. 6, disagreeing with TS. in only one word); they read, for a, etāṁ yīvāṇāṁ pāri (but PGS. patīm) vo dadāmi (omitting atra); in b, priyēna for vācāṇ ānu; in c, çāpta for hāsiṣṭa; and, for d, rāyās pōçena sām iṣā madema (nearly our iii. 15. 8 c). Ppp. agrees with our text, only combining dadhmo 'tra in a. But for the accent of januṣā (in TS. also), we might render, with Stenzler, 'ye who are by birth well-portioned.' Bp.R.p.m. have at end of c subhagās. The Anukr. weakly calls the verse (12 + 12 : 11 + 11) a jagatī, in spite of the triṣṭubh cadence of its first pāda. It is quoted in Kāuç. 24. 21, to accompany the sending away of an older bull and the release of a new one. [See also note to Kāuç. 25. 24.]

5. With the offering of a goat and five rice-dishes.

Translated: Muir, v. 304-6 (parts); Ludwig, p. 435; Henry, 93, 133; Griffith, i. 442.

1. Conduct him hither; take hold; let him go, foreknowing, unto the world of the well-doing; crossing the great darknesses variously, let the goat step unto the third firmament (nāka).

Ppp. has, in c, viṣaṇyaṃ for mahānti: cf. our 3 c. The first six verses of the hymn are quoted in their order in Kāuṣ. 64. 6-16 (vs. 1 also in 64. 27) in connection with the bringing in, slaughtering, and cooking of a goat; vss. 1 and 2 also in Vāit. 10. 14, 15, in connection with the sacrifice of an animal. This verse is called by the Anukr. simply a trīṣṭubh, although its first half is very irregular (8 + 13).

2. I lead thee about as portion for Indra, as patron (sūri) for the sacrificer at this sacrifice; whoever hate us, them take hold after; innocent (ānāgas) [are] the sacrificer's heroes.

The verse in Ppp. (as noted above) follows what corresponds to our vs. 24, and has, for a, b, ind. bh. ṣaṃitā kṛṇotvaṃ yajña yajñapatiḥ ca sūriḥ; and, for d, ariṣṭā vīrā yajamānāḥ ca sarve.

3. Away from his foot wash thou down the evil walk that he walked (car); with cleansed hoofs let him step on, foreknowing; crossing the darknesses, variously looking abroad let the goat step unto the third firmament.

Or pāds in a may be accus. pl.; the redundancy of the pāda, in sense and meter, is an indication of intrusion; but the mode of its reduction to proper shape is not obvious, and Ppp. gives no help. Ppp. has, instead of our c, d, te jyotiṣmantāṃ sukr̥tāl lokam tpsan tṛtīye nāke adhi vikramasva.

4. Cut along this skin with the dark [metal], O slaughterer, joint by joint with the knife (aś); do not plot against [him]; do not be hostile to [him]; prepare him joint-wise; set him up apart in the third firmament.

Ppp. has, for d, sukṛtām madhye adhi vi ṣṛaye 'mam. The Anukr. weakly calls the verse a jagatī, although it is a trīṣṭubh with three redundant syllables (doubtless ṣyāmēna or viṣastar) in a. The pāda-text divides paruoṣaḥ, by Prāt. iv. 19.

5. With a verse I set the kettle upon the fire; pour thou on the water; set him down; set [him] about with fire, ye quellers; when cooked, let him go where is the world of the well-doing.

Ppp. has instead, for a, bhūmyān bhūmim adhi dhārayāmi; and, in b, abhi for ava. The successive parts of the verse are quoted in Kāuṣ. 64. 11-15, to accompany corresponding acts. The Anukr. does not heed the redundant syllable in d.

6. Step up from here, if thou hast been completely heated, from the heated pot on to the third firmament; thou, a fire, hast come into being out of fire; conquer [thy way] unto that world of light.

The translation of a implies the emendation to ātaphthās, which seems very probable; nearly all the mss. read ataptās (only E. āta, P.M. ataptas), which the edition has altered to ataptas. Of the reading in Ppp. I have no note; Ppp. reads for d jyotiṣmo acha sukr̥tān yatra lokāḥ; our d is found (nearly) as its 8 d.

7. The goat [is] Agni, and they call the goat light; they say that the goat is to be given by one living to a priest (brahmān); the goat, given in this world by one having faith, smites far away the darknesses.

For the first two words Ppp. reads ajam evā 'gnim; in b, it puts jīvatā after brahmaṇe. The redundant syllable in b is not noticed by the Anukr. [See note under 8.]

8. Having five rice-dishes, let him step out five-fold, about to step unto the three lights; go thou forth to the midst of the well-doing that have made offerings; spread out (vi-ṣri) upon the third firmament.

The last pāda is the same with xviii. 4. 3 e; Ppp. has instead jyotiṣmantam abhi lokān jayā 'smāi, with which compare our 6 d. The Anukr. passes in silence the irregularities of the second pāda. [Cf. Oldenberg, ZDMG. l. 449.]

9. Ascend, O goat, to where is the world of the well-doing; like an expelled ṣarabhd mayest thou move (eṣ) across difficult places; given, with five rice-dishes, to a priest (brahmān), he shall rejoice the giver with rejoicing.

Ppp. reads kramasva instead of roha in a, and reads ṣalabhas 'locust,' which is more sensible, in b; our d is its 10 d, with dhātāram instead of dā-. The Anukr. treats the second pāda as regular, and it can, indeed, be read by violence into 11 syllables.

10. The goat sets him that has given it on the three-firmamented, three-heavened, three-backed back of the firmament; being given with five rice-dishes to a priest, thou art a single milch-cow, all-formed, wish-yielding.

Ppp. reads in b suṣr̥tān loke for nākasya pr̥ṣṭhe; and our d is its 9 d, with the intrusive dhenus left out. The verse, in spite of its irregularity, is by the Anukr. reckoned simply a jagati (11 + 12: 11 + 12 [13?]).

11. This third light of yours, O Fathers, the goat with five rice-dishes one gives to a priest; the goat, given in this world by one having faith, smites far away the darknesses.

The second half-verse is identical with 7 c, d above. Ppp. has, for d, pañcodano brahmaṇe diyamānaḥ (our g c, 10 c).

12. Desiring to obtain the world of the well-doing that have made offerings, one gives to a priest a goat with five rice-dishes; do thou conquer complete attainment (vyāpti) unto that world; be he, accepted, propitious to us.

Ppp. begins pra jyotiṣmantāṁ suktāṁ lok-; and reads c, d thus: sa vyāpo neṇṣ abhi lokāṁ jayā 'sme çivo 'smabhyāṁ pratigrhyate 'dhi.

13. The goat verily was born from the heat of the fire, wise, of the wise (vīpra), of power, he the inspired one; what is offered, is bestowed, is conferred (abhipūrta), accompanied with vdṣaṭ — that let the gods prepare in due season (ṛtuṣās).

The first pāda is identical with iv. 14. 1 a. Ludwig (also p. 370) proposes to emend in c to gūrtam abhigūrtam. Part of the mss. blunderingly accent ṛtuṣās in d. Ppp. has in b vayodhā instead of vīpaçcit, and in c puts pūrtam before iṣṭam. The last two pādas are irregular, but the Anukr. takes no notice of it. [Pāda c is a good jagati; and d, a good triṣṭubh, if we read devāsas, or (with Henry) tād id.]

14. A home-woven garment he may give, also gold as sacrificial gift; so he fully obtains the worlds that are heavenly and that are earthly.

15. Unto thee, O goat, let these streams of soma (somyā) go, divine, ghee-backed, honey-dripping; establish thou earth and sky, upon the seven-rayed back of the firmament.

The mss. in general (not P.M.) accent dja in a. They are rather evenly divided between dāhi and 'dhi in d (W.I.O.R.T.K. have 'dhi). Compare with a, b the refrain to iv. 34. 5-7. Ppp. reads for a: eṭās tvā dadhārā 'cchamayanti viçvatās somyāṁ; [somyāṁ would seem to be the beginning of Ppp's b;] in c, d, for uta . . . prṣṭhe, it gives divaṁ sadasva nāke tiṣṭhāsy. Pādas b, c are metrically irregular, but the Anukr. does not heed it.

16. A goat art thou; O goat, heaven-going (svar-gā) art thou; by thee the Aṅgirasas foreknew [their] world; that pure (pūnya) world would I fain foreknow.

[Prose.] The translation of a is according to the accent of the vocative dja; there may be a play on words between ajā 'goat' and ajā 'unborn': 'unborn art thou, O goat' (emending to aja). Ppp. reads for c taṁ lokam anu pra jñeṣma. [This vs. and the next are in its iii.] The definition of the meter by the Anukr. seems senseless (7[8?] + 11:8 = 26). The third pāda is VS. xx. 25 c.

17. Wherewith thou carriest a thousand; wherewith, O Agni, [the offering of] one's whole possession — therewith carry thou this our offering to go to heaven (svār) among the gods.

The verse is found also in VS. (xv. 55), TS. (iv. 7. 134; v. 7. 73), MS. (ii. 12. 4), and K. (xl. 12 [but Schroeder under the MS. passage refers to K. xviii. 18]). VS. and MS. put sahāśram after vāhasi in a, and VS. reads [yéna in a, and] naya for vaha in c;

TS. has in iv. for ḍ devayāno yā uttamāḥ (in v. it agrees throughout with our text). Ppp. begins with yena vā sah-. Vāit. quotes the verse in 29. 9, 23. [MS. has yēna.]

18. The cooked goat, having five rice-dishes, driving off perdition, sets [one] in the heavenly (svargā) world; with it may we conquer worlds that possess suns.

As noted above, the verse is wanting in Ppp.

19. [The goat] which one deposited with the Brahman, and which among the people (vikṣāt); what scattered drops (viprūṣ) [there are] of the rice-dishes, of the goat — all that of ours, O Agni, do thou later know in the world of the well-done, at the meeting of the ways.

20. The goat verily strode out here (idām) in the beginning; this [earth] became its breast, the sky its back, the atmosphere its middle, the quarters its (two) sides, the (two) oceans its paunches;

21. Both truth and right its eyes, all truth [and] faith its breath, the virḍj its head; this verily is an unlimited offering, namely (yātī) the goat with five rice-dishes.

The second satyam in vs. 21 is doubtless a corrupt reading, and the Ppp. version indicates that we should have instead rūpām ('the universe its form,' instead of 'all truth'). Ppp. reads, for the two verses: ajāṣ pañcāudano vy akramata tasyo 'ra iyam abhavad udaram antarikṣam: āyāuṣ te prṣṭhaṁ diṣaṣ pārṣve: diṣaṣ cā 'tidiṣaṣ ca ṣṛṅge satyam ca ṛtanā ca cakṣuṣṭ viṣvarūpam ṣṛaddhā etc. All the samhitā-mss. read ca ṛtanā (instead of ca ṛtānā) near the beginning of vs. 21. The text of the Anukr. is apparently defective, leaving out the metrical definition of vss. 20-22 and vs. 25.

22. An unlimited offering does he obtain, an unlimited world does he take possession of (ava-rudh), who gives a goat with five rice-dishes, with the light of sacrificial gifts.

Wanting in Ppp., as noted above.

23. He should not split its bones; he should not suck out its marrow; taking it all together, he should cause it to enter here and here.

Or, 'should cause this and this to enter'; the sense is obscure. Ppp. reads in c sarvāṇi for sarvam enam. By calling the verse a puraṣṇiḥ, the Anukr. intends that its first two pādas be read as one, of 12 syllables. The Kāuṣ. quotes (66. 31, 32; next after quotations of verses from hymn 3) both halves of the verse, the latter to accompany the act of piercing an object and scattering it into a pit filled with water.

24. This and this verily becomes its form; therewith one makes it come together; food, greatness, refreshment it yields (duh) to him who gives a goat with five rice-dishes, with the light of sacrificial gifts.

Ppp. reads for the second half-verse svadhām ūrjam akṣatīm mahō 'smāi duhe: ya evam viduṣo 'jam pañcāudanam dadāti; and, as above noted, our vs. 2 then follows. The metrical description of the Anukr. (closely accordant with that of vs. 26, though the real construction of the verses is very different) implies the artificial division of the refrain (as in vs. 28 and other verses below) into two pādas, of 7 and 9 syllables, and counts 46 syllables in all; the natural number is 45 ($12 + 8 : 10 + 15 = 45$).

25. Five gold ornaments (rukṃā), five new garments, five milch-cows milking his desire come to be his who gives a goat with etc. etc.

This verse, of which at least the first pāda is metrical ($11 + 13 : 15 = 39$) is left undescribed in the Anukr. It (or vs. 26, both having the same pratīka) is quoted in Kāuṣ. 64. 25. [More nearly, 'Five milch-cows become wish-milking for him who,' that is, 'yield or grant to him his wishes who' etc.]

26. Five gold ornaments become light for him; his garments become a defense for his body, he attains the heavenly (svargā) world, who gives a goat with etc. etc.

Here are plainly four pādas, of which the first three are metrical, with the refrain-added ($11 + 11 : 8 + 15$); the definition of the Anukr. seems to imply $11 + 10 : 8 + 7 + 9 = 45$ syllables, or a bhurik triṣṭubh.

27. Whoever (fem.) having gained a former husband, then gains another later one—if (ca) they (dual) shall give a goat with five rice-dishes, they shall not be separated.

The mss., as usual in such cases, read vitvā in a; and all but Bp. strangely accent anyām in b. Ppp. reads pacatas for dadātas in d. [This vs. and the next are in Ppp's viii.]

28. Her later husband comes to have the same world with his remarried spouse who (masc.) gives a goat with five rice-dishes, with the light of sacrificial gifts.

The Anukr. treats the prose refrain of vss. 22, 24–26 as a half anuṣṭubh in the second line of this verse. Ppp. reads instead ajam ca pañcāndanam dadat.

29. A milch-cow having one calf after another, a draft-ox, a pillow, a garment, gold, having given, those go to the highest heaven (dīvy).

The Anukr. takes no notice of the redundant syllable in b. [Perhaps it balances the redundancy of b with the deficiency of c.]

30. Self, father, son, grandson, grandfather, wife, generatrix, mother, those who are dear—they I call upon.

Nor does the Anukr. heed the deficient syllables in b of this verse. [We might render jānitṛīm mātāram by 'the mother that bore [me].']

31. Whoever knows the season "torrid" (nāldāgha) by name—that verily is the season "torrid" by name, namely (yāt) the goat with five rice-dishes; he indeed burns out the fortune of his unfriendly foe (bhrātṛiṇya), he thrives (bhū) by himself, who gives a goat with five rice-dishes, with the light of sacrificial gifts.

In this and the following verses the mss. read nāma rtīm etc. throughout. The natural division is into four pādas instead of seven, and [the paragraph, read as prose, has only 61 syllables instead of 64 (= aṣṭi); but the three missing syllables can easily be made out by resolutions. One would expect nī dahati, to correspond with nāīdāgha. Read in b yād ajāh (an accent-sign slipped out of place).

32. Whoever knows the season "making" by name, each making fortune of his unfriendly foe he takes to himself; that verily is the season "making" by name, namely the goat with five rice-dishes; he indeed etc. etc.

33. Whoever knows the season "gathering" by name, each gathering fortune of his unfriendly foe he takes to himself; that verily is the season "gathering" by name, namely the goat etc. etc.

34. Whoever knows the season "fattening" by name, each fattening fortune of his unfriendly foe he takes to himself; that verily is the season "fattening" by name, namely the goat etc. etc.

35. Whoever knows the season "up-going" by name, each up-going fortune of his unfriendly foe he takes to himself; that verily is the season "up-going" by name, namely the goat etc. etc.

These four verses agree in number of syllables, and the name given them by the Anukr. (prakṛti) demands 84; this number it is possible to make out by resolutions of samdhī, though the natural reading gives only 80 (10 + 20 : 15 : 20 + 15 = 80). Sam-yatīmosam-yatīm in vs. 33 b is quoted by the commentary under Prāt. iv. 44, as an example of a repeated separable word which gives up in pada-text its individual separation in favor of that between the repetitions. Read in 32 c yād ajāh (an accent-sign gone), and supply an omitted mark of punctuation after datte in 33.

36. Whoever knows the season "overcoming" (abhibhū) by name, each overcoming fortune of his unfriendly foe he takes to himself; that verily is the season "overcoming" by name, namely the goat etc. etc.

This verse has six more syllables than the preceding ones, and the Anukr. gives it a name (ākṛti) applying properly to 88 syllables. In c read eṣā for eṣā.

37. Cook ye the goat and the five rice-dishes; let all the quarters, like-minded, united (sadhryāṇc), with the intermediate directions, accept that of thee.

All the mss. (except D.) read at the end tā (pada-text tē) before etām; our edition emends to ta; the word could better be spared altogether. Ppp. has (in iii.) only the first pāda. The Anukr. describes the verse as if this pāda as well as the other two were metrical.

38. Let them defend this of thine for thee; to them I offer (hu) sacrificial butter, this oblation.

'Them' is fem., designating the 'quarters' of vs. 37. The translation omits a te; it may be regarded as an ethical dative, anticipating the distincter tūbhyam 'for thee' that follows. [This hymn begins with ā naya; and, with its 38 vss., exceeds the norm by 18. The quoted Anukr. says aṣṭādaśā "naya."]]

[The twentieth prapāṭhaka ends here. As in the cases of the tenth and eighteenth (ending at v. 7 and viii. 5), the prapāṭhaka-division here fails to coincide with the anuvāka-division.]]

6. Exalting the entertainment of guests.

This whole prose hymn is found in Pāipp. xvi., except a few verses, as noted below. It is not quoted by either Kāuṣ. or Vāit. In the Prāt., on the other hand, it has more than its fair share of notice. [With regard to the paryāya-hymns in general, see pp. 471-2.]

Translated: Henry, 98, 137; Griffith, i. 448.

[Paryāya I. — saptadaśarcaḥ. 1. 3-p. gāyatrī; 2. 3-p. āṛṣī gāyatrī; 3, 7. sāmṇī triṣṭubh; 4, 9. ārcy anuṣṭubh; 5. āsurī gāyatrī; 6. 3-p. sāmṇī jagatī; 8. yājñī triṣṭubh; 10. sāmṇī bhurig bṛhatī; 11, 14-16. sāmny anuṣṭubh; 12. virāḍ gāyatrī; 13. sāmṇī nīcṛt pañkti; 17. 3-p. virāḍ bhurig gāyatrī.]

1. Whoever may know the obvious (pratyākṣa) brāhman, whose joints are the preparations (sambhārā), whose spine the verses (ṛc);

Ppp. reads, instead of our a, as follows: yo vā ekaṁ brahmā 'nuṣṭhā vidyāt sadya mahadvate, making an anuṣṭubh of the verse. The Anukr. is corrupt at this point, one ms. appearing to call the verse nāgī nāma tripād gāyatrī; one sees no reason why.

2. Whose hairs the chants (sāman), [whose] heart the sacrificial formula (yajus) is called, [whose] litter (paristāraṇa) the oblation.

Ppp. reads chandāṁsi for sāmāni in a, and puts c before b. The unlingualized st of paristāraṇam is noted under Prāt. ii. 105. The 'obvious brāhman,' or 'brāhman in visible presence,' thus wondrously made up, is doubtless the guest, all attentions to whom the hymn proceeds to glorify by identifying them with sacred acts.

3. When in truth the lord of guests meets with his eyes the guests, he looks at a sacrificing to the gods.

Ppp. reads at the beginning yad atithipatiḥ pṛesyate. The verse has one syllable too many for a regular sāmṇī triṣṭubh; but the system of nomenclature affords no [simple] name for one of 23 syllables.

4. When he greets them, he enters upon consecration; when he offers (yāc) water, he brings forward the [sacrificial] waters.

Prāṇayati is quoted as an example under Prāt. iii. 79. We have to read yācati apāḥ to make out the defined meter.

5. Just what waters are brought in at the sacrifice, those are the very ones.

Pranīyante also is quoted under Prāt. iii. 79.

6. When they fetch a gratification (tārpaṇa) — that is just the same as an animal for Agni-and-Soma that is bound [for sacrifice].

Ppp. adds after this verse yat khātam āharanti puroḍācā eva te.

7. In that they prepare lodgings, they so prepare the seat (sādas) and oblation-holders (hāvirdhāna).

8. In that they strew [a couch], that is a barhis.

Ppp. omits the second clause of vs. 7, and reads pari- for upa- in 8; it omits 9 here: see under 10, below.

9. In that they fetch a coverlet (? upariçayanā), thereby one gains possession of the heavenly (svargā) world.

Upariçayanā, lit. 'above-lying,' occurs only here; [but cf. upariçaya, OB. iv. 296 c.]. The minor Pet. Lex. renders it 'an elevated couch.' The verse lacks a syllable.

10. In that they fetch mattress and pillow, those are the enclosures (paridhī).

That is, the sticks laid about the altar-fire to shut it in. In this verse, the extra syllable is noted by the Anukr. Ppp. reads -barhaṇāni and paridhe 'va te; and it adds its version of 9: yat parṣeṇam (pariçayanam?) āharanti svar- etc.

11. In that they fetch ointment and unguent, that is sacrificial butter.

The pada-reading āñjanaśabhyāñjanā is quoted under Prāt. iv. 42, as example of words that lose their own individual division in favor of separation from each other. Ppp. omits āñjana. The Anukr. reads 16 syllables, which may be obtained in more than one way (most probably -ranti āj-).

12. In that they fetch a morsel (khādā) before the serving-up (pari-veśā), that is the two sacrificial cakes.

Khādā is perhaps a special bit or bite, anticipatory of the proper meal. The verse is wanting in Ppp.

13. In that they call the food-maker (açanakṛt), they so call the maker of oblations.

Some of the mss. read haviṣkṛtam.

14. The grains of rice, of barley, that are scattered out — those are soma-shoots (añçū).

The Anukr. requires -yante añç- to be read, although the passage is quoted under Prāt. i. 69 as an example of the elision of initial a with the transfer of its nasalization to the eliding e. Ppp. reads at the end añçava eva te 'nāpyante.

15. The mortar and pestles — those are the pressing-stones.

The Anukr. expects us to read yāni ul-. Ppp. omits yāni and reads -musalam, which is easier; it also omits eva te at the end.

16. The sieve [çūrpa] is the soma-strainer (pavitra); the chaff is the pomace (çjīṣā); the waters are those of pressing.

That is, [the waters are] those used in facilitating the pressing of the Soma. [Is not çūrpa rather 'winnowing-basket'?] The 'pomace' is the refuse stalks from which the soma has been pressed. [All of SPP's and of W's pada-mss. seem to agree in reading çjīṣā as fem.] Ppp. reads rajīṣaḥ. It omits abhiṣavanti āpaḥ here: but see vs. 17.

17. The spoon is the sacrificial spoon, the stirring-stick the spit (? nékṣaṇa), the kettles the wooden vessels, the drinking-vessels those of Vāyu, this [earth] itself the black antelope's skin.

Ppp. reads -kalaṣaṣ kumbhīm eva kṛṣṇājīnaṁ vāyavyānī pātrāṇi; and it also has abhiṣavapitr āpaḥ in this verse, after āvavanam, instead of in vs. 16. The Anukr. defines the verse as if it were metrical, and intends us to read it as 10 + 16 + 8 = 34 syllables.

18. The lord of guests verily makes for himself a sacrificer's brāhmaṇa in that he looks at the [portions] to be partaken of, saying "is this larger, or this?"

Several of the mss. (O.R.D.) accent at the end bhūyās (D. bhūyāḥ 3), which is the far preferable reading; bhūyās (read by I.) could be borne, since in RV. and AV. the usage does not seem yet established that the protracted final syllable is acute, in addition to whatever accent the word may have on other syllables [Skt. Gram. § 78]; but bhūyās, as our edition reads, in accordance with nearly all the mss. compared up to the time of its publication, is nothing but a blunder. The protracted words are quoted in Prāt. i. 105. The verse counts naturally 18 + 8 + 8 = 34 syllables (the second and third pādas being really metrical). [Scan rather 10 + 8 + 8 + 8 with the Anukr.] Ppp. reads kṛṇute and avekṣata.

19. In that he says "take up the larger one," he thereby makes his breath longer (vārṣīyāṁs).

Ppp. has a quite different text: yad āha bhūyo 'ddhara te prajāṁ cāi 'va paṣāṇiḥ ca vardhayate ... (?) prajāṁ kṛṇute: yat sampr̥cchati kāmam eva tenā 'va rundhe: kāmō ha pr̥ṣṭō yājāti: yad udakam upasiṁcaty āpa eva tenā 'va rundhe. [Then follows 20.]

20. [In that] he presents [it], he brings libations near.

21. Of them, brought near, the guest makes libations in himself; —

22. With his hand as sacrificial spoon, at his breath as stake, with the sound of swallowing as utterance of vāṣaṭ.

'The sound of swallowing,' lit. the sound sruk. Ppp. reads in 21 ātmani j- for ātmanī j- and has in 22 ṣṭkārēṇa vaṣaṭkārēṇa sruṇā hastena.

23. These same guests, both loved (prīyā) and unloved, [as] priests (ṛtvij), make [one] go to the heavenly world.

This verse is wanting here in Ppp.; but it is inserted below, just before our vs. 49 [and without variant except cārtviṣas, which may be a slip of Roth's pen for cartviṣas].

24. He who, knowing thus, shall partake, not hating, he shall not partake the food of one hating, not of one that is doubted, nor of one doubting (?).

We must emend at the end either to nīmāṁsamānasya or to mīmāṁsyaṁmānasya; the translation assumes the former. Bp. reads vidyāt for vidvān, and it would be a welcome improvement; the same reads the first time aṇṭyāt, which seems necessary if vidvān and not vidyāt is read, and which is implied in the translation. Ppp. has instead tasmān na dviṣann adyān na dviṣato 'nnam adyān na mīm-. The two mss. of the Anukr. describe the verse differently but equivalently, both requiring 34 syllables (which implies restoration of 'nnam to ānnam).

25. Verily every such one has his sin devoured, whose food they partake of.

26. Verily every such one has his sin undevooured whose food they partake not of.

'Devoured,' doubtless 'destroyed, removed' by the eating of the guests. Ppp. reads for vs. 26 sarvā upaṣo jagdhapāpmānān yasyā 'nnam aṇṇāti. One of the Anukr. mss. (but doubtless by a misreading [?]) calls 25 as well as 26 a sāmy anuṣṭubh [16 syllables]. [Vss. 25 and 26 have each 15 (āsuri gāyatrī).] Read in 25 jagdha- (an accent-sign slipped out).

27. Verily he who presents [the food] hath always his pressing-stones harnessed, his cleanser wet, his sacrifice extended, his ceremony of offering assumed.

Ppp. reads sutasomas instead of yuktagrāvā, and puts vitatādḥvaras as last of the four epithets; it also sets the whole paragraph after our 28.

28. To Prajāpati, verily, is his offering extended who presents.

29. He who presents verily strides Prajāpati's strides after [him].

This verse is wanting in Ppp.

30. [The fire] that is the guests', that is the fire of libations (āhavanīya); the one in the dwelling (veṣman), that is the householder's fire (gārha-patya); the one in which they cook, that is the southern fire (dakṣiṇāgni).

Ppp. reads sā 'havanīyo yo 'nnakaraṇasya [intending -karaṇas sa?] dakṣiṇāgnir yo veṣ- sa gār-. The metrical definition of the Anukr. requires us to restore at the beginning yō ātith-.

31. Verily both what is sacrificed and what is bestowed of the houses doth he partake of who partakes before a guest.

That is, doubtless, 'doth he eat up, devour, destroy.' Ppp. omits grhāṇām, and puts next vss. 34 and 33, omitting 35 and 39 [and 32 and 36 also]. The Anukr. describes the paragraphs as if they were metrical, and defines them as if the text read pūrvo ātith-.

32. Verily both the milk and the sap of the houses doth he etc. etc.

33. Verily both the refreshment and the fatness of the houses doth he etc. etc.

Ppp. reads payas instead of sphātim.

34. Verily both the progeny and the cattle of the houses doth he etc. etc.

35. Verily both the fame and the glory of the houses doth he etc. etc.

36. Verily both the fortune (ṣrī) and the alliance (?saṁvid) of the houses doth he etc. etc.

The Pet. Lexx. interpret saṁvid as 'possessions.'

37. He verily is a guest, namely (yāt) one versed in sacred learning (ṣrōtriya); before him one should not partake.

The meaning intended ought to be that a guest is the equivalent of such a sage; but the literal sense is as translated. The verse lacks one syllable (unless we read nā aṇiyāt) of being full measure.

38. When the guest hath partaken he should partake, in order to the soulfulness of the sacrifice, in order to the integrity of the sacrifice; that is the [proper] course.

The verse is an uṣṇīh only as containing (if we resolve aṣitāvatī āt-) 28 syllables (11 + 14 + 3). The pada-text reads aṣitdevatī. Ppp. has aṣitāvaty aṇiyāt tad vratam yajñasyā vichedāya yajñasya guptaye yajñasya sātmatvāya. [Cf. Oldenberg, IFA. vi. 184: also Skt. Gram. § 960.]

39. That verily is specially 'sweet' which comes from the cow (adhi-gavā), either milk (kṣīrā) or flesh; that he should not partake of.

That is, doubtless, he should leave it for his guest. The verse is wanting in Ppp. The so-called gāyatrī is to be thus divided: 7 + 11 + 6 = 24.

[Paryāya IV. — daṣakāḥ. a of 40-43. prājāpatyā nuṣṭubh; a of 44. bhurij; b of 40-43. 3-p. gāyatrī; b of 44. 4-p. prastārapañkti.]

40. He who, thus knowing, pouring out milk, presents [it] — as much as, having sacrificed with a very successful agniṣṭomā, one gets possession of, of so much thereby does he get possession.

The mss. are divided between reckoning ten verses (with the Anukr. [cf. the quotations etc. at the end of the hymn]) in this section, or only five, with two parts to each; the latter method was adopted in our edition as the better. The second part in the first five verses, though doubtless meant only as prose, divides into three subdivisions of eight syllables each, like a real gāyatrī. Ppp. begins all the verses with yāt, instead of sa ya evam vidvān, and reads in 40 b yā. ag. sapṛṣṭhene 'ṣṭvā 'varundhe.

41. He who, thus knowing, pouring out butter (sarṣṭis), presents [it] — as much as, having sacrificed with a very successful atirātrā, one gets etc. etc.

Ppp. reads in b āhvena samṛddhena for atirātreṇa.

42. He who, thus knowing, pouring out honey, offers [it] — as much as, having sacrificed with a very successful session-sitting, one gets etc. etc.

Ppp. reads in b rātreṇa samṛddhena. The Anukr. expects, of course, the resolution mādhu up-.

43. He who, thus knowing, pouring out meat, presents [it] — as much as, having sacrificed with a very successful twelve-day sacrifice, one gets etc. etc.

44. He who, thus knowing, pouring out water, presents [it] — he arrives at (gam) firm standing in order to the generating of progeny; he becomes loved of progeny — he who, thus knowing, pouring out water, presents [it].

The second part of the verse, though not metrical, [seems to be scanned as 11 + 11 + 8 + 8 by the Anukr. (which, with the mss., reckons pratiṣṭhām to the second pāda !)]. Ppp. reads in b gachati sarvam āyur eti: na punar ā jarasaḥ pra miyate ya etc.

[Paryāya V. — daṣaḥaḥ. 45 a. sāmny uṣṇih; 45 b. purausṇih; 45 c, 48 c. sāmnī bhurig brhati; 46 a, 47 a, 48 b. sāmny anuṣṭubh; 46 b. 3-p. nicṛd viṣamā nāma gāyatrī; 47 b. 3-p. virāḍ viṣamā nāma gāyatrī; 48 a. 3-p. virāḍ anuṣṭubh.]

45. For him the dawn utters hing; Savitar preludes (pra-stu); Brihaspati with refreshment (ūrjāyā) sings the udgīthā; Tvashṭar with prosperity responds (prati-hṛ); all the gods [are] the conclusion (nidhāna): the conclusion of thrift, of progeny, of cattle becometh he who knoweth thus.

Here and in the following verses [cf. PB. iv. 9. 9] are had in view the five successive parts or divisions of a sāman, of which the udgītha is the central and principal: cf. Chānd. Upan. ii. 2 ff. In this section also the majority of the mss. divide and number in accordance with our edition; the rest, with the Anukr., number the subdivisions successively. Our edition assumes the subdivision nidhānam bhūtyāḥ to be repeated at the end of each of the four paragraphs; the Anukr. [counting 10 (not 12) avasānarcas: cf. p. 546 below] is against this; as for the mss., their testimony is nothing, since they all, in any case, write such an addition only the first time and the last, omitting all intermediate occurrences; it is altogether probable that the edition is right. The artificial description by the Anukr. of b as an uṣṇih, implies resolving ūrjāyā ūd, and either pūṣṭi-ā or viṣu-e. Ppp. adds vāi after tasmāi, and bhūtyā after savitā, and reads urjā for ūrjayā.

46. For him the rising sun utters hing; cow-gathering time (sam-gavā) preludes; noon sings the udgīthā; afternoon responds; the setting, [sun is] the conclusion: the conclusion of etc. etc.

Ppp. combines madhyandīno 'd. The [nicṛt] "dissimilar gāyatrī," b, divides as 8 + 9 + 6 = 23.

47. For him the cloud, forming (bhū), utters hing; thundering, it preludes; lightening, it responds; raining, it sings the udgīthā; holding up, it is the conclusion: the conclusion of etc. etc.

Ppp. reads vidyotamānaḥ pra stūti stanayann ud gāyati aparāhṇa prati harati astamyaṁ nidhanam. The "dissimilar gāyatrī," b, is this time 10 + 6 + 6 = 22. Bp. Bp. p.m.D. read vārṣam, and several of the samhitā-mss. vārṣamn instead of -sann. Cf. Chānd. Upan. ii. 3.

48. [When] he meets the guests with his eyes, he utters ling; [when] he greets [them], he preludes; [when] he offers water, he sings the udgīthā; [when] he presents [food], he responds; the remnant (ūchiṣṭa) [of the food] is the conclusion: the conclusion of etc. etc.

Ppp. seems again to mix in matter from vs. 46, reading yācaty udakavaty aparāhṇa * prati harati. [See also note to vs. 23.] The first subdivision makes the 30 syllables required by the Anukr. if we give syllabic value (-tī) to the thrice-occurring verb-ending -ty; and similarly we get 16 for b. * [The phonetic resemblance of udakavati to ud gāyati (cf. note to ii. 13. 3) and of aparāhṇa to uṣa harati is obviously the occasion for the confusion.]

49. When (yātī) he calls the distributor, then he is just summoning (ā-ṣṛāvay-).

That is, he is virtually an adhvaryu summoning the agnidh to do his duty. The verse is made an āsuri gāyatrī by resolving -ty twice. Ppp. inserts before this verse our vs. 23 above; and it omits eva tat.

50. When [the distributor] assents, then he is just answering the summons.

That is, as an agnidh. Again, to justify the definition of the Anukr., we must read prati-ā-ṣṛāvayati evā. [A hyphen is missing after the pra of pratyāṣr-.] Ppp. again omits eva tat at the end.

51. When the servers, with drinking-vessels in their hands, both the former and the latter, go forward, they are just cup-bearing priests.

Bp. gives the false accentuation camasa-ādh- (instead of -śā-ādh-). Ppp. reads yat pariveṣṭārā vasatām prabhibhyante cam-*. To make 30 syllables, we must resolve ca dpare (or else camasā-ādh-).

52. Of them, none soever is not an invoker (dhotr).

Ppp. reads vāi instead of na; and then it adds as follows: yat prātār upaharati prātassavanam eva tat: yad yavo paharati mādhyandinam eva tat savanam: yat sāyam upaharati tṛtīyam eva tad yad atithipatir avabhṛtam eva tat prābhvayanti*; and it omits our vs. 53; [R. does not expressly note such omission].

53. Verily when the lord of guests goes up unto the houses serving the guests, then he is even going down unto the purificatory bath (avabhṛtha).

[Ppp. omits eva tat.]

54. When he apportions [them], he is apportioning sacrificial fees; when he follows [them], then he is even shifting the place of sacrifice (ud-ava-sā).

* [Ppp. omits eva tat.] [Cf. Oldenberg, IFA. vi. 183.]

55. He [the guest?], being invited (ūpahūta), feeds (bhaksay-) on the earth; in him [locative], invited [nominative], [he [the host?] feeds on] what of every form [there is] on the earth.

[Whitney's first "on" is intended as a rendering of the locative relation of "earth"; his second "on" goes with "feeds." He has tried to indicate this by putting the first after the parenthesis and the second within the brackets. The inherent ambiguity of the English combination is such that I do not know how to remove it for the non-Sanskritist save by an express statement.]

The sense of this and the following verses is very obscure; it is here translated as if the guest were the subject of the first bhaksayati, and the entertainer (in recompense for the entertainment given) of the second [bhaksayati (supplied)]. Ppp. adds prthivyām tat prthivīyām ā bhāti svargo loko bhavati ya evaṁ veda. Only vs. 56 has the full number of syllables (27) belonging to an ārcī brhatti; 55, 58, 59 have only 26 syllables (a number for which the system affords no separate name), and 57 has only 24.

56. He, being invited, feeds in the atmosphere; in him, invited, [he feeds on] what of every form [there is] in the atmosphere.

Ppp. adds antarikṣe patanty antarikṣā "bhāti [svargo etc.].

57. He, being invited, feeds in the sky (dīvi); in him, invited, [he feeds on] what of every form [there is] in the sky.

Ppp. adds dīvi tapati divy ā bhāti [svargo etc.].

58. He, being invited, feeds among the gods; in him, invited, [he feeds on] what of every form [there is] among the gods.

Ppp. adds deveṣu patati [intending tapati?] deveṣu bhāti [svargo etc.].

59. He, being invited, feeds in the worlds; in him, invited, [he feeds on] what of every form [there is] in the worlds.

Ppp. adds lokeṣu patati lokeṣu bhāti [svargo loko bhavati ya evaṁ veda].

60. He, whoever invited, —

61. Obtains this world, obtains yon [world].

The translation implies emendation in 60 to ūpahūta-ūpahūtaḥ (as repeated word); it seems impossible to give the verse a meaning as it stands. Vss. 60–62 are wanting in Ppp. The metrical definition of 61 demands the resolution -ti amūm.

62. Worlds rich in light conquereth he who knoweth thus.

[The quotations from the Old Anukr. for the six parvāyas may here be given together: I. yo vidyāyām daça sapta ca pūrvāḥ syāt; II. dvitīyāḥ syāt trayodaça; III. tṛtīyo navako dṛṣṭaḥ; IV. and V. tasmād dvāu daçakāu parāu; VI. ṣaṣṭhaṁ tu caturdaçakam ānuḥ. — Cf. SPP's "Critical Notice," vol. i., p. 20, where they are printed in metrical form.]

[The summations of gaṇas and (gaṇa-) avāsānarcas may be given as follows: I. av., 17; II. av., 13; III. av., 9; IV. g., 5; av., 10*; V. [g., 4]; av. 10†; VI. av. 14. — Total of av., 73.] * [Cf. note to vs. 40.] † [Cf. note to vs. 45.]

[Here ends the third anuvāka, with 2 hymns and 100 verses: that is 1 artha-sūkta of 38 verses and 1 parvāya-sūkta with 6 parvāyas and 62 verses.]

7. Extolling the ox.

[Prose.] Found for the most part (for details, see under the verses) in Pāipp. xvi. also. Not noticed in Vāit, but quoted (vs. 1) in Kāuṣ. 66. 19, next after hymn 4 of this book. [For the paryāya-hymns in general, see pages 471-2.]

[Paryāya I.—ṣaḍvīṃṣaḥ. 1. ācī bṛhatī; 2. ārcy usṇih; 3, 5. ārcy anuṣṭubh; 4, 14, 15, 16. sāmnī bṛhatī; 6, 8. āsurī gāyatrī; 7. 3-p. pīṣīlikumadhyā nicṛd gāyatrī; 9, 13. sāmnī gāyatrī; 10. purauṣṇih; 11, 12, 17, 25. sāmnī usṇih; 18, 22. 1-p. āsurī jagatī; 19. 1-p. āsurī pañkti; 20. yājuṣī jagatī; 21. āsurī anuṣṭubh; 23. 1-p. āsurī bṛhatī; 24. sāmnī bhurīg bṛhatī; 26. sāmnī triṣṭubh. (ikā 'nukṭapādā' [7, 18, 19, 22, 23] dvīpādāh.)] [See p. 1045.]

1. Prajāpati and the most exalted one are his two horns, Indra his head, Agni his forehead, Yama his neck-joint.

The copula and the possessive, wherever read, are supplied in the translation. Ppp. omits yamaḥ bṛkāṣam. The verse has only 26 syllables (instead of 27).

2. King Soma his brain, the sky his upper jaw, the earth his lower jaw.

Ppp. inserts, after mastiṣkas, sūtyaṃ cakṣur ṛtaṃ crotre prāṇāpānāu nāmivate, and reads adharaḥ for -rahanuḥ, adding after it agnir āsyaṃ. We are required to resolve ṛthivī adh-.

Vāha is properly the "carrying" part, that on which the yoke rests. The Revatī and Kṛttikās, two asterisms, in Pisces and Taurus respectively; their connection with the parts to which they are assigned is, as in nearly all the other cases in this hymn, of the most purely imaginary and meaningless kind. Ppp. has only as far as dantās, following it with pavamānaḥ prāṇaḥ. Read in our text grīvāḥ (visarga-sign omitted). The pāda-text has kṛttikāḥ, and some of the mss., as usual, retain the ḥ before the following sk. The verse has but 23 syllables (unless we analyze jihu-ā).

4. Vāyu his all (viśvān), the heavenly world his kṛṣṇadrā, the whirlwind (? niveśyā) his separator (? vidhāraṇī).

The words here in part (and in the last clause the distinction of subject and predicate) are wholly obscure. The pāda-text divides kṛṣṇadrām ('black-runner'?). Many of the mss. (E.O.D.R.T.K.) accent niveśyāḥ. Ppp. reads viśvān vāyuḥ kaṇṭhas svargo lokaḥ kṛṣṇadrā vyadrinī vīvaṇvāḥ; and then it adds the omitted part of our vs. 3 except vahaḥ at the end.

5. The falcon his breast (kroḍā), the atmosphere his belly (? pājasyā), Brihaspati his hump, the bṛhatīs his vertebrae.

The sense of bṛhatī here is doubtful. Ppp. reads pājasyaṃ and inserts our vs. 7 after it [continuing with bṛhasp-]. The required number of 24 syllables is made out by reading kroḍā ant- and pājast-am.

6. The spouses of the gods his side-bones (pṛṣṭī), the attendants (upasād) his ribs (pārṣu).

The distinction between pṛṣṭī and pārṣu is not clear.

7. Both Mitra and Varuṇa his (two) shoulders (dāsa), both Tvashtar and Aryaman his (two) shanks (doṣṇu), the great god his fore-legs.

By Ppp. the verse is inserted in our vs. 5, as there noted. The verse has 23 syllables, but is not 'ant-waisted,' as it divides 8 + 9 + 6.

8. Indrāṇī his buttock, Vāyu his tail (pūcha), the purifying [soma] his whisk (vālās).

Some of the mss. (Bp.² s.m.E.I.O.D.R.T.Kp.) read bālāḥ, which is preferable, since all the other passages have it. Ppp. omits, making our vs. 9 follow our 6.

9. Both the Brahman-caste (brāhmaṇa) and the Kshatriya-caste (kṣatṛa) his (two) hips, force his (two) thighs.

10. Both Dhātār and Savitar his (two) knee-joints (aṣṭhīvṛṇt), the Gaṇḍharvas his calves (jāṅghā), the Apsarases his dew-claws (kūṣṭhikā), Aditi his hoofs.

Ppp. combines gaṇḍharvā 'ps-. The so-called purausṇik divides 10 + 12 + 5 = 27 syllables.

11. Thought (cētas) his heart, wisdom his liver, ceremony (vratā) his puritāt.

The pada-text divides puritāt, but one can only wonder why. After madhā, Ppp. inserts harimā cittam.

12. Hunger his paunch, cheer (irā) his rectum (?vaniṣṭhū), the mountains his plācis.

Ppp. reads at the end pṛāṇa, for plāṇayaḥ, and adds next vss. 16, 17.

13. Anger his kidneys, fury his testicles, progeny his virile member.

The verse follows our vs. 17 in Ppp.

14. The stream (nadī) his birth-giver (?sūtṛī), the lords of rain his teats, thunder his udder.

Ppp. prefixes samudro vastir, and puts varṣasya patayas stanās after ūdhas, then adding 15 without interpunction.

15. The all-expansive his hide, the herbs his hairs, the asterisms his form.

Ppp. reads carma oṣadhayo romāṇi, and follows with our vs. 18.

16. The god-folks his intestines, human beings his entrails, eaters (?atṛā) his belly (udāra).

Ppp. reads manuṣyā "ntrāṇy ātrā ud, putting the verse after our 12. In order to make out 18 syllables, we have to resort to st-ā āntrāṇi at.

17. The demons his blood, the other-folks the contents of his bowels.
Ppp. inverts the order of the two clauses, and reads āvadhyaṃ.

18. The cloud his fat, the conclusion (? nidhāna) his marrow.

In Ppp. this verse follows our 15, and there is added bhūtyāḥ prajāyāḥ paçūnām bhavati ya evaṃ veda.

19. [He is] Agni when sitting, the two Aṣvins when arisen;

This verse is wanting in Ppp. The metrical definition requires restoration of the a of açvīnā.

20. Indrā when standing eastward, Yama when standing southward;

21. Dhātār when standing westward, Savitar when standing northward;

The metrical definition requires the resolution dhātā īdān. Read saṁvitā (an accent-sign slipped out of place).

22. King Soma when having obtained grass;

The pada-mss. have the false accent prāçāptaḥ (for prāçāptaḥ). [Ppp. reads trīṇāṃ prāptas somo rājā.]

23. Mitra when looking, delight (ānandā) when turned this way;

Ppp. unites this verse with the preceding, and inverts the order of the two clauses of this verse, reading rājā "nṛtā" nandaḥ ikṣamāṇo mitrāvaruṇo.

24. Belonging to all the gods when being yoked, Prajāpati when yoked, everything (sarvaṃ) when released.

Ppp. reads vāiçvānaras instead of vāiçvadevas.

25. That verily is all-formed, of every form, of kine-form.

Ppp. reads vorūḥpaṃ for viçvadrūḥpaṃ; [it seems to omit sarvarūḥpaṃ gorūḥpaṃ.]

26. Cattle all-formed, of every form come unto (upa-sthā) him who knoweth thus.

Ppp. reads upāi "naṃ rūḥpaṇṇvataḥ paçavaḥ [intending rūḥpavantaḥ.]

[The quoted Anukr. says śaḍvīṇḥo brāhmaṇo gavaḥ. The avasānarcas are summed up as 26.]

8. Against various diseases.

[Bhṛguvaṇḍīras. — dvāvinḥakam. [anena] sarvaçīrṣāmayādyāmayaṃ [apākarot]. ānuṣṭubham: 12. anuṣṭubhgarbhā kakummatī 4-p. uṣṇih; 15. virād ānuṣṭubh; 21. virād pathyābṛhatī; 22. pathyāpāṇkti.]

Found also (except vs. 4) in Pāipp. xvi. Not noticed in Vāit., but quoted (vs. 1) in Kāuç. 32. 18, in a remedial ceremony. [The last two verses are specified (32. 19) as used "with worship of the sun."]

Translated: Zimmer, p. 378; Henry, 105, 141; Griffiths, i. 455; Bloomfield, 45, 600.

1. Headache, head-ailment, earache, anæmia (? vilohitā), every head-disease of thine, do we expel out [of thee] by incantation (nir-mantray).

Ppp. reads in a çīrṣaktyaṃ, and in b trītyakam for vilohitam. [For çīrṣaktī, see references under i. 12. 3.]

2. From thy (two) ears, from thy kāṅkūṣas, the earache, the visālpaka, every head-disease etc. etc.

As to visālpakam, instead of the visalyakam of the edition, see under vi. 127. 1. For the obscure kāṅkūṣa Ppp. has kaṅkukha, and for b it reads çuktivalçam vilohitam.

3. For reason of which the yākṣma removes from ears, from mouth — every head-disease etc. etc.

Ppp. reads in b nāsatā "syata [intending -tas -tas].

4. Whatever one makes a man dumb (? pramōta), makes [him] blind — every head-disease etc. etc.

'Dumb' for pramōta is Zimmer's conjecture; the word is wholly obscure, and form, accent, and meter make it suspicious; one is tempted to conjecture prāmohitam; but muh with prefix pra is not a Vedic combination. The Anukr. takes no notice of the defective pāda.

5. Limb-splitting, limb-wasting, and visālpaka of all the limbs — every head-disease etc. etc.

Ppp. reads instead, for a, b, çirṣarogam aṅgarogaṁ viçvāṅginam viçalyakam. [As to visālp, see under vi. 127. 1.] With a is to be compared v. 30. 9 a.

6. Of whom the fearful aspect makes a man tremble — the takmān of every autumn we expel out [of thee] by incantation.

Ppp. reads pāuruṣam in b, and, for c, d, takmānaṁ çitāṁ rūraṁ ca taṁ tve nir man-: cf. v. 22. 10, 13.

7. The yākṣma that creeps along the thighs, that goes also to the groins, from thy limbs within we expel etc. etc.

Ppp. reads in c balāsam for yakṣmaṁ te [cf. our 8 c and under 9].

8. If it is born out of desire, of aversion, of the heart — the balāsa from thy heart, thy limbs we expel etc. etc.

9. Yellowness from thy limbs, apvā from thy belly within, the yākṣma-maker from thy self within we expel etc. etc.

The pāda-text reads in c yakṣmaḥodhām. The Prāt. takes no notice of the irregular form of the first member of the compound, as it does, superfluously (ii. 56), of the contrary treatment of çepas in çepaḥarṣaṇim. In Ppp. our third pāda becomes the second, and for third we have nearly our 7 c: yakṣmaṁ te sarvaṁ aṅgebhya.

10. Let the balāsa become ash, let it become sickening urine; the poison of all yākṣmas have I exorcised from thee.

11. Forth at the orifice let it run out, the kāhābāha, from thy belly; the poison of all etc. etc.

[Literally 'to the orifice'; Henry "vers le trou," i.e. "par l'anus."] The Pet. Lexx. plausibly conjecture kāhābāha to be an imitative term for rumbling in the bowels; it may also possibly be understood as used adverbially, like bāl in i. 3. Ppp. has a quite different reading for b: kahāvalam tvandārā.

12. Out of thy belly, lung, navel, heart, the poison of all etc. etc.

Ppp. rectifies the meter of a by inserting pari before klomnas, and makes c, d agree with our 9 c, d. The Anukr. brings out an uṣṣiḥ (28 syll.) by unnaturally refusing to make the resolutions nābhi-ās and tu-at [and scanning as 6 + 7 : 8 + 7].

13. They that break apart the crown, rushers against the head (mūrdhān) — not injuring, free from disease, let them run out, out at the orifice.

The 'they' in this and the following verses (13-18) is fem. The Pet. Lexx. take arṣaṇī in b as an independent noun (it is found only here), and conjecture it to mean 'pricking pains.'

14. They that rush unto the heart, that stretch along the vertebræ — not injuring etc. etc.

Prāt. iii. 47 prescribes the form uparṣānti (instead of upārṣānti; p. upaorṣānti) in this and the two following verses. Ppp. reads every time upadīṣānti.

15. They that rush unto the two sides, that stab (nikṣ) along the ribs — not injuring etc. etc.

The Anukr. intends pārṣvā to be read unresolved.

16. They that rush on crosswise, rushers in thy belly (vakṣṣṇā) — not injuring etc. etc.

Ppp. reads in b vakṣṣṇābhyaḥ, and omits the following te.

17. They that creep along the intestines, and confound the entrails — not injuring etc. etc.

Ppp. reads in b yāpāyanti for mohayanti. [Roth most ingeniously suggests that the Ppp. reading may mean āntrā ni-yāmayanti. Or is yāpāyanti to be taken in a sense quite like our English 'cause (the bowels) to move,' i.e. 'produce diarrhoea'?]]

18. They that suck out the marrow, and break apart the joints — not injuring etc. etc.

Ppp. reads in a anusarpanti for nirdhayanti. We are to resolve maj-jñ-o to fill out the measure.

19. They that intoxicate (maday-) the limbs, the yakṣmas, thy grippers — the poison of all yakṣmas have I exorcised from thee.

Ppp. reads in b roṣaṇā saha. Some of our mss. (P.M.O.p.m.) read yé 'nṛgāni.

20. Of the visalpā, of the vidradhā, or of the vātīkārā, of the alajī — the poison etc. etc.

Ppp. again reads viṣalyasya [cf. under vi. 127. 1]; also, in b, vātīkālasya.

21. Forth from thy feet, knees, hips, buttock, spine, nape the pangs, from thy head the disease have I made disappear.

Ppp. reads, after te, gūlphābhyaṁ jaṅghābhyaṁ jānubhyāṁ ūrubhyāṁ śro. p. bh.; it reads ānūkyāt in c, and inserts before ṣṛṣṇas, grīvābhyaḥ skandhebhyas. It is apparently the intrusion of arṣaṇī that spoils the meter in our c.

22. Together the bones (kapāla) of thy head, and the discussor (vidhū) of thy heart — arising, O Āditya, thou with thy rays hast made disappear the disease of the head, hast pacified the limb-splitter.

The first two pādas seem independent; an unfinished construction. The pada-text reads vidhūh in b, as if it recognized in the word the root dhū + vi; this is not implausible, and the translation follows it (the simple "beat" of the Pet. Lexx. seems quite unacceptable; it might be 'palpitation'). But Ppp. reads instead vidus, and so do a part of our mss., namely, W.O.s.m.D.Kp. [W. interlines a query over "discussor," which word he coins and uses in the sense 'shaker asunder.' "Discuss" in this sense is "obsolete except in surgical use."] Ppp. further has, for our c etc.: udyat sūryā-dityo aṅgāni roma nakhāni sarvāṅi sadanāni ninaṣat.

9. Mystic.

[Brahman. — dvāvīṅṣakam. vāmīyam ādityadevatyam adhyātmakaram. trāṣṭubham: 12, 14, 16, 18. jagati.]

This hymn and the following (except a few verses of the latter) are one Rig-Veda hymn, namely, i. 164, and but a small part of them occur in any other Vedic text. Both are found in Pāipp. xvi., in somewhat changed verse-order, as will be noted under the different verses below. Vāit. takes no notice of this hymn; in Kāuṣ. it (vs. 1) is quoted in 18. 25, with various others, in a ceremony for prosperity; and the gaṇamālā (see note to Kāuṣ. 18. 25) reckons it as belonging to the salila gaṇa.

Translated: as RV. hymn, by Ludwig, no. 951; and Grassmann, ii. p. 456–460; also by M. Haug, under the title, Vedische Räthselfragen und Räthselfprüche, Sb. der philos.-philol. Classe der k. bairischen Ak. der Wiss., Bd. II., Heft 3, für 1875, München, 1876 (the essay, says Whitney, "casts extremely little light upon its labored obscurities"); further, with an elaborate comment touching the significance of its philosophic content, by Deussen, Geschichte, i. 1. 105–119; parts also by Muir, v. (see Index, p. 484), and Hillebrandt, Ved. Mythol., i. (see Index, p. 542); and under the title, Zwei Sprüche über Leib und Seele, ZDMG. xlv. 759 f., Roth explains two verses answering to our ix. 10. 8 and 16. Under the title, Das Räthsel vom Jahre, ZDMG. xlviii. 353, E. Windisch discusses the RV. verse answering to our vs. 12.

Translated, moreover, as AV. hymn, by Henry, 107, 143; Griffith, i. 458. The critical remarks of Oldenberg, IFA. vi. 180–183, may also be consulted. — Further, von Schroeder, Der Rigveda bei den Kāthas, WZKM. xii. 282, reports variants for certain vss. of the RV. hymn which correspond to our vss. ix. 9, 12, 17, 22 and ix. 10. 16. — Finally, A. Wünsche's essay, Das Rätsel vom Jahr und seinen Zeitabschnitten in der Weltliteratur, may be cited in this connection; it is found in Zeitschrift für vergl. Literaturgeschichte, N.F., ix. 425–456.

1. Of this pleasant (vāmad) hoary invoker — of him the brother is the midmost stone (? aṇa); his third brother [is] ghee-backed; there I saw the lord of the people who hath seven sons.

The three brothers are explained as the three forms of Agni, in heaven, in the atmosphere (lightning), and on earth (sacrificial fire); the 'seven sons' are most probably his many flames. [The collocation of madhyamā with bhrātā would seem more natural, considering the phrase trītyo bhrātā.]

2. Seven harness (yuj) a one-wheeled chariot; one horse, having seven names, draws (vah) [it]; of three naves [is] the wheel, unwasting, unassailed, whereon stand all these existences.

Doubtless the sun. The verse is repeated as xiii. 3. 18. It occurs also in TA. iii. 11. 8, with anarvān yene 'mā v. bhuvanāni t. in c, d (the accent of the verse is too corrupt to heed).

3. The seven that stand on this chariot — seven horses draw it, seven-wheeled; seven sisters shout at [it] together, where are set down the seven names of the kine.

RV. reads navante in c, and nāma in d.

4. Who saw it first in process of birth, as the boneless one bears (bhṛ) him that has bones? where forsooth the earth's life (dsu), blood, soul? who shall go to ask that of him who knows?

'Bears,' not in the sense of 'gives birth to,' but of 'carries' or 'supports' or the like.

5. Let him who truly knows [here] tell (brū) the set-down track of this pleasant bird; the kine extract (duli) milk from his head; clothing themselves in a wrap, they have drunk water with the foot.

Explained as relating to the clouds and the sun. The verse is vs. 7 in RV., and also in Ppp.; the latter reads çṛṣṇā in c.

6. Simple, not discerning (vi-jñā) with the mind, I ask about the thus set-down tracks of the gods; over the yearling (? baṣkāya) calf have the poets stretched out seven lines (tāntu) for weaving.

7. I, not understanding (cit), ask here the understanding poets, I unknowing (vid), them that know; he who propped asunder these six spaces (rājas), in the form of the goat (? ajā) — was that also alone?

The sense of the last pāda is utterly obscure, and the version given only tentative; ajā is perhaps here really the 'unborn one,' as the translators render it. RV. reads in a ācikitvān cik-, and, in b, vidmāne, for which our vidvānas is apparently a mere corruption.

8. The mother portioned the father in righteousness, for with meditation (dhit), with mind, came together in the beginning she, repugnant, womb-sapped, pierced; paying homage, verily, they went unto encouragement.

The version is in part only mechanical. Ppp. combines ṛtā "babh-" in a, and reads jajne at end of b.

9. The mother was yoked to the pole of the sacrificial gift; the embryo stood among the wiles (? vṛjanī); the calf bleated, looked after the cow of all forms, in the three distances (yōjana).

[Kaṣha variants, WZKM. xii. 282, vṛjanēṣv antāḥ and yōjāneṣu. — Cf. IFA. vi. 180, as noted above.]

10. The one, bearing three mothers [and] three fathers, stood upright; verily they do not exhaust him; on the back of yon sky the all-knowing ones talk a speech not found by all.

RV. reads glāpayanti at end of b [and the translation follows that reading], and, for d, viçvauidam vācam dviçvaninvām. The pada-text reads glāpayanta; Prāt. iv. 93 notes the case. Ppp. agrees with RV. in glāpayanti and viçvauidam.

11. On the five-spoked circumvolving wheel on which stood all existences—its axle, much-burdened, is not heated; even from of old it is not severed with the nave.

RV. and Ppp. count this verse as 13, our version inverting the order of 11–13. In b, RV. reads tāsminn ā tasthur bh. v., and Ppp. samārohanti bh. v.; and RV. has çiryate for chidyate in d.

12. The five-footed father, of twelve shapes (-ākṛti), they call rich in ground (purīṣin) in the far (pāra) half of the sky; then these others call [him] set (ārpita) in the lower outlook that is seven-wheeled, six-spoked.

RV. and Ppp. have the easier and better reading vicakṣandm in c, and Ppp. reads before it upari. [The Kaṭha reading also is upari, WZKM. xii. 282.] Read in b pāre (an accent sign slipped out of place). [See Roth, KZ. xxvi. 66, and Windisch as cited in the introduction; cf. also IFA. vi. 181, as noted above.]

13. The twelve-spoked wheel—for that is not to be worn out—revolves greatly about the sky of righteousness; there, O Agni, stood the sons, paired, seven hundred and twenty.

Here the 'twelve' and the 'seven hundred and twenty' are plainly the months, and the days and nights, of the year of 360 days. The verse, as noted above, is vs. 11 in RV. and Ppp. The more proper reading in b would be vārvartti.

14. The unwasting wheel, with rim, rolls about; ten harnessed ones draw upon the outstretched one (fem.); the sun's eye goes surrounded with the welkin (rājas), in which stood all existences.

Ppp. has vrajanti for vahanti in b, and, for d yasminn ārpitā bhuvanāny ārpitā; RV. has tāsminn ārpitā for our yāsminn ātasthūh. The Anukr. calls the verse simply a jagati, though only two of its pādas have 12 syllables.

15. Them, being women, they declared (ah) to me to be men; he who hath eyes may see, [but] the blind will not distinguish (vi-cit); the son that is a poet, he verily understood (ā-cit); whoever knows those things apart, he shall be [his] father's father.

RV. and Ppp. put this verse after our vs. 16. It is found also in TA. i. 11. 4, with tā u in a, imās in c for im ā, and ·savitūh p- in d. Some of our mss. (P.s.m.O.K.T.) read pitūh p- in d; we had the phrase once before, at ii. 1. 2, and the combination falls under Prāt. ii. 73. We might expect, in d, tāh, referring to strīyah, but the pada-texts have tā, as neuter pl.

16. Of those born together the seventh they call sole-born; six, they say, are twins, god-born seers; the sacrifices (? iṣṭā) of them, distributed according to their abodes, quake in their station, being altered (vi-kr) in respect to form.

Iṣṭāni in c might equally mean 'things desired.' Sthātré in d is most probably loc. of trā, since, if from sthāt, we should expect instead the ablative. [The vs. recurs at TA. i. 3. 1 with udyamās for id yamās.]

17. Below the distant (pāra), thus beyond the lower, bearing (bhr) her calf with her foot, the cow hath stood up; whitherwards, to what quarter (ārdha) hath she forsooth gone away? where giveth she birth? for [it is] not in this herd.

The Anukr. takes no notice of the redundant syllable in a; we may suppose parā enā to be combined to parāl 'nā. [The verse is repeated below as xiii. 1. 41. RV. ends with antāh for asmtā. The Kaṭha variant pārūkāt for pārāgāt (WZKM. xii. 282) shows an exchange of surd and sonant, the reverse of that noted at ii. 13. 3.]

18. Below the distant whoever knows his father, below the distant, thus beyond the lower—who, playing the poet, shall proclaim [him] here? from whence [is] heavenly mind produced?

RV. and Ppp. read, in a, b, yó asyā 'nuvéda parā enā, rectifying the meter and lightening the construction. Only the first two pādas have any "jagati" character, and they are very irregular. But by giving this name the Anukr. shows that it reads our version; in RV. and Ppp. the verse is a pure tristubh. Read in d kūto (for hṛto).

19. Them that are hitherward they call off-ward; them, again, that are off-ward they call hitherward; what things, O Soma, thou and Indra have done, those they draw, harnessed as it were with the pole of the welkin.

The verse is found also in JB. i. 279, with no various readings that are not evident corruptions. The 'them' of a, b is masc., probably the same with the 'they' of d (yuk-tāh, p.). Ppp. reads niyuktā instead of na yuktā.

20. Two eagles (suparṇā), joint companions, embrace the same tree; of them the one eats the sweet berry; the other looks on all the time, not partaking.

Ppp. reads in a suyujā. Here and in the next verse, as everywhere else, some of our mss. read pṣpalam. [The vs. plays a rôle in the Upanishads: cf. Çvet. iv. 6; Muṇḍ. iii. 1. 1. Hillebrandt, Ved. Mythol., i. 466, 399, treats this and the following vss.]

21. On what tree the honey-eating eagles all settle and give birth—what they call the sweet berry in the top of it, that cannot he attain who knoweth not [his] father.

RV. has id āhūh instead of yād āhūh in c, and so also Ppp. (but āhuṣ). In RV. this verse follows after our vs. 22. There is a redundant syllable in c of which the Anukr. takes no notice (and the pāda is also capable of being crowded together into eleven syllables).

22. Where the eagles, with counsel (vidātha), sound incessantly (ānimeṣam) unto the draught of amṛta, — thus the shepherd of all existence, he the wise one entered there into me that am simple.

RV. reads bhāgām for bhākṣām in a. For enā in c, RV. has inās, and Ppp. yo no; [Ppp's yo no seems to be an attempt to make sense out of the rare and probably unintelligible inā]. [The Kaṭha variant (WZKM. xii. 282) is ānimeṣam.]

[Brahman. — aṣṭāviṃśakam. govirāḍadhyātmadārvatyam (23. māitrāvaruṇi). trāṣṭubham : 1, 7, 14, 17, 18. jagati ; 21. 5-p. atiṣakavari ; 24. 4-p. puraskṛtir bhurij atijagati ; 2, 26, 27. bhurij.]

This hymn is in RV. a continuation of the preceding; but our vss. 9 and 23 are not found in the RV. with the rest (9 is RV. x. 55. 5 and 23 is RV. i. 152. 3); [while of 19, only d is found in RV., making, with the odd fifth pāda of our vs. 21, the first half of RV. i. 164. 42 (42 a, b = 21 e + 19 d); and our 24 (prose) does not occur in the RV. at all]. The first 23 verses are found also in Pāipp. xvi. The hymn is not quoted in Kāug. (except as vs. 20 is also vii. 73. 11); but a few verses (9, 13, 14) are cited in Vait.

Translated: as AV. hymn, by Henry, 110, 150; Griffith, i. 464. — For other translations etc. see the introduction to hymn 9.

1. That the gāyatrī-verse is set (ā-dhā) in the gāyatrī-verse, or that they fashioned the trīṣṭubh-verse out of the trīṣṭubh-verse, or that the jagati step is set in the jagati (jagati) — whoever know that, they have attained immortality.

RV. [vs. 23] and Ppp. read in b trāṣṭubhād vā trāṣṭubham.

2. By the gāyatrī-verse he measures off the song (arkā), by the song the chant (sāman), by the trīṣṭubh-verse the hymn (vākā), by the hymn of two feet [or] of four feet the hymn; by the syllable they measure the seven tunes (vāṇi).

The words 'song,' 'hymn,' 'tune' are used rather loosely in rendering here.

3. By the jagati he established (skabhi) the river in the sky; in the rathantārā he beheld (pari-paṣ) the sun; they call the three kindlers (santidh) the gāyatrī-verse's; it was superior to them by bulk, by greatness.

The translation of the last pāda is not without uncertainties; tātas is here understood as quasi-object of prā ririce. RV. [vs. 25] reads in a astabhāyat.

4. I invite that well-milking milch-cow; a skilful-handed milker also shall milk her; may the impeller impel us the best impulse; the hot drink is kindled about: that may he kindly proclaim.

We had this verse above as vii. 73. 7. The only variant in RV. [vs. 26] is the better vocam at the end. [Oldenberg discusses verses 4-7, IFA. vi. 182.]

5. Lowing, mistress of good things, seeking her calf with her mind, hath she come unto [it]; let this inviolable one yield milk for the Aṅvins; let her increase unto great good-fortune.

This verse, again, is vii. 73. 8, above, excepting that the latter reads nyāgan at end of b. Our pada-text has here abhiśāgāt, while that of RV. [vs. 27] gives abhi : ā : agāt; both yield the same saṁhitā-reading.

6. The cow lowed toward the winking calf; she uttered ling at [its] head, in order to lowing; bellowing the mouth (? sṛkvan) unto the hot drink, she lows a lowing, she abounds with milk.

Compare 1. 8, above; the second line is nearly identical in the two verses. It is quite differently rendered by the translators at one and another point, being very obscure. For abhi in a, RV. reads anu, Ppp. apa.

7. This one here twangs, by whom the cow is surrounded; she lows a lowing, being set (ṣṛitā) on the sparkler (dhvasāni); since she put down mortals by her thoughts (cittī), becoming the lightning, she threw (ūh) back the wrap.

Both RV. [vs. 29] and Ppp. read mṛtyam in c.

8. Breathing lies the swift moving thing, living, stirring, fixed, in the midst of the abodes (pastyā); the living one moves at the will (? svadhi-bhis) of the dead one; the immortal one [is] of like source with the mortal.

The verse is excessively obscure, and Hillebrandt's translation of the second half, and reference to the moon (Ved. Mythol., pp. 336, 498), very forced and implausible. The verse lacks a syllable in a (and the pada-text sets its mark of pāda-division after ḍjat); perhaps we are to resolve -ga-ātu. Ppp. puts the verse after our vs. 9. [RV., vs. 30, shows no variant. Roth's most interesting interpretation (ZDMG. xlv. 759) makes of the verse a riddle whose answer is "the body and the soul." He emends to ānanac in a. Böhlingk, Berichte der sächsischen Gesell., 1893, xlv. 88, reviews Roth's interpretation.]

9. The shaker-apart (? vidhū) that runs on the back of the sea, being young, the hoary one swallowed; see thou the poesy of the heavenly one with greatness; today he died, yesterday he received breath (saṁ-an).

This verse is RV. x. 55. 5; also SV. i. 325 etc.; TA. iv. 20. 1; MS. iv. 9. 12. All alike read sānane bahūnām for salilāsya pṛsthē (MS., except in its pada-text, has other slight differences which are palpable blunders). Vidhū is (as at 8. 22, above) divided in pada-text viodhū. It doubtless designates here the moon, however it may have won the right to do so. Ludwig and Hillebrandt (Ved. Mythol. i. 465) translate d 'today (he died yesterday) he has come to life'; but this is in the highest degree forced, and may be pronounced even inadmissible. Ppp. reads vidyudādrāṇā at the beginning. [See Kaṭha-śss., p. 82.] The verse is quoted in Vāit. 40. 7; 41. 12.

10. He who made him knows not of him; [he is] verily out of sight now of him who saw him; he, enveloped within his mother's womb, with his much progeny, entered into perdition (nirṛti).

The translation follows the RV. reading, nṛṛtim, in ḍ, since the nom. -tis seems unconstruable. Both RV. [vs. 32] and Ppp. put the verse after our vs. 11, and the latter reads so'sya in a. Haug interprets the lightning to be intended.

11. I saw the shepherd, not lying down, moving both hither and thither upon his roads; he, clothing himself in the collecting, he in the dispersing ones, rolls greatly on among existences.

Doubtless the sun. The verse [RV. vs. 31] is found a second time in RV. as x. 177. 3; and also at VS. xxxvii. 17; TA. iv. 7. 1; MS. iv. 9. 6; AA. ii. 1. 66-10 — all accenting in a ānīpadyamānam, which is alone acceptable. [Our ḍ recurs, with sā prefixed, at x. 2. 7 c. If we read varīvartti there, we ought also to do so here.] [Cf. Kaṭha-hss., p. 101.]

12. The heaven our father, generator, navel here; this great earth our connection, mother; the womb (yōni) within the (two) outstretched cups (camū); here the father hath set (ā-dhā) the daughter's embryo.

'Navel,' i.e. 'central point, place of union.' RV. [vs. 33] reads me for nas in a and b.

13. I ask of thee the extreme (pāra) end of the earth; I ask the seed of the male (vīṣan) horse; I ask the navel of all existence; I ask the highest (paramā) firmament (vyōman) of speech.

RV. [vs. 34] exchanges the place of b and c, and rectifies the meter by inserting another tvā before vīṣno, and reading prchāmi yātra bhūvanasya nābhīḥ. Ppp. follows RV. in the former case, but in the latter has prchāmi tvām bh. n.; it makes [as between b and c] the same inversion of order as RV.; and it begins ḍ with vācaḥ prchāmi. The Anukr. takes no notice of the irregularity of our meter. The verse, with the following one, is found also in other texts: VS. xxiii. 61, 62; TS. vii. 4. 18²; LṚS. ix. 10. 13, 14. VS. reads in both verses precisely as RV., and LṚS. differs from it only by having prchāmas instead of -mi four times in vs. 13. TS. has for 13 b prchāmi tvā bhūvanasya nābhim. The two verses are quoted in Vāit. 37. 3.

14. This sacrificial hearth is the extreme end of the earth; this soma is the seed of the male horse; this sacrifice is the navel of all existence; this priest (brahmān) is the highest firmament of speech.

RV. [vs. 35] (also VS. LṚS.: see above) and Ppp. read for b, c: ayām yajñō bhūv. nā.: ayām sōmo etc. (our b). TS. has védim āhukḥ páram antam prthivyaḥ yajñām āhur bhūvanasya nābhim: sōmam āhur vī. āc. ré. brahmān vā vācāḥ etc. The Anukr. absurdly calls the verse a jagati on account of the two redundant syllables in the AV. version of c.

15. I do not distinguish what this is that I am; I go secret, fastened together with mind; when the first-born of righteousness hath come to me, then indeed I attain a share of this speech.

Ppp. agrees with RV. [vs. 37] in putting this verse [and the next] after our vs. 17. The RV. pada-text has in c ā: āgan [so Müller's five editions and Aufrecht's first: Aufrecht's second, ā: agan]; our āāgan is better. Ppp. reads balinā for manasā in b.

16. Offward, forward goes, seized by svadhā, the immortal one, of like source with the mortal; the two, constantly going separate apart — the one they noted, the other they noted not.

Haug and Hillebrandt (Ved. Mythol., i. 336, note) both understand svadhā here as meaning the offering-to the manes, but their conjectural interpretations of the verse are totally discordant. [The vs. is RV. vs. 38 without variant. See the interpretations of Roth and of Böhtlingk as cited under vs. 8 above. — The Kaṭha variant (WZKM. xii. 282) is āprāñ for āpāñ. — The vs. is found at AA. ii. 1. 8.]

17. Seven half-embryos, the seed of existence, stand in front (? pradiṣā), in Viṣṇu's distribution; they, by thoughts (dhīti), by mind, they, inspired, surround on all sides the surrounders.

Or, 'being surrounders.' As noted above, the verse in RV. [vs. 36] and Ppp. stands before our vs. 15. Both 17 and 18 are defective as jaḡats. [Cf. Oldenberg, IFA. vi. 184; also Henry, Actes du dixième Congrès intern. des Orientalistes, Section I, Inde, p. 45-50, "Cruelle énigme."]

18. In the syllable of the verse (īc) in the highest firmament, on which all the gods sat down: he who knoweth not that, what will he do with the verse? they who know that sit together yonder.

RV. [vs. 39] reads imé instead of amé in d. O. combines vidūṣ īc just before it. The verse is found also in TB. iii. 10. 9¹⁴ and TA. ii. 11. 1 — in both, with the RV. reading. Its pratīka occurs also in GB. i. 22. Read vēda in c.

19. Shaping (kalpay-) with measure the step of the verse, they shaped by the half-verse all that stirs; the brāhman of three feet, many-formed, spread out (vi-sīhā); by that do the four quarters live.

The comm. to the Prāt. (ii. 93) quotes vī taṣṭhe at end of c as an example of the s of sthā lingualized after vī even though the reduplication intervenes; and that establishes vī taṣṭhe as the true reading. The majority of the samhitā-mss. have it; but W.E.O. give caṣṭe; Ppp. also has parirūpañ vī caṣṭe. Only the fourth pāda is found in RV., being i. 164. 42 b (we have 42 a as our 21 e); the same occurs below as xi. 5. 12 d.

20. Mayest thou be well-portioned, feeding in excellent meadows; so also may we be well-portioned; eat thou grass, O inviolable one, at all times; drink clear water, moving hither.

We had this verse [RV. vs. 40] above, as vii. 73. 11.

21. The cow verily lowed, fashioning the seas; one-footed, two-footed [is] she, four-footed; having become eight-footed, nine-footed, thousand-syllabled, a series (pañtī) of existence; out from her flow apart the oceans.

The five pādas are vs. 41, and 42 a, of the RV. hymn; which, however, reads gāurīs for gāūr īd in a, and paramé vydman for bhūvanasya pañtī in d. The RV. vs. 41 occurs also in TB. ii. 4. 6¹¹ [and it is there followed by the RV. vs. 42 entire] and TA. i. 9. 4, with the RV. readings, excepting gāurī at the beginning [and tāsyām in TB. for tāsyās]. Our pādas b-e, again, are repeated as xiii. 1. 42 below. The verse (12 + 12: 12 + 11 + 11 = 58) lacks two syllables of being a proper atiṣakvārī (60 syllables).

22. Black the descent, the yellow eagles, clothing themselves in waters, fly up to the sky; they have come hither from the seat of righteousness; then, forsooth, with ghee they deluged the earth.

The verse occurs also above as vi. 22. 1, and pādas a-c below in xiii. 3. 9. For parallel passages etc. see the note to vi. 22. 1. It is RV. i. 164. 47, the last verse of the RV. hymn that is included in the AV. text here (RV. vss. 43-46 are our 25-28 below), although of the remaining five RV. vss. all but one (51) are found in other parts of our text.

23. She that is footless goes first of them (fem.) that have feet: who understood (ā-cit) that of you, O Mitra and Varuṇa? the embryo brings (ā-bhṛ) the burden of her; she (?) fills (?) truth, protects (ni-pā) untruth.

The last pāda is especially obscure: he? or she? or it? and which root ṣr, 'fill' or 'pass'? The verse is RV. i. 152. 3, where we read tārit instead of pāti at the end, and asya for asyās at end of c. Ppp. also has tārit, but, instead of ā cid asyāḥ (or asya), it reads ād ṛtasya.

24. Virāj [is] speech, virāj earth, virāj atmosphere, virāj Prajāpati; virāj became death, the over-king of the perfectibles (sādhyā); in his control are what was, what is to be; let him put in my control what was, what is to be.

[Prose.] This verse, with all that follows it, is wanting in Ppp. The Anukr. reckons the whole first part to the pause as one pāda (20 syllables, a kṛtī-pāda); the pada-text understands it as two, dividing after prthivī.

25. The dung-made smoke I saw from far, with the dividing one, thus beyond the lower; the heroes cooked a spotted ox (ukṣān); those were the first ordinances.

The construction and sense of b are very obscure. The verse is 43 of RV. i. 164, and the remaining three follow in order. [Henry, Mém. de la Soc. de linguistique, ix. 247, cites the vs.]

26. Three hairy ones look out seasonably; in the (a?) year one of them shears itself; another looks upon all with might (śacībhis); of one is seen the rush, not the form.

The RV. version [vs. 44] has in c viśvam éko abhī caṣṭe; our abhīcaṣṭe is a regular case of antithetical accent. The RV. pada-text does not divide samvatsara. Haug interprets the verse of the three forms of Agni; Hillebrandt (Ved. Mythol., i. p. 472), of the moon (!?), sun, and wind.

27. Speech [is] four measured out quarters (padā); those are known by Brahmans who are skilful; three, deposited in secret, they do not set in motion (iṅgay); a fourth of speech human beings speak.

This verse is found, without variant, in T.B. (ii. 8. 85) and Ç.B. (iv. 1. 317), as well as in RV. [vs. 45]. Our Bp.²D.Kp. read nā : iṅgayanti in c.

28. They call [him] Indra, Mitra, Varuṇa, Agni; likewise he [is] the heavenly winged eagle; what is one the sages (vīpra) name (vad) variously; they call [him] Agni, Yama, Mātariṣvan.

Our pada-text differs from that of RV. [vs. 46] by dividing bahvodhū.

Book X.

[This tenth book is the third of the second grand division of the Atharvan collection. For a general statement as to the make-up of the books of this division, reference should again be made to page 471. The Old Anukramanī describes the length of hymns 1, 2, 5, 6, 7, 8, and 10 by giving the overplus of each hymn over 30 verses. The assumed normal length in the case of book ix. seems to be 20 verses. The whole book has been translated by Victor Henry, Les livres X, XI, et XII de l'Atharva-vēda traduits et commentés, Paris, 1896. The bhāṣya again is lacking. There are no paryāya-hymns in this book.]

[The anuvāka-division of the book (as noted above, page 472) is into five anuvākas of two hymns each. The "decad"-division likewise is as described on page 472. A tabular conspectus for this book also may be acceptable:

Hymns	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10
Decad-div.	10+10+12		10+10+13		10+10+5		10+10+6		5 tens
	3 tens+14		3 tens+14		3 tens+14		3 tens+14		10+10+7
	10+10+14		10+10+14		10+10+14		10+10+14		10+10+14

Sum of verses, 350. The sum of "decad"-sūktas is 35. In this book, therefore, the average length of the "decad"-sūktas is precisely 10 verses.]

1. Against witchcraft and its practisers.

[Pratyāṅgirasa.—dvātriṅśat. kṛtyāddūṣṇadevatyam. ānuṣṭubham: 1. mahābṛhatī; 2. virāṇ nāma gāyatrī; 9. pathyāpāṅkti; 12. pāṅkti; 13. uroḇṛhatī; 15. 4-p. virāḍ jagatī; 17, 20, 24. prastārāpāṅkti (20. virāḍ); 16, 18. triṣṭubh; 19. 4-p. jagatī; 22. 1-av. 2-p. ārcy uṣṇih; 23. 3-p. bhurig viṣamā gāyatrī; 28. 3-p. gāyatrī; 29. madhyejyotiṣ-matī jagatī; 32. devyanuṣṭubgarbhā 5-p. atijagatī.]

Found also in Pāipp. xvi. The hymn (vs. 1) is quoted in Kāuṣ. 39. 7, with several others, in a ceremony against witchcraft, and several of its verses or parts of verses elsewhere. The Vāit. uses only one half-verse (21 c, d).

Translated: Ludwig, p. 520; Henry, I, 39; Griffith, ii. 1; Bloomfield, 72, 602.

1. She whom the adepts (cikitsā) prepare, all-formed, hand-made, like a bride at a wedding—let her go far off; we push her away.

'She,' because kṛtyā 'witchcraft' is feminine. The name, mahābṛhatī, given to the verse, is improperly applied, [if we understand it as defined by RV. Prāt. xvi. 48: here is meant rather than defined as of three jāgata pādas (12+12:11) at Ind. Stud. viii. 243].

2. Having a head, having a nose, having ears, put together, all-formed, by the witchcraft-maker — let her go far off; we push her away.

The addition of a ca at the end of a would rectify the meter, and justify the Anukr. The pada-reading çṛṣṇapovdī is by Prāt. iv. 99, and the word is quoted there in the comment as an example. Ppp. puts the adjectives in the accus., and reads, instead of our c: pratyak pra hiṃmasi yaç cakāra tum ṛcchatu: cf. vs. 5 c and v. 14. 11 c.

3. Çūdra-made, king-made, woman-made, made by Brahmins (brahman), like a wife expelled (nuttā) by her husband, let her go to her maker, as connection.

Either 'as her' or 'as his connection'; Ppp. decides for the former, reading bandhum [for our bāndhu]. [W's alternative seems to be: bāndhum must be in apposition with kartāram; but bāndhu (p. bāndhu) must be a neuter (as at v. 13. 7) and so in apposition with the subject-nominative, kṛtyā understood.]

4. With this herb have I spoiled all witchcrafts — what one they have made in the field, what in the kine, or what in thy men.

This is a repetition of iv. 18. 5, above. The Anukr. here, as there, takes no notice of the defective last pāda.

5. Let evil be to the evil-doer, a curse to the curser; backward we send [her] forth back, that she may slay the witchcraft-maker.

Ppp. reads for a kṛtyāṣ santu kṛtyākṛte, and, for c, d pratyak pratipravartaya yaç cakāra tum ṛcchatu. To read in our c hiṃmasi (as Ppp. in vs. 2 c) would rectify the meter, of whose irregularity the Anukr. takes no notice. The pada-reading pratioprahiṃmaṣ is by Prāt. iv. 95; the word is quoted there in the comment as example.

6. Opposed [is] the Āṅgīrasa, our appointed (purōhita) overseer; do thou, having turned the witchcrafts in the opposite direction, slay yonder witchcraft-makers.

Ppp. is corrupt, mixing up our verses 6 and 7. It combines praticinā "ṅi. in 6 a.

7. He who said to thee "go forth," against the current, up-stream, him, O witchcraft, do thou return against; seek not us who are innocent.

Of this verse is legible in Ppp. udāyyam in b; as for our mss., they cannot be relied upon in the least to distinguish ṣya and ṣya, but the majority rather favor udāyyam, while P. reads -āryyam, D. -ājyam (?), W. -āhyam. Neither word has been found anywhere else, but doubtless udāpyam is the true form.

8. He who put together thy joints, as an rōhū [those] of a chariot with skill (dhit), unto him go thou; there is thy going; this person is unknown to thee.

All the samhitā-mss. read -va rōhur in b.

9. They who, having made, took hold of thee, cunning sorcerers — this is a healthful (çambhū) spoiler of witchcraft, counteracting, reverting; therewith do we bathe thee.

The address changes, as often elsewhere, from the witchcraft to the bewitched person. Ppp. reads, in c, vidma for ṣambhu, and, in d, pratisaram. Our text ought to read in c ṣambhu idām, although all the mss. happen to agree here in lengthening the i.

10. In that we have come upon the ill-portioned one (fem.), bathed forth, whose young (-vatsā) is dead — let all ill (pāpā) go away from me; let property come unto (upa-sīhā) me.

The pada-mss. have in b upaseyimā, and combination to uṣeyimā falls under the rule Prāt. iii. 38, although the ā contained in eyimā (= ā-iyimā) does not appear [as ā] in the pada-text. [Ppp. ends a corruptly with prṣṇipathām.]

11. In that they have taken (grāh) the name of thee giving to the Fathers, or at the sacrifice — let these plants free thee from all ill that is designed (? saṁdeṣyā).

It might be also (in a, b) 'those giving to the Fathers have taken the name of thee' (Ludwig, 'thy Fathers'). Samdeṣyā is very obscure. The first half-verse is wholly corrupt in Ppp.

12. From sin against the gods, against the Fathers, from name-taking, that is designed, that is devised against [any one], let the plants free thee by their energy (vīryā), with spell (brāhman), with verses, with milk of the seers.

'Milk' (pāyas) in the last pāda looks like a corrupt reading, but Ppp. appears to have the same; Bp.E. accent payasā. [As for the combinations of -ā r-, see note to Prāt. iii. 46.] Several mss. (Bp.O.p.m.R.T.K.) read pītryāt in a. The verse, which ought to be called an anuṣṭubhgarbhā triṣṭubh (11 + 8 : 11 + 11 = 41), is very foolishly described by the Anukr. as a pañkti, because it contains nearly (and can easily be reduced to precisely) 40 syllables.

13. As the wind sets in motion the dust from the earth and the cloud (abhrā) from the atmosphere, so from me may everything of evil nature go away, pushed by the spell (brāhman).

14. Step away, making much noise, like an unfastened she-ass; attain thy makers, pushed hence by an energetic spell.

Some of the mss. (O.p.m.K.) read kartṛēn in c, as in other such cases.

15. Saying "this is the road, O witchcraft," we conduct thee; thee that wast sent forth against [us] we send forth back again; by that [road] go against [them], breaking, like a draft-cow with a cart, all-formed, wearing a wreath (? kurūtīn).

The last word is found only here, and has to be rendered conjecturally (with the Pet. Lexx.). All the samhitā-mss. [or rather, most of them: see also note to Prāt. iii. 35] combine kṛtyē'ti [and thus indeed the meter requires us to pronounce]; but our edition restores the more correct reading [kṛtya tti], since the Prāt. does not countenance the irregularity; we should expect to find it with vandane'va (in ii. 56). Ppp. reads at the beginning ayanā panthā pinayāmi tvā kṛtye prahitām prati etc.; in c [or rather c-d], tuñjaty anasvint'va. In the Anukr. it seems as if catuspadā must be a misreading for pañcapadā (11 + 11 : 8 + 8 + 8 = 46): but compare vs. 19.

16. Offward is light for thee, hitherward is no road for thee; make thy goings elsewhere than [toward] us; go thou by a distant [road] beyond ninety difficult navigable streams; do not wound thyself; go away.

One would like to emend kṣaṇiṣṭhās in ḍ, perhaps to kṣamiṣṭhās 'be patient' i.e. 'linger'; Ppp. has instead ghāṇiṣṭhās, which unfortunately gives no help. Ppp. also combines nāvyā 'ti in c; and the description of the Anukr. appears to sanction it.

17. As the wind the trees, do thou crush (mṛ) down, cause to fall; do not leave of them cow, horse, man; turning back, O witchcraft, from here to thy makers, awaken them unto childlessness.

Here, in c, even a majority of the mss. (W.I.O.D.T.K.) read kartrén. Ppp. combines at the beginning vāte 'va, as the meter demands, and as the Anukr. assumes; ūchiṣṭi 'ṣām is doubtless also the real reading in b.

18. What [witchcraft] they buried for thee in the barhīs, what in the cemetery, [what] witchcraft or secret spell (valagā) in the field, or practised against thee in the householders' fire — they, being wiser, [against thee] who art simple, innocent.

Ppp. helps both meter and sense by inserting cakrus before barhīsi in a; it also arranges kṛtyāṇi kṣetre in b, combines dhīratarā 'nāg- at the end, and adds, to complete the verse, tam [so Roth's Collation! for tām?] ito nāṣayāmasi. The Anukr. notices neither the deficiency in a nor the redundancy in b.

19. We have found out (anu-vid) the hostile sneaking magic (? kārtra) that was applied, perceived (? anu-budh), buried: let that go whence it was brought; there let it roll about like a horse; let it slay the progeny of the witchcraft-maker.

Ppp. reads in c āgatam for ābhṛtam, and combines in ḍ aṣve 'va, as called for by the meter. The Anukr. is as bad in its treatment of this verse as of 15.

20. There are knives of good metal in our house; we know thy joints, O witchcraft, how many they are; just stand up; go away from here; unknown one, what seekest thou here?

That is, 'thou who art no acquaintance of ours.' The Anukr. is much more scrupulous than usual in calling the verse (12 + 11 : 8 + 8 = 39) virāj [scanning a perhaps as 11]. Ppp. begins with svayasā. The third pāda is quoted in Kāuṣ. 39. 19.

21. Thy neck-bones (grīvā), O witchcraft, and thy (two) feet I will cut up; run thou out; let Indra-and-Agni defend us, they who are of progeny rich in progeny.

Prajāvatī at the end looks like a corruption of prajāpati, which Ppp. reads [R's collation has prajāpati]. Ppp. also has in c enām vṛṣatā. But Kāuṣ., which quotes the last half-verse in full in 5. 2, reads prajāvatī. The same half-verse appears also by pratīka in Vāit. 8. 6 (unless Vāit. takes it rather from Kāuṣ.).

22. King Soma [is] our over-ruler and favorer (mṛṣītī); let the lords of being favor us.

The verse properly contains 22 syllables (11 + 11), and should therefore be called a sāmanī trīṣṭubh. Ppp. reads in b ṛtasya naṣ.

23. Let Bhava-and-Ṣarva hurl (as) at the evil-doer, the witchcraft-maker, the ill-doer, the missile of the gods, the lightning.

Ppp. reads in a pāpakṛtvane [which is metrically much better]. The definition of the verse by the Anukr. is very stupid; it is plainly two trīṣṭubh pādas, with an intruded word of three syllables (either duṣkṛte or vidyūtam; either could be spared). The mss. insert a cesura-mark after kṛtyākṛte.

24. If thou camest [as] biped, as quadruped, put together by the witchcraft-maker, all-formed, do thou, becoming octoped, go away again from here, O misfortune!

The verse has the same structure as 20. The pāda-text here and in vs. 28 reads āśīyātha.

25. Anointed, smeared, well-adorned, bearing all difficulty, go thou away; recognize (jñā), O witchcraft, thy maker, as a daughter her own father.

The definition of this verse appears to be omitted in the Anukr., as we can hardly be meant to take it for an anuṣṭubh. The first pāda is capable of being crowded together into 8 syllables, or expanded into 12 (either procedure being about equally strained), making the verse either an uroḍṛhatt or a prastārapaṇkti. It is quoted in Kāuṣ. 39. 18.

26. Go away, O witchcraft; stand not; lead, as it were, the track of one pierced; it is a deer, thou a deer-hunter; it is unable to put thee down.

'Lead,' in b, appears to be used in the sense of 'follow'; the 'track' is doubtless that of the maker: [cf. note to xi. 2. 13]. The pāda-text divides mṛgaṇyūh: cf. Prāt. iii. 18.

27. Also the after one (āpara) slays with an arrow, fitting it (?), the one shooting (-āsin) in front; also of the front one, smiting down, the after one smites down in return.

This obscure and probably corrupt verse gets no help from Ppp., which merely reads uto for uta in c. The Pet. Lex. suggests emendation of -ādya to -dhāya in b, and the translation implies the change.

28. Hear thou, verily, these words of mine; then go whence thou camest, to meet him who made thee.

Ppp. reads at the end punaḥ for prati.

29. The slaying of an innocent person is indeed fearful, O witchcraft; slay thou not our cow, horse, man; wheresoever thou art set down, from there we make thee stand up; become thou lighter than a leaf.

The pada-text has in đ út : sthāp ; the example of the omitted s is quoted under Prāt. ii. 18. The verse (10 + 10 : 8 + 8 + 8 = 44) is very badly defined by the Anukr. Ppp. reads in a -hatyam and bhīman.

30. If ye are covered (ā-vṛ) with darkness, like those who are girt (abhi-dhā) with a net — having torn up (sam-lup) all witchcrafts from here, we send them forth again to the maker.

The pada-text strangely reads āvṛtā in a, instead of -tāh.

31. The progeny of the witchcraft-maker, of him of secret spells, of him that devises against [others], O witchcraft, do thou kill; do not leave [them alive]; slay yonder witchcraft-makers.

Ppp. uses the singular in d.

32. As the sun is freed out of darkness, [and] quits the night and the ensigns of the dawn, so do I quit all evil-natured magic made by the witchcraft-maker, as an elephant the difficult haze (?rājas).

Ppp. puts tamasas before mucyate in a, reads ketum at end of b, and omits d altogether. The verse (12 + 11 : 8 + 8 + 11 = 50) lacks two syllables of being a full atiyagati (52). The prattka (yathā sūrya) is quoted in Kāuṣ. 39. 26; but the comm. regards vii. 13. 1, and not this, as the verse intended.

2. The wonderful structure of man.

[Nārāyaṇa. — trayastrīṇat. pārṣṇisūktam; pāuruṣam; brahmaṇprākāśisūktam (31, 32. sāk-śātparabrahmaṇprākāśinyāu). ānuṣṭubham : 1-4, 7, 8. triṣṭubh; 6, 11. jagatī; 28. bhurig ṛkati.]

Found also (except vss. 8, 18, 23, 28) in Pāipp. xvi. (in the verse-order 1-7, 26, 27, 9-12, 17, 15, 13, 14, 16, 22, 19, 24, 25, 20, 21, 30, 29, 31, 32, 33). Quoted (vs. 1) in Vāit. 37. 19, together with the other puruṣasūktā (xix. 6), in the puruṣamedha or human sacrifice; not noticed in Kāuṣ.

Translated: Muir, v. 375 (nearly all); Ludwig, p. 398; Scherman, Philosophische Hymnen, p. 41 (nearly all); Deussen, Geschichte, i. 1. 265; Henry, 5, 45; Griffith, ii. 6.

1. By whom were brought the two heels of a man (pūruṣa)? by whom was his flesh put together? by whom his two ankle-joints (gulphā)? by whom his cunning (peṇana) fingers? by whom his apertures? by whom his (two) uchlakhs in the midst? who [put together] his footing (pratiṣṭhā)?

The pada-text divides utoṣlakhāu, as if there were such a word as lakha. Ppp. reads, instead of keno 'chlakhāu, keno 'cchinam ko; also, in a, pārṣṇīy ābhṛte pāuruṣasya; and, in c, peṇinī. Peṇana is more literally 'arranging, adorning.'

2. From what, now, did they make a man's two ankle-joints below, his two knee-joints above? separating (?nir?) his two back-thighs (jāṅghā), where, forsooth, did they set them in? the two joints of his knees — who indeed understands (cit) that?

Nirṭya is a difficult and doubtful expression here. Ppp. reads nirṭijaṅghe ni dadhuḥ; also, in ḍ, saṁdhīm ā ca jānā. In b it has again pāuruṣasya.

3. There is joined, fourfold (cātuṣṭaya), with closed (sāmhita-) ends, above the two knees, the pliant (ṣithirā) trunk; what the hips are, the thighs—who indeed produced (jan) that, by which the body (kūsindha) became very firm?

Ppp. reads saṁhatantam in a, and sudhṛtam in ḍ.

4. How many gods [and] which were they, who gathered (ci) the breast, the neck-bones of man? how many disposed the two teats? who the two collar-bones (? kaphodā)? how many gathered the shoulder-bones (pl.)? how many the ribs?

Ppp. has again pāuruṣasya in b. In c it reads ni dadhuḥ kaṣ kapolāu. The mss. are extremely discordant as to the form of the word which our edition gives as kaph-āudāu; that is the reading of Bp.W.D.; P.M.R.s.m. have kaphedāu, I. kaphāujhāu, E.O.R.p.m.T.K. kaphodāu (which accordingly has the most authority in its favor [all SPP's mss. read so]); several saṁhītā-mss. (P.M.T.O.p.m.R.s.m.) have kaṣ before it. The meaning given is, of course, conjectural only; 'collar-bone' is Ludwig's guess, and seems to suit the connection (though that is a rather weak ground of preference) better than the 'perhaps elbow' of the Pet. Lexx. The Anukr. takes no notice of the lacking syllable in a.

5. Who brought together his two arms, saying "he must perform heroism"? what god then set on his two shoulders upon the body (kūsindha)?

6. Who bored out the seven apertures in his head—these ears, the nostrils, the eyes, the mouth? in the might of whose conquest (vijayā) in many places quadrupeds [and] bipeds go their way.

Bp. reads at the end yāman. Ppp. puts nāsike after caṣṣaṇi, and reads in c vijayasya mahamāni, and at the end yomān. The Anukr. does not heed that ḍ is a triṣṭubh pāda.

7. Since in his jaws he put his ample (purūci) tongue, then attached (adhi-ṣṛi) [to it] great voice; he rolls greatly on among existences, clothing himself in the waters: who indeed understands that?

With c is to be compared ix. 10. 11 ḍ; the irregularity of the pāda is not noticed by the Anukr. Ppp. reads instead of c: sa ā varṇvarti mahinā vyomaḥ: avasānaḥ kata cit pra veda. Our text ought to read varṇvartti.

8. Which was that god who [produced] his brain, his forehead, his hindhead (? kakṛtikā), who first his skull, who, having gathered a gathering in man's jaws, ascended to heaven?

D. reads cityām in c; all the mss. agree in ruroha, although rurōha is obviously required. [Otherwise Henry.] The verse, as noted above, is wanting in Ppp.

9. Numerous things dear and not dear, sleep, oppressions and wearinesses, delights and pleasures—from where does formidable man bring (vah) them?

Ppp. reads in b -landriyaḥ, and in d again pāur-.

10. Whence now in man [come] mishap, ruin, perdition, misery, accomplishment, success, non-failure? whence thought (matī), uprisings (ūditi)?

The minor Pet. Lex. suggests for ūditi 'end, disappearance.' Ppp. reads in b kuto 'dhi pur-. Vyrdhis instead of avy- would improve both sense and meter.

11. Who disposed in him waters, moving apart, much moving, produced for river-running, strong (tīvrā), ruddy, red, dark and turbid, upward, downward, crosswise in man?

Ppp. reads in a āpo dadhāt, and in c combines (as the meter requires us to read) tīvrā 'ruṇā. The verse (8 + 8 + 7 : 11 + 11 = 45) is very stupidly defined as jagati by the Anukr.

12. Who set form in him? who both bulk (mahmān) and name? who [set] in him progress (gātī)? who display (keti)? who [set] behaviors (caritra) in man?

Ppp. again pāuruṣe at the end.

13. Who wove in him breath? who expiration and respiration (vyānā)? what god attached (adhi-ṣṛi) conspiracy (samānā) to man here?

Ppp. reads adadhāt for avayaṣ in a, and again pāuruṣe.

14. What one god set sacrifice in man here? who [set] in him truth? who untruth? whence [comes] death? whence the immortal?

Ppp. reads, for b etc., eko 'gre adhi pāuruṣe : ko anṛtaṁ ko mṛtyuṁ ko amṛtaṁ dadhāu.

15. Who put about him clothing (vāsa)? who prepared (kalpay-) his life-time? who extended to him strength? who prepared his swiftness?

Ppp. reads for a ko vāsasā pari dadhāt, and elides ko 'syā- in d.

16. With what did he stretch the waters along? with what did he make the day to shine? with what did he kindle (anu-idli) the dawn? with what did he give the coming-on of evening?

The pada-text reads āpaḥ (as in 11 a) in a. Ppp. elides 'nv after it. [For āindha, cf. Gram. § 684 c.]

17. Who put in him seed, saying "let his line be extended"? who conveyed into him wisdom? who gave (dadhā) [him] music? who dances?

Ppp. has, for a, ko 'smin reto 'dadhāt; at end of b, itah; for d, ko vāṣāṁ ko anṛtaṁ dadhāu.

18. With what did he cover this earth? with what did he surround the sky? by what is man a match for (abhi) mountains in greatness? by what, for deeds?

This verse, as noted above, is wanting in Ppp.

19. With what does he go after Parjanya? with what [after] the out-looking Soma? with what [after] both sacrifice and faith? by whom was mind put in him?

Ppp. reads āpnoti for anv eti, and has for c, d our 20 c, d (but puruṣaḥ in c).

20. Wherewith does he obtain one learned in revelation (grōtriya)? wherewith this most exalted one? wherewith does man [obtain] this Agni? wherewith did he measure (make?) the year?

Ppp. has for b our 19 b again; also puruṣaḥ in c.

21. The brāhman obtains one learned in revelation, the brāhman this most exalted one; the brāhman [as] man this Agni; the brāhman measured the year.

Here and in vss. 23 and 25 an instrumental is distinctly and strongly called for, instead of the nominative brāhma; yet to call brāhma an instr., and translate it as such, does not seem possible. [Cf. Caland, KZ. xxxi. 261.] Ppp. reads, for c, d, brahma yajñasya cṛaddhā ca brahmā 'smi ca hataṁ manaḥ.

22. Wherewith does he dwell upon (? anu-kṣi) the gods? wherewith [upon] the people of the god-folk? wherewith this other asterism? whereby is authority (kṣatrá) called real (sāt)?

The sense here is very obscure, and the rendering mechanical. [Griffith suggests that the point may lie in using nakṣatram as if it were na kṣatram, 'non-power,' in opposition to kṣatram in d.] Ppp. has, for b, kena devtr ajanayad diṣaḥ. The meter requires in a kṣyati, as the forms are written in some texts. The Anukr. takes no notice of the irregularity.

23. The brāhman dwells upon the gods, the brāhman [upon] the people of the god-folk; the brāhman this other asterism; the brāhman is called real authority.

This verse is wanting in Ppp.

24. By whom is this earth disposed? by whom the sky set above? by whom this atmosphere, the expanse, set aloft and across?

Ppp. reads, for a, kenē 'daṁ bhūmīr nihataḥ.

25. By the brāhman is the earth disposed; the brāhman [is] the sky set above, the brāhman this atmosphere, the expanse, set aloft and across.

Ppp. reads, for a, b, brahmaṇā bhūmīr niyatā brahma dyām uttarām dadhāu, thus relieving in b the difficulty as to the construction of brahma. [Cf. note to vs. 21.]

26. Atharvan, having sewed together his head, and also (yāt) his heart — aloft from the brain the purifying one sent [them] forth, out of the head.

'The purifying one' (pāvamāna) is soma; it is perhaps identified here with Atharvan; but the whole sense is extremely obscure. Ppp. reads at the end śrīṣṇaḥ.

27. Verily that head of Atharvan [is] a god-vessel, pressed together; breath defends that, the head, food, also mind.

For samubhūta, as said of a koṣa, compare ix. 3. 20 above. Ppp. reads prāṇo 'bhi in c, and grīm for gīras in d. The three nouns in d might be nom. instead of accus.

28. Was he now created upward (ūrdhvā)? [or] was he now created crosswise? did man grow unto (ā-bhū) all the quarters? — he who knoweth the brāhman's stronghold, from which man is [so] called.

The meaning of the protracted final syllables here is unquestionable, although it has been overlooked by both Muir and Ludwig. The cases of protraction call out much treatment from the Prāt.: see the rules i. 70, 97, 105; iv. 6, 120, 121, and the notes upon them. The mss. differ in regard to accenting or leaving unaccented the final syllable of b; nor is the usage of either RV. or AV. sufficiently settled to determine which reading ought to be preferred. Puruṣa in this verse and the sequel seems to approach its later meaning of 'supernal Person or Spirit.' There is no apparent connection between the two halves of the verse: for the second, see vs. 30. The whole verse is wanting in Ppp. The Anukr. should have called it a prastārapaṇkī; bhurig bṛhatī is purely mechanical (10 + 11 : 8 + 8 = 37).

29. Whoever indeed knoweth that brāhman's stronghold, covered with amṛta — unto him both the brāhman and the Brahmins have given sight, breath, progeny.

The verse is found also in TA. (i. 27. 3), which reads pūrtim at end of b, brāhmā for brāhmāṇ in b, and āyuh kīrtim for caṣṣuḥ prāṇam in d (the accentuation is corrupt and worthless through the whole verse). Ppp. has also in d āyus for caṣṣuḥ, and at the end dadhuḥ.

30. Him verily sight doth not desert, nor breath, before old age, who knoweth the brāhman's stronghold (pūr), from which man (pūruṣa) is [so] called.

The latter half-verse is identical with 28 c, d. Ppp. reads puraḥ at end of b, and yasmāt in d.

31. Eight-wheeled, nine-doored, is the impregnable stronghold of the gods; in that is a golden vessel, heaven-going (svargā), covered with light.

The verse is found also in TA. (i. 27. 2-3), which reads hiraṇmayas in c, and inserts lokās after svargās in d. [Reminiscences of this verse are seen in x. 8. 43 a, b.]

32. In that golden vessel, three-spoked, having three supports — what soul-possessing monster (yakṣā) there is in it, that verily the knowers of the brāhman know.

Ppp. reads in b tridīve for tryare, and, in c, antar for yakṣam. [Pādas c, d recur at x. 8. 43 c, d.]

33. The brāhman entered into the resplendent, yellow, golden, unconquered stronghold, that was all surrounded with glory.

The verse is found also in TA. (i. 27. 3-4), which again reads hiraṇmayīm, and brahmā viveṇa [so both ed's] (the accent has no authority, as it is full of faults in this vicinity; but the comm. explains brahmā as = prajāpatiḥ: which also does not go for much). [TA. has further vi- for pra- at the beginning and ends with -jitā (which the comm. explains as -jitām).] Ppp. likewise has hiraṇmayīm; and further, in d viveṇa ca parājitaḥ.

3. With an amulet of varaṇā.

[Atharvan. — pañcaviṅśakam. mantruktavarāṇadevatyaṃ uta vānaspatyaḥ; cāndramasam. ānuṣṭubham : 2, 3, 6. bhurik triṣṭubh; 8, 13, 14. pathyāpañkti; 11, 16. bhurij; 15, 17-25. 6p. jagati.]

Found also in Pāipp. xvi. (in the verse-order 1-7, 9, 8, 10-13, 15, 14, 16, 17, 19, 22, 21, 20, 18, 24; 23 and 25 are wanting). Quoted (vs. 1) in Kāuc. 19. 22, with three other hymns, in connection with the binding on of amulets for welfare. Not noticed in Vait.

Translated: Zimmer, p. 60 (17 vss.); Henry, 9, 53; Griffith, ii. 11; Bloomfield, 81, 605.

1. This varaṇā [is] my rival-destroying, virile (vṛṣan) amulet; with it do thou take hold of thy foes, slaughter thy injurers (duras-).

The varaṇa is a tree, the Cratæva Roxburghii found throughout India. The name comes doubtless from the root vr 'cover, protect, ward off'; and the hymn is full of allusions to a connection with that root; [cf. the play in iv. 7. 1 and vi. 85. 1]. Ppp. reads throughout varuṇa, which is also in later Skt. recognized as a form of the tree-name.

2. Crush them, slaughter, take hold; be the amulet thy forerunner in front; the gods by the varaṇā warded off the hostile practice (abhyācārā) of the Asuras from one morrow to another.

The comm. to Prāt. iii. 80 quotes the beginning of the verse as example of ena after pra. It is unnecessary to view, with the Anukr., the verse as redundant. Ppp. combines te 'stu in b.

3. This amulet, the varaṇā, all-healing, thousand-eyed, yellow, golden — it shall make thy foes go downward; do thou, in front, damage them that hate thee.

Ppp. reads hiraṇmayāḥ at end of b, and yas for sa at beginning of c. The verse is rather svarāj than bhurij.

4. This varaṇā [shall ward off] the witchcraft extended for thee; this shall shield thee against fear arising from men, this against all evil.

Ppp. preserves unity of construction through the verse, by reading, for b, c: pāuruṣeyam ayaṃ vadham : ayaṃ te sarvaṃ pāpmānaṃ.

5. The varaṇḍ, this divine forest-tree, shall ward off; the yakṣma that has entered into this man — that have the gods warded off.

We had this verse above, as vi. 85. 1. The Anukr. takes no notice in either place of the deficient syllable in a. Ppp. reads here, for b, idaṁ deva bṛhaspatiḥ; and, for c, yakṣmā pratiṣṭhā yo 'smin; [and then taṁ u etc.].

6. If, having slept, thou shalt see an evil dream; if a wild beast (mṛgā) shall run a disagreeable course — from overmuch (? pari-) sneezing, from the evil utterance of a bird (çakīni), this amulet, the varaṇḍ, shall shield thee.

The translation implies in b emendation of yāti to yādi, which seems unavoidable. Ppp., however, appears to have yati; it reads further in b mṛgaçrutani and añuṣṭam, in c paricchavā, [and in d vārayātāi]. The verse is included in the duḥsvapna-nāçana gaṇa: see note to Kāuç. 46. 9.

7. From the niggard, from perdition, from sorcery, also from fear, from the more violent deadly weapon of death, the varaṇḍ shall shield thee.

Ppp. reads, for d, tvaṁ varuṇo vāraya.

8. What sin my mother, what my father, and what my own brothers, what we ourselves have done, from that shall this divine forest-tree shield us.

Ppp. reads tasmāt for tatas in d, and, for e, idaṁ deva bṛhaspatiḥ: compare its version of 5 b.

9. Driven (vyath) forth by the varaṇḍ, my enemies (bhrātṛvya) [who are my] kinsmen have gone unto unlighted (? aśṛta) space (rājas); let them go to lowest darkness.

10. Unharméd [am] I, with unharméd kine, long-lived, having all my men; let this amulet, the varaṇḍ, protect me, being such, from every quarter.

Ppp. reads in b pāuruṣaḥ (as usual, where pār- and not pūr- is meant).

11. This varaṇḍ on my breast, king, divine forest-tree — let it drive (bādḥ) away my foes, as Indra the barbarians, the Asuras.

The verse is quoted in the schol. to Kāuç. 10. 2. Ppp. combines varuṇo 'rasi, as the meter requires, but as the Anukr. takes pains not to authorize. Ppp. also exchanges the second halves of vss. 11 and 12.

12. I bear this varaṇḍ being long-lived, one of a hundred autumns; may it assign to me both kingdom and authority, to me cattle and force.

Ppp., as noted above, reads for the second half of this verse our 11 c, d, and vice versa.

13. As the wind breaks with force the trees, the forest-trees, so do thou break my rivals, those born before and after ; let the varaṇā defend thee.

Ppp. reads jīruān for vrkṣān in b; and, in c, -tnāns tvam bhañdhi. [With d, cf. the Ppp. vs. cited under iii. 6. 2.]

14. As both wind and fire devour (psā) the trees, the forest-trees, so do thou devour my rivals, those born etc. etc.

Ppp. again relieves the redundancy of expression by reading sarvān instead of vrkṣān in b; also it has in c -tnāns tvam for -tnān me.

15. As, destroyed by the wind, the trees lie prostrate (nyārpita), so do thou destroy, prostrate my rivals, those born etc. etc.

Ppp. is quite corrupt in this verse, but does not appear to offer any variant. Prā kṣipñhi properly ought to be divided in our text.

16. Them, O varaṇā, do thou cut off (pra-chid), before what is appointed (diṣṭā), before [the end of] their life-time — them who strive to damage him in respect to cattle, and who are intent to damage his kingdom.

Ppp. reads, for b, purā dṛṣṭān parā 'yuṣaḥ. [In c, pronounce yāt 'nam.]

17. As the sun shines exceedingly, as in it brilliancy is set, so let the varaṇā amulet fix (ni-yam) in me fame [and] growth ; let it sprinkle me with brilliancy ; let it anoint me with glory.

Part of the mss. (P.M.D.) accent asmin in b. Ppp. reads, for c etc., evā sapatnāns tvam sarvān atī bhāhi syaço varuṇas tvā 'bhi rakṣatu. [Either Mr. Whitney took me as locative (Gram. § 492 a); or else his 'in me' is an inadvertence for 'for me.']

18. As glory [is] in the moon, and in the men-beholding Āditya, so let the varaṇā amulet etc. etc.

From here on, Ppp. has the same refrain [as the Berlin text], only reading at the end mām.

19. As glory [is] in the earth, as in this Jātavedas, so let the varaṇā amulet etc. etc.

20. As glory [is] in the maiden, as in this constructed (sambhṛta) chariot, so let the varaṇā amulet etc. etc.

21. As glory [is] in Soma-drink, as in honey-mixture [is] glory, so let the varaṇā amulet etc. etc.

22. As glory [is] in the agnihotrā, as in the vāsaṭ-utterance [is] glory, so let the varaṇā amulet etc. etc.

All the mss. save P.M.O. have yaço 'gnihotre in a, and this is accordingly the better-supported reading.

23. As glory [is] set in the sacrificer, as in this sacrifice, so let the varaṇā amulet etc. etc.

Wanting in Ppp., as above noted.

24. As glory [is] in Prajāpati, as in this most exalted one, so let the varaṇā amulet etc. etc.

Ppp. reads jātavedasi instead of paramēṣṭhini.

25. As in the gods [is] immortality (amṛta), as in them is set truth, so let the varaṇā amulet etc. etc.

[The quoted Anukr. seems to say "varaṇāu" (intending varaṇo?).]

4. Against snakes and their poison.

[Garutman.—śaṭvīṇṇaṭi. takṣakadāivatam. ānuṣṭubham: 1. pathyāpāṇkti; 2. 3-p. jayamadyā gāyatrī; 3. 4. pathyābrhā; 8. uṣṇiggarbhā parātriṣṭubh; 12. bhurij gāyatrī; 16. 3-p. pratiṣṭhā gāyatrī; 21. kakummatī; 23. triṣṭubh; 26. 3-av. 6-p. brhātigarbhā kakummatī bhurik triṣṭubh.]

Found also in Pāipp. xvi. (with one or two changes of order: see below). Not noticed in Vāit. Quoted (vs. 1), as addressed to Takṣaka (king of the serpent-divinities), in Kāuṣ. 32. 20, and also 139. 8, in the ceremonies of beginning Vedic study (see further under vss. 25, 26).

Translated: Ludwig, p. 502; Henry, II, 56; Griffith, II, 14; Bloomfield, 152, 605.

1. Indra's [was] the first chariot, the gods' the after chariot, Varuna's the third one; the snakes' chariot, the furthest one (?), hath run against the pillar: then may it come to harm (?).

There are very questionable points here, the translation of ḍ implies emendation of apamā (p. apaomā) to apamās; yet apa-mā might perhaps be understood adverbially (like upamā, p. upaomā: twice in RV.). Ppp. reads upamā here. The translation of the last clause implies the reading āthā riṣat, which is given by several mss. (P.M.I.K.) and by Ppp., and which the meter favors; but such variants as ariṣat for arṣat are found elsewhere, and the ms. authority is decidedly in favor of arṣat, as the pada-texts read (but Kp. arḍvyat, by a curious blunder) — if only we knew what to make of it. No indicative form not an aorist can be coördinated with arat.

2. Darbhā-grass, brightness, young shoot (? tarūṇaka); horse's tail-tuft, rough-one's tail-tuft; chariot's seat (? bāndhura).

The translation, of course, is only mechanical. [Henry, Mém. de la Soc. de Ling., ix. 238, corrects an error of his version.] We should have expected the Anukr. at least to add bhurij to its definition of the verse as a gāyatrī (8 + 11 : 6 = 25). O. (and E. in margin) read puruṣasya in b.

3. Smite down, O white one, with the foot, both the fore and the hind; like water-floated wood, sapless [is] the snakes' poison, fierce water (vār).

Ppp. puts the verse after our 4, and reads at the end vār id ugram. Part of our mss. (T.D.K.) read vār, accented, in both verses, and that seems most likely to be the true reading; the translation adopts it. [Pischel takes it as "halte auf," Ved. Stud.,

ii. 75.] The first half-verse is read in several grhya-sūtras (AGS. ii. 3. 3; PGS. ii. 14. 4; ÇGS. iv. 18; HGS. ii. 16. 8), as part of a verse in a charm against serpents; they all begin with apa instead of ava. [Cf. also MGS. ii. 7. 1 a.] The verse (8+8:8+8+3) would be more properly called upariṣṭād brhatt. [Cf. xviii. 1. 32 n.]

4. The aramghuṣā, having immersed, having emerged, said again: like water-floated wood, sapless is the snake's poison, fierce water.

The pada-text divides aramghuṣāḥ in a, and the Pet. Lexx. conjecture the meaning accordingly to be 'loud-sounding.' [Pischel discusses the vs., Ved. Stud., ii. 74.] Ppp. is corrupt at the beginning, but seems to read udaṅghojyonmajya punar etc.; [again it ends with vār id ugram].

5. Pāidva slays the kasarṇṭla (snake), Pāidva the whitish and the black; Pāidva hath split altogether the head of the ratharvā, of the ṛdākū.

Pāidva 'of Pedu' is the white snake-destroying horse given by the Aṣvins to Pedu (RV. i. 117-119). [Cf. Bergaigne, Rel. Véd. ii. 451.] For kasarṇṭlam Ppp. reads kvaṣarṇṭlam, and, for ratharvāś, rathavrihā. The exceptional accent of ṛdākū is noted in the comm. to Prāt. iii. 60. The pada-text divides neither kasarṇṭla nor ratharvā.

6. Go forth first, O Pāidva; we come after thee; cast thou out the snakes from the road by which we come.

7. Here was Pāidva born; this [is] his going-away; these [are] the tracks of the snake-slaying vigorous steed.

[For the difficult and debatable form ahighnyo, BR. and W. assume a stem ahighnī. This is probably to be considered, not as a feminine formation (cf. my Noun-Inflection, JAOS. x., p. 384), but rather as a masculine, like the masc. proper names Tiraçcī (l.c., p. 367 end), or, better, like the masculines ahī, āpahī, ṛavī, starī etc. (about a dozen of them, l.c., p. 369, middle: genitive ahyō etc.). In the latter case we might regard the printed accent ahighnyō, when contrasted with the ahyō of the RV., as characteristic of the AV. (cf. l.c., p. 369 top): but both W's and SPP's authorities are here uncertain as to the accent: the majority have ahighnyō, p. ahighnyāḥ; K. and three of SPP's have ahighnyō; while W's D. and SPP's P.² have āhīghnyāḥ. — Or have we, after all, to assume a stem ahighnī (cf. sahasraghnī, xi. 2. 12), of which this would be a genitive like ary-ās? — One wonders why the reading is not simply ahighnō; but not a ms., either of W's or of SPP's, gives that reading. — Cf. atighnyās, xi. 7. 16.]

8. What is shut together may it not open; what is opened may it not shut together; in this field [are] two snakes, both a female and a male; those [are] both sapless.

The first half-verse we had above as vi. 56. 1 c, d [see note for suggested emendation], also applied to a snake. The curiously irregular verse (7+7:8[7?]+11=33) is strangely defined by the Anukr.

9. Sapless here [are] the snakes, they that are near and they that are far; with a club (ghandā) I slay the stinger (viṣṭika), with a staff the snake that has come.

The second half-verse is found in a suppl. to RV. i. 191; see Aufrecht's RV.², p. 672; instead of ahim is there read aham. Ppp. reads ye 'nti te ca in b; and all our mss. [save D., which has diti] leave anti unaccented (it is emended to ānti in our text), as if by some carelessness ye 'nti had been changed to ye anti; it is one of the strangest of the many strange blunders of the AV. text. [One might think that this vs. or one much like it was had in mind by Kārṇa in his address to Çālyā, MBh. viii. 40. 33 = 1848.]

10. This is the remedy of both, of the ill-horse (aghāçvā) and of the constrictor; the mischievous (aghāy-) snake hath Indra, the snake hath Pāidva put in my power (randhay-).

The Anukr. takes no notice of any deficiency in b; it can only be supplied by the violent resolution su-aj-. Ppp. rectifies the meter by the better reading vṛçcikasya ca [cf. our 15 c, d, below].

11. We reverence Pāidva, the staunch one, of staunch abode (-dhāman); here behind sit ṛdākus, plotting forth.

Ppp. combines at the end -dhyatā "sate". The Anukr. treats b as regular, thus sanctioning the resolution -dhā-na-naḥ.

12. Of lost lives, of lost poison [are they], slain by the thunderbolt-bearing Indra; Indra hath slain, we have slain.

13. Slain [are] the cross-lined ones, crushed down the ṛdākus; slay thou the whitish [snake] that makes a great hood, the black snake, in the darbhā-grasses.

'Hood,' dāru, lit. 'spoon.' Ppp. reads in c kanikradam. [The first half recurs as the second of vs. 20.]

14. The little girl of the Kirātas, she the little one, digs a remedy, with golden shovels, upon the ridges (sānu) of the mountains.

15. Hither hath come the young physician, slayer of the spotted ones, unconquered; he verily is a grinder-up of both, the constrictor and the stinger.

16. Indra hath put the snake in my power, [also] both Mitra and Varuṇa, and Vāta ('wind') and Parjanya, both of them.

The name given by the Anukr. to the verse is of uncertain value; it is possible to read the last pāda either as 8 or as 6 syllables. Ppp. reads in a me 'hīn ajambhayat. Many of our mss. (P.I.O.R.T.K.) [and the majority of SPP's] read in c -janyā bhā, but it is contrary to all rule and analogy; [and W's Bp. and SPP's pada-text give -janyā ubhā].

17. Indra hath put the snake in my power, the ṛdāku and the she-ṛdākā, the constrictor, the cross-lined one, the kasarṇīla, the dāconasi.

The accent ṛdākvām (instead of -kvām) is read by all the mss., and hence by our text; but it is incontestably wrong. The Anukr. takes no notice of the lacking syllable in c. Ppp. reads [for a] pāidvo me 'hīn ajambhayat, and [for d] kuçirṇīlāṁ naçonaçīm.

18. Indra hath slain first thy progenitor, O snake; of them, being shattered, what forsooth can be their sap?

Ppp. reads vas instead of u in c.

19. Since I have grasped together their heads, as a fisherman the kārvara; having gone away to the middle of the river, I have washed out the snake's poison.

The mss. do not in general distinguish ṣṭ and ṣṭh, and pāuñjīṣṭa would be equally correct here. Ppp. reads pāuñjīṣṭhī'va.

20. The poison of all snakes let the rivers carry away; slain [are] the cross-lined ones, crushed down the pīdākus.

21. I choose as it were the filaments of herbs successfully; I conduct as it were mares; O snake, let thy poison come out.

* Apparently processes analogous to that of extracting the poison are referred to. The pada-division sādhucyā is prescribed by Prāt. iv. 30. There seems to be no reason why the Anukr. should call the verse kakummatī.

22. What poison is in fire, in the sun, what in the earth, in herbs, kāndā-poison, kandknaka — let thy poison come out; let it come.

Ppp. has karikradam [cf. vs. 13] instead of kanaknakam, and at the end vahī [intending ahe?] instead of viṣam; and it puts next our vs. 25.

23. Whichever of the snakes [are] fire-born, herb-born, whichever came hither (ā-bhū) [as] water-born lightnings; those of which the kinds are variously great — to those serpents would we pay worship with reverence.

Ppp. reads, for b etc., ye abhrajā vidyutā "bahūvuh : tāsāṃ jātāni bahudhā bahūni tebhyah sarvebhyo etc.

24. Thou art a girl, tāudī by name; verily thou art by name ghee-like (ghṛtācī); I take beneath thy poison-spoiling track.

That is, possibly, 'I put it beneath me, walk in it.' The obscure tāudī (ultimately from tud 'thrust'?) is read also by Ppp., which combines vā'si in b, and has the easier reading pados for padam in c.

25. Remove thou [it] from every limb; make [it] avoid the heart; then, what keenness (tējas) the poison has, let that go downward for thee.

Ppp. reads hṛdayo in b, and combines tejo av- in c, d. The verse is quoted in Kāuṣ. 32. 23.

26. He (it?) hath come to be afar; he hath obstructed the poison; he hath mixed poison in poison; Agni hath put out the snake's poison; Soma hath conducted [it] out; the poison hath gone after the biter; the snake hath died.

Ppp. reads (corruptly) āre 'bhūd viṣam aro viṣe viṣam aprayāg api : agnir aher nir adhād viṣam somo anynāiḥ dviṣam ahir amṛtaḥ. Kāuṣ. prescribes the use of the verse in 32. 24. [With the ideas of b and e, cf. vii. 88. 1. With reference to the auto-toxic action of snake-venoms, see note to v. 13. 4.]

5. Preparation and use of water-thunderbolts.

[The hymn is mingled prose and verse: 22-24, 42-43, 45-50, and parts of 7-14 and 36-41 are metrical. Cf. Whitney, Index, p. 5.] This hymn, which by the mss. is given and numbered as one,* without any intimation of a subdivision, is by the Anukr. divided into four † parts, which are even ascribed to different authors. [Part A = verses 1-24; B = 25-35; C = 37-41; D = 42-50.] Verses 1-41, or the first three divisions, are found also in Pāipp. xvi.; part of the last division (vss. 45, 42 c, d, 43, 44, in this order), in Pāipp. i. — ["Water-thunderbolts" appears to me to be nothing more than a highfalutin name, well befitting the black magic of this hymn, for handfuls of water hurled with much hocus-pocus.]

† [Just where vs. 36 belongs — if it does not form a division by itself — is not clear; it goes well as an ending to the group of vss. 25-35 and is cited with them (Keçava, p. 352³¹: iti dvādaçabhikī). On the other hand, the Anukr. expressly defines division B as ekādaça; and the corrupt mārtvi or mārtvi of the Anukr. seems to contain an ascription of authorship for vs. 36. Dr. Ryder suggests that Mārtica may be intended (cf. vii. 62, 63; x. 10). See my arrangement of the Anukr. extracts just before vs. 25.]

[A carefully digested report of the ritual uses of this hymn, even now that Caland has done so much to elucidate them, would require more detailed study than I can at present give to it. Vāit. takes no notice of the hymn. The principal uses are treated in Kāuc. 49. I give them, following Caland, Altindisches Zauberritual, p. 171 f. — With the first halves of vss. 1-6 the performer washes the jar for the water; with the second halves of vss. 1-6 he begins to make use of (yunakti) the water (49. 3, 4). With vss. 7-14 he heats a part of it (see Keçava, p. 352¹⁹); and with the seven vss. 15-21 and with vs. 42 and vs. 50 he hurls "water-bolts" (49. 13). This last is done seven times (Caland, p. 172, n. 6): namely, to the east, with vss. 15, 42, 50; to the south, with vss. 16, 42, 50; to the west, with vss. 17, 42, 50; and so on, to the north, nadir, center, and zenith. — With vss. 25-36 he makes his Viṣṇu-strides (49. 14) against the foe. — Other citations under the verses.]

Translated: Henry, 14, 62; Griffith, ii. 18.

[A. 1. Indra's force are ye; Indra's power are ye; Indra's strength are ye; Indra's heroism are ye; Indra's manliness are ye; unto a conquering junction (yōga) with brahman-junctions I join you.

The pāda-text marks a pāda-division after each stha; but the Anukr. lumps all [up to the avasāna-mark] together as an abhikṛti-pāda (25 syll.), and reckons the whole verse (25 : 6 + 8 = 39) mechanically as a pañkti, because it contains nearly 40 syllables. Ppp. has in succession balam, nṛṇam, çuklam, vīryam, and in c, indrayogās.

[Render: 'for a use conducive to victory, with uses of incantation [or with masterly uses] [or with Brahman uses] I use you.' In brahma- I am inclined to see a triple śleṣa, the second sense being like that in the title Brahma-jāla-sutta (of the Dīgha-nikāya), 'the boss-net, the master-net.' In the first and second senses, brahma- is pertinent: not so in the sense of Brahman, in which last, however, it serves well enough for a point of departure for kṣatram, considering what black magic this is.]

2. Indra's force etc. etc.; unto a conquering junction, with kṣatrá- junctions I join you.

The connection of vss. 1 and 2 indicates that brāhman and kṣatrá, as often elsewhere, typify the Brahman and Kshatriya classes or castes.

3. Indra's force etc. etc.; unto a conquering junction, with Indra-junctions I join you.

Ppp. reads in c annayogāis.

4. Indra's force etc. etc.; unto a conquering junction, with Soma-junctions I join you.

Ppp. has this time brahmayogāis.

5. Indra's force etc. etc.; unto a conquering junction, with water-junctions I join you.

Ppp. reads apām yogāis.

6. Indra's force etc. etc.; unto a conquering junction; let all existences wait upon (upa-sthā) me; joined to me are ye, O waters.

The Anukr. quotes this verse by the first words that are peculiar to it, viz. viśvāni mā, but its description applies to the whole (25:6+11+6=48); probably jagat-garbhā is an oversight for triṣṭubhgarbhā. The Kāuṣ. quotes the common pratīka of the six verses at 49. 3, in a witchcraft-ceremony; and their common second part (jiṣṇave yogāya) at 49. 4, to accompany the 'joining of waters' (ity apo yunakti). According to the editor of Kāuṣ., vss. 6 and 7 are quoted also in 49. 24, 25; but it does not appear why the 'sixth' and 'seventh' verses of this hymn should be intended. [Caland, p. 173, in fact understands xiii. 3. 6, 7 as intended.] According to the comm. to Kāuṣ. 47. 31, these verses, with vss. 15-21, 42, 50, accompany the hurling of 'water-thunderbolts' (udavajra: cf. vs. 50 below), whatever those may be; it is perhaps their preparation that is the subject of these verses; in Kāuṣ. 49. 13, only vss. 15-21, 42, 50 are quoted together, in connection with the same [cf. the introduction]. [See above, p. lxxvi.]

7. Agni's portion are ye, sperm (? śukráṁ) of the waters, O heavenly waters; put ye splendor in us; with the ordinance (dhāman) of Prajāpati I set you for this world.

Ppp. reads devtr āpo.

8. Indra's portion are ye, sperm of the etc. etc.

9. Soma's portion are ye, sperm of the etc. etc.

10. Varuṇa's portion are ye, sperm of the etc. etc.

11. Mitra-and-Varuṇa's portion are ye, sperm of the etc. etc.

12. Yama's portion are ye, sperm of the etc. etc.
13. The Fathers' portion are ye, sperm of the etc. etc.
14. God Savitar's portion are ye, sperm of the etc. etc.

In these verses, Pāipp. makes 9 and 10, also 11 and 12, change places. After our 13 it inserts two more verses, beginning bṛhaspater and prajāpater; and in our 14 it omits devasya, and reads çuklaṣ devīr āpo. To read dhattana for dhatta [and pronounce dhāmanā] would make a regular anusṣubh of the refrain. The Anukr., as usual, gives no real description of the agglomeration, but calls 11 and 14 pañkti because they count up 40 syllables (9:8+7:8+8=40), and the others bṛhatti because they have nearly 36 syllables. As to the alleged quotation of vs. 7 in Kāuç. 49. 25, see above, note to vs. 6.

15. What of you, O waters, is the portion of waters within the waters, of the nature of sacrificial formula, sacrificing to the gods, that now I let go; that let me not wash down against myself; that do we let go against him who hates us, whom we hate; him may I slay (vadhi), him may I lay low, with this spell (brāhmaṇ), with this act, with this weapon (menī).

[Render c: 'therewith (i.e. apām bhāgena = udavajreṇa) do we let fly against (abhy-ati-sṛj) him or do we shoot against him who' etc.; i.e. ati-sṛj is used intransitively and "him" is governed by the abhi-.] [Pādas b, c are repeated below as xvi. 1. 4, 5.] At the beginning of c read tēna (accent-sign slipped out of place).

16. What of you, O waters, is the wave of the waters within the waters, etc. etc.

17. What of you, O waters, is the young (vatsā) of the waters within the waters, etc. etc.

18. What of you, O waters, is the bull of the waters within the waters etc. etc.

19. What of you, O waters, is the golden embryo of the waters within the waters, etc. etc.

20. What of you, O waters, is the heavenly spotted stone of the waters within the waters, etc. etc.

21. What of you, O waters, are the fires of the waters within the waters, of the nature of sacrificial formula, sacrificing to the gods, them now I let go; them let me not wash down against myself; them we let go against him who hates us, etc. etc.

[For c: 'with them do we let fly against him who' etc., as in vs. 15.] In vss. 17-21, after apām, Ppp. reads bindur, vego, vatsa, gāvo, garbho respectively. For the quotations in Kāuç. of the common prattika of vss. 15-21, together with those of vss. 42 and 50, [see the introduction]. In all the verses it is possible only by violence to make out the structure called for by the Anukramāṇī. [Delete the accent-mark over agnāyo.]

22. What untruth soever we have spoken since a three years' period, —let the waters protect me from all that difficulty, from distress.

We had the second half-verse as vii. 64. 1 c, d; and Ppp. has again the same variants as there; it also reads in a āikahāyanāt. The word trāihāyanāt (p. trāihāyanāt) is noted in Prāt. iv. 83. The verse is quoted in Kāuṣ. 46. 50 in a prāyaścitta ceremony [Keç. : for lying or cheating]; and it is reckoned (see note to Kāuṣ. 32. 27) as belonging to the ānholiṅga gāṇa. The Anukr. does not heed the redundant syllable in a.

23. I send you forth to the ocean; go ye unto your own lair; uninjured, of completed years (?); and let nothing whatever ail (am) us.

The third pāda apparently belongs to 'us,' though out of construction. [As to -hāyas, cf. viii. 2. 7, note, and Bergaigne, Rel. Véd., iii. 287.] The last pāda occurred above, as vi. 57. 3 b. The first two pādas, with the first word of the third, are found also in several sūtras : ÇÇS. iv. 11. 6; LÇS. ii. 1. 7; PGS. i. 3. 14; AÇS. iii. 11. 6; Āp. xiii. 18. 1; iv. 14. 4; the first three read in b abhi gacchata, the others api gacchata (and Āp. iv. 14. 4 has acchidraḥ instead of ariṣṭāḥ); the end of the verse is entirely different from ours, and more or less discordant in the various works. [See also MGS. ii. 11. 18 and the Index, p. 157.] Kāuṣ. quotes the verse at 6. 17, in a parvan ceremony; and with vs. 24, at 136. 6. Ppp. reads in a vo 'pasṛjāmi [and inverts the order of vss. 23 and 24].

24. Free from defilement (-ripṛā) [are] the waters; [let them carry] away from us defilement, forth from us sin, mishap (duritā), they of good aspect; let them carry forth evil dreaming, forth filth.

The verse is in part repeated below, as xvi. 1. 10, 11.

[B². (vs. 36). Mārtvī (f). — 5-p. atīṣakvārātījāgotagarbhā 'ṣti. See introduction.]

25. Viṣṇu's stride art thou, rival-slaying, earth-sharpened (-sāmṣita), Agni-brightened; after earth I stride out; from earth we disportion him who hates us, whom we hate; let him not live; him let breath quit.

The Pāipp. version of sections B. and C. agrees with that of our text with only trifling differences; the details are not furnished. It is not difficult to read this and the following verses of B. into śakvārī and atīṣakvārī verses, as required by the Anukr. (this, for example, as 10 + 10 : 9 + 8 : 9 + 10 = 56). The whole section, apparently, is quoted by its common pratīka in Kāuṣ. 6. 14, to accompany the taking of the Viṣṇu strides in a parvan ceremony; and again in 49. 14 [after hurling the water-bolts: cf. introd.]. [Cf. vii. 31. 1 d.]

26. Viṣṇu's stride art thou, rival-slaying, atmosphere-sharpened, Vāyu-brightened; after atmosphere I stride out; from atmosphere we disportion him who etc. etc.

27. Viṣṇu's stride art thou, rival-slaying, sky-sharpened, sun-brightened; after the sky I stride out; from the sky we disportion him who etc. etc.

A single ms. (R.) reads dyāūḥsāmṣitaḥ.

28. Viṣṇu's stride art thou, rival-slaying, quarter-sharpened, mind-brightened; after the quarters I stride out; from the quarters we disportion him who etc. etc.

29. Vishṇu's stride art thou, rival-slaying, region-sharpened, wind-brightened; after the regions I stride out; from the regions we disportion him who etc. etc.

30. Vishṇu's stride art thou, rival-slaying, verse-(īc-)sharpened, chant-(sāman-)brightened; after the verses I stride out; from the verses we disportion him who etc. etc.

Some of the mss. (E.s.m.R.K.) read in a -hā ṛks-.
 31. Vishṇu's stride art thou, rival-slaying, sacrifice-sharpened, brāhman-brightened; after the sacrifice I stride out; from the sacrifice we disportion him who etc. etc.

32. Vishṇu's stride art thou, rival-slaying, herb-sharpened, sōma-brightened; after the herbs I stride out; from the herbs we disportion him who etc. etc.

33. Vishṇu's stride art thou, rival-slaying, water-sharpened, Varuṇa-brightened; after the waters I stride out; from the waters we disportion him who etc. etc.

Read in b krame (an accent-sign slipped out of place).

34. Vishṇu's stride art thou, rival-slaying, plowing-sharpened, food-brightened; after plowing I stride out; from plowing we disportion him who etc. etc.

Read apō at beginning of b (an accent-sign slipped out of place).

35. Vishṇu's stride art thou, rival-slaying, breath-sharpened, man-(pūruṣa-)brightened; after breath I stride out; from breath we disportion him who etc. etc.

[Correct the edition: read -sañcītaḥ for -sañcītaḥ.]
 36. Ours [is] what is conquered, ours what has shot up; I have withstood (abhi-sthā) all fighters, niggards; now do I involve (nī-veṣṭ) the splendor, brightness, breath, life-time of him of such-and-such lineage, son of such-and-such mother; now do I make him fall (pad) downward.

[As to the place of this vs. in the general divisions of the hymn and its possible ascription to Mārīca, see the introd. and the Anukr. excerpts above.] With this vs. compare xvi. 8. 1; [also the mantra cited at Kāuṣ. 47. 22]. The vs. reads naturally as 62 syllables (11 + 11 : 15 + 13 + 12 = 62), but can be brought by forced resolutions up to a full aṣṭī (64 syll.). Abhy aṣṭhām is by Prāt. ii. 92.

[C. (vss. 37-41). Brahman. — pañca. pratimanantroktadevatyāḥ. 37. virāt purastādbyahā; 38. pūruṣaṇih; 39, 41. āṛṣṭ gāyatrī; 40. virād viṣamā gāyatrī.]

37. I turn after the sun's turn (āvṛt), after his turn to the right; let it yield (yam) me property; [let] it [yield] me Brahman-splendor.

The verse is quoted in Kāuṣ. 6. 15, in a parvan ceremony, accompanying a turn to the right (vss. 25-35 were quoted in the next preceding rule). [Cf. also MB. i. 6. 19, where the comm. cites also GGS. ii. 10. 27.]

38. I turn toward the quarters full of light; let them yield me property, let them etc. etc.

The metrical description of the Anukr. does not fit the verse (11:8+8) quite accurately. The resolution abhi-āv- is implied in all these verses.

39. I turn toward the seven seers; let them yield etc. etc.

40. I turn toward the brāhman; let it yield etc. etc.

41. I turn toward the Brahman; let them yield etc. etc.

42. Whom we hunt, him will we lay low with deadly weapons; by our spell (brāhman) have we made him fall (pad) into the opened mouth of the most exalted one.

Only the latter half-verse is found in Ppp. [namely, in i.]. The pada-text in d reads brāhmaṇā : ā : apī-. The quotation of the verse, with vss. 15-21, 50, in Kāuṣ. was noted above, [see introd.].

43. The missile hath closed upon him with the two tusks of Vāiṣṇānara; let this offering (dhuti) devour him, the very powerful divine fuel.

Ppp. reads sahvatsarasya instead of vāiṣṇānarasya.

44. King Varuṇa's bond art thou; do thou bind so-and-so, of such-and-such lineage, son of such-and-such mother, in food, in breath.

There is apparently something wrong, perhaps an omission, in the text of the Anukr. at this point; it reads triṣṭubh gāyatrāgarbhā st anuṣṭubh, and then passes to vs. 50, taking no notice of vss. 48, 49 (which are redundant triṣṭubhs : but see the note to vs. 49), [nor of vs. 47]. Our present verse (prose) reads most naturally as 10:12+7=29 syllables.

45. What food of thine, O Lord of earth (bhū), dwells upon the earth (prthivī) — of that, O lord of earth, do thou furnish unto us, O Prajāpati.

The Anukr. implies the contraction of kṣiyati in b to kṣyati (cf. above, 2. 22, 23). Ppp. [in i.] puts this verse before our vs. 42.

46. The heavenly waters have I honored; with sap have we been mingled; rich in milk, O Agni, have I come; unite me here with splendor.

47. Unite me, O Agni, with splendor, with progeny, with life-time; may the gods know me as such; may Indra know, together with the seers.

These two verses we had above, as vii. 89. 1, 2. Neither they nor the two that follow are found in Ppp. here.

48. What, O Agni, the pair utter in curses today, what harshness of speech the reciters produce: the shaft that is born of fury of the mind — with that pierce thou the sorcerers in the heart.

49. Crush away the sorcerers with heat; crush away, O Agni, the demon with flame; crush away with burning the false worshipers; crush away the greatly gleaming ones that feed on lives.

These two verses are viii. 3. 12, 13. As usual in such a case, only the first words are given here in the mss. (both pāda and saṁhitā): thus, yād agna itī dvē. Unfortunately it was overlooked by us that yād agne begins not only viii. 3. 12, but also vii. 61. 1; and, though both passages fit about equally ill into the connection here, yet the meter of vii. 61. 1, 2, being anuṣṭubh, implies a less oversight on the part of the Anukr., and, on the whole, the chance is in favor of the latter passage (vii. 61. 1, 2) being the one here intended. If in any one of the mss. accessible to us since the publication of the text there occurs anything to settle the question, it has been overlooked by us. [SPP. fills out the pratīka with viii. 3. 12, 13; but herein he may merely have followed the Berlin edition.]

50. I, knowing, hurl at this man, to split his head, the four-pointed (-bhṛṣṭ) thunderbolt of the waters; let it crush all his limbs: to this on my part let all the gods assent.

The Anukr., strictly understood, implies the resolution va-jṛ-am in a. For the quotations of the verse, with other verses of the hymn, by Kāuṣ., see above [introduction].

[The hymn exceeds the norm by 20 verses and the quoted Anukr. says viṇṇatīh.]

6. With an amulet.

[Bṛhaspati. — pañcatrinīṣat. mantroktaphālamānidevatyam uta vānaspatyam. Found also in great part (not vss. 18, 19, 23, 24, 26, 27, 29, 30, 33, 35) in Pāip. xvi. A number of verses and parts of verses are prescribed in Kāuṣ. 19 [and its schol.] to be used in various acts of a ceremony for prosperity, and a few in other connections. Verses 1 and 3 are also used in Vāit. [For details, see under the several verses.]

Translated: Henry, 18, 65; Griffith, ii. 21; Bloomfield, 84, 608.

1. The head of the niggardly (anātīyū) cousin, of the evil-hearted hater, I cut off with force.

The hymn (vs. 1) is quoted in Kāuṣ. 19. 22, with 3 and a couple of yet earlier hymns. At 8. 12, also, the verse is used in connection with the preparation of the darbha-sickle. Further, it is reckoned (note to Kāuṣ. 19. 1) as a puṣṭika mantra. In Vāit. 10. 2, it accompanies the cutting of a sacrificial post.

2. This amulet, born of the plow-share, shall make defense (vārman) for me; it hath come to me filled with stir-about, with sap, together with splendor.

Ppp. reads tr̥p̥las instead of p̥r̥ṇas in c. [Pāda b is cited with vss. 1, 4 c, 6 b in the schol. to Kāuṣ. 19. 23.]

3. In that the skilful smith (tákṣan) hath smitten thee away with the hand by a knife, from that let the lively, bright (śúci) waters purify thee, that art bright.

Ppp. has in b vācyā, which is the more proper form of the word. But vāsyā is read also in the Āp. (vii. 9. 9) version of the verse, which further has te for tvā in a, and, for c, d, āpas tat sarvaṁ jīvalāḥ śundhantu śucayaḥ śucin. In Kāuṣ. 8. 13 and Vait. 10. 3, the verse is used to accompany the washing off of an instrument or post.

4. Let this golden-garlanded amulet, bestowing (dhā) faith, sacrifice, greatness, dwell a guest in our house.

5. To it we distribute (kṣad) ghee, strong drink, honey, food after food; for us, as a father for his sons, let it provide (cikits-) what is better and better, more and more, morrow after morrow—the amulet, coming from the gods.

Ppp. omits the fifth pāda. By a curious blunder, most of our mss. (all save I.O.D.) leave surām in a unaccented; [and so do four of SPP's].

6. What amulet, plow-share, ghee-dripping, the formidable khadīrā, Brihaspati bound on, in order to force—that Agni fastened on; it yields (duh) to him sacrificial butter, more and more, morrow after morrow; with that do thou slay thy haters.

The series of epithets in b, c is an obscure one; perhaps 'made of khadīra-wood and shaped like a plow-share,' is meant; the comm. to Kāuṣ. 19. 23 says khādīryāḥ cibukāyāḥ kartavyāḥ. Ppp. reads after d ājyāya rasāya kam: so 'smā ājyaṁ duhe. There is no reason why the Anukr. should call the verse virāj.

7. What amulet etc. etc.—that Indra fastened on, in order to force, to heroism; it yields to him strength, more and more etc. etc.

8. What amulet etc. etc.—that Soma fastened on, in order to great hearing (śrōtra) [and] sight (cakṣas); it yields to him splendor, more and more etc. etc.

9. What amulet etc. etc.—that the sun fastened on; therewith he conquered these quarters; it yields to him growth (bhūti), more and more etc. etc.

Ppp. has Soma in this verse, and the sun in the preceding one; and here it reads varcas for bhūtim; for 8 e it has draviṇāya rasāya kam; and, for varcas, mahit (?).

10. What amulet etc. etc.—bearing that amulet, the moon conquered the strongholds of the Asuras, the golden [strongholds] of the Dānavas; it yields to him fortune, more and more etc. etc.

Ppp. reads tejas for griyam.

11. What amulet Brihaspati bound on for the swift wind, that yields him vigor (vājina), more and more etc. etc.

A number of our mss. (I.O.R.D.) read vājīnam in c. [So do the great majority of SPP's, and he adopts it in his text. But four of his read vājinam.] In this batch of verses (11-17) Ppp. has sundry unimportant exchanges and variants; the details are not given.

12. What amulet Brihaspati bound on for the swift wind, with that amulet the Aṅvins defend this plowing (kr̥ṣī); it yields for the two physicians greatness, more and more etc. etc.

13. What amulet Brihaspati bound on for the swift wind, Savitar, bearing that amulet, conquered with it this heaven (svār); it yields to him pleasantness (sānīṭā), more and more etc. etc.

14. What amulet Brihaspati bound on for the swift wind, bearing that amulet the waters run always unexhausted; it yields to them immortality (amīṭa), more and more etc. etc.

15. What amulet Brihaspati bound on for the swift wind, that healthful amulet king Varuṇa fastened on; it yields to him truth, more and more etc. etc.

16. What amulet Brihaspati bound on for the swift wind, bearing that amulet, the gods conquered by fight all worlds; it yields to them conquest, more and more etc. etc.

The pada-text resolves yudhājayān erroneously into yudhā ājayan (instead of aj).

17. What amulet Brihaspati bound on for the swift wind, that healthful amulet here the deities fastened on; it yields to them everything, more and more etc. etc.

Part of our mss. (Bp.P.W.I.D.K.) [and a great majority of SPP's] read amuñcata in d. [The error has doubtless crept in by confusion with the oft repeated abadhnata below and perhaps with the amuñcata of vs. 15. Cf. my note to vi. 74. 2.]

18. The seasons bound it on; they of the seasons bound it on; the year, having bound it on, defends all existence.

As noted above, this verse and the one following are wanting in Ppp.

19. The intermediate quarters bound on; the directions bound it on; the amulet created by Prajāpati hath made my haters beneath me (ādharma).

20. The Atharvans bound on; the descendants of Atharvan bound on; allied (medin) with them, the Aṅgirases split the strongholds of the barbarians; with it do thou slay thy haters.

21. Dhātār fastened it on; he disposed (vi-kṛp) [all] existence; with it do thou slay thy haters.

Ppp. reads in b subhūtiṇy akāṭpayat.

22. What [amulet] Brihaspati bound on for the gods, a destruction of Asuras—that amulet hath come here to me, together with sap, with splendor.

Ppp. reads in b -kṣatim, and substitutes for c, d our 23 c, d (23, 24, 26, 27, 29, 30, 33, 35 being wanting in Ppp.).

23. What [amulet] etc. etc., together with kine, with goats and sheep, together with food, with progeny.

24. What [amulet] etc. etc., together with rice and barley, together with greatness, growth.

25. What [amulet] etc. etc., with a stream of honey, of ghee, together with sweet drink — the amulet.

26. What [amulet] etc. etc., together with refreshment, with milk, together with property, with fortune.

27. What [amulet] etc. etc., together with brightness, with brilliance, together with glory, with fame.

The mss. vary greatly as to the accent of kīrtyā, only D. having the correct kīrtyā; P.M.T. have kīrtyā, the rest kīrtyā. [Cf. JAOS. x. 381. Correct the Berlin edition, and also that of SPP., who has kīrtyā, against the majority of his authorities.]

28. What [amulet] etc. etc., together with all growths.

Ppp. reads oṣasā tejasā saha.

29. This amulet here let the deities give to me in order to prosperity — the overpowering, dominion-increasing, rival-damaging amulet.

This verse and the one following are quoted in Kāuṣ. 19.25, in connection with earlier quotations from this same hymn; [the second pāda of this verse further in the schol. to 19.22].

30. Together with brāhman, with brightness, I fasten on myself the propitious one; free from rivals, rival-slaying, it hath made my rivals beneath me.

Besides the quotation in Kāuṣ. 19.25 (see just above), this verse is used in the comm. to Kāuṣ. 26.40. Muñcāsi in b is a misprint for muñcāmī.

31. Let this god-born amulet make me superior to my hater; whose milked-out milk these three worlds worship, let that amulet mount here upon me, in order to supremacy, at the head.

That is, probably, 'mount upon my head.' According to Prāt. ii. 65, we ought to read manīṣ kṛ-; [this is the reading of three of SPP's mss., but of none of W's so far as noted: both texts give manīṣ]. The pāda sa mā 'yam adhi rohatu (31 e, 32 c) is quoted in the comm. to Kāuṣ. 19.25. The Anukr. takes no notice of the redundant syllable in a. Ppp. reads, for e, sa tvā 'yam abhi rakṣatu.

32. What gods, Fathers, men, always subsist upon, let that amulet mount here upon me, in order to supremacy, at the head.

The Anukr. passes without notice the redundant syllable in a.

33. As seed in a cultivated field (urvādrā) grows up in what is dragged with the plow-share, so in me let progeny, cattle, food upon food, grow up.

The Anukr. seems to read c, d as 9 + 7 syllables.

34. On whom, O sacrifice-increasing amulet, I have fastened thee, propitious, him do thou quicken unto supremacy, O amulet of a hundred sacrificial gifts.

[Cf. Bloomfield, AJP. xvii. 409.]

35. This fuel, laid on together, do thou, O Agni, enjoying, welcome with oblations; in him may we find favor, welfare, progeny, sight, cattle — in Jātaśvedas kindled with worship (brāhman).

Some of our mss. (R.T.p.m.D.) read agne without accent, and this is decidedly preferable, since a pāda-division before juṣāpās gives an anuṣṭubh pāda followed by a triṣṭubh, while one after the same word gives a triṣṭubh followed by an irregular combination of syllables. The pada-text puts its mark of pāda-division after juṣāpās, to correspond with its accentuation of agne. [Of SPP's authorities, only four have agne against nine with agne, and his text adopts the latter reading.] The concluding division is hopelessly unmetrical. The Anukr. intends us to divide 8 + 11 (or 11 + 8) : 8 + 8 + 11 = 46, a virāḍ jagati. The verse is thrice quoted in Kāuṣ. (2. 41; 19. 24; 137. 30) to accompany the piling of fuel on the fire. It is wanting in Ppp.

[The quoted Anukr. says for this sixth hymn pañca (i.e. 5 over 30). — Here ends the third anuvāka, with 2 hymns and 85 verses.]

7. Mystic: on the skambhā or frame of creation.

[Atharvan (hṣudra). — catuṣcatvāriṇṇat. mantroktaskambhādhyātmadevatyam. trāiṣṭubham * : 1. virāḍ jagati; 2. 8. bhūrij; 7, 13. paraṇiḥ; 10, 14, 16, 18, 19. upariṣṭād bṛhatī; 11, 12, 15, 20, 22, 39. upariṣṭājjyotirjagati; 17. 3-av. 6-p. jagati; 21. bṛhatigarbhā 'nuṣṭubh; 23-30, 37, 40. anuṣṭubh; 31. madhyejyotirjagati; 32, 34, 36. upariṣṭādvirāḍ bṛhatī; 33. paraṇirāḍ anuṣṭubh; 35. 4-p. jagati; 38, 42, 43. triṣṭubh *; 41. āṛi 3-p. gāyatrī; 44. ārcy anuṣṭubh (?) †.]

Found also (except vss. 13, 42-44) in Pāipp. xvii. (with slight differences of order, noted under the verses). Neither Kāuṣ. nor Vāit. takes any notice of the hymn. — * [If the hymn is trāiṣṭubham, why are these verses specified? see note to 38.] † [As to the Anukr.'s description of this verse, see under the verse.]

Translated: Muir, v. 380-384 (vss. 1-41); Ludwig, p. 400; Scherman, p. 50 (vss. 1-41: with comment); Deussen, Geschichte, i. 1. 310 (sympathetic interpretation and useful introduction); Henry, 22, 68; Griffith, ii. 26. — As to the appearance of Brahm as a new conception, as a Wunderding (yakṣd: vs. 38), cf. the Kena Upaniṣad, § 3, vss. 14-25, and Deussen's introduction, Sechzig Upaniṣad's, p. 204. — The hymn is nearly related to the following one (8), and, with many a riddle and paradox, they both lead up to the fundamental conception of the Upaniṣads (see last verse of hymn 8), the idea of the Ātman. — In the new volume of the Ved. Stud., iii. 126 ff., Geldner discusses yakṣd at length.

1. In what member of him is penance situated? in what member of him is right (ṛtā) deposited? where is situated [his] vow (vratā), where his faith? in what member of him is truth established?

Ppp. combines in a taṭpo 'sya. In b, the pada-text reads asya : adhi : āhitam. There is no reason for calling the verse virāj.

2. From what member of him flames Agni? from what member blows (pū) Mātariṣvan? from what member doth the moon measure out, measuring the member of great Skambha?

Skambha, lit. 'prop, support, pillar,' strangely used in this hymn as frame of the universe or half-personified as its soul. Ppp. reads in ḍ skambhasya mahan mim-. [Read vintnāno in ḍ?]

3. In what member of him is situated the earth? in what member is situated the atmosphere? in what member is the sky set? in what member is situated what is beyond the sky?

This is one of the five verses (3-6, 9) which are left by the Anukr. to fall under the general description of the hymn as trāṣṭubham. All of them are more or less redundant; this, for example, is as much bhurij as vs. 2, which was so described. Ppp. puts the verse before our 2.

4. Whither desiring to attain does Agni flame aloft? whither desiring to attain blows Mātariṣvan? whither desiring to attain, the turns (āvṛt) go, that Skambha tell [me]: which forsooth is he?

Here we have two syllables in excess, unnoticed by the Anukr. Many of the mss. accent svīt in ḍ.

5. Whither go the half-months, whither the months, in concord with the year? whither the seasons go, whither they of the seasons, that Skambha tell [me]: which forsooth is he?

Again two unnoticed redundant syllables.

6. Whither desiring to attain run in concord the two maidens (yuvati) of diverse form, day-and-night? whither desiring to attain, the waters go, that Skambha tell [me]: which forsooth is he?

Here it is only the last pāda that is one syllable in excess. Ppp. puts the verse before our 5.

7. In what, having established [them], Prajāpati maintained all the worlds, that Skambha tell [me]: which forsooth is he?

Many of our mss. appear to read stabdhā in a, but it is doubtless only carelessness in writing. Here again, as above and in the verses below where the refrain is written out, part of the mss. accent svīt.

8. What that was highest, lowest, and what that was midmost Prajāpati created, of all forms — by how much did Skambha enter there? what did not enter, how much was that?

Or (in ḍ) 'what he did not enter.' The Anukr. this time notices the redundant syllable (in a).

9. By how much did Skambha enter the existent? how much of him lies along that which will exist? what one member he made thousand-fold, by how much did Skambha enter there?

The Anukr. again passes without notice the redundant syllable in c.

10. Where men know both worlds and receptacles (kôṣa), waters, brāhman, within which [are] both the non-existent and the existent — that Skambha tell [me]: which forsooth is he?

A part of this verse has disappeared in Ppp. [The pada reads āpaḥ and antāḥ.]

11. Where penance, striding forth, maintains the higher vow (vrata), where both right and faith, waters, brāhman, are set together, that Skambha etc. etc.

The verse ($8 + 8 : 8 + 8 + 12 = 44$) is, with those that agree with it, strangely named by the Anukr. [Ppp. exchanges the places of vrata and ṛta in b, c, and of āpas and brahma in d.]

12. In whom earth, atmosphere, in whom sky is set, where fire, moon, sun, wind stand fixed (ārpita), that Skambha etc. etc.

[The pada-text has ārpitāḥ, which SPP., with many of his samhitā-mss., adopts as samhitā-reading also; Ppp. has -tā.]

13. In whose member all the thirty-three gods are set together, that Skambha etc. etc.

Wanting in Ppp., as noted above.

14. Where the first-born seers, the verses, the chant, the sacrificial formula, the great one (mahī); in whom the sole seer is fixed — that Skambha etc. etc.

Mahī usually designates the earth; what in this connection it should be meant to apply to is doubtful. All the samhitā-mss. combine ekarṣir (Ppp. eka ṛṣir), but most of them, with the Anukr., yatra ṛṣi in a. Ppp. reads bhūtakṛtas for prathamajās.

15. Where both immortality (amṛta) and death are set together in man (puruṣa), of whom the ocean, the veins (nāḍī) are set together in man, that Skambha etc. etc.

Ppp. reads, for b, puruṣaḥ ca samāhitāḥ, and puts the verse after our 16. Read in a mṛtyuḥ ca (an accent-sign slipped out of place).

16. Of whom the four directions are (sthā) the teeming (? prapṛyasā) veins, where the sacrifice hath strode forth, that Skambha etc. etc.

Prathamās at end of b in our edition seems to be a misprint for prathasās, intended as a correction of prapṛyasās, which last, however, is distinctly read by all our mss.* (p. prapṛyasāḥ); for the formation, compare -bhyasa from root bhi (through a secondary root bhyas). * [Except P., which has prathasās; SPP. puts -mās into his text against his fifteen authorities, which give prapṛyasās.]

17. Whoever know the brāhman in man, they know the most exalted one; whoever knows the most exalted one, and whoever knows Prajāpati, whoever know the chief brāhmaṇa, they know also accordingly (anu-sam-vid) the Skambha.

For both b and f, Ppp. reads te skambham arasaṁ viduḥ (intending anusaṁviduḥ?).

18. Whose head [was] Vāiṣvānara, [whose] eye the Aṅgirasas were, whose members the familiar demons (yātū) — that Skambha tell [me]: which forsooth is he?

19. Of whom they call brāhman the mouth, the honey-whip the tongue also, of whom they call virāj the udder — that Skambha etc. etc.

Ppp. reads for c virājam yasyo "dhā" hus.

20. From whom they fashioned off the verses, from whom they scraped off the sacrificial formula, of whom the chants [are] the hairs (lóman), the Atharvans-and-Aṅgirasas the mouth — that Skambha etc. etc.

[Ppp. combines ṛco 'pāt- in a, and has chandāṁsy asya for sāmāni yasya in c.]

21. The branch of the non-existent, standing forth, people know as in a manner the highest thing; also the lower ones who worship (upa-ās) thy branch think [it?] the existent thing.

The translation of this highly obscure verse is only mechanical, and as literal as possible. Ppp. has only the first half. The definition of the Anukr. is a strange one; the verse is only a bhurig anuṣṭubh (in virtue of the iva, which properly is to be reduced to va, making a regular anuṣṭubh).

22. Where both the Ādityas and the Rudras and the Vasus are set together; where both what is and what is to be, [and] all the worlds are established — that Skambha tell [me]: which forsooth is he?

23. Of whom the thirty-three gods always defend the treasure (nidhī): that treasure, which, O gods, ye defend, who at present knoweth?

24. Where the brāhman-knowing gods worship the chief brāhman — whoso verily knoweth them eye to eye (pratyaḥṣam), he may be a Brahman (brahmān), a knower.

Perhaps an acceptable emendation in ḍ would be brāhma: i.e. 'he may be (may be regarded as) one knowing the brāhman': cf. QB. xiv. 6. 9¹¹. Ppp. reads, for c, ḍ, yo vāi tad brahmaṇo veda tam vāi brahmavidō viduḥ. Read in a devā (an accent-sign dropped out).

25. Great (bṛhānt) by name [are] those gods who were born out of the non-existent; that one member of Skambha people call non-existent beyond.

The second half-verse is capable of other interpretations; Ludwig emends parās to purā; Muir, tacitly, to pāram; Scherman translates it 'afterwards' (nachher); Ppp. reads instead puras. One of our mss. reads in b 'satas p-; [and so does SPP. without report of variant].

26. Where the skambhā, generating forth, rolled out the ancient one, that one member of the skambhā they know also accordingly [as] the ancient one.

Or, 'know etc. that ancient one as one member of the skambha.' Ppp. again (as in 17 b, f) arasaṁ viduḥ in ḍ. Read in our edition prajānyan in a.

27. In whose member the thirty-three gods shared severally the limbs (gātra)—those thirty-three gods verily only (ēka) the brāhman-knowers know.

Or (so Muir), 'some brāhman-knowers.' Ppp. reads in ḅgātrāṇi bhejire.

28. People know the golden-embryo [as] highest, not to be overcrowded (anatyudyā); the skambhā in the beginning poured forth that gold within the world.

Ppp. puts this verse after our 30.

29. In the skambhā the worlds, in the skambhā penance, in the skambhā right is set; thee, O skambhā, I know plainly [as] set all together in Indra.

The mss. are much at variance in regard to skāmbha in c; all save W. (the poorest and least trustworthy of all) end the word with m, and O.s.m.D. accent skambhām. That skāmbha is really intended can hardly admit of question; Ppp. appears to read it.

30. In Indra the worlds, in Indra penance, in Indra right is set; thee, O Indra, I know plainly [as] all established in the skambhā.

The translation implies emendation in c of Indram to Indra. Of course, it is possible to render Indram here, and skambhām in 29 c, but where the whole sense is so mystically obscure alterations help little.

31. Name with name he calls aloud, before the sun, before the dawn; as first the goat (? ajā) came into being, he went unto that autocracy beyond which there is nothing else existent.

Ppp. reads johavīmi in a, and jagāma (for iyāya) in d. The translators all understand ajās here as 'the unborn one,' and with more reason than in most places elsewhere. The description given by the Anukr. of the very irregular verse (8 + 8 : 10 + 10 + 11 = 47) is altogether ill-fitting.

32. Of whom earth is model (pramā) and atmosphere belly; who made the sky his head—to that chief brāhman be homage.

In this and the two following verses and vs. 36 we have the anomaly that brāhman, neuter, is apparently referred to by the masculine relative yās (in accordance with which the genitive yāsyā is also doubtless to be understood as masculine); perhaps we ought to render the last pāda thus: 'to him, [who is] the chief brāhman,' etc. [Cf. Deussen, p. 312.] The verse is shorter by two syllables than verses 34 and 36, with which the Anukr. reckons it, and, on the other hand, agrees with 33, to which the Anukr. gives a different name.

33. Of whom the sun is eye, and the moon that grows new again; who made Agni his mouth—to that chief brāhman be homage.

Ppp. combines cakrā "syam" in c. As to the meter, see the note to vs. 32. [The Anukr. seems to mean that this is an anuṣṭubh of which the last pāda is one of 10 syllables (virāḍ).]

34. Of whom the wind [was] breath-and-expiration, [of whom] the Aṅgirasas were the eye; who made the quarters fore-knowing (? prajñāna) — to that chief brāhman be homage.

Ppp. gets rid of the obscure prajñānti by reading for c divaṁ yaç cakre mūrdhānanī. The Anukr. describes correctly vss. 34 and 36.

35. The skambhā sustains both heaven-and-earth here; the skambhā sustains the wide atmosphere; the skambhā sustains the six wide directions; into the skambhā hath entered this whole existence (bhūvana).

The pada-text has (as translated) skambhé in ḍ. Ppp. puts the verse after our 36, and reads in a prthivīm dyām utā 'mūm, and in ḍ combines skambhāi 'dam. The Anukr. takes no notice of the irregularity of the verse (14 + 11 : 11 + 13 = 49). [Bergaigne, Rel. Véd., ii. 122, would separate pradiças from urvīs.]

36. Who, born from toil, from penance, completely attained all worlds; who made soma all his own — to that chief brāhman be homage.

The sense of 'own' in c is given by the middle verb-form.

37. How does the wind not cease (il)? how does the mind not rest (ram)? why (kīm) do the waters, seeking to attain truth, at no time soever cease?

Ppp. reads for ḍ pra cakramati sarvadā. [Scherman, p. 54: 'warum kommen fürwahr die strebenden Wasser niemals zur Ruhe?']

38. A great monster (yakṣā) in the midst of the creation (bhūvana), strode (? krāntā) in penance on the back of the sea — in it are set (çri) whatever gods there are, like the branches of a tree roundabout the trunk.

The first pāda is repeated below, as 8. 15 c. Ppp. combines in ḍ to paritāi 'va. Notwithstanding the lack of a syllable in a, the Anukr. [balancing a with redundant ḍ?] calls the verse simply a triṣṭubh; the hymn is so long that it has apparently been forgotten that the whole was called trāiṣṭubha, and that therefore no triṣṭubh needs a further specification. Since there are more regular anuṣṭubh-verses than triṣṭubh also, we should expect rather the designation anuṣṭubham for the hymn. Read at end of a mādhya (an accent-sign dropped out). [With regard to Brahm as a "wonder" (yakṣā), see introduction.]

39. Unto which with the two hands, with the two feet, with speech, with hearing, with sight; unto which the gods continually render (prayam) tribute, unmeasured in the measured out — that skambhā tell [me]: which forsooth is he?

Notwithstanding the discordance of case, vtmīte is perhaps coördinate with yāsmāi. Ppp. omits the first two pādas. The dual and the repetition of yāsmāi make it probable that we have to supply in them 'one renders tribute,' or the like. The Anukr. takes no notice of the redundant syllable in ḍ.

40. Smitten away is his darkness; he is separated from evil; in him are all the three lights that are in Prajāpati.

41. He who knows the golden reed (vetasā) standing in the sea — he verily is in secret Prajāpati.

All the mss. have in c gūhya pr; perhaps gūhā was the original reading; our text has emended to gūhyah.

The remaining verses are wanting in Ppp.; they appear to constitute no original part of the hymn. They are also not translated by Muir and Scherman.

42. A certain pair of maidens, of diverse form, weave, betaking themselves to it, the six-pegged web; the one draws forth the threads (tāntu), the other sets [them]; they wrest not off (apa-vrj), they go not to an end.

Āpa vrñjāte perhaps means only 'break off, finish.' [Nā gamāto, 'they shall not go' etc.] A nearly related verse is found in TB. (ii. 5, 53): dvē svāsārāu vayasas tāntam etāt sanātānām vītatām śaṇmayūkham: āvā 'nyāns tāntān kirāto dhātō anyān nā 'pa vrñjāte (? both text and comm. have in the Calc. ed. nāṣapṛjyāte [and in the Poona ed. nāvapṛjyāte]) nā gamāte dntam; this is a preferable version especially of c. We have to resolve tan-tr-am in order to make a full triṣṭubh. [The TB. comment makes the verse refer to day and night: cf. RV. i. 113.3.]

43. Of them, as of two women dancing about, I do not distinguish (vi-jñā) which is beyond; a man (pūmāṁs), weaves it, ties [it] up; a man hath borne it about upon the firmament (nāka).

The last two pādas, with 44, correspond to RV. x. 130. 2, which reads: pūmāṁ enaṁ tanuta ut grñatti pūmān vī tatne dāhi nāke asmit: ime mayūkḥā tpa sedur ā sādāḥ sāmāni cakrus tāsarāṇy ōtave. Our ūd grñatti is only a corruption, but simulates a form from root grath, and is rendered accordingly. [For the exchange of surd and sonant, cf. Roth, ZDMG. xlviii. 110 and note to ii. 13.3.] The true scanning in a is doubtless -yanti-or 'va; [better -tior iva, with jagati cadence?].

44. These pegs propped up the sky; the chants they made shuttles for weaving.

See the note to the preceding verse. Both here and in 42 b some of the mss. read mayūṣa. Bp. reads at the end yātave. The Anukr. says of the verse ime mayūkḥā ity ekāvasānā pañcapādā nicṛt padapañktir [i.e. 5 + 5 + 5 + 5 + 4 = 24] ārcy anuṣṭub dvīpādā vā [i.e. 12 + 12 = 24] pañcapādā nicṛt padapañktir iti. [The last three or four words seem to be mere repetition.]

8. Mystic.

Found in greater part (not vss. 1, 7, 15, 18, 30-44) in Pāipp. xvi. (in the verse-order 2, 8, 5, 9, 3, 4, 12, 6, 14, 29, 13, 11, 10, 16, 19-28, 17). Not noticed in Kāuṣ., and only one verse (42) used in Vāit.

Translated: Muir, v. 368 n., 386 (parts); Ludwig, p. 395; Scherman, p. 60 (parts); Deussen, Geschichte, i. 1. 318 (cf. 310); Henry, 27, 75; Griffith, ii. 34. — Deussen's interpretation should on no account be overlooked. — Cf. the introduction to hymn 7.

1. He who is set over both what is and what is to be and everything, and whose alone is the heaven — to that chief br̥d̥hman be homage.

The concluding pāda is that of some of the verses of the preceding hymn (see vs. 32, above, and note).

2. By the skambhā these two stand fixed apart, both sky and earth; in the skambhā [is] all this that has soul, what [is] breathing and what winking.

The Anukr. is scrupulous enough not to sanction the irregular combination skambhē 'dām in c; why it calls the verse br̥hatigarbhā, instead of simply bhurij (like vs. 5), it were hard to say.

3. Three offspring (prajā) went an over-going; others settled (ni-viç) about the sun (? arkā); great stood the traverser (vimāna) of space (rājas); the yellow one (m.) entered into the yellow ones (f.).

The verse is RV. viii. 90 (101). 14, which reads, for a, prajā ha tisrō atyāyam tyur; at end of b, vivīcre; for c, d, br̥hād dha tasthāu bhūvanēṣv antāḥ pāvamāno hartā ā viveça (the last pāda is our 40 d below). AA. (ii. 1. 14) has the same version as RV. JB. (ii. 224) has a version agreeing in the main with RV., but beginning like ours, tisro ha prajā, ending b with viviçyur, beginning c with br̥han (but br̥had in a following brief exposition); in c, again, with our text, rajaso vimānāi 'va (in the exposition simply vimāne); in d as RV. The Anukr. takes no notice of the defective fourth pāda. Ppp. reads na (for ha) and vimānaḥ in c, and combines prajā 'ty, and anyā 'rkam.

4. Twelve fellies, one wheel, three naves — who understands that? therein are inserted (āhata) three hundred and sixty pins (ṣaṅkū), pegs (? khīla) that are immovable.

The verse is also RV. i. 164. 48, which, however, has a very different second half: tāsmīn sākām triçatā nā ṣaṅkāvō 'rpitāḥ ṣaṣṭir nā calācalāsaḥ. The 'pins' or 'pegs' must be the equivalents of spokes. The three naves are probably seasons [Hot, Wet, and Cold: cf. Bühler, Epigraphia Indica, ii. 262], though the number is unusual. Ppp. reads kelās for khīlās in d. The Anukr. does not heed that c is a jagati pāda. [Kātha-reading nābhyañi, WZKM. xii. 282.]

5. This, O Savitar, do thou distinguish: six [are] twins, one [is] sole-born; they seek participation (apitvā) in him who of them is the sole sole-born.

The usual twelve months, two to a season, and the thirteenth occasional intercalary one, are doubtless meant. Ppp. reads in b yomokas (for yamā ekas). [The pāda-mss. of both W. and SPP. have apitvām; but in the Index W. assumes that apitvām is the word. Both are well authenticated in BR.; but apitvām seems to fit best here (cf. ÇB. iv. 1. 3¹¹).]

6. Being manifest (āvis), [it is] deposited in secret; the great track (padā), "aged" (jārat) by name; there is set (ārpita) this all, [there is] established what stirs, what breathes.

7. One-wheeled it rolls, one-rimmed, thousand-syllabled, forth in front, down behind; with a half it has generated all existence; what its [other] half is — what has become of that?

This agrees nearly with xi. 4. 22 below, and Ppp. has it there, though not here. The sun is evidently meant, with half his course lost to view.

8. One carrying five carries the summit (āgra) of them; side-horses, harnessed, carry also along; what is not gone of it was seen, not what is gone; the higher thing [is] closer, the lower more distant.

[Or (c) 'of him' (asya).] The sense is wholly obscure, and the version a mechanical one. Pañcavāhī may be either fem. (of -vāhī: so ṣaṭavāhī v. 17. 12) or masc. (of -vāhī); Pet. Lexx. say 'mit Fünfen bespannt.' Some of the mss. read pñṣhayas in b, as often in such cases. Ppp. has asya instead of esām at end of a.

9. A bowl (camasā) with orifice sideways, bottom-side up — in it is deposited glory of all forms; there sit together the seven seers, who have become the keepers of it, the great one.

The verse has a correspondent in ÇB. xiv. 5. 24 (BAU. ii. 2. 4). This reads at the beginning arvāgbīlas; in c, tāsya . . . tīre for tūt . . . sākām; and, for d, vāg aṣṭamī brāhmaṇā saṁvīdāntī. The Brāhmaṇa itself explains the head as intended, the seven seers being the seven prāṇas or senses (the seven orifices of the head); this is extremely implausible. Ppp. reads at beginning of c atrā "sata".

10. The one which is applied (yuj) in front and which behind, which is applied in all cases and which in every case, by which the sacrifice is extended forward — that I ask of thee: which one of the verses is it?

The verse is quoted by pratīka in GB. i. 1. 22. All our saṁhitā-mss. save one (R.) [and the great majority of SPP's] read at the end sā rcām (Ppp. the same), and the words are quoted under Prāt. iii. 49 as example of that combination [p. sā rcām]. The Anukr. does not heed that b is a jagatī pāda. Ppp. reads twice yo 'ta for yā ca.

11. What stirs, flies, and what stands, and what is breathing, not breathing, winking — that, all-formed, sustains the earth; that, combining, becomes one only.

One may conjecture apāndt for āprāṇat in b. The Anukr. does not heed that two of the pādas are triṣṭubh. Ppp. reads at end of b ca tiṣṭhat, and, in c, dyām utā 'mum [at 7. 35 it was fem.] for viṣvarūpam.

12. What is endless, stretched out on many sides; what is endless, and what has an end, ending together — these (two) the lord of the firmament keeps (car) separating (vi-ci), knowing what is and what shall be of it.

Ppp. reads samakṭe at end of b, prajānan at end of c, and yadi for uta in d. Probably earth and heaven are intended. The metrical definition of the Anukr. fits the verse (9 + 10 : 11 + 10 = 40) fairly.

13. Prajāpati goes about (car) within the womb; not being seen, he is manifoldly born (vi-jā); with a half he has generated all existence; what his [other] half is — which sign is that?

The third pāda is the same with 7 c above; the second half-verse is found below as xi. 4. 22 c, d; to the first half-verse corresponds VS. xxxi. 19 a, b and TA. iii. 13. 13 a, b: both reading ājāyamānas at beginning of b; [so Kaṭha-hss., p. 84]. Ppp. reads in b prajāyate, and, for c, d, ardhene 'daṁ pari babhūva viçvam etasyā 'rdhaṁ kim u taj jājana. The Anukr. takes no notice of the jagatī pāda b.

14. Him bearing water aloft, as a water-bearer (f.) with a vessel (kumbhā), all see with the eye, not all know with the mind.

Some mss. (P.M.I.) accent vidūh at the end.

15. In the distance it dwells with the full one, in the distance it is abandoned by the deficient one—the great monster (yakṣā) in the midst of existence; to it the kingdom-bearers bear tribute.

The verse, as noted above, is wanting in Ppp. [Pāda c occurs as x. 7. 38 a: see note thereon and introd. to hymn 7.]

16. Whence the sun arises, and where he goes to rest—that same I think the chief (jyeṣṭhā); that nothing whatever surpasses.

The Kaṭha Up. [iv. 9] has a nearly corresponding verse: yataç co 'd eti sūryo 'stam yatra ca gacchati: tam devāḥ sarve 'rpitās taḍ u nā 'ty eti kaç cana; and the first half of this occurs also in ÇB. xiv. 4. 3³⁴ (BAU. i. 5. 23). The Anukr. omits to define the meter (anuṣṭubh) of the verse.

17. They who hitherward, in the middle, or also anciently, speak round about him who knows the Veda, they all speak around the sun (ādityā), Agni [as] second, and the threefold swan (hansā).

The verse is found also in TA. (ii. 15⁸), which omits mādhya and reads purāṇe in a, and trītyam (for trivṛtam) in d. [Cf. Kaṭha-hss., p. 63.] Our pāda-text [as also SPP's] reads near the beginning arvāṇ, which is doubtless an error for arvāḥ (though TA. reads arvāṇ utā). Perhaps védam in b is to be rendered simply 'knowledge.' The Anukr. takes no notice of the two redundant syllables in c.

18. A thousand days' journey [are] expanded (vi-yam) the wings of him, of the yellow swan flying to heaven (svargā); he, putting all the gods in his breast, goes, viewing together all existences.

The verse is found again below as xiii. 2. 38; 3. 14. It is, as noted above, wanting here in Ppp.

19. By truth he burns aloft; by brāhman he looks abroad hitherward, by breath he breathes crosswise—he on whom rests (çritā) the chief thing.

20. Whoever indeed knows those two churning-sticks, with which is churned out what is good (vāsu), he may think himself to know the chief thing; he may know the great brāhmaṇa [neut.].

21. Footless came he into being in the beginning; he in the beginning brought the heaven (svār); having become four-footed, enjoyable, he took to himself all enjoyment (bhūjana).

Ppp. reads, for b, so 'gre asurā 'bhavat.

22. Enjoyable shall he become, likewise shall he eat much food, who shall worship (upa-ās) the everlasting god who gives superiority (uttar-āvant).

[After bhōgyo bhavat, for which there are no variants, Bp. has a mark of pāda-division; but the Anukr. evidently scans as 12:8+8, eliding the a of annam after a pragṛhya.] Bhōgyo at the beginning is a misprint for bhōgyo.

23. Everlasting they call him, also may he be at present ever-renewed; day and night are generated (pra-jā) in each other's forms.

The pada-text reads anyāḥ : anyāśya in ḍ, although the masc. anyās shows that the two words are virtually a compound, as later.

24. A hundred, a thousand, a myriad, a hundred million, an innumerable [number], is his own entered into him; that of him they slay, even as he looks on; therefore this god shines (ruc) thus.

Instead of eṣa etat at the end, Ppp. reads what appears to be aḥa bhavat. The version is as literal (and as unintelligent) as possible. The Anukr. takes no notice of the irregularity of the meter; it is possible, by violence, to count only 44 syllables in the verse.

25. One thing is more minute (ānu) than a child (bāla), also one is hardly (ud'va) seen; than that a more embracing deity, is she dear to me.

Ppp. reads, for a, ārāgramūtraṁ dadṛce, and begins c with ataḥ pu, thus doing nothing to help our comprehension of the wholly obscure verse.

26. This beautiful one (f.) [is] unaging, an immortal in the house of a mortal; for whom she [was] made, he lies; he who made [her] grew old.

Ppp. reads tasmāi for yasmāi in c. [The natural reading of b would be mṛtyasya amṛtā gṛhā; but] the definition of the Anukr. forbids us to make [it. Can a sā have dropped out before ḥaye sā? Cf. note to iv. 5. 5.]

27. Thou art woman, thou [art] man, thou boy, or also girl; thou, when aged, totterest (vañc) with a staff; thou, when born, comest facing all ways.

Ppp. politely puts kumārī first and kumāras second in b, and reads jātam in d. The verse is found, without variant, in Çvet. Up. iv. 3. It is so far correctly described by the Anukr. that it counts 37 syllables (7+10:9+11=37).

28. Both their father, or also their son; both the chief or also the meanest (kaniṣṭhā) of them; the one god, who has entered into the mind, born the first, and he within the womb.

The verse is also found, quoted as a śloka, in JUB. 85 (iii. 10. 12): utāi 'śān jāiṣṭha uta vā kaniṣṭha utāi 'śān putra uta vā pitāi 'śām : eko ha devo manasi praviṣṭaḥ pūrvvo ha jāñe sa n garbhe 'ntaḥ. Ppp. reads, for a, b, ute 'va jyeṣṭho 'ta vā kaniṣṭho 'tāi 'sa bhrāto 'ta vā pitāi 'śaḥ; and, in d, pūrvvo jātaḥ.

29. The full from the full he bends up (ud-ac); the full is poured with the full; also that may we know today, whence that is poured out.

This verse is akin with [the oft-repeated] one in ÇB. xiv. 8. 1 (BAU. v. 1): pūrṇām addh pūrṇām idām pūrṇāt pūrṇām id acyate etc. What follows of the hymn is (as noted above) wanting in Ppp.

30. She, everlasting, born indeed of old, she, ancient, encompassed (pari-bhū) all; the great goddess of the dawn, shining forth, she looks forth by every one who winks.

The Anukr. calls the verse bhurij on account of the redundant syllable in b, not heeding the corresponding deficiency in c.

31. The deity, Āvi by name, sits enveloped with right; by her form these trees [are] green, green-garlanded.

Or, 'by the form of her, the green-garlanded one' (so Ludwig). Āvi means 'sheep,' but is possibly here a derivative from the root av 'favor, aid.' All the samhitā-mss. combine in a, b -ta rīna.

32. Him that is near by he (?) deserts not; him that is near by he (?) sees not; see the wisdom (kāvya) of the god: he died not, he grows not old.

There is nothing to determine the subject of the verbs in a, b; Ludwig renders 'she.'

33. The voices sent forth by the unprecedented one—they speak as they should (yathāyathām); where they go speaking, that [people] call the great brāhmaṇa [n.].

34. Where both gods and men (manuṣya) are set (ṣṛitā) as spokes in a nave—I ask thee of the flower (pūṣpa) of the waters, where that by magic was placed.

The Anukr. takes no notice of the redundant syllable [perhaps the first ca?] in a.

35. They by whom the wind sent forth blows on, who give the five quarters together (sadhryāñc), the gods who thought themselves above (ati-man) the offering (āhuti), conductors of the waters—which were they?

The first half-verse is found also in Ppp. [xvi.], but not in connection with the rest of the hymn. The Anukr. does not heed that a is defective by one syllable. Read in b, with all [W's and SPP's] mss., dādante; the form is from the same secondary root dād as the sing. dādāte in 36 c. [JUB. (i. 34) has this verse, putting it in the mouth of Prthu Vāinya, and its answer (vs. 36), with appended Brāhmaṇa-comment. It reads samitcā for sadhritcā of our 35 b, and āhuti in c.]

36. One of them clothes himself in this earth; one encompassed the atmosphere; he of them who is disposer (vidharti) gives the sky; some defend respectively all regions (ācā).

[JUB. (see under vs. 35) has ekas for eṣām of our c and anye for eke of our d.]

37. Whoso may know the stretched-out string in which these offspring (prajā) are woven in, whoso may know the string of the string, he may know the great brāhmaṇa.

38. I know the stretched-out string in which these offspring are woven in; the string of the string I know, likewise the great brāhmaṇa.

39. As between heaven-and-earth Agni went, burning on, all-consuming, where stood beyond they (f.) of one husband — where perchance was Mātariṣvan then?

The bṛhatī of the Anukr. [scanning 11 + 9 : 11 + 11] is the second pāda, read with ātī included as a part (the pāda-text so marks the division) — which is, of course, artificial and wrong. [Read as 12 + 8 : 11 + 11, pronouncing -*dāvī*as and kīte 'vā "stn.] Ludwig's 'spouses of the only one' for ēkapatnīs is against the accent.

40. Mātariṣvan was entered into the waters; the gods were entered into the seas; great stood the traverser of space; the purifying one entered into the green ones.

The third pāda is identical with 3 c above, and the fourth with RV. viii. 90 (101). 14 d. 'The purifying one' is probably here the wind.

41. Higher, as it were, than the gāyatrī, upon the immortal (amṛta) he strode out; they who know completely chant with chant — where then was seen the goat?

Or, 'the unborn one' (ajī: so Ludwig); the verse is too utterly obscure to let us choose between them.

42. The reposer, the assembler of good things, like god Savitar, of true ordinances (-dhārman), he stood like Indra in the conflict for riches.

The verse corresponds with pādas a, c, d of RV. x. 139. 3 and of VS. xii. 66, TS. iv. 2. 54, MS. ii. 7. 12. RV. reads at the beginning rāyo budhndh (for nivṛṇanaḥ); the other texts have at the end pathinām. The verse is quoted in Vāit. 28. 28.

43. The lotus-flower of nine doors, covered with three strands (guṇā) — what soulful prodigy (yakṣā) is within it, that the brāhmaṇa-knowers know.

The 'nine doors' indicate that the human body with its nine orifices is intended; the three guṇas are probably the three temperaments familiar under that name later. The second half-verse was found above as 2. 32 c, d [cf. vs. 31]. [See p. 1045.]

44. Free from desire, wise (dhīra), immortal, self-existent, satisfied with sap, not deficient in any respect — knowing that wise, unaging, young soul, one is not afraid of death.

9. With the offering of a cow and a hundred rice-dishes.

[Atharvan. — saptavinçati. mantroktaçatādanadevatyam. ānuṣṭubh : 1. triṣṭubh ; 12. pathyāpāṇkti ; 25. dyuṣṇiggarbhā 'nuṣṭubh' ; 26. 5-p. brhatyanuṣṭubhiggarbhā jagatī ; 27. 5-p. atijagatānuṣṭubgarbhā cakvārī.]

Found also in Pāipp. xvi. The hymn (vs. 1) is quoted in Kāuṣ. 65. 1 to accompany the closing of the mouth of a victim, and some of the verses (1-3, 26, 27) in other neighboring parts of the sūtra. In Vāit. is used a single verse (26).

Translated : Ludwig, p. 270 (in great part) ; Henry, 32, 83 ; Griffith, ii. 42.

1. Fasten thou up the mouths of the mischief-making [ones] ; bring (arpay-) this thunderbolt upon our rivals ; given by Indra, first, with a hundred rice-dishes, cousin-slaying, the success (gātī) of the sacrificer.

It is a cow (f.) accompanied by a whole hundred of odanas or offerings of boiled rice, that is here the subject ; we had in various places above a goat (m.) with five such additions. Ppp. reads in ḍ yajamānāya. The Anukr. does not heed that the third pāda is jagatī.

2. Be thy skin the sacrificial hearth, [be] the hairs which [are] thine the barhīs ; this rein (raçand) hath seized thee ; let this pressing-stone dance over thee.

The parts of this and the preceding verse are prescribed in Kāuṣ. 65. 1-3 to be used to accompany certain sacrificial acts to which they are adapted.

3. Be thy tail-tuft the sprinklers ; let thy tongue do the cleansing, O inviolable one ; do thou, having become clean, fit for sacrifice, go on to heaven, O thou of the hundred rice-dishes.

The form bālās (which Ppp. also reads) [as against vālās] is vouched for [incidentally] by the comm. to Prāt. i. 66 [in its discussion of the exchange of r and l]. The verse is quoted in Kāuṣ. 65. 9. Sam mārṣtu = 'serve as sammārjana.'

4. Whoso cooks her of the hundred rice-dishes, he is adapted to the fulfilment of wishes ; for all his priests (ṛtvij), being gratified, go as they should.

All the samhitā-mss. read in c asya rtu-.

5. He ascends the heavenly road (svargā), where is yon triple heaven of the heaven (dīv), who, making [her] cake-naveled, gives her of the hundred rice-dishes.

The meaning and connection of c are not very clear. Ludwig renders "and makes her the middle point of the apāpa," which is against the accent ; probably 'adding cakes numerous enough to cover her.' [Is it not virtually equivalent to 'putting a cake on her navel,' as preparatory to sacrificing her?] Ppp. has hiranyajyotiṣam instead of apāpanābhīm (cf. the next verse). The resolution kr̥tu-ā, necessary to make the verse a regular anuṣṭubh, is rather harsh.

6. He obtains those worlds, [those] which are heavenly and [those] which are earthly, who, having made [her] lighted with gold, gives her of the hundred rice-dishes.

Ppp. reads for b yeṣa devās samāsate, and has apūṣanābhīm here in c, instead of in 5 c.

7. What people are thy quellers, O heavenly one [f.], and what thy cooks, they shall all guard thee: be not afraid of them, thou of the hundred rice-dishes.

Ppp. puts this verse before our 5.

8. The Vasus shall guard thee on the right, thee the Maruts on the left (uttarāt), the Ādityas behind; do thou run beyond the Agnishtoma. That is, probably, exceed or surpass even this important ceremony.

9. The gods, the Fathers, men (manuṣyā), and they that are Gandharvas-and-Apsarases — they shall all guard thee; do thou run beyond the over-night sacrifice (atirātrā).

Ppp. reads gandharvāpsarasas devā rudrāṅgirasas tvā. [Cf. note to vs. 8.]

10. He obtains the atmosphere, the sky, the earth, the Ādityas, the Maruts, the quarters, all worlds, who gives her of the hundred rice-dishes.

11. Sprinkling forth ghee, well-portioned, the divine one will go to the gods; hurt not him who cooks thee, O inviolable one; go on to heaven, O thou of the hundred rice-dishes.

Ppp. reads in b devān devī.

12. The gods that are stationed (-sad) in the sky, and that are stationed in the atmosphere, and these that are upon the earth — to them do thou always yield (duh) milk, butter, also honey.

Several of the mss., with a carelessness common in such cases, read dhukṣa in d. We have to resolve deva-ā in a, in order to make a normal pāda. Ppp. rectifies the meter of a by reading instead pitaras for devās. [Ppp. combines -śado 'ntar- in a-b.]

13. What head is thine, what mouth is thine, what ears and what jaws are thine — let them yield to thy giver curd, milk, butter, also honey.

Ppp. reads ye te ṣṛṅge for second half of a, and so for second part of b yāu ca te akṣāu [cf. vs. 14].

14. What lips are thine, what nostrils, what horns, and what thine eyes — let them yield etc. etc.

Ppp. reads instead yat te mukham yā te jihvā ye dantā yā ca te hanū.

15. What lungs are thine, what heart, the purītāt with the throat — let them yield etc. etc.

Yās at the beginning is emended from yāt, which all the mss. [both W's and SPP's] read.

16. What liver is thine, what two mātasnās, what entrail, and what thine intestines — let them yield etc. etc.

Ppp. reads in b yā "ntrāṇi.

17. What plāṣṭi is thine, what rectum (? vanīṣṭhū), what (two) paunches, and what thy skin — let them yield etc. etc.

18. What marrow is thine, what bone, what flesh, and what blood — let them yield etc. etc.

Ppp. reads in a yāny asthīni, thus rectifying the meter. The Anukr. does not notice the lacking syllable in the pāda. Yās at the beginning is again emendation for the yāt of all the mss. [both W's and SPP's].

19. What fore-legs (bāhū) are thine, what shanks (doṣān), what shoulders [dūsa], and what thy hump — let them yield etc. etc.

Ppp. reads, after bāhū, yāu te aṅsāu dūhanam yā ca etc.

20. What neck-bones (grīvā) are thine, what shoulder-bones [skandhā], what side-bones (prṣṭi), and what ribs (pārṣu) — let them yield etc. etc.

The Anukr. does not notice the lacking syllable in a.

21. What thighs are thine, knee-joints, what hips, and what thy rump — let them yield etc. etc.

22. What tail is thine, what thy tail-tuft, what udder, and what thy teats — let them yield etc. etc.

23. What hind-thighs are thine, what dew-claws, [what] pasterns (ṛchāra), and what thy hoofs — let them yield etc. etc.

One of our mss. (O.) reads in b ṛtsārās, and Ppp. supports it by giving kṛtsārās.

[The reading ṛtsārās seems to be supported by E. as well as by O. and Ppp. Its phonetic relation to ṛchārās resembles that of Pāli ucchādāna, jighacchā, bibhacchā to Skt. utsādāna, jighatsā, bibhatsa (Kuhn, Pāli-gram., p. 52, gives kucchā = kutsā, vacchā = valsā). Unless I err, our vulgate text here shows a Prākṛitism such as we have good right to assume also at iii. 12. 4, in case of the much-discussed ucchāntu, which may be a mere vernacularized rendering of ukṣāntu (cf. tacchaka = takṣaka, Kuhn, l.c.).]

24. What hide is thine, O thou of the hundred rice-dishes, what hairs, O inviolable one — let them yield etc. etc.

25. Let thy two breasts (krodā) be sacrificial cakes, smeared over with sacrificial butter; having made them wings, O divine one, do thou carry him who cooks thee to heaven (dīu).

The Anukr. very strangely ignores the two resolutions in b and c, and reckons the pādas as 7 syllables each.

26. What in the mortar, on the pestle, and on the hide, or what rice-grain, [what] kernel in the winnowing-basket, or what the wind, Mātariṣvan, blowing (pū), shook (math) — let Agni as hōtar make that well-offered.

It is very much out of place to reckon five pādas (12 + 9:8 + 7 + 11 = 47) in this verse; but the pāda-ms. supports the Anukr., by making a mark of pāda-division after mātarīṣvā; evidently either this word or pāvamānas (rather the former) is an intrusion in c. [The last pāda we had as vi. 71. 1 d.] The verse is quoted in Vāit. 4. 9; also (with vi. 122, 123) in Kāuṣ. 63. 29, to accompany the closing libations. Ppp. reads in b ye vā gūrpe taṇḍulāḥ kaṇḍh.

27. The heavenly waters, rich in honey, dripping with ghee, I seat in separate succession in the hands of the priests (brahmān); with what desire I now pour you on, let all that fall to my lot; may we be lords of wealth.

Ppp. begins a with imā āpo madh-, and c with yatkāme 'dam. Compare the verses vi. 122. 5 and xi. 1. 27, which are in part coincident with this; [also MGS. i. 5. 4 and Index under devīr āpo]. The verse (rather than i. 4. 3, which has the same pratīka) is quoted in Kāuṣ. 65. 8, to accompany the setting of water pots. The metrical definition of the Anukr. suits well enough.

10. Extolling the cow (vaçā).

[Kaṣyapa.—catustriṅṣat. mantroktavaçādevatyam. ānuṣṭubham: 1. kakummatī; 5. skandhogrīvābhratī; 6, 8, 10. virāj; 23. bhratī; 24. upariṣṭādbrhatī; 26. āstārapaṇkti; 27. gaṇkummatī; 29. 3-p. virāj gāyatrī; 31. uṣṇiggarbhā; 32. virāj pathyābhratī.]

Found also in Pāipp. xvi. [with the verse-sequence 15 a, b, 14 c, d, 13, 14 a, b, 15 c, d, 17, 16, 18; vs. 3 is lacking]. Not noticed in Vāit., and only once in Kāuṣ., at 66. 20, where vs. 1 (or the hymn [rather the hymn]) is used, with xii. 4, to accompany the sprinkling of an offered cow.

Translated: Ludwig, p. 534; Deussen, Geschichte, i. 1. 234 (cf. p. 230 f., 233 f.); Henry, 35, 85; Griffith, ii. 45.

1. Homage to thee while being born, homage also to thee when born; to thy tail-tuft, hoofs, form, O inviolable one, be homage.

The Anukr. chooses to reject the common resolution -bhi-as (twice) in c.

2. Whoso may know the seven advances (? pravātī), [and] may know the seven distances, whoso may know the head of the sacrifice—he may accept the cow (vaçā).

Ppp. reads in b veda instead of vidyāt. The verse is quoted by pratīka in GB. i. 2. 16.

3. I know the seven advances, I know the seven distances; I know the head of the sacrifice, and the outlooking soma in her.

This verse, with a part of the preceding one, is wanting in Ppp. [Asyām, sc. vaçāyām.]

4. By whom the sky, by whom the earth, by whom these waters are guarded—the cow, of a thousand streams (-dhitrā), we address with worship (brāhman).

We need to resolve -dhāra-ām in c in order to make out the full pāda which the Anukr. assumes.

5. A hundred metal dishes (kaṇṣā), a hundred milkers, a hundred guardians, upon the back of her; the gods that breathe in her, they know the cow singly.

The verse (9 + 11 : 8 + 8 = 36) is a br̥hatī in number of syllables only.

6. Having the sacrifice for feet, cheer (irā-) for milk, svadhā for breath, being mahīlukā, the cow, having Parjanya for spouse, goes unto the gods with worship (brāhman).

Ppp. reads for a, b yajñapatir ākṣīrāt svadhāprāṇā mahīlukāh, which does not solve the problem of the obscure word mahīlukā (found nowhere else). There is no need of calling the verse virāj.

7. After thee entered Agni, after thee Soma, O cow; thine udder, O excellent one, is Parjanya; the lightnings are thy teats, O cow.

8. The waters thou yieldest (duh) first, the cultivated fields after, O cow; thou yieldest kingdom third, food, milk, O cow.

The permissible resolution rāṣ-ṭṛ-ām in c would obviate the necessity of reckoning the verse as virāj. Ppp. combines in b urvarā 'parā.

9. When, called by the Ādityas, thou didst approach, O righteous one, Indra made thee drink a thousand vessels (pātra) of soma, O cow.

By a notable inconsistency, the Anukr. reckons this verse as a complete anuṣṭubh, although it requires, to make it such, precisely the same resolution (pā-ṭṛ-ān) as vs. 8.

10. When thou didst go following (anvāñc) Indra, then the bull called thee; therefore the Vṛitra-slayer, angry, took thy milk (pāyas), milk (kṣīrā), O cow.

All the samhitā-mss. accent in b -bhō 'hwayat, and one pada-ms. (D.) has accordingly dhwayat. In like manner, all save R.p.m. have kruddhō 'har- in d. In both cases our edition emends to ḍ. In this verse also (as in 6, 8) the designation virāj is uncalled-for. Ppp. reads uvūct in a, and ād vṛṣabho in b.

11. When the lord of riches, angry, took thy milk, O cow, then this the firmament (udka) now keeps (rakṣ) in three vessels.

Ppp. reads, in a-b, -patih kṣīraṁ dehi bharad vaçe.

12. In three vessels the heavenly cow took that soma, where Atharvan, consecrated, sat on a golden barhīs.

Ppp. reads hitam for tam in a, and ādyevy abharad in b.

13. Since she has united (sam-gam) with soma, and with all that has feet, the cow has stood upon the ocean, together with the Gandharvas, the kālīs.

Before this verse, Ppp. sets one made up of our 15 a, b and 14 c, d. Pada-text in c ādhi : asthāt. [As to kālī, cf. Bergaigne, Rel. Véd. ii. 482.] [For āgata, see Gram. § 834 b.]

14. Since she has united with the wind, and with all winged ones, the cow danced forth in the ocean, bearing the verses, the chants.

Ppp. combines (as above noted) our 15 a, b and 14 c, d, and then again our 14 a, b and 15 c, d, without other variant.

15. Since she has united with the sun, and with all sight, the cow has overlooked the ocean, bearing excellent lights.

Some of the mss. (P.M.E.) read in c aty akṣad (K. akṣyaḍ).

16. As, O righteous one, thou didst stand decked (abhi-vṛ) with gold, the ocean, having become a horse, mounted (adhi-skand) thee, O cow.

Ppp. puts this verse after our 17.

17. There the excellent ones united, the cow, the directress, also the svadhā, where Atharvan, consecrated, sat on a golden barhīs.

The second half-verse is identical with 12 c, d above. Ppp. reads in a gachanti.

18. The cow is mother of the noble (rājanyā), the cow thy mother, O svadhā; from the cow was born the weapon; from it was born intent (cittā).

The translation implies the obvious emendation of yajñé in c to jajñé, as at iv. 24. 6 [see note thereto].

19. The globule (bindū) went (car) up aloft, out of the summit (kākuda) of the brāhman; thence wast thou born, O cow; thence was the invoker born.

20. From thy mouth came (bhū) the songs (gāthā), from thy nape-bones, O cow, [came] force; from thy belly (? pājasyā) was born the sacrifice, from thy teats the rays.

Ppp. reads in a bhavanti for abhavan.

21. From thy (two) fore-legs (īrmā) motion (āyana) was born, and from thy thighs (sāktū), O cow; from thine entrails were born eaters (atitrā), out from thy belly (udāra) the plants.

Ppp. reads at the beginning ayurmābhyām, and in c yatrā jajñire. [For atrās, cf. note to i. 7. 3.]

22. When (yāt), O cow, thou didst enter along the belly of Varuṇa, thence the priest (brahmān) called thee up; for he knew thy guidance (netrā).

23. All trembled at the embryo, while being born, of her who gives not birth (? asūśū); for "the cow hath given birth," they say of her; shaped (m.) by charms (brāhman); for it is her connection.

Much here is obscure and doubtful. Asūśū (not divided in p.) ought, by its accent, to be asū-sū 'giving birth to one who does not herself give birth' [Gram. § 1147 c]. The connection of kīptās with vaṣṭā is strange; the former belongs probably to gārbhas understood. The accent of āhīs indicates that hī belongs with it, and not with sastva. The name vaçā used for the cow throughout the hymn implies non-pregnancy. Ppp. reads at the end brahmaṇā kṛpta [R's Collation spells it kṛpta] uta bandhur asyāt. [The verse may be counted as 36 syllables; but the nearest approach to a natural scansion would seem to be 8 + 8 : 11 (īām) + 11.] [I will not attempt to revise W's treatment of this verse. Griffith and the other translators may be consulted.]

24. One combines (sam-sṛj) the fighters who alone is in control (vaçñ) of her; the sacrifices became energies (? tāras); the cow became the eye of energies.

The Anukr. should have qualified the name of this brhatī by adding virāj. Ppp. combines at the beginning yudhe 'kas s-.

25. The cow accepted the sacrifice; the cow sustained the sun; within the cow entered the rice-dish together with the priest (brahmān).

Ppp. reads yajñam instead of sūryam in b. All the mss. have brahmānā.

26. The cow they call immortality (amṛta); the cow they worship (upa-ās) as death; the cow became this all — gods, men, Asuras, Fathers, seers.

Ppp. reads āhur amṛtām in a. The definition of the meter by the Anukr. is bad; it [seems to be 8 + 8 : 8 + 14].

27. Whoso knoweth thus, he may accept the cow; for so doth the all-footed sacrifice yield milk (dulh) to the giver, unresisting.

28. Three tongues glisten (dīdī) within the mouth of Varuṇa; of these, the one that shines (rāj) in the middle is the cow, hard of acceptance.

The mss., as is usual in such cases, are divided between duḥṣr- and duṣṣr- in d.

29. The seed of the cow was quartered: the waters a quarter, the amṛta a quarter, the sacrifice a quarter, the domestic animals a quarter.

30. The cow [is] the sky, the cow the earth, the cow Viṣṇu, Prajāpati; the yield (dugdā) of the cow did the Perfectibles (sādhyā) and they who are Vasus drink.

31. Having drunk the yield of the cow, the Perfectibles and they who are Vasus — they verily worship the milk (pāyas) of her at the summit of the ruddy one.

Ppp. reads ime instead of te vāi at beginning of c. The definition of the meter by the Anukr. is bad, the verse being, by usual and easy resolutions, a regular anuṣṭubh.

32. Some milk her for soma; some worship ghee; they who gave the cow to the one knowing thus are gone to the triple heaven of the heaven.

The pāda-mss., by an absurd blunder, read yā before evām into yāh instead of yē. It is apparently the intrusion of vaçām into c that makes the meter irregular. [Pādas a, b are a reminiscence of RV. x. 154. 1 (= AV. xviii. 2. 14).]

33. Having given the cow to the Brahmins, one attains all worlds; for righteousness is set in her, also brāhman, likewise penance.

Ppp. reads in a vaçā dātvā brāh-, and in c āhitam instead of āpītam.

34. On the cow the gods subsist; on the cow, men also; the cow became this all, so far as the sun looks abroad.

The Anukr. takes no notice of the redundant syllable in a (read, by irregular combination, devó 'pa).

Book XI.

[This eleventh book is the fourth book of the second grand division of the Atharvan collection. As to the general make-up of the books of this division, see page 471. The Old Anukramaṇī describes the length of hymns 6 and 8 by stating the excess of each over 20 verses. All of the book except hymns 3 and 8 has been translated by Bloomfield in Sacred Books of the East, vol. xlii.; and all of it by Victor Henry, Les Livres X, XI et XII de l'Atharva-véda traduits et commentés, Paris, 1896. Here again we have the bhāṣya for the entire book.]

[The ritual uses of this book are confined for the most part to the first hymn, nearly every verse of which is quoted in Kāuṣika 60-63 and 65 in connection with the details of the sava sacrifice. Of the other nine hymns only sporadic citations are made by Kāuṣika; and in the Vāitāna, only a single quotation (of 2.1) is made out of the whole book.]

[Discrepancies of hymn-numeration, as between the two editions, in so far as they are occasioned by the counting of each paryāya as a separate hymn by the Bombay edition. The matter is discussed at this place because it is in this book, page 625, that Whitney has condemned the procedure of the Bombay edition. The facts are as follows:]

[In book viii., the Bombay edition, counting separately each of the 6 paryāyas of our last hymn (h. 10), makes for that book a total of 15 hymns; but, since the discrepancy is confined to our last hymn, the plus of 5 does not affect the numeration of the preceding 9.]

[In book ix., the Bombay edition, counting separately each of the 6 paryāyas of our hymn 6 (its 6-11), has a plus of 5 for our h. 7 (its 12) and the following. Our h. 7 is also a paryāya-hymn; but since it has but 1 paryāya, the plus remains a constant from our h. 7 to the end. The total is again 15.]

[In book xi., the Bombay edition, counting the 3 paryāyas of our hymn 3 as its 3 and 4 and 5, has a plus of 2 for our 4 (its 6) and the following. Its total is therefore 12.]

[In book xii., the Bombay edition, counting separately each of the 7 paryāyas of our last hymn (h. 5), makes for that book a total of 11 hymns; but, since the discrepancy is confined to our last hymn, the plus of 6 does not affect the numeration of the preceding 4.]

[In book xiii., the Bombay edition, counting separately each of the 6 paryāyas of our last hymn (h. 4), makes for that book a total of 9 hymns; but the discrepancy is confined to our last hymn (as in books viii. and xii.), and the plus of 5 does not affect the numeration of the preceding 3.]

[Book xiv. contains no paryāya-hymn. Books xv. and xvi. consist wholly of paryāyas, the former of 18 and the latter of 9, and there is accordingly no practical discrepancy between the two editions.]

[I will say, however, that the uniformity of structure in books viii.–xi. as books of ten hymns each (see p. 471), which uniformity results from counting the paryāyas in groups, seems to support the procedure of R. and W. Moreover, as W. says (p. 472, top), the paryāyas of a given group taken together do “evidently constitute each [group] a whole”; and he is borne out by the comm. (at vol. iii., p. 56²²), who speaks of the “rice-dish-triad,” our xi. 3, as constituting one “subject-matter-hymn” (artha-sūkta: but not in its narrower technical sense).—It may be added that the Major Anukr., at the end of its 7th paṭala and of its treatment of our book xi., says evam śaṭ-triṇṣad arthasūktāni: that is right; for books viii.–xi. have, according to the Berlin count, (4 × 10 hymns =) 40 hymns, of which 4 hymns (our viii. 10, ix. 6, ix. 7, and xi. 3) are paryāya-sūktas, leaving 36 artha-sūktas. But this does not prove that our 4 paryāya-sūktas should not be counted as 16 (cf. p. 471, end).]

[The anuvāka-division of the book (as is explained on page 472) is into five anuvākas of two hymns each. The “decad”-division likewise is as described on page 472. A tabular conspectus for book xi. follows:

Hymns	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10
Decad-div.	10 + 10 + 10 + 7	10 + 10 + 11	3P 10 + 10 + 6	10 + 10 + 6	10 + 13	10 + 10 + 7	10 + 10 + 14	10 + 10 + 6	10 + 10 + 7

Here ¶ means “paragraph of a paryāya” (such as is numbered as a “verse” in the Berlin edition) and P means “paryāya.” The last line shows the “decad”-division. Of these “decads,” anuvākas 1, 2, 3, 4, and 5 contain respectively 7, 3, 5, 6, and 6 (in all, 27 “decads”); while anuvāka 2 has 3 paryāyas. The sum is 27 “decad”-sūktas and 3 paryāya-sūktas or 30 sūktas.]

Nearly every verse of the hymn is quoted in Kāuc. 60-63 and 65 in connection with the description of the sava offerings ; [see Bloomfield, page 610 and the following for details so far as they are helpful]. [Citations in other parts of Kāuc. are noted under the verses. The hymn is not noticed by Vait. : see page 610.] * [This curious addition to the Anukr., vyāghrāḍiṣv avagantavyā, recurs in the Anukr.'s treatment of xiv. 1. 60 and of the c of xv. 5. 1-7. See note to xv. 5. 7.]

Translated : Henry, 97, 133 ; Griffith, ii. 51 ; Bloomfield, 179, 610.

1. O Agni, be thou born ; Aditi here, suppliant, cooks a brahmān-rice-dish, desiring sons ; the seven seers, being-makers — let them churn thee here together with progeny.

Aditi's cooking of a rice-dish in order to obtain progeny is repeatedly referred to in the Brāhmaṇas — probably by way of echo of this verse : compare TS. vi. 5. 6 ; TB. i. 1. 9¹ ; K. vii. 15 ; MS. i. 6. 12 ; [ii. 1. 12 and references] ; [also AV. vi. 81. 3] ; the comm. quotes the TS. passage in his explanation of the verse. He defines a brahmādana as brahmaṇe jagatsraṣṭre svāhākāreṇa deya odanaḥ, and then adds : yad vā brahmādanasavākhye 'smin karmani brāhmaṇānām bhojanāya bhāgatvena kalpita odano brahmādanaḥ.

2. Make ye smoke, O ye bulls, companions, ye that are aided by the unhateful (?), unto speech ; this Agni [is] fight-overpowering, having good heroes, by whom the gods overpowered the barbarians.

The second pāda is mechanically rendered, being quite corrupt, as appears [from the meter and] by comparison with the corresponding RV. verse (iii. 29. 9), which reads instead āśredhanta itana vīṣam ācha. The comm. explains ādrogh as adrohakārīṇām sucaritṛāṇām yajamānānām avitā raksitā, as if the pada-reading were -avitā instead of -avitāḥ. [W's Collation-book gives -avitāḥ as pada-reading without note of variant ; and this is the reading also of two or three of SPP's mss. : but he admits -avitā into his pada-text, following one or two mss.] RV. begins also kṛṇōta, and has vīṣanam for vīṣaṇas in a ; also devāsas (rectifying the meter) in d. All the mss. [save one or two] read asahanta, unaccented, in d, but both editions make the necessary emendation to āsahanta — which, of course, RV. has. Ppp. is corrupt in d, reading *devā 'santa ; after it catrūn. * [A most interesting instance of haplography on the part of the AV. : cf. note to iv. 5. 5. Note the fourfold occurrence of the sound-combination ās within the RV. pāda ; and that three of these are reduced by Ppp. to one.]

3. O Agni, thou hast been born unto great heroism, unto the cooking of the brahmān-rice-dish, O Jātavedas ; the seven seers, being-makers — they have given thee birth; do thou confirm to this woman wealth with all heroes.

Ppp. reads ṣaktaye in b, combines ṣaptarṣ- in c, and has in d asme and nī yachatām.

4. Kindled, O Agni, be thou kindled with kindling (samidhī); mayest thou bring hither, knowing, the worshipful gods; for them cooking (ṣṛā) the oblation, O Jātavedas, make thou this man to ascend to the highest firmament (nāka).

Ppp. reads in b viṣvā devān. In a, the comm. has samidhah sa for sām idhyasva. [For d, cf. i. 9. 2, 4; vi. 63. 3.]

5. Threefold is set down the share that is yours of old — of gods, of Fathers, of mortals; know ye the portions (dāṇṣa); I share them out to you; that one that is the gods' shall set this woman across.

That is (at the end), as the comm. paraphrases it, iṣṭaphalasya pāraṇi gamayati 'bring her to the further shore (the completion) of desired result.' Ppp. reads jāta-vedas in a for yaḥ purā vaḥ, inserts uta before martyānām in b, and has in d sāi 'vanī for sa imām.

6. O Agni, powerful, overcoming, thou overcomest; put down (nī-ubj) [our] hating rivals; let this measure (mātrā), being measured, and measured, make [thy] fellows tribute-bringers to thee.

The comm. does not try to give ny ubja a more distinctive meaning than adhomukhān pātaya; the obscure mātrā he simply glosses by nirmātrā [as instrumental sing. masc. (supplying iyam cālā as subject); but the three translators take it as nom.].

7. In company with thy fellows, be thou united with milk; urge her up unto great heroism; ascend aloft to the summit (viṣṭāp) of the firmament (nāka), which they call by the name heavenly world.

Addressed, according to the comm., to the sacrificer; the Kāuṣ. (61. 20) makes it accompany the pouring of rice into the mortar. The comm. explains ud ubja as ud gamaya unnataṣiraskām kuru. Ppp. reads suṣṭātīḥ in a, and viṣṭapas in c.

8. Let this great one (maḥī) accept the hide, the divine earth, with favoring mind; then may we go to the world of the well-done.

This accompanies, as is plain, the spreading-out of the ox-hide upon the ground (so Kāuṣ. 60. 30). Ppp. reads in b prthivyāi, and, at the end, sukṛtām u lokam. The last pāda is the same with vi. 121. 1 d; vii. 83. 4 d.

9. Join thou on the hide these two allied stones; split apart the shoots (añṣū) successfully for the sacrificer; smiting down, smite them that would fight her; bearing up thy progeny aloft, lift up.

The feminine participles in c, d indicate that the verse is addressed to the wife of the sacrificer, though the comm. understands the first half as for the priest. Añṣu he regards as applied by a figure to the rice, as grāvānāu 'soma-pressing-stones,' means mortar and pestle. 'Smite down' and 'lift up' are the alternate movements of the pestle, each viewed as symbolical. Imām is redundant in c as regards both meter and sense; perhaps it has blundered in here out of 11 c. Ppp. is corrupt in c and d, but can be seen to read uddharantī in d. The verse and its parts are quoted in Kāuṣ. 61. 18, 22, 24.

10. Seize in thy hand, O hero, the two joint-acting (sakṛt) stones; the worshipful gods have come to thy sacrifice; three boons, whichever thou chooseth — those successes do I here make successful for thee.

The comm. and one or two of SPP's authorities read sukṛtāu in a (Ppp. sayujā); sakṛt is not elsewhere found used as an adjective. Ppp. further combines hasta ā into hastā in a-b, and reads yajñeyā and ayus in b. The comm. renders te in b as if it were id. [The definition of the Anukr. may perhaps mean 'a jagati of elevens (virād-jagati), which possesses a thirteen at the beginning, (and which is) deficient-by-two (virāt).']

11. This [is] thy thought (? dhiti) and this thy place of birth; let Aditi, of hero-sons, seize thee; cleanse away them that would fight her; confirm to her wealth with all heroes.

Said, according to Kāuṣ. (61. 23), in connection with taking up the winnowing fan (çurpa). The comm. explains dhiti as = pāna, taking it from the root dhā 'suck.' One would like to derive it from dhā 'put,' as 'place' or something similar. Ppp. reads at the end nī yachāt.

12. Sit ye in the wooden blower (? upaçvasā); be ye winnowed, worshipful ones, from the husks. By fortune (çrī) may we surpass all [our] equals; I make [our] haters to fall under foot.

[The second half-verse recurs below, vs. 21.] The majority of SPP's authorities, and some of ours (P.M.W.O.s.m.R.T.) read dhruvāye [Ppp. drūye] in a; also the comm., who explains it as = dhruvāya sthirāya satyaphalāya karmaṇe; upaçvasā [Ppp. upaçvade] he absurdly takes for a verb: (he taṇḍulā yuṣmān) upā samīpa āçvāsāyāmi prabhūtān karomi! [The meaning 'das Blasen, Luftzug,' is assigned to it in OB. iii. 257 b.] [Ppp. reads pādayama at the end of d.] The verse accompanies (so Kāuṣ. 61. 29) the operation of winnowing. The comm. treats yajñiyāsa in b as nominative.

13. Go away, woman; come back quickly; the stall (goṣṭhā) of the waters hath ascended thee for bearing; seize then of them [f.] whichever shall be worshipful; having shared [them] out wisely, then leave the others.

The comm. explains goṣṭha by jalarāçi; it is rather, doubtless, the vessel in which the water is brought, on the shoulder or head (adhi-ruh: comm. çirasi ā-ruh). [Cf. OB. iii. 261 b.] The comm. reads āsan at end of c. Ppp. combines yajñiā 'san in c, and in d reads vibhajya, and kvayita for jahitāt. SPP. reads in b goṣṭhō 'dhy, with the majority of his authorities.

14. These maidens (yoṣṭī) have come, adorning themselves; stand up, woman, take hold of the mighty one; well-spoused with husband, progeny-possessing with progeny; to thee hath come the sacrifice; receive thou the vessel (kumbhā).

The comm. explains the 'maidens' as the 'water-bringing women,' but they are evidently the waters (fem.) themselves: compare vss. 17, 27 below. The comm. reads tava sam, two separate words, in b; [Roth, in his Notes, adds that Ppp. reads tavas sam bharasva]; the 'mighty one' is the 'vessel' of d. Verses 13-15 are quoted in Kāuṣ. (60. 25-29), but not in natural sequence with the verses that precede and follow.

15. The portion of refreshment (ūrj) [is] set down which [is] yours of old; do thou, instructed by the seer, bring these waters; let this sacrifice be for you progress-gaining (gātu-vid), refuge-gaining, progeny-gaining, formidable, cattle-gaining, hero-gaining.

'Thou' in b is fem., the water-bearer, doubtless, of vs. 13. The 'yours' of a and the 'you' of d refer probably to those interested in the ceremony, though the comm. understands the former of the waters. Ppp. reads nihatās in a, combines and reads -ṣṭā 'pā 'harāi 'tāh in b, puts nāthavid before gātuvid in c, and elides vo 'stu in d.

16. O Agni, the worshipful pot hath ascended thee; bright (çlci), very hot, do thou heat it with heat; let those of the seers, those of the gods, gathering unto their share, very hot, heat this with the seasons.

The comm. understands the epithets in b as belonging to caris, which is doubtless wrong; those in c he understands of 'Brahmans' and 'attendants on Indra and the other gods'; without much question, the flames of Agni are intended. Ppp. reads in c devā 'bhisamhatya. The verse plainly accompanies the setting of the vessel for boiling on the fire: so Kāuṣ. 61. 31; also 2. 7.

17. Let these cleansed, purified, worshipful maidens, the waters, beauteous ones, creep down to the pot; they have given us abundant progeny, cattle; let the cooker of the rice-dish go to the world of the well-doers.

[Pāda a is identical with vs. 27 a and vi. 122. 5 a.] The mss. are about equally divided in c between bahulām and bahulān (our I.T.K.Kp. have the latter; O. has -lānn); SPP. accepts the latter, we the former; the comm. has -lān; and he reads pakvā for pakṭā in d [or c]. Ppp. has dadat for adus in c, and eti for etu in d. The verse concerns the pouring in of the water: so Kāuṣ. 61. 34-5, and 2. 8. — [If we read bahulānç ca in c, and in d pakvāūdanasya as a compound (against the pāda-division, which reckons pakṭā to c, and against the double accent) and u for etu, we get most acceptable sense and meter: lokām would be construed as coördinate with paçñ and pakvāūdanasya as coördinate with nas (cf. xi. 8. 10 c and Speyer, Vedische Syntax, § 71, end). The heroic surgery implies no worse corruptions than we have often seen. But this is all mere suggestion.]

18. Cleansed with prayer (brāhman) and purified with ghee, shoots of Soma [are] these worshipful rice-grains; enter ye the waters; let the pot receive you; having cooked this, go ye to the world of the well-doers.

A few mss. (including our O.) read etu for eta in d. Ppp. has instead eti; further, in a, uṣṭūtās, and, in c, apa pravicyatu. The verse accompanies the pouring of the rice-grains into the water: so Kāuṣ. 61. 36, and 2. 9. [Read somāñçāvas?] [The Anukr. seems to scan as 12 + 13: 12 + 13 = 50; but the mark of pāda-division is after carur, not before it.]

19. Spread thyself broad, with great greatness, thousand-backed, in the world of the well-done: grandfathers, fathers, progeny, descendants (upajā): I am thy fifteen-fold cooker.

Fifteen-fold [cf. Skt. Gram. § 488], probably, as representing so many generations, or degrees of kindred. The verse accompanies the boiling [Kāuṣ. 61. 37: employed also in connection with other verses at 68. 27], and alludes apparently to the swelling of the mess in the process. Ppp. combines te'smi at the end. The mss. vary between pakṣā and pakṣvā in d (our T.K.Kp. have -tā); SPP. gives pakṣā, with the large majority of his authorities, and it is doubtless the true reading. The comm. has again pakṣvā. [Correct the Berlin ed. to pakṣā.]

20. Thousand-backed, hundred-streamed, unexhausted, [is] the brāhman-rice-dish, god-traveled, heaven-going; them yonder I assign to thee; lessen (?) thou them with progeny; be gracious then to me [as] bringer of tribute.

Kāuṣ. makes no use of this parenthetical verse of praise, prayer, and imprecation. The comm. and two of SPP's authorities read reṣaya in c, and the comment to Prāt. iii. 94 (though reading reṣayāi 'nān) quotes it as an example of a palatal or lingual or dental mute interposed between r and n, which would seem to imply reṣaya.* The comm. glosses his reṣaya with leṣaya alpikuru, and, as the expression looks as if meant for the opposite to that in vs. 21 a, the translation has been made accordingly. [Ppp. reads akṣato at end of a.] [Where the Anukr. finds a pāda of 13 syllables I know not. — The one of 14 must be c: does para mean simply the second half-verse?] *[That is, it implies the mute (c) rather than the sibilant (ç), the intervention of which was treated in the preceding rule, iii. 93.]

21. Go thou up to the sacrificial hearth; increase her with progeny; push [away] the demon; set her further forward; by fortune may we surpass all [our] equals; I make [our] haters to fall under foot.

The last half-verse is the same with vs. 12 c, d above. The whole evidently accompanies the bringing of the cooked dish to the place of offering: according to Kāuṣ. 61. 41, its removal from the fire. Ppp. reads enam at end of a, pratiraṇ dhey enam at end of b, paçyā for çriyā in c, and pādayema [cf. vs. 12] at end of d.

22. Turn thou toward her together with cattle; be opposite to her together with the divinities; let not curse attain thee, nor witchcraft (abhicārā); bear rule (vi-rāj) in thine own field (kṣētra), free from disease.

The comm. reads enān in both a and b. [All] the pāda-mss. read anamtvāḥ in d [save SPP's J. prīma manu: W's translation and the comm. imply -vā, and this SPP. has adopted as his pāda-reading]. Ppp. has in a prajāyā sahāi 'nām, and, for c, d, a very different (and corrupt) text: svargo lokam abhi saṁvihīnam ādītyo deva parama vyoma; [its b is corrupt]. According to Kāuṣ. 61. 42, with this verse the vessel is made to take a turn to the right. In b the duplication of ñ before enām is overlooked in nearly all the mss., and SPP. admits in his text the ungrammatical combination.

23. Fashioned by righteousness (ṛtā), set by mind, this was ordained in the beginning the sacrificial hearth of the brāhman-rice-dish; apply,

O woman, the cleansed shoulder-bearer (?); on that set the rice-dish of them of the gods.

SPP. reads in c aṅsadhrīm, with rather the larger number of authorities (of our mss. Bp.P.M.W.I.K.Kp.), though only -dhrīm seems to offer any etymology, and that an unsatisfactory one. The comm. has aṅṣadhrīm 'portion-holder,' which is perhaps the true reading. The pada-text leaves the word undivided. The mss. of Kāuṣ. (61.44), it may be noted, also vary between aṅsadhrīm and -dhrīm in quoting the pratīka of the second half-verse. Dāivyanām would rectify the meter of d, but no ms. reads it, though two of SPP's, and the comm., give devānām. Ppp. reads in a manaso hite 'yaṁ, in b nihañtā for vihitā, in c aṣadhriyaṁ, emended by another hand to -ddhiyaṁ.

24. Aditi's hand, this second ladle (śrūc), which the seven seers, being-makers, made — let that spoon, knowing the members of the rice-dish, collect it upon the sacrificial hearth.

The comm. reads in a hastam and dvitīyam, indicating that he regards the adjective as qualifying hastām rather than śrucam — which may well be the case. Ppp. [has hastām and] combines saptarṣayas.

25. Let them of the gods sit by thee, a cooked (ṣṛtā) oblation; having crept out of the fire, sit thou forward again to them; purified by soma, sit thou in the belly of the worshipers (brahmān); let not them of the seers, partakers (prācītī) of thee, suffer harm.

Ppp. begins ṣrutāṁ tvā havir, has for b anusṛpyā 'gne punar enaṁ pra sṛpyas (without any avasāna), reads in c-d brāhmaṇā āṛṣeṣas, and reads and combines ma rṣaṁ in d. The comm. [with two of SPP's authorities] reads devās at end of a, and treats te in d as tā. Accompanies, according to Kāuṣ. 63. 3, the seating of 'four āṛṣeṣas, who know the bhṛgvaṅgiras' by the offering.

26. O king Soma, strew harmony for them, for whatsoever good Brahman shall sit by thee; with good call, I call loudly to the brahmān-rice-dish the seers, them of the seers, born from penance (tāpas).

In a-b, for -bhyaḥ sūbrāhmaṇās, Ppp. reads -bhya brāhm- [intending perhaps ābrāhmaṇās? cf. vs. 32]; in c it has ṛṣṭnām ṛṣayas tap-, and jātā (so also the comm.) for -tān; [and begins d with brāhmāudane]. The comm. understands suhavā in d as fem., and makes the sacrificer's wife the speaker. The verse is not quoted in Kāuṣ.; [but Keçava cites it just before vs. 25 in 63. 3].

27. These cleansed purified worshipful maidens I seat in separate succession in the hands of the priests (brahmān); with what desire I now pour you on, may Indra here with the Maruts grant me that.

[Pāda a = vs. 17 a.] Nearly identical with vi. 122. 5, and slightly different from x. 9. 27. The verse is quoted by Kāuṣ. 63. 4; [so the comm.: under vi. 122. 5 he made the sūtra apply to that verse]. Ppp. has a wholly different a: īyam āpo madhumatī ghrtaṣcyuto; [it reads brāhmaṇā at beginning of b]; and combines yatkāme 'dam in c.

28. This my light (jyōtiḥ), immortal gold, cooked (pakvā) from the field, this my desire-milker; this riches I deposit in the Brahman; I make a road to the Fathers that is heaven-going.

The construction of the nominatives in a, b is left undetermined in the translation, as it is in the text. [Cf. Griffith's version and note, p. 55.] Ppp. has hiraṇmayān in a, and yat svargāṇi at the end of d. The verse is quoted by Kāuṣ. at 62. 22 and 68. 27; and at 63. 5 Kāuṣ. cites b [comm. b and c] as accompanying a removal of something (iṭy apakarṣati: it is not clear what; [the comm. thinks the rice-dish and reads upa- for apa-]).

29. Strew thou the husks in the fire, in Jātavedas; wipe off far away the chaff (? kambūkān); this we have heard to be the share of the house-king; also we know the portion (bhāgadhēya) of Perdition (nīrti).

Ppp. reads upa mṛḍhvayetām for apa mṛḍḍhi dāram in b. The comm. explains kambūkān as = phalīkaraṇān, and follows Kāuṣ. (63. 7) in regarding the 'wiping away' as done with the foot.

30. Know thou the toiling, cooking, soma-pressing one; make him to ascend the heaven-going road, by which he may ascend, arriving at the vigor that is beyond, to the highest firmament, to the furthest vault (vyōman).

'Know,' i.e. take note or be mindful of. The comm. takes the three participles in a as accus. pl. instead of gen. sing.; [and reads accordingly enān at end of b]. Ppp. has, for b, svargān lokam adhi rohaye 'nam, and omits d. The quotation in Kāuṣ. 63. 20 casts no light on the verse.

31. Wipe off, O serving priest (adhivaryū), this face of the bearing one (? babhri); make thou, understanding it, room for the sacrificial butter; wipe off with ghee along all [its] members; I make a road to the Fathers that is heaven-going.

The real sense of the epithet babhri applied to the odana or rice-dish is obscure; the comm. explains it here with bharaṇaṣṭasya poṣakasya pakvasya odanasya, 'supporting' or 'nourishing.' The comm. appears to read vidvān instead of pravidvān in b; Ppp. has prajānan. Ppp. has yat for yas in d. According to Kāuṣ. 62. 15, the verse accompanies the making of an āpāna (? the mss. vary as to the word) above (upari); which the comm. explains by odanasyo 'pari gartaṁ kuryāt, glossing lokam in b with sthānaṁ garta-rūpam; what is meant is obscure.

32. O bearing one, [as] a demon, strew discord for them, for whatsoever non-Brahmans shall sit by thee; rich in ground (? purīṣin), spreading themselves forward, let not them of the seers, partakers of thee, suffer harm.

With the first half-verse compare vs. 26 a, b, above; the last pāda is the same with 25 d. The construction of rākṣas in a is doubtful; it might be vocative; the comm. combines it into a compound with samadam; and he treats te, as before, as if it were tē. Ppp. reads at beginning of b, as our text in vs. 26, subrahmaṇās. The verse is not quoted in Kāuṣ.

33. I set thee down, O rice-dish, among them of the seers; for them that are not of the seers, there is no portion here; let Agni my guardian, and all the Maruts, let all the gods defend the cooked [offering].

'Is no portion for,' lit'ly 'is not also (api) of'—a common form of expression in the Brāhmaṇas. Ppp. reads raṅsanti in d. The verse is quoted with vs. 25 c in Kāuṣ. 65. 12.

34. The offering, yielding milk (duh), constantly full (prāpīna), a male (pūmāns) milch-cow, seat of wealth, immortality through offspring, and a long life-time—and may we sit by thee with abundance (pl.) of wealth.

The construction of the third pāda is very indeterminate; the words may be either nominative or accusative; they express in some way what the offering is to procure. To illustrate prajāmyrtatvam, the comm. quotes, quite appositely, TB. i. 5. 5⁶ and RV. v. 4. 10, 'by progeny, O Agni, may I obtain immortality.' Prāpīnam he explains as = pravyddhodhaskam, which is doubtless its true meaning. Ppp. reads in d poṣam for poṣāis. Neither this nor the following verse, nor vs. 37, is quoted in Kāuṣ. [Cf. Henry's version, p. 102; and, for the awkward ca, his note, p. 139.]

35. Thou art a heaven-going bull; go to the seers, to them of the seers; sit in the world of the well-doing; there is there preparation (samskṛtā) for us both.

[Prose.] Ppp. reads ṛṣabhas at the beginning, and lokan for loke in c. With the second half-verse is to be compared TS. i. 4. 43², and MS. i. 3. 37 (end) and iv. 8. 2 (end), which read: sukṛtām loké sidata tán naḥ samskṛtām; and VS. iv. 34 has the last pāda, reading tān for tātra. The pāda-texts do not divide samskṛtām; the case falls under rule iv. 58 of the AV. Prāt.

36. Gather thou together unto, go thou together forth after; O Agni, make ready (kalpay-) the roads traveled by the gods; by them, well-made, may we go after the offering, that stands upon the seven-rayed firmament.

All the mss. [save one or two of SPP's] leave agne unaccented, as if it belonged to a, and Bp. puts the double division-mark after it accordingly; SPP. reads with the [majority of his] mss.; we have made the necessary emendation to agne. Ppp. reads at the beginning samātanasva; for c it has yebhis sukrṭāir anu prajñeṣṭhāns sa yajñe. The comm. regards a as addressed to the rice-dish, which is to 'gather up' all its members. The verse is quoted in Kāuṣ. 63. 9, but not in a way to cast any light upon it. TS. iv. 7. 13⁴ and MS. ii. 12. 4 are to be compared with the first half-verse, but they vary much from it and from one another.

37. With what light the gods went up to the sky, having cooked the brahmān-rice-dish, to the world of the well-done, with that may we go to the world of the well-done, ascending the heaven, unto the highest firmament.

The second half-verse is identical with iv. 14. 6 c, d, above [see my note]. The comm. reads jeṣma in c, explaining it by jayema [= prāpnuyāma]. Ppp. has, instead of this repetition, a new half-verse: tām tvā pacāmi jyotiṣām jyotir uttamaṁ sa nas tad dhehi sukrṭām u loke.

2. To Rudra, especially as Bhava and Çarva.

[Atharvan. — *ekatriṇṇat. mantroktarudraddivatam. trāiṣṭubham. 1. parātijāgātā virād jagatī; 2. anuṣṭubgarbhā 5-p. pathyājagatī; 3. 4-p. svarād uṣṇih; 4, 5, 7, 13, 15, 16, 21. anuṣṭubh; 6. ārṣī gāyatṛī; 8. mahābṛhatī; 9. ārṣī; 10. puṛoḥṛtī 3-p. virād; 11. 5-p. virād jagatigarbhā çakvarī; 12. bhurij; 14, 17, 18, 19, 23, 26, 27. virād gāyatṛī; 20. bhurig gāyatṛī; 22. viṣamapādalakṣmyā 3-p. mahābṛhatī; 24, 29. jagatī; 25. 5-p. atīçakvarī; 30. 4-p. uṣṇih; 31. 3-av. viparīṭapādalakṣmyā 6-p. [jagatī?].]

Found also in Pāipp. xvi. — * [Verses 9 and 28 are triṣṭubh, the remaining 29 being exceptions !]

[The pratiça coincides with that of xi. 6. 9, bhavāçarvāv idām brūmaḥ, and that of iv. 28, bhāvāçarvāv manuṣv vām: see introduction to the latter. The only quotation in Vāit. is at 29. 10, where the hymn accompanies an offering to Rudra; and it is accordingly reckoned to the rāudra gaṇa (note to Kāuç. 50. 13). Verse 31 is reckoned to the abhaya gaṇa (note to Kāuç. 16. 8). Further citations in Kāuç. are as follows: the hymn is used (129. 3) with an oblation in deprecating an evil omen; Dārila understands it as meant at 28. 8 (see introd. to iv. 28); Keçava and the comm. hold that it is to be used with a dozen other hymns in a rite (50. 13–14) for safety on a business journey; Keçava (not the comm.) takes it to be intended with v. 6 at 51. 7 in a rite for the safety of the cattle. — According to Caland's interpretation of yuktayos at 50. 17, it is to be used (with vi. 128) in the rite there prescribed for keeping snakes etc. from house and field; but perhaps iii. 26 and 27 are rather intended (see my introduction to iii. 26).]

Translated: Muir, iv. 334; Ludwig, p. 549; Henry, 103, 139; Griffith, ii. 57; Bloomfield, 155, 618. — Cf. also Bergaigne-Henry, Manuel, p. 157; and von Schroeder, Tübinger Kāṭha-hss., p. 14–15, where the text corresponding to our verses 1–9 and 13 and 16 is given.

1. O Bhava-and-Çarva, be gracious; do not go against [us]; ye lords of beings, lords of cattle, homage to you! [the arrow] that is fitted, that is drawn, do not let fly; do not harm our bipeds nor quadrupeds.

The comm. first explains mā in a as if it were mā, object of abhi yātam, and then, alternatively, in its proper sense. [For āyata, see note to vi. 65. 1.]

2. Make ye not bodies for the dog, the jackal, for the buzzards (? alīklava), the vultures, and them that are black [and] greedy (aviṣyū); let thy flies, lord of cattle, let thy birds not find themselves at food.

'Bodies' (çaritra) must be taken here in the sense of 'dead bodies.' The accent of kārtam is, though rather strange, not indefensible, as in the former of two parallel clauses; the comm. reads instead kartum. Alīklava is found only here and in 9. 9, and is rendered purely conjecturally; the comm. reads instead aviklabebhyas, and Ppp. ariklabebhyas. All the pada-mss. separate māvidanta at the end into mā: avidanta; SPP., in his pada-text, makes, with the comm., the necessary emendation to vid. The construction and sense of d are obscure and doubtful; Ppp. has a wholly different reading: viçase mā viçyantu.

3. Unto thy noise (? krānda), [thy] breath, and what pangs (? rōpi) are thine, O Bhava — homage we pay to thee that art thousand-eyed, O Rudra, immortal one.

The comm. glosses krandāya with krandanāya śabdāya, and ropayas with ropayitryo mohayitryas tanvaḥ; he reads at the end amartyas, explaining it as used for a dative.

4. We pay thee homage in front, above, also below; forth from the sphere of the sky, homage [be] to thine atmosphere.

The comm. explains abhivargā as = avakāṣātmaka ākāśaḥ. The verse is mostly wanting in Ppp.

5. To thy face, O lord of cattle; the eyes that thou hast, O Bhava; to [thy] skin, form, aspect, to thee standing opposite [be] homage.

Or 'to thy mouth,' instead of 'face.' The comm. paraphrases pratīcīnāya with pratyaḡātmarūpiṇe.

6. To thy members, belly, tongue, thy mouth, to thy teeth, smell, [be] homage.

Ppp. (omitting the first te) combines aṅgebhyo 'darāya and jihvāyā 'syāya and reads ca for te at end of b].

7. With the blue-locked archer, the thousand-eyed, vigorous, with Rudra, the half-smiter (?) — with him may we not come into collision (sam-r).

Ardhaka-ghātin, in c, is met with only here, and is of obscure meaning; the comm. says senāyā ardham hantunī ṣṭam aśya, i.e. 'able to destroy half an army at once.' No variant is reported from Ppp. [in the Collation: but in his Notes, Roth does report adhvaga]; the minor Pet. Lex. says "Ppp. adhvaga," and itself conjectures andhaka. [Cf. the notes of Henry, Griffith, Bloomfield. The Kaṭha reading, however, should now be taken into account; and that has in fact adhvaga: see Kaṭha-hss., p. 155.] Ppp. has at the end samarāmasi.

8. Let this Bhava avoid us on every side; as fire the waters, let Bhava avoid us; let him not plot against us; homage be to him.

Ppp. reads āpāi 'vā 'gñiṣ pari in b, and combines no abhi in c. The comm. has in c the regular form maṁsta; but long ā in this tense occurs a couple of times in other texts also.

9. Four times [catūs] homage, eight times, to Bhava; ten times, O lord of cattle, be homage to thee; thine are shared out these five creatures (pañcū) — cows, horses, men, sheep and goats.

All the mss. agree in the inconsistent readings aṣṭakṛtvas and dāṣa kṛtvas (cf. Prāt. iv. 27); SPP. regards the comm. as having daṣakṛtvas as a compound, but I do not see on what ground. Ppp. reads in d gāvo 'ṣvāḥ puruṣāṇd aj.

10. Thine are the four directions, thine the heaven, thine the earth, thine, O formidable one, this wide atmosphere, thine is all this that has life (ātman), that is breathing upon (ānu) the earth.

Ppp. omits tava pṛthivī, thus rectifying the meter; and it has for d yad ejad adhi bhūmyām.

11. This wide vessel, holder of good things, is thine, within which are all these beings; do thou be gracious to us, O lord of cattle; homage to thee; away let the jackals, the portents (abhibhā), the dogs go, away the weepers of evil with disheveled hair.

The comm. identifies the vessel (koṣa) with the aṇḍakaṭāha, the shell of the world-egg. He takes *abhibhā*s as = abhibhavitāras, and epithet of kroṣṭāras, and agharudas as = amaṅgalam yathā bhavati tathā rodanam kurvatyaḥ; [but see viii. 1. 19 and references]. [The meter of b would be rectified by reading vīṣvāni in place of imā vīṣvā.]

12. Thou bearest a yellow golden bow, a thousand-slaying, hundred-weaponed, O tufted one; Rudra's arrow goes, a god-missile; to that be homage, in whichever direction from here.

SPP. reads in b sakasraghnt, with the majority of his authorities; none of ours have it, but P.M.W. have -ghnyām, with two of SPP's mss., and with the comm. [cf. note to x. 4. 7 and Henry's note]; Ppp. gives -ghni. The comm. has ṣikhaṇḍi at end of b.

13. He who, attacked (abhi-yā), hides himself, [who] tries to put thee down, O Rudra, him from behind thou pursuest, like the tracker (? padant) of one that is pierced.

With the last pāda compare x. 1. 26 b; the expression is apparently a familiar or proverbial one: [cf. Manu viii. 44, 'as the hunter follows the track (padam nayati) of a deer by the drops of blood'; also Dhammapada, vss. 179, 180]. Ppp. reads ugra instead of rudra in b.

14. Bhava-and-Rudra, allied, in concord, both go about, formidable, unto heroism; to them be homage, in whichever direction from here.

Ppp., instead of repeating vs. 12 d, reads tayor bhūmim antarikṣam svar dyāus tābhyām namo bhavamatyāya [cf. vs. 19 a?] kṛṇva. The comm. explains vīryāya [alternatively] by svavīryaprakāṣanārtham, which is doubtless correct.

15. Homage be to thee coming, homage be [to thee] going away; homage to thee, O Rudra, standing; to thee sitting also [be] homage.

SPP's text has in a te 'stuv, with about half of his authorities. The verse is repeated as 4. 7, below, with prāṇa for rudra in c; Ppp. reads prāṇa in both places. The first half-verse is found in AÇS. i. 12. 34 and Āp. ix. 2. 9, in both with rudra for astu in b.

16. Homage in the evening, homage in the morning, homage by night, homage by day; to Bhava and to Çarva, to both have I paid homage.

17. With the thousand-eyed one, seeing across in front, with Rudra, hurling in many places, inspired one, may we not come in collision, as he goes about (īya-) with the tongue.

The comm. paraphrases atipacyām with atīcayenā 'tikramya vā paçyati (the word is omitted in both Pet. Lexx.), and connects purastāt either with it or with asyantam; jihvadye "yamānam he explains as jihvāgreṇa kṛtsnam jagad vyāpṇuvantam bhakṣa-nārtham lihanam, which is rather absurd; perhaps jihvayā (so Ludwig) belongs rather to 'we': 'we, by what we say.'

18. We go forward (pūrvā) to meet him of dark horses, black, swarthy, killing, fearful, making to fall the chariot of the hairy one (keçin); homage be to him.

The comm. understands the connection as here given, making keçin the name of an Asura; Ludwig takes ratham as object of prati'mas and the other words as its epithets. [Ppp. reads çyāvāsyaṁ at the beginning, and has, in b, bhīno and pārayantam.]

19. Do not let fly at us the club (? matyā), the god-missile; be not angry at us, O lord of cattle; homage to thee; elsewhere than [over] us shake out the heavenly bough.

The bough, namely (so it would seem), from which the portents that fall from the sky appear to be shaken by a hostile divinity. The comm. reads martyam instead of matyam in a. He recognizes that srās (i.e. *srā[kṣ]*s) is from root srj ("= vi srja"). Ppp. has srā m. devahitam in a.

20. Do not harm us; bless us; avoid us; be not angry; let us not come into collision with thee.

Ppp. omits nas before brūhi in a, and has at the end arāmasi (as in vs. 7).

21. [Be] not [greedy] for our kine, our men; be not greedy for our goats and sheep; elsewhere, O formidable one, roll forth [thy missile]; smite the progeny of the mockers (pīyāru).

The insertion in c seems unavoidable; the comm. [in a passage restored by SPP.?] supplies tava hetim; Ludwig, deinen Pfeil. [Ppp. inserts 'çveṣu before goṣu.]

22. Of whom the takmān, the kāsikā, goes as one weapon, like the noise of a stallion horse, to him, leading out in succession, be homage.

The verse is very obscure, and the translation mechanical; Ppp. reads, in a-b, ekā 'çvasya, and this reading is followed; the comm. supplies, to ekam, apakāriṇam puruṣam, and makes it object of eti = prāpnoti. Ludwig understands nirṇayate as 'extracting arrows from the quiver.' [As for vṛṣaṇas, cf. JAOS. x. 534, 524.]

23. He who stands propped up in the atmosphere, killing the non-sacrificing, the god-mockers—to him be homage with the ten clever ones (çakvoarī).

The 'ten clever ones' are probably the fingers: cf. v. 28. 11; the comm. glosses the word with aṅgulibhis, as = karmasu çaktābhiḥ. Ppp. begins yas tiṣṭhati viçvabhṛto antarikṣe 'yajvānaḥ pra-

24. To thee are assigned the forest animals [paçū], the wild beasts in the woods, the geese (haṁsā), eagles, hawks, birds; thine, O lord of cattle, is the monster (? yakṣā) within the waters; for thine increase flow the waters of the heaven.

Ppp. reads, for b, tubhyaṁ vayānsi çakunāḥ patatṛiṇaḥ, elides the a of apsu in c, and combines divyā "po in d. The comm. has mṛdhe at the end, explaining it as = undanāya. He takes yakṣam as = pūjyaṁ svarūṣam, but does not give any reason why, etymological or other. [Our a is nearly xii. i. 49 a (with the same redundancy of a dissyllable), and b is precisely xii. i. 51 b: for paçavas, cf. also iii. 31. 3, xi. 5. 21, and iii. 10. 6 note.]

25. The dolphins (çinçumāra), boas (ajagara), purikāyas, jashās, fishes, rajasās, at which thou hurlest: there is no distance for thee nor hindrance for thee, O Bhava; at once thou lookest over the whole earth; from the eastern thou smitest in the northern ocean.

Ppp. begins çinçumārā jagarāḥ puriṣayā jagā mat-. The comm. has pulikayās (like MS.); he takes rajasā (p. -sāḥ) as if it were the instr. sing. rājasā; he passes jaśās and mātsyās without mention, but defines çinçumāra as 'a kind of crocodile (nakra)' and ajagara as 'a kind of serpent.' For jaśās, some of the mss. (including our Bp.P.M.W.) have jakhās, one or two (including our I.) have jaghās, and one of SPP's jhaśās; doubtless it is the sea-monster called later jhaṣa. Nearly all the mss. have sārvān in ḍ (only our B. [and D.Kp.?] and two of SPP's sārvām), and SPP's text accordingly admits it, though it seems an evident error, and the comm. reads -vām. Most of the pada-mss. resolve pariṣṭhāsti into -sīhā: āsti (instead of asti). We are surprised to find a 'northern' ocean spoken of, and set over against the 'eastern' one [cf. xi. 5. 6], but uttara cannot well mean anything else. Consistency requires the reading -smint sam- in e, but the t is accidentally omitted in our text, and SPP's also leaves it out.

26. Do not, O Rudra, unite (sam-sj) us with the takmān, not with poison, not with the fire of heaven; elsewhere than [on] us make that lightning fall.

The comm. again correctly paraphrases saṁ srāḥ with saṁ sṛja.

27. Bhava is master (īç) of the heaven, Bhava of the earth; Bhava has filled the wide atmosphere; to him be homage, in whichever direction from here.

All our mss., and nearly all SPP's, strangely read tāsyāi at beginning of c, as if governed by the example of vs. 12 d. SPP. emends to tāsmāi in his text, with the comm. and less than a quarter of his authorities; [and the translation implies the change]. Ppp. has a different c: tasya vā (with nā written over it) prāpad duchunā kā cane 'ha; it also combines bhavā "pāpra [urva] in b.

28. O king Bhava, be gracious to the sacrificer, for thou hast become cattle-lord of cattle; whoever has faith, saying "the gods are," be thou gracious to his bipeds [and] quadrupeds.

29. Not our great one, and not our small, not our carrying one, and not those that will carry, not our father and mother do thou harm; our own self (tanū), O Rudra, do not injure.

The verse occurs also as RV. i. 114. 7; VS. xvi. 15; TS. iv. 5. 10²; TA. x. 52, with ākṣantam and ukṣitām for vāhantam and vakṣyatās in b; vadhīs for hinsīs and mō 'tā mātāram for mātāraṁ ca in c; and, for ḍ, mā naḥ priyās (TS.TA. priyā mā nas) tanvō rudra rīriṣaḥ. The comm. has vakṣatas in b. [Ppp. has, for b, mā na kṣiyanta uta mā no akṣata.]

30. To Rudra's howl-making, unhymned-swallowing (?), great-mouthed dogs I have paid this homage.

The obscure asaṃsūktagilā (Ppp. girebhyas) is paraphrased by the comm. with asamīcīnam aṣobhanavacanāṃ gr̥ṇanti bhāṣante. How asaṃsūktā should come to mean 'unmasticated,' as given in the Pet. Lexx., does not appear. The translation given conjectures 'not having a hymn with it.' The comm. reads elavak- in a.

31. Homage to thy noisy ones, homage to thy hairy ones, homage to those to whom homage is paid, homage to the jointly-enjoying — homage, [namely], O god, to thine armies; welfare [be] to us, and fearlessness to us.

The adjectives are fem., as belonging to senābhyas. Ppp. disagrees with our text in the last two thirds of the verse, but is corrupt. The comm. reads cana at the end. [The vs., as noted above, is quoted in the first abhaya gaṇa (note to 16.8).]

[Here ends the first anuvāka, with 2 hymns and 68 verses. The quoted Anukr. says tathāi 'va rāudre 'pi parās tu viṇcateh, designating the hymn as a "Rudra-hymn."]

3. Extolling the rice-dish (odaṇā).

. [Atharvan.—trayaḥ paryāyāḥ.]

[Prose, except vss. 19–22.] A corresponding passage is found in Pāipp. xvi., but so different in detail that it would require to be given in full for comparison; and this has not been done.

SPP., without any good reason,* counts the three paryāyas or divisions of this hymn as so many independent hymns, thus not only defacing the structure of the book, but defeating all the references that had been made to it in lexicons and elsewhere.

[The hymn is not cited by Vāit.; nor in the text of Kāuṣ., unless vs. 31 is meant at 62.8: but Keçava (p. 353¹) cites it for use in witchcraft practices (so the comm.), and also (p. 365²) for use in the br̥haspati sava (so comm.).]

Translated: Henry, 106, 145; Griffith, ii. 61. — Cf. especially Henry's introduction, p. 145. The rice-dish, hot and yellow and nourishing, is a symbol of the sun (cf. vs. 50); its ingredients and the utensils used in making it are identified with all sorts of things in the most grotesque manner of the Brāhmaṇas.

[Paryāya I. — ekatrinīcat. bārhaspatyāḍanadevatyam. 1, 14. āsūrī gāyatrī; 2. 3-p. sama-viṣamā gāyatrī; 3, 6, 10. āsūrī pañkti; 4, 8. sāmany anuṣṭubh; 5, 13, 15, 25. sāmany uṣṇih; 7, 19–22. prājāpatyā 'nuṣṭubh; 9, 17, 18. āsury anuṣṭubh; 11. bhurig ārcy anuṣṭubh; 12. yājuṣī jagati; 16, 23. āsūrī br̥hati; 24. 3-p. prājāpatyā br̥hati; 26. ārcy uṣṇih; 27. . . . ; [28, 29.] sāmnī br̥hati (29. bhurij); 30. yājuṣī triṣṭubh; 31. alpācaḥ (?) pañktir uta yājuṣī.]

1. Of this rice-dish Brihaspati is the head, Brahman the mouth (mūkha).

The comm. combines in part two or three verses of the first paryāya together in giving his explanations.

2. Heaven-and-earth are the ears, sun-and-moon the eyes, the seven seers the breaths-and-expirations.

3. Sight (cākṣus) the pestle, desire (kāma) the mortar.

4. Diti the winnowing basket, Aditi the basket-holder; the wind winnowed (apa-vic).

5. Horses the corns (kāṇa), kine the grains (tanḍukā), flies the husks.

6. Kābru the hulls, the cloud the stalk (çāra).

The comm. reads kabhru, and gives a forced etymology, from ka 'head' and bhrū 'brow'; he also has çtras for çāras, and this reading is found in some of the mss. (including our B.p.m., E.s.m., O.p.m. [and some of SPP's]).

7. Dark metal its flesh, red its blood (lōhita).

That is, doubtless, iron and copper respectively.

8. Tin [its] ash, greens (? hāritam) [its] color, blue lotus (pūṣkara) its smell.

The comm. glosses hārita with heman 'gold.' [Over "greens" W. has interlined "gold? (so BR.)." He rendered hārita by "the yellow one" at v. 28. 5, 9.]

9. The threshing-floor [its] receptacle, the two splints (sphya) [its] shoulders, the two poles (iṣā) [its] spines (anūkyā).

The comm. reads sphāu, and defines as pravṛddhāu dhānyādhārasya çakataśyā vāyavāu; and he defines anūkyā as aṇsayor madhyadehasya ca saṁdhi. Bp. reads iṣē for iṣā.

10. Entrails [its] neck-ropes (? jatrū), intestines [its] straps.

Jatrū is rendered with the commentary, who explains it as anaḍudgrīvāṇām çakata-jojanārthā rajjavāḥ.

11. This very earth is the vessel (kumbhī) of the finishing (rādh) rice-dish, heaven the cover.

[W. interlines a query over "finishing." The comm. renders rādh-by pacyamānasya.]

12. The furrows [its] ribs, gravel the content of [its] bowels.

The comm. reads śvadhyam.

13. Righteousness (ṛtā) [its] hand-washing, the brook (kulyā) [its] pouring-on.

In order to force a parallelism into it, the comm. explains ṛta as a 'name for water,' and as signifying 'all the water that is found in the world.' The Pet. Lex., on the other hand, conjectures 'family custom' for kulyā; it is translated above as if = kulyā, as the comm. takes it.

14. With sacred verse (ṛc) is the vessel put on, with priesthood sent forth;

15. With sacredness (brāhman) seized about, with sacred chant (sāman) carried about.

For the sake of the parallelism again, the comm. makes 'priesthood' indicate the Yajur-Veda, and 'sacredness' the Brahma-Veda of the Atharvans.

16. Bṛhāt the stirring-stick, rathamtarā the spoon.

The comm. paraphrases āyavana with udake prakṣiptānām taṇḍulānām mīṇa-nasādhanāni kṣāṭham.

17. The seasons the cooks; they of the seasons kindle fire.

18. Heat (gharmā) burns upon the pot of five openings, the boiler (ukhā).

19. By the rice-dish of him who hath an offering (?) all worlds are to be obtained together.

The translation implies emendation of the unintelligible yajñavacās to yajñavatas, the Ppp. reading, as reported in the minor Pet. Lex. [and Roth's notes]. The comm. explains the word as = yajñāir agniṣṭomādibhiḥ prāptavyatveno 'cyamānaḥ.

20. In which [rice-dish] are set (gritā), one below the other, the three, sea, sky, earth.

21. In the remnant (ūchiṣṭā) of which took shape six times eighty gods.

The comm. paraphrases akalpanta by samarthā vīryavanto 'bhavan.

22. Thee here I ask of the rice-dish, what is its great greatness.

23. He who may know the greatness of the rice-dish —

24. May not say "[it is] little," not "[it is] without onpouring," nor "[it is] this thing soever."

Upasecana is explained by the comm. as 'milk, butter, curd, or the like, that is poured on' — we might render by 'sauce.'

25. As much as the giver may set his mind upon, that one should not overbid (ati-vad).

26. The theologues (brahmanvādīn) say: hast thou eaten (pra-aḥ) the rice-dish as it was retiring (pārāṇc), or as it was coming on (pratyāṇc)?

The pluta- or protracted syllables in this and the next verse are quoted in Prāt. i. 105, but nothing is said as to their accentuation, from which it seems most plausible to infer that the protraction made no difference in the accent; and though in the Brāhmaṇas a protracted syllable is always accented [see Gram. § 78 a], that is not the invariable rule in the Vedic texts (thus, only once among the three instances occurring in RV.). Here the mss. are greatly at variance. [SPP's V. (a then living grotriya) read prācīḥ; and by his ms. D^c the reading prācīḥ is given secunda manu. Among our mss., O.R.Kp. (and E.?) give prācīḥ. SPP. reports that 16 of his authorities agree in giving pratyāṇcāḥ; and (apart from the presence or position of the ḥ) this seems to be the reading of many of W's mss.] SPP's text gives an accent to the protracted syllable in both cases in both vs. 26 and vs. 27. — [SPP's pada-reading in vs. 26 is prā : ācīḥ, and in 27 it is prā : ācīḥ. An accented ā in ācīḥ would require prā-ācīḥ (cf. vs. 28); but one does not see why the ā should be accented.]

27. Hast thou eaten the rice-dish, or the rice-dish thee?

The mss. again disagree as to the accent of prācīḥ, the majority (including our Bp.P.M.) having prācīḥ; as odanā happens to have its natural accent on the final, there is no discordance as to odanāḥ.

28. If thou hast eaten it retiring, thy breaths (prāṇā) will quit thee : so one says to him.

29. If thou hast eaten it coming on, thine expirations (apāṇā) will quit thee : so one says to him.

30. Not I, indeed, [have eaten] the rice-dish, nor the rice-dish me.

31. The rice-dish itself hath eaten the rice-dish.

The second paryāya of this hymn is reckoned in the Anukr. as of 72 divisions in 18 gaṇas or paragraphs; but the actual division in the mss. is into 126 such divisions (7 to each gaṇa), as given in both editions; and the metrical description of the Anukr. (as reported above) is also on that basis.

[The division of this paryāya into 72 avasānas. — In his Critical Notice, p. 20-21, at the beginning of his first volume, SPP. treats of this matter; and just after the end (p. 356) of the text of his third volume, he prints again this paryāya, but divided into 72 avasānas "according to the instructions contained in the Sarvānukramanikā" which he had printed in the Critical Notice, l.c.]

[The Major Anukr. calls the 18 main divisions of this paryāya (answering to the "verses" of the Berlin ed.) by the name of daṇḍakas. Since the daṇḍakas are all subdivided, they are also (see p. 472) called gaṇas. Each daṇḍaka falls into 7 subdivisions or avasānas, which may be designated as a, b, c, d, e, f, g. Each of these 7 is written out and counted for the first and last daṇḍaka (vss. 32 and 49, Berlin).]

[Similarly, in a sequence of refrains or anuṣaṅgas, the refrain is given and counted as an avasāna only for its first and last occurrence in that sequence. The third subdivision (or c: beginning tavi vā aham) of each daṇḍaka, being unvaried throughout the paryāya, constitutes a sequence of 18 and is given and counted independently only for vss. 32 and 49; while for the 16 vss., 33-48, it is given (see SPP. in vol. iii.) and counted as one with b, thus making the avasāna to consist of b-c. — In like manner, the sixth subdivision (or f: beginning esa vā odanaḥ) and the seventh subdivision (or g: beginning sarvāṅga eva), being unvaried throughout, constitute a sequence of 18 and are given and counted independently only for vss. 32 and 49; while for the other 16 vss. they are counted as one with e, thus making the avasāna to consist of e-g.]

[Furthermore, and on the other hand, subdivision e varies as to its beginning between tenāi 'nam, tayāi 'nam, and tāir enam, and tābhyām enam: but we find no unvaried sequences of more than two except tenāi 'nam etc. in the 5 vss., 39-43, and tābhyām

enam etc. in the 5 vss., 44-48. For vss. 40, 41, 42, accordingly, and for vss. 45, 46, 47, as well, not only is f-g reckoned to e, but also e-f-g is reckoned as an anuṣāṅga to d, thus making the avasāna to consist of d-g.]

[For these six verses, therefore, arranged and counted as 3 avasānas (a, b-c, d-g), we have the reckoning $6 \times 3 = 18$. — For verses 32 and 49 (counted as a, b, c, d, e, f, g, as above noted), we have the reckoning $2 \times 7 = 14$. — And for the remaining ten verses, we have the arrangement and count, a, b-c, d, e-g, or $10 \times 4 = 40$. This gives us $(18 + 14 + 40 =) 72$, which is the count, not only of the Major Anukr., but of the Old Anukr. or Pañcapāṭalikā as well.]

32. If [ca] thou hast eaten it with another head than that (tātas) with which the ancient seers ate this, thy progeny, from the oldest down, will die: so one says to him; it verily I [have] not [eaten] coming hither (arvāṇc), nor retiring, nor coming on; with Brihaspati [as] head, therewith have I eaten it, therewith have I made it go; this rice-dish, verily, is whole-limbed, whole-jointed, whole-bodied; whole-limbed, whole-jointed, whole-bodied becometh he who knoweth thus.

The pada-reading of prācīts in a is pracācīth.

33. If thou hast eaten it with other ears than those [tātas] with which the ancient seers ate this, thou wilt become deaf: thus one says to him; it verily [have] I not [eaten] coming hither, nor retiring, nor coming on; with heaven-and-earth as ears, with them have I eaten it, with them have I made it go etc. etc.

34. If thou hast eaten it with other eyes than those with which the ancient seers ate this, thou wilt become blind: thus one says to him; it verily [have] I not [eaten] coming hither, nor retiring, nor coming on; with sun-and-moon as eyes, with them have I eaten it, with them etc. etc.

All the mss. read sūryācandramasābhyām, which SPP. has very properly retained in his text; ours was altered to agree with vi. 128. 3, but the alteration should have been the other way.

35. If thou hast eaten it with another mouth (mūkha) than that with which the ancient seers ate this, thy progeny will die from in front (mukh-atās): thus one says to him; it verily [have] I not [eaten] coming hither, nor retiring, nor coming on; with brāhman as mouth, therewith have I etc. etc.

36. If thou hast eaten it with another tongue than that with which the ancient seers ate this, thy tongue will die: thus one says to him; it verily [have] I not [eaten] coming hither, nor retiring, nor coming on; with Agni's tongue, therewith have I etc. etc.

37. If thou hast eaten it with other teeth than those with which the ancient seers ate this, thy teeth will fall out (ṣad): thus one says to him; it verily [have] I not [eaten] coming hither, nor retiring, nor coming on; with the seasons as teeth, therewith have I etc. etc.

The comm. reads satsyanti for ṣatsyanti.

38. If thou hast eaten it with other breaths-and-expirations than those with which the ancient seers ate this, breaths-and-expirations will quit thee: thus one says to him; it verily [have] I not [eaten] coming hither, nor retiring, nor coming on; with the seven seers as breaths-and-expirations, therewith have I etc. etc.

The mss., as usual, are divided between saṭtarṣibhis and saṭtarṣi- in this verse; SPP. adopts the former.

39. If thou hast eaten it with another bulk (vyācas) than that with which the ancient seers ate this, the king-yākṣma will slay thee: thus one says to him; it verily [have] I not [eaten] coming hither, nor retiring, nor coming on; with the atmosphere as bulk, therewith have I etc. etc.

The comm. explains vyacasā by vyāptinatā rūpeṇa.

40. If thou hast eaten it with another back than that with which the ancient seers ate this, the lightning will slay thee: thus one says to him; it verily [have] I not [eaten] coming hither, nor retiring, nor coming on; with the sky as back, therewith have I etc. etc.

41. If thou hast eaten it with another breast than that with which the ancient seers ate this, thou wilt not prosper with plowing: thus one says to him; it verily [have] I not [eaten] coming hither, nor retiring, nor coming on; with the earth as breast, therewith have I etc. etc.

42. If thou hast eaten it with another belly than that with which the ancient seers ate this, the colic (? udaradārā) will slay thee: thus one says to him; it verily [have] I not [eaten] coming hither, nor retiring, nor coming on; with truth as belly, therewith have I etc. etc.

The comm. explains udaradāra as udarasya darāṇātmako 'tisārākhya rogah, or diarrhoea.

43. If thou hast eaten it with another bladder than that with which the ancient seers ate this, thou wilt die in the waters: thus one says to him; it verily [have] I not [eaten] coming hither, nor retiring, nor coming on; with the ocean as bladder, therewith have I etc. etc.

44. If thou hast eaten it with other thighs than those with which the ancient seers ate this, thy thighs will die: thus one says to him; it verily [have] I not [eaten] coming hither, nor retiring, nor coming on; with the thighs of Mitra-and-Varuṇa, therewith have I etc. etc.

45. If thou hast eaten it with other knees (aṣṭhīvānt) than those with which the ancient seers ate this, thou wilt become lame: thus one says to him; it verily [have] I not [eaten] coming hither, nor retiring, nor coming on; with Tvashtar's knees, therewith have I etc. etc.

46. If thou hast eaten it with other feet than those with which the ancient seers ate this, thou wilt be much-wandering: thus one says to him ; it verily [have] I not [eaten] coming hither, nor retiring, nor coming on ; with the feet of the two Aṇvins, therewith have I etc. etc.

47. If thou hast eaten it with other front-feet than those with which the ancient seers ate this, a serpent will slay thee : thus one says to him ; it verily [have] I not [eaten] coming hither, nor retiring, nor coming on ; with Savitar's front-feet, therewith have I etc. etc.

Read in our text savithā in ā (an accent-mark slipped out of place).

48. If thou hast eaten it with other hands than those with which the ancient seers ate this, thou wilt slay a Brahman : thus one says to him ; it verily [have] I not [eaten] coming hither, nor retiring, nor coming on ; with the hands of righteousness (ṛtā), therewith have I etc. etc.

49. If thou hast eaten it with another firm standing (pratiṣṭhā) than that with which the ancient seers ate this, without firm standing, without support (āyātana) wilt thou die : thus one says to him ; it verily [have] I not [eaten] coming hither, nor retiring, nor coming on ; standing firm in truth, therewith have I etc. etc.

All our sanhita-mss., and the majority of SPP's, have the false accent apraṭiṣṭhānō 'nāy- in b ; both editions emend to -ṣṭhānō. Some of our mss. (B.P.M.) read pratiṣṭhāyā in ā, as if aiming at pratiṣṭhāyā.

50. This — namely, the rice-dish — is indeed the summit (viṣṭāpa) of the ruddy one (bradhā).

The comm. explains bradhā as sūryamaṇḍalamadhyavartī "cvaraḥ, and viṣṭāpa as viyati viṣṭabdhām maṇḍalam.

51. He cometh to have the ruddy one for his world, he resorteth (gri) to the summit of the ruddy one, who knoweth thus.

52. Out of this rice-dish Prajāpati verily fashioned thirty-three worlds.

53. In order to the knowledge (prajñāna) of them he created the sacrifice.

54. He who becomes the on-looker (upadraṣṭṛ) of one knowing thus stops [his own] breath.

Upadraṣṭṛ ought to have here some special and offensive sense ; but what ? All the mss. leave bhavati unaccented, and SPP's text follows them ; ours makes the necessary emendation to bhāvati. We might expect runddhe, middle, but the following verses show whose breath is meant.

55. If he does not stop [his own] breath, he is scathed a complete scathing.

The comm. explains sarvajyāntm by prajāpaçvādirūpasya sarvasyā 'bhimatasya vastunaḥ . . . hānir yathā bhavati tathā. [Cf. GB. i. 3. 13, p. 52¹⁸ ; LṚS. x. 17. 7.]

56. If he is not scathed a complete scathing, before old age breath quits him.

ekatviṃśad bhavet pūrvas tasmād dvāsaṣṭatiḥ paraḥ :
trītyaḥ saptaśo dr̥ṣṭo "brhaspatiḥ cīraśy" api :

‘In the [hymn beginning] “brhaspatiḥ cīraśy” etc.—The summations of gaṇas and (gaṇa)-avasāna-r̥cas are as follows: I. g., 0; av., 31; II. g., 18; av., 72; III. g., 0; av., 7. Total of av., 110.—The second paryāya-sūkta is called also a gaṇa-sūkta.]

4. Extolling the breath (prāṇā).

[Bhārgava Vaidarbhi. — śaḍvīṃśakam. mantroktapṛāṇadevatyam. ānuṣṭubham : 1. cāṇkumatiḥ ; 8. paṭhyāpāṇkti ; 14. nīcī ; 15. bhurij ; 20. anuṣṭubgarbhātrīṣṭubh ; 21. madhye-jyotir jagati ; 22. triṣṭubh ; 26. brhatigarbhā.]

Found also in Pāṇp. xvi. The whole hymn (together with a considerable number of others) is quoted by its opening words in Kāuṣ. 55. 17; 58. 3, 11, but not in a way to cast the least light upon its meaning and value. [The hymn is reckoned to the āyur̥ya gaṇa (note to Kāuṣ. 54. 11); the comm. quotes further uses from Nakṣatrakalpa 19, Āntikālpā 15, and a Pāriṣiṣṭa.]

Translated: Muir, v. 394 (the greater part); Scherman, p. 69 (nearly all); Deussen, Geschichte, i. 1. 301 (with a general introduction); Henry, 111, 147; Griffith, ii. 64; Bloomfield, 218, 622.—The hymn to Prāṇa, introduced into the second pṛaṇa of the Pṛaṇa Upanishad, contains reminiscences of this hymn: cf. vs. 19, and Deussen, Upanishads, p. 562.

1. Homage to breath (prāṇā) in whose control is this All, who hath been lord of all, in whom all stands firm.

2. Homage, O breath, to thy roaring, homage to thy thunder; homage, O breath, to thy lightning, homage to thee raining, O breath.

Ppp. reads in c ‘stu for prāṇa.’

3. When breath with thunder roars at the herbs, they are impregnated (pra-vī), they receive embryos, then they are born many.

Ppp. makes up the material of our vss. 3 and 4 differently, giving first 4 a, b and 3 c, d, and then 3 a, b and 4 c, d. It reads garbham in c, and vi jāyate in d. The comm. paraphrases pra vīyante with garbhaṇi gr̥hṇanti [cf. xii. 4. 37]. [For “many” one might better say ‘in great numbers.’]

4. When, the season having come, breath roars at the herbs, then all is delighted, whatever is upon the earth.

In d in our text, kin̄ is a misprint for kt̄n̄. With c, d is to be compared the similar half-verse RV. v. 83. 9 c, d.

5. When breath hath rained with rain upon the great earth, then the cattle are delighted: “verily there will be greatness for us.”

[Cf. vs. 17 below.] Ppp. has, for a, b: yadā prāṇo abhyakrandit varṣeṇa stana-yitunūḥ. [Pāda d doubtless means precisely the same thing as the English slang, ‘that’ll be great for us!']

6. The herbs, being rained on, have talked with breath : "verily thou hast extended our life-time ; thou hast made us all fragrant."

Ppp. reads in b avācirañ, and in c acīcarat.

7. Homage be to thee coming, homage be to [thee] going away ; homage to thee, O breath, standing ; to thee sitting also [be] homage.

Compare 2. 15 above, which differs only in the vocative used. Ppp. puts the verse after our 8, and reads te 'stu in a, and namo 'stu in b ; a few of SPP's authorities make the same combinations.

8. Homage to thee breathing, O breath ; homage be to [thee] making expiration ; homage to thee turned away, homage to thee turned toward [us] ; to the whole of thee [be] this homage.

Ppp. reads in b namo 'stu, and makes parācīnāya and pratīcīnāya change places in c, d.

9. The dear body that is thine, O breath, and the dearer one that is thine, O breath, likewise what remedy is thine, assign thou of it to us in order to life (jīvaś).

For yó in b (to be read yā u) the comm. has yāu, regarding it as dual.

10. Breath clothes (anu-vas) human beings (prajā), as a father a dear son ; breath is lord of all, both what breathes and what does not.

Ppp. combines prajā 'nu in a, and in d reads twice yas for yat. Prāṇāti in d remains undivided in pada-text by Prāt. iv. 57.

11. Breath [is] death, breath takmán ; breath the gods worship (upa-ās) ; breath may set the truth-speaker in the highest world.

Ppp. has for a prāṇo mṛtyuḥ prāṇo amṛtañ [cf. RV. x. 121. 2], which is less devoid of sense ; at the end it reads lokañ dadhat.

12. Breath is virāḍ, breath the directress ; breath all worship ; breath is the sun, the moon ; breath they call Prajāpati.

Ppp. reads prāṇo sarvaṃ [sandhi!] for prāṇaṃ sarve in b, and its c is prāṇo 'gniḥ cāndramās sūryaḥ. The comm. explains deṣṭrī as = svasvasvayāpāreṣu sarveṣāṃ preraṇitṛ paradevatā.

13. Breath-and-expiration are rice-and-barley ; breath is called the draft-ox ; breath is set in barley ; expiration is called rice.

Ppp. combines prāṇā 'hito in c. Our P.M.W. read yāvena for yāve ha in c.

14. A man breathes out (āpānati), breathes (prāṇati) within the womb ; when, O breath, thou quickenest, then he is born again.

Ppp. reads, in b and beyond : garbhe antaḥ : yā vā tvam prāṇa jinvāḥ sa damba vāyase tvat. The comm. has atha in d.

15. Breath they call Mātariçvan ; breath is called the wind ; in breath what has been and what will be, in breath is all established (prātiṣṭhita).

Ppp. has at the end samāhitāḥ.

16. They of the Atharvans, they of the Aṅgirasas, they of the gods, also those born of men — the herbs are generated (pra-jā), when thou, O breath, quickenest.

Ppp. has ca yās instead of uta at end of b, and, for c, sarvā pra modanty oṣadhīḥ. The adjectives are feminine, denoting the herbs.

17. When breath hath rained with rain on the great earth, the herbs are generated, likewise whatever plants [there are].

Compare vs. 5 above, of which this is an imitation; Ppp. makes it yet closer, by reading modante for jāyante in c. Some of the samhitā-mss. read jāyante 'tho (losing the accent of ātho) in c-d.

18. He who knoweth this of thee, O breath, and in whom thou art established — to him shall all bring tribute in yon highest world.

Ppp. separates prāṇa idam in a.

19. As, O breath, all these human beings (prajā) are tribute-bearers to thee, so shall they bring tribute to him who shall hear thee, O thou of good report (suçrāvas).

Ppp. has for d yas tvā suçrāva suçruvaḥ; and the comm. also reads suçruvaḥ. [With this vs., cf. Praṇa Upanishad, ii. 7.]

20. He moves, an embryo, within the divinities; having come into being (dbhūta), having been (bhūta), he is born again; he, having been, entered with might (ścātibhis) what is to be, what will be, [as] a father a son.

The understanding of this very obscure verse is not helped by the comm., and Ppp. offers no variants. The comm. reads bhūtam instead of bhavyam in c. A part of the mss. read viveṣa (not -ā) in d.

21. The swan (haṁśa), ascending, does not extract (ut-khīd) one foot from the sea; verily, if he should extract that, there would not be today nor tomorrow; there would not be night nor day; at no time soever would it dawn (vi-vas).

Ppp. reads utpāṇadam at end of b, and goes on thus: imaṁ sa tum utkhīde ahnāi-vācya naḥ cyo na rātri nna ha syā hnaḥ prajā tu ki cana. The comm. explains the verse first as relating to the sun, for which it appears to be really intended, and then as applied to breath, to which it may be conceived to belong as being for the microcosm what the sun is to the macrocosm. [Cf. my note to viii. 7. 24. Here one would indeed be reluctant to translate haṁsa by 'goose.']

22. The eight-wheeled [thing, neut.] rolls, having one rim, thousand-syllabled, forth in front, down behind; with a half it has generated all existence; what its [other] half [is] — which sign is that?

This verse also evidently belongs to the sun; with its mystic ascriptions are to be compared those of the partly corresponding verses x. 8. 7, 13. Ppp. ends instead with kim u tasya ketuḥ; it also combines varṭate 'kanemi in a. The comm. reads paçcāt at end of b, and two or three of the mss. (including our O.) do the same. 'In front' and 'behind' are, of course, = 'in the east' and 'in the west.' The ā of aṣṭācakra, and its retention in the pada-text (aṣṭācākram) are by Prāt. iii. 2 and iv. 94.

23. He who is lord of this that has every (viśva) [kind of] birth, of every stirring thing—to thee being such, O breath, having a quick bow among the unexhausted (? ānya), be homage.

The very rare ānya is rendered, at a venture, with the Pet. Lexx. [see BR. under ānyā, and OB. i. 66 a, end]; [and the parallelism of the next vs., with its ātandra, favors this rendering]. The wholly obscure pāda in which it occurs is explained by the comm. to mean prāṇīcaritṛeṣu kṣīpram gacchate vyāpnuvate: he takes ānya from the root an 'breathe,' and -dhanvan from dhan 'go.' Ppp. has no variants to help us.

24. He who is lord of this that has all (sārva) [kinds of] birth, of all that stirs, unwearied, wise by brāhman—let breath go after (anu-sthā) me.

Ppp. has at the end the easier reading mām abhi rakṣatu. [W. interlines "attend" as a rendering of anu-sthā.]

25. Upright among the sleeping he wakes; by no means (nanū) does he fall down horizontal (tiryān); no one soever has heard of his sleeping among the sleeping.

The comm. reads in a jāgara and understands it as impv. 2d sing. Ppp. has in c [? or in a?] svapneṣu. The combination of suptām and asya seems to make it necessary to take the former in the sense of svapna, or of svāpā, as the comm. glosses it. The activity of the breath while the other powers and senses of the body are asleep is a theme of wonder elsewhere also. For suptēṣu in a, read suptēṣu (an accent-mark slipped over the wrong syllable).

26. O breath, turn not about from me; not another than I shalt thou be; like the embryo of the waters, in order to life (jīvaś), I bind thee to me, O breath.

The obscure second pāda is by the comm. explained to mean mayā saha tādātmyā-panna eva vartase. Some mss. (including our O.) accent māt both times, and SPP. follows them in his text: compare xii. 3. 46.

[The quoted Anukr. says "prāṇāya."]]

[Here ends the second anuvāka, with 2 hymns and 82 verses, according to the count of the Berlin edition: that is 1 paryāya-sūkta with 3 paryāyas and 56 verses and 1 artha-sūkta with 26 verses. But some mss. sum up the anuvāka as containing 136 "verses of both sorts," that is the 110 avasāna-rcas of our h. 3 (see p. 632, top, and p. 629, top) and the 26 rcas of our h. 4.]

[The following quotation from the Old Anukr. seems to be put after the end of h. 4 as pertaining to the anuvāka: trayaḥ "tasyānu" dano "bhavet. Does this mean that we have no right to count the "tasyānudana" as less than 3 hymns? Cf. p. 611, ¶ 4.]

5. Extolling the Vedic student (brahmacārīn).

[Brahman. — ṣaḍvīṇṇakam. mantruktābrahmacārīdevatyam. trūṣṣubham : 1. puro'tijāgata-virāḍgarbhā ; 2. 5-p. *brhatigarbhā virāḍ cakvarī ; 6. cākvaragarbhā 4-p. jagatī ; 7. virāḍgarbhā ; 8. puro'tijāgata virāḍ jagatī ; 9. brhatigarbhā ; 10. bhurij ; 11. jagatī ; 12. cākvaragarbhā 4-p. virāḍ atijagatī ; 13. jagatī ; 15. purastājjyotiḥ ; 14, 16-22. anuṣṭubh ; 23. purobārhataṭijāgatagarbhā ; 25. 1-av. ārcy uṣūh ; 26. madhyejyotiḥ uṣūhgarbhā.] * [The words virāḍ cakvarī are lacking in the London ms. and are supplied from the Berlin ms. The latter adds parā urobrhatī : but vs. 3 is hardly metrical, and at any rate no urobrhatī.]

Found also in Pāipp. xvi. (with slight differences of order, which will be pointed out under the verses). Not quoted either in the Kāuṇḍika or in the Vāitāna Sūtra ; [but the schol. to Kāuṇ. 55. 18 prescribe vs. 3 for use in the uṇpanayana]. [It is cited also at the beginning of GB. (i. 2. 1-8), the chapter on the brahmacārīn.]

Translated : Muir, v. 400 (18 vss.) ; Ludwig, p. 452 ; Scherman, p. 84 (19 vss.) ; Deussen, Geschichte, i. 1. 277 ; Henry, 114, 150 ; Griffith, ii. 68 ; Bloomfield, 214, 626. — Cf. also Bergaigne-Henry, Manuel, p. 161 ; Hillebrandt, Ved. Mythol., i. 471. Henry, p. ix of his preface to Books X-XII, cites this hymn in his discussion of brāhman, which he connects with root bhrāj ; and Oldenberg reviews the matter in IFA. viii. 40-41. Deussen entitles the hymn "The Brahman-pupil as incarnation of Brahm," and gives a general interpretation of its content by way of introduction. This should be consulted. The rendering "Vedic-studentship" is too rigid to fit everywhere : cf. vs. 18, note.

1. The Vedic student goes on setting in motion (iṣ) both firmaments ; in him the gods become like-minded ; he maintains earth and heaven ; he fills his teacher with fervor (tāpas).

Ppp. has yasmin for tasmin in b ; it rectifies the meter of c by reading at the end dyām utā 'mām ; it combines sā 'cāryam, and ends the verse with bibharti. The comm. explains pīpārti with pālayati both here and in vs. 2.

2. The Fathers, the god-folk, all the gods individually assemble after the Vedic student ; the Gandharvas went after him, thirty-three, three hundred, six thousand ; he fills all the gods with fervor.

Ppp. puts the verse after 3, and reads, after pīlaras in a, manuṣyā devajanā gandharvā nusaṃyantu sarve : trayastrīṇṇāṃ trīṇṇāṃ ṣaṭsahasrān sarvān sa devāḥ tapasā bibharti. None of the mss., nor either edition, reads ṣaṭsahasrāḥ, as required by Prāt. ii. 8.

3. The teacher, taking [him] in charge (upa-nī), makes the Vedic student an embryo within ; he bears him in his belly three nights ; the gods gather unto him to see him when born.

Upa-nī probably already a technical term for 'receive as pupil, initiate.' [Prescribed in the schol. to Kāuṇ. 55. 18, as noted above.] [The first line seems to be prose : see at end of Anukr.-extracts.]

4. This piece of fuel [is] earth, sky the second ; also the atmosphere he fills with fuel ; the Vedic student fills the worlds with fuel, girdle, toil, fervor.

Ppp. reads mekhalāvi for -layā, and at the end again [for the third time] bibharti. [We have the converse variant at xlii. 1. 1.]

5. Prior born of the brāhman, the Vedic student, clothing himself with heat (gharmā), stood up with fervor; from him [was] born the brāhmaṇa, the chief brāhman, and all the gods, together with immortality (amṛta).

Ppp. reads tapaso 'dhi tiṣṭhat at end of b. Of a the meaning may probably be 'was born before the brāhman' (so the translators).

6. The Vedic student goes kindled with fuel, clothing himself in the black-antelope-skin, consecrated, long-bearded; he goes at once from the eastern to the northern ocean, having grasped the worlds, again and again violently shaping (ācarikṛ) [them].

Ppp. reads in b kārṣṇīm, and in c sadyet pūrvād. The comm. has in d saṅgrhya; he explains mukur ācarikrat by atyartham ābhimukhyena karoti. ['Northern ocean': cf. note to xi. 2. 25.]

7. The Vedic student, generating the brāhman, the waters, the world, Prajāpati, the most exalted one, the virāj, having become an embryo in the womb of immortality; having become Indra, he has shattered (trh) the Asuras.

Ppp. reads in d amṛtān instead of asurān. More than half of SPP's authorities read bhūtvā amṛt-uncombined in c.

8. The teacher fabricated both these envelopes (nābhas), the wide, profound, [namely] earth and sky; them the Vedic student defends by fervor; in him the gods become like-minded.

The last pāda is identical with 1 b above. Ppp. is more original, reading for c, d: tāu brahmacārī tapasā 'bhi rakṣati tayo devās sadamādam madanti; it also omits ime in a; and it puts the verse after our vs. 9. The comm. [and two of SPP's authorities] read tam for te at beginning of c.

9. This broad (prthivī) earth, and the sky, the Vedic student first brought [as] alms (bhikṣā); having made them [both] fuel, he worships; in them are set (ārpita) all beings.

Ppp. omits the meter-disturbing ā in b, and reads for c, te brahma kṛtvā samidhā upāsata. 'Worships': i.e., as the comm. explains, 'tends the fire with them.'

10. The one this side, the other beyond, the back of the sky, in secret [are] deposited [ni-dhā] the two treasures (nidhī) of the brāhmaṇa; them the Vedic student defends by fervor; the whole of that he, knowing, makes brāhman for himself.

The construction and sense of the last pāda are very doubtful. For c, Ppp. has its version of our 8 c over again: tāu brahmacārī tapasā 'bhi rakṣati; it also combines parā 'nyo in a. [To bring out the play of the original, one might render nidhī by 'deposits.']

11. The one this side, the other hence, from earth, the two fires come together between these two envelopes; upon them are set (çri) the firm rays; these the Vedic student stands upon by fervor.

For our obscure first pāda Ppp. substitutes a more translatable version: arvāg anyo divas pr̥sthād ito 'nyas pr̥thivyāh; and it reads ati for 'dhi' in c; and the comm. has also ati, combining it with the following to atidṛdhās. [The comm. also has tām (misprinted tā: see "Corrections") for tān in d.]

12. Roaring on, thundering, the ruddy white-goer has introduced (?anu-bhr̥) in the earth a great virile member; the Vedic student pours seed upon the surface (sānu), on the earth; by that live the four directions.

Extremely obscure, and there are no valuable variants. Ppp. has at the beginning abhikrandann iruṇac chatiṅgo; the comm. reads varuṇaḥ çyatiṅgo, explaining the latter word by çyetavaruṇam jalapūrnam megham pr̥āptaḥ. The last pāda is found elsewhere, as ix. 10. 19 d, RV. i. 164. 42 b.

[For consistency, the Berlin ed. should have abhikrāndant.] [The Anukr. defines the vs. as of 50 syllables and appears to scan it as 13 + 11 : 11 + 14 = 49. The ms. puts the mark of pāda-division before pr̥thivyām. This last is a most palpable gloss of sānu. If we reject it, pādas b, c, d are good triṣṭubhs.]

13. In the fire, in the sun, in the moon, in Mātariçvan, in the waters, the Vedic student puts fuel; their gleams (arctis) go about separately in the cloud; their sacrificial butter (ājya) is man, rain, waters.

Ludwig conjectures "phuriṣam fog" in d for phuruṣas. Ppp. is too corrupt in c, d to be of service. 'Their' in c, d is tāsām fem., apparently relating to samidhas 'sticks of fuel,' though we had only the singular in b; but the comm. regards it as 'of fire etc.,' the fem. being used because the last of the series ([the meter-disturbing] apsu 'waters') was feminine — which is possible.

14. The teacher [was] death, Varuṇa, Soma, the herbs, milk; the thunder-clouds were warriors; by them [was] this heaven (svār) brought.

This verse stands in Ppp. before our vs. 13; it reads at the beginning *parjanya*s instead of ācāryas, reads in c jimūtā "sah, and in d svar ābharam. The comm., in order to put some sense into the identification of the teacher with death and Varuṇa, regards it as alluding to the instruction of Naciketas by Death (Kāṭha Upanishad, etc.) and of Bhṛgu by Varuṇa [TA. ix. 1, etc.]. [For c, d, Roth compares ÇB. xi. 8. 12.]

15. Varuṇa, having become teacher, makes his own (?amā) the entire ghee; whatever he sought of Prajāpati, that the Vedic student furnished, a friend (mītrā) from his own self.

The translation implies svāt as the proper pada-reading in d, and the comm. also understands this; but all the pada-mss. read svān, as if accus. pl. The end of this verse and the beginning of the next are unfortunately wanting in Ppp.; it reads at the beginning amādam kṛṇ. The mss. put the avasāna after prajāpatāu instead of after varuṇaḥ, and SPP. divides accordingly [see his note]; our division is changed in obedience to the requirements of the sense. Ludwig understands mītrās as signifying the god Mitra.

16. The teacher [is] the Vedic student; the Vedic student [is] Prajāpati; Prajāpati bears rule (vi-rāj); the virāj became the controlling Indra.

17. By Vedic-studentship, by fervor, a king defends his kingdom; a teacher by Vedic-studentship (brahmacārya) seeks a Vedic student.

Ppp. reads rakṣate in b, and ichati in d.

18. By Vedic-studentship a girl wins (vid) a young husband; by Vedic-studentship a draft-ox, a horse strives to gain (jī) food.

Instead of jigīṣati at the end, SPP. reads jigīṣati 'strives to swallow,' finding it in the comm., and in less than a quarter (four out of seventeen) of his authorities; none of ours give it, so far as noted. Ppp. suggests yet another and a better reading, namely jihīṣati — if, as seems probable, that underlies its corruption jāhīṣati. As between jigīṣati and jihīṣati, the former seems preferable. [These verses will seem much less inept if we give a less rigid interpretation to brahmacārya: see Deussen, p. 281, p. 278.]

19. By Vedic-studentship, by fervor, the gods smote away death; Indra by Vedic-studentship brought heaven (svā) for the gods.

Ppp. reads apā 'jayan at end of b [and amṛtaḥ for devēbhyāḥ in d].

20. The herbs, past and future, day and night, the forest tree, the year together with the seasons — they are born of the Vedic student.

All the saṁhitā-mss. chance to agree in c in reading sahā rtūbhis, which SPP. accordingly gives in his text. Ppp. also has it; and further bhūtābhavyam in a, and brahmacāriṇā at the end.

21. The earthly, the heavenly cattle, they of the forest, and they that are of the village, the wingless and they that are winged — they are born of the Vedic student.

Ppp. again reads at the end -cāriṇā. [For paçavas, cf. xi. 2. 24 note.]

22. Individually do all that are of Prajāpati bear breaths in their bodies (ātmān); all these the brāhman defends, brought in the Vedic student.

Ppp. reads at end of b bibhrate; one would like to emend to bibhrātas. [But cf. Deussen's interpretation, p. 282.] Ppp. also has in c sarvāṁs tām.

23. That, sent forth (pariṣūtā) of the gods, not mounted onto, goes about shining; from that [was] born the brāhmaṇa, the chief brāhman, and all the gods, together with immortality.

The translation of the first half-verse is merely mechanical. The second is identical with 5 c, d, above. Ppp. puts the verse after our vs. 24, reads puruhūtam instead of the obscure pariṣūtām in a, and gives the verse a last half of its own: tasmin sarve paçavas tatra yajñās tasmin annaḥ saha devatābhiḥ; and this version of the second half-verse is given in GB. i. 2. 7. The comm. explains pariṣūtām as parigṛhitām; ātmatayā sākṣātkṛtam.

24. The Vedic student bears a shining brāhman; in that [are] woven together all the gods; [he] generating breath-and-expiration, then out-breathing (vyāṇā), speech, mind, heart, brāhman, wisdom.

Ppp. reads in b asmin for tasmin; its verse has for second half our 26 c, d, and our 24 c, d is added at the end of our 23, which, as above noticed, comes second of the two verses; it reads for d cakṣuḥ śrotram janayan brahma medhām. [The sequence is, therefore, 24 a, b, 26 c, d, 23, 24 c, d.] The GB. cites prāṇāpānau janayan as a pratīka at i. 2. 8.

25. Sight, hearing, glory put thou in us; food, seed, blood (lōhita), belly.

Ppp. begins differently: vācam śreṣṭhām yaço 'smāsu. [Deussen renders udāram by 'Leibessegen.']

26. Shaping (?) these things, the Vedic student stood performing penance (tapas tapya) on the back of the sea (salilā), in the ocean; he, bathed, brown, ruddy (piṅgalā), shines much on the earth.

The comm. explains 25 and 26 together, as if one verse. The translation implies the emendation, apparently unavoidable, of kālpāt to kālpān; the comm. makes no scruple of glossing it with kalpayan.

[The quoted Anukr. says "brahmacārī" ca.]

[Here ends the twenty-fourth prapāṭhaka.]

6. To many different gods: for relief.

[Chāntāti. — trayaviṅśakam. cāndramasam uta mantroktadevatyam. ānuṣṭubham *: 23. bṛhatī-garbhā.] * [The Anukr. omits the definition of 18 as pathyāpāṅkti.]

Found also (except vss. 3, 20, 23) in Pāipp. xv. (in considerably altered verse-order: 1, 2, 4, 6, 5, 7, 15, 8, 9, 14, 17, 10, 11, 19, 13, 12, 18, 16, 22, 21).

[The hymn is included by Kāuṣ. 9. 2, 4 in the chānti gaṇas, major and minor; and all of the hymn except vss. 7, 9, 22, 23 (those in which the word añhas is missing) is reckoned to the añholiṅga gaṇa (note to 32. 27). The last verse is cited separately at 58. 25 in a rite for long life. The same verse is variously cited by the subordinate works and the schol.: see note to 9. 2; 42. 13 (student's return); 53. 8 (godāna); 55. 1 (upanayana); Keç. to 44. 5 (vaçācamana). Verse 9 is reckoned to the rāudra gaṇa, note to 50. 13.]

Translated: Henry, 117, 155; Griffith, ii. 72; Bloomfield, 160, 628.

1. We address (brū) Agni, the forest trees, the herbs and the plants, Indra, Brihaspati, the sun: let them free us from distress.

The comm. questions whether to render brūmas by stumas or by iṣṭaphalaṁ yācāmahe.

2. We address king Varuṇa, Mitra, Viṣṇu, likewise Bhaga; Anṣa, Vivasvant we address: let them free us from distress.

3. We address god Savitar, Dhātār and Pūshan; we address Tvastṛar at the head (agriyā): let them free us from distress.

MS. has nearly the same verse in ii. 7. 13, but with a like our 2 a.

4. The Gandharvas-and-Apsarases we address, the (two) Aṅvins, Brahmanaspati, the god that is Aryaman by name: let them free us from distress.

5. Day-and-night now we address, sun-and-moon both; all the Ādityas we address: let them free us from distress.

Ppp. combines, in b, -masā ubhā, and reads in c ādityān sarvān.

6. The wind we address, Parjanya, the atmosphere, also the quarters, and all regions we address: let them free us from distress.

7. Let day-and-night, likewise dawn, free me from what comes from a curse; let god Soma free me, whom they call the moon.

Ppp. reads at end of b vr̥ṣā for uṣāḥ, and in c ādityas for devas. [Cf. Hillebrandt, Ved. Mythol., i. 270.]

8. The earthly, the heavenly cattle, also the beasts (mṛgā) that are of the forest; we address the hawks (śakuntā), the birds (pakṣīn): let them free us from distress.

Or, 'the winged hawks.' Ppp. has a better and more independent a (ours = 5. 21 a, above): ye grāmyās sapta paçavaḥ [cf. iii. 10. 6 note].

9. Bhava-and-Çarva now we address, Rudra and him that is lord of cattle; the arrows of them which we well know (sain-vid) — let those be ever propitious to us.

Ppp. reads in b ugraṣ for rudram, and, instead of d, the refrain te no muhicantv aṇhasaḥ. The comm. has vidmas for -ma in c. [Pāda d is nearly repeated at vs. 22 d.]

10. We address the sky, the asterisms, the earth, the yakṣās, the mountains; the oceans, the rivers, the pools — let them free us from distress.

Ppp. reads in b bhāumam. The comm. explains yakṣāṇi as pūjyāni tatratyāni puṇyaketraṇi. MS. has the verse in ii. 7. 13, but reads samudrān and veçantān in c.

11. The seven seers now we address, the heavenly waters, Prajāpati; the Fathers with Yama as their chief (cr̥ṣṭha) we address: let them free us from distress.

Most of the mss. (including all of ours that are noted) read saptarṣīn in a, and SPP. gives it in his text; the comm. has saptarṣīn.

12. The gods that are seated in the sky, and that are seated in the atmosphere, the mighty ones (śakrā) that are set (cr̥i) on the earth — let them free us from distress.

[We had a, b above at x. 9. 12. In a read devāso?]

13. The Ādityas, the Rudras, the Vasus, the gods in heaven, the Atharvans, the Aṅgirasas full of wisdom — let them free us from distress.

Perhaps b is rather 'the divine Atharvans in heaven'; Ppp. reads devā dāivā atharvaṇaḥ.

14. We address the sacrifice, the sacrificer, the verses (ṛc), the chants (sāman), the remedies; the sacred formulas (yájus), the invocations we address: let them free us from distress.

Bheṣajā, which probably refers to material like that included in the Atharva-Veda, is explained by the comm. as āntikarāṇi vāmadevyādini; no hymns in our collection receive any such title in the Kāuṣika.

15. The five kingdoms of plants, having Soma as their chief (ṛeṣṭha), we address; the darbhā, hemp, barley, sāha — let them free us from distress.

Ppp. rectifies the meter of b by reading brūmasi; in c it puts bhaṅgas, before darbhas. The mss., as usual, differ as to the accent of rājya; several (including our O.) read rājyāni, and our R.s.m. has rājyāni. The comm. calls sāha simply 'a kind of herb.'

16. The niggards we address, the demons, the serpents, the pure-folk, the Fathers; the hundred-and-one deaths we address: let them free us from distress.

[With b, cf. viii. 8. 15, and 9. 24 below. Cf. note to iii. 11. 5 for the "hundred-and-one deaths." Cf. also Chāndogya Up., viii. 73, 93, 103, where Indra passes three thirty-two-year terms of studentship with Prajāpati and is then bidden (viii. 113) to pass five years more, to make out the full tale of 101 years.]

17. The seasons we address, the lords of the seasons, the year-divisions and the winters, the summers, the years, the months: let them free us from distress.

The verse nearly agrees with iii. 10. 9. The comm. quotes from Tāitt. Brāh. ii. 6. 19 in explanation of what gods are lords of the several seasons. Artavān he defines as tattadṛtuviçeṣasambandhināḥ padārthān; hāyana and samā are to him simply other names for 'year.'

18. Come, ye gods, from the south; from the west come up eastward; from the east, from the north, mighty, all the gods, coming together: let them free us from distress.

Ppp. rectifies the meter of b by adding nas at the end.

19. All the gods now we address, of true agreements, increasers of righteousness, together with all their spouses: let them free us from distress.

20. The collective gods now we address, of true agreements, increasers of righteousness, together with their collective spouses: let them free us from distress.

This verse (omitted in Ppp.) differs from the preceding only by twice reading sarva instead of viçva. The epithet ṛtāvīdā may also signify 'increasing by righteousness.'

21. Existence we address, the lord of existences, and who is controller of existences; all existences, assembling — let them free us from distress.

Bhūtām at the beginning may be adjective, 'him who is.' Ppp. reads patis for vaç at end of b, and, for c, bhūtāni sarvā brūmas.

22. They that are the five divine directions, that are the twelve divine seasons, that are the fangs of the year — let them be ever propitious to us.

All the saṃhitā-mss. happen to read together in b dvādaśa rtávaḥ, which SPP. adopts; Ppp. makes the same combination. [Pāda d is nearly 9 d above.]

23. The immortal remedy, chariot-bought, which Mātali knows — that Indra made enter into the waters; that remedy, O waters, give ye.

The pada-text reads mātali also. [Concerning Mātali, see Weber, Sb. 1895, p. 837.] All the mss. accent āpo in d, and it accordingly is read by both editions; but the sense requires the emendation to āpo, as translated; [so the comm.: he āpaḥ]. The verse is so discordant with the rest of the hymn as to seem an addition made to it; [it is not found in Ppp.].

The comm. [p. 123] regards the verse as referred to in Vāit. 3. 13, quoting the whole sūtra, but with mātalyā instead of pātrāṇy at the beginning; the mss. of Vāit. read mātalyā or mārtalyā.

[Here ends the third anuvāka, with 2 hymns and 49 verses. The quoted Anukr. says agnim-brūmake tisraḥ: i.e. 'in the hymn agnim brūmaḥ, there are three [over twenty].']

7. Extolling the remnant (ucchiṣṭa) of the offering.

Found also (except vs. 25) in Pāipp. xvi. [The hymn is not cited in the text of Kāuṣ. nor of Vāit.]

Translated: Muir, v. 397 (part); Scherman, p. 87 (part); Deussen, Geschichte, i. 1. 305–310; Henry, 120, 156; Griffith, ii. 75; Bloomfield, 226, 629. — See Deussen's valuable introduction. He does not believe that ucchiṣṭa means 'remnant of the offering' in this hymn, but rather 'residuum in general,' the remainder that we get after subtracting from the universe all the forms of the world of phenomena.

1. In the remnant [are set] name and form, in the remnant [is] set the world; within the remnant both Indra and Agni, everything is set together.

The comm. connects the hymn with hymn 3, above, making the ucchiṣṭa the remnant of Aditi's rice-dish; he quotes Tāitt. Brāh. i. 1. 9, where it says "they gave her what remained" (uccheṣaṇa) etc. Ppp. reads rūpāṇi for rūpaṇi ca in b.

2. In the remnant heaven-and-earth, all existence is set together; in the remnant the waters, the ocean, the moon, the wind is set.

Ppp. combines at the end vātā "hitaḥ.

3. In the remnant [are] the being one and the non-being one, both, death, vigor, Prajāpati; they of the world (lāukyā) are supported (āyat) on the remnant, both vrat and drat; also fortune (grī) in me.

Ppp. reads sañ [for asañ] in a; in d, where we should welcome its aid in making sense, it is corrupt, reading pr̥cādr̥cāv̥r̥c̥tir mayi; it also combines ucchiṣṭā "yattās in c. The comm. has āhitās again instead of āyattās in c; he supplies prajās to lāukyās; and he explains vrās as vārako varuṇaḥ and drās as drāvako 'mṛtamayaḥ somaḥ, and the last clause by tatprasādāt chrīḥ sampad mayi vidusy āhitā 'sthitā bhavatu.

4. Being fixed, fix thou, being stanch, nyā, the brāhman, the ten all-creators; as the wheel on all sides of the nave, the divinities [are] set (çritā) in the remnant.

Ppp. gives no variant in a; at the end it has devatā hitāḥ (i.e. "hitāḥ ?). SPP., against the authority of all the pada-mss., combines dr̥ṇhasthiras into one word, merely because the comm. so explains it (dr̥ṇhaṇena sthirikyto lokaḥ) — which is no reason at all for such an absurdity. Nyas the comm. glosses with netūras tatratyāḥ prāṇinaḥ, which gives us no help.

5. The verse (ṛc), the chant (sāman), the formula (yájus) [are] in the remnant, [also] the song (udgīthā), the introductory praise (prāstuta), the praise (stutā); the sound hīṅ [is] in the remnant, the tone (svāra), and the ring (? medl) of the chant; that in me.

The comm. gives alternative explanations of svāra and medl, showing that their technical meaning was doubtful to him, as to us. Ppp. has for b udgītaḥ prastutaḥ sthitam; in d it has mīḍhus for medis. [To the last clause the comm. supplies bhāmatu: cf. vss. 12, 14.]

6. That relating to Indra-and-Agni, that to the purifying [Soma] (pāvamānā), the great-named ones (f., mahānāmniḥ), the great ceremony (mahāvratā) — within the remnant are [all] the members of the sacrifice, like an embryo within a mother.

The āindrāgna and pāvamāna are explained by the comm. as two sāmans; for the mahānāmniḥ he refers to Āit. Ār. iv. 1.

7. The rājasūya (royal consecration), the vājapēya (vigor-drinking), the agniṣtomā (fire-praise), then the sacrifice (adhvarā), the arkā and açva-medhā (horse-sacrifice) [are] in the remnant, the one having a living barhiḥ, most intoxicating.

Ppp. has in b the preferable reading tato 'dhvaraḥ.

8. The establishing of a fire, also the consecration, the desire-fulfiller, together with the meter (chāndas); the removed (? utsanna) sacrifices, the sacrificial sessions (sattrā), are set together in the remnant.

All the pada-mss. read in b kāmaçprāḥ: chāndasā; but no saṁhitā-ms. gives correspondingly kāmaçprāç chān; they vary between prā chān (thus the majority) and prāḥ chān (including our I.K.); both editions emend to prāç chān; the comm. understands the two words as one compound. He also reads utsannayaññās as a compound in c, and takes it to mean sacrifices that have gone out of use and knowledge.

9. Both the fire-offering (agnihotrā) and faith, the vāshaḥ-exclamation, the vow (vratā), penance, the sacrificial gift (dakṣiṇā), what is offered (iṣṭā) and what is bestowed (pūrtā) — are set together in the remnant.

Ppp. reads 'ti instead of 'dhi in d. The comm. explains iṣṭā as ṣrutivihitaṁ yāga-homādi karma, and pārtā as smṛtipurāṇābhikṛitaṁ vāpikūṣṭapatafākadevāyatanārāmā-dinirmāṇam.

10. The one-night [sacrifice], the two-night, the same-day-purchase (sadyahkrī), the purchasable (? prakrī), the praiseworthy (ukthyā) — [it] is woven, deposited, in the remnant; the minute things of the sacrifice, by wisdom.

Ppp. betters the grammar of the last half-verse by reading for d yajñasyā 'no nu vidyayā. The comm. reads in b sadyahkrī; sadyahkrī is especially prescribed by Prāt. ii. 62.

11. The four-night [sacrifice], the five-night, and the six-night, of both kinds, together, the one of sixteen (ṣoḍaśin), and the seven-night — from the remnant were born all the sacrifices that are put in immortality.

Ppp. combines yajñā 'mrte near the end. The comm. understands by *ubhaya*s in b the doubles of the numbers of nights given. Ṣoḍaśin is the subject of Prāt. iv. 51, and catvāra (p. catuṣorātra) of Prāt. iv. 80.

12. The response (pratihārā), the conclusion (nidhāna), both the all-conquering and the on-conquering (abhijīt) one, the same-day and over-night ones [are] in the remnant, the twelve-day one: also that in me.

Ppp. has at the beginning pratihāro. [The comm. joins the "also" to what precedes and says that "that in me" (supply bhavatu) is to be understood as a prayer: cf. vss. 5, 14.]

13. Pleasantness, compliance (sānnati), comfort (kṣéma), custom (? svadhā), refreshment, immortality, power — in the remnant all occurring (pratyāñc) desires are satisfied with desire.

Ppp. reads at the end īrṃpanti. Most of the pada-mss. and many of the samhitā-mss. read simply kṣéma in a (including our Bp.O.D.R.K.Kp.).

14. The nine earths, oceans, skies, are set (ṣṛitā) in the remnant; the sun shines in the remnant; day-and-night: also that in me.

The pada-mss. in general read simply ṣṛitā (or ṣṛtā) in b. Two or three mss. (including our O.) read 'pi in d. Ppp. reads in a, b bhūmyāṁ samudrasyo 'chiṣṭe, and has ca for api in d. [The comm. treats the last words of the vs. as under vs. 12.]

15. The added oblation (upahāvya), the dividing [day], and the sacrifices that are put in secret, the remnant bears, bearer of all, father of the generator.

Ppp. reads divi ṣṛutāḥ [intending ṣṛitāḥ ?] for guhā hitāḥ in b. The mss. are divided between upahāvyaṁ and upahavyām; the latter is read by our B.W.O.s.m. D.R.T.; and K. has -havyām.

16. The remnant, father of the generator, of breath (dsu) the grandson, grandfather — he dwells, ruler of all, an overpowering (? atighnyā) bull upon the earth.

Ppp. reads in b 'sau putraḥ ca, which, without the ca, is an acceptable improvement.

17. Righteousness, truth, penance, kingship, toil, and virtue (dhárma) and deed (kárman), being (bhūtá), what will be, [is] in the remnant; heroism, fortune (lakṣmī), strength in strength.

Ppp. has dikṣā for rāṣṭram in a: a better reading. The comm. explains ṛta here by manasā yathārthasamkalpanam 'right conception'; bale at the end he makes = balavati tasminn ucchiṣṭe.

18. Success, force, design, dominion, kingship, the six wide [quarters], the year [is] in the remnant, idā, the orders (prāiṣḍ), the dips (grāha), the oblation.

Ppp. combines ojā "kūṭih" in a. [W. interlines 'potions' as an alternative for 'dips.']

19. The four-priest (catur-hotṛ) [sacrifices], the āpriṣ, the seasonal [oblations], the nivids — in the remnant [are] the sacrifices, the invocations, the victim-offerings (paçubandhá), then the offerings (iṣṭi).

Tādiṣṭayaḥ at the end in our edition is a misprint for tād iṣṭayaḥ.

20. Both the half-months and the months, the year-divisions (ārtavá) with the seasons; in the remnant [are] the noisy waters, the thunder, the great sound (? çrúti).

The comm. reads çuci in ḍ, so we lack his conjecture as to the meaning of çruti.

21. Pebbles, gravel, stones, herbs, plants, grasses, clouds, lightnings, rain — in the remnant [are they] set together, set.

Ppp. combines sikata 'çm- in a. [Read oṣadhīr ?]

22. Success (rāddhi), attainment, obtainment, permeation, greatness, prosperity [edhatú] — in the remnant over-attainment and growth (bhūti) [is] put in, put down, put.

Several of our mss. (P.M.W.I.O.) accent vyāpti in b. All the mss. save one or two (including our B.) leave edhatúḥ unaccented, as if it were taken for a 3d dual perfect; both editions read edhatúḥ. The comm. strangely reads at the end hitāḥ; [but the pada-text makes all three words of ḍ singular].

23. Both what breathes with breath and what sees with sight: from the remnant were born all the gods in heaven, heaven-resorters.

24. The verses (ṛc), the chants, the meters, the ancient (purāṇá), together with the formula (yájus): from the remnant were born etc. etc.

Ppp. reads, for ṛcaḥ sāmāni, ṛgyajussāmāni, and also prefixes to the verse our 27 a, b (combining devāḥ pit-).

25. Breath-and-expiration, sight, hearing, indestructibleness and destruction: from the remnant etc. etc.

The first half-verse is found below as 8. 4 a, b, 26 a, b. The verse, as noted above, is wanting in Ppp.

26. Delights, joys, enjoyments, and they that enjoy enjoyments — from the remnant etc. etc.

[The first half-verse recurs as 8. 24 a, b.] [In the Berlin ed., there should be a space between módāḥ and pra-.]

27. The gods, the Fathers, human beings, and they that are Gandharvas-and-Apsarasas : from the remnant etc. etc.

[The quoted Anukr. says "uchiṣṭe."]

8. Mystic : especially on the constitution of man.

[Kāurupathi. — caturtriṅcat. adhyātmamanyudāvatam. ānuṣṭubham : 33. paṭhyāpāṅkti.]

Found also (except vss. 33, 34) in Pāipp. xvi. (in the verse-order 1-6, 8-10, 7, 12, 11, 13, 15, 14, 16-32). [The hymn is noticed neither by Kāuṣ. nor by Vāit.]

Translated: Ludwig, p. 402; Scherman, p. 67 (8 vss.); Deussen, Geschichte, i. 1. 270-277 (with introduction and interpretation); Henry, 123, 160; Griffith, ii. 80.

1. When fury (manyū) brought his wife away from the house of contrivance (samkalpā), who were the groomsmen (jānya)? who the wooers (varā)? who also was chief wooer?

Ppp. combines in c kā "san. [Its c, d = our 6 c, d.]

2. Penance and also action were within the great sea (arṇavā); those were the groomsmen, those the wooers; the brāhman was chief wooer.

The pada-mss. (save one of SPP's) divide evāstām in a into evā : āstām, and the accent of the verb is perfectly defensible, though SPP. alters to āstām. Some of the mss. (including our Bp.P.M.E.) leave mahatī unaccented: cf. vs. 6 b, and iii. 6. 3.

3. Ten gods were born together from gods of old; whoever may know them plainly, he verily may talk big to-day.

'May teach the unlimited brahman' is the comm's understanding of the last clause.

4. Breath-and-expiration, sight, hearing, indestructibleness and destruction, out-breathing and up-breathing, speech, mind — they verily brought design (ākūti).

The first half-verse occurs also as 7. 25 a, b above, and the first three pādas as vs. 26 a, b, c below. Ppp. combines vā "kūtim in d.

5. Unborn were the seasons, likewise Dhātār, Brihaspati, Indra-and-Agni, the two Aṅvins, at that time : whom did they worship (upa-ās) [as] chief?

The comm. reads at the end āsate.

6. Both penance, namely, and action were within the great sea; penance was born from action; that did they worship as chief.

The comm. again has āsate at the end. SPP. reads āstām in pada-text, this time with two of his mss. Some mss. again (cf. vs. 2) read mahatī (so our Bp.E.; P.M. mahatī arṇavā).

7. The earth that was previous to this one (itās), which the sages (addhātī) indeed knew—whoever may know that by name, he may think himself knowing in ancient things.

The translation implies emendation of tān in c to tān, which SPP. gives in his text, with about half of his mss. Ppp's version is quite different; it reads for a ye 'to bhūmīṣ pūrvā "sīt; and, for c, d, ke tasyan devā "sate kasmin sā 'dhi ṣrutaḥ [intending tasyān and ṣritā?].

8. Whence was Indra, whence Soma, whence Agni born? whence did Tvashtar come into being? whence was Dhātār born?

Ppp. has for d dhātā sam abhavat kutaḥ.

9. From Indra Indra, from Soma Soma, from Agni Agni was born; Tvashtar was born from Tvashtar; from Dhātār Dhātār was born.

Ppp. arranges in d dhātā dhātur.

10. The ten gods that were of old, born from gods—having given the world to [their] sons, in what world sit they?

Ppp. combines tā "san in a, and reads purāḥ for purā in b. [For consistency, the Berlin ed. should have datvā.]

11. When he brought hair, bone, sinew, flesh, marrow, having made a body with feet, what world did he afterward enter?

The comm. reads sam abharat in b.

12. Whence brought he the hair, whence the sinew, whence the bones? the limbs, the joints, the marrow, the flesh who brought from whence?

Ppp. combines at the end kutā "bharat. The comm. appears again to read sam abharat at end of b. A few mss. (including our Bp.R.) read snāvaḥ in a.

13. Pourers-together namely are those gods who brought together the bringings-together; having poured together the whole mortal, the gods entered man.

Ppp. reads ṣaṁsatas for saṁsicas in a, and saṁsṛjya for saṁsicya in c.

14. Thighs, feet, knee-joints, head, hands, also face, ribs, nipples (? barjahyā), sides: what seer put that together?

The comm. has nothing to say for barjahyē except 'the parts so called.' Ppp. reads instead majjahye; and it has ṣronī for ṣiras in b. It also makes our 14 c, d and 15 c, d exchange places.

15. Head, hands, also face, tongue and neck, vertebræ—all that, having enveloped with skin, the great putting-together put together.

Ppp. reads [bāhu for mukham in a and has] in c tat sarvam. The comm. paraphrases saṁdhā in d with saṁdhānakartṛ devatā.

16. The great body which lay there, put together by the putting-together — who brought into it the color with which it shines (ruc) here today?

Ppp. reads adadhāt for açayat in a, mayi for mahat in b, and ko 'smin in d. SPP. reports all his pada-mss. as having at the end āśābharat, which he emends to ā: abharat; our pada-mss. give the latter.

17. All the gods assisted (?upa-çikṣ); that she who was a woman knew; she who was wife of control (?vāçā), mistress (īçā), brought color into it.

Ppp. reads in a upāsikṣan, and viçasya for vaçasya in c; the comm. (with two or three of SPP's mss.) has instead of the latter viçvasya. There are, failing help from sense, various questionable points in the construction.

18. When Tvaṣṭar bored through [him?] who [was] the superior father of Tvaṣṭar, having made the mortal a house, the gods entered into man.

Probably c is adjunct of devās; whether b is object of the verb in a is more doubtful. Ppp. gives no help. The comm. makes b define Tvaṣṭar himself, and understands the 'boring' of the openings for the senses, the eyes and ears etc. [Ludwig renders c: "machten die götter den sterblichen zu [ihrem] hause."]

19. Sleep, weariness, misery (nīrti), the deities named evils, old age, baldness, hoariness, entered the body afterward (anu).

The comm. reads tandri in a, and khālityam in c. Anu perhaps rather 'one after another.'

20. Theft, ill-doing, wrong, truth, sacrifice, great glory, both strength, dominion, and force, entered the body afterward.

Ppp. has the better reading sahas for bṛhat in b.

21. Both growth (bhūti) and diminution, generousities and niggardlinesses, both hungerings and all thirstings, entered the body afterward.

Ppp. combines vā 'bhūtiç in a.

22. Both revilings and non-revilings, both what [says] "come on" (hanta) and "no," faith, the sacrificial fee, and non-faith, entered the body afterward.

Ppp. combines vā 'nindāç in a. The majority of mss. (including our Bp.B.P.M.E. T.R.K.) read dakṣiṇā in c; [if I understand W's Collation Book, only Bp.T.K. among his mss. are noted as so reading;] both editions give dkṣiṇā. The comm. explains the word as meaning dhanasamṛddhi. [Cf. Oldenberg, ZDMG. I. 449.]

23. Both knowledges and ignorances, and what else is to be taught (upa-diç); the brāhman entered the body; the verses, the chant, also the formula.

Ppp. combines vā 'vidyāç in a, and reads for c çartram sarve prā 'viçan [= our 25 c]. Brāhman perhaps is here the 'charm,' representing the Atharvan hymns.

24. Delights, joys, enjoyments, and they that enjoy enjoyments, laughter, sport, dances, entered the body afterward.

Ppp. reads for a ānandā nandās pramado. The comm. reads nur iṣṭās in c [see SPP's note, p. 163]. The first half-verse is identical with 7. 26 a, b above.

25. Both appeals (ālāpā) and pratings (pralāpā), and they who utter (-lap) addresses (abhlāpā-) — all entered the body, joiners-on (āyīj), joiners-forth (prayīj), joiners.

Ppp. reads prāyijas in d. The comm. explains the last words as = āyojanāni, prayojanāni, and yojanāni. The first half-verse is as it were a change rung on 24 a, b.

26. Breath-and-expiration, sight, hearing, indestructibleness and destruction, out-breathing and up-breathing, speech, mind — they go about (īya-) with the body.

The first three pādas are the same with 4 a, b, c, above.

27. Both blessings (ācīs) and precepts (praçīs), demands (saṁcīs) and explanations (viçīs), thoughts, all devisings, entered the body afterward.

The comm. explains the difficult compounds of -çīs as mechanically as those of -yuj in vs. 25 : āçāsānāni, praçāsānāni, saṁçāsānāni, vividhāni çāsānāni.

28. Both those of the blood and those of the bladder, the hasting and those that are pitiable, the secret, the clear, the thick waters — those they caused to settle in the repugnant one.

That is, apparently, in the body that was loth to receive them. SPP. reads unaccountably at the beginning āsteyīs, against the great majority of his mss., the comm., and the sense. The reading has not been noted at all among our mss., but sn and st are very imperfectly distinguished in general by the scribes, and the latter may possibly have been intended by some among them. The comm. derives the word from ā + snā, instead of from asan; the form in which he gives it is āsneyyas. The second word he reads vāsneyyas, and derives it from vā 'or' + snā ! Then he adds another derivation for both words, from āsana 'sitting,' and vasna 'price' respectively. He reads then āpas in c. Ppp. reads çukriyā in c.

29. Having made bone [their] fuel, then they caused eight waters to settle; having made seed [their] sacrificial butter, the gods entered man.

The first part of the verse is spoiled in Ppp. The comm. has the more regular accus. pl. apas in b (the pada-text aṣṭā : āpaḥ, as required by the accent; the comm. in general pays no heed to accent). He acutely refers to Tāitt. Brāh. i. 1. 94, where bone is identified with fuel, and seed with sacrificial butter.

30. What waters [there are], and what deities, what virāj, with brāhman; brāhman entered the body; on (ādhi) the body [is] Prajāpati.

31. The sun, the wind, shared [respectively] the eye, the breath of man; then his other self the gods bestowed (pra-yam) on Agni.

'Shared' (ut bhejire, pl.) is ungrammatical as taken with the subject (which is only two-fold) given in the text. The comm. understands that the other 'senses' with their deities are viewed as included with these two. Ppp. reads tathā instead of atha in c.

32. Therefore, indeed, one who knows man [pīruṣa] thinks "this is brāhman"; for all deities are seated in him, as cows in a cow-stall.

Our text should read at the end ivā "sate with 'SPP. and nearly all the mss. (our Bp.B. ivā "sate). Ppp. has a less naïve d: ṣarīre 'dhi samāhītaḥ.

33. By the first dying, it goes apart dividing threefold: yonder goes it with one [part]; yonder goes it with one; here with one it dwells (? nī-sev).

This verse and the one following are (as above noted) wanting in Ppp. The comm. reads nī for vi in b. He regards the two 'yonders' as pointing respectively to heaven and hell, and paraphrases nī ṣevate by nitarāṁ sukhaduḥkhātmakāṁ bhogān sevate. [He makes jīvātā the subject: and a masculine subject seems required by vīṣvaṇ, unless we read nī just after it.]

34. Within waters that are sluggish (? stīṁdā), old, is the body placed; within that is might (? ṣāva, ṣāvas ?); thence is it called might.

There is perhaps in c, d a play upon the word ṣāvas, which may mean either 'might' (as neut.) or (as masc.) 'corpse.' The comm. paraphrases it both times with balāt-makāḥ sūtrātā [i.e. the parameṣvara]. He explains stīṁdā as anārdraṁ sarvāṁ jagad ārdraṁ kurvatīṣu.

[Here ends the fourth anuvāka, with 2 hymns and 61 verses. The quoted Anukr. says with reference to this eighth hymn "yan manyur" ity atra caturdaśa ca: that is 14 over 20.]

9. To conquer enemies: to Arbudi.

[Kāñkāyana. — ṣaḍvīṇṇakam. mantroktārbudidevatyam. ānuṣṭubham: 1. 7-p. virāṭ ṣakvarī 3-av.; 3. paraṣṇih; 4. 3-av. uṣṇigbhatigarbhā parātriṣṭup 6-p. atijagatī; 9, 11, 14, 23, 26. pathyāpāñkti; 15, 22, 24, 25. 3-av. 7-p. ṣakvarī; 16. 3-av. 5-p. virāḍ upariṣṭāḍḍyotis triṣṭubh; 17. 3-p. gāyatrī.]

This and the following hymn are wanting in Pāipp., although bits of vss. 15-17 of this one are to be found in Pāipp. xvii. The opening words of the two are quoted together in Kāu. 16. 21, in connection with rites for insuring success in war. [The use of the two hymns forms a sequel to the rites described in the introduction to viii. 8, which see; and cf. under viii. 8. 24.]

Translated: Ludwig, p. 530; Henry, 126, 164; Griffith, ii. 84; Bloomfield, 123, 631.

1. What arms (bāhū) [there are], what arrows, and the powers (vīryā) of bows, swords (aśī), axes (paraśū), weapon, and what thought-and-design in the heart—all that, O Arbudi, do thou make our enemies to see; and do thou show forth specters (udārā).

The comm. refers to AB. vi. 1, where Arbuda is named and called a serpent-sage, and declares Arbudi and Nyarbudi to be his two sons. Udārān he explains as udgatān antarikṣacarān rakṣaḥpīṣācādin mantrasāmarthyodbhāvītān, or also as sūryaraṣmiprabhavaḥ ulkādaya antarikṣyā utpātāḥ, specters or portents. [Pāda d, below, vs. 13 b.]

2. Stand up, equip ye yourselves (sam-nah), O friends, god-folk; beheld, concealed of you be [those] who are our friends, O Arbudi.

The occurrence of mitrās m. and mitrāṇi n. in the same verse is puzzling, also the conjunction of saṁdṛṣṭa and gupta, and of vas with the singular arbude. The comm. reads saṁdṛṣṭās and guptās in c. Our Bp. reads yāḥ in d. [Pāda a = 26 b and 10. 1 a.] [W. interlines "protected?" over "concealed."]

3. Stand ye (two) up, take ye hold; with tying up, with tying together, gird ye the armies of our enemies, O Arbudi.

The dual verbs doubtless imply, as the comm. also points out, the inclusion of Nyarbudi in the address to Arbudi [cf. vs. 11]. The comm. reads senām in c.

4. The God that is Arbudi by name, and the lord (īṣāna) Nyarbudi, by whom the atmosphere is involved (ā-vr), and this great earth — by those (two) who are allied with Indra, I go after what is conquered with an army.

Probably 'I follow up with my army what is already conquered by them.' The two last pādas are by the comm. reckoned as the first line of the next verse.

5. Stand thou up, O god-folk, Arbudi, with the army; breaking (bhañj) the army of our enemies, envelop it with [thy] coils (bhogā).

The comm. explains bhogēbbhis as ātmyāḥ sarpaçarirāḥ.

6. Presenting to view, O Nyarbudi, the seven kinds of specters, with them all do thou stand up, when the butter is offered, with the army.

The pada-text reads in a jātān : nioarbude; but the reading is plainly false, and should be either jātā : nioarbude, or jātāni : arbude; either of these, considering that to the scribes nya and nyā are entirely equivalent and exchangeable (see my Skt. Gr. §§ 229, 232), would correctly represent the saṁhitā-reading. [Cf. the reading of the comm. at 10. 21.]

7. Smiting herself, tear-faced, and crop-eared(?), let her yell, with disheveled hair, when the man is slain, bitten (?rad), O Arbudi, of thee.

'Her' — namely, the wife or sister or the like; more distinctly pointed to in the next verse. Radita ought to mean rather 'scraped' or 'scratched'; there seems to be no other example of it in the sense 'bitten': perhaps as a mere scratch from the fang of a serpent is enough to kill. The comm. takes radita as a noun (like ruta, smita, citta, etc.), = dantāir vilekhane khādane sati. Of kṛdhukarṇi the comm. says: kṛdhv iti krasvanāma : karṇābharanaṇarityāgena krasvakarṇi. The verse is translated (also vs. 14, and 10. 7) by Bloomfield, in AJP. xi. 340.

8. Drawing in her karṇūka, seeking with her mind her son, husband, brother, also her people (svā) — in case of thy bite, O Arbudi.

The ending is the same with that of vs. 7, understood as the comm. takes it; we might also supply '[he being] bitten' etc. The Pet. Lex. renders karṇūka 'vertebræ of the neck and spine': rather (in ÇB. xii. 2. 4¹⁰, 14), perhaps, 'a point or spinous process of a vertebra.' The comm. explains karu as an imitative word, and karṇūka as meaning anything that makes the sound karu, and so designating hastapādādya-vayavagatām saṁdhiṁ adāstijātām; and he goes on loke hi bhayavaçād ubhayor hastayor paraṣparāṅguliniṣṭādena tādrçaṁ çabdām utpādayanti. This is far from relieving satisfactorily the obscurity. Most of our mss. accent svān in c.

9. Let the buzzards, jāṣkamaddās, vultures, falcons, winged ones, let the crows, the birds (ṣakūni), satisfy themselves — exhibiting among the enemies — in case of thy bite, O Arbudi.

We have here two refrain-phrases, neither of which stands in any grammatical connection with its surroundings (the pple. 'exhibiting' being nom. sing. masc.). The comm. reads in a alikhlabāḥ and yāḥ klamadāḥ; and some of the mss. have jāḥkam (so our B.O.s.m.).

10. Then let all wild beasts, let the fly, let the worm satisfy itself upon the carrion of men, bitten, O Arbudi, of thee.

Here the refrain stands again in grammatical connection.

11. Take ye (two) hold, tear out (sam-brh) [their] breath-and-expiration, O Nyarbudi; let groaning (? nivāḍā) noises assemble — exhibiting among the enemies — in case of thy bite, O Arbudi.

Again (as in vs. 3) the other serpent-deity is included in a in the invocation [this time of Nyarbudi]. The comm. reads vṛhatam in a. He explains nivāḍās as nictnam vāḍyamānā ābhāṣyamāṇāḥ.

12. Make thou [them] tremble; let them quake together; unite our enemies with fear; with broad-gripping arm-hooks pierce thou our enemies, O Nyarbudi.

The comm. reads in c urugrāhāis (which is not bad) and bāhuvāṇkāis, explaining the latter by bāhunā vakrabandhanāḥ. Our P.M.W. read at the end amitrāṇy arbude: compare 6 a, above.

13. Let their arms be confounded, and what thought-and-design is in their heart; let not anything of them be left — in case of thy bite, O Arbudi.

The second pāda is the same with vs. 1 d, above.

14. Smiting themselves let them (f.) run together, smiting on the breast, the thighs (? paṭāurā), not anointing, with disheveled hair, wailing when the man is slain, bitten, O Arbudi, of thee.

Translated by Bloomfield, ib. (see vs. 7). I follow both translators in rendering paṭāurā by 'thigh', although it is not too acceptable, considering the familiarity of uru as name for 'thigh.' SPP. reads instead paṭūrāṭ, with a very small minority of his mss. (of ours, only B.s.m. has it), and with the comm. The latter defines it simply as lat (i.e. urāḥ) pradeṣāu. He makes aghārin from agha and root ṛ: aghena bhārīṣ-vijogajanitena duḥkhenā "rīḥ!

15. Dog-accompanied Apsarases, she-jackals (? rūpakā) also, O Arbudi, the riḍā, licking much in the inner vessel, seeking what is ill-deposited — all these (f.), O Arbudi, do thou make our enemies to see, and do thou show forth specters; —

The conclusion is nearly the same with vs. 1 e, f, g, above, and is also repeated below [vss. 22, 24]. The accent of ṣvānvaṭis seems certainly wrong, but it is read by all the mss., and avouched by the commentary to Prāt. iii. 73. The translation of rūpakā is that of the minor Pet. Lex., apparently founded solely on an Avestan analogue; the comm. defines it as māyāvaçāt kevalam rūpamātreṇo 'palabhyamānāḥ senārūpakāḥ. He reads antaḥ and pātre as two independent words, according to his custom of caring nothing for accent. For riçām ("tearing one, as designating some small animal," minor Pet. Lex.) he reads vaçām 'cow,' so that we lose any light he might have cast on the obscure description. Bp. reads riçām. Prāt. iii. 75 and iv. 77 prescribe the pāda-reading durnihita.

16. Her that strides upon the khadūra, mutilated, wearing what is mutilated(?); the specters that are concealed, and what Gandharvas-and-Apsarases [there are], serpents, other-folk, demons; —

The comm. reads at the beginning khadūre, and explains it as ākāçe dūradeçe; our Bp. Kp. have ṣaḍtīre. Again neglecting the accent, he takes adhi and caṅkramām as two independent words. He also reads -vāçinīm in b; -vāsin might be 'dwelling' (so understood by the Pet. Lexx. and Ludwig). Finally, he reckons the last (irregular) pāda to the following verse. [Pāda e = 10. 1 c.]

17. The four-tusked ones, the black-toothed, the pot-testicled, the blood-faced; they that are self-frighting and frightening.

The first four epithets are accus. pl. masc.; probably, like the accus. fem. at beginning of vs. 16, objects of prā darçaya 'show forth' in vs. 15. The comm. explains svabhyasās and udbhy- by svāyattabhītayo rākṣasāḥ and udgatabhītayah.

18. Do thou, O Arbudi, make to tremble yonder lines (śīc) of our enemies; let both the conquering one and the conqueror, allied with Indra, conquer our enemies.

SPP. reads in his saṁhitā-text jāyāṅ ca in c, with the large majority of his mss., and with part of ours (E.O.s.m.K.). The prolongation being so anomalous, and unsupported by the Prāt., I think jāyāṅ ca decidedly the more acceptable reading. The comm. gives it. He also has çucas for sicas in b. Read amitrāṇ at end of c, with anusvāra-sign, not anunāsika. [Pāda b = 10. 20 b.]

19. Let our enemy lie squelched, crushed, slain, O Nyarbudi; let tongues of fire, tufts of smoke, go conquering with the army.

The comm. reads in a pravṛtinas, in accordance with the more usual form.

20. Of our enemies, pushed forth by it, O Arbudi, let Indra, lord of might (çacīpāti), slay each best man (vāra); let no one soever of them be freed.

'By it'—i.e. by the army; the comm. reads instead tvayā 'by thee.' With a, b compare vi. 67. 2 c, d. [Our ḍ occurs several times: see note to iii. 19. 8.]

21. Let their hearts burst open (ut-kas), their breath pass up aloft; let dryness of mouth follow after our enemies, [and] not those who are friendly.

The comm. renders ut kasantu by çaritrād udgacchantu, and ud īṣatu equivalently.

22. Both they who are wise (dhītra) and they who are unwise, those going away and they who are deaf, they of darkness and they who are hornless (tūparā), likewise those that smell of (?) the goat — all those (m.), O Arbudi, do thou make our enemies to see, and do thou show forth specters.

The meaning of -abhivāsin is wholly uncertain [cf. Pāli vāsita]; the Pet. Lex. conjectures instead -abhivācin, and the comm. reads bastāvivācin, as from basta + avi + vācin. He also, in defiance of pada-text and accent, renders tamasās as tāmasā. [Cf. nabhasā-s (not nābhas-as), ix. 4. 22.]

23. Let both Arbudi and Trishandhi pierce through our enemies, in order that, O Indra, Vṛitrā-slayer, lord of might, we may slay of them, of our enemies, by thousands.

Triśandhi, lit. 'of three joints,' is conspicuous especially in the next hymn. The comm. explains it here as kaçcīṣ senāmohako devaḥ saṁdhitrayoḥpetavajrāyudhābhī-mānī vā.

24. The forest-trees, them of the forest-trees, herbs and plants, Gandharvas-and-Apsarases, serpents, gods, pure-folk (puṇyajānā), Fathers — all those, O Arbudi, do thou make our enemies to see, and do thou show forth specters.

The comm. identifies the 'pure-folk' with the yakṣas. [With c, d, cf. viii. 8. 15, above.] [Cf. Kāuṣ. 73. 5.]

25. Mastery over you have the Maruts [gained], the heavenly Āditya, Brahmanaspati; mastery over you have both Indra and Agni, Dhātara, Mitra, Prajāpati; mastery over you have the seers gained (kr) — exhibiting among the enemies — in case of thy bite, O Arbudi.

One would like to emend devās to devās in a.

26. Masters (īḥānā) of them all, stand ye up, equip yourselves, ye friends, god-folks; having wholly conquered in this conflict, scatter ye to your several worlds.

The mss. set the avasāna in this verse after yūyān, and SPP. very properly does the same. [Our b, c = 2 a, b: b = 10. 1 a.]

[The quoted Anukr. says "ye bāhavaḥ": see vs. 1.]

10. To conquer enemies: to Trishandhi.

Not found in Pāipp. [For its use by Kāuṣ. in connection with hymn 9, see introduction to hymn 9.]

Translated: Ludwig, p. 531; Henry, 129, 169; Griffith, ii. 88; Bloomfield, 126, 637.

1. Stand ye up, equip yourselves, ye specters, together with ensigns; ye serpents, other-folks, demons, run after our enemies.

[Pāda a = 9. 2 a, 26 b; c = 9. 16 e.]

2. Your mastery. I know, [your] kingdom, O Trishandhi, together with red ensigns; what in the atmosphere, what in the sky, and what men (mānavā) [are] on the earth, let those ill-named ones sit (? upa-ās) in the mind (cētas) of Trishandhi.

The translation implies veda rājyam in a, while all the pada-mss. treat the word as a compound (vedaorājyam). The comm. takes veda as an independent word, but renders it as a 3d sing., with triśandhis supplied as subject; and he understands the enemies as addressed by vas in a. He supplies ketavas to the three ye's in c, d, regarding mānavās as adj., 'human.' And he cuts off the last two pādas, adding them instead to vs. 3, and reading at the beginning trisaṇḍhe tve ("= tava"); explaining upāsātām by sambhājantām, and making the following nouns its subject. For durṇā-mānas he has -nam (as also our B.O.).

3. Iron-(dyas-)mouthed, needle-mouthed, likewise thorn-tree-(vikañ-kañi-)mouthed, let the flesh-eaters, of wind-swiftness, fasten on our enemies with the three-jointed (triśandhi) thunderbolt.

The comm. regards the epithets as signifying flesh-eating birds, and supplies [alternatively] 'sent forth' (preritās) to the concluding instrumentals.

4. O Jātavedas, Āditya, put thou between much human flesh; let this army of Trishandhi be well-placed in my control.

Most of SPP's pada-mss. give sēnāḥ in c; no such reading has been noted among our mss. One would like to improve meter and sense together by emending triśandhes to -dhinā, understanding the 'army' to be the enemy's. Antār dhehi at the beginning may also mean 'hide'; and the comm. juggles the line into signifying, 'O Jātavedas, make the corpses of our enemies hide the sun'!

5. Stand thou up, O god-folk, O Arbudi, with the army; this tribute is offered (ā-hu) to you [pl.]; the offering [is] dear to Trishandhi.

The comm. reads āhutis (for -tas) in c, and āhutipriyā as compound in d. [In some copies the i of priyā is broken.]

6. Let the white-footed one tie together, this shaft (ṣaravyā), four-footed; O witchcraft, be thou for our enemies, together with the army of Trishandhi.

The comm. reads for dyatu, in a, patatu: cf. vs. 7 a. By ṣitipadī he understands a white-footed cow, called a ṣaravyā as being a ṣarūṇām bhāṇānām samūhaḥ.

7. Let the smoke-eyed (f.) one fall together, and the crop-eared one (f.) yell; it being conquered by the army of Trishandhi, let the ensigns be red.

The comm. supplies parakṛtye bale to jittē; the pada-reading (simply jittē) forbids us to regard the word as fem. dual. He takes the epithets in the first half-verse first as applying to the enemy's army, and then to the kṛtyā which is invoked against it. The verse is translated by Bloomfield, as noted above (see 9. 7), at AJP. xi. 340.

8. Let the winged ones descend, the birds, they that go about in the atmosphere, in the sky; let the wild beasts, the flies, take hold together; let the raw-flesh-eating vultures scratch at the human carrion.

The comm. explains radantām by svatunḍāṣṭh pādāṣ ca vilikhantu. [Read diṁt ca ye?]

9. The agreement (saṁdhā) which thou hast agreed on with Indra and with the brāhman, O Brihaspati, by that Indra-agreement do I call hither all the gods: conquer ye on this side, not on that!

The comm. (with two or three of SPP's authorities) reads -adhattās in a; and he treats indra-saṁdhayā as two independent words in c. Saṁdhām in a is clearly proved an intrusion by the meter.

10. Brihaspati of the Aṅgiras race, the seers sharpened by the brāhman, set up (ā-ṣṛi) in the sky the Asura-destroying weapon, Trishandhi.

One would like to emend āṅgirasās to āṅgirasas (as Ludwig translates). The comm. renders ā-ṣṛayan by asevanta, as if it were ā-ṣṛayanta.

11. By whom yonder sun, and Indra, both stand protected—Trishandhi the gods shared, in order to both force and strength.

12. All worlds did the gods completely conquer by means of that offering (dhuti)—the thunderbolt which Brihaspati of the Aṅgiras race poured, an Asura-destroying weapon.

'Poured,' i.e. 'cast': a term used also elsewhere of the thunderbolt (BR. vii. 980).

13. The thunderbolt which Brihaspati of the Aṅgiras race poured, an Asura-destroying weapon—therewith do I blot out (ni-lip) yon army, O Brihaspati; I slay the enemies with force.

The comm. renders nt limpāmi by nitarāṁ chinadmi. He also has the strange reading amūs for amūm before sēnām.

14. All the gods come over hither, who partake of [the offering] made with vāsat; enjoy ye this offering; conquer ye on this side, not on that!

15. Let all the gods come over hither; the offering [is] dear to Trishandhi; defend ye the great agreement by which in the beginning the Asuras were conquered.

The comm. appears to read in a -yanti, as in vs. 14 a, but he interprets it as an imperative this time.

16. Let Vāyu bend up the arrow-points of the enemies; let Indra break back their arms; let them not be able to set the arrow; let Āditya make their missile weapon (astrā) disappear; let the moon put (yu) them on the track of what is not gone.

The last clause is very doubtful and difficult; the comm. gives no aid, explaining with aprāptasyā, "jigamiṣataḥ ṣatroḥ . . . pañthānam asmatprāptyaupāyabhūtam mārgam yutām tataḥ prthakkurutām (taking yutām from yu 'separate,' and adding) tādṛṣam mārgam ṣatruḥ na paṣyatu ity arthaḥ. He divides the verse into two, making the second begin with āditya eṣām.

17. If they have gone forward to the gods' strongholds, have made the brāhmaṇa their defenses; if (? yāt) they have encouraged (? upa-vac) themselves, making a body-protection, a complete protection — all that do thou make sapless.

The verse occurred above as v. 8. 6, and the comm. declines to repeat his explanation there given — which, however, is not in our hands.

18. Causing to follow the purōhita with the flesh-eating [fire] and with death, O Trishandhi, go forth with the army; conquer the enemies; go forward.

The last pāda is identical with iii. 19. 8 c.

19. O Trishandhi, do thou envelop our enemies with darkness; of them yonder, thrust forth by the speckled butter, let none soever be freed.

The last half-verse is nearly identical with viii. 8. 19 c, d. [For the stock-phrase d, see iii. 19. 8, note.]

20. Let the white-footed one (f.) fall upon (? sam-pat) yonder lines of our enemies; let yonder armies of our enemies be confounded today, O Nyarbudi.

The second pāda is identical with 9. 18 b; to be put in any connection with it, the words of the first pāda require to be rendered otherwise than in 6 a, 7 a, above. The comm. again reads śucas for sicas, as in the other passage [9. 18: comm. p. 181¹⁷].

21. Confounded [be] our enemies, O Nyarbudi; slay thou of them each best man (vāra); slay [them] with this army.

The comm. strangely reads amitrān beside mūḍhās. [The rationale of his variant is perhaps as in 9. 6 above (nnya = nya). The pāda-text has amitrāḥ. But the comm. also takes mūḍhāḥ as = mūḍhān.]

22. Whoever is mailed, and who without mail, and what enemy is in march (? ājman); by bowstring-fetters, by mail-fetters, smitten by the march let him lie.

The mss. are in good part awkward about the combination jm (in ajmani, ajmanā), writing what looks like a jm or pm, but there is no real variant. The comm. explains ājman as ajati gacchaty anene 'ty ajma rathādi yānam. He gives abhihitas, a preferable reading, in d.

23. Who have defenses, who have no defenses, and the enemies who have defenses — all those, O Arbudi, being slain, let dogs eat on the ground.

The accent yē 'varmāṇaḥ, though read by all the mss. [save R.], is wholly inadmissible, and should be emended to yē 'v-.

24. Who have chariots, who have no chariots, those without seats and they who have seats (sādā) — all those, being slain, let vultures, falcons, birds (patatrīn) eat.

We may fairly question whether 'seat' means here 'seat on horseback.' The comm. explains asādās by açvādiyanarahitāḥ padātayaḥ, and sādinās by açvārūḍhāḥ 'mounted on horses.'

25. Let the army of our enemies lie with thousand corpses (-kūṇapa) in the conflict of weapons, pierced through, cut to pieces (?).

The obscure kakajāḥṛtā at the end is guessed by the comm. to mean kutsitajanana vilolajanana vā ḥṛtā; he attempts no etymology, but evidently sees in it the root jā. In a he has the strange reading senām for çetām.

26. Let the eagles (suparṇā) eat him, pierced to the vitals, crying loudly, lying crushed, the evil-minded one — what enemy of ours wishes to fight against this opposing offering.

The translation implies the emendation (which Ludwig's version also makes) of suparṇāts to suparṇās in a. The comm. takes it as qualifying çarāis understood and adjunct of marmāvīdham: 'pierced etc. by well-feathered arrows.' In the irregular meter of the first line, the division is perhaps best made before adantu; a small minority of SPP's mss. so regard it, and accent adantu accordingly, and he follows them in his text; our Bp. puts its pāda-division after adantu, and, with one other ms., leaves the word without accent. [See Henry's elaborate conjectures, p. 172: marmāvīdho rōruvataḥ suparṇā gaṇātr adantu nṛdītān çyānam. The other versions imply marmāvīdham, and Bloomfield expressly conjectures marmāvīdham, overlooking the accent; but the comm. to Prāt. iv. 68 quotes marmāvīdham as an instance of non-separation in pada-text.]

27. [The offering] which the gods follow (anu-sthā), of which there is no failure — with that let Indra, Vṛitra-slayer, slay, with the three-jointed thunderbolt.

[The sum of the verses for hymns 1-2 and 4-10 is (68 + 189 =) 257. Reckoning hymn 3 (with the Berlin ed.) as of 56 vss., we get for the book (257 + 56 =) 313: and this is the summation given by codex I. On the other hand, reckoning hymn 3 as of (31 + 72 + 7 =) 110 vss. (see pp. 632, 628), we get for the book (257 + 110 =) 367. But the summation given by four of W's mss. (including P.W.B.) is 365. How to account for the discrepancy I do not see. One ms. sums up the last anuvāka as 51 (i.e. 26 + 25 ? — instead of 26 + 27 = 53) verses, and 10. 17 is indeed a galita-verse; but the Old Anukr. reckons hymn 10 as 27, not 25.]

Book XII.

[This twelfth book is the fifth and last of the second grand division of the Atharvan collection. For a general statement as to the make-up of the books of this division, page 471 may again be consulted. The Old Anukramaṇī describes the length of the artha-sūktas, hymns 1, 2, 3, and 4, by giving the overplus of each hymn over 60 verses. The assumed normal lengths in the case of books ix., x., xi., and xii. seem to be respectively 20, 30, 20, and 60 verses. The whole book has been translated by Victor Henry, Les livres X, XI et XII de l'Atharva-vēda traduits et commentés, Paris, 1896. The bhāṣya is again lacking. The fifth or last hymn is made up of 7 paryāyas (see pages 471-2), which, if they be counted separately, make the hymns number 11 instead of 5: see page 611, top.]

[The anuvāka-division of the book (as noted above, page 472) is into five anuvākas of one hymn each. The "decad"-division likewise is as described on page 472. A tabular conspectus for this book also may be added:

Anuvākas	I	2	3	4	5
Hymns	I	2	3	4	5
Verses	63	55	60	53	73¶
Decad-div.	5 tens + 13	5 tens + 5	6 tens	4 tens + 13	7 P

Here, as before, ¶ means "paragraph of a paryāya" (such as is numbered as a "verse" in the Berlin edition) and P means "paryāya." The last line shows the "decad"-division. Of these "decads," anuvākas 1, 2, 3, and 4 contain respectively 6, 6, 6, and 5 (in all, 23 "decads"); while anuvāka 5 has 7 paryāyas. The sum is 23 "decad"-sūktas and 7 paryāya-sūktas or 30 sūktas. Cf. the summation at the end of hymn 5.]

Found also in Pāipp. xvii. (excepting vss. 62, 63). Many of the verses are used by the Kāuṣ., as also the whole hymn (which is also by itself an anuvāka), under the name bhāuma, ' [hymn] to earth': so at 38. 12, 16, in a ceremony for giving firmness to buildings; at 98. 3 (with vi. 87, 88), for safety from earthquake; and in 8. 23 it is (with iii. 12, vi. 73, 93) reckoned a vāstospatya hymn. The first 7 verses (Kāuṣ. 24. 27) and the first 9 (? 24. 31, 35) are used in the āgrahāyaṇī ceremony. [Further, cf. Keç. to 70. 8, 9.] In Vāit., vss. 1, 13, 27, 30, and others are quoted. [The whole hymn is prescribed in Nakṣ. Kalpa, 18, in a mahāçānti called pārthivī: see SPP. iii. 2025.]

Translated: by Charles Bruce, Journal of the Royal Asiatic Society, Old Series, xix. 321 ff. (with comparisons from Greek writers); Ludwig, p. 544; Henry, 179, 215; Griffith, ii. 93; Bloomfield, 199, 639.

1. Great (brhānt) truth, formidable right, consecration, penance, brāhmaṇ, sacrifice sustain the earth; let her for us, mistress of what is and what is to be — let the earth make for us wide room (lokā); —

Found also in MS. (iv. 14. 11), which reads yajñās in b, and bhūvanasya (for bhāvayasya) in c. The Anukr. does not heed that pāda a is jagati. The verse (unless more of the hymn is meant to be included with it) is, according to Vāit. 12. 6, to be repeated by one who relieves on the ground the needs of nature. It is quoted by Kāuṣ. 24. 24 in the āgrahāyaṇī ceremony; also in the comm. to 24. 35 (cf. above); and it, with vs. 38, is reckoned (see note to Kāuṣ. 19. 1) among the puṣṭika mantras.

2. Unoppressedness in the midst of men (mānavā). Whose are the ascents (udvāt), the advances (pravāt), the much plain (samā); who bears the herbs of various virtue (nānāvīrya) — let the earth be spread out for us, be prosperous for us.

The mss. vary in a between badhyatās and madhyatās (Bp.P.M.I. have ba-), but only the latter can be right, and the translation adopts it; the former (which Ppp. also has, and mānavasū) seems to have come in under the influence of bādham. [Correct the edition.] As the text stands, pāda a can only be an adjunct to vs. 1, and so Ppp. reckons it, and begins our b with asyās. But MS. (iv. 14. 11) reads asambādhdā yā madhyatō mānavabhyo; it also has mahāt for bahū at end of b, and nānāvīryas and bibhārti in c. This time the Anukr. notices that b has 12 syllables. Kāuṣ. 137. 16 quotes the verse [in the preparation of the vedī].

3. On whom [are] the ocean and the river (sindhu), the waters; on whom food, plowings, came into being; on whom quickens this that breathes, that stirs — let that earth (bhūmī) set us in first drinking.

That is, doubtless, give us precedence over others (but MS. reads pūrvapēyam: see note to vs. 5). Ppp. reads for b yasyām devā 'mr̥tam anuvandin; and for second half-verse it has our 4 c, d, giving our 3 c, d as second half of vs. 5, with the easier reading jīvati, [followed by] viçvam ejāt in c. We should expect kṛṣyās in b.

4. Whose, the earth's, [are] the four quarters; on whom food, plowings, came into being; who bears manifoldly what breathes, what stirs — let that earth (bhūmī) set us among kine, also in inexhaustibleness (? ānya).

Ppp. reads in a yasyām and prithivyām, and in b gr̥ṣṭayas [cf. note to ii. 13. 3]. As second half-verse it has our 5 c, d, giving our 4 c, d as 3 c, d, reading (after bahudhā) prāṇine jāṅgano bhūmir goṣv açveṣu pinve kṛnotu, thus relieving us of the difficult anye. Kāuṣ. (137. 17) uses the verse next after vs. 2, in connection with making the sacrificial hearth four-cornered. The description given by the Anukr. of this, and the two following verses is so wholly wrong that we cannot help suspecting a corrupt text. This verse is, if we make no resolutions in d, a regular triṣṭubh.

5. On whom the people of eld (pūrvajānā) formerly spread themselves (? vī-kṛ); on whom the gods overcame the Asuras; the station (? viṣṭhā) of kine, of horses, of birds (vāyas) — let the earth assign us fortune (bhāga), splendor.

Ppp. reads in a nicakrīre, and in b atyavartayan; also in c (found as [its] 4 c) vayasayya [?]. MS. has a verse made up of our 5 a, b (without variant), 4 c (accenting bībhārti), and 3 d (with pūrvapṭyam). The verse is mixed triṣṭubh and jagati. [In Ppp. this verse precedes our 4. — The sequence of the half-verses of the Vulgate as they stand in Ppp. seems therefore to be as follows: 3 a, b, 4 c, d, 5 a, b, 3 c, d, 4 a, b, 5 c, d.]

6. All-bearing, good-holding, firm-standing, gold-backed (-vākṣas), reposer of moving things (jāgat), bearing the universal (vāiṣvānarā) fire, let the earth (bhūmi), whose bull is Indra, set us in property.

The verse is found also in MS. (iv. 14. 11), which reads, in a-b, purukṣūd dhtranya-varṇā jāgataḥ pratiṣṭhā; and in d drāviṇam (the editor also admits in his text the bad reading indra ṛṣabhā). It is quoted in Kāuṣ. 137. 28. [I do not see why W. has preferred 'gold-backed' to 'gold-breasted' here and in vs. 26.] [By 'reposer' he means 'bringer-to-rest.']

7. She the earth (bhūmi prithivī), whom the gods, sleepless, defend all the time without failure — let her yield (duh) to us honey, what is dear; then let her sprinkle us with splendor.

The verse is found also in MS. (iv. 14. 11), which reads in c ghṛtām instead of priyām.

8. She who in the beginning was sea (salilā) upon the ocean (arnavā); whom the skilful (manīṣin) moved after with their devices (māyā); the earth whose immortal heart covered with truth is in the highest firmament (vydman) — let that earth (bhūmi) assign to us brilliancy, strength, in highest royalty.

The verse is properly 11+12:11+11:8+8=61 syllables, and not very well described by the Anukr. The last two clauses perhaps have independent construction: '[assign] to us brilliancy [and] strength, [and] set [us] in highest royalty.'

9. On whom the circulating waters flow the same, night and day, without failure — let that earth (bhūmi), of many streams (-dhārā) yield (duh) us milk; then let her sprinkle [us] with splendor.

The Anukr. does not heed that c is a jagati pāda. [In Ppp., this verse precedes our 7.]

10. Whom the Aṅvins measured; on whom Viṣṇu strode out; whom Indra, lord of might (gācī-), made free from enemies for himself — let that earth (bhūmi) to us, a mother to a son, release (vi-sj) milk [to me].

Some of the mss. read in ḍ-trān chācī-, and Bp. has accordingly -trān. Ppp. also has cakrā "thane" namitrān chācī-; and, at the end, naṣ payaḥ. [Ppp's repetition of naṣ is more tolerable than the harsh change from pl. to sing. which W. seems to have overlooked.]

11. Let thy hills (giri) [and] snowy mountains (pārvata), let thy forest-land (āraṇya), O earth, be pleasant (syonā); upon the brown, black, red, all-formed, fixed (dhruvā) earth (bhūmi), the earth guarded by Indra — I, unharassed, unsmitten, unwounded, have stood upon the earth.

Ppp. reads in b āraṇyam corrected to ar-, and naṣ after astu; also in c lohintā, and in f adhi śhān, which is better. [Roth's Collation has in fact addhi.] The verse (11 + 11 : 11 + 11 : 8 + 8 = 60) should be called atiśakavari rather than virāḍ aṣṭi. Verses 11 and 12 are reckoned to the svastyayana gaṇa (see note to Kāu. 25. 36).

12. What is thy middle, O earth, and what thy navel, what refreshments (ūrj) arose (sam-bhū) out of thy body — in them do thou set us; be purifying (pū) toward us; earth (bhūmi) is mother, I am earth's son; Parjanya is father — let him save (fill) pṛ us.

Ppp. reads at end of a yaḥ ca nādyā.

13. On what earth (bhūmi) they enclose the sacrificial hearth; on what [earth] men of all works extend the sacrifice; on what earth are set up (mī) the sacrificial posts, erect, bright, before the oblation — let that earth (bhūmi), increasing, make us increase.

Ppp. reads in b viśvakarmanāḥ, and in d reads and combines ṣukrā "hutyā pur-. All the mss. accent at the end vardhamānā. In Vāit. 15. 8, the verse is used to accompany the enclosing of the sacrificial hearth. In virtue of one jagati pāda (b), the verse is a full śakavari (56 syll.).

14. Whoso shall hate us, O earth; whoso shall fight [us]; whoso shall vex [us] with mind, who with deadly weapon — him, O prior-acting earth (bhūmi), do thou put in our power.

'Prior-acting,' i.e., apparently, 'getting the start of him'; we should expect a nom. rather than a vocative case. Ppp. reads instead pūrvakṛtvane; also, in b, bhīmanyā tāindanamā dhanena. Read in our text pṛtanyād yō (an accent-sign omitted); one of our mss. [and five of SFP's authorities, and his text!], however, read yō. According to the usual nomenclature of the Anukr., the verse is a virāḍ gāyatrī (11 + 11 : 12 = 34, hence bhūrij). [Dr. Ryder suggests that the mahābṛhatī here intended is one of 3 jāgata pādas (see Ind. Stud. viii. 243-4). Both this vs. and 17 may be scanned as 12 + 12 : 12 — cf. under vs. 17.]

15. Born from thee, mortals go about upon thee; thou bearest bipeds, thou quadrupeds; thine, O earth, are these five [races] of men, for whom, mortals, the rising sun extends with his rays immortal light.

Ppp. reads in b ca instead of the second tvam.

16. Let those creatures, without exception (samagrā), together yield fruit (duhi) to us; the honey of speech, O earth, do thou assign unto me.

Ti for tās at the beginning, allowing us to regard prajās as accus., would be a welcome emendation.

17. The all-producing (-śū) mother of herbs, the fixed earth (bhūmi), the earth maintained by ordinance, the auspicious, the pleasant, may we go about over always.

This verse (10 [properly 11] + 12:12 = 34 syll.) is overlooked by the Anukr.; it nearly accords in structure with vs. 14, above. [Dr. Ryder observes that the dual (mahābrhatyāu) of the Anukr.-text suggests the possible falling out of the pratika of this verse. See under vs. 14.] [There is a play of words in dhārmanā dhṛtām which cannot easily be reproduced in translation.]

18. Thou hast become great, a great station (sadhāstha); great is thy trembling, stirring, quaking; great Indra defends thee unremittingly. Do thou, O earth (bhūmi), make us to shine forth as in the aspect (saṁdṛṣṭi) of gold; let no one soever hate us.

Ppp. reads vīryeṇa for apramādam in c, and from e [saṁdṛṣṭi] passes directly on to our 19 c (agnir antaḥ pur- etc.): probably an accidental omission. The verse (12 + 11:11:8 + 8 + 8 = 58) lacks two syllables of a full atiṣṭakvart.

19. *Agni is in the earth (bhūmi), in the herbs; the waters bear Agni; Agni [is] in the stones (dṛṣman); Agni is within men; in kine, in horses are Agnis.

This and the two following verses are quite out of connection here, and seem to be an intrusion. They are quoted together in Kāuṣ. 2. 41 as accompanying the feeding of the fire with fuel; in 120. 5, in a ceremony against the cleaving open of the ground; and in 137. 30 (each singly) to accompany the strewing of the sacrificial hearth in the ājyatantra. The first part of the verse (as noted above) is wanting in Ppp.

20. Agni sends heat from the sky; the wide atmosphere is god Agni's; mortals kindle Agni [as] oblation-bearer, ghee-lover.

Ppp. combines in a divā "tapaty."

21. Let the earth, fire-clad, black-kneed, make me sharpened, brilliant (tvīṣṭimant).

This verse is quoted by pratika in GB. i. 2. 9. As to the ritual uses of it and of vs. 20, see the note to vs. 19. Ppp. reads tvīṣṭivantaṁ in b.

22. On the earth (bhūmi) they give to the gods the sacrifice, the oblation, duly prepared; on the earth (bhūmi) mortal men (mamaṣyā) live by svadhā, by food; let that earth (bhūmi) assign us breath, life-time; let earth make me one who attains old age.

The verse (8 + 8:8 + 8:11 + 11 = 54) should be called by the Anukr. svarāj instead of virāj. Ppp. reads in a jukhvati instead of dadati.

23. What odor of thine, O earth, came into being, which the herbs, which the waters bear, which the Gandharvas and Apsarasas shared — with that do thou make me odorous; let no one soever hate us.

Ppp. adds, after bhejire, yas te gām aṣvam arhati; and it reads for our ḍ tenā 'smān surabhīṣ kṛṇu, and, in our e, dvakṣata. The verse (11 + 11 : 12 : 8 + 8 = 50) is as well described by the Anukr. as the latter's system admits. Verses 23-25 [so the schol.] are called in Kāuṣ. 13. 12 and 54. 5 gandhapravādās (likewise in the comm. to 24. 24); they are also reckoned as belonging to the second varcasya gaṇa (see note to Kāuṣ. 12. 10).

24. What odor of thine entered into the blue lotus; which they brought together at Sūryā's wedding — the immortals, O earth, [what] odor in the beginning — with that do thou make me odorous; let no one soever hate us.

Ppp. has again tenā 'smān surabhīṣ kṛṇu, and dvakṣata. [To the definition of the] verse (11 + 11 : 11 + 8 + 8 = 49) [should be added "bhurij"].

25. What odor of thine is in human beings (puruṣa); in women, in men, [what] portion, pleasure; what in horses, in heroes, what in wild animals and in elephants; what splendor, O earth (bhūmi), in a maiden — with that do thou unite us also; let no one soever hate us.

Or, in ḍ, mṛgeṣu hastiṣu may mean simply 'elephants' (lit. 'wild beasts having a hand'). Ppp. reads yas te bhāume puruṣeṣu . . . rucir yo vadhaṣu : yo goṣu aṣveṣu yo mṛgeṣu : . . . yad bhāume abhi sañ sṛja; and in g dvakṣata. If the verse contains an uṣṇīh pāda (namely c, the resolution aṣ-u-eṣu being rejected), it is nicṛt as a ṣakvart.

26. Rock [is?] earth (bhūmi), stone, dust; this earth (bhūmi) [is] held together, held; to that earth, gold-backed (-vākṣas) have I paid homage.

Ppp. reads, in a-b, pāṇsv aryā bhūmi strīṭā dhṛtā, and omits c, ḍ. [Cf. note to vs. 6.]

27. On whom stand always fixed the trees, the forest trees (vāna-spatyā), the all-supporting earth that is held [together] do we address.

Ppp. reads for ḍ bhūmyāi hiranyavakṣasi dhṛtam acchāv. Vāit. 2. 8 quotes the verse to accompany the laying down of the enclosing sticks.

28. Arising (ud-īr), also sitting, standing, striding forth, with right and left feet, let us not stagger upon the earth.

The Anukr. seems to assume the resolution -kr-ā- in b. This verse and 33 below are quoted in Kāuṣ. 24. 33 to accompany the taking of three steps, while looking around, in the āgrahāyaṇī ceremony.

29. The cleansing (vimṛgvān) earth do I address, the patient (kṣamā) earth (bhūmi), increasing by worship (brāhman); may we sit down, O earth (bhūmi), upon thee, that bearest refreshment, prosperity (puṣṭā), food-portion, ghee.

Ppp. reads at the beginning vimargvāya, in b vāvṛdhānaḥ, in c puṣṭim, in ḍ bhāume. The verse is quoted four times in Kāuṣ. : in 3. 8; 24. 28; 137. 40, to accompany a sitting down in different ceremonies; and in 90. 15, when causing a guest to stand upon a cushion.

30. Let cleansed (śuddhā) waters flow for our body; what mucus (? syēdu) is ours, that we deposit on him we love not (āpriya); with a purifier (pavitra), O earth, do I purify myself.

Part of the pāda-mss. (Bp. [and one of SPP's]) accent mā in c. Ppp. has mā for nas in a; and, in b, yo me sehnur. The verse is quoted in Kāuṣ. 58. 7 (and at second hand under 24. 24) in connection with rinsing the mouth after spitting; also in Vāit. 12. 6 in connection with easing nature.

31. What forward directions are thine, what upward, what are thine, O earth (bhūmi), downward, and what behind, let those be pleasant to me going about; let me not fall down [when] supported (śri) on creation (bhūvana).

The verse is found also in MS. (iv. 14. 11), which reads, for b, yāṣ ca bhūmy adharāḡ yāṣ ca paṣcā; also śivās for syonās in c. Ppp. has in b bhāume 'dharād, and in d ṣucriyāne. This and the following verse are reckoned to the svastayana gaṇa: see note to Kāuṣ. 25. 36.

32. Do not push (nud) us behind, nor in front, nor above and below; become thou welfare for us, O earth (bhūmi); let not the waylayers find [us]; keep very far off the deadly weapon.

The directions 'forward' etc., in this and the preceding verse, are also equivalent, as elsewhere, to 'eastern' etc. Pāda d occurs below as xiv. 2. 11 a; e was found above as i. 20. 3 d etc. Ppp. reads mā for nas in a, omits b, reads in c bhāume me kṛṇu, and makes d and e change places, reading also vāyas for varīyas [and vidhan for vidan]. The verse (11 + 8 : 8 + 8 + 8 = 43) is curiously defined by the Anukr.

33. How much of thee I look forth upon, O earth (bhūmi), with the sun for ally (medin), so far let my sight not fail (mī), from one year (sāmā) to another.

Ppp. has again bhāume in b. For the use of the verse in Kāuṣ., see note to vs. 28. It is quoted also in Vāit. 27. 7 as used by one gazing at the earth after mounting the sacrificial post. [Pāda d we had at iii. 10. 1; 17. 4.]

34. In that, lying, I turn myself about upon the right [or] the left side, O earth (bhūmi); in that we with our ribs lie stretched out upon thee that meetest us—do not in that case injure us, O earth (bhūmi), thou underlier of everything.

'Underlier,' lit. 'counter-lier, one whose lying answers to that of another.' In a, b, perhaps rather 'in that I turn over toward [thee] the one or the other side' [cf. vii. 100. 1]. Our Bp. puts its sign of pāda-division between c and d before instead of after yāt, and the Anukr. supports it by counting a bṛhatti element in the verse (which is properly 8 + 11 : 8 + 8 : 8 + 8 = 51). The verse is prescribed in Kāuṣ. 24. 30, to accompany the act of turning over while lying down, in the āgrahāyaṇī ceremony. All the mss., with the edition, [likewise SPP's mss. and ed.,] accent parīdvarte; it should be parīdvarte. Ppp. puts the verse after 35, and reads apī for abhi in b; and, for d, prṣṭvā yad ṛdva gemahe; and bhāume both times for bhūme.

35. What of thee, O earth (bhūmi), I dig out, let that quickly grow over; let me not hit (arpay-) thy vitals nor thy heart, O cleansing one.

'Grow over,' i.e. heal up, like a wound. Ppp. has again bhāume in a; also oṣaṁ for ṣipram in b, and arpitam in d; this time (cf. vs. 29) it agrees with our text in the peculiar epithet vimṛgvari, lit. 'wiping off.' Kāuṣ. (46. 51) quotes the verse to accompany an act of digging in a prāyaścitta ceremony; and again similarly at 137. 12.

36. Let thy hot season, O earth (bhūmi), rainy season, autumn, winter, cool season, spring — let thine arranged seasons, years, let day-and-night, O earth, yield milk (dūh) to us.

One would expect in c hāyanās 'belonging to or constituting the year'; and Ppp., combining hāyanā 'hor-', favors that reading. Ppp. has also again bhāume in a. The irregularity of the verse (8 + 11 : 10 + 11 = 40) indicates corruption; it is a pañkti, of course, only by the sum of syllables. It is quoted in Kāuṣ. 137. 9, as one approaches to measure out the sacrificial hearth. [Cf. 137. 4, note.]

37. She who, cleansing one, trembling away the serpent; on whom were the fires that are within the waters, abandoning the god-insulting barbarians, choosing, she the earth, Indra [and] not Vṛitra, kept herself (dhr) for the mighty one (cakrā), the virile bull.

The first pāda is extremely obscure; it is here translated mechanically, as closely as possible to the text. Bruce understands at the beginning yā : āpa (instead of the yā : āpa of the pāda-text); and that would be a natural and easy emendation, if only the resulting sense were more acceptable. Ludwig renders as if we read sārpaṭ ('trembling at the serpent'). The totally different reading of Ppp., ya āpas sarpaṇ yatamānā vimṛgvari, indicates that the text is corrupt. Ppp. further reads in b agnayo 'psu, and stops the verse at dadatī, then adding our vs. 40. Our verse (12 + 11 : 11 + 11 : 11 = 56) adds up as a true çakvart.

38. On whom are the seat and oblation-holder; on whom the sacrificial post (yūpa) is planted; on whom worshipers (brahmān) praise (arc) with verses, with the chant, knowing the sacrificial formulas; on whom are joined the priests (ṛtvij), for Indra to drink the soma; —

Ppp. reads in e yuyante 'syām ṛtyavas s-. The verse is quoted in Kāuṣ. 24. 37 to accompany an oblation [and by Dārila to 24. 24, in the āgrahāyaṇī ceremony]. It is also reckoned with vs. 1 among the puṣṭika mantras (see note to Kāuṣ. 19. 1). In Vāit. 15. 4, this verse and the two following are prescribed to accompany the subrahmanyā recitation; in 10. 8, it is used at the setting up of the sacrificial post.

39. On whom the former being-making seers sang out (ud-arc) the kine — the seven pious ones (vedhās), by their session, together with sacrifice [and] penance; —

Ppp. reads udānāt for udānrcus in b; all our mss. accent id ānrcus, but the edited text has emended to udān-. Vāit. 22. 1 gives the verse as prescribed by a certain authority to be used instead of iii. 14. 2, in driving out the kine from the place of sacrifice.

40. Let that earth (bhūmi) appoint unto us what riches we desire ; let Bhaga join on after ; let Indra go [as our] forerunner.

For consistency, our text should read in c -yuñtām, as called for by Prāt. ii. 20 (see the note). As noticed above, this verse is in Ppp. joined on to 37 as a part of it ; in its place, as conclusion of 39, is given here sā naṣ paçūn viçvarūpān dadhātu jara-daṣṭīm mā prthivī kṛnotu. [In d of our vs. 40, Ppp. reads indro yātu.]

41. On whom, the earth (bhūmi), mortals sing [and] dance with loud noises (? vyāḷaba) ; on whom they fight ; on whom speaks the shout (ākrandā), the drum — let that earth (bhūmi) push forth our rivals ; let earth make me free from rivals.

Yudhyānte should be emended to yūdhyante. The verse (8 + 8 : 8 + 8 : 11 + 11 = 54) has no kakubh element in it, but as çakvart it is virāj. Ppp. puts the verse after our vs. 42, and reads for b : janā martyā dvāilavā ; [in c yudhyante 'syām ;] and, for e, f, sā no bhūmiṣ pra dadhatān sapatnān : yo no dveṣṭy adharān tān kṛnotu.

42. On whom is food, rice-and-barley ; whose are these five races (kṛṣṭī) — to the earth, whose spouse is Parjanya, fattened (-médas) by the rain, be homage.

With the irregular, but not infrequent, combination yāsye 'māḥ in b, the verse is a regular anusṭubh ; for the epithet svarāj of the Anukr. there is no [sufficient] reason. Ppp. reads for b yatre 'māṣ pañca grṣṭayah, and ends with -medhase. Kāuṣ. uses the verse at 24. 38 (next after vs. 38), and at 137. 24, with homage to the [earth (bhūmi)].

43. Whose are the god-made strongholds ; in whose field [men] fall out (? vi-kr) — the earth, womb of everything, let Prajāpati make pleasant (rānya) to us, spot by spot.

[BR. render viçvāgarbha by 'Alles im Schoosse tragend.'] Ppp. reads yasyān both times for yasyāḥ ; also, at the end, niṣ ṣaṇotu. The Anukr. is more than usually scrupulous in calling the verse virāj. Read in b vikurvāte.

44. Bearing treasure [and] good in many places hiddenly, let the earth give me jewel (mañi), gold ; giver of good, bestowing good things on us, let the divine one assign [them to us] with favoring mind.

Ppp. [puts the verse after our 30, and] reads at end of b dadhātu naḥ. Kāuṣ. quotes the verse at 24. 39, as used by one who desires jewels or gold. [So Keç., p. 322 : also SPP. (mañihiranyādikāmaḥ) at p. 201¹⁸ ; but at 201²⁶ he cites the sūtra with Bl's reading (mañim hir-) ; cf. Caland, p. 66.]

45. Let the earth, bearing in many places people of different speech, of diverse customs (-dhārman), according to their homes, yield (duh) me a thousand streams of property, like a steady (dhruvā) unresisting milch-cow.

Ppp. reads in a janām yaṁ bibhrāt bahuvācasam, and in c naṣ for me. The Anukr. does not heed that the last pāda in this verse, and the last two in vs. 44, are triṣṭubh. [Keç., p. 322³¹, couples this vs. with the preceding : cf. note to vs. 44.]

46. What stinging (vṛścika) harsh-biting serpent of thine lies in secret, winter-harmed, torpid (? bhṛmald); whatever worm, O earth, becoming lively, stirs in the early rainy season — let that, crawling, not crawl upon us; be thou gracious to us with that which is propitious.

Ppp. reads in a vṛścakas, and for b ff. hemantalabdho bhramalo (!) kṛmīr lisaṁ pṛthivyāi prāvṛṣṭi yad ejati. The treatment of kṛmīs in c as neuter is very strange. [Is it a collective neuter like Gewürm? cf. Noun-Inflection, JAOS. x. 570.] In the description of the verse (11 + 12: 7 + 8 + 8 + 8 = 54) by the Anukr. there is perhaps something omitted (or we are to read virāṭ cakvart for parāṭ). The verse is used according to Kāuṣ. 50. 17 (with [iii. 26 (see introduction thereto) and 27 and] vi. 56. 1) in the removal of vermin; also, according to 139. 8, with a number of other verses about serpents and the like; and it is reckoned to the rāudra gaṇa (note to Kāuṣ. 50. 13). In Vāit. 29. 10 it accompanies a libation to Rudra.

47. What many roads thou hast, for people to go upon, a track (vārt-man) for the chariot, and for the going of the cart, by which (pl.) men of both kinds, excellent and evil, go about — that road, free from enemies, free from robbers, may we conquer; be thou gracious to us with that which is propitious.

* Ppp. reads bahudhā (for bahavas) in a, yebhiḥ car- at beginning of c, and pañthām in d; and it omits the last pāda [repeated from vs. 46]. The pratīka (ye te pañthā-nah), quoted in Kāuṣ. 50. 1, might refer either to this verse or to vii. 55. 1; the comm. to vii. 55 declares the latter to be intended.

48. Bearing the fool, bearer of what is heavy, enduring (titikṣū) the death (? nidhāna) of the excellent and of the evil, the earth, in concord with the boar, opens itself to the wild (mṛgā) hog.

Ludwig understands gurubhṛt in a as 'bearer of the wise' (guru as antithesis of malva); the Pet. Lexx. translate nidhāna as 'residence' (and so Bruce, 'abode'). Ppp. has at the beginning a very different text: sarpaṇ bībhraṭi surabhir; and it reads sūkareṇa in c and varāhāya in d.

49. What forest animals of thine, wild beasts set in the woods, lions, tigers, go about man-eating — the jackal (? ulā), the wolf, O earth, misfortune, the ṛkṣikā, the demon, do thou force (bādhi) away from us here.

The translation here given agrees with its predecessors in assuming emendation of tē in a to te. Some of our mss. read in c-d itā rakṣikām; and Bp. has after it ṛkṣaḥ. Ppp. gives eta rakṣikām rakṣo 'pa bādha mat; and, at the beginning, yātūranyāḥ paḥ; [and ulaṁ in c like our text]. With a compare the nearly identical xi. 2. 24 a; in spite of their agreement, one can hardly help regarding mṛgās as an intruded word. The Anukr. apparently accepts the two redundant syllables as making up for the deficiency in b and d, since 14 + 11: 12 + 11 = 48 syllables. [As to the "man-eaters," cf. note to xv. 5. 7.]

50. What Gandharvas, Apsarases [there are], and what arāyas, kimīdīns: the piṣācds, all demons — them do thou keep away from us, O earth (bhūmi).

Ppp. combines in a gandharvā 'ps-, and has at the end bhāume yāvayaḥ.

51. She to whom two-footed winged-ones fly together, swans, eagles, hawks, birds; on whom the wind, Mātariṣvan, goes about, making clouds of dust (? rājas) and setting in motion the trees — flame (arctis) blows after the forth-blowing, the toward-blowing, of the wind.

The second pāda is identical with xi. 2. 24 b. Upavām is metrically an intrusion into e: with the pāda is to be compared RV. i. 148. 4 c (which, however, casts little light upon it). Ppp. reads in c-ḍ vātayate mātariṣvā raj-; and, in e, it omits upavām, and has at the end arciṣe. The Anukr. appears to divide the last redundant pāda into two, an anuṣṭubh (8) and a kakubh (6); the whole makes two syllables more than a proper śakvārī (11 + 11 : 11 + 11 : 8 + 6 = 58). [Hopkins, JAOS. xx. 217, thinks that fire caused by the friction of branches is here alluded to, and cites parallels. We may add Indische Sprüche, 3759, which is very clear.]

52. On whom the black and the ruddy, combined, [namely] day-and-night, [are] disposed upon the earth (bhūmī); the broad (prthivī) earth (bhūmī), wrapped [and] covered with rain — let her kindly (bhadrāyā) set us in each loved abode.

Ppp. reads gr̥ṣṭam in a, reads and combines saṁbhr̥te 'horātre in a-b, and reads vr̥tāvṛdhā in c, and dhāmnidhāmnī in e. In c is to be understood, with the pāda-text, vr̥tā : āvṛtā. An accent-mark under the final tā is needed in order to indicate the acute of sā in the next line. The verse (11 + 12 : 12 + 8 + 8 = 51) is not well described by the Anukr. [A ca with syllabic value, inserted after kr̥ṣṇām, would be an effective, albeit cheap, means of improving the meter of a.] The verse is quoted in Kāuṣ. 24. 41 (next after various of the preceding verses), as accompanying a mouth-rinsing and head-splashing with rainwater; and pāda c, again, in 137. 23, with a sprinkling with water.

53. Both heaven and earth and atmosphere [have given] me this expanse; fire, sun, waters, and all the gods have together given me wisdom (medhā).

The translation of a, b is doubtful; vyācas may be in apposition with antṛikṣam, and the gift as in the second line. The Anukr. takes no notice of the irregular combination me 'dam in a, which is needed to make the verse a simple anuṣṭubh. Ppp. combines māi 'dam, and it has at the end saṁ dadhāu. Not this verse, but vi. 53. 1 (according to the comm. on the latter), is quoted in Kāuṣ. 10. 20, in a ceremony for wisdom; [but Dārila understands our verse as the one intended].

54. I am overpowering, superior by name on the earth (bhūmī); I am subduing, first-overpowering, vanquishing in every region.

The treatment of the compounds of sah (p. also abhīṣāt, viṣvāṣāt) is the subject of several rules in the Prāt. (ii. 82; iii. 1; iv. 70). [Cf. above, iii. 18. 5.] The verse is by Kāuṣ. 38. 30 prescribed to be repeated as one goes to an assembly (pariṣad).

55. When yonder, O divine one, spreading thyself forward, told by the gods, thou didst expand (vi-sṛp) to greatness, then entered into thee well-being; thou didst make fit the four directions.

Ppp. at the beginning puts yāt before adas; it has in b syāsā instead of uktā, and mahitvā (which is better); and in c ā vāmabhūtam av-. The Anukr. does not heed the redundant syllable in a.

56. What villages, what forest, what assemblies, [are] upon the earth (bhūmi), what hosts, gatherings—in them may we speak what is pleasant (cāru) to thee.

With the first half-verse may be compared VS. iii. 45 a, b. Ppp. reads for a ye grāmyā yāny aranyāni, and for c, ḍ teṣv ahaṁ devi pṛthvi vibhāsam mayu satva ca.

57. As a horse the dust, she has shaken apart those people who dwelt upon the earth since (yāt) she was born—pleasing, going at the head, keeper of creation (bhūvana), container of forest trees, of herbs.

Ppp. reads at the beginning açvī 'va, and is corrupt throughout; [but it reads gr̥bhīr like our text]. The Anukr. calls the first pāda an atijagat rather than admit the abbreviated form 'va for iva.

58. What I speak, rich in honey I speak it; what I view, that they win (? van) me; brilliant am I, possessed of swiftness; I smite down others that are violent (? dōdhat).

The sense of b is obscure. Ppp. reads vadantu (for vananti); Bp. has vadanti, and O.s.m. (p.m.?) vahanti. Ppp. has at the end dodhata. Kāuç. quotes the verse at 24. 14 and 38. 29, each time adding mantroktam 'as expressed in the verse.' [Ppp. puts this verse before our 57.]

59. Tranquil, fragrant, pleasant, with sweet drink in her udder, rich in milk, let earth (bhūmi) bless me, earth together with milk.

Ppp. reads at the beginning santivā [cf. iii. 30. 2, note], and in c no 'dhi (in place of adhi). The verse is quoted in Kāuç. 24. 31, among many other verses from this hymn; [further, by Dārila to 3. 4, and by Keç. to 70. 8, 9].

60. Whom Viçvakarman sought after with oblation within the ocean, when she was entered into the mist (? rājas); an enjoyable vessel that was deposited in secret became manifest in enjoyment (bhōga) for them that have mothers.

Ppp. reads for b yasyām āsann ugrayo [intending agnayo?] 'p̥sv antaḥ; and, in c, ḍ, guhā çāir āvir bhor abhavan mātṛmadbhīḥ: which casts no light on the strange and obscure meaning.

61. Thou art the scatterer (? āvāpana) of people, [art] a wish-fulfilling (kāmadūgha) Aditi, spreading out; what of thee is deficient, may Prajāpati, first-born of righteousness, fill that up for thee.

The word āvāpana seems to mean sometimes, and perhaps here, a (wide, shallow?) receptacle onto which things are strewn or scattered. Ppp. has at the beginning vim for tvam, and in b viçvarūpā for paṇṇathānā; for c, ḍ it reads yāt tāu 'nam tat tāpū-rayāti prajāpatiḥ prajābhīḥ samvidānām; and it ends the hymn here. The Anukr. refuses to admit two familiar resolutions in a, and gratuitously calls the pāda a bārhata

(9 syll.). The second half-verse is twice quoted in Kāuṣ. (46. 52; 137. 13) in connection with filling up a hole that has been dug (iti saṁvapatī); and the verse, in 137. 14, with removing elsewhere the dirt taken out.

62. Let standers upon thee, free from disease, free from yákṣma, be produced (prásūta) for us, O earth; awakening to meet our long lifetime, may we be tribute-bearers to thee.

The sense of upasthās (p. upaosthāh) in a is doubtful; Ludwig renders 'laps,' as if upástthās; [and so Bloomfield]; Bruce 'that shall dwell in thee.' The verse is quoted in Kāuṣ. 50. 10, in a ceremony for success. The description of the Anukr. is unintelligible, as the verse is a perfectly regular triṣṭubh.

63. O mother earth (bhūmī), do thou kindly set me down well established; in concord with the heaven, O sage (kāvi), do thou set me in fortune, in prosperity (bhūti).

The verse is used by Kāuṣ. (24. 27) in connection with vss. 1-7; also by the comm. to 58. 19 in the annapraścana ceremony. Vāit. 27. 8 prescribes it on descending from the sacrificial post (cf. note to vs. 33). [For ṣriyām, the only form of its kind in the AV., see JAOS. x. 389.]

2. The flesh-eating and the householder's fires.

[Bhṛgu.—pañcapañcācat. āgneyam uta mantroktadevatyam; 21-33. mārtvyaḥ. trāṣṭubham; 2, 5, 12-20, 34-36, 38-41, 43, 51, 54. anuṣṭubh (16. kakummatī parābṛhatī; 18. nicṛt; 40. purastātkakummatī); 3. āstārapañkti; 6. bhurig āṛṣi pañkti; 7, 45. jagatī; 8, 48, 49. bhurij; 9. anuṣṭubgarbhā viparītopādalahkṣmī pañkti; 37. purastādbṛhatī; 42. 3-p. 1-av. bhurig āṛṣi gāyatrī; 44. 1-av. 2-p. āṛṣi bṛhatī; 46. 1-av. 2-p. sāmnī triṣṭubh; 47. 5-p. bārhatavāirājagarbhā jagatī; 50. upariṣṭādvairād bṛhatī; 52. purastādvairād bṛhatī; 55. bṛhatigarbhā.]

Translated: Ludwig, p. 479 (omitting here vss. 21-26, 30-31); Henry, 188, 227; Griffiths, ii. 102.—The RV. correspondents of a number of the verses (7, 8, 21-25, 26, 30, 31) are discussed in my Skt. Reader, pages 380 ff., 388.

1. Ascend the reeds (naḍā); no place for thee is here; this lead is thy portion; come! what yákṣma is in kine, [what] yákṣma in men, in company with that do thou go forth downward.

This and vss. 11, 54, and 55 are quoted together in Kāuṣ. 71. 5, when putting fuel on the flesh-eating (kravyād) fire; also, in 71. 8, vss. 1-4, 42, 43, 15, 16 (with iii. 21. 8), with quenching it. Ppp. combines te'tra in a.

2. By evil-plotter and ill-plotter, by actor and helper, both all yakṣma and death do we thereby drive out from here.

Ppp. reads in c, ḍ mṛtyūñṣ ca sarvāñs tene 'to yakṣmāñṣ ca nir etc. The first half-verse is like a half-verse in MS. iv. 14. 17; TA. ii. 47: duḥṣaṁsānuḥṣaṁsābhyāñ ghañéñā 'nughañéñā ca [cf. Kaṭha-hss., p. 72].

3. Out from here do we drive death, perdition, out the niggard; whoso hates us, him, O non-flesh-eating Agni, do thou eat; whomso we hate, him do we impel to thee.

The pada-text has in c, ādhi; and most of the samhitā-mss. ādhy agne, in accordance with it, though one or two (Bs.E.) have addhy agne, which is no various reading, but only an allowed equivalent. The case is like those in i. 22. 1 and v. 20. 12 above; the abbreviated reading adhy has been mistaken for adhi instead of addhi, and then accented accordingly. Bp. accents also akravyāḍi. Our text emends to addhy āgne akravyāt, but should read instead agne, since there is no reason whatever for the accentuation addhi. A better reading would seem also to be kravyāt. Ppp. has adhy agne kravyād; but that, of course, might mean 'kravyāt. Ppp. also has simply am for yam u in ḍ, omits the second u, and ends with suwāmāḥ. [Ppp. reads yakṣmas for dvīṣmas in ḍ. So the Ppp. reading is adhy agne kravyād am yakṣmas tam te pra suwāmāḥ.]

4. If the flesh-eating Agni, or if the tiger-like, hath entered this stall (goṣṭhā), being not at home (?), him, having made him to have beans for sacrificial butter, I send far forth; let him go unto the Agnis that have seat in the waters.

Part of the mss. (E.I.O.R.T.K.) have vyāghrās in a, and that is perhaps the true reading, since -ghrya seems to be found nowhere else. Ppp. reads in b anyokā viveqa, and in c tan mā. The Anukr. takes no notice of the redundant (tām intruded?) syllable in c. In Kāuṣ. 71. 6 the verse is used (with vss. 7 and 53) in making a libation of crushed beans with mother-of-pearl (? ṣukti) to the flesh-eating fire which is to be banished. [The verse contains reminiscences of 7 and 8 below.]

5. If angry men put thee forth (pra-kṛ), with fury, a man having died, that, O Agni, is easy to be arranged by thee; we make thee flame up again.

Ppp. reads kṛtvā for kruddhās in a, mitte for mṛte in b, and ca for tat in c. The Anukr. appears to sanction the resolution ca-kṛ-ur in a. The verse is quoted in Kāuṣ. 70. 6; also in Vāit. 5. 13, to accompany the removal of fire from the householder's to the other two fires.

6. The Ādityas, the Rudras, the Vasus [have set] thee again; again, O Agni, the priest (brahmān), conductor of good; Brahmanaspati hath set thee again, in order to length of life-time to a hundred autumns.

With the first half-verse is to be compared that of VS. xii. 44 (also in TS. iv. 2. 35; MS. i. 7. 1), which inserts sām indhatām after *vāsava*s, and reads, for b, pīnar brahmāno (Ppp. also brahmāno) vasunītha (MS. vasudhīte) yajñātḥ [MS. agne]. [But see also WZKM. xi. 120.] The verse (10 + 10 : 10 + 11 = 41; but c has really 11 syll.) is artificially described by the Anukr. It is made in Vāit. 28. 22 to accompany the laying of fuel in the ukhya.

7. If the flesh-eating Agni hath entered our house, seeing this other Jātavedas, him I take afar for the Fathers' sacrifice; let him kindle the hot drink (gharmā) in the highest station.

The verse is also RV. x. 16. 10, where is read vas for nas in a, devām for dūrām in c, and invāt for indhām in d. It is used in Kāuç. 71. 6 with vs. 4 (see note to latter).

8. I send far forth the flesh-eating Agni; let him go, carrying evil (riprā), to Yama's subjects; here let this other Jātavedas carry the oblation, a god to the gods, foreknowing.

The verse is also RV. x. 16. 9 (and VS. xxxv. 19 [with yamarājyam]): our text defaces the meter of c, d by omitting evā after ihā and inserting devās. [Cf. MGS. ii. 1. 8 and p. 149.] This and the two following verses are used in Kāuç. 71. 12 to accompany the removed fire. [The same three vss. are quoted by the comm. to 81. 33.]

9. I, being sent, take the flesh-eating Agni, a death, making people fixed with the thunderbolt; I, knowing, separate (? ni-gās) him from the householder's fire; also in the world of the Fathers be he [their] portion.

Ppp. reads iṣitanī in a, and, in d, lokanī paramo yotu. The sense of b is so strange that we cannot but suspect a corrupt text. [Roth would read trihantam, ZDMG. xlviii. 107.] In d, nearly all the samhitā-mss. (all save Bs.E.) read loké 'pi, which is therefore probably the true text. The description by the Anukr. of this fairly regular triṣṭubh is very strange.

10. The flesh-eating Agni, active, praiseworthy, I send forth by the roads that the Fathers go; come thou not back by those that the gods go; be thou just there (ātra); watch thou over the Fathers.

Ppp. reads, in c-d, mā devayānāḥ pathibhir ā gā 'trāi 'va, which does not help the defective meter; of this the Anukr. takes no notice.

11. They kindle the devouring one (samkasuka) in order to well-being, becoming cleansed, bright, purifying; he abandons evil (riprā), passes over sin; Agni, kindled, purifies with a good purifier.

Ppp. combines ene 'ti in c. The Anukr. does not heed that the first pāda is properly jagati. The verse is quoted in Kāuç. 71. 5 (see note to vs. 1). [Caland, WZKM. viii. 368, thinks that this verse (not xviii. 4. 41) is intended at Kāuç. 86. 18.] [Over "devouring," as rendering of samkasuka (which occurs in vss. 11-14, 19, 40), W. has interlined 'crushing' in three instances.]

12. God Agni the devouring hath ascended the backs of the sky; being released out of sin, he hath released us from imprecation.

Some of our mss. (P.M.W.E.) read nir énaso in c. Ppp. reads, here and below, samkusika.

13. On this devouring Agni do we wipe off evils; we have become fit for sacrifice, cleansed; may he prolong our life-times.

The verse is found also in Āp. ix. 3. 22 (following a verse resembling our vs. 14), which reads samkusuke 'gnāu in a-b. Our mss., as often in such cases, vary between tārīṣat and tārṣat at the end (Bs.E.D.R.K. have tārṣat). The verse is quoted (with vss. 19, 40) in Kāuṣ. 71. 16 and 86. 19, to accompany the act of washing off (ity abhy-avanejayati).

14. The crushing [sāmkasuka], the bursting (vikasuka), the destroying (nirṛthā) and the noiseless (? nisvarā) — they, of like possessions (? sāvedas), have made from far thy yākṣma to disappear afar.

The translation implies emendation at the end to anīnaṣan, which seems altogether necessary. Yet MS. (iv. 14. 17) and TA. (ii. 45) strangely have instead of it actatam (not -tan). [But see Kaṭha-kss., p. 72, where the Berlin ms. is reported as reading cicatan. The TA. comm. renders actatam by cātayantu.] In b, TA. reads nisvanāḥ, and MS. utrīto and nīsvanaḥ; in c, MS. has 'smād' (not 'smād!') for te, and TA. tē ye 'smād' (but the ye perhaps a blunder of the edition *); both ānāgasas instead of sāvedasas (which looks like a mere blunder, intended to have the sense of samvidānās). Then TA. has sāmkus-, vikus-, in a, and with it agrees Āp. (ix. 3. 22, a and b only, with vikiro yaṣ ca viṣkīraḥ for b). Moreover, both MS. and TA. accent yākṣmam. * Some of our mss. (Bp.I.K.) read nirṛathās in b, but this is only an example of the frequent confusion of r and ra. Ppp. has [vikasukas in a, like our text], sāvedhasas in c, and ucidyavo (for anīnaṣam) at the end. * [The Poona ed., p. 126, gives tē 'smād, but notes one ms. as having te ye 'smād; and it accents yākṣmam.]

15. The flesh-eating one that is in our horses, heroes, that is in our kine, goats-and-sheep, do we thrust out — the fire that obstructs the people.

Ppp. combines in a no 'cva-, and reads for b yo goṣu yo 'jāviṣu; [and puts the verse after 16]. This verse and the one following are quoted with others (see note to vs. 1) in Kāuṣ. 71. 8.

16. Thee from inexhaustible (? anya) men, kine, horses, thee the flesh-eating one do we thrust out — the fire that obstructs life.

Ludwig gets rid of the difficulty of anya by taking it as anyā and the nouns in a, b as datives. Ppp. reads ajñānā for anyebhyas tvā; in c it puts nīs after kravyādām. Some of our mss. (Bs.I.) combine nīs kr- (nīḥ and kr- should be separated in our edition). The Anukr. very unnecessarily scans the verse as 8+6:8+9, while it is easily read into a regular anuṣṭubh.

17. On what the gods wiped off, on what human beings (manuṣyā) also — on that having wiped off the drops of ghee (?), O Agni, do thou mount the sky.

All our mss. have amṛjata unaccented save one (E.), which has āsrjata. [All of SPP's have amṛjata save his J., which has, s.m., āmṛjata.] Ghr̥tastāvas in c is translated after the Pet. Lexx., but the rendering is in the highest degree doubtful, on account both of form and of sense. Probably the reading is corrupt. Ppp. gives no help, as most of vss. 17, 18 is lost out of the ms.; [but their order appears to be inverted]. Our mss. seem to read -stā- very plainly [and SPP. reports no variant], but that need not prevent our understanding instead -snā-, if more acceptable.

18. Being kindled, O Agni, thou to whom oblations are made, go (kram) thou not away against us; shine just here by day, and that [we] long see the sun.

Or dyavi, in c, 'in the sky' (so Ludwig). The last pāda is also i. 6. 3 d. [Cf. also note to vi. 19. 2.] There is no good reason for calling the verse niṣṭ.

19. Wipe ye off on the lead; wipe ye off on the reeds; and what on the consuming fire; likewise on the dark (rāmad) ewe; headache on the pillow.

The rendering is very literal, and does not disguise the obscurity of the connection. Ppp. reads for b agnis saṁkusikaḥ ca yaḥ, which is more manageable: 'and on [that] which [is] the consuming fire': i.e. 'on the fire.' [Caland, KZ. xxxiv. 457, comparing Avestan locutions, says that agnāu saṁkasuke ca yat is locative to agniḥ saṁkasukaḥ ca yaḥ: cf. vs. 40 and i. 30. 1.] The verse is quoted in Kāuc. 71. 16; 86. 19, with vss. 13 and 40: see above, under vs. 13. The mss. in general, according to their wont, read in a mṛḍhvam (but Bs. mṛḍhḍham). [For ṣṛṣakti, see ref's under i. 12. 3.]

20. Having settled what is foul upon the lead [and] headache upon the pillow, having wiped off on the black ewe, be ye cleansed, fit for sacrifice.

Compare xiv. 2. 67. [Cf. MGS. ii. 1. 10.]

21. Go away, O death, along a distant road which is thine here, other than that the gods go upon; I speak to thee having sight, hearing; let these many heroes be here.

The verse (except d) is RV. x. 18. 1, and found also in VS. (xxxv. 7), TB. (iii. 7. 14⁵), and TA. (iii. 15. 2: vi. 7. 3). RV. has svās for our eśās in b, and, for d, mā naḥ prajāñi rīṣo mó 'tā vīrān, and the other texts agree with it, save that VS. has anyās for svās in b. Ppp. omits iha in d. [Cf. MB. i. 1. 15; also MGS. ii. 18. 2 m.] The verse is used several times in Kāuc.: at 71. 11, 21; 72. 13; 86. 24.

22. These living ones have turned away from the dead; our invocation of the gods hath been auspicious (bhadrā) today; we have gone forward unto dancing, unto laughter; may we, rich in heroes, address counsel.

The verse (again with exception of d) is RV. x. 18. 3, and found also in TA. (vi. 10. 2). The last pāda in the other texts is drāghīya āyñḥ pratarāñi (TA. -rām) dādhanāḥ; our d is identical with RV. i. 117. 25 d. TA.* has ā 'vavartin in a, and agāmā in c. [With b cf. RV. x. 53. 3 d.] The verse is used (with vs. 29) in Kāuc. 71. 18 and 86. 21. [At vs. 30, W. wrote "speak to the counsel," and then interlined suggestion of "council."]* [TA. has also prāñjo for prāñco.]

23. I set this enclosure for the living; let not another of them now go to that goal; living a hundred numerous autumns, let them set an obstacle to death with a mountain.

The verse is RV. x. 18. 4, and found also in VS. (xxxv. 15), TB. (iii. 7. 113), TA. (vi. 10. 2), and Āp. (ix. 12. 4; xiv. 22. 3). RV. differs from our text only by reading jīvantu in c, and antār (for tīrās) in d. VS. agrees throughout with RV.; TB. differs only by having (like AV.) tīrās in d (eśān nu in b is doubtless a misprint, as mātyām in d is a misprint for mṛtyām: see the comm. [the Poona ed., p. 1137, corrects them both]), and ardham in b. TA. reads mā nō 'nu gād and ardham in b, and tīrās and dadmahe in d. Āp. agrees exactly with TB. the first time; but the second time it has no nu (or 'nu') in b, and dadmahe in d. [Cf. MP. ii. 22. 24.] Ppp. gives, in c, iyok for çatam, and combines çaradaş pu-. In Kāu. 72. 17 the verse accompanies the setting down (of a stone) in the door; in 72. 2 the last pāda is recited while stepping over the stone.

24. Mount, choosing old age for life-time, pressing on, one after another, as many as ye be; you here let Tvashtar, him of good births, in accord [with you], lead on to living your whole life-time.

The verse is (once more with exception of the last pāda) RV. x. 18. 6, and found also in TA. (vi. 10. 1). RV. reads ṣṭhā after yāti in b, and iḥā for tān vas in c, and its d is dirghām āyuḥ karati jivāse vaḥ. TA. differs from RV. by having gṛhānās in a, surātnas (for sajōśās) in c, and karatu in d. Ppp. puts the verse after our 25, and combines in a-b vṛhānā 'nu. The verse is used in Kāu. 72. 13 with vss. 21, 32, 44, 55, and others from elsewhere.

25. As days take place (bhū) one after another, as seasons go along with seasons, as an after one does not desert (hā) a preceding — so, O creator (dhātṛ), arrange their life-times.

This verse is RV. x. 18. 5, found also in TA. (vi. 10. 1). For sādhm, at end of b, RV. reads sādhū, and TA. kṛptāh.

26. The stony one flows (rī); take ye hold together; play the hero, pass over, O friends; quit here them that are of evil courses; may we pass up unto powers (? vāja) that are free from disease.

The verse is RV. x. 53. 8, and found also in VS. (xxxv. 10) and TA. (vi. 3. 2). RV. has ūt tiṣṭhata for vīrāyadhvam in b, jahāma and (for durēvās) āgevās in c, and çivān vayām (for anantvān) in d. [VS. agrees with RV. save that it accents sākhāyaḥ in b and reads, for c, ātra jahīmō 'çivā yē āsan.] TA. agrees in general with RV., but has revatīs [unaccented] for rīyate in a, and in d puts ūt tarema after abhī vājān. Vss. 26 and 27 are quoted in Kāu. 71. 24 and 86. 27 to accompany the symbolical act of crossing over northward; and in Vāit. 12. 11 to accompany (at any time) the crossing of streams.

27. Stand up, pass over, O friends; the stony river here runs (syand); quit ye here them that are unpropitious; may we pass up unto propitious pleasant powers.

This variation of vs. 26 gives part of the RV. variants to that vs. [For a discussion of the RV. verse, see notes to my Skt. Reader, p. 388.] Ppp. makes b identical with 26 a. The use by Kāu. was stated in the preceding note.

28. Take ye hold on that of all the gods in order to splendor, becoming cleansed, clear, purifying; stepping over difficult tracks, may we revel a hundred winters with all our heroes.

The first half-verse is identical with vi. 62. 3 a, b, save that the latter begins with vāçivānarīm. We have doubtless to supply nāvam 'boat.' But Ppp. has sūnṛtām for varcave in a; and the comm. to Nirukta vi. 12 quotes the pratīka in this form, explaining sūnṛtām by vācam (Roth). According to Kāu. 72. 6, it is a young heifer (vatsatari) that is caused to be laid hold on.

29. By upward roads, full of wind, by distant (pāra) ones, stepping over those that are lower (dvara), thrice seven times did the departed (pāreta) seers bear back death with the track-obstructor.

Ppp. reads for b apakrāmanto duritaṁ parehi. In Kāuṣ. 71. 18 and 86. 21, this verse is quoted with vs. 22 'for the purpose expressed in the texts' (mantrōktam); and in 71. 19 and in 86. 22 the second half-verse is quoted to accompany 'the effacement (luṣ) of the tracks to the streams.' [W's "(luṣ)" was intended to express his doubt as to the warrantableness of Bloomfield's change of luṣ to yup. Caland expresses the same doubt, WZKM. viii. 369: cf. his Todtengebräuche, p. 120.]

30. Come ye, obstructing the track of death, assuming further on a longer life-time; sitting in your station, thrust ye [away] death; then may we, living, speak to the council.

The first half-verse is RV. x. 18. 2 a, b, and is found also in TA. (vi. 10. 2); for our ē'ta, RV. reads yadd ātita, TA. yadd ātita (ātita unaccented, unless there is a misprint [Poona ed. rightly ātita, p. 444]); and TA. has pratarāṁ in b. [Cf. MGS. ii. 1. 13 and p. 153.] The verse is quoted in Kāuṣ. 71. 20 and 86. 23 in connection with doing something to (symbolical) boats; and the second half-verse in Kāuṣ. 72. 10. Ppp. reads pratiram in b, and jīvās in d, thus in the latter pāda rectifying the meter. The Anukr. takes no notice of the irregularities in a and d, perhaps because they balance each other. [As to vidātham, cf. note to vs. 22, and Bloomfield in JAOS. xix.² 14.]

31. Let these women, not widows, well-spoused, touch themselves with ointment, with butter; tearless, without disease, with good treasures (-rātina), let the wives ascend first to the place of union (yōni).

This verse is repeated below, as xviii. 3. 57. It is RV. x. 18. 7, and found also in TA. (vi. 10. 2). RV. has viṣantu, and TA. myṣantām, for our spr̥cantām in b, and TA. suṣṇvās for *surātina*s in c; RV. also combines anaḥgrāvo 'nam- in c. Ppp. reads sam̐ viṣanta in b; and it adds another corresponding verse for the men: ime vīrar avidhāvās sujānayaṁ narāṁ ṛjanena sarpiṣā etc. (d) syonād yoner adhi talpaṁ vr̥heyuḥ [intending ruheyuḥ]. With our verse, in Kāuṣ. 72. 11, grass shoots dipped in butter are handed to the women; and 72. 12 appears to quote the Ppp. verse (the pratika is given as ime jīvā avidhāvāḥ sujāmayāḥ) to accompany a similar act to the men.

32. I separate (vy-ā-kṛ) these two by oblation; I shape them apart with a spell (brāhmaṇ); I make for the Fathers unwasting svadhā; I unite these with a long life-time.

Ppp. reads for c suṣṇvāṁ pītṛbhyo amṛtaṁ duhānā. From Vāit. 6. 2 the separation would appear to be that of the other two fires when taken from the householder's fire; but Kāuṣ. 70. 10 has it repeated while one looks upon the householder's and the flesh-eating fires; the latter is most likely to be its true application. It is also quoted in Kāuṣ. 72. 13 with several other verses, from this hymn and elsewhere, as noted under vs. 24.

33. What Agni, O Fathers, hath entered into our hearts, an immortal into mortals, that god do I enclose in me; let him not hate us, nor let us [hate] him.

Ppp. reads in b amartyas for amṛtas, and, in c, mahyaṁ taṁ prati grh-. The verse is found also in TS. (v. 7. 9¹) and MS. (i. 6. 1); both read, for b, amartyo mṛtyāṁ avivēga; for c, d, TS. has tām ātmān pāri grhṇīmahe vayām mā sō asmān avahāya pārā gāt, and MS. tām ātmāni pāri grhṇīmasī 'hā nēd eṣō asmān avahāya parāyat. The verse is quoted in Kāuṣ. 70. 15 for recitation while the hearts are touched.

34. Having turned away from the householder's fire, go ye forth to the right with the flesh-eating one; do ye what is dear to the Fathers, to self, what is dear to the priests (brahmān).

Ppp. reads, for a, b, apāvartyā 'gnīm gārhaṇīyaṁ kravyādā 'py etu dakṣiṇā; and, in d, kṛnuta (not -tā). Kāuṣ. 71. 4 quotes the verse, to accompany a corresponding action. [Caland, Todtengebräuche, Note 417, would read kravyādāḥ, as voc.]

35. The flesh-eating Agni that is unremoved (ā-nir-ā-hīta), taking to himself the double-portioned riches of the oldest son, destroys [him] with ruin.

Ppp. begins with vibhā-; it omits our vs. 36.

36. What one plows, what one wins (van), and what one gains (vid) by pay (vasnā)—all that is not a mortal's, if the flesh-eating one be unremoved.

As usual in such cases, in most of the mss. it is wholly doubtful whether vastena or -sna- or -sra- is intended in b; the true reading is vasnāna. The verse, as noted above, is wanting in Ppp. Bp. reads astī at end of c.

37. He becomes unfit for sacrifice, of smitten splendor; not by him is the oblation to be eaten; [him] the flesh-eating one cuts off from plowing, kine, riches, whom it pursues.

Ppp. reads, in a, ye agnayo for ayajñiyō; and, in c, kṛṣṭīm gām dhanam. Bp. has in b nā : ēnena. The bhāvati which spoils the meter of a is doubtless an intrusion [although Ppp. also has it].

38. A mortal, going down to mishap, speaks forth repeatedly with greedy ones (? gṛdhyā); whom (pl.) the flesh-eating Agni, from near by, after-knowing, follows (? vi-tāu).

The translation is purely mechanical, the sense being wholly obscure. Nothing corresponding to vitāuati is found anywhere else; the Pet. Lex. suggests emendation to vidhāuati; Ludwig, alternatively, to vitāmyati or vitāmati. Yet c, d are repeated below as 52 c, d (that verse is wanting in Ppp., which, however, has these two pādas in vs. 50). The much corrupted version of Ppp. gives no help as to the verse in general: bahu kṛudhī pra vādanti anti tarmato 'nveti ca : kravyādām agnir [intending kravyād yam ag-?] anuvīdūn vibhāuati (vitāuati?).

39. The houses are united with seizure (grāhi) when a woman's husband dies; a knowing priest (brahmān) is to be sought, who shall remove the flesh-eating one.

Ppp. reads in b yat strīyām mriyate. 'United' (in a), i.e. 'caused to be affected.'

40. What evil (ripṛā), pollution we have committed, and what ill-doing, from that let the waters cleanse me, and from the crushing Agni what.

The last clause seems a false construction, the true one being something like the version of Ppp.: agnis sanikusaḥ ca yaḥ; but Ludwig fills it out to "and [from that] which [arises] from Agni Samikasuka." [As to the construction, see Caland as cited under vs. 19.] [As to sanikasuka, cf. note to vs. 11.] Ppp. further reads duritam (for ṣamalam) in a; and it has ḡundhantu in c [cf. note to vi. 115. 3 and the VS. variant there]. The Anukr. understands the verse as 6+8:8+8=30 syllables; but the pāda-mss., less acceptably, mark the pāda division as occurring after cakṛmā. The verse is quoted in Kāuṣ. 71. 16 and 86. 19 in company with others, as noted under vs. 13.

41. These fore-knowing ones (f.) have turned hither upward from below by roads that the gods go upon; upon the back of the virile (vr̥ṣabhd) mountain the ancient streams (sarīt) go about new.

'Waters' (āpas) is doubtless to be supplied with the adjectives in a, b. Ppp. combines tā 'dharād at the beginning, and reads ṛṣabhasya in c. It is doubtless by a blunder (catasras for tisras) that the Anukr. appears to reckon this regular triṣṭubh to the anuṣṭubhs of the hymn. The verse is quoted in Kāuṣ. 72. 3.

42. O non-flesh-eating Agni, push out the flesh-eating one; bring the god-sacrificing one.

The Anukr. scans this verse as 5+6+8=19 syllables, acknowledging the unelided a of akṛavyāt, and separating nuda ā dev-. The prose yajus (as it really is) is quoted in Kāuṣ. 69. 8 as accompanying the bringing of a light from the frying-pan (bhraṣṭra), and in 71. 8 with other verses, as noted under vs. 1 above. [The first half-verse is defaced in Ppp.]

43. The flesh-eating one entered into this man; he has gone after the flesh-eating one; having made two tigers severally, I take him, who is other than propitious.

Ppp. reads pra viveṣa in a, and nānā 'ham in c. The verse is quoted, with others (see note to vs. 1), in Kāuṣ. 71. 8.

44. Concealment of the gods, defense (paridhī) of men (manuṣyā), the householder's fire is set (ṣṛitā) between both classes.

In accordance with the Anukr., the mss. interpose no stroke of interpunction in this verse, which plainly is not metrical, though the last 8 syllables read like an anuṣṭubh pāda. It is quoted, with others (see note to vs. 24), in Kāuṣ. 72. 13. Ppp. reads ubhayād in c. [The medial avasāna is lacking in SPP. and should be deleted from the Berlin ed.]

45. Lengthen thou out, O Agni, the life-time of the living; let them who are dead go unto the world of the Fathers; do thou, a good householder's fire, burning away the niggard, assign to this man an ever better dawn.

Ppp. reads, for a, jīvānām agneṣ prātor dīrgham āyus, and, in c, ā arātīr uṣām-uṣām ṣṛayam ṣṛayasi dadhat. Kāuṣ. and Vāit. quote as pratīka only the beginning of c; this looks rather as if they made one verse of our 45 c, d and 46. In Kāuṣ. (71.2) it accompanies setting down fuel on the householder's fire; in Vāit. (4.8) it is used with one of the offerings of the sacrificer's wife. It (11 + 13 : 11 + 11 = 46) is very ill defined as simply a jagatī.

46. Overcoming, O Agni, all [our] rivals, do thou assign to us their refreshment [and] wealth.

The Anukr. agrees with the mss. in reckoning these two trīṣṭubh pādas as a whole verse.

47. Take ye hold after this saving (pāpri) carrier (vāhni) Indra; he shall carry you out of difficulty [and] reproach; by him smite away the on-flying shaft; by him ward off (pari-pā) Rudra's hurled [missile].

Ppp. reads, for b, sa yo vidvān vijahāti mṛtyum; [and its d is like ours]. The verse (13 + 11 : 11 + 11 = 46) is unintelligibly ill described by the Anukr. One of the four dissyllabic words in a is apparently an intrusion — perhaps most probably indram, since one does not see why Indra should make his appearance in this Agni hymn (but see vs. 54), and the epithet vahni belongs especially to Agni. In Kāuṣ. 72.7 the verse is used (next after vs. 28) to accompany laying hold on a bull [cf. introd. to iv. 22].

48. Lay ye hold after the draft-ox [as] float (plavā); he shall carry you out of difficulty [and] reproach; mount this boat of Savitar; may we cross over misery by the six wide [directions].

This and the remaining verses of the hymn are given by Ppp. in the order 49–51, 54, 53, 55, 48 (52 being wanting). [Cf. MGS. ii. 1. 14 and p. 346.] In Kāuṣ. 72.8, this verse and the next are used (next after vss. 28, 47) in laying hold on a couch (talpa); the third pāda in 71.23 and 86.26, in causing some one to embark on a (symbolical) boat containing gold and barley. There is no good reason for calling the verse bhurij.

49. Day-and-night thou goest after, bearing, standing comfortable (kṣemyā), prolonging [life], having good heroes; bearing, O couch, healthful (anātura), well-minded ones (m.), do thou long be for us smelling of men (pūruṣagandhī).

The description of the Anukr. seems to require us to resolve -ra-ā-tre in a. The use by Kāuṣ. was noticed under the preceding verse.

50. They fall under the wrath of the gods, they live always evilly, after whom the flesh-eating fire, from near by, like a horse, scatters reeds.

Ppp. reads in a deveṣu, and this is the usual and regular construction with ā-vraṣc. Further, for d it has our 38 d and 52 d. The Anukr. gives iva two syllables in d. Our Bp. reads antikān (instead of -kāt) here and in 38 c and 52 c. [One could easily scan d as an anuṣṭubh pāda, āvevānvāpate naḍām (Gram. § 233 a), if it were worth scanning.]

51. Whoever, without faith, from desire of riches then sit together with the flesh-eating one, they verily feed the fire (ā-dhā) about the pot (kumbhī) of others [always].

That is, doubtless, never have a fire of their own. The pāda-text in a-b is dhanaś-kāmyā : āt : kravya-addā; Ppp. has a different reading, -kāmyāś krav-, thus getting rid of the difficult āt. [The mark of pāda division is after āt; it should be before it.] The Anukr. seems to authorize the resolution śa-ām in c.

52. He desires, as it were, to fly forth with his mind; repeatedly he returns again—they whom the flesh-eating Agni, from near by, after-knowing follows.

We had the obscure second half-verse above as 38 c, d. The verse is wanting in Ppp., as already noted. The substitution of patati for pīpatiṣati would rectify the meter of a. [Pāda b seems clearly to refer to rebirth: cf. Praçna Upanishad, i. 9.]

53. A black ewe [is] of cattle [thy] portion; lead, too, they call thy gold (? candṛā), O flesh-eating one; ground beans [are] thy portion [as] oblation; seek (śac) thou the thicket of the forest-spirit (aranyānt).

Ppp. reads (better) uta for api in b. The verse is quoted in Kāuṣ. 71. 6 (with vss. 4 and 7: see note to vs. 4), and again in 71. 14, in connection with setting down the light (dīpa).

54. Having made offering of withered (? jārat) cane (iṣṭkā), of tilpīñja, of dāṇḍana, of reeds; having made fuel of this, Indra removed Yama's fire.

Various kinds of reed or cane are doubtless named in a, b. Jarant is lit. 'aged.' Ppp. reads in c tān indre 'dhmañ. The Anukr. does not note c as defective; we may resolve either indr-a or kṛtu-ā. The verse is quoted (with vss. 1, 11, 55: see note to vs. 1) in Kāuṣ. 71. 5, to accompany the feeding of the flesh-eating fire.

55. Having sent in opposition an opposing (pratyāñc) song (arkā), I, foreknowing, have entered abroad on the road; I have directed away the lifebreaths of them yonder; these here I unite with long life-time.

The first half-verse is difficult and doubtful. The use made of the verse by Kāuṣ. gives no help; it is quoted in 71. 5 as noted above, under vs. 54; and in 72. 13 with several other verses, as noted under vs. 24. Ppp. reads ācakāra at end of b. [W. has overlooked the hi and the accent of the two perfects: perhaps, 'since I have entered [and] have directed . . . , [accordingly] I unite' etc. Henry, p. 238, inserts another hi after amīṣam.]

[Here ends the second anuvāka, with 1 hymn and 55 verses. The quoted Anukr. says "naḍas" tu pañconā.]

3. Cremation as a sacrifice.

[Yama.—śaṣṭiḥ. mantroktasvargāudanāgnidevatyaṃ. trāiṣṭubham : 1, 42, 43, 47. bhurij ; 8, 12, 21, 22, 24 jagati ; 13. ? ; 17. svarād āṛṣi pañkti ; 34. virāḍgarbhā ; 39. anuṣṭubgarbhā ; 44. parāḍṛghā ; 55-60. 3-av. 7-p. pañkumaty atijāgatacākvaratīcākvaradhārtiya-garbhā 'tīdhṛti (55, 57-60. kṛti ; 56. virāt kṛti).]

[Partly prose—namely parts of vss. 55-60.] Found also [except vs. 28] in Pāipp. xvii. (with slight differences of verse-order, noted under the verses). Nearly all the verses of the hymn are used, according to Kāuṣ. 60-63, and on the whole in their natural order, and combined especially with xi. 1 (often a verse from each hymn being quoted in the same rule), in the sava ceremony; very few verses anywhere else. Vāit. quotes only 4 verses.

Translated: Henry, 195, 238; Griffith, ii. 110; Bloomfield, 185, 645.

1. Stand, a man (pīnmāns), upon men; go to the hide; call thither her who is dear to thee; of what age (? yēvant) ye two first came together in the beginning, let that be your same age in Yama's realm.

Ppp. combines puṇso adhi and omits ihi in a. Kāuṣ. 60. 31 has the verse used when the sacrificer is made to stand upon the ox-hide which is to be his station during the ceremony. The various antecedents have been prepared to the accompaniment of the first verses of xi. 1.

2. So much [be] your sight, so many your powers (vīryā), so great your brilliancy (tējas), so many-fold your energies (vājina); Agni fastens on (sac) the body when [it is his] fuel (?); then, O paired ones (mithund), shall ye come into being from what is cooked (pakvā).

The pāda-text has yadā : ēdhaḥ in c, as translated. Ppp. reads before it agnim caritraṁ sajate, and after it atha; and in a, b it makes cakṣus and tējas change places. [In OB. v. 258, pakvā is defined as 'the charred remains and ashes of a corpse.' Pāda d recurs in vs. 9.] [W. makes a query on the margin: "the husband and wife burnt together?? and born anew and alike out of the cremation?"]

3. Together in this world, together on the [road] the gods travel, together also unite ye (du.) in the realms of Yama; purified by purifiers, call ye to yourselves whatever seed (rétas) came into being from you.

All the mss. agree in the unaccented asmin in a. The verse appears to be quoted (as 'third verse') in Kāuṣ. 60. 33, to accompany a calling upon their offspring (apatya).

4. Enter together, ye sons; into the waters, coming together, ye rich in life, unto this living one (m.); of them (f.) share ye the one which (m.) they call immortal, the rice-dish which your (du.) generatrix cooks.

The meaning and connection are very obscure. 'Of them' seems to refer to the waters (f.). Ppp. removes one difficulty by reading vas instead of vām in d; it has in b [dhanyāt] saṁetā [cf. vs. 25]. In Kāuṣ. 60. 35 the verse is used when the pair lie down together, accompanied by their offspring, after a vessel of water has been set on the hide.

5. What one* your (du.) father cooks, and what one [your] mother, in order to release from evil (ripṛā) and from pollution of speech—that hundred-streamed, heaven-going rice-dish hath permeated (vi-āp) with greatness both firmaments (nābhas).

Ppp. reads at the beginning yam vaṣ pītā.

6. Both firmaments, and worlds of both kinds, what heaven-going ones are conquered of the sacrificers—which one of them is chiefly (? āgre) full of light, full of honey, in that combine ye (du.) with your sons in old age.

Ppp. combines in c yo 'gre, and part of our mss. (P.M.W.T.) read the same.

7. Take ye (du.) hold upon each forward direction ; to this world they that have faith attach themselves (sac) ; what of you that is cooked is served up in the fire, combine ye, O husband-and-wife, in order to its guarding.

The verse is nearly accordant with vi. 122. 3. 'Forward' (prāñc) is also 'eastern.' [Note here again the sequence of the cardinal points (pradakṣiṇa), and cf. end of introd. to iii. 26.] The Anukr. passes the irregularity of the second half-verse (11 + 11 : 10 + 12 = 44) without notice. Kāuṣ. 61. 1 quotes this verse alone ; and 61. 2 quotes 7-10 as used while they follow around the vessel of water. Ppp. reads, for c, d, as follows: mimāthāṁ pātr tad vām pāṇam astu śivām pakvaṣ pītryāyaṇe 'ty ('bhy?) āmayat.

8. Attaining unto the southern quarter, turn ye (du.) about unto this vessel ; in it shall Yama, in concord with the Fathers, assure abundant protection unto your cooked [offering].

'In it': i.e., as the gender shows, in the vessel. Some of our mss. make very bad work with vām in c, reading vāyām (P.M.W.), vayām (B.s.m.), varām (R.), vām yam (T.). It is absurd of the Anukr. to reckon the verse (11 + 11 : 12 + 11 = 45) a jagati.

9. This western of the quarters verily is a thing to be preferred, in which Soma is over-ruler and favorer ; to it resort (grī) ye (du.) ; attach yourselves to the well-doers ; then, O paired ones, shall ye come into being from what is cooked.

The last pāda is identical with 2 d above. But Ppp. reads instead adhā pakvena saha saṁ bhavema, which is nearly identical with vi. 119. 2 d and the concluding pāda of 55-60 below. The Anukr. takes no notice of the deficiency of the first pāda.

10. A superior realm, having superiority by progeny, may the northern of the quarters make our (pl.) apex (? āgra) ; a five-fold (pāñta) meter hath the man become ; may we come into being together with all, having all their limbs.

Ppp. reads pañktiṣ chandaṣ at the beginning of c. We have to resolve pa-āñ- in order to make a full pāda.

11. This fixed [quarter] is virāj ; homage be to it ; let it be propitious to [my] sons and to me ; do thou, O goddess Aditi, having all choice things, like an active herdsman defend our cooked [offering].

The verse is quoted in Kāuṣ. 61. 3, next after the four preceding ones.

12. Do thou embrace us, as a father his sons ; let propitious winds blow here for us on the earth ; what rice-dish the two deities cook here, let that know our penance and also truth.

Ppp. reads ṣagdā for bhāmāu in b, and vittam for vettu at the end. 'That' (tāt) in d is neuter, and so not correlative to 'what' (yām m.) in c. P.M.W. read svaṣa naḥ at end of a. The verse lacks two syllables of being a good jagati. [The verse is quoted at Kāuṣ. 61. 4.]

13. Whenever the black bird, coming hither, hath sat upon the orifice, surprising (tsar) what is resolved (vi-sañj), or when the barbarian woman (dāst) with wet hands smears over — cleanse, ye waters, the mortar [and] pestle.

Ppp. combines in a ṣakune 'ha, and reads in c dāst vā yad, and in ḍ [cf. vss. 21 and 26 and note to vi. 115. 3] ṣundhatā "paḥ. Kāuṣ. quotes the verse in 8. 14, and the comm. also under 2. 6, but they cast no light on the obscure first half-verse. The verse is a good triṣṭubh, yet the Anukr. attempts to give it some special description, of which the text is corrupt and unintelligible (yad-yat kṛṣṇa ity āthā).

14. Let this, pressing-stone, broad-based, vigor-bestowing, purified by purifiers, smite away the demon; mount thou the hide; yield great protection; let not the husband-and-wife fall into evil proceeding from sons (pāutra).

Ppp. has at the end gāthām, with which, of course, dampati would have to be understood as vocative, unaccented. Expressions like that in ḍ are found in several of the Sūtras: in AGS. i. 13. 7, mā 'ham pāutram agham ni yām (should be gām, probably); in PGS. i. 5. 11, yathe 'yahi strī pāutram agham na rodāt; and the same in HGS. i. 19. 7, with pāutram ānandam as antithesis to it. The verse is quoted in Kāuṣ. 61. 18 (in connection with xi. 1. 9), to accompany the setting of mortar, pestle, and winnowing basket, after sprinkling, upon the hide.

15. The forest tree hath come to us together with the gods, forcing off the demon, the piṣācds; he shall rise up (ut-ṣri), shall speak forth his voice; with him may we conquer all worlds.

Ppp. reads and combines sau 'cchrāyātāi in c, and reads api for abhi in ḍ. According to Kāuṣ. 61. 21, one sets up the pestle with this verse; in 125. 3 the verse is used with reference to the sacrificial post [in case it puts forth fresh shoots]; and similarly in Vāit. 10. 8 [in the paṣubandha].

16. Seven sacrifices (mēdha) the cattle enclosed — which [the relative pronoun] of them was full of light, and which was pining; to them thirty deities attach themselves; do thou (m.) conduct us (pl.) unto the heavenly (svargā) world.

Our Bp. reads tām in c, and a few of the saṁhitā-mss. (P.M.W.E.) agree with it; tām is certainly wrong, but tām would be an acceptable improvement. Ppp. has medhasvān instead of jyotiṣmān (and the latter must be taken as having the sense of the former); also cakarṣa in b, and neṣi in ḍ. [For neṣa, see Gram. § 896.] The verse is quoted in Kāuṣ. 61. 13, to accompany the handling or stroking of something by the two spouses [with their offspring]. Pāda b has a redundant syllable, unnoticed by the Anukr., unless we contract to yāi 'ṣām.

17. Unto the heavenly world shalt thou conduct us (pl.); may we be united with wife, with sons; I grasp [her (?)] hand; let her (?) come here after me; let not destruction pass us, nor the niggard.

The last pāda is nearly the same with vi. 124. 3 ḍ; cf. also ii. 7. 4 c, d. Ppp. ends d with no 'rātiḥ. The verse is a good triṣṭubh, and its description by the Anukr. is absurd. Kāuṣ. 61. 14 uses the latter half-verse, not in a way to cast light on its meaning.

18. The seizure (grāhi), evil (pāpmān)—may we go beyond them (pl.) ; dissipate thou the darkness ; mayest thou speak forth what is agreeable ; made of forest tree, uplifted, do not injure ; do not crush to pieces [vi-ṣṛ] the god-loving rice-grain.

Jihīnstr in c is a misprint for jihīnstr, which all the [i.e. W's] mss. read. [So read 9 of SPP's authorities : and 4 have jāhīnstr ; but SPP. prints jihīnstr, accentless, with 3 of his mss. Perhaps the accent is to be regarded as antithetical.] A part of our mss. (O.T.K.D.R.p.m.) read ṣarīs in d ; Ppp. has ṣarāis [see the references under vi. 32. 2]. The verse (with xi. 1. 9 b) accompanies in Kāuṣ. 61. 22 the pounding with the pestle.

19. About to become all-expanded, ghee-backed, go thou, of like origin (sāyoni), unto that world ; hand thou (upa-yam) the rain-increased sieve ; let that winnow away the husk, the chaff.

The first half-verse is identical with 53 c, d below. Some mss. (I.O.D.K. : also half of the Kāuṣ. mss.) read palāṭvām in d. Ppp. has vidvān instead of etam in b. With c, according to Kāuṣ. 61. 23, the ṣūrpa is grasped ; with a (or the whole verse ?), according to 24, it is raised ; with d, according to 25, the sifting is done. The third pāda lacks a syllable, unless we may resolve ṣu-ūrpaṃ. [For "sieve," here and in vs. 20, read rather "winnowing-basket" ?]

20. The three worlds are commensurate with the brāhmaṇa : yon heaven, namely, earth, atmosphere ; having seized the [soma]-stalks, take ye (du.) hold after ; let them swell up (ā-pyā) ; let them come again to the sieve.

All our mss. (except D.) read asāu, unaccented, in b ; emendation to asāu was plainly necessary. All the samhitā-mss. (except E.) separate in c gr̥bhītvā anv-, which, accordingly, might perhaps as well have been left, though the Prāt. does not recognize the case of irregular hiatus. Ppp. seems to combine the two words in the usual fashion ; but it has -rabhetām ; also, in b, pr̥thivyām ant-. The verse is quoted in Kāuṣ. 61. 27 in connection with touching the winnowed grains (?) ; and, in 28, the last words of d (punar etc.), with scattering them, apparently, again on the sieve.

21. Manifoldly separate [are] the forms of cattle ; thou becomest one-formed together with success ; that red skin—that thrust thou [away] ; the pressing-stone shall cleanse like a fuller (? malagā) the garments.

Or b may be 'thou comest into being one-formed with success.' Malagā occurs nowhere else ; its use with iva makes it impossible to tell whether the pāda-text would divide malagaṣ. Ppp. reads bhavati in b and malagāi 'va in d. [Again, as in vss. 13 and 26, it reads ṣundhāti for ṣumbhāti : cf. note to vi. 115. 3.] The quotation in Kāuṣ. 61. 26 casts no light on the meaning. Our text ought to read samr̥ddhyā at end of b. The verse is very ill named jagati by the Anukr. ; the treatment of iva in d as only one syllable makes a regular trīṣubh of it.

22. Thee that art earth I make enter into earth ; this like body of thee [is] separated ; whatever of thee is burnt (? dyuttā), [or] scratched by driving (ārpaṇa) ; with that do not leak ; I cover that over by a spell (brāhmaṇa).

Ppp. reads, for a, bhūmyāṁ bhūmim adhi dhārayāmi; in c, arṇaṁ ca; in d, cuṣṭor apa tad, thus restoring the meter. The verse (12+11:11+13=47) is very ill defined simply as a jagati. In Kāuṣ. 61. 30, the verse accompanies the smearing of a vessel (kumbh); in Vāit. 28. 12, the fashioning of a kettle.

23. Mayest thou welcome as a mother a son; I unite (sam-dhā) thee that art earth with the earth; a kettle, a vessel, do not stagger upon the sacrificial hearth, overhung by the implements of offering [and] by sacrificial butter.

The first pāda is apparently addressed to the earth, differently from the others. Ppp. puts the verse before our vs. 22, and reads in c kumbhīr vedyāṁ saṁ carantāṁ. One or two of our mss. (Bs.O.) read uṣṭ in c.

24. Let Agni, cooking, defend thee on the east; let Indra, with the Maruts, defend on the south; may Varuṇa fix thee in the maintenance (dhārīṇa) of the western [quarter]; on the north may Soma give thee together.

Ppp. corrects the meter of b by reading rakṣāt; and that of d by having varuṇas instead of somas. The verse is irregular, but by no means a jagati. [If we make varuṇas and somas exchange places, as suggested by Ppp., and read rakṣāt with Ppp., the vs. becomes a good triṣṭubh.] In Kāuṣ. 61. 32 it is used when arranging the fire about the kettle.

25. Purified with purifiers, they purify themselves from the cloud; they go both to heaven and to earth [as their] worlds; them, lively, rich in life, firm-standing, poured into the vessel (pātra), let the fire kindle about.

Ppp. puts the verse after our vs. 26, and reads at end of b dharmayā (cf. RV. x. 16. 3 b), and in c, ḍjvadhūnyāt sametā [cf. vs. 4] pātrā "siktāt. The verse is defective by a syllable in a, but the Anukr. passes this without notice. Kāuṣ. 61. 34 quotes the verse to accompany putting into the strainer.

26. They come from the sky, they fasten on (sac) the earth; from the earth they fasten upon the atmosphere; being cleansed, they just cleanse themselves; let them conduct us to the heavenly world.

The accent of śambhante in c is unmotivated. Ppp. reads [cf. vss. 13 and 21 and note to vi. 115. 3] śundhanti, which (or śumbhanti) is decidedly preferable. That the reading in a is divāḥ p- is noted in the comm. to Prāt. ii. 68.

27. Both as it were prevailing (prabhū) and also commensurate, also bright and clean, immortal—as such do ye, O waters, directed, helping, cook the rich-dish for the two spouses, ye of good refuge.

The translation implies in d emendation of āpaḥśikṣantiḥ to āpaḥ śikṣ-, the former seeming wholly unacceptable. Ppp. combines and reads praśiṣṭā "pas sikṣ-. Our text reads with the mss.

28. The numbered drops (stokā) fasten on the earth, being commensurate with breaths-and-expirations, with herbs; being scattered on, unnumbered, of good color, the clean ones have obtained all cleanness.

This verse, as noted above, is wanting in Ppp. It is quoted in Kāuṣ. 61. 36 to accompany the scattering in of the rice-grains after washing.

29. They struggle up (ud-yudh), they dance on, being heated; they hurl foam and abundant drops (bindū); like a woman that is in her season, seeing her husband, unite yourselves, O waters, with these rice-grains.

The translation assumes the emendation, made in our edited text, of ṛtviyā yā, for the ṛtviyāya of all the mss. [See SPP's note on this matter, p. 231. He says ṛtviya = māthuna.] Ppp. reads ṛtviyāvūis tāis taṇḍ. In Kāuṣ. 61. 37 the verse accompanies the making of the water to boil.

30. Make thou them stand up, as they sit on the bottom; let them touch themselves all over with the waters; I have measured with vessels (pātra) the water that is here; measured are the rice-grains that are these directions.

The last pāda is translated as if yādmāḥ (p. yādi imāḥ) were meant as equivalent to yād imāḥ, corresponding to the yād etīt of c. Ppp. has ṣṛjantām at end of b.

31. Reach thou forth the sickle (pārṣu), hasten, take [it] quickly; let them, not harming, cut (dā) the herbs at the joint; they of whom Soma compassed the kingship — let the plants be without wrath toward us.

One or two of our mss. read in a pāraṣum (M.W.; O. pārārṣum); and, as usual, some (O.D.R.) accent rāḥyam in c. Ppp. has harantu for harāu 'sam in a; and, in c, somo yāsām. Amanyutāḥ is undivided in the pada-text. In Kāuṣ. 61. 38 the first pāda is used with handing over the sickle for gathering the darbha-grass; the second pāda,* in 61. 39, with cutting it above the joints; and in 1. 24, 25 both for a similar purpose; so also the first pāda (or the verse) in 8. 11; and yet again both in the comm. to 137. 4. * [Quoted as oṣadhīr dāntu parvan at i. 25 and 61. 39. According to Daç. Kar. (note to 137. 4), the quotation pra yacha parṣum covers a pāda and a half, that is, it includes the ahiṁsantas which is omitted in the quotation of b.]

32. Strew ye a new barhis for the rice-dish; be it dear to the heart, agreeable to the eye; on it let the gods [and] the divine ones (f.) settle (viç) together; sitting down (ni-sad), let them partake of this with the seasons.

The mss. read in b priyām, but our text makes the unavoidable emendation to yām. Some of the mss. also are bothered over the unusual combination lgva in b: [thus Bs. has vaglāv astu; R. valgāv astu; T. valgvustu. And again, in d, Bs. reads -ṇan ṛt, and O.s.m.R. -ṇanty ṛt. The verse accompanies in Kāuṣ. 61. 40 the strewing of the barhis.

33. O forest tree, sit on the strewn barhis, being commensurate with the Agni-praises (agniṣtomā), with the deities; like a form well made by an artisan (tvāçṛṣṭ) with a knife, so (enā) let the eager ones be seen round about in the vessel (pātra).

Bp. and Bs.s.m. read svādhiyā at end of c. The anomalous hiatus enā (p. enā) chāh is noted in Prāt. iii. 34. Ppp. reads svadhityāināhyāṣ pari pātre dadṛcyaṁ, which is welcome as ridding us of the wholly unsupported form dadṛcram; [cf. Gram. § 813]. In Kāuṣ. 61. 43, the verse accompanies the setting of a vessel (pātri) upon the barhis; in Vāit. 10. 7, the laying of the sacrificial post upon the same (the editor of Kāuṣ. regards it as quoted also in 15. 11, but the verse there intended must be rather vi. 125. 1).

34. In sixty autumns may he (?) seek unto the treasure-keepers; may he attain unto the sky with the cooked [offering]; may both fathers [and] sons live upon him; make thou this one to go unto the heaven-going end of the fire.

The last pāda admits of various other constructions. Both here and in vs. 41 (where pāda a is repeated) Bp. reads at the beginning ṣaṣṭhyām. In c, O.p.m.R. accent jvān. Ppp. puts the verse after our vs. 35, and reads, for a, ṣaṣṭyāni śaradhbhyaṣ paridadhma enam; for c, upāi 'nam putrān pīlaraṣ ca sīdām; in d, inam for etam. There is no reason why the Anukr. should regard the verse as anything but a regular triṣṭubh. In Kāuṣ. 62. 9 it accompanies the setting down of the rice-dish westward from the fire.

35. A maintainer, maintain thyself in the maintenance of the earth; thee that art unmoved let the deities make to move (cyu); thee shall the two spouses, living, having living sons, cause to remove (ud-vas) out of the fire-holder.

Ppp. combines -vyā 'cyutam in a-b, omits the meter-disturbing (and probably intrusive) tvā of c, reads in c -putrā, and in d ud vāsayāthaṣ p. The Anukr. takes no notice of the redundant syllable in our c. In Kāuṣ. 61. 41, the verse accompanies the removal of the vessel; in Vāit. 10. 9, the insertion of the end of the sacrificial post in the ground.

36. Thou hast come together unto all the worlds, having conquered; however many [be] the desires, thou hast made them wholly satisfied; plunge ye (du.) in — both the stirring-stick [and] the spoon; take thou him up upon one vessel.

This obscure verse wins no light from Kāuṣ. (62. 1), which says simply iti man-troktam, connecting it with xi. 1. 24. Some of our mss. (P.M.W.T.) read abhi for adhi in d. We should expect in c gāhetām, as the nouns are not vocative. Ppp. reads in a samāgān abhiciṣya, and in b kāmān samitāu purastāt. [See p. lxxviii.]

37. Strew thou on, spread forward, smear over with ghee this vessel; as a lowing cow (usrā) [toward] a young [calf] desiring the teat, do ye, O gods, utter the sound hing toward this one.

'Strew on': i.e., specifically, make an upastaraṇa or covering of butter. In Ppp. the second half-verse is wholly corrupt. The verse is quoted in Kāuṣ. 61. 45, as accompanying the operation described, and the next verse is added in 61. 46 when the operation is completed.

38. Thou hast strewn on, hast made that world; let the broad unequalled heavenly world (svargā) spread itself out; to it shall resort (cri) the mighty eagle; the gods shall reach him forth to the deities.

Ppp. begins with apāskārāir, and makes śrayātāi and suparṇas change places in c.

39. What in any case thy wife cooks beyond thee, or thy husband, O wife, in secret from thee, that do ye unite; that be yours together; agreeing (? sampāday-) together upon one world.

Kāuṣ. 62. 11 quotes the verse (iti mantroktam), but casts no light upon it. [Has a second pācāti fallen out after jāye?]

40. How many of her fasten on (sac) the earth, what sons came forth into being from us (pl.) — all those do ye (du.) call to you in the vessel; knowing the navel, the young ones (śiṣu) shall come together.

The mss. (excepting R.D.) leave sacante in a unaccented. Ppp. reads after it 'smat. The verse, especially the first pāda, is obscure. 'Navel' = 'central point, place of union.' The Anukr. does not heed the deficiency of a syllable in c; it means us, perhaps, to resolve ta-ān.

41. What streams (dhdārā) of good (vdsu) [there are], fattened with honey, mixed with ghee, navels of immortality — all those doth the heaven-goer (? svargā) take possession of; in sixty autumns may he seek unto the treasure-keepers.

The last and obscurest pāda is identical with 34 a. The Anukr. perhaps accepts the redundant syllable of b and the deficient of c as balancing each other. The verse is used, with 44 below, in Kāuṣ. 62. 18, to accompany the further pouring in of juices. Ppp. reads samakṭās for prāṣṭinās in a, and dhāmāyas at end of b, and combines -pā 'bh- in d.

42. He shall seek unto it, [as] treasure-keepers unto a treasure; let those who are others be not lords (ānīṣvara) about; given by us, deposited, heaven-going, with three divisions it has ascended to three heavens (svargā).

Ppp. again combines in a -pā 'bhy. Kāuṣ. 62. 10 makes the verse accompany the division of the rice-dish into three parts. There is no reason for calling it bhurij, as the Anukr. does.

43. Let Agni burn the demon that is godless; let the flesh-eating piṣācā not have a draught here; we thrust him, we bar him away from us; let the Ādityas, the Aṅgirases, fasten on him.

Doubtless we should emend to rundhmas in c. Ppp. reads in d ādityā no aṅg-, thus rectifying the meter. The Anukr. notices this time the redundancy of the pāda. Doubtless, as often elsewhere, we are to contract to ādityāt 'nam. In Kāuṣ. 62. 14 the verse is made to accompany the carrying of fire around the offering. [BR. render the force of pra by defining pra-pā as 'sich an's Trinken machen.']

44. To the Ādityas, the Aṅgirases, I announce this honey mingled with ghee; with cleansed hands, not smiting down [anything of] the Brahman's, go ye (du.), O well-doers, unto this heavenly world (svargā).

The description by the Anukr. is quite wrong. The use by Kāuṣ. 62. 18 was noted above, under vs. 41. [For the use of the genitive, W. has noted a reference to Delbrück's Altindische Syntax, p. 161.]

45. I have obtained this highest division of it, from which world the most exalted one obtained [it] completely; pour thou on the butter (sarpis); anoint with ghee; this is the portion of our Aūgiras here.

Ppp. has in a a different order of words: idaṁ kāṇḍam uttamaṁ prāpam asya. The verse (with xi. 1. 31: the first half of each) is quoted in Kāuṣ. 62. 15, and again (the second half of each) in 62. 17, in connection with anointing the vessel with butter.

46. Unto truth, unto penance, and unto the deities, we deliver this deposit (nidhi), [this] treasure (śevadhi); let it not be lost (ava-gā) in our play, nor in the meeting; do not ye release it to another in preference to (purā) me.

One or two of our mss. (R.D.) accent at the end māt; and the word is not found without accent unless here and at xi. 4. 26. [SPP. reads māt with 8 of his authorities, against 7 that have mat.] Ppp. reads in b dadhmas. This and the two following verses are quoted, with a number of others, in Kāuṣ. 68. 27, at a later point in the rice-dish ceremony. [With c, cf. 52 a.]

47. I cook; I give; verily upon my action [and] deed (? karīṇa) the wife; a virgin (? kāūmāra) world hath been born, a son; take ye (du.) hold after vigor (vāyas) that hath what is superior.

The translation here is purely mechanical. Ppp. puts the verse after our vs. 48, and reads in a, for dadāmi, ud vadāmi [thus suggesting the probably correct restoration of the pāda (aḥam u dadāmi)], and in c putrās. The verse (10 + 11 : 11 + 11 = 43) is very ill described by the Anukr.

48. No offense is here, nor support (? ādihārā), nor that one goes agreeing (sam-am) with friends; this vessel of ours is set down not empty; the cooked [dish] shall enter again him that cooked it.

This verse is little more intelligible than the preceding. Ppp. puts c after d, and reads at the end of c astu instead of etat. [It is hardly worth while to discuss the accent of asti.]

49. May we do what is dear to them that are dear; whosoever hate [us], let them go to darkness; milch-cow, draft-ox, each coming vigor (vāyas) — let them thrust away the death that comes from men.

Or, 'that concerns, comes upon, men' (pāūruṣeya). The Anukr. seems to accept the two redundant syllables of c (evā an intrusion) as compensating for the deficiency in a. According to Kāuṣ. 62. 19, the verse is used of 'the milch-cow etc.' north of the fire.

50. The fires are in concord, one with another — he that fastens on the herbs, and he that [fastens on] the rivers; as many gods as send heat (ā-tap) in the sky — gold hath become the light of him that cooks.

Ppp. reads sindhūm in b, and *dadhatu (for pacatas) in d. In Kāuṣ. 62. 22, the verse (with xi. 1. 28) is made to accompany the laying on of a piece of gold; it is also quoted in 68. 27, with vss. 46–48, etc.: see note to vs. 46. The Anukr. does not notice the lack of a syllable in a. * [Intending dadhatu ?]

51. This one of skins (tvāc) hath come into being on man; not naked are all the animals (paçū) that are other; ye (du.) cause to wrap (pari-dhā) yourselves (ātmān) with authority (kṣatrá), a home-woven garment, the mouth of the rice-dish.

The translation is as literal as possible; but other constructions may be made in the second half-verse. Ppp. leaves the hiatus between a and b, babhūva an-; it combines -gnās sarve in b; and it reads in c dhāpayeta, with a division-line after it. Kāuṣ. 62. 23 makes the verse accompany the depositing of such a garment, with gold. [Has the vs. anything to do with the legend, cited under ii. 13. 3, about the cow and her skin, which the gods took from man and gave to the cow?]]

52. What [untruth] thou shalt speak at the dice, what at the meeting, or what untruth thou shalt speak from desire of gain—clothing yourselves (du.) in the same web (īdāntu), ye shall settle in it all pollution.

Ppp. rectifies the meter of a by reading vadasi; in b it has dhane instead of vadās; in c it gives saha for abhi. The Anukr. does not notice the deficiency in a. The verse is quoted in Kāuṣ. 63. 1 (next after vs. 51), with the explanation 'the two become dressed in the same garment.' [With a, cf. 46 c.]]

53. Win thou rain; go unto the gods; thou shalt make smoke fly up out of the skin; about to become all-expanded, ghee-backed, go thou, of like origin, unto that world.

The second half-verse is identical with 19 a, b above. Ppp. begins b with tatas instead of tvacas; and it has a different second half: viçvavyacā viçvakarmā svargas sayonin lokam upa yāhy ekam, which seems less unintelligible. In Kāuṣ. 63. 5 the verse is quoted (together with xi. 1. 28 b) with the direction 'he draws off [the garment?].'

54. The heaven-goer hath variously changed his body, as he finds (? vidé) in himself one of another color; he hath conquered off the black one, purifying a shining one (rūçat); the one that is red, that I offer (hu) to thee in the fire.

The adjectives here are all fem., relating to 'body' (tanū). The defective meter of b helps to make the isolated [or rather, unusual?] vidé [see Gram. § 613] suspicious; the Anukr. takes no notice of the deficiency. The first half-verse is corrupt in Ppp., so that the comparison gives us no help. In Kāuṣ. 63. 8 the verse accompanies the scattering on of other husks (phalīkaraṇān). [For the form ajāit, see the references under vi. 32. 2.]]

55. To the eastern quarter, to Agni as overlord, to the black [serpent] as defender, to Āditya having arrows, we commit thee here; guard ye him for us until our coming; may he lead on our appointed [life-time] here unto old age; let old age commit us unto death; then may we be united with the cooked [offering].

[Vss. 55–60 are partly unmetrical.] We are surprised to find the pause before instead of after the phrase etām pāri dadmaḥ. With the items in the first division of these verses are to be compared the corresponding ones in iii. 27. 1–6. The concluding pāda of the metrical refrain is identical with vi. 119. 2 d. The pāda-reading at the end of the prose is ā : asmākam : ācetoḥ. In every verse, Ppp. omits tvā before diṣe (an improvement) and reads dadhmas for dadmas. In the refrain [of every verse, apparently], it has dadhātvo adhā for dadātvo atha. In this verse it combines diṣe agnaye. The metrical description of the Anukr. is very puzzling; the part common to all the verses is 6 + 10 : 11 + 11 + 11 = 49 syllables; then the varying parts range [with some resolutions] from 25 to 31 syllables: all together, from 74 to 80 syllables; and atidhṛti is regularly 76, and kṛti 80; but the Anukr., after calling all atidhṛti, appears to call all but one kṛti. The verses are quoted in Kāuṣ. 63. 22, in connection with the rest of the hymn.

56. To the southern quarter, to Indra as overlord, to the cross-lined [serpent] as defender, to Yama having arrows, we commit thee here; guard ye etc. etc.

57. To the western quarter, to Varuṇa as overlord, to the pīdāku as defender, to food having arrows, we commit thee here; guard ye etc. etc.

58. To the northern quarter, to Soma as overlord, to the constrictor as defender, to the thunderbolt having arrows, we commit thee here; guard ye etc. etc.

Our edition follows all the mss. in accenting rakṣitrē 'cānyāi; it should be, of course, -trē.

59. To the fixed quarter, to Viṣṇu as overlord, to the spotted-necked [serpent] as defender, to the herbs having arrows, we commit thee here; guard ye etc. etc.

Ppp. reads vīrudbhya for oṣadhībhyas.

60. To the upward quarter, to Brihaspati as overlord, to the white [serpent] as defender, to rain having arrows, we commit thee here; guard ye etc. etc.

[Here ends the third anuvāka, with 1 hymn and 60 verses. The quoted Anukr. says svargaḥ ṣaṣṭiḥ, i.e., 'the svarga[-hymn] is sixty.' The stem svarga, in one form or another, occurs a dozen times in the hymn.]

4. The cow (vaçā) as belonging exclusively to the Brahmins.

[Kācyapa.—tripañcācat. mantrōktavaçādevatyam. ānuṣṭubham : 7. bhurij ; 20. virāḥ ; 32. uspiḡbṛhatigurbhā ; 42. brhatigurbhā.]

Found also in Pāipp. xvii. (with slight differences of verse-order [4, 6, 5, 8, 7, 9 and 17, 19, 18, 20]). Not noticed at all in Vāit., and in Kāuṣ. only once, in 66. 20, where, with x. 10, it (or the first verse) is to be spoken by the giver of a cow, after sprinkling etc.

Translated : Ludwig, p. 448 ; Henry, 203, 248 ; Griffith, li. 120 ; Bloomfield, 174, 656.

1. I give [her]—thus should he say, if they have noticed (? anu-budh) her—[I give] the cow (vaçā) to the priests (brahmān) that ask for her; that brings progeny, descendants.

Perhaps ānu ābhutsata is rather 'have recognized': i.e., have made her out to be the kind of cow that is called vaçā; or there may be in it something of the meaning of anu-jñā: 'have approved, or taken a liking to.' [Cf. MGS. i. 8. 6 and p. 150.]

2. He bargains away his progeny and becomes exhausted of cattle who is not willing to give the cow (gó) of the gods to the sons of seers that ask for her.

[Pādas c, d recur as 12 a, b.]

3. By a hornless one they are crushed for him; by a lame one he falls (? ard) into a pit; by a crippled one his houses are burned; by a one-eyed one his possessions are taken away (?).

The adjectives are feminine, and the sense doubtless is that as the result of giving such defective cows the thing threatened will happen. In a, probably the subject to be understood is grhās, as in c; b and c have perhaps become transposed — and, in that case, svām might be the subject also of ardati. [Ppp. has kāṭam, like the Vulgate.] The translation of d implies emendation (which seems advisable [cf. W. in AJP. xiii. 302]) of kāṇḍyā to kāṇḍyā: i.e. kāṇḍyā : ā : diyate. Ppp. has jīyate 'is harmed,' which would remove the difficulty. [On kāṭā, see von Bradke, KZ. xxxiv. 157.]

4. Anæmia (vilohitā) from the station of the dung visits (vid) the master of kine; so is the agreement (?) of the cow; for door-damaging (?) art thou called.

Nearly everything in the second half-verse is doubtful. The majority of our mss. read sāmvidyam (p. sāmovidyam), but sām- instead is given by M.s.m.O.s.m. and D.; and in R. sām- is emended to sām-. Sāmvidya seems a much more probable form of stem. The Pet. Lexx. render 'possession,' which is very unsatisfactory. Duradabhnā (also in vs. 19) seems pretty clearly the reading of nearly all our mss. in c, though it might, as usual in such cases, be -bhrā in most; Bp. has (both times) apparently -bhdnā, and O. [in vs. 4] -bdnā or -b-h-nā (the b and h separate letters, as again below in xiii. 1. 25 c). The word is not divided in the pada-text. The translation given is [suggested by] that of the Pet. Lexx.; Ludwig renders here 'unbetrieglich' (undeceivable), but leaves the word untranslated in vs. 19. The second person ucyāse is quite unexpected; [most of our] samhitā-mss. read hy ūcyāse; [and SPP's are much at variance]. [As alternative rendering in a, b, W. notes 'from standing on her dung.'] Ppp. reads, in c, d, svām vidyūn duritagrāhy uccase.

5. From the station of the two feet of her, soaking (? viklindu) namely visits [him]; unexpectedly (?) are they crushed who snuff at her with the mouth.

Here, too, much is obscure and doubtful. The first part might be: 'From the station of her [or 'from standing on her,' as W. queries], soaking of the feet visits [him],' as it is hard to see what two feet have to do with a cow. And in d yās can be either subject or object, and jighrati either sing. or pl. I take anāmanāt from root man; Ludwig renders it 'without becoming ill'; the Pet. Lexx. explain the word as meaning a kind of disease. Ppp. reads, in a, b, asyā dhiṣṭhānād vikulam dvīn nāma.

6. Whoever punches (ā-sku) the two ears of her, he falls under the wrath of the gods; if he thinks "I am making a mark," he makes his possessions less.

Ppp. begins yo 'syās karṇāv āskanoty, and reads in c lakṣmīṣ kurvīta. [Pāda b recurs as 12 c. For the construction, cf. 26 d, 47 d: and, per contra, 12 d, 34 d, and 51 c.] We are to make the combination kurve 'ti. [As to the marking of cattle's ears, cf. vi. 141. 2 and note, and Zimmer, p. 234. In a marginal note, W. compares MS. iv. 2. 9 (p. 315). The MS. passage and this vs. and the root akṣ are discussed by Delbrück, Gurupūjākāumudī, p. 48-49. — Ppp. puts the vs. between 4 and 5.]

7. If, for any one's advantage, any one cuts off the tail-tuft of her, then his colts die, and the wolf slays his calves.

Or (in a), 'for any advantage or use.' Ppp. makes 7 c, d and 8 c, d change places. It reads also vālān in b.

8. If of her, while being with her master, a crow hath vexed (hīd) the hair, then his boys die, [and] the yākṣma visits him unexpectedly (?).

As to anūmanānt, see note to vs. 5. The first pāda apparently means 'in presence of her master,' and so, 'without his interference for her protection.' [Ppp. combines tataṣ k- in c.]

9. If the lye, the dung of her a barbarian woman flings together, then is born what is deformed, what will not escape from that sin.

All our mss. appear to read distinctly palpāl- in a, yet they are never to be trusted to make the distinction between lp and ly. Apparently the word is used here for 'urine,' and the meaning is 'if such precious stuff is carelessly treated by a slave-woman (dāst).' Ppp. reads 'pirūpani in c. We have to resolve as-i-āḥ to fill out the meter of a.

10. When being born, the cow (vaçā) is born for (abht) the gods together with the Brahmins; therefore she is to be given to the priests (brahmān); that people call the guarding (gōpana) of one's possessions.

The pāda-text makes the extraordinary division gōpanam [for the sake of the play upon go 'cow' ?], as if the word were not a simple derivative from root gup! 'For' (abht): more literally 'unto, into the possession of.'

11. They who come to the winning (van) of her, theirs is the god-made cow [vaçā]; they called it brāhman-scathing, if anyone keeps her to himself.

Pāda b seems to mean virtually 'she is by the gods made theirs.' Ppp. reads at the end (as also in vss. 21, 25) nu priyāyate, and nipr- is certainly very questionable, since no nīpriya nor even root prī + nī occurs. The minor Pet. Lex. gives the word two totally different explanations, under nīpriyāy and priyāy respectively.

12. Whoever is not willing to give the cow (gō) of the gods to the sons of seers that ask for her, he falls under the wrath of the gods and the fury of the Brahmins.

Ppp. reads, for a, b, ya enām yācadbhya āṛṣeyebhya nirucchati. [We had a, b above as 2 c, d, and c as 6 b.]

13. Whatever may be his use for the cow (vaçā), he should then seek another [cow]; she, ungiven, harms a man, if he is not willing to give her when asked for.

Ppp. has a quite different version of a-c: yasyā 'nya syād vaçābhogo 'nyām icchetu barhiṣaḥ: hiṁsrā ũi dhatsva gopatiṁ. We should expect pūruṣam at end of c, as elsewhere in such a position.

14. As a deposited treasure (çevadhī), so of the Brahmins is the cow (vaçā); accordingly [etdī] they come unto her, in whosoever possession she is born.

15. They come thus unto their own property, namely the Brahmins unto the cow; as one might scathe them in any other respect (?), so is the keeping back of her.

The third pāda is unclear, and the bad meter makes the reading suspicious; yet Ppp. has the same, and varies only in combining brāhmaṇā 'bhi in b, and combining and reading 'syā 'dhirohayanī in d. Most of our mss. (all except D. and R.s.m.) have the false accent brāhmaṇās in b; our text emends. The Anukr. takes no notice of the redundant syllable in c.

16. She may go about until [ā] the space of three years, being of unrecognized (vi-jñā) speech (-gada); should he know the cow, O Nārada, then the Brahmins are to be sought.

This is obscure, but appears to mean that the cow may not betray herself as a vaçā for as much as three years; but, as soon as she is recognized as such, she must be delivered over to the Brahmins. The pāda-text has in a, of course, evā: ā: tr-.

17. Whoever declares her to be not the cow, the deposited deposit of the gods, at him Bhava-and-Çarva, both, striding about, hurl the arrow.

18. Whoever knows not the udder of her, and likewise the teats of her, to him she yields milk with both, if he has been able to give the cow.

That is, probably, if her owner has sought no profit from her (cf. Ludwig). The first pāda is quoted under Prāt. ii. 52, as an example of ūdho (not ūdhar) before a sonant. A number of our mss. read veda, without accent.

19. Door-damaging (?) lies she on him, if he is not willing to give her when asked for; he does not succeed in the desires which, without having given her, he would fain accomplish (cikīrṣa-).

The translation implies the obviously necessary emendation of yām to yān in d [so Ludwig]. As to duradabhnā at the beginning, see the note to vs. 4. That the conjectural rendering is extremely unsatisfactory is plain. Ppp. has instead, for a, duritavina-pāçaye; and, in c, d, apparently kāmas sam ṛdhyatē yam ad-, thus supporting our emendation. [In Ppp. this verse precedes our 18.]

20. The gods asked for the cow, having made the Brahman their mouth; the wrath (hēḍa) of them all incurs (ni-i) the man (mānuṣa) who gives not.

The translation implies emendation in b to brāhmaṇām. Ppp. reads in a yācanti, which does not rectify the meter. [Read devāso ?]

21. He incurs the wrath of cattle (paśū) who gives not the cow to the Brahmans — if a mortal keeps to himself the deposited portion of the gods.

The saṁhitā-mss. accent in b brāhmaṇēbhyo dadat, and the pāda correspondingly adadat (instead of dadat). Our text makes the necessary emendation. Ppp. gives for d rtāse nu priyāyate. [See note to 11, above.]

22. If a hundred other Brahmans should ask the cow of its master, yet (ātā) the gods said of her: the cow is his who knoweth thus.

All our mss. save two (I. and [?] E.s.m.) read etām (without accent) in c; our text follows the two.

23. Whoever, not having given her to one who knoweth thus, then shall give the cow to others, hard to go upon for him in his station is the earth with its deity.

In b the pāda-text has anyēbhyāḥ: adadat, and the saṁhitā-mss. correspondingly -bhyo dadad v-; this is emended in our text to -bhyō 'd- (as if adadat, as in vs. 21); but a decidedly better emendation would be to -bhyo dādat, as translated. Ppp. reads anyasmāi d, which favors this understanding of the pāda; it also combines tasmā 'dh- in c.

24. The gods asked the cow [of him] in whose possession she was first (āgre) born; that same one may Nārada know; together with the gods he drove her away.

The connection of c, d is obscure, and tempts to conjectural emendations; Ludwig suggests vidvān for vidyāt: 'knowing her to be such, Nārada together with the gods drove her away (as theirs)'; this is quite acceptable. Ppp. reads at the end udājitā. One or two of our mss. (D.R.p.m.) accent nāraddh. The Anukr. takes no notice of the lack of a syllable in a. [Read devāso as in 20?]

25. The cow makes a man (pūruṣa) destitute of descendants, poor in cattle, if, when she is asked for by the Brahmans, then he keeps her to himself.

Ppp. reads in b pūruṣam, and in d nu priyāyata. The Anukr. takes no notice of any deficiency in c; we may best resolve ṛ-āh-. [Read brāhmaṇēbhīḥ?]

26. For Agni-and-Soma, for Love (kāma), for Mitra and for Varuṇa — for these the Brahmans ask her; under their wrath falls he who gives not.

27. So long as the master of her should not himself overhear the verses (ṛc), so long may she go about among his kine (gō); she may not abide in his house after he has heard.

The translation implies the evidently necessary emendation of vaṣet at the end to vaset; R., indeed, has the latter; [and so have 8 of SPP's authorities, against 7 with vaṣet;] Ppp. is corrupt: nā 'sya ṣrutā gṛhe sya. The Anukr. takes no notice of any redundancy in b; but it can hardly expect us to make a pāda-division between no and 'paṣṇuyāt. The 'verses' are doubtless those with which the Brahmans come to claim their rightful property.

28. If any one, having overheard the verses of her, has then made her go about among his kine (gô), both the life-time and the growth of him do the gods, made wrathful, cut off (vraçc).

Nearly all our mss. (E. has âcî-) [and all of SPP's] leave acîcarat in b unaccented; and then, as if by way of compensation, they mostly (except Bs.s.m.D.R.) accent vṛçcanti.

29. The cow, going about variously, the deposited deposit of the gods, manifests her forms, when she desires to go (?) to her station (sthāman).

That is, her rightful and appointed place. The translation implies in b the reading kṛṇute instead of kṛṇuṣva, although the former is found only in O.p.m.D.T. (-uti). [Three of SPP's pada-mss. have kṛṇute.] The comm. to Prāt. ii. 63 quotes āviṣ kṛṇute rūpāṇi, which is not found in the text unless here. The translation also implies at the end jigāṃsati. The Prāt. (i. 86) seems to imply the occurrence in the text of such forms, and the sense obviously calls for them here and in the next verse; see the note to Prāt. i. 86. Ppp. reads in d yathā for yadā.

30. She manifests herself when she desires to go to her station; then the cow [vaçā] makes up her mind for the asking of the priests (brahmān).

That is, prepares herself to be asked for by them; brahmādbhyas, dat. by attraction. [Read again jigāṃsati: see note to vs. 29.] Read in d yāchyāya, though the mss. mostly have -ñcy-, as they often blunder over such an unusual consonant-group. Ppp. reads uto for atho in c.

31. She plans (sam-kṛ) [it] with her mind; then she goes unto the gods; thence the priests (brahmān) go on to ask for the cow.

32. By offering of svadhā to the Fathers, by sacrifice to the deities, by giving of the cow, the noble (rājanyā) does not incur (gam) the mother's wrath.

Ppp. reads devebhyah at end of b. The description of the Anukr. very unnecessarily forbids us to resolve -bhi-ah in b.

33. The cow is mother of the noble; so came it (n.) into being in the beginning; they call it a non-abandonment (? anarpana) of her that she is presented to the priests (brahmān).

The Pet. Lexx. render the difficult anarpana by 'a not giving away'; Ludwig, by 'no restitution.' Ppp. combines tasyā "hur" in c.

34. As one might snatch (? ā-luṣ) from the spoon sacrificial butter held forth for the fire, so he who gives not the cow [vaçā] [to the priests] falls under the wrath of Agni.

Perhaps, 'as [the fire] might snatch,' etc.—seizing on the butter before it is duly offered. Ppp. reads for a yad āyam pratijagrāha, and in d omits ā, thus rectifying the meter. The Anukr. takes no notice of the redundant syllable in our text; we are doubtless to get rid of it by contracting to agnāy 'ā. [Were emendation necessary, one might be tempted to suggest agnāv ā: but cf. note to vs. 6 b.]

35. With the sacrificial cake as calf, milking well, she draws near to him in the world; she yields (duh) to him all his desires — [namely,] the cow [vaçā] to him who has presented her.

Ppp. reads, in b, loke 'syo 'pa; and for c, sahasmaī sarvān kāmān mahe. The Anukr. takes no notice of the irregular meter in pādas a and c. All the samhitā-mss. accent lokē 'smā in b; our text emends to lokē.

36. All his desires, in Yama's realm, does the cow [vaçā] yield to him who has presented her; likewise they call hell the world of him who keeps her back when asked for.

The pada-text reads narakam, and the difference of the two texts is noted in Prāt. iii. 21; iv. 90. Ppp. reads tathā for atha in c.

37. Being impregnated, the cow [vaçā] goes about angry at her master: thinking me barren, let him be bound in the fetters of death.

38. And he who, thinking her barren, cooks the cow [vaçā] at home (amā)—his sons and sons' sons also does Brihaspati cause to be asked for.

Ppp. reads in b, for amā ca, the equivalent grheṣu; further, in c, d, asya svaputrān pāutrāḥ cātayate brh. [Over "at home" W. interlines "in private": see vs. 53.]

39. She sends down great heat, going about a cow (gō) among kine; further, to the master who has not given her the cow (vaçā) milks poison.

In b, apparently, 'being treated as an ordinary cow.' The 'milks' in d does not necessarily mean that she gives actual milk. Ppp. reads tato in c, for atho ha, thus rectifying the meter; the Anukr. takes no notice of the redundancy of the pāda, caused by the apparently intrusive ha.

40. It is a thing dear to the cattle that she is presented to the priests (brahmān); further, that is a thing dear to the cow [vaçā], that she be an oblation to the gods.

Lit. 'among the gods' (p. deva-trā).

41. What cows the gods shaped out (ut-kṛp), rising up from the sacrifice, of them Nārada selected for himself the fearful viliptī.

The root kṛp (kalpay-) with ud occurs nowhere else. In c, P.M.W.I.E.p.m.R. read viliptīm, which would be the more normal accus. of -tī, but the meter is against it. But the accent -tyām is entirely inadmissible; it must be emended to -tyām; [cf. JAOS. x. 379, 369]. What sort of a cow (vaçā) is intended by viliptī (which ought to signify 'smeared over') is altogether obscure. Ppp. reads instead vilapatīm.

42. The gods questioned (mīmāṃs-) about her: is this a cow [vaçā], or not a cow? Of her Nārada said: she is of cows the most truly cow (vaçātama).

The more proper reading in b would seem to be avaçāzti; but all the samhitā-mss. read avaçā 'ti, as in our text, although the pada gives the sign of protraction (3) also after avaçā, as it should be. But the Prāt. (i. 97) requires -çē 'ti simply: see the rules i. 97 and 105, and the notes to them. The verse (8 + 8 : 7 + 10) is very ill described by the Anukr. Ppp. reads in a devā 'mīm-; for b, vaçe 'yān ntavaçe 'ti; and it omits iti at the end. [For the use of the superlative in ḍ, cf. the punning lampoon on the name of Gotama, *Indische Sprüche*², 4875.]

43. How many, pray (nī), Nārada, are the cows which thou knowest, born among men (manuṣyā-)? those I ask of thee who knowest; of which may a non-Brahman not partake (aḥ)?

Ppp. reads, for c, katimā "sām bhīmatamā (like our vs. 45 c).

44. The vilip̥tī, O Brihaspati, and the cow [vaçā] that has given birth to [such] a cow — of that one a non-Brahman who should hope for prosperity (bhīti) may not partake.

The translation implies at the beginning emendation to vilip̥tī yā (as in vs. 46); the proper reading might also be vilip̥tyās, nom. pl.; -tyās seems inadmissible; Ppp. reads vilap̥tyā (for -ās?). Ppp. has further tāsām for tasyās in c. Sūtdavaçā is rendered according to the requirement of the accent; the Pet. Lexx. define as 'a cow remaining barren after the birth of one calf'; and the legends told in explanation of the name in TS. vi. 1. 3⁶ and MS. ii. 5. 4 support that understanding. [Cf. Henry's translation, p. 208, and note, p. 256.] Pāda c is redundant in this verse, as are also 46 c and 43 d; the Anukr. heads none of these cases.

45. Homage be to thee, O Nārada; [be] the cow to him who at once knows it. Which one of them is the most fearful, not having given which, one would perish?

Ppp. reads in a te 'stu, and in b vaçām, which is easier (Ludwig translates [as if the text were vaçāḥ]). In ḍ, our text might better read ādattvā.

46. She that is vilip̥tī, O Brihaspati, further the cow that has given birth to [such] a cow — of that one a non-Brahman who should hope for prosperity may not partake.

Ppp. reads at the beginning vilup̥tīm bṛhaspataye yā ca sū-, and in c again (as in vs. 44) tāsām.

47. Three verily are the kinds of cow: the vilip̥tī, she that has given birth to [such] a cow, the [simple] cow [vaçā]; these one should present to the priests (brahmān), [then] he falls not under the wrath of Prajāpati.

Ppp. once more reads vilup̥tis sū- in b; it is easier to conjecture a meaning for vilup̥tī than for vilip̥tī. Most of our samhitā-mss. accent sō 'nāv- in ḍ; our text makes the necessary correction to sō. The irregularities of b and c are unnoticed in the Anukr.; [or rather, it lets them balance each the other].

48. This, O Brahmins, is your oblation — so, when asked [therefor], should he think, if they should ask of him the cow, which in the house of him who has not given her is fearful.

49. The gods talked about the cow in wrath, saying: he hath not given it to us; with these verses (īc) [they talked about] Bheda; therefore indeed he perished.

Ppp. reads upa for pari in a, and, for b, sa no rājata heditā; and in c it rectifies the meter by giving bhedasya. The Anukr. does not heed the deficiency in our verse.

50. And Bheda gave her not, when asked by Indra for the cow [vaçā]; for that offense the gods cut him off in the contest for superiority.

Some of our mss. (Bp.E.D.K.) read etām (unaccented) in a; nearly all (not Bs.s.m.D.) accent āgasā 'vṛccan in d. Ppp. has at the beginning utāi 'tām bh-; its second half-verse is corrupt.

51. They who, wheedling, advise (vad) to the non-giving of the cow [vaçā], the villains fall under the fury of Indra through ignorance.

Ppp. combines in a vaçāyā 'dā-, and in c-d jālmā "vṛç-.

52. They who, leading away her master, then say: do not give—they, through ignorance, go to meet the hurled missile of Rudra.

Pari yanti is rendered as if prati y-, for which it is perhaps a misreading. Ppp. reads catasas for acittyā. Part of our mss. (Bp.R.K.) leave āhus unaccented, and all have te instead of tē in c.

53. If as offered (hu) and if as unoffered one cooks the cow [vaçā] in private (amā), coming into collision with the gods accompanied by the Brahman, he goes supine (jihmā) out of the world.

All the samhitā-mss. curiously read in c sābrāhmaṇān (O. -nānn) ṛtvā; the pada-text has sābrāhmaṇān : ṛtvā. [For amā, cf. vs. 38.]

[Here ends the fourth anuvāka, with 1 hymn and 53 verses. The quoted Anukr. says saptabhir ānā tu "vaçāh," i.e. 'the cows[-hymn] is a [sixty] deficient by seven.']

5. The Brahman's cow.

[Atharvācārya.*—sapta paryāyāḥ. brahmagavīdevatāḥ.]

[Partly metrical: vss. 15–17, 47–53, 55–70 are so reckoned by W. in the Index, p. 6.] Found also in the main in Pāipp. xvi., but in the central parts with omissions and disorder of which the details are not given; [vss. 58, 60, 64–73 are wanting]. Not quoted at all by Vāit., nor probably by Kāuç., since 'the two Brahman-cow hymns' mentioned in Kāuç. 48. 13 are doubtless v. 18, 19; although the comm. [Dārila: cf. Keçava, p. 351²⁰] declares these [v. 18, 19] to substitute one of the 'two,' and xii. 5 the other. * [The Berlin ms. reads prāguktārṣibrahmagavīdevatāḥ: so also SPP's citation, Critical Notice, p. 21. This seems to mean that Kaçyapa is the ṛṣi; h. 4 clearly has the same "deity" as this.]

Translated: Muir, i. 288 (vss. 4–15); Ludwig, p. 529 (vss. 47–73); Henry, 209, 257; Griffith, ii. 127.

1. By toil, by penance [is she] created, acquired by brāhman, supported (ṛitā) on righteousness.

All our samhitā-mss. combine vittā rtē. The appearance of meter in the verse (8+8) is perhaps not accidental; but there is no metrical structure elsewhere in the section.

2. Covered with truth, enclosed with fortune, enveloped with glory.

Why the verse is called sāmnt rather than prājāpatyā, like its predecessor, cannot be told. The pada-text does not divide prāvṛtā, although, in the apparently parallel case, it divides pāri-vṛtā.

3. Set about with svadhā, surrounded with faith, guarded by consecration, standing firm in the offering, the world her post (nidhāna).

The pada-mss. absurdly write prātiosthitāḥ (instead of -tā). The metrical description of the Anukr. is not less absurd; to make the required 30 syllables, we have to resolve pāri-ndhā.

4. Brāhman her guide, the Brahman her over-lord.

Ppp. combines brāhmaṇo adh-. The ā- needs to be restored in order to make the 13 syllables required by the definition of the Anukr.

5. Of the Kshatriya who takes to himself that Brahman-cow, who scathes the Brahman, —

6. There departs the happiness (sūnītā), the heroism, the good luck.

[The London Anukr. text reads prathamā bhāu prājāpatyānuṣṭu pakrāmatīti (vs. 6) satyena (etc., vs. 2): may be the pratīka of vs. 6 is misplaced and should be put before [u] bhāu (vs. 6 can be stretched to 16 syllables), or else the definition of 6 is fallen out.] Ppp. reads puṇyalakṣmī.

[Paryāya II. — pañca. 7. sāmāḥ triṣṭubh; 8, 9. ārcy anuṣṭubh (8. dhurij); 10. uṣṇik; [7-10. 1-p.: see under vs. 11;] 11. ārci nicṣṭ pañkti.]

7. Both force, and brilliancy, and power, and strength, and speech, and sense (indriyā), and fortune, and virtue (dharma), —

8. And holiness (brāhman), and dominion [kṣatram], and kingdom, and subjects (vīṣas), and brightness (tvīṣi), and glory, and honor, and property, —

9. And life-time, and form, and name, and fame, and breath, and expiration, and sight, and hearing, —

10. And milk, and sap, and food, and food-eating, and righteousness, and truth, and sacrifice (iṣṭā), and bestowal (pūrtā), and progeny, and cattle: —

11. All these depart from the Kshatriya who takes to himself the Brahman-cow, who scathes the Brahman.

Lit. 'all these of the K.,' 'that belong to him.' Ppp. omits vs. 10, and abbreviates vs. 9 to āyuc ca gṛotraṁ ca, and vs. 11 to tāni sarvāṇy aṇa krāmanī kṣatriyasya. All our samhitā-mss. read in vs. 10 ca rtām. The Anukr. says of vss. 7-10, etāc catasraḥ puṇaḥ puṇaḥ pādāntareṇa pādābhyāsād ekapadāḥ: [that is, they are 1-p. because repeatedly or in each case the groups ending with ca have to be recited with a pāda-interval, i.e. (as Dr. Ryder suggests) because there is in each verse no main cesura.]

12. This same Brahman-cow [is] fearful, having deadly poison, witchcraft incarnate (sākṣāt), kūlbaja when covered.

Kūlbaja occurs only here and in vs. 53 below; in the latter verse, Ppp. reads instead pūlyajām.

13. In her are all terrible things and all deaths.

14. In her are all cruel things, all men-killers (puruṣavadhā).

15. This Brahman-cow, when taken to oneself, binds the Brahman-scather, the god-reviler, in the shackle of death.

Several of the saṁhitā-mss. (Bs.P.M.W.E.) read -gavy āḍḍyāt, curiously enough. All our mss. have pādāv, and one or two -vīh- or -vīh-. The verse admits of being read as a gāyatrī, probably not by accident, and might better have been printed as such.

16. Verily (hi) a hundred-killing weapon (mentī) is she; verily the destruction of the Brahman-scather is she.

17. Therefore indeed is the cow of the Brahmins hard to be dared against by one who understands (vi-jñā).

18. [She is] a thunderbolt when running, Vāiṣvānara when driven up (ūdovīta).

19. A missile when extracting (ut-khid) her hoofs, the great god when looking away.

20. Keen-edged (kṣurāpavī) when looking; when bellowing, she thunders at one.

Bp. reads vāśya. Vss. 19 and 20 were perhaps intended as metrical (8+8). [As to mentī, vs. 16, cf. Geldner, Festgruss an Böhtlingk, p. 32.]

21. Death when uttering hīng; the formidable god when slinging about her tail.

All the saṁhitā-mss. read -tyñzgró [K. ñg-]. This verse also has 16 syllables, divisible into 8+8, but evidently only by accident.

22. Total scathing when twisting about her ears; king-yākṣma when urinating.

The Anukr. does not heed that the verse has one syllable too many for a regular sāmni bṛhatī.

23. A weapon (mentī) when being milked; headache when milked.

24. Debility when approaching (upa-sthā); mutual strife when felt off. Pārāmṛṣṭā might also come from root mṛj and mean 'rubbed off.'

25. A shaft when her mouth is being fastened up; mishap (ṛti) when being slain.

The pada-text has apīṇahyāmāne, and two or three of our saṁhitā-mss. (P.M. O.p.m.K.R.) retain the e before ḥtir.

26. Deadly poisonous when falling down; darkness when fallen down.

27. Going after him, the Brahman-cow exhausts the breaths of the Brahman-scather.

[Paryāya IV. — ekādaśa. 28. āsūrī gāyatrī; 29, 37. āsuryanuṣṭubh; 30. sāmanyanuṣṭubh; 31. yājusī triṣṭubh; 32. sāmnī gāyatrī; 33, 34. sāmnī bṛhātī; 35. bhurik sāmanyanuṣṭubh; 36. sāmanyuṣṇih; 38. pratiṣṭhā gāyatrī.]

28. [She is] hostility when being cut up, the eating of one's children when being shared out.

Two of the pada-texts (D.Kp.) read pāūtravādyam. It is so difficult in most mss. to distinguish dy and gh, that the reading pāūtrāgham (cf. pāūtran aghām, xii. 3. 14), which Pet. Lex. conjectures as an emendation, might possibly be intended here.

29. A gods' missile when being taken, failure when taken.

The participles, especially the present passive ones, in these verses, are very much bungled over by the mss. For hriyāmāṇā here are read hriy-, hriy-, hry-, hiy-; and Bp. has rtā for hrtā. It is necessary to make the awkward renderings with 'being,' to distinguish present participle from past. The definition of the Anukr. implies the resolution vt-rd-.

30. Evil when being set on, harshness when being set down.

31. Poison when heating (? pra-yas), takmān when heated.

All the mss. read prāyastā, but Bp. has prāyāñchantī, Bs. yachantī, emended to yasy-, P.M.W. -yasyañchantī (M. emended to -yasy- [?]).

32. Evil (aghd) when being cooked, bad dreaming when cooked.

The description of the Anukr. implies the resolution -pni-am.

33. Uprooting when being turned about (? pari-ā-kr), destruction when turned about.

The participles are rendered according to the Pet. Lexx. The Anukr. expects us to resolve pari-ā- once, but not both times. Bp. reads -ākriyā-.

34. Discord by smell; pain (çūc) when being taken up, a poison-snake when taken up.

The pada-text leaves both participles undivided, as prescribed by Prāt. iv. 62. 'Taken up,' doubtless in preparation for being served up as food. Bp. reads udhriyā-.

35. Non-prosperity when being served up, disaster when served up.

The mss. again fluctuate between -hriyā-, -hriyā-, -hiyā-, and, at the end, between -hrtā, -hatā (P.M.p.m.W.), and -hūta (D.). The Anukr. notices this time that the verse is bhurij.

36. Çarva angered when being dressed (piç), Çimidā when dressed.

37. Ruin when being partaken of, perdition when partaken of.

38. When partaken of, the Brahman-cow cuts off the Brahman-scather from the world, from both this one and the one yonder.

Bp. appears to read lokān, and M.R.T. correspondingly -ān ch-; O. [D.Kp.] have -āt ch-; the rest -ā ch-, which means -āc ch-, since ch and cch are equivalent and interchangeable. The metrical definition of the Anukr. is ambiguous.

[Paryāya V. — aṣṭa. 39. sāmnī pañkti; 40. yājusya anuṣṭubh; 41, 46. bhurik sāmnī anuṣṭubh; 42. āsuri brhātī; 43. sāmnī brhātī; 44. pīpilikamadhyā 'nuṣṭubh; 45. ārcī brhātī.]

39. The slaying of her is witchcraft, her cutting up (ācāsana) is a weapon (menī), the contents of her bowels a secret charm.

All of these, of course, understood as directed against the offender. Ppp. combines tasyā 'han-.

40. [She is] homelessness when hidden (? pari-hnu).

The Pet. Lexx. conjecture pari-hnu (not found elsewhere) to mean 'disavow, disown.'

41. The Brahman-cow, having become the flesh-eating Agni, entering into the Brahman-scather, eats him.

42. All his limbs, joints, roots, she cuts off (vraçc).

43. She severs (chid) his paternal connection, makes perish his maternal connection.

44. All the marriages, acquaintances of the Brahman-scather does the Brahman-cow scorch (? api-kṣā), when not given back by a Kshatriya.

Some of our mss. (O.D.T.R.) accent -ādyāmānā, although part of them (O.T.R.) have accented -trīyeṇā 'pun-. The description of the passage (7 + 6 : 8 + 10 = 31) by the Anukr. is very strange, and valueless.

45. Without abode, without home, without progeny, she makes him; he becomes without succession (?); he is destroyed :—

The translation of aparāṅparāṇā (so the pada-text) is according to the conjecture of the Pet. Lexx. The metrical definition of the Anukr. implies reading karoti ap-.

46. Whatever Kshatriya takes to himself the cow of a Brahman who knoweth thus.

[Paryāya VI. — pañcadaśa. 47, 49, 51-53, 57-59, 61 (?). prājāpatyā 'nuṣṭubh; 48. ārya anuṣṭubh; 50. sāmnī brhātī; 54, 55. prājāpatyo 'ṣṇih; 56. āsuri gāyatrī; 60. gāyatrī.]

47. Quickly, indeed, at his killing the vultures make a din (āilabā).

Ppp. reads at the end kurvatāi 'lavam. The text of the Anukr. seems defective here. All that is said about the nine verses of 16 syllables is as follows: ādyā skandhogrīvāḥ trayā pramūrnam [vs. 61] prājāpatyānuṣṭubhaḥ. All the verses not of this measure are regularly described. Ludwig translates this whole section [and the next], p. 529.

48. Quickly, indeed, about his place of burning dance the long-haired women, beating on the breast with the hand, making an evil din.

The mss. write no avasāna-mark between the two halves of the verse. Ppp. again reads āilavam. Prāt. iii. 92 notes the non-lingualization of ṛt after pari. [Bloomfield discusses the vs., AJP. xi. 339 or JAOS. xv., p. xlv.]

49. Quickly, indeed, in his abodes do the wolves make a din.

Ppp. reads, after vāstuṣu, gaṅgānam kurvate 'pa vṛṣāt.

50. Quickly, indeed, they ask about him: what that was, is this now that?

We should expect rather ktm tād āśīṣt [instead of yāt tād etc.], since without a question there is no good reason for the protracted t. Ludwig translates as if that were the reading. O.D.R. accent āśīṣd, as is the rule in the Brāhmaṇas. Ppp. reads, after prchanti, etad āsīd atam nu dā.

51. Cut thou, cut on, cut forth, scorch, burn (kṣā).

52. O daughter of Aṅgiras, exhaust thou the Brahman-scather, that takes to himself [the cow].

Ppp. reads ādadhānam.

53. For thou art called belonging to all the gods, witchcraft, kūlbaja when covered.

Cf. vs. 12 above. Ppp. reads (as there noted) pūlyājām.

54. Burning (uṣ), consuming, thunderbolt of the brāhman.

55. Having become a keen-edged death, run thou out.

Ppp. reads vibhāvasuḥ instead of vi dhāva tvam; the latter reading probably carries on the figure implied in kṣurapavi, which applies especially to the armed wheels of a battle-chariot.

56. Thou takest to thyself the honor of the scathers, their sacrifice and bestowal, their expectations.

Iṣṭām pūrtām ca: i.e., as later, the fruits of these good works. The Anukr. would have done much better to accept the resolution ca āḥ, and reckon the verse as 16 syllables.

57. Taking to thyself what is scathed for him who is scathed, thou presentest [it to him] in yonder world.

58. O inviolable one, become thou the guide of the Brahman out of imprecation.

The translation implies emendation of abhiṣastyā to -tyāḥ. The verse is wanting in Ppp.

59. Become thou a weapon (ment), a shaft; become thou deadly poisonous from evil (aghā).

60. O inviolable one, smite forth the head of the Brahman-scather that has committed offense, of the god-reviler, the ungenerous.

This verse also is wanting in Ppp. [Pādas b, c recur below, vs. 65.]

61. Let Agni burn the malevolent one, slaughtered, crushed (mṛd) by thee.

Ppp. reads tayā pravṛkṇo rucitam agnir dahatu duṣkṛtam.

62. Cut (vraṣṭ) thou, cut off, cut up; burn thou, burn off, burn up.

63. The Brahman-scather, O divine inviolable one, do thou burn up all the way from the root.

Or 'to the root.' Bs.P.M. read mūlān. In Ppp., [vss. 62-63 are somewhat altered and] the remaining vss. are wanting.

64. That he may go from Yama's seat to evil worlds, to the distances.

65. So do thou, O divine inviolable one, of the Brahman-scather that has committed offense, of the god-reviler, the ungenerous, —

66. With a thunderbolt hundred-jointed, sharp, razor-pronged, —

67. Smite forth the shoulder-bones, forth the head.

68. His hairs (lōman) do thou cut up (sam-chid); his skin strip off; —

69. His flesh cut in pieces; his sinews wrench off; —

70. His bones distress (pīd); his marrow smite out; —

71. All his limbs, [his] joints unloosen.

72. Let the flesh-eating Agni thrust him from the earth, burn (uṣ) up; let Vāyu [do so] from the atmosphere, the great expanse (varimān); —

73. Let the sun thrust him forth from the sky, burn him down.

The Anukr. accepts the resolution nī oṣatu.

[The quotations from the Old Anukr. for the seven ṣṛyāyas may here be given together; I. vacanāni ca ṣaṣ; II. pañca; III. ṣoḍaśa; IV. ekādaśa; V. aṣṭa ca; VI. brahmagavyām pañcadaśa; VII. tasmād dvādaśakaḥ paraḥ. The sum is 73. — As is readily seen, these quotations together make an anuṣṭubh śloka; and they are printed in metrical form by SPP., vol. i., p. 21 (Critical Notice). For vacanāni, see above, p. 472.]

[Here ends the fifth anuvāka, with 1 hymn (or 7 ṣṛyāyas) and 73 vacanas or vacana-avasānarcas.]

[By some mss. the book is summed up as of 4 artha-sūktas [their vss. number 231] and 7 ṣṛyāya-sūktas [73 "verses"], or as of "11 sūktas of both kinds," with a total of 304 verses.]

[The twenty-seventh prapāṭhaka ends here.]

Book XIII.

[Hymns to the Ruddy Sun or Rohita.]

[We come now to the third grand division of the text, books xiii.-xviii. In the first division (books i.-vii.) we had the short hymns of miscellaneous subjects, and in the second (books viii.-xii.) we had the long hymns of miscellaneous subjects. In the third, the principle governing the arrangement and division of the material is in the main clearly that of unity of subject (compare the General Introduction and the Table of Contents): thus book xiii. consists of hymns to the Ruddy Sun or Rohita; xiv. consists of wedding verses; xv. is the book about the Vrātya; and xviii. consists of hymns for the dead. Accordingly, it is perhaps worthy of note that the Old Anukramaṇī does not describe the length of any hymn in book xiii. by reference to a certain length assumed as a norm. The whole book has been translated by Victor Henry, Les hymnes Rohitas. Livre XIII de l'Atharva-vēda traduit et commenté, Paris, 1891. Henry's work was made the subject of a detailed review by Bloomfield in the American Journal of Philology (xii. 429-443) for 1891. Then, at Paris in 1892, appeared Le mythe de Rohita, traduction raisonnée du 13e livre de l'Atharva-vēda, by Paul Regnaud. As appears below, Ludwig's translation covers the first three of the four hymns of the book; Deussen's, the first and third; and Bloomfield's, the first. For books xii.-xvi. inclusive, the bhāṣya is wanting.]

[Paryāya-hymns: for details respecting them, see pages 471-2. The fourth or last hymn of this book is a paryāya-sūkta with 6 paryāyas. For the discrepancy of numeration as between the two editions, see page 611.]

[The anuvāka-division of the book is into four anuvākas of one hymn each, and is thus (like the anuvāka-division of book xii.) coincident with the hymn-division. A conspectus for book xiii. follows:

Verses	60	46	26	56†
Decad-division	6 tens	4 tens + 6	2 tens + 6	6 P

Here ¶ means "paragraph of a paryāya" (such as is numbered as a "verse" in the Berlin edition) and P means "paryāya." Of the "decads," anuvākas 1, 2, and 3 contain respectively 6, 5, and 3 (in all, 14 "decads"); while anuvāka 4 has 6 paryāyas. The sum is 14 "decad"-sūktas and 6 paryāya-sūktas or 20 sūktas (cf. p. 737).]

1. To Rohita (the sun, as ruddy one).

[Brahman.—ādhyātman; rohitādityadevatyam (3. māruṭi; 28-31. āgneyyah; 31. bakudevatyā). trāṣṭubham: 3-5, 9, 12, 15. jagati (15. atijāgatatagarbhā); 8. bhurij; [16. ?]; 17. 5-p. kakummatī jagati; 13. *atīcākvaragarbhā 'tijagati; 14. 3-p. paraṅkvarācākvarā vipa-ritapādalakṣmyā pañkti; 18, 19. 5-p. kakummaty atijagati (18. paraṅkvarā bhurij; 19. paratijagatā); 21. ārṣi nicrḍ gāyatrī; 22, 23, 27. prākṛtā; 26. virāḍ paroṣṇih; 28-30 (28. bhurij), 32, 39, 40, 45-50 and 51-56 [and 57-58]. anuṣṭubh (52, 55. pathyāpañkti; 55. kakummatī brhatīgarbhā; 57. kakummatī)†; 31. 5-p. kakummatī cākvaragarbhā jagati; 35. upariṣṭābhratī; 36. nicrṇ mahābhratī; 37. paraṅkvarā virāḍ atijagati; 42. virāḍ jagati; 43. virāṇ mahābhratī; 44. paroṣṇih; 59, 60. gāyatrī.]

Found also in Pāipp. xviii. [with vs. 30 after 31; vss. 56-57, 59-60 are lacking; vs. 58 is lacking in Pāipp. xviii., but is found in Pāipp. xx.]. A number of the verses are used in various parts of Kāuṣ., and several (four) in Vāit. * [So the Berlin ms. (against jagati of the London ms.): and atijagati more nearly fits the vs.] † [Here the Anukr. text looks as if in disorder: it seems as if yam vāta (vs. 51) iti śaḍ anuṣṭubhaḥ ought to refer to the 6 vss. 51, 53-54, 56-58.]

Translated: Muir, v. 395 (parts); Ludwig, p. 536; Scherman, p. 73 (parts); Henry, i, 21; Deussen, Geschichte, i. i. 218 (cf. his introduction, p. 212 ff.); Griffith, ii. 133; Bloomfield, 207, 661. — Furthermore, Bloomfield, in his review (AJP. xii. 429-443) of Henry, discusses a considerable number of passages from this hymn. These discussions will be briefly cited by reference to "AJP. xii." He considers that the hymn is secondarily "an allegorical exaltation of a king and his queen."

1. Rise up, O powerful one (? vājīn) that [art] within the waters, enter into this kingdom [that is] full of pleasantness; the ruddy one (rōhita) that generated this all—let him bear thee, well-borne, unto kingdom.

Rōhita is evidently a name or form of the sun; and the vājīn (Henry, 'conqueror of booty') addressed is also the sun. The verse [with faulty accents] is found also in TB. (ii. 5. 2*), which reads [asi after yō in a], ā viṇa in b, and, for d, sā no rāṣṭrēṣu sūdhītām dadhātu, which seems better, as removing the difficulty of the sun establishing the sun. Ppp. reads viṇvabhṛtam for viṇvam idam in c; and it has pīpartu for bībhartu at the end; [we had the converse at xi. 5. 4]. The resolution ud-ā-ihī is required to fill out the meter of a. All the four hymns of the book (under the name rohitās) are prescribed in Kāuṣ. 99. 4 to be used in case of a darkening (eclipse) of the sun. The first half-verse is, according to Kāuṣ. 49. 18, to be used in the witchcraft ceremony of the 'water-thunderbolts' (see x. 5) 'when the boat sinks.' [Cf. AJP. xii. 431.]

2. Up hath arisen the power (? vāja) that is within the waters; mount (ā-ruḥ) thou the clans (viṇ) that are sprung from thee (tvādyoni); assuming (dhā) the soma, the waters, the herbs, the kine, make thou the four-footed, the two-footed ones to enter here.

In b begins the play of words upon the root ruh 'ascend, mount, grow,' and its compounds and derivatives; this play is suggested by the at least apparent relationship between ruh and rohita, [and is found with considerable elaboration throughout] these hymns. Here it doubtless signifies 'have supremacy over.' Ppp. combines in b viçā 'roha, in c dadhānā 'po 'sadh-, and in d dvīpadā "veg-; and this last we have to accept in order to make a triṣṭubh pāda. In a the resolution of ā agan, and in b that of tuād-, make the meter right. The Anukr. takes no notice of any irregularity in the verse.

3. Do ye [who are] formidable, O Maruts, sons of the spotted mother, with Indra as ally, slaughter our foes; the ruddy one shall listen to you, ye liberal ones (suddnu), ye thrice seven Maruts that enjoy sweets together.

The first half-verse occurred above as v. 21. 11 a, b. We can hardly help emending triṣṭāṣo to triṣṭāṣo. Ppp. reads instead triṣṭāṣi. The verse is found also in TB. (ii. 5. 23), which reads in a ugrā (which is better), in b sayūjā prā nītha (corrupt), in c açṇod abhiḍyavaḥ, and in d (with the desired accent) trisṭāṣo. The verse lacks a syllable (in b) of being a proper jagati.

4. The ruddy one ascended (ruh), mounted the ascents (rūhi); [he,] the embryo of the wives, [mounted] the lap of births; him, taken hold of by them (f.), the six wide [spaces] discovered; seeing in advance the track, he hath brought (ā-h-) hither the kingdom.

The verse is found also in TB. (ii. 5. 21), which reads in a (much better) rōham-roham (for rūho ruroha), at the beginning of b prajābhir vṛddhim, and in c sāmradho avidat. Such variations are of interest especially as showing how little connected sense was recognized in these verses by those who established the texts. This verse has no right to the name of jagati, since all its pādas have a trochaic close; the two redundant syllables in a and c are removed by the TB. readings. [For dhāh, see Prāt. ii. 46.] [With regard to the transition-sound between -dan and śād, see Prāt. ii. 9, note.]

5. The ruddy one hath brought hither thy kingdom; the scorers have scattered; fearlessness hath become thine; unto thee, being such, let heaven-and-earth, by the revātīs, yield (duh) here thy desire by the çkavarīs.

Our mss. are divided in d between duhāthām and -tām: the majority give -thām (so Bs.s.m.Bp.O.D.R.T.K.); while P.M.W.E.p.m. have -tām; [and so has Ppp.]. Kp. reads āsthat in b, the other pada-mss. -an; if -at is accepted, it will mean 'he has scattered the scorers'; the form may best be viewed, probably, as coming from sthā, like ādat from dā and ādhat from dhā [see Skt. Gram. § 847]; a root asth is extremely improbable; [it is discussed at AJP. xii. 439 and IF. v. 388, where references to previous discussions are given; to these add KZ. xxxii. 435; cf. also note to vii. 76. 3 above]. The verse occurs also in TB. (ii. 5. 21), which has very different readings: āhārīd rāṣṭrām ihā, rōhito mṛdho vy āsthad abhayaṁ no astu: asmābhyam dyāvāpṛthivī çkavarībhi rāṣṭrām duhāthām ihā revātībhih. The verse is no jagati; by the frequent and permissible contraction to -pṛthivī in c it becomes a fairly good triṣṭubh (badly constructed in a). It is reckoned as belonging to the abhaya gaṇa: see note to Kāuṣ. 16. 8. [Ppp., like TB., puts mṛdho before vy ā- in b.] [For vss. 4-5, see AJP. xii. 432.]

6. The ruddy one generated heaven-and-earth; there the most exalted one stretched the line (tántu); there was supported (grī) the one-footed goat (? ajā); by strength he made firm (dṛṣṭ) heaven-and-earth.

Ppp. reads in c ekapād yo. The verse occurs in TB. (ii. 5. 23), with only slight variants: tāsmīn for tātra in b and c, and ekapāt in c. [Cf. AJP. xii. 443.]

7. The ruddy one made firm heaven-and-earth; by him was established the sky (svār), by him the firmament (nāka); by him the atmosphere, the spaces (rājas) were measured out; by him the gods discovered immortality (amṛta).

The verse is found in TB. (ib.), the second half-verse reading quite differently: śo antārikṣe rājaso vimānas tēna devāḥ sūvar ānu avindan. Ppp. combines and reads in d devā 'mṛtatvam.

8. The ruddy one examined (vi-mṛṣ) the all-formed, collecting to himself the fore-ascents and the ascents; having ascended the sky with great greatness, let him anoint (sam-añj) thy kingdom with milk, with ghee.

The TB. version (ii. 5. 23) has, for a, vi mamarṣa rōhito viçvadrūpaḥ; in b, samācakrānāḥ; in c, gatvāya (for rūdhvā [improving the meter]); for d, vi no rāṣṭrām unattu pāyasā svēna. Ppp. combines in a -to 'mṛṣat, and reads in b samākṛyuvānaḥ.

9. What ascents, fore-ascents thou hast, what on-ascents (ārūḥ) thou hast, with which thou fillest the sky, the atmosphere, with the brāhman, with the milk of them increasing, do thou watch over the people (vīç) in the kingdom of the ruddy one.

Though the first three pādas count 12 syllables each, only a is jagati in structure. With a, b compare xviii. 2. 9 a, b. [For vss. 8-9, see AJP. xii. 433.]

10. What clans (vīç) of thine came into being out of ardor (tāpas), those have come hither after the young (vatsā), the gāyatrī; let them enter (ā-vīç) into thee with propitious mind; let the ruddy young with its mother go against [them].

Or (in a) 'what clans came into being out of thy heat.' In b, the pāda-text has iḥā : ā : agūḥ. In d, sāmmātā means more probably 'having a common mother,' but the sense is too obscure to allow of much confidence in any translation. The TB. version (ii. 5. 23) reads in a tāpasā (better); for b, gāyatrām vatsām ānu tās ta ā 'guḥ; in c, māhasā svēna; in d, putrō (for vatsō). The Anukr. does not heed that the last pāda is jagati. Ppp. combines in d vatsō 'bhy.

11. The ruddy one hath stood aloft upon the firmament (nāka), generating all forms, [he,] young, poet; Agni shineth forth with keen light; in the third space (rājas) he hath done dear things.

Ppp. reads dhāsi in c. The Anukr. again passes without notice the jagati pāda b. [W. suggests by interlineation as alternative, 'hath made for himself dear forms.']

12. The thousand-horned bull Jātavedas, offered to with ghee, soma-backed, having good heroes — let him not abandon me; let me not, a suppliant, abandon thee *; assign thou to me both prosperity in kine and prosperity in heroes.

The verse is found also in TB. (iii. 7. 27), K. (xxxv. 18), and Āp. [ix. 3. 1]. TB. (with which Āp. [substantially] agrees throughout) has, for b, stómaṣṛṣṭho ghṛtāvānt suprá-tikaḥ; and, for c, d, mā no hāsin metthitō nēt tvā jāhāma goṣaṁ no vīraṣaṁ ca yaccha. Ppp. reads in b ghṛtāhūtis so-. The irregular verse (12 + 11 : 12 + 12, but with triṣṭubh cadences throughout) is very ill described by the Anukr. as simply a jagati. * [All the translators, with W., seem to overlook the accent of jāhāni: nēt can hardly mean aught else than 'lest.']

13. The ruddy one is generator and mouth of the sacrifice; to the ruddy one I make oblation with speech, with hearing, with mind; to the ruddy one go the gods with favoring mind; let him cause me to ascend with ascensions (rōha) of meeting (sāmityá).

The pāda-texts read blunderingly in d sāmoityāt (instead of -yālī). Henry emends to samityāt 'in order to union with him'; but sāmīti has the well-established sense of 'meeting, gathering, assembly'; hence Ludwig (for rohāṇi s-) 'with abundant success in the samīti.' [See AJP. xii. 434.] Ppp. reads at the end rohayāti. The verse is kindred with ii. 35. 5 in general expression. Its metrical structure (12 + 15 : 13 + 11 = 51) is wholly irregular; the definition of the Anukr. [52 syllables] [nearly] fits it mechanically.

14. The ruddy one disposed the sacrifice for Viçvakarman; therefrom have these brilliancies come unto me; may I speak thy navel (nābhi) upon the range (majmán) of existence.

The last pāda is repeated below as vs. 37 d. Ppp. reads in a vi dadhāt. The metrical definition implies the resolution vī ad-, and two resolutions in b (-si ūpa and mā im-, doubtless), to make a pañkti (14 + 12 : 14 = 40).

15. Unto thee ascended brhatī and pañkti, unto [thee], O Jāavedas, kakūbh with honor; unto thee ascended the uṣṇihā syllable, the vāṣaṭ-utterance; unto thee ascended the ruddy one along with seed.

Or uṣṇihāoakṣarāḥ (so p.) is, in spite of its accent, an adjective to vāṣaṭkāraḥ (so Henry). Read in a brhaty ūtā; though all our mss. except [O.] K. happen to agree here in lengthening the ū. Saha at the end is, of course, a misprint for sahā. Ppp. reads at for uta in a, and viçvavedaḥ in b. [The Anukr. appears to count the syllables as 11 + 10 : 13 + 13 = 47.] The metrical irregularities in this book exceed the ordinary measure. [For vs. 15, 17–20, cf. AJP. xii. 434.]

16. This one clothes himself in the embryo (womb?) of the earth; this one clothes himself in the sky, the atmosphere; this one, on the summit of the reddish one, has penetrated the heaven (svār), the worlds.

Ppp. reads viṣṭapas sv- in c-d, and sam ānaç in d. The verse (9 + 9 : 8 + 8 = 34) seems to be overlooked in the Anukr., or its definition has dropped out of the mss. Verses 16–20 are prescribed in Kāuṣ. 54. 10 to accompany, in the godāna-ceremony, the dressing of the child in a new garment. They are much better suited to that use than to their surroundings here.

17. O lord of speech, [be] earth pleasant to us; [be] the lair (yóni) pleasant, [be] our couch very propitious; just here be breath in our companionship; thee here, O most exalted one, let Agni surround with life-time, with honor.

Henry understands sakhyé as dat. of sákhi, against the accent. The Anukr. apparently views the verse as [10 + 10 : 10 + 12 + 6 = 48]. The verse (with the two following?) is included among the vācaspatilingās, used in Kāuṣ. 41. 15 in a ceremony for good luck. Ppp. reads at the end -ṣṭhi pary aham varcasā dadhāmi.

18. O lord of speech, the five seasons that are ours, that came forth into being as Viṣvakarman's—just here be breath in our companionship; thee here, O most exalted one, let the ruddy one surround with life-time, with honor.

The mss. read in a yé nāu (but I.R. yó nāu [yónāu]); [SPP's text and most of his authorities have yé nāu: but two have yónāu;] the edition makes the apparently necessary correction to yé no. [The Anukr. seems to scan as 11 + 12 : 10 + 14 + 6 = 53.] Ppp. omits ye nāu (or no) in a, and sam- in b, and āyusā near the end.

19. O lord of speech, [generate] well-willing and mind; generate kine in our stall (goṣṭhā), progeny in our wombs (yóni); just here be breath in our companionship; thee here, O most exalted one, I surround with life-time, with honor.

Ppp. reads in b prajām, and in d avaham (for aham), omitting, as before, āyusā, [and having again dadhātu at the end, repeated unintelligently from the preceding].

20. May Savitar, god Agni, surround thee [with honor]; with honor may Mitra-and-Varuṇa deck (abhi[+ dhā]) thee; striding down all niggards come thou; thou hast made this kingdom full of pleasantness.

The shift from pāri in a to abhi in b makes a mixed and difficult construction. Ppp. combines devo 'gnir in a and sarvā 'rātir in c, and reads (better) kṛṇuhi in d.

21. Thou whom the spotted one (f.), the side-horse, draws (vaḥ) in the chariot, O ruddy one, thou goest with brightness (śubh), making flow the waters.

This verse corresponds to RV. viii. 7. 28, which, however, has considerable variants: for a, yád eṣām pṛṣṭatī (p. -tīḥ) rāthe; in b, rohitaḥ; in c, yānti cūbhā (p. -rāḥ). As is usual in such cases, some of our mss. read pṛṣṭis in b, and ṛṇan in c. And most read rohitaḥ [unaccented] at end of b (only Bs.R.K. -ta), as if under influence of the RV. version. [SPP. adopts in his text rohita, but reports six of his mss. as giving rohitaḥ, without accent.] Ppp. adds at the end tene 'mam brahmaṇaspate ruham rohayo 'ttanam. The verse is quoted in a ceremony for prosperity by Kāuṣ. (24. 42), which volunteers the added explanation dyaūḥ pṛṣaty ādityo rohitaḥ; and it is also included among the puṣṭika mantras: see note to Kāuṣ. 19. 1. Kāuṣ. 24. 43 states further that a spotted cow is given (as sacrificial fee); and the comm. appears to direct that vss. 21-26 accompany the gift.

22. She that is ruddy (róhiṇī) is submissive to the ruddy one, being liberal (sūrtī), of beautiful color, vast (bṛhatī), very splendid; by her may we conquer booty (vājān) of all forms; by her may we overcome all fighters.

Róhiṇī, doubtless the dawn. Our pada-mss. read in c -rūpām, by a blundering misapprehension of the assimilated nasal in the combination -pāṇ ja- [Prāt. ii. 11]. M.p.m. [and SPP's C.] read at end syāma; the passage is quoted as an instance of sy- in the comm. to Prāt. ii. 107. Ppp. reads sūryas su- in b, and combines pṛtanā 'bhi in d. In the Anukr. (by an exceptional usage hardly met with elsewhere) this verse and the next, and a little later vs. 27, are specified as prākṛta [mss. prakṛta]: i.e., as following the established norm of the hymn, which is triṣṭubh.

23. Here the seat (sádas), she that is ruddy, of the ruddy one; yonder the road by which the spotted one (f.) goes; her the Gandharvas, the Kaṣyapas, lead up; her the poets defend unremittingly.

All the mss. except O.D. (and these differ perhaps only by accident) read in c gan-dharvāḥ, as if vocative.

24. The sun's yellow (hári) bright (ketumān) horses, immortal, constantly draw the easy-running chariot; the ghee-drinking ruddy one, shining (bhṛāj), the god, entered the spotted sky.

Bs.E. combine in b amṛtās su-. The Anukr. does not heed the jagat pāda b.

25. The ruddy one, the sharp-horned bull, who encompassed Agni, the sun, who props asunder (vi-stabhi) the earth and the heaven — out of him do the gods create creations.

Ppp. begins with ayan roh-. The curious reading of O. in c, ṣṭab-h-nāti (the b and h two different letters), was noted above, under xii. 4. 4. [“Encompassed”: Bloomfield, “became superior to,” AJP. xii. 443.] Kāuṣ. 18. 25 gives the verse, in company with several others, as to be used in the so-called citrākarmaṇ (ceremony concerning the asterism citrā) to accompany the partaking of a milk rice-dish; and the Paddhati includes both it and the following verse in the salila gaṇa.

26. The ruddy one mounted the sky, out of the great sea (arṇavá); the ruddy one ascended all ascents.

That the verse is reckoned as belonging to the salila gaṇa was noted under the preceding verse.

27. Measure thou out (vi-mā) the milk-giving, ghee-dripping (ghṛtānc) [cow]; this is the unresisting milch-cow of the gods. Let Indra drink the soma; let there be comfort (kṣéma); let Agni commence praising; do thou thrust away the scorners.

Ppp. reads eṣām at end of b. With the verse is to be compared Āp. xi. 4. 14: vi mime tvā payasvatīm devānām dhenum sudughām anapasphurantiṃ: indraḥ somam pibatu kṣemo astu naḥ, which accompanies the measuring out of a vedi in shape of a cow. In Vāit. 15. 7; 28. 23, it is used in a like manner; and so also in Kāuṣ. 137. 10, in preparing for the ājyatantra; [cf. also note to 137. 4].

28. Agni, kindled, being kindled, increased with ghee, offered to with ghee — let the overpowering, all-overpowering Agni slay them who are my rivals.

This verse (though there are others having the same pratīka) is doubtless the one quoted (next after vs. 1) in Kāuṣ. 49. 19, to accompany the laying of bonds upon the "boat" there treated of; [rather, the laying of sticks with strings on them upon the fire: Caland, p. 173]. The description of the Anukr. strangely forbids us to make the elision -dho 'gnīh in a.

29. Let him slay them, burn [them] away, — the enemy (āri) who fights us; by the flesh-eating fire do we burn away our rivals.

Ppp. reads in a enām; we require enām, as antecedent to b, which, as the verse now stands, seems to describe the subject of the verbs in a. Ppp. has also agnis for aris in b.

30. Do thou, O Indra, having arms, smite them down downward with the thunderbolt; then my rivals have I taken to myself with Agni's brightnesses (téjas).

Ppp. puts the verse after our 31, and reads at the end ā dadhe. [Or ādīsi may be referred to dā 'cut' + ā: so W. in a ms. note to his Index, and so BR. But BR's forms from vi. 104 are referred by W. to dā 'tie.']

31. O Agni, make our rivals fall below us; stagger the truculent (utpīṇāna) fellow, O Brihaspati; O Indra-and-Agni, O Mitra-and-Varuṇa, let them fall below [us], impotent in their fury.

Lit. 'not making their fury effective against' us. The Anukr. apparently understands the structure of the verse as 12 + 14 : 8 + 6 + 8 = 48; but there is no good reason for dividing the last redundant pāda into two. Ppp. reads utpīḍānaṁ (for utpīṇānaṁ [discussed AJP. xii. 441]) in b.

32. Do thou, O heavenly sun, arising, smite down my rivals; smite them down with the stone; let them go to lowest darkness.

Ppp. appears to read avāi 'nām raṁbīhir jahi rātrīṇām tamasā vadhīs taṁ hantv adhamāṁ tamaḥ. [We had our ḍ at x. 3. 9 ḍ.]

33. The young (vatsā) of the virāj, the bull of prayers (matī), mounted, bright-backed, the atmosphere; with ghee they sing (arc) the song (arkā) unto the young; him, being brāhman, they increase with brāhman.

Ppp. combines in b -prīṣho ant. TB. (ii. 8. 89) has a corresponding verse, but with numerous variants: pitā virājām ṛṣabhō rayīṇām antārikṣaṁ viṣvārūpa ā viveṣa: tām arkāṁ abhy ārcanti vatsām brāhma sāntam brāhmaṇā vardhāyantaḥ. [Bloomfield, AJP. xii. 441, would emend arkām to aktām; but the TB. variant is very much against it.] Our verse is quoted in Kāuṣ. 12. 4, at the end of a charm for securing one's wishes.

34. Both ascend thou to heaven and ascend to earth; both ascend to kingdom and ascend to property; both ascend to progeny and ascend to immortality; make thyself contiguous with the ruddy one.

The verse is quoted in Vāit. 13. 5 to accompany the leading up of the cow that is to be exchanged for the soma-plant.

35. The kingdom-bearing gods who go to surround (abhītas) the sun—in concord with them let the ruddy one, with favoring mind, assign kingdom to thee.

The combination tātṣ ṣe is quoted as example under Prāt. ii. 84. The verse (7 + 8 : 9 + 11 : or 8 in a, if we resolve deva-ā or rāṣṭr-a-) is far too irregular to be defined simply as an upariṣṭādbhratī.

36. Sacrifices purified by brāhman carry thee up ; yellow (hārī) roadsters draw (vah) thee ; thou shinest over (ati-ruc) across the ocean, the sea.

The verse might better be called virāj than nicṛt (11 + 11 : 12). Ppp. reads in b abhyaktuṣ (for adhvaḡato) ; and in c -se arṇavam, as do some of our mss. (O.R.T.K.). [Pādas a and b recur below, vs. 43.]

37. On the ruddy one are set (çritā) heaven-and-earth, on the goods-conquering, kine-conquering, booty-conquering one, of whom the births are a thousand and seven ; may I speak thy navel on the range of existence.

Ppp. reads for b vasujid gojit saṁdhanājiti, and in c draviṇāni saṁtatir. The obscure last pāda is identical with vs. 14 c.

38. Glorious thou goest to the directions and quarters, glorious of cattle and of people (çarṣaṇī) ; glorious in the lap of earth, of Aditi, may I become pleasant (cāru) like Savitar.

Ppp. reads nu instead of ca in a, and asmi instead of bhūyāsam in d ; and it combines ṣṛthivya 'dī in c. There is a deficiency of a syllable, unnoticed in the Anukr., in a, unless we resolve ya-āsi.

39. Being yonder, thou knowest here ; being on this side, thou seest those things ; from this side they see the shining space (rócana), the inspired sun in the sky.

Ppp. begins c with yataṣ paç.

40. Thou, a god, molestest (mṛc) the gods ; thou goest about within the sea (arṇavā) ; they kindle the same fire ; it the high (pāra) poets know.

'It,' i.e. 'the fire' (tām). Ppp. reads marçayati and carati. [Bloomfield, AJP. xii. 437, emends to devān arçayasi ; but Ppp., and the antithesis of a and b, admirably suggested by Deussen's dennoch, are in favor of marc-]

41. Below the distant, thus beyond the lower, bearing her calf with her foot, the cow hath stood up ; whitherwards, to what quarter, hath she forsooth gone away ? where giveth she birth ? for [it is] not in this herd.

This is a repetition of ix. 9. 17, and, as there are two successive verses beginning with avāh pāreṇa, this one is quoted here in the mss. with the unusual expression avāh pāreṇ 'ti pūrvā. [The Anukr. doubtless balances the extra syllable in a by counting kūa as one syllable in ḍ.]

42. One-footed, two-footed [is] she, four-footed; having become eight-footed, nine-footed, thousand-syllabled, a series of existence; out from her flow apart the oceans.

This verse is the pādas b-e of ix. 10. 21 (RV. i. 164. 41 b-d, 42 a) [see under ix. 10. 21 for variants]. It and the preceding are very little in place in our hymn. [With ḍ cf. 3. 2 b, below.]

43. Mounting the sky, immortal, do thou favor my words; sacrifices purified by brāhman carry thee up; yellow roadsters draw thee.

Pādas b and c are identical with 36 a, b. Instead of adhvagatas, Ppp. reads ghṛtāṇi pibantāṇi. Bp. accents prā : āva.

44. I know that of thine, O immortal one, namely (yāt) thy climb (ākṛāmaṇa) in the sky, thy station (sadhāstha) in the highest firmament.

Vyḍmanī would make a more regular paraṣṇih, but the Anukr. takes no notice of the deficiency.

45. The sun overlooks (ati-paṣ) the sky, the sun the earth, the sun the waters; the sun, the one eye of what exists, hath mounted the great sky.

The verse is made in Vāit. 16. 11 to accompany the antaryāmahoma after sunrise.

46. The wide ones (urvī) were the enclosures; the earth took shape as sacrificial hearth; there the ruddy one set (ā-dhā) these two fires, cold and heat.

47. Having set cold and heat, having made the mountains sacrificial posts (yūpa), having rain as sacrificial butter, the two fires of the sky-finding ruddy one performed sacrifice (yaj).

The Anukr. appears to ratify the resolution kṛtu-ā in b. Ppp., in this verse as later, combines agnī "jāte. [For 46, Hillebrandt, Ved. Mythol. i. 179, cites ÇB. i. 2. 57.]

48. The fire of the sky-finding ruddy one is kindled with brāhman; therefrom heat, therefrom cold, therefrom the sacrifice was born.

The majority of mss. read correctly yajñd 'jāy- at the end; the rest vary between -ñd aj- and -ñd aj-. Ppp. reads -ño aj-; and, in b, samāhitaḥ for sam idhyate.

49. The two fires [are] increasing by brāhman, increased with brāhman, offered to with brāhman: kindled with brāhman, the two fires of the sky-finding ruddy one performed sacrifice.

Ppp. reads for a brahmaṇā 'gnis samvidāno, and in b -ddho, -hutaḥ, and again combines in c agnī "jāte. With b compare vs. 28 b.

50. The one is all set in truth, the other is kindled in the waters: kindled with etc. etc.

Ppp. reads in b samāhitas [again: cf. 48] for sam idhyate, and adds another pāda: satye adbhīs samāhitaḥ.

51. What one the wind adorns about, or what one Indra, Brahmanaspati: kindled with etc. etc.

Ppp. omits vā in b.

52. Having shaped (kṛp) the earth as sacrificial hearth, having made the sky sacrificial fee, then having made heat his fire, the ruddy one made all that has soul, with rain as sacrificial butter.

53. Rain as sacrificial butter, heat as fire, earth as sacrificial hearth took shape; there, with songs (gītṛ), the fire shaped these mountains aloft.

Ppp. reads 'gnir in a, and some of our mss. (P.M.p.m.W.) give the same. P.M.W. also have in common the blunder bhūmipr ak- in b. It is doubtless by a loss of part of its text that the Anukr. does not define vss. [57-58] as anuṣṭubh, although it describes a minor feature of vs. 57, taken as an anuṣṭubh. [With 52, cf. vs. 46.]

54. Having shaped [them] aloft by songs, the ruddy one said to the earth: in thee let this all be born, what is (bhūtā) or what is to be.

Ppp. reads at the end bhavyam.

55. That first sacrifice was born [as] the one that is, that is to be; from that was born this all, whatsoever shines out (vi-ruc) here, brought (ā-bhṛ) by the ruddy one [as] seer.

Ppp. ends the hymn with this verse, although vs. 58 is found in another place. It combines jajñe 'davi, as we are doubtless to read, though not with the sanction of the Anukr., which calls the pāda brhātī. [Cf. iv. 23. 7.]

56. Whoever both kicks a cow with the foot and urinates in face of the sun — of such a one I hew off (vraṇc) thy root; thou shalt not further cast (kṛ) shadow.

[Cf. the note on the vs. concerning posture in urination at vii. 102: and add that Buddhaghosa, in his comment on the description of the Acelakas, at Dīgha Nikāya, viii. 14 (as reported by Davids, Translation, p. 227), speaks of the standing posture as wrong. — As to making water with face towards the sun, cf. MBh. xiii. 104. 75 (5029), and note to Manu iv. 48 in my Reader, p. 349, and the references there given, especially the reference to Jolly's Viṣṇu, SBE. vii. 194 f. — As for the loss of the shadow, cf. the Peter Schlemihl story; also Jātaka, i. 102^o; vi. 337¹¹.]

The character of this and the following verses shows that Ppp. has reason for not making them a part of the hymn. This verse makes its appearance in Kāuṣ. 49. 26, at the conclusion of a series of witchcraft ceremonies. [For the theoretical k of pratyāñk, see note to vi. 51. 1.]

57. Thou that goest past me shading me, and between me and the fire, I hew off thy root; thou shalt not further cast shadow.

The connection appears to demand this pregnant rendering of abhichāyām 'so as to cast thy shadow on' (so also Ludwig). It is easy to read b as a regular anuṣṭubh pāda, though the Anukr. allows it only six syllables.

58. Whoso this day, O heavenly sun, shall go between both thee and me — on him we wipe off evil-dreaming, pollution, and difficulties.

This verse is found in Ppp. xx., which reads for c tasmin duṣvaṇṇyaṁ sarvaṁ.

59. Let us not go forth from the road, nor, O Indra, from the sacrifice with soma; let not the niggards stand between us.

That is, between us and something else, so as to cut us off from our desire or object. The verse is, without variant, RV. x. 57. 1, and found also in JB. iii. 168. It is used once in Vāit. (18. 8), and several times in Kāuṣ. (54. 18; 82. 6; 89. 11; also by the schol. under 42. 15; 58. 17).

60. What line, accomplisher of the sacrifice, is stretched clear to the gods, that, sacrificed unto, may we attain.

The verse is RV. x. 57. 2, which reads at the end naṣṭmahi. It is used by the schol. to Kāuṣ. 58. 17, with vs. 59, in the ceremony of name-giving.

[Here ends the first anuvāka, 1 hymn and 60 verses. The quoted Anukr. says ṣaṣṭiḥ.]

2. To the sun.

[(Brahman. — ādhyātman; rohitādityadevatyam. trāiṣṭubham :) 1, 12-15, 39-41. anuṣṭubh; 2, 3, 8, 43. jagati; 10. āstārapaṅkti; 11. bṛhatigarbhā; 16-24. āṣi gāyatrī; 25. kakummaty āstārapaṅkti; 26. purodyatijāgatā bhuriḥ jagati; 27. virāḍ jagati; 29. dārhatagarbhā 'nuṣṭubh; 30. 5-p. uṣṇigbṛhatigarbhā 'tijagati; 34. āṣi paṅkti; 37. 5-p. virāḍgarbhā jagati; 44, 45. jagati (44. 4-p. pūrahāḥkavāḥ bhuriḥ; 45. atijāgatarabhā).]

Found also in Pāipp. xviii. Only twice (vs. 1) quoted in Kāuṣ., but several times (eight different verses) by Vāit.

Translated: Ludwig, p. 540; Henry, 8, 36; Griffith, ii. 143. — In this hymn, the sun is mentioned by the name rōhita only in vss. 25 and 39-41. Verses 39-41 are translated also by Muir, v. 396; Scherman, p. 75 (with vss. 25-26); Deussen, Geschichte, i. 1. 213 (also vss. 25-26 at p. 226). — The verses 16-24, which are RV. i. 50. 1-9, are translated by the RV. translators, and are commented and in part translated by me in Skt. Reader, p. 362-3.

1. The bright (ṣukrā) shining lights (ketú) of him go up in the sky — of the men-watching Āditya, him of great courses (-vratā), liberal (mīdhvāns).

Ppp. reads in d mahīvr-. Kāuṣ. 58. 22 prescribes the use apparently of the whole hymn (with xvi. 3 and xvii.) in an act of worship to the rising sun, in a ceremony for long life; also (with the same and other hymns, and xiii. 1. 25) in 18. 25, in the citrā-karman: see the note to 1. 25 above. Vāit. 9. 16 uses it in the cāturmāsya ceremony when turning toward the sun in the east.

2. [Him,] shining (sva) with the brightness (arcis) of the foreknowing quarters, well-winged, flying swift in the ocean (arṇavā) — we would praise the sun, the shepherd of existence, who with his rays shines unto all the quarters.

The Pet. Lex. (followed by Henry) emends prajñānām to prajñānam, with much plausibility; yet it is opposed by x. 7. 34, dīḥo yāc cakrē prajñānāth. Ppp. reads prajñānaṁ svadāyanto arc-; and it combines in ḍ diṣā "bhāti. The verse lacks two syllables of being a proper jagati.

3. In that thou goest swiftly eastward, westward, at will (svadhāyā), makest by magic (māyā) the two days of diverse form — that, O Āditya, [is] great, that thy great fame (çrāvas), that thou alone art born about the whole world (bhūman).

'The two days,' i.e. 'day and night.' The first pāda is triṣṭubh.

4. The inspired, hasting (tarāṇī), shining one, whom seven numerous (bahū) yellow steeds (harit) draw, whom out of the liquid (? srutā) Atri conducted up the sky — thee here they see going around upon thy race.

Half of our mss. appear plainly to read stutāt in c, but the apparent distinction is of no value; sr and st are virtually one in ms. use. Ppp. helps to establish sru-, by reading, for c, ḍ, çrutād divam atri divam anyanāya tam tvā paçyema paryantim ājīm. GB. i. 2. 17 has c (the published text reads stutād), with vs. 12 a, b, as if a verse. [As for the Atri story, cf. my essay on RV. v. 40 in Festgruss an Roth, p. 187. For the construction of ājīm, see Ved. Stud. ii. 261.]

5. Let them not damage thee going around upon thy race; happily do thou cross the difficulties quickly; when, O sun, thou goest to both sky and divine earth, measuring out day-and-night.

Or, 'sky' and 'earth' may be joint objects of 'measuring' (so Henry, and apparently Ludwig). Ppp. reads paryantam in a, and sugena durgam in b. We have to make the, in its situation, awkward resolution tu-ā in a in order to fill out the meter; [or -yāntam?].

6. Well-being, O sun, [be] to thy chariot for its moving, wherewith thou goest at once about both borders (ānta) — which thy yellow steeds, of excellent draught, draw: a hundred horses, or else seven, numerous.

'At once' (sadyās), doubtless 'on one and the same day'; 'borders,' i.e. 'horizons.' Half the mss. read bāhiṣṭhās, both in this and in the next verse. Ppp. has in a carato rathāsi, and in b paryāsi;* and for ḍ, instead of repeating 7 ḍ, it gives tam ā roha sukham āsy açvan. ["Numerous" is fem.; and we may think of "horses" as fem.] * [For the relation of paryāsi to paryāsi, cf. that of -āni yasya to -ānsy asya, above, x. 7. 20, and see Gram. § 233 a.]

7. Mount (adhi-sthā), O sun, thine easy-running chariot, rich in rays, pleasant, well-horsed, powerful (? vājīn), which thy yellow steeds, of excellent draught, draw: a hundred horses, or else seven, numerous.

All our mss. accent sūrya in a; our edition emends to sūrya. Ppp. has in b syono-syavahnim. The Anukr. perhaps regards the redundant syllable in b as balanced by the deficiency in a. [Cf. 6 c, ḍ.]

8. The sun hath yoked in his chariot, in order to go, his seven great yellow steeds, golden-skinned; the bright one hath been freed from the dimness (? rājas) in the distance; shaking away the darkness, the god hath mounted the sky.

Ppp. reads çûras for sûryas in a, and çakras for çukras in c, and apparently ayunhita in b. The verse is very ill defined as simple jagati; the true reading in b would seem to be hiraṇyatvacas.

9. The god hath come up with great show (ketû); he hath wasted away the darkness, hath set up (abhi-çri) the light; that hero, heavenly eagle, son of Aditi, hath looked abroad unto all beings.

Abhi-çri, more literally, 'affix, fasten on' (to the sky). [For the form açrâit, see Gram. § 889 a, and note to vi. 32. 2. For avrk, Gram. § 832 a.] Ppp. reads in c sihavirus for sa vîras, and has a curious d: âdityâṣ putram nâthagâm abhayâm attîâ.

10. Rising, thou extendest thy rays; thou adornest thyself with all forms; thou illuminest (vi-bhâ) with might (? krâtu) both oceans, encompassing all worlds, shining.

Ppp. has an altogether different b: prajâs sarvâ vi paçyasi. [It may be that "adornest" is a slip on W's part. Cf. Henry's note, p. 37-38.]

11. They two move on one after the other by magic; two playing young ones go about the ocean; the one looks abroad upon all beings; yellow steeds draw the other with golden [trappings?].

The first three pādas are identical with vii. 81. 1 a-c (repeated at xiv. 1. 23), and are found in other texts: see the note to that verse; the last pāda is peculiar, and, as applying only to the sun, spoils the description of the pair of luminaries, sun and moon, which the verse sets out to make. Henry regards the daily and the nightly sun as intended, and the hāiranyas as the stars, by means of which the latter finds his way back to the eastern horizon. It would have been better to read yâto 'rṇavām here, as in vii. 81. 1, since the majority of our samhitâ-mss. (all save Bs.E.) give it in this place also.

12. Atri maintained thee in the sky, O sun, to make the month; thou goest well-maintained, heating, looking down upon all things that exist.

All our mss. read in b sûryâ, as if we had here the compound sûryâmâsâ; the pāda-mss. have sûryâ : mûsâya; the correction to sûrya seems unavoidable. GB., which has the first two pādas (see note to vs. 4), also gives sûryâ; Ppp. also has it; and, for d, svar bhûtâ viçâkaçat [so Roth: perhaps a slip for vicâk].

13. Thou rushest alike (? sam-ṛṣ) to both borders, as a calf to two joint mothers; surely (nanû), that brâhman yon gods have long known.

A naïve extension of the usual naïve figure of the calf: as if he had two mothers, to each of which he showed equal attachment. Brâhman, apparently 'sacred mystery' (so Henry). In d, lit. 'know of old from now.'

14. What is set (çritâ) along the ocean, that the sun desires to gain (san); great is stretched out his road, which is both eastern and western.

The pāda-text has in b sisâsati [misprinted and corrected by SPP.], and the passage is quoted as an example under Prât. ii. 91; iv. 29, 82. Ppp. reads adhi for anu in a.

15. That one he attains completely (sam-āp) with his swiftesses; that he desires not to neglect (?apa-cikits); by that [men] do not appropriate the gods' draught of immortality (amṛta).

Apa-cikits, lit. 'desire to think away from,' with abl.; the expression is found only here. The logic of ā is not obvious; Henry supplies 'the demons' as subject of āva rundhate; Ludwig renders it as a singular. Ppp. reads jigitsati in b; and, in c etc., bhākṣaṇāṁ devūnāṁ naṁ va ru-; bhākṣaṇam is an improvement; the meter of c halts badly without it.

16. This heavenly Jātavedas the lights (ketú) draw (vah) up, for every one to see the sun.

Or śṛyam may be in apposition with jātāvedasam. 'Draw,' i.e. as horses do. This verse, with the eight that follow, constitute RV. i. 50. 1-9, in the same order of verses, and with few variants; they are also all found in one or more other Vedic texts: this one in SV. (i. 31), VS. (7. 41; 8. 41; 33. 31), TS. (i. 2. 82; 4. 43⁺), and MS. (i. 3. 37) — in all, without a variant. The whole hymn [i.e. vss. 16-24] is repeated further in xx. 47. 13-21. This verse is used three times in Vāit.: at 21. 23; at 33. 5 (with the following five verses); and at 39. 16 (with the following two verses). [The pratīka is cited at MGS. i. 2. 4. The frequency of the citation or occurrence of the verse may be judged by consulting MGS. Index, p. 148.]

17. Away go, like thieves, these asterisms with their rays (aktú), for the all-beholding sun.

Or c may possibly mean 'for all to behold the sun.' The remaining verses (17-24) of the RV. hymn [i.e. i. 50. 1-9] are found in SV. only in the Nāigeya appendix to the first book; this one (i. 634) has no variant. Henry renders aktúbbhis 'with the night.'

18. The lights (ketú), the rays of him have been seen abroad among the peoples, like shining fires.

Of the other texts, only VS. (viii. 40) follows RV. in reading at the beginning adr̥ḡram; the others (SV. i. 635; MS. i. 3. 33) agree with our text.

19. Speedy, conspicuous to all, light-making art thou, O sun; thou shinest unto everything, O bright space (rocand).

All our mss. read at the end rocana, save Bs., which has rocanam, and M., rocandm, and the translation follows them, although the word is a senseless variant of rocandm, which is given by RV., and by all the other texts: SV. (i. 636), VS. (xxxiii. 36), TS. (i. 4. 31⁺), TA. (iii. 16. 1), and MS. (iv. 10. 6). Ppp. has rocana.

20. In front of the clans of the gods, in front of those of men thou risest; in front of every one, for seeing the sky (svār).

RV. reads at end of b mānuṣān, and SV. (i. 637) has the same.

21. With whom [as] eye thou, O purifying Varuṇa, seest him that busies himself among the people (jānān).

SV. (i. 638) reads at the beginning yēna; VS. (xxxiii. 32) agrees with RV. and our text.

22. Thou goest through the sky, the broad welkin (rājas), fashioning (mā) the day with [thy] rays, seeing the generations (jānman), O sun.

RV. reads dhā in b. SV. (i. 639) has the same, and also úd for vt at the beginning, and rājah p-. Henry again renders aktúbbhis 'with the night.'

23. Seven yellow steeds, O heavenly sun, draw in the chariot thee the flame-haired, the out-looking.

RV. reads at the end vicakṣaṇa, and SV. (i. 641) and TS. (ii. 4. 14⁴) agree with it. MS. (iv. 10. 6) has instead purupriya, and, in the preceding word, ṣoṭhik.

24. The sun hath yoked the seven neat (ṣundhyū) daughters of the chariot; with them, [who are] self-yoked, he goeth.

SV. (i. 640) reads in b naptryāḥ, and TB. (ii. 4. 5⁴), according to its commentary, has [naptryāḥ], although nā prtyāḥ is printed instead in the text [of Calcutta, and naptryāḥ in the Poona text, p. 518]. So also in c, [in the Calc. ed.] the printed text has yāsi, but the comm. yāti; [while in the Poona ed. both text and comm. give yāti].

25. The ruddy one hath mounted the sky with penance, [he] rich in penance; he comes to the womb (yóni), he is born again; he hath become over-lord of the gods.

Ppp. reads in a ā 'kramit. The Anukr. regards the verse as one of four pādas (8+6:12+11); but the first two are plainly one triṣṭubh pāda, with tāpasā intruded into it. Rohita appears here for the first time in this second hymn, instead of simply the sun; nor do we meet him elsewhere, save in vss. 39-41.

26. He who belongs to all men (-carṣaṇt) and has faces on all sides, who has hands on all sides and palms on all sides—he brings together with his (two) arms, together with his wings (pl.), generating heaven-and-earth, sole god.

The verse is, with considerable variations, RV. x. 81. 3, found also in VS. (xvii. 19: same text as RV.), TS. (iv. 6. 24), TA. (x. 1. 3), and MS. (ii. 10. 2). None of the other texts has yās in b, and only MS. in a; they begin viṣvátacakṣur (but MS. yó viṣvácakṣur); in b, RV.VS. begin with viṣvátobāhur, TS.TA.MS. -hastā, and all end with viṣvátaspāt; in c, for bhārati, RV. (and VS.) has dhāmati, TS.TA. nāmati, MS. ādhamat; in d, RV.VS.MS. give dṛāvābhūmt. Ppp. agrees with RV. in b-d. The meter, fairly regular in RV., is distorted greatly in our text (13+13:11+12=49); the Anukr. gives an acceptable definition of it. The sense also is much defaced in the first line as we have it. Vāit. 29. 14 uses the verse to accompany a certain graha in the building of the fire-altar.

27. The one-footed strode out more than the two-footed; the two-footed falls upon (abhi-i) the three-footed from behind; the two-footed strode out more than the six-footed; they sit together [about] the body of the one-footed.

Sam-ās has no good right to an accusative object; and one of our mss. (D.) reads tanvām, loc., which would be grammatically an acceptable emendation; as regards the sense, that is too obscure for us to derive any help from it. Pādas b and c are wanting in Ppp., probably by accident. The first half-verse nearly agrees with RV. x. 117. 8 a, b, which (whole) verse corresponds to [the first half of] our 3. 25 below: see the note there. It is only here and in 3. 25 that we find the accentuation dvīpāt and trīpāt. [The prātika is quoted by G.B. ii. 9, p. 28, l. 19.] The description of the Anukr. implies an unfounded rejection of one of the resolutions abhi eti or tanū-am.

28. When, about to go unwearied, he hath approached (ā-sthā) his yellow steeds, he, shining (ruc), makes for himself two forms; rising rich in lights (ketū-), overpowering the dim spaces (rājas), thou illuminest (vi-bhā), O Āditya, all the advances.

Ppp. has for b divi rūpaṁ [kṛṇuse; it further combines viçvā "ditya in d]. [Pāda b is identical with 42 b.] [Pischel translates the vs., Ved. Stud. ii. 76.]

29. Verily (bāt), great art thou, O sun; verily, O Āditya, great art thou; great is the greatness of thee the great one; thou, O Āditya, art great.

This verse is RV. viii. 90 (or 101). 11, and is found also in VS. (xxxiii. 39) and SV. (i. 276; ii. 1138), while its prātika is given by TB. (i. 4. 53: very strange, since the whole verse occurs in no Tāittiriya text). RV. and VS. read, for c, d, māhās ts satō mahimā paṇasyate 'dāhā deva mahān asi; [the vs. is repeated in RV. form at xx. 58. 3;] and SV. the same, except paṇiṣṭama mahnā for paṇasyate 'ddhā.

30. Thou shinest (ruc) in the sky, thou shinest in the atmosphere, O flying one; on the earth thou shinest, thou shinest within the waters; both oceans thou hast penetrated (vi-āp) with thy sheen (rūci); a god, O god, art thou, a heaven-conquering bull (mahiṣā).

Ppp. reads at the end svarvūt. The Anukr. understands the structure of the verse as $12 + 9 + 7 : 12 + 11 = 51$; but it is plainly a mixed trīṣṭubh-jagati, rather, with pataṅga intruded at the end of a, and possibly one rōcase in b. All the mss. accent pātaṅga, because they reckon it, with the Anukr., as first word in a pāda; it should properly be pataṅga.

31. Hitherward from afar, extended (pra-yam) in mid-route, swift, inspired, flying, he the flying one, perceived (vicitta) [as] Viṣṇu, surpassing (adhi-sthā) with strength—he overpowers with his show (ketū) all that stirs.

Ppp. reads at the beginning arvāk. ['Perceived as Viṣṇu': cf. note to xiii. 4. 46.]

32. Wondrous, understanding (cikivdāns), a bull (mahiṣā), an eagle, making to shine the two firmaments (rōdasi), the atmosphere—day-and-night, clothing themselves about with the sun, lengthen out all his heroisms.

The adjectives in a, b are nom. masc. sing., and the shift of construction in the second half-verse is a notable one. Ppp. combines suparṇā "roc", and reads rodasīm in b. The verse is used in Vāit. 33. 8 in a sacrificial session, with the remaining verses to the end of the hymn. Ppp. puts our vs. 33 before this. [The first pāda is nearly the same as 42 c.] [Henry discusses the vs. in Mém. de la Soc. de linguistique, x. 86.]

33. Keen (tigmā), shining out (vi-bhrāj), sharpening himself, granting the helpful (? arāṅgamā) advances, a winged one full of light, a vigor-bestowing bull (mahiṣā), he hath approached (ā-sthā) all the directions, arranging (kṛp).

Ppp. reads in a-b tanvaç çigāno 'raṅgamāsun dhravato rarāṇāḥ, and in d combines viçvā "sthāt. [Pischel translates the vs., Ved. Stud. ii. 75-6.] [See my discussion of accusatives pl. fem. in -āsas and of this passage in Noun-Inflection, p. 363.]

34. Wondrous front [and] show (ketū) of the gods, the sun, full of light, going up the directions (pradīç), the day-maker, bright (çukrá), hath overpassed with brightnesses (dyumnā) the glooms (tāmas) [and] all difficulties.

This verse and the next are repeated as xx. 107. 13, 14. The definition of this one by the Anukr. [as 40 syllables is right from its point of view; but the verse] is evidently meant for a triṣṭubh, and can easily be read into a respectable one, according to the low standard of AV. triṣṭubhs, by a few judicious resolutions. The harshness and obscurity of the constructions in a, b are indications of a corrupted text; Henry renders pradīças by 'toward the celestial regions,' Ludwig by 'from the horizon'; the translation above simply adheres to the usual sense of the word. Verses 34-36 are directed in Vāit. 39. 16 to be used alternatively in the praise of the sun; in 21. 23, the prātika, namely citraṁ devānām (quoted with vs. 16), might apply either to this verse or to the next.

35. The wondrous front of the gods hath arisen, the eye of Mitra, of Varuṇa, of Agni; he hath filled heaven-and-earth, the atmosphere; the sun is the soul of the moving creation (jāgat) and of the stationary (tasthivāns).

The verse is RV. i. 115. 1 (only variant ā : aprāḥ in c), and it is found almost everywhere else: thus, in SV. (i. 630 : Nāigeya appendix), VS. (vii. 42; xiii. 46), TS. (i. 4. 43¹; ii. 4. 144), TB. (ii. 8. 73), TA. (i. 7. 6; ii. 13. 1), MS. (i. 3. 37), AA. (iii. 2. 3); all have the same text as RV.; and so, apparently, has Ppp., [combining, however, āprādyā]. [Deussen, Geschichte, i. 1. 213, interprets the vs.] The quotation in Vāit. 33. 6 evidently applies to the verse as AV. xx. 107. 14. [In d, jāgas tas- is a misprint for jāgatas tas-: an interesting instance of most modern haplography.]

36. Flying on high (uccā), the red eagle, in the midst of the sky hastening, shining — may we see thee, whom men call the impeller (savitī), the unfailing light which Atri found.

Ppp. has the better reading paçyema in c. [Restore the lost accent-mark under the nim of tardānim.]

37. To the eagle running on the back of the sky, to the son of Aditi, I, frightened, approach (upa-yā), desiring refuge; do thou, O sun, lengthen out for us a long life-time; may we take no harm; may we be in thy favor.

The verse is obviously a regular triṣṭubh, with nāthākāmas intruded in b: its description by the Anukr. [gives the verse 48 syllables; but how pañcapadā virāḍgarbhā is to be understood is not clear]. [The verse is quoted in Vāit. 18. 7, in the agniṣṭoma.]

38. A thousand days' journey are expanded the wings of him, of the yellow swan flying to heaven; he, putting all the gods in his breast, goes viewing together all existences.

We had the verse above as x. 8. 18, and it is repeated again below as 3. 14. Ppp. reads in c sa viçvān devān.

39. The ruddy one became time, the ruddy one in the beginning Prajāpati; the ruddy one [is] face (mouth?) of the sacrifices; the ruddy one brought the bright sky (svār).

Ppp. reads in a loko 'bhavat (our 40 a), and, for d, rohito jyotir ucyate.

40. The ruddy one became the world; the ruddy one overheated the sky; the ruddy one with his rays goes about over the earth, the ocean.

Or (b) 'went heating across the sky' (so Henry). Ppp. reads in a bhūto 'bhavat, omits b, and has bhūmyam in c [cf. its nāryam for nārtm, xiv. 1. 59, note j].

41. All the quarters did the ruddy one, over-lord of the sky, go about upon; the sky, the ocean, also the earth — all that exists doth he defend.

Ppp. has in a (better) saṁ carati; in b it combines rohito adh-; in c it has again bhūmyam; in d, sarvalokān vi.

42. He, mounting, glowing [and] unwearied, the great [spaces], makes for himself, shining (ruc), two forms; wondrous, understanding, [bull,] wind-going (??), when he shines out (vi-bhā) upon as many worlds [as there are].

That is, 'upon all existing worlds.' The second pāda is 28 b above; the third, nearly 32 a. The rendering of vātamāyās (p. vātamāyāḥ) in c is purely to fill up the text. Henry emends to vātam āpas; Ludwig renders 'possessing wind-magic.' The Anukr. passes without notice the redundant syllable in c. Ppp. has a quite different version of much of the verse: ārohaṇ chakro vrhatir yuniktō amartyāṣ kṛṇuṣe vīryāṇi: divyas uparṇo muhiṣaṁ vātarañhāya: sarvāṇi lokān abhi etc. This would suggest vātarañhās 'wind-swift' as emendation of vātamāyās.

43. The one he falls upon (abhi-i), the other he casts about — the bull, arranging with day-and-night; we, imploring, call upon the track-finding sun, dwelling in the welkin (rtjas).

In the very obscure first half-verse, the two anya's may be subjects instead (so Ludwig and Henry), asyate being taken as passive — which would seem more natural, save that then the nominative in b is left without construction. Ppp. reads in a-b eti sadyo 'yam vasāvam aho-, and in d nāthamānāḥ. The verse (12 + 12 : 11 + 12 = 47) is a very irregular "jagati."

44. The earth-filling bull (mahiṣā), track of the implorer, of undamaged sight, hath encompassed the all; beholding (sam-paṣ) the all, beneficent, reverend, let him hear this which I say.

'Track' (in b), i.e. facilitation or facilitator of progress. Mahiṣa is an evident intrusion, and the verse is strictly a triṣṭubh with redundant syllables. Ppp. reads in a prthivīpro m. bādhamānasya; for b, adbhutacakṣuṣ pari saṁ babhūva; and, for d, çivāyā nas tanvā çarma yacchāt, which is found nowhere in our text. All our mss. [except D.] agree in accenting babhūva, for no discoverable reason. [Five of SPP's authorities (as well as W's D.) read babhūva without accent.]

45. The greatness of him exceeds (pāri) the earth, the ocean; shining abroad with light, it exceeds (pāri) the sky, the atmosphere; beholding the all, beneficent, reverend, let him hear this which I say.

Ppp. again objects to our second half-verse, and gives instead: ahorātrābhyāṁ saha sanivasanā uṣā nīyus pratarād aviṣṭam. The "jagati" is again a very rough one [as the Anukr. in part admits]. [W. interlines "encompasses" as an alternative to "exceeds."]

46. Agni hath been awakened by the kindling of men to meet the dawn coming like a milch-cow; like young (yahvā) [birds?] rising forth to a branch, the lights (bhānū) go forth unto the firmament (nāka).

Ppp. reads in d sasṛje. The verse is RV. v. 1. 1, and is found also in other texts: SV. (i. 73; ii. 1096), VS. (xv. 24), TS. (iv. 4. 4'), and MS. (ii. 13. 7), everywhere without a variant. [SV. (both occurrences) reads sasrate in d; TS. accents achā at the end.] It is quoted in Vāit. 29. 8, apparently in connection with the verses that follow it in RV. (iti trāiṣṭubhīḥ).

[Here ends the second anuvāka, with 1 hymn and 46 verses. The quoted Anukr. says ṣaṭ catvāriṇṣat.]

3. To the sun (with imprecation on the evil-doer).

[(Brahman.—ādhyātman; rohitādityadevatyam. trāiṣṭubham.) 1. 4-av. 8-p. ākṛti; 2-4. 3-av. 6-p. (2, 3. aṣṭi, 2. bhurij; 4. atīṣṭakvaragarbhā dhṛti); 5-7. 4-av. 7-p. (5, 6. çākvarātiçākvaragarbhā prakṛti; 7. anuṣṭubgarbhā idhṛti); 8. 3-av. 6-p. atyasṭi; 9-19. 4-av. (9-12, 15, 17. 7-p. bhurig atidhṛti, 15. niçṛti, 17. kṛti; 13, 14, 16, 18, 19. 8-p., 13, 14. vikṛti, 16, 18, 19. ākṛti, 19. bhurij); 20, 22. 3-av. 6-p. atyasṭi; 21, 23-25. 4-av. 8-p. (24. 7-p. kṛti; 21. ākṛti; 23, 25. vikṛti).]*

Of this hymn only one verse is found in Pāipp., namely vs. 10 in iv. Vāit. makes use of no part of it; and Kāuṣ. [49. 19] only of the first verse. [Caland, p. 173, understands the whole hymn to be intended at 49. 19; and takes 49. 24 and 25 as referring to vss. 6 and 7 of this hymn.] * [The definition of vs. 26 (anuṣṭubh) appears to be omitted.—The individual pādas of this hymn are largely of genuine trīṣṭubh measure and cadence, occasionally jagati; and this is possibly the intention of the "trāiṣṭubham" of the Anukr. (for not a single verse foots up as 44 syllables): then, again, if to the verse proper in each case we add the refrain and reckon up the totals, we get the ākṛtis etc. of the Anukr.]

Translated: Ludwig, p. 543; Henry, 14, 45; Deussen, Geschichte, i. 1. 226; Griffith, ii. 150.

1. He who generated these two, heaven-and-earth; who clothes himself in existences, making them a garment (drāpi); in whom abide the six wide directions, toward which he, the flying one, looks all abroad—against that god, angered, [is] this offense (āgas); whoso scathes a Brahman that knows thus, do thou, O ruddy one, make him quake, destroy him; fasten on the fetters of the Brahman-scather.

All the mss. agree in the accent of drāpi (RV. always drāpī). As is their habit, they give of the refrain only the single word tāsya except in vss. 1 and 25; and there they set the avasāna not before tāsya, but after devāsya: in our edition this perversion of the natural division is corrected. The refrain, if we contract yā evām to yāi 'vām, is a regular triṣṭubh; its addition to a preceding verse makes this hymn one of especially long meters; the first verse, 8 pādas of 11 syllables each, is an exact ākṛti. The verse [or the hymn: see introduction] is (though v. 12. 9 has the same pratīka) doubtless the one quoted in Kāuṣ. 49. 19, with xiii. 1. 28 and xvi. 6. 1, to accompany the laying on of fetters; and Bloomfield suggests that the whole hymn (or anuvāka) is intended also in 63. 21, one does not see why.

2. From whom the winds in their season go purifying (pū), out of whom the oceans flow forth — against that god etc. etc.

With b compare 1. 42 d. The verse (10 + 11 : 44 = 65) has one more syllable than a regular aṣṭi, as the Anukr. notices. [The longer grammatical equivalent of vātās would improve the rhythm.]

3. Who causes to die [and] causes to breathe; from whom all existences breathe — against that god etc. etc.

An exact aṣṭi (9 + 11 : 44 = 64).

4. Who gratifies heaven-and-earth with breath; who fills the belly of the ocean with respiration — against that god etc. etc.

The meter is correctly enough described by the Anukr. The omission of either apānena or samudrasya would rectify the meter of b.

5. In whom is set (gritā) Virāj, the most exalted one, Prajāpati, Agni Vaiṣvānara with the series (pañkti); who took to himself the breath of the lofty one, the brilliancy of the loftiest one — against that god etc. etc.

We had nearly the same combination of divine personages above in viii. 5. 10 c, d; and the pañkti here perhaps corresponds to the 'all the seers' there. The verse, of very irregular meter (12 + 12 : 15 : 44 = 83), is very nearly a prakṛti (84 syll.).

6. Upon whom are set (gritā) the six wide [spaces], the five quarters, the four waters, the three syllables (? akṣāra) of the sacrifice; who, angered, looked with his eye between the two firmaments (ródasī) — against that god etc. etc.

All our mss. read at end of b akṣārā (not -rāk), doubtless under the influence of the ordinary use of akṣāra as neuter. The omission in c of cakṣuṣā would better both sense and meter. The verse as best read (12 + 12 : 14 : 44 = 82) lacks two syllables of a full prakṛti, but could easily be filled up by resolution. [For the transition -t after yāsmīn, cf. Prāt. ii. 9 note.] [Caland, p. 173, understands this vs. and the following to be intended at Kāuṣ. 49. 24, 25, for use in the ceremony of the "water-thunderbolts": cf. introd. to x. 5.]

7. Who became food-eater, lord of food, and also Brahmanaspati (lord of worship); who is and shall be lord of existence — against that god etc. etc.

The translation implies bhaviṣyān instead of -yāt in c; either this emendation or that of bhūtās to bhūtām (which Ludwig and Henry assume in their versions) seems unavoidable. Our saṁhītā-mss. are divided between -dō ānnapātir and -dō 'nna- in a. The verse (11 + 8 : 12 : 44 = 75) is very near a regular atidhṛti (76 syll.). [Cf. note to vs. 6 for use by Kāuṣ.]

8. He who measures out the thirteenth month, fabricated (vi-mā) of days-and-nights, having thirty members — against that god etc. etc.

The verse ($6 \times 11 = 66$) lacks two syllables of a full atyāṣṭi (68 syll.).

9. Black the descent, the yellow eagles, clothing themselves in waters, fly up to the sky; they have come hither from the seat of righteousness — against that god etc. etc.

The first three pādas are RV. i. 164. 47 a-c, found also twice above, as vi. 22. 1; ix. 10. 22. The verse ($7 \times 11 = 77$) is accurately described by the Anukr. It, with a good part of those that follow (11-16, 18-21, 23, 25), appears to have nothing to do with the refrain.

10. What of thee, O Kaṣyapa, is bright (candrā), full of shining (rocantvant), what that is combined (saṁhītā), splendid (puṣkālā), of wondrous light, in which seven suns are set (ārpiṭa) together — against that god etc. etc.

One of our mss. (T.: [and perhaps also M.]) [and one of SPP's] accent puṣkalam (like puṣkara) in b. All [of W's and of SPP's] agree in the anomalous and probably incorrect accent saṁhītām. [Cf., however, Gram. § 1085 b. Perhaps the case of saṁskṛtām at xi. 1. 35 is not parallel.] Ppp. has (as noticed above) this verse, reading in a kaṣyapo ro-, combining in c sāryā "rpiṭās sapta, and [without avasāna after sāham] having, as was to be expected, a wholly different apodosis: tasmin rājānam adhi vi-ṣṛaye 'mam (cf. our ix. 5. 4 d), for which the refrain of this hymn is a senseless substitute. The verse is found also in K. xxxvii. 9. Our Bp. omits, by accident, the division-sign of rocantvant in a.

11. The bṛhāt dresses itself in him in front; the rathamitard accepts [him] behind: [both] clothing themselves always in light unremittingly — against that god etc. etc.

12. The bṛhāt was his wing on the one side, rathamitard on the other, [both] of like strength, of like motion (?sadhryāṇc), when the gods generated the ruddy one — against that god etc. etc.

This verse counts 77 syllables, as required, but is irregular (9 + 13 : 11 : 44).

13. This Agni becomes Varuṇa in the evening; in the morning, rising, he becomes Mitra; he, having become Savitar, goes through the atmosphere; he, having become Indra, burns (tap) through the midst of the sky. — Against that god etc. etc.

Or (a) 'he becomes Varuṇa at evening [and] Agni' (so Henry: cf. Ludwig). The verse is very irregular, but can be made to count a vikṛti (92 syll.).

14. A thousand days' journey are expanded the wings of him, of the yellow swan flying to heaven; he, putting all the gods in his breast, goes viewing together all existences. — Against that god etc. etc.

The verse proper here is a repetition of x. 8. 18 and xiii. 2. 38; it is written in full in all the mss., because they have no other way of indicating the attachment here of the refrain. It is properly an ākṛti ($8 \times 11 = 88$ syll.).

15. This is that god within the waters, the thousand-rooted, many-powered (?) Atri; he who generated all this existence — against that god etc. etc.

Henry makes in b the naturally-suggested emendation to ṣuruṣākhas, 'many-branched'; [cf. Bloomfield, AJP. xii. 436, and, per contra, Deussen, p. 228, note]. The verse is most naturally read as (9 + 11 : 11 : 44 = 75) a nicṛd atidhṛti, in accordance with the description of the Anukr.

16. Swift-running yellow [horses] draw the bright one (ṣukrā), the god shining with splendor in the sky, whose lofty bodies heat the sky; hitherward with well-colored gleams (? paṭarā) he shines forth. — Against that god etc. etc.

Our edition ought to give in c tanvās, since that is the pada-reading, and it is only by accident that nearly all the samhitā-mss. (all save R.K.) unite in protracting the ā to à. The verse reads most naturally as a bhurig ākṛti ($12 + 11 : 11 + 11 : 44 = 89$).

17. By whom the yellow steeds draw the Ādityas together; by what sacrifice go many foreknowing; which, sole light, shines forth variously — against that god etc. etc.

Yajñena 'sacrifice' in b looks as if it needed emendation, and the irregularity of the pāda suggests corruption. Our mss. read at the end vi bhāti and the pada-text has *viśbhāti; our text makes a change of accent to vibhāti. The verse (11 + 14 : 11 : 44 = 80) counts up a precise ṛti.

18. Seven harness a one-wheeled chariot; one horse, having seven names, draws [it]; of three naves [is] the wheel, unwasting, unassailed, whereon stand all these existences. — Against that god etc. etc.

We had the verse (which is RV. i. 164. 2) above as ix. 9. 2. The mss. all give it in full here (as in the case of vs. 14 above).

19. Harnessed eight-fold draws the formidable draft-horse (vāhni), father of gods, generator of prayers (matī); measuring with the mind the line of righteousness, Mātariṣvan goes cleansing (ṣṇ) to all the quarters. — Against that god etc. etc.

Or perhaps 'he goes as Mātariçvan,' identifying the action of sun and of wind. Mimānas in c should be emended to mimānas, which is read only by D. The Anukr. notices this time the redundant syllable in a.

20. A united (samyāñc) line along all the directions, within the gāyatrī, the womb (embryo?) of the immortal. — Against that god etc. etc.

'Line' here is accus., as taking up and carrying on the idea of 19 c. The verse lacks two syllables of being a full atyasṭi (68 syll.).

21. Three settings, dawns also three; three welkins, skies verily three: we know, O Agni, the birth-place of thee threefold; threefold the births of the gods we know. — Against that god etc. etc.

The verse is regular if tredhā in c (not in d) is made, as often elsewhere, trisyllabic.

22. He who in birth (jāyamāna) opened out the earth, [who] set the ocean in the atmosphere — against that god etc. etc.

The meter is the same as that of vs. 20.

23. Thou, O Agni, impelled by powers (krātu), by lights (keti), didst shine up, a kindled song (arkā) in the sky; unto what did the Maruts, having the spotted one for mother, sing, when the gods generated the ruddy one? — Against that god etc. etc.

Pischel (Ved. Stud. i. 26) takes arkā as 'sun'; the connection with abhy ārcan in c is strongly opposed to this. The last pāda is the same with 12 c above. The verse (12 + 12 : 12 + 11 : 44) counts properly 91 syllables, one short of a full vikṛti.

24. He who is self-giving, strength-giving, of whom all, of whom [even] the gods wait upon the direction, who is master of these bipeds, who of quadrupeds — against that god etc. etc.

The verse proper is identical with the first three pādas of iv. 2. 1 (found also in other texts: see the notes to that hymn). Bp. here reads (doubtless by accident) asya in c. Two more syllables are needed to make a full kṛti (80 syll.).

25. The one-footed strode out more than the two-footed; the two-footed falls upon the three-footed from behind; the four-footed acted within the call of the two-footed ones, beholding the series (pañtī), drawing near (upa-sthā). — Against that god etc. etc.

The first two pādas are identical with 2. 27 a, b, and the whole verse corresponds to RV. x. 117. 8. RV. reads in a bhūyo dvipādo, in b dvipāt tripādām, in c eti (for cakre) dvipādām, in d pañktīr up. The accentuation dvipāt and tripāt (only in these verses) was noticed under 2. 27. Here we lack two syllables of a full vikṛti.

26. The white son of the black [mother], the young of night, was born; he ascends upon the sky; the ruddy one ascended the ascents.

[Here ends the third anuvāka, with 1 hymn and 26 verses. The quoted Anukr. says śaḍvīṇṣat (śaḍvīṇṣa?).]

4. Extolling the sun.

[(Brahman. — ādhyātman ; rohitaādityadevatyam. trāiṣṭubham.*) ṣaṭ paryāyāḥ. mantroḥ devatāyāḥ.]

[Partly prose, and vss. 14-15, 22-26, and 46-56 are so designated in W's Index, p. 6.] This hymn is not found in Pāipp., nor noticed either in Kāuṣ. or in Vāit. * [Here, indeed (but cf. introd. to hymn 3), the general definition for the whole kāṇḍa as "trāiṣṭubham" does not seem to apply.]

Translated: Henry, 17, 51; Griffith, ii. 154.

[Paryāya I. — trayodaśā. 1-11. prājāpatyā'nuṣṭubh; 12. virāḍ gāyatrī; 13. āsury uṣṇih.]

1. He goes [as] impeller (Savitar) to the heaven (svār), looking down upon the back of the sky.

2. To the cloud-mass (nḍbhas) brought by rays he goes [as] great Indra, covered.

3. He [is] the Creator (dhātṛ), he the disposer, he Vāyu, the upraised (ut-ṣṛi) cloud-mass.

A syllable is lacking, unless we make harsh resolution, in a.

4. He [is] Aryaman, he Varuṇa, he Rudra, he the great god.

5. He [is] Agni, he also the Sun, he indeed great Yama.

Parts of this verse are quoted as examples under Prāt. ii. 21, 24; iii. 35, 36; iv. 116.

6. On him wait (upa-sthā) young ones (vatsā), ten, united, having one head.

Henry acutely suggests emendation in b to -no 'yūta dāca 'ten myriads'—i.e. of rays, all heading in the sun itself. It seems probable that the original text had ekaṣṭr-ṣās: cf. dāṣaṣṭr-ṣas, iv. 6. 1; the verse as it stands is redundant.

7. From behind they stretch on forward; when he rises, he shines forth. Vibhāsati would seem a better reading at the end.

8. His is this troop of Maruts; he goes sling-made.

That is (?), 'as if hung in slings' [OB. 'an Schnüre gehängt']. Henry makes a venturesome and unacceptable emendation, and regards the adjective as referring to the 'troop'—which is not impossible.

9. To the cloud-mass brought by rays he goes [as] great Indra, covered.

This is a repetition of vs. 2; all the mss. give it in full.

10. His are these nine vessels (kōṣa), the props set nine-fold.

The pada-text reads viṣṭambhāḥ, undivided.

11. He looks abroad for living creatures (prajā), both what breathes and what does not.

Cf. vs. 19, below: 'for,' apparently 'for the advantage of.'

12. Into him is entered (ni-gam) this power; he himself is one, single (ekavṛt), one only.

The verse lacks four syllables of the gāyatrī number, instead of two, as the Anukr. counts.

13. These gods in him become single.

The Anukr. counts fourteen syllables in the verse; one does not see where it finds more than thirteen.

[Paryāya II. — aṣṭāu. 14. bhurik sāmī triṣṭubh; 15. āsurī pañkti; 16, 19. prājāpatyā nuṣṭubh; 17, 18. āsurī gāyatrī.]

14. Both fame and glory and water (? āmbhas) and cloud-mass and Brahman-splendor and food and food-eating.

The Pet. Lex. regards nābhaḥ ca as intruded here, and āmbhas as having the sense of 'might.'

15. He who knows this single god —

16. Not second, not third, also not fourth is he called.

17. Not fifth, not sixth, also not seventh is he called.

18. Not eighth, not ninth, also not tenth is he called.

19. He looks abroad for everything, both what breathes and what does not.

20. Into him is entered this power; he himself is one, single, one only.

21. All the gods in him become single.

The last three verses are nearly identical with 11-13 above. Of the last two the Anukr. does not define the meter, perhaps by an omission in the ms. (or else because they were defined just above). All our mss. save one (D.) [and all SPP's authorities, except P²] accent sarve in 21, as if because of etē in 13. [Both editions emend to sārve.]

[Paryāya III. — saṣṭa. 22. bhurik prājāpatyā triṣṭubh; 23. ārcī gāyatrī; 25. 1-p. āsurī gāyatrī; 26. ārcy anuṣṭubh; 27, 28. prājāpatyā nuṣṭubh.]

22. Both worship (brāhman) and penance and fame and glory and water and cloud-mass and Brahman-splendor and food and food-eating —

This is vs. 14 over again, with two more items prefixed.

23. And what is and what shall be and faith and sheen and heaven (svargā) and svadhā.

The mss. vary between bhavyām (Bp.), bhāvyaṃ (Bs.p.m.D.), and bhavyām (Bs.s.m., and all the rest). [SPP's authorities show a similar disagreement. He reads bhāvyaṃ; and the same reading] in our text is evidently called for.

24. He who knows this single god —

This verse is identical with vs. 15 above, and is accordingly not separately described by the Anukr.

25. He verily [is] death, he immortality (amṛta), he the monster (abhvā), he the demon.

The verse is probably quoted under Prāt. iii. 65 (see the note there). In order to make out the fifteen syllables of the Anukr., we have to read sō amṛtaṁ sō abhvām.

26. He [is] Rudra, winner of good, in the giving of good; in the expression of homage, [he is] the utterance vāṣaṭ, put together after.

The connection here is very doubtful. Henry understands it as above; Muir (iv. 338) quite differently. The verse is very peculiarly treated by the Anukr.; first it is quoted in its proper place thus: sa rudra ity āṛṣi (so the Berlin ms., but the London ms. has āsuri) gāyatrī; and then, after the definition of vss. 27, 28, the London ms. says again sa rudro vasuvānir ārcy anuṣṭubh. The descriptions āṛṣi gāyatrī and ārcy anuṣṭubh (each implying 24 syllables) both apply equally well, if we restore -kārō ānu.

27. All these familiar demons (yātū) wait upon his direction (praṇis).

28. In his control are all yon asterisms, together with the moon.

[Paryāya IV. — saṭpāda. 29, 33, 39, 40, 45. āsuri gāyatrī; 30, 32, 35, 36, 42. prājāpatyāṇuṣṭubh; 31. virāḍ gāyatrī; 34, 37, 38. sāmny uṣṇih; 41. sāmnī bṛhatī; 43. āṛṣi gāyatrī; 44. sāmny anuṣṭubh.]

29. He verily was born of the day; of him the day was born.

The Anukr. unaccountably ratifies the elision āhno 'j', instead of restoring aj- and recognizing the pāda for what it is, eight syllables.

30. He verily was born of the night; of him the night was born.

31. He verily was born of the atmosphere; of him the atmosphere was born.

The verse lacks four syllables, instead of two, of the twenty-four that make a gāyatrī.

32. He verily was born of Vāyu (wind); of him Vāyu was born.

33. He verily was born of the sky; out of him the sky was born.

Here again the Anukr. requires us to read dīvō 'j'.

34. He verily was born of the quarters; of him the quarters were born.

Here we are to make both elisions, in a and b.

35. He verily was born of the earth; of him the earth was born.

Nearly all our mss. (all save Bp.D.R.) accent bhūméis and bhūmīs.

36. He verily was born of fire; of him fire was born.

37. He verily was born of the waters; of him the waters were born.

The metrical description is the same as that of vs. 34, and with the same lack of good reason (the mss. read sa vā adbhya ṛgbhyaḥ sāmnyuṣṇiganuṣṭubhāu, which is senseless, and should doubtless be emended to -uṣṇihāu).

38. He verily was born of the verses (ṛc); of him the verses were born.

As to the meter, see the note to the preceding verse.

39. He verily was born of the sacrifice; of him the sacrifice was born. The Anukr., as above, forces the elision yajñā 'j-.

40. He is the sacrifice; his is the sacrifice; he [is] made the head of the sacrifice.

41. He thunders; he lightens; he indeed hurls the stone.

That is, the thunderbolt. The second pāda is one of the examples under Prāt. iii. 36.

42. Either for the evil [man] or for the excellent; for man or for Asura.

'For,' i.e. 'at,' [taking the verse as a continuation of 41].

43. Either when thou makest the herbs, or when thou rainest excellently, or when thou hast increased him of the people (? janyā).

This appears to be the only example known of the accent janyā instead of jānya, and how little authoritative it is may be inferred from the fact that all our mss. leave avivṛdhas unaccented after it. Our text makes the necessary emendation to āv-. [All SPP's authorities, however, agree in reading not only janyām but also avivṛdhas. The latter he also emends to āv-.]

44. Such, O bountiful one, is thy greatness; and thine, too (ūpa), are a hundred bodies.

There is no difficulty in counting the verse into 16 syllables, as required by the Anukr. [It reads naturally as 9 + 8.]

45. Thine, too, are two billions, [many] billions (?); or else thou art a hundred million.

The translation implies the readings bāḍve bādūvāni, which, on account of the accent, seem probably meant by the mss., which vary between bāḍhv-, bāddh-, bāddhv-; K. reads bāddhve vādūvāni, D. bāddhe bāddhāni. [SPP's authorities also exhibit very wide disagreements, which reflect a corresponding uncertainty of the tradition.] The word is just such a one as the mss. might be expected to boggle and blunder over, both they and we being left without help from the sense. Henry, who accepts the same emendation, understands bāḍve as locative, which is perhaps better, and at any rate favored by the fact that the pāda-text does not read bāḍve tti.

[Paryāya V. — 3aṭ. 46. āsurī gāyatrī; 47. yavamādhyā gāyatrī; 48. sāmnī uṣṇīh; 49. nicṛt sāmnī vṛhātī; 50. prājāpatyā 'nuṣṭubh; 51. virāḍ gāyatrī]

46. More is Indra than non-dying (??); more art thou, O Indra, than the deaths.

'Non-dying' is the conjecture of the Pet. Lexx. for namurā, which occurs nowhere else; it is adopted here, simply for lack of anything better, although in itself of a high degree of implausibility. [Henry also adopts it; but see his note, p. 54.] It is surprising to find Indra brought in here at the end for address, instead of the sun; there is nothing to show that the two remaining paryāyas are not for him. [Note, however, the praise of the sun under the names of Indra and Viṣṇu, so prominent in book xvii., below: see page 805. Perhaps we have here a similar identification.]

47. More than the niggard, lord of strength (śācī) art thou, O Indra; as called mighty, prevailing, do we worship (upa-ās) thee.

Prāt. ii. 71 expressly forbids the combination śācās p-, which we should have expected here. The verse (9 + 8 : 8 = 25) is strangely defined by the Anukr.

48. Homage be to thee, O conspicuous one (paçyata); see [pāçya] me, O conspicuous one.

Paçyata is an anomalous and forced substitute for darçata, made in this passage only, for assonance with pāçya. The Anukr. ratifies the combination te astu.

49. With food-eating, with glory, with brilliancy (téjas), with Brahman-splendor;

50. As called water (? āmbhas), force (āma), greatness, power, do we worship thee.

The Anukr. ratifies the combination āmbho āmo. By a usage that is rare, all the mss. omit in this verse [what follows] after iti, although the repetition is not of the end of the next preceding verse, but of vs. 47. Then, of course, the following verses are written in the same curtailed way until vs. 54, which is filled out to the end.

51. As called water (āmbhas), red, silvery (rajatā), welkin (rājas), power, do we worship thee.

Again [as at vs. 31] we have a verse called virāḍ gāyatrī which lacks four syllables of being 24.

[Paryāya VI. — pañca. 52, 53. prājāpalyā 'nuṣṭubh'; 54. 2-p. ārṣi gāyatrī.]

52. As called wide, broad, happy (subhñ), earths (? bhūvas), do we worship thee.

Bhūvas is here rendered literally, in the only sense which the word has elsewhere in AV. If it is a first appearance of the vyāhṛti common later, its meaning is wholly obscure in this connection. [Aufrecht, KZ. xxxiv. 458, makes some observations about the relations of the noun-forms and adjective-forms in vss. 52-53.]

53. As called breadth, width, expanse, world, do we worship thee.

54. As called one of arising good, of increasing (??) good, of gathering good, of coming good, do we worship thee.

The translation implies the heroic substitution of vr̥dhādvasu for the wholly senseless idādvasu. The Pet. Lexx., to be sure, conjecture for the latter the meaning 'rich in this and that' (which Henry follows); but, besides the fact that idāt = idām is not less heroic than idāt = vr̥dhāt, the signification given does not belong rightly to the compound, nor has it any application here. Our rendering has at least concinnity — unless, indeed, in a text of this character, that be an argument against its acceptance. All the compounds are evidently possessive.

55. Homage be to thee, O conspicuous one; see me, O conspicuous one.

56. With food-eating, with glory, with brilliancy, with Brahman-splendor.

These two verses are identical with vss. 48, 49, above [and are therefore not defined by the Anukr.].

[The quotations from the Old Anukr., given piecemeal for this pariyāya-sūkta at the end of each pariyāya, may here be given together: I. trayodaśa; II. aṣṭāu ca; III. tataḥ paraḥ sapta; IV. saptadaśa; V. ṣaṭ ca bodhyāḥ; VI. ṣaṣṭhaḥ pañcaka ucyate.—They are given by SPP. in his "Critical Notice," vol. i., p. 21, with the introductory words, caturthasyā 'vasānāni vakṣyamāṇāni tāni ṣṛṇu.]

[In pariyāya V., vss. 47, 50, and 51 have the refrain; and in VI., vss. 52, 53, and 54 have it: these verses are styled gaṇāvasānarcaḥ, and the rest avasānarcaḥ (as was already noted above, p. 472). But since none of the former* is divided in two by an avasāna-mark, the distinction does not affect the sums of the "ṛcaḥ of both kinds," which are (as just stated) 3 + 3 for V. and 3 + 2 for VI.]

[Here ends the fourth anuvāka, consisting of 1 pariyāya-sūkta with 6 pariyāyas and 56 verses.]

[Some mss. reckon up the hymns as 20 (that is 14 of the decad-divisions of our hymns 1-3, plus 6 pariyāyas of our hymn 4) and the verses as 188.]

[Here ends the twenty-eighth prapāṭhaka.]

Book XIV.

[Nuptial Hymns.]

[Nuptial ceremonies. — This fourteenth book is the second of the six books (xiii.–xviii.) that form the third grand division of the Atharvan collection, and shows very clearly that unity of subject which is the distinguishing characteristic of the books of that division. The book has been translated by Weber, Indische Studien, vol. v. (1862), pages 178–217; and the parts peculiar to our text by Ludwig in his Der Rigveda, vol. iii. (Die Mantralitteratur), pages 470–476. The bhāṣya is again lacking.]

[The subject of the book has been often treated: thus, by that great scholar, Colebrooke, in 1801, in vol. vii. of the Asiatic Researches (the paper is reprinted in Cowell's edition of H. T. Colebrooke's Essays, vol. i., pages 217–238); by E. Haas, in the volume of Weber's Studien, just cited, pages 267–412, Die Heirathsgebräuche der alten Inder, nach den Grihyasūtra; and latterly by Dr. M. Winternitz, in the Denkschriften of the Vienna Academy for 1892, vol. xl., Das altindische Hochzeitsrituell nach dem Āpastambya-grihyasūtra etc., with a detailed comparison of the nuptial ceremonies prevailing among the other Indo-European peoples. Then, some five years later (in 1897), in the Anecdota Oxoniensia, Dr. Winternitz published The Mantra-pāṭha or the Prayer Book of the Āpastambins, which contains very many of the mantras cited in the editor's Hochzeitsrituell; and for this reason the citations of those mantras are given below in duplicate, in order that they may be easily found in either work. — Here may be mentioned also the elaborate comments given in my Sanskrit Reader, pages 398–401, upon chapters 5, 7, and 8 of Ācvalāyana's Grihyasūtra, book i., which treat of the wedding customs and the wedding-service.]

[Division into anuvākas. — This book is divided into two anuvākas, the first with 64 verses, and the second with 75. This division is confirmed by the Old Anukr. or Pañcapāṭalīkā (as quoted at the end of each anuvāka), which says ādyah sāuryaḥ catuḥṣaṣṭiḥ and pañcaseptatir uttarah. Here ādyah and uttarah doubtless refer to anuvākah understood. It is also confirmed by AV. xix. 23. 24.]

[The decad-division is shown in the mss. as usual: thus hymn 1 is divided into 6 "decad"-sūktas (5 tens and 1 "decad" of 14 vss.), and hymn 2 is divided into 8 "decad"-sūktas (7 tens and 1 "decad" of 5 vss.). The sum is 14 "decad"-sūktas.]

[Division into hymns. — This seems to be a matter more or less questionable. By the Berlin edition, and also by that of SPP., the book is in fact divided into two hymns, each of which coincides with an anuvāka, as is the case with books xii. and xiii. The Old Anukr. seems to offer no evidence either for or against the division into hymns.]

[The mss. seem to support the division of the book into two hymns: thus, at the end of anuvāka 1, several mss. say anuvāke arthasūktā 1; ṛcā (!) 64; [supply presumably ḍaṭṭatayāḥ] 6. And, at the end of the second, they say anuvāke arthasūktā 1; ṛcā 75. Moreover, as noted on page 768, some mss. sum up the book as of two hymns.]

[The Major Anukr., on the other hand, seems rather to indicate that the book should not be divided into two hymns: 1. by its mingling the verses of the whole book together (see the next paragraph, which is by Mr. Whitney) in its metrical and other definitions; and 2. by its expression ḍatātamyā [ṛcā] 'hundredth verse,' which implies a continuous counting from the beginning of the book beyond the limits of the first anuvāka (or hymn?), which contains only 64 verses. Per contra, this method of designating a verse by any ordinal higher than the first few ordinals is very unusual, and (so far as I have noted) unexampled, save by the expression trayovīṇṇatīkayā in the next clause and by the ordinals of Kāuṣ. 49. 24, 25 (see note to x. 5. 6).]

The descriptions of meter etc. are [by the Major Anukr.] given together for the whole book; they are here separated for the two recognized divisions (anuvākas, treated as hymns) in accordance with the method elsewhere followed. The order of verses is so much disregarded in the metrical etc. descriptions as to make one wonder whether the arrangement contemplated by the Anukr. was the same with that which we have [cf. p. 740, top]; yet minor deviations from the order are not very rare elsewhere. Other special points are mentioned in the notes to the verses.

[The Major Anukr. begins its treatment of the book as follows: satyene 'ti (xiv. 1. 1) sāikṇacatvārīṇṇachataṁ dvayānūvākakāṇḍam. Sāvitrī Sūryā. ātmadāvatam. ānuṣṭubham. prathamābhīḥ pañcabhīḥ (xiv. 1. 1-5) somam astāt; parābhīḥ (xiv. 1. 6-?) svavivāham; ḍatātamyā (?) (xiv. 2. 36) devān; trayovīṇṇatīkayā (xiv. 1. 23) somārkaṇ; parayā (xiv. 1. 24) candramasam.]

[That is to say: 'The double-anuvāka-book (the expression dvaya is a little strange: the phrase would fit also books xv. and xvi.) that begins with satyena has [verses] a-hundred-and-forty-save-one (64 + 75 = 139). [The seer is] Sūryā, daughter of Savitar (cf. AV. vi. 82. 2; xiv. 2. 30; Bergaigne, Rel. Véd. ii. 486 f.). The deity is the same. The meter, anuṣṭubh. With the first five verses she praised (or mentioned, laudavit: see note to i. 7. 1) Soma; with the next verses (does this mean the verses from 6 to the end of the book? or to the end of the Sūryā-hymn proper, vss. 6-16?), her own wedding; with the hundredth verse (100 = 64 [vss. of h. 1] + 36 [vss. of h. 2]: hence xiv. 2. 36), the gods²; with the twenty-third verse (xiv. 1. 23), moon and sun; with the next (xiv. 1. 24), the moon.']

²[This statement does not fit xiv. 2. 36. On the other hand, Dr. Ryder points out that it does fit xiv. 2. 46 and that the RV. Anukr. makes devāḥ the deity of RV. x. 85. 17 (which = AV. xiv. 2. 46): and he accordingly offers the suggestion that ḍatātamyā may be a text-error for ḍaṭṭa-ḍatātamyā.]

[The Major Anukr. continues: parā (?) (xiv. 1. 25-?) nṛṇām vivāhamantrāṇṇiṣaḥ. parā dehy (xiv. 1. 25) aṣṭiṭā tanūr (xiv. 1. 27) itī dve vadhivāsahsaṁsparṇamocanyān. ye vadhva (xiv. 2. 10) itī yakṣmanāṇi. parā (xiv. 2. 11) dampatyoh paripanthināṇi.]

[The statements of the RV. Anukr. as to “deity” correspond quite closely with those just given, but with some differences: thus it says -nindā for -mocanyāu; etc. In particular, the description nṛṇāṃ vivāhamantrā āciṣaḥ ca is applied by the RV. Anukr. to RV. x. 85. 20–28. All these 9 RV. verses have more or less close correspondents in AV. xiv.: they are, respectively, AV. xiv. 1. 61; 2. 33 (cf. RV. vss. 21 and 22); 1. 34; 1. 19, 18, 20, 21, 26. All this, it seems, fails to square with the parāḥ of the text of our Anukr., and reinforces Mr. Whitney’s suspicion (above, p. 739) that the arrangement of the verses contemplated by that text may have been different from that which appears in the Berlin edition. — In connection with this suspicion should be considered also the fact that the Anukr. adds at the end the pratikas iii. 30. i, ii. 36. 1, and xx. 126. 1: see below, p. 768.]

[In the Major Anukr., moreover, a curious addition is inserted after the definition of xiv. 1. 60, as follows: (the text of its beginning is uncertain: ity ? or parāviny ?) edhiṣṭmahiti vyāghrādīṣu avagantavyaḥ. Cf. the introduction to xi. 1 and especially the note to xv. 5. 7.]

1. Marriage ceremonies.

[Sāvitrī Sūryā. — ātmadāivantam (1–5. somam astāt; 6–[?] svavivāham; 23. somārkaṇ; 24. candramasam; — 25[?]–[?] nṛṇāṃ vivāhamantrāciṣaḥ; 25, 27. vadhūvāsaḥsaṃsparṣa-mocanyāu). [As to the foregoing, see above, p. 739.] ānuṣṭubham: 14. virāḍ prastārapaṅkti; 15. āstārapaṅkti; 19, 20, 23, 24, 31–33, 37, 39, 40, 45, 47, 49, 50, 53, 56, 57, [58, 59, 61. triṣṭubh (23, 31, 45. brhatigarbha); 21, 46, 54, 64. jagatī (54, 64. bhurik triṣṭubh); 29, 35. purasādbṛhatī; 34. prastārapaṅkti; 38. purobrhatī 3-p. parosṇih; [48. pathyāpaṅkti]; 60. parānuṣṭubh.]

The hymn (except vss. 4, 62, which are wanting altogether, and 41, 42, which occur in other books) is found also in Pāipp. xviii., with petty differences of order, noted under the verses. A large part of the anuvāka or hymn corresponds to the wedding hymn (x. 85) in the Rig-Veda. The Vāit. does not treat the marriage ceremony, and only four or five of the verses of the book are quoted by it; but a large part of them are used in the sections (75–79) of the Kāuṣ. which deal with the subject.

Translated: in so far as it corresponds to RV. verses, by the RV. translators; further, the parts that are peculiar to our text, by Ludwig, p. 470; and, as AV. hymn, all of it, by Weber, Ind. Stud. v. 195–204 (see 178 ff.); Griffith, ii. 159. — A large part of the wedding-hymn is given in my Sanskrit Reader, pages 89–90: the notes thereon (at pages 389–390) may be consulted, and also the notes at pages 398–401.

1. By truth is the earth established (ut-stabh); by the sun is the sky established; by righteousness the Ādityas stand; Soma is set (grīd) upon the sky.

The verse is RV. x. 85. 1, without variant. The pada-text also reads ūttabhīt, by Prāt. iv. 62, the s being omitted by ii. 18. Kāuṣ. directs vss. 1 and 23 to be used in preparing the sacrificial fire, at the beginning of the chapter on the marriage-rites (75. 6: according to the comm., vss. 1–16 are meant, and 23–24); and again, near the end of the chapter (79. 16), the whole book is directed to be so used. [Ppp. has satvena for satyena at the beginning.] [Cf. MP. i. 6. 1, and Wint., p. 66.]

2. By Soma are the Ādityas strong; by Soma is the earth great; likewise in the lap of these asterisms is Soma placed (ā-dhā).

Is RV. x. 85. 2, without variant. [Cf. MP. i. 9. 2; Wint., p. 74; MGS. i. 14. 8 and p. 157.]

3. One thinks himself to have drunk Soma when they crush up an herb; what Soma the priests (brahmán) know, of that no earthly man partakes.

RV. (x. 85. 3) reads at the end kāc canā for pārthivas. In b, Bs.P.M.W.T. read -piṣanti, D. -piṣanti; Ppp. has -piṣanti. The pratīka is quoted in GB. i. 2. 9 [printed 8].

4. When, O Soma, they drink thee [up], then thou fillest thyself up again; Vāyu is Soma's defender; the month is norm (ākr̥ti) of the years (sāmā).

RV. (x. 85. 5) reads deva for soma in a. The verse (as noted above) is wanting in Ppp.

5. Guarded by covering-arrangements, defended by watchmen (bār-hata), O Soma, thou standest hearing the pressing-stones; no earthly one partakes of thee.

Is RV. x. 85. 4, without variant. All this talk about the moon as identical with Soma at the beginning of the Sūryā-hymn seems very meaningless unless Sūryā is really the moon, who every month "goes to" her spouse the sun.

6. Intention (citti) was the pillow, sight was the ointment, heaven [and] earth were the coffer (kōṣa), when Sūryā went to her husband.

Is RV. x. 85. 7, without variant.

7. The rābhī was the parting [song] (anudēyī), the nārācaṁst was the welcoming one (nyōcanī); Sūryā's garment verily was excellent; she goes adorned with song (gāthā).

Is RV. x. 85. 6, which reads at the end pārīṣkṛtam (p. pārīṣkṛtam) for pārīṣkṛtā (which our p. and s. both have). The translation given ventures new conjectures for anudēyī (lit. 'to be given after') and nyōcanī (lit. 'making wanted or at home'); the Pet. Lexx. say 'dowry' [so BR. iii. 569, OB. i. 52; but cf. BR. i. 205 and v. 987] and 'ornament'; Ludwig 'vom Hause mitgegeben' and '[ins neue Haus] einführend'; Weber, 'train' and 'hand-maid.'

8. The laudations (stōma) were the cross-pieces (pratidhī); meter was the kurāra, the opaśā; of Sūryā the Aṇvins were the wooers, Agni was the forerunner.

Is RV. x. 85. 8, without variant. For kurāra and opaśā, women's head-dresses or parts of such, compare vi. 138. In this connection the commentators' explanation of pratidhī "cross-pieces on the chariot-pole" is extremely unlikely; it must rather be some article of a woman's dress. Ppp. reads and combines paridhayaś k-.

9. Soma was the bride-seeker; both Aṇvins were wooers, when Savitar gave to her husband Sūryā, praising (caṁs) with her mind.

Is RV. x. 85. 9, without variant, save that our pada-mss. falsely leave adadāt unaccented. 'Praising,' apparently 'assenting gladly.' Ppp. reads at end 'dadhāt.'

10. Mind was her cart; heaven also was [its] canopy; the two draft-oxen were white (śukrā), when Sūryā went to her husband.

RV. (x. 85. 10) has at end grhām instead of pātīm.

11. Haltered with verse (ṛc) and chant (sāman), thy two oxen went peaceful (? sāmand); ears were thy (two) wheels; in the sky the wandering track.

Abhithā seems to be the correlative to abhidhānī. Our 'ears' (p. grōtre tti) is a bad variant to RV. (x. 85. 11) grōtram, 'hearing.' RV. also has in b itas for ātām. We have to gain in c a syllable by harsh resolution in order to make a full pāda. Ppp. reads in a upahitāu.

12. Clean were the (two) wheels of thee as thou wentest; out-breathing (vyānā) was the inserted axle; a cart made of mind did Sūryā ascend when going forth to her husband.

Is RV. x. 85. 12, without variant. The pāda-reading manasmayam in c is by Prāt. iv. 24. [Here Roth's Collation says "fact wie Vulgata"!]

13. The bridal (vahatī) of Sūryā, which Savitar sent off (ava-sṛj), has gone forth; in the Maghās are slain the kine; in the Phalgunis is the wedding.

RV. (x. 85. 13) reads in c aghāsu * [Ppp. has the same], and hanyante without the antithetical accent which all our mss. give, and which our text ought to read, and, for d, arjunyoḥ pāry uhyate. The Maghā stars are what we call the Sickle, in the neck of Leo; the Phalgunī stars are the rectangle β, θ, δ, 93 Leonis; arjunī = phalgunī; the moon is in the latter either one or two days after it is in the former.† From such utterly indefinite data the attempt to extract a date is wasted labor. 'Is the wedding': vy ūhyate is the verb corresponding to vivāha 'wedding,' lit. 'driving away'; Ppp. reads instead vi hanyate. The second half-verse is quoted in Kāuṣ. 75. 5, in the general definition of the time for wedding. [With reference to this much-discussed verse, see: Weber, in Abh. der Berliner Ak. for 1861 (Nakṣatra-essay), p. 364, and in Sb. for 1894, p. 804; Jacobi, Festgruss an Roth, p. 69; Wint., p. 32.]

*[Weber discusses the readings aghāsu and maghāsu, and deems the RV. reading to be in this case the secondary one: Sb. 1894, p. 807.] †[Concerning these asterisms (no's 10, and 11, 12) see Whitney, JAOS. vi. 332-4, or Oriental and Linguistic Studies, ii. 352-3. It is not impertinent to note that the regents of the Phalgunis are Bhaga and Aryaman, and that those of the Maghās are the Manes. For the latter, cf. TB. iii. 1. 4⁸: só 'tra juhōti: pitṛbhyah svāhā, maghābhyah svāhā, 'naghābhyah svāhā, gadābhyah svāhā, 'rundhatībhyah svāhe, 'ti; but better TS. iv. 4. 10.]

14. When, O Aṣvins, ye went asking, with your three-wheeled [chariot], to Sūryā's bridal, where was one wheel of yours? where stood ye for pointing out?

The verse corresponds, without variant, to RV. x. 85. 14 a, b and 15 c, d. The sense of the questions is wholly obscure.

15. When ye went, O lords of beauty, unto the wooing of Sūryā, all the gods assented to that [deed] of yours; Pūshan as son chose a father.

This verse, again, corresponds to parts of two in the RV., namely x. 85. 15 a, b and 14 c, d; the only variant is that RV. reads pitṛān for -ram in d, and Ppp. pitārā 'v-, which doubtless means the same. Metrically the verse is as much virāj as vs. 14.

16. The two wheels of thee, O Sūryā, the priests (brahmān) know seasonably; further, the one wheel that is in secret — that, verily, the enlightened (addhāt) know.

Is RV. x. 85. 16. All our mss. accent in a sūrye and in d [all save D.] vidūh; our edition corrects both words to accordance with RV. Close correspondence with RV. x. 85 ceases with vs. 16, at the end of the Sūryā-hymn proper. [SPP. reads sūrye with all his authorities, and vidūh with nearly all. He adds: "the correction to vidūh is not inevitable." But I do not see how the accented form is to be rendered.]

17. We make offering to Aryaman of good connections, husband-finder; like a gourd from its bond, from here I release, not from yonder.

This verse is found as RV. vii. 59. 12, a late and unguine appendage to that hymn, and having no pada-text; its reading is very different, namely: tryāmbakam yajāmahe sugāndhīm puṣṭivārdhanam: urvārukām iva bāndhanān mṛtyōr mukṣīya mā 'mṛtāt; and with this agree TS. (i. 8. 6²) and MS. (i. 10. 4), except that they accent sugāndhīm in b; VS. (iii. 60) has tryāmbakam in a; for b, sugāndhīm pātivārdhanam; for d, itō mukṣīya mā 'mṛtāt. Ppp. has at end muñca mā 'mutaḥ. Vāit. 9. 19 quotes the RV. verse in the cāturmāsya ceremony, giving the text in full; Kāu. 75. 22 makes our verse accompany an oblation offered when the wooer comes in. The Anukr. takes no notice of the redundant syllable in c (read -kām 'va). [For 17, 18, cf. MP. i. 5. 7, and Wint., p. 56.]

18. I release [her] from here, not from yonder; I make her well-bound yonder, that she, O gracious Indra, may be rich in sons, well-portioned.

Is RV. x. 85. 25, without variant [save that our text does not give muñcāmi the antithetical accent]. Prāt. ii. 65 teaches the combination -tas karam. Ppp. begins pra 'to muñcata mā 'mutaḥ. The mantrapāṭha [MP. i. 4. 5] of the Āpastamba Grhya-Sūtra (see Winternitz, Altind. Hochzeitsrituell etc., p. 54) has a varying version, reading in a muñcāti mā [Oxford text nā], and in b karat.

19. I release thee from Varuṇa's fetter, with which the very propitious Savitar bound thee; in the lair (yóni) of righteousness, in the world of the well-done, be it pleasant for thee accompanied by the wooer (-sambhald).

The first three pādas are the same with RV. x. 85. 24 a-c, the only RV. variant being sugēvaḥ at end of b; for d, RV. has āriṣṭām tvā sahā pātyā dadhāmi. TS. (i. 1. 10²; iii. 5. 6¹) has a nearly corresponding verse: imām vī svāmi vāruṇasya pācām yām ābadhnita savitā sukētaḥ: dhātūc ca yōnāu sukṛtāsya lokē syonām me sahā pātyā karomi. Our first half-verse is repeated below as 58 a, b; and the pratīka quoted in Vāit. 4. 11 doubtless belongs to the latter, and not to this verse as assigned by the editor. On the other hand, the pratīka quoted in Kāu. 75. 23, used in connection with loosing the scarf (veṣṭa) tied about the bride, doubtless belongs here. The Āpastamba-text (Winternitz, p. 63) gives two slightly differing versions of the verse [MP. i. 5. 16].

Ppp. puts the verse next after our vs. 16; [but further it makes our 19 c, d change place with our 58 c, d, reading, however, 'stu sahapatnī vadhū for our astu sahasam-bhalāyāi].

20. Let Bhaga lead thee hence, grasping thy hand; let the Aṅvins carry thee forth by a chariot; go to the houses, that thou mayest be housewife; thou, having control, shalt speak unto the council.

RV. (x. 85. 26) begins with pūṣā instead of bhūgas. In Kāuṣ. (76. 10) the verse accompanies the leading of the bride out of her house.

21. Let what is dear succeed (sam-ṛdhi) here for thy progeny; watch thou over this house in order to housewife-ship; mingle thy self (tanū) with this husband; then shalt thou in advanced age speak to the council.

RV. (x. 85. 27) reads in a prajāyā (as does also Ppp.), and in c-ḍ sṛjasvā 'dhā jīrvī viddīham ā vadāthaḥ. Our ḍ is the same with viii. 1. 6 ḍ above, and our mss. here also read jīrvī (except Bs. I., jīvīs), which ought to have been adopted in our text. The Āpastamba text (Winternitz, p. 74 [MP. i. 9. 4]) has jīrvī. The verse, with several others, is quoted in Kāuṣ. 77. 20 in connection with the bride's entering her new abode. The verse lacks two syllables of being a full jagati. [Vs. discussed by Bloomfield, JAOS. xix. 14; cf. Baunack, KZ. xxxv. 495, 499.]

22. Be ye (two) just here; be not separated; attain your whole lifetime, sporting with sons [and] grandsons, rejoicing, well-homed.

RV. (x. 85. 42) reads svē gṛhē instead of svastakāḥ, and Ppp. has the same. Ppp. also has dirgham for viṣvam in b. [Cf. MP. 1. 8. 8 and note.]

23. These two move on one after the other by magic; two sporting young ones go about the ocean; the one looks abroad upon all beings; thou, the other, disposing the seasons art born new.

24. Ever new art thou, being born; sign of the days, thou goest to the apex of the dawns; thou disposest to the gods their share as thou comest; thou extendest, O moon, a long life-time.

These two verses are repeated here from vii. 81. 1, 2; [see the notes to those verses: also the Anukr. extracts at p. 739, ¶ 4, which refer vs. 23 to sun and moon and vs. 24 to the moon]. Most of vs. 23 we had also as xiii. 2. 11. In order to make sure that the two right ones are reproduced, all our mss. read here pūrvāparām nāvonavaḥ (instead of, as usual, pūrvāparām iti dvē). They are RV. x. 85. 18, 19, and are found also in other texts, as to which and the various readings see the notes to vii. 81. 1, 2. Ppp. has in 23 ḍ (with RV.) jāyate punaḥ, and in 24 (also with RV.) bhavati, eti, and dadhāti (but apparently tirase). In Kāuṣ. 75. 6, vs. 23 (according to the comm., both 23 and 24) is used with vs. 1; in 79. 28, vs. 64 is allowed instead of vs. 24, in case the latter is not known.

25. Give thou away the śāmulyā; share out goods to the priests (brahmān); it, becoming a walking (padvānt) witchcraft, enters the husband [as] a wife.

RV. (x. 85. 29) differs only by reading bhūtū in c; our pada-text has bhūtū : ā : j-. According to Kāuṣ. 79. 20, the verse accompanies the giving away of the bride's undergarment, which is regarded as extremely ill-omened if not so disposed of and expiated by gifts to the Brahmins. [Cf. the Anukr. extracts, p. 739, end.] Āmulyā is defined in the Pet. Lexx. as "a woollen shirt," as identical with āmūla, which is so defined by the comm. to LČS. ix. 4. 7. The Āpastamba text (Winternitz, p. 100 [MP. i. 17. 7]) reads instead ābalyā.

26. It becomes blue-red; [as] witchcraft, infection, it is driven away (?); her relations (jñātī) thrive; her husband is bound in bonds.

Is RV. x. 85. 28, without variant. Vy ājyate is translated as coming from root aj instead of añj, 'is smeared.' Pāda a perhaps refers to the bloody discoloration of the garment; d to its ill effects if not duly expiated. The Āp.-text (Wint., p. 67 [MP. i. 6. 8]) has for a nilalohitā bhavataḥ, as if the garments were two. RV. and AV. pāda-texts have āsaktī undivided.

27. Unlovely becomes [his] body, glistening in that evil way, when the husband wraps his own member with the bride's garment.

RV. (x. 85. 30) reads at the beginning ācīrā, and at the end -dhītsate; Ppp. also has ācīrā; [and tanus for tanūs]. Most of our mss. (all save P.M.W.) give vāsasas in c, and this is accordingly more probably to be regarded as the AV. reading. [So SPP. with all his authorities.] [The Berlin ed. has vāsasā, to accord with the RV.] Āṅga might mean 'body' (so the translators). [For vss. 27, 28, 29, cf. respectively MP. i. 17. 8, 10, 9, and see Wint., p. 100.]

28. Carving on, carving open, also cutting over apart; see the forms of Sūryā; them also the priest (brahmān) cleans (gumbh).

RV. (x. 85. 35) reads at the end tū cundhati [cf. BR. vii. 261, top]. Weber [p. 190] sees in the verse a comparison of the blood on the bride's garment with that from the sacrificial victim when dismembered, the priest having power to cleanse both stains away.

29. Harsh is that, sharp, barbed, poisoned; that is not to be eaten; what priest (brahmān) knows Sūryā, he indeed deserves the bride's [garment].

RV. (x. 85. 34) inserts another etāt after kātukam, and reads vidyāt for vēda in c. The omission of kātukam (with, in RV., etāt) would rectify the meter of a; as it stands, it is an extremely poor "brhātī" pāda. Attave 'to be eaten' is very strange here. Sūryā in c is generally understood to mean 'the Sūryā-hymn.'

The following four verses are found in no other text.

30. That priest verily takes this garment, pleasant, well-omened, who goes over the expiation, by whom the wife takes no harm.

The pāda-text reads prāyaçittim, undivided; if we had -itam, yēna would apply to it, instead of to brahmā. Ppp. reads, for a, b: sa vāi tam syono harati brahma vāsas sumāṅgalan.

31. Do ye (two) bring together a successful (samṛddha) portion, speaking right in right-speakings; O Brahmanaspati, make the husband shine (ruc) for her; let the wooer (sambhald) speak this speech agreeably (cārū).

According to Kāuṣ. 75. 8, 9, this verse is addressed to the wooer and his companion, when they are sent out to win the bride; the second half-verse to the priest (who is one of them?). 'Make shine,' doubtless 'set in a favorable light.' The verse [scanned by the Anukr. as 11 + 9 : 12 + 12 = 44] may best be read as 11 + 11 : 12 + 12; [but d has a bad cadence]. Ppp. reads mṛtyodyena at end of b, and ṣumbhale in d.

32. May ye be just here; may ye not go away; may ye, O kine, increase this man with progeny; going in beauty, ruddy, with soma-splendor — may all the gods turn (kr) your minds hither.

In Kāuṣ. 79. 17 this verse (according to the commentators, this and the next) seems to be directed to accompany the paying (in kine) the price demanded for the bride; but surely that cannot have been its original sense. The first pāda is identical with iii. 8. 4 a; c has a redundant syllable. The pāda-text writes śūbham : yatthi, but the expression is, so far as accent is concerned, treated as if a compound: compare 2. 52 below. No reason is discoverable for the accent of krān in d.

33. May ye, O kine, enter this man together with progeny; this man minisheth (mī) not the share of the gods; for this man shall Pūshan, and all the Maruts, for this man shall Dhātār, Savitar quicken (sṛ) you.

Ppp. reads viçadhvam at end of a. This verse indicates distinctly that the preceding one is meant as a wish for prosperity in respect to kine.

34. Free from thorns, straight, let the roads be by which [our] comrades go a-wooing for us; together with Bhaga, together with Aryaman — let Dhātār unite [us] with splendor.

The first half-verse is RV. x. 85. 23 a, b, which, however, reads [with MP.] pānthās for [our metrically bad] -thānas; the second half goes on: sām aryamā sām bhāgo no niniyāt etc. [cf. MP. i. 1. 2]; our text is a foolish and inconsistent substitute. Kāuṣ. 77. 3 gives the verse, with 2. 11, as to be used when the bridal train starts off home; in 75. 12 it [according to Daça Kar., only the first half-verse] is made to accompany the sending out of a guard for the bride. [Cf. Wint., p. 40.]

35. Both what splendor is placed in dice, and what in strong drink — what splendor, O Aṣvins, is in kine, with that splendor favor (av) ye this woman.

All our mss. accent açvīnā in c; our edition makes the necessary correction to açvinā. [SPP. adopts and defends the reading açvīnā.] Ppp. puts the verse after our vs. 36. The Anukr. does not heed that the first pāda lacks a syllable. According to Kāuṣ. 75. 27, this verse, with 43 below, is used in connection with pouring of water on the bride; and again, in 139. 15, this and the next, with several others from different books, accompany a libation [in the fire] in the ceremony of initiation into Vedic study; both also (35; 36) are reckoned as belonging to the varcasya gaṇa (see note to Kāuṣ. 13. 1). [Cf. ix. 1. 18; vi. 69. 1.]

36. With what [splendor] the backsides of the courtesan (mahānagnī), O Aṣvins, or with what the strong drink, with what the dice were flooded (abhi-sic), with that splendor favor ye this woman.

That is, apparently, give her all the attractions which these various seductive things are known to possess. 'Courtezan,' lit. 'great naked woman,' emending to -nagnyās: [but all authorities, both SPP's and W's, have -naghnyās]. The verse has a distant likeness to one in PGS. ii. 6. 12. The § of aṣicyanta is by Prāt. ii. 92, where this example is quoted in the commentary. The redundant syllable in the first pāda passes unheeded by the Anukr. For the use of the verse in Kāuṣ. see the note to the preceding verse. Ppp. puts the verse before our 35 as noted above, and the ms. reads for a: yan mā nagnā jaghnam.

37. He who shines (ḍī) without fuel within the waters, whom the devout (vīpra) praise at the sacrifices (adhvārā) — O child of the waters, mayest thou give waters rich in honey, with which Indra increased, full of heroism.

The verse is RV. x. 30. 4, which accents dīdayat, and reads at the end vīryāya. Ppp. combines in a yo 'nidhmo. Kāuṣ. 75. 14 makes the verse accompany the piercing (pra-vyadh) of a stick of wood (lōga) in the water.

38. Now do I remove (apa-ūh) the glistening seizer (grābhā), body-spoiling; what sheen is excellent, that I draw up (ud-ac).

Ppp. reads in the first half-verse tanūdūṣim ahi nudāmi. For its second half it has yaç gīvo bhadro rocanas tena tvām api nudāmi, making a fair half-anuṣṭubh. According to Kāuṣ. 75. 15, 16, the thing (the pierced piece of wood) is removed with the first two pādas; and with the third water is drawn up (anvīṣam 'in the direction of the current') and is then presented with vs. 39. The verse (9 + 8 : 11 = 28) is described by the Anukr. with mechanical correctness.

39. Let the Brahmans take for her [water] for bathing; let them draw up (?) waters that slay not a hero; let her go about the fire of Aryaman, O Pūshan; father-in-law and brother-in-law are looking on (prati-ikṣ).

The translation implies the obvious emendation of ajantu to acantu in b. [Cf. the MP. reading acantu, and also xi. 1. 2, where vācam answers to the RV. reading vājam.] There is also something wrong about ḍ, where a plural verb is made to agree with two singular subjects. The Āpast. mantra-text (Wint., p. 43 [MP. i. 1. 7-8]) has in both pādas (as well as in other respects) better readings: ā 'syāt brāhmaṇāḥ snāpanam harantu: *dvītraghñīr id acanto āpaḥ: aryamno agnīm pāri yantu kṣīpram prātī 'kṣantām gvaḡrāvo devdrāç ca. Ppp. reads in a-b ā 'smāi harantu snāpanam brahmaṇā 'vīr-; and in c, 'gñim pary eti kṣīpram. [The kṣīpram of Ppp. and MP. suggests that] our pūṣan in c may be a corruption for oṣām; [cf. also vii. 73. 6 a]. The use of the verse by Kāuṣ. 75. 17 was noticed in the preceding note; in 76. 20, the second half-verse accompanies the leading of the bride thrice about the fire (in Āpast. the laying of a ring of darbha-grass upon her head). The Anukr. does not heed the lack of a syllable in b. * [Oxford text āpaḥ: misprint?]

40. Weal be to thee gold, and weal be waters; weal be the post (methī), weal the perforation (tārdman) of the yoke; weal be for thee the waters having a hundred cleansers (-pavitra); for weal, too, mingle thyself with thy husband.

Ppp. is much corrupted in this verse, but can be seen to read metis for methis in b; in c it combines tā "pāh, and in d it omits u. In Kāuṣ. 76. 12, the verse is muttered (according to the paddhati, it and the following verse) while the bride is bound to the right yoke-pole and the left yoke-hole, and a piece of gold is fastened to her forehead. Purification by the yoke-hole (apparently growing out of the occurrence of the next verse in RV.) plays a part in various versions of the marriage-rites; [cf. note to vs. 41]. Āpast. (Wint., p. 44 [MP. i. 1. 10]) has this same verse with unimportant variations (medhī in b, etc). [Cf. Wint., p. 46.] The verse (11 + 12 : 11 + 11 = 45) is slightly irregular [but has triṣṭubh-cadences throughout].

41. In the hole of the chariot, in the hole of the cart, in the hole of the yoke, O thou of a hundred activities, having thrice purified Apālā, O Indra, thou didst make her sun-skinned.

The verse is RV. viii. 80 (91). 7, which has for sole variant pātāt in c. Prāt. ii. 64 prescribes the combination triṣ p-, but part of our mss. (O.R.K.) read triṣ. The Āpast. version (Wint., p. 43 [MP. i. 1. 9]) is quite corrupt. [Cf. MGS. i. 8. 11 and p. 149.] In Ppp. the verse is not found among the marriage verses, but in book iv., [and without variant]. [For a careful treatment of the Apālā story, see H. Oertel, in JAOS. xviii. 26.] [The MP. version of this verse furnishes Böhlingk occasion for some interesting general critical remarks, Berichte der sächsischen Gesellschaft, Feb. 5, 1898, p. 4.]

42. Hoping for well-willing, offspring, good-fortune, wealth, becoming obedient (anuvrata) to thy husband, gird thyself in order to immortality.

This verse also is found in Ppp. away from the rest, in book xx., and with much difference of text: thus, b-d, praco bahur atho balam : indrāny anuvratā san nahye amṛtāya kam. In Kāuṣ. 76. 7, the verse is used, with 2. 70, when the bride is girded with a bond, a yoke-rope (yoktra). The Āpast. version (Wint., p. 45 [MP. i. 2. 7]) has tanīm for rayīm in b, agnēr for pātyur in c, and, for d, sām nahye sukṛtāya kām. Vāit. 2. 6, again, makes it accompany the girding of the sacrificer's wife at the sacrifice. [In the Berlin ed., correct kam to kām.]

43. As the [mighty (?viśā)] river (śindhu) won (?sū) the supremacy of the streams (nadī), so be thou supreme (samrājñī), having gone away to thy husband's home.

Perhaps śindhu should be rendered 'Indus' (so Zimmer, p. 317; Weber, p. 199). Sūsuve, lit. 'impelled for one's self,' is employed here in an unusual sense; the word is quoted as example under Prāt. ii. 91; iv. 82. Ppp. reads sūsuve vrkāt. By Kāuṣ. 75. 27, the verse accompanies the emergence of the bride from the bath (with vs. 35, above).

44. Be thou supreme among fathers-in-law, supreme also among brothers-in-law; be thou supreme over sister-in-law, supreme also over mother-in-law.

The verse is RV. x. 85. 46, which, however, reads for a, s. śvācure bhava; for b, s. śvācruvām bhava; for c, nānāndari s. bhava; for d, s. ādhi devīṣu; and MB. (1. 2. 20) agrees throughout with RV. (śvācruvām in b must be a blunder). [MP. i. 6. 6 follows RV., but with śvācruvām in b: cf. Wint., p. 66.]

45. They (f.) who spun, wove, and who stretched [the web], what divine ones (f.) gave the ends about, let them wrap thee in order to old age; [as] one long-lived put about thee this garment.

Ppp. combines in a yā 'krntan. The verse is found also in PGS. (i. 4. 13), HGS. (i. 4. 2), MB. (i. 1. 5). All end a with yā atavvata; in b, all insert ca after yās; and PGS. reads *tantūn abhito * tatantha*, and MB. devyo antān abhito tatantha; for c, they have tās tvā devir (MB. devyo) jarasā (PGS. -se) sahriyayantv (PGS. -yasva); in d, only HGS. has āyusmān. [Cf. MP. ii. 2. 5, and Wint., p. 47, and MGS. i. 10. 8 and p. 154.] The verse has an extra syllable in a which the Anukr. does not notice. In Kāuç. 76. 4, this and vs. 53 accompany the putting of a hitherto unused garment upon the bride. [The same two vss. are referred to by the name paridhāpantiye at 79. 13: so the schol.] * [This sandhi is of course not to be laid at the door of the accurate Stenzler: it is doubtless the true reading of PGS., and occurs (not only in MB, but also) in Bhavadeva's Paddhati, as Stenzler observes in his Transl., p. 12.]

[The corruption of abhito 'dadanta (so AV.) to abhito tatantha (PGS. MB. Bhavadeva) is of peculiar text-critical interest, not merely because it is a senseless and unintelligent perversion, but because it is revealed as a corruption by the ignorant failure of the persons responsible for it to change their sandhi in such a way (abhitas tatantha) as to fit their blunder.—This interest is heightened by the fact that we can see the probable occasion of the perversion, to wit, the occurrence in the preceding pāda of the words for 'spun,' 'wove,' 'stretched web' (root tan). These technical terms of cloth-making lend a semblance of appropriateness to the introduction of tantūn tan 'stretch the warp' in pāda b.—Roth had already booked tatantha among the cases of exchange between sonants and surds at ZDMG. xlviii. 108.]

46. They bewail the living one (m.); they lead away the sacrifice (adhvarā); the men sent their thoughts after [root dhī . . . anu] a long reach (prdsiti); what is lovely (vāmd) for the Fathers who came together here; joy to the husbands for embracing the wife.

This is a literal version of this extremely obscure verse. RV. (x. 40. 10) reads in a ut mayante adhvarā; in b, the equivalent didhiyus [so also Ppp.]; in c, the equivalent samerirā; in d, jānayas (for our janāye, which might better have been emended in the edition to jānaye); [Ppp. reads and combines janayaṣ]. The Āpast. text (Wint., p. 42 [MP. i. 1. 6]) reads at the beginning jīvām. The verse is used, with 2. 59, in Kāuç. 79. 30, simply to accompany a libation, at the very close of the marriage rites. In two Sūtras (AGS. [i. 8. 4] and ÇGS. [i. 15. 2]) it is directed to be used when the bride, on the journey to her new home, wails or cries; this is plainly only on account of the word 'bewail' (rudanti) at the beginning. [Cf. Lanman's Skt. Reader, p. 387; Winternitz, p. 42; and Bloomfield, who devotes 9 pages to the stanza in AJP. xxi. 411-9.]

47. I maintain for thee, in order to progeny, a pleasant, firm (dhruvā) stone in the lap of the divine earth; stand thou on that, one to be exulted after, of excellent glory; let Savitar make for thee a long life-time.

Ppp. puts syonam after dhruvam in a, reads prthivyām in b, and tam ā rohā 'numadyā suvitrā for c, and tvā for te in d [i.e., it has tvāyus for te āyus]. In Kāuç. 76. 15, the first half-verse accompanies the setting of a stone in a lump of dung, and in 76. 16 the second accompanies the stepping of the bride upon it: this at the bride's home; and the same is repeated (Kāuṣ. 77. 17, 19) in the new home of the pair after their arrival there. Pāda a has 12 syllables, unnoticed by the Anukr.

48. Wherewith Agni grasped the right hand of this earth, therewith grasp I thy hand; do not stagger in company with me, with both progeny and riches.

The last pāda [prajayā etc.] is wanting in Ppp., [which puts the vs. after 50]. The verse accompanies in Kāuṣ. 76. 19 the seizing of the bride's hand to lead her about the fire. The Anukr. seems to overlook the vs.; though, if the last pāda were omitted, it would fall under the general definition of the hymn, as an anusṭubh. [As to vss. 48-51, cf. Wint., p. 48 f. For the pāṇigrahaṇa, he cites Rāmāyaṇa, i. 75 (Gorresio: or i. 73 Schlegel).]

49. Let god Savitar grasp thy hand; let king Soma make thee to have good offspring; let Agni, Jātavedas, make the spouse well-portioned, long-lived, for her husband.

Ppp. has this verse next after our vs. 47, by removing [as noted] 48 to after 50. The Anukr. takes no notice of the deficiency of two syllables in c.

50. I grasp thy hand in order to good-fortune, that with me as husband thou mayest be long-lived; Bhaga, Aryaman, Savitar, Purandhi [pūramdhi]—the gods have given thee to me in order to housewifery.

The verse is RV. x. 85. 36, which varies only by reading at the beginning grbhñāmi. MB. (i. 2. 16) has precisely the RV. form of the verse; HGS. (i. 20. 1) and Āpast. (Wint., p. 49 [MP. i. 3. 3]) read in a suprajāstvāya, and HGS. has also grhñāmi and (at end of b) asat. [Cf. MGS. i. 10. 15 a, and p. 150.] [As to pūramdhi, cf. WZKM. iii. 268; and Pischel, Ved. Stud. i. 202-216.]

51. Bhaga hath grasped thy hand; Savitar hath grasped thy hand; thou art [my] spouse by ordinance (dhūrman), I thy house-lord.

Ppp. reads dhātā for bhagas in a, inserts te before hastam in b, and adds after b two pādas: bhagas te h. a. and aryamā tē h. a., [then finishing with our c, d]. One of the subsidiary treatises (see note to Kāuṣ. 76. 10) substitutes the verse for vs. 20 above (see note there).

52. Be this woman mine, bringing prosperity (pśya); Brihaspati hath given thee to me; in company with me [as husband] do thou live, rich in offspring, a hundred autumns.

Bp. and Bs.p.m. give in c (as does Ppp.) prajāvati, and I.K. prajāvati; prajāvati is evidently the preferable reading; [and is implied in the translation]. [Of SPP's authorities, 4 have prajāvati against 6 with prajāvati (which latter he adopts): but not less than 7 have (like W's I.K.) the impossible prajāvati, which supports both readings or neither!] The verse is found also in PGS. i. 8. 19, and in a khila to RV. x. 85 (Aufrecht², p. 682); both have prajāvati; in a, both have dhruvāi 'dhi pśye (RV. -syā) mayi. [See also MP. i. 8. 9: that also has prajāvati.]

53. Vashṭar disposed (vi-dhā) the garment for beauty, by direction of Brihaspati, of the poets; therewith let Savitar and Bhaga envelop this woman, like Sūryā, with progeny.

In Kāuṣ. 76. 4, this verse is used with vs. 45, above [which see], with dressing the bride in a new garment [cf. Wint., p. 47]; and the same is repeated in Kāuṣ. 79. 13 at another point in the ceremonies. The full number of syllables is to be obtained in b only by a harsh resolution. Ppp. has in c nāryam [cf. note to vs. 59], and at the end the decidedly better reading prajāyāi.

54. Let Indra-and-Agni, heaven-and-earth, Mātariṣvan, Mitra-and-Varuṇa, Bhaga, both Aṣvins, Brihaspati, the Maruts, the brāhman, Soma, increase this woman with progeny.

Ppp. has again nāryam in d. Only a is a real jagati pāda, even by number of syllables (and doubtless we are to read prithvī); the second definition of it in the Anukr. notices this.

55. Brihaspati first prepared (klp) the hairs on the head of Sūryā; with this, O Aṣvins, do we thoroughly adorn (ṣubh) this woman for her husband.

It looks as if prathamās were an intrusion in a. [In c, Ppp. has for a third time nāryam.] In Kāuṣ. 79. 14 the verse is made to accompany the parting of the bride's hair with a blade of darbha-grass; according to the paddhati, this verse and the next are used together for the purpose.

56. This [is] that form in which the young woman (yóṣā) dressed herself; I desire to know with [my] mind the wife (jāyā) moving about; I will go after her with nine-fold (nāvagva) comrades: who, knowing, unloosened (vi-ṣṛt) these fetters?

This obscure verse gets no light from Ppp., the other texts, or the sūtras. The pada-text reads in c ānu : arisye; doubtless it is only a contraction for ānu vartisye.

57. I loosen (vi-sā) in me the form of her; he verily shall know, seeing the nest of mind; I eat not stolenly; I was freed (ud-muc) by mind, myself untying (ṣṛath) the fetters of Varuṇa.

Ppp. reads at the end pācam. This verse and doubtless the next (its pratīka, which is pra tvā muñcāmi, would also designate vs. 19 above) are used, with vii. 78. 1, by Vāit. 4. 11, to accompany the ungirding of the sacrificer's wife. Both are used also by Kāuṣ. 76. 28 with the ungirding of the bride.

58. I release thee from Varuṇa's fetter, with which the very propitious Savitar bound thee; wide space (lokā), an easy road here, do I make for thee, O bride (vadhū), with thy husband.

The first half-verse is identical with vs. 19 a, b, and corresponds with RV. x. 85. 24 a, b (which reads at end suṣṇvāḥ). Ppp. reads for a-b imān vi syāmi varuṇasya pācam tena tvā etc.; [cf. the TS. version of our 19 a]. [As noted under vs. 19, Ppp. makes our 58 c, d change place with our 19 c, d, reading, however, sūgam itra for our sugām ātra and sahapatnī vadhūḥ for our sahapatnyāi vadhū.] Vss. 58, 59, 61 appear to be overlooked by the Anukr., probably by a loss of something out of the text: this (11 + 11 : 10 + 12 = 44) is an irregular triṣṭubh; [the longer form pānthānam would relieve the difficulty: cf. vs. 34, where, as between the longer and shorter equivalent forms, our text is most clearly at fault].

59. Raise ye [your weapons]; may ye smite away the demon; set this woman in what is well done; inspired Dhātār found for her a husband; let king Bhaga go in front, foreknowing.

[Ppp. combines a-b thus: hanāthe imān; and that is followed by] nāryam [for nārīm, as in 53, 54, 55*] in b. Kāuṣ. 76. 32 uses vss. 59, 60, 62 at the setting out of the bride for her new home. This verse also is an irregular triṣṭubh (11 + 10 : 12 + 11 = 44). * [Cf. the Ppp. variant bhūmyam for bhūmim, xiii. 2. 40, 41.]

60. Bhaga fashioned the four feet; Bhaga fashioned the four frame-pieces (?śyala); Tvashtar adorned (piṣ) the straps (?vārdhira) along in the middle; let her be to us of excellent omen.

Kāuṣ. uses the verse not only as stated in the preceding note, but also (76. 25), more properly, with 2. 31, when the bride mounts the couch (talpa). Ppp. reads in a padas; in b, cavāryaśpadāni; in c, madhyato varadhrān. [For śyala, cf. note to vi. 139. 3.] [For the addition to the Anukr. at this point, see above, p. 740, ¶ 2, and especially the note to xv. 5. 7.]

61. The well-flowered (sukinṇukā), all-formed bridal-car (vahatū), golden-colored, well-rolling, well-wheeled, do thou mount, O Sūryā, to the world of the immortal; make thou a bridal-car pleasant to husbands.

The verse is RV. x. 85. 20, which reads ṣalmalīm in a for vahatūm, and in d pātye for pātibhyas, and kṛṇuṣva for kṛṇu tvām. MB. (i. 3. 11) also has ṣalmalim, pātye, and kṛṇuṣva, but further in b suvarṇavarṇam sukṛtam, and in c nābhim for lokam. [Cf. MP. i. 6. 4; MGS. i. 13. 6 and p. 157.] Kāuṣ. 77. 1 combines it with 2. 30, as used when the bride is made to mount the vehicle that takes her to her new home. Ppp. has in c sukṛtasya loka. The verse is a good triṣṭubh.

62. Her, not brother-slaying, O Varuṇa; not cattle-slaying, O Brihaspati; not husband-slaying, possessing sons, O Indra — bring [her] for us, O Savitar.

The Āpast text (Wint., p. 41 [MP. i. 1. 3]) has a corresponding but quite different verse: reading āpatighnīm in b, and, for c, d, indrā putraghnīm lakṣmyām tām asyāi savitaḥ suva. The Anukr. does not heed the deficiency of a syllable in a. For the use of the verse in Kāuṣ. (76. 32), see the note to vs. 59. It is wanting (as above noticed) in Ppp.

63. Injure ye not the maiden (kumārī), ye (two) pillars, on the god-made road; the door of the divine house we make pleasant, a road for the bride.

Or, 'we make a pleasant road' etc. In Kāuṣ. 77. 20, the verses 2. 26; 1. 21, 63, 64, in this order, are used to accompany the bride's stepping forward into the house. [Cf. Wint., p. 72, top.]

64. Let the bráhman be yoked after, the bráhman before, the bráhman at the end, in the middle, the bráhman everywhere; going forward to an impenetrable stronghold of the gods, do thou (f.), propitious, pleasant, bear rule in thy husband's world.

Besides the use of the verse in Kāuṣ. 77. 20, as noticed just above, it is quoted, with 2. 8, in 77. 2, when the bride sets out, with a Brahman in front. In 79. 28, it is allowed to be substituted for vs. 23; and in that case (? 79. 32) the ceremony is called brāhmya instead of sāurya.

[Here ends the first anuvāka, with 1 hymn (but see page 739, top) and 64 verses. The quoted Anukr. says ādyah sāuryaḥ catuḥṣaṣṭīḥ (see p. 738).]

2. Marriage ceremonies (continued).

[Sāvitrī Sūryā. — ātmadāivatam (10. yakṣmanāṇāṇi; 11. dampatyoh pariṣanthināṇāṇi; 36 [?]. devān astāut). [As to the foregoing statements, see above, page 739, ¶'s 8, 4, 5.] ānu-ṣṭubham: 5, 6, 12, 31, 37, 39, 40. jagatī (37, 39. bhurik triṣṭubh); 9. 3-av. 6-p. virāḍ atyaṣṭi; 13, 14, 17-19, [34, 36, 38,] 41, 42, 49, 61, 70, 74, 75. triṣṭubh; 15, 51. bhurij; 20. purastādbr̥haṭi; 13 [!], 24, 25, 32, 33 [!]. purobr̥haṭi; [26. 3-p. virāṇ nāma gāyatrī;] 33. virāḍ āstārāpañkti; 35. purobr̥haṭi triṣṭubh; 43. triṣṭubgarbhā pañkti; 44. prastāra-pañkti; [47. pathyābr̥haṭi;] 48. sataḥpañkti [see under the verse]; [50. upariṣṭādbr̥haṭi nīrti;] 52. virāḍ paroṣṇih; 59, 60, 62. pathyāpañkti; [68. pura-uṣṇih;] 69. 3-av. 6-p. atiḥkavari; 71. br̥haṭi.]

The Anukramaṇī, as we have it, omits the description of several of the verses (26, 34, 36, 38, 47, 50, 68); [and, on the other hand, it defines verses 13 and 33 each twice, each once right and once wrong;] and it mixes the order of others [compare Whitney's remarks, above, page 739, ¶ 3, and mine, page 740, top].

The verses (except 50, 58) of this anuvāka or hymn are found also in Pāipp. xviii. (for slight differences of order, see under the verses). [About a dozen verses of this anuvāka or hymn also occur in the RV. wedding-hymn, x. 85.] Only one verse (47) is used by Vāit., but nearly all by Kāuṣ.

Translated: parts, of course, by the RV. translators; and the parts peculiar to our text by Ludwig, p. 472; and, as AV. hymn, by Weber (as above), Ind. Stud. v. 204-217. For vss. 59-62, see Bloomfield, AJP. xi. 336-341, or JAOS. xv., p. xlv., = PAOS. for Oct. 1890.

1. For thee in the beginning they carried about Sūryā, together with the bridal-car; mayest thou, O Agni, give to us husbands the wife, together with progeny.

The verse is RV. x. 85. 38, RV. reading pūnaḥ for sā naḥ in c. All our mss. accent in d agne, but it has been emended to agne in our edition. Ppp. agrees with RV. in having in c punaḥ pat-. [Cf. PGS. i. 7. 3; MP. i. 5. 3; MGS. i. 11. 12 b, and p. 150.] Kāuṣ. 78. 10 quotes this verse with 45 below, both preceded by vi. 78. 1, and followed by a long prose-passage, when the pair approach the priest to receive a sort of baptism.

2. Agni hath given back the spouse, together with life-time, with splendor; of long life-time, may he who is the husband of her live a hundred autumns.

Is RV. x. 85. 39, without variant. [Cf. MP. i. 5. 4; MGS. i. 11. 12 c, and p. 152.] The combination yāḥ pātīḥ in c is assured by Prāt. ii. 70.

3. Soma's wife first; the Gandharva thy next husband; Agni thy third husband; thy fourth, one of human birth.

The verse is RV. x. 85. 40, which, however, has for a, b sómaḥ prathamó vivide gandharvó vivida úttaraḥ. It is found also in PGS. (i. 4. 16) and HGS. (i. 20. 2); the former agrees entirely with RV.; the latter deviates from it only in d, where it gives turyo 'ham man-: Ppp. combines in b aparaḥ p-. [Cf. MP. i. 3. 1.]

4. Soma gave to the Gandharva; the Gandharva gave to Agni; both wealth and sons hath Agni given to me, likewise this woman.

Is RV. x. 85. 41, without variant. Found also in MB. (i. 1. 7) and HGS. (i. 20. 2): in the latter, with very different readings: somo 'dadād gandharvāya gandharvo 'gnaye 'dadāt: paçūñç ca mahyam putrāñç cā 'gnir dadāty atho tvām. [Cf. MP. i. 3. 2; MGS. i. 10. 10 a, and p. 157; also Wint., p. 48.]

5. Your favor hath come, O ye (two) of abundant good things (?vājīnivasu); [our] desires have rested in [your] hearts, O Aṣvins; ye have been twin keepers, O lords of beauty; may we, being dear, attain favorers (aryamān) of our homes (?dūrya).

The verse is RV. x. 40. 12, RV., however, reading ayaṁsata at end of b. [MP. i. 7. 11 follows the RV. text, but with kāmān for kāmās: cf. Wint., p. 70.] More points than one in the translation are doubtful.

6. Do thou (f.), rejoicing with propitious mind, assign wealth having all heroes, to be extolled; an easy crossing (tīrthā), well provided with drink, O lords (du.) of beauty; do ye smite away the pillar standing in the road, [namely] disfavor.

This verse is altered from RV. x. 40. 13 in a strange and senseless manner. RV. reads for a, b tā mandasānā mānuṣo duroṇā ā dhattān rayīm sahāvraṁ vacasyāve, thus making the verse concern the Aṣvins throughout; who is our 'thou' (sā) does not appear. In c the sense is destroyed by altering the RV. verb kṛtām (as if it were misunderstood for a participle) to sugām; and in d patheṣṭhām (p. pathessthām) is turned to pāthiṣṭhām (p. pāthi-ssthām) and accented as if it were a superlative; [cf. the confusion at vi. 28. 1]. The verse is used also in the Āpast. sūtra (Wint., p. 68 [MP. i. 6. 12]), with daçavtram in b as its only variant from RV. Ppp. appears to read with our text. The verse lacks two syllables of being a real jagati. In Kāuṣ. 77. 8 the verse is directed to be used on arriving at a ford or river-crossing on the bridal journey.

7. What herbs [there are], what streams, what fields, what forests — let these, O bride, defend from the demon thee, possessing progeny, for thy husband.

The Āpast. text (Wint., p. 70 [MP. i. 7. 9]) has the same verse, but with different readings: for b, yāni dhāvāni yé vānāḥ [Oxford text vānā]; in c, té for tās; for d, prā tvé muñcantv ānhasaḥ. Kāuṣ. 77. 11 uses it on the bridal journey 'under the circumstances mentioned in the verse.'

8. We have mounted this road, easy, bringing welfare, on which a hero takes no harm, [but] finds others' goods.

The Āpast. text (Wint., p. 67 [MP. i. 6. 11]) has the same verse, but with sugām pānthānam ā'ruṣam āriṣam svas- in a, b. Kāuṣ. uses it in 77. 2, with 1. 64: see the note to 1. 64. [For yāsmīn in c Ppp. has the sense-equivalent yatra: cf. its oṣam for our kṣiprām at xii. 1. 35; etc.]

9. Pray hear ye now of me, O men, by what blessing (āṇis) the two spouses attain what is agreeable (vāmā): what Gandharvas [there are] and heavenly Apsarasas, who stand upon these forest trees (vānaspatyā), let them be pleasant unto this bride; let them not injure the bridal-car as it is driven.

The last four pādas form a verse also in the Āpast. text (Wint., p. 70 [MP. i. 7. 8]), where for our d is read eṣu vrkṣeṣu vānaspatyēṣu āsate, further śivās (for syonās) and vadhvā in e, and ūhyāmānām in f. In TS. iii. 2. 8⁺ is found the phrase yām āṇtrā dāmpatī vāmām aṇutāh, and āṇtrāyā dāmpatī vāmām aṇutām. The verse is to be used, according to Kāuṣ. 77. 9, when the bridal train passes great trees. The Anukr. [appears to scan as 9 + 12 : 11 + 12 : 11 + 11 = 66; but pāda a is essentially defective]. All our mss. [and SPP's authorities] read in e te, which our edition emends to tē; [but SPP. reads te, construing a-d together, and e-f separately: 'unto thee, the bride here'; which seems hard]. Ppp. combines in c gandharvā'ps-.

10. What yākṣmas go to the bride's brilliant (candrā) car among the people, let the worshipful gods conduct those back whence they came.

The verse is RV. x. 85. 31; RV. reads in b jānād annu. The Āpast. text (Wint., p. 67 [MP. i. 6. 9]) has the same verse. [The Anukr. calls the vs. yakṣmanācanti.]

11. Let not the waylayers who pursue (ā-sad) [them] find the two spouses; let them go over what is difficult by an easy [road]; let the niggards run away.

Is RV. x. 85. 32, whose only variant is sugēbhis in c. We had a as xii. 1. 32 d, and d as vi. 129. 1-3 d. MB. (i. 3. 12) and Āpast. (Wint., p. 67 [MP. i. 6. 10]) have the RV. reading. The verse is used (Kāuṣ. 77. 3), with 1. 34, when the bridal train starts. [The Anukr. calls the vs. dampatyoh pariṣanthinācanti.]

12. I cause the bridal-car to be viewed by the houses with worship (brāhman), with a friendly, not terrible eye; what of all forms is fastened on about, let Savitar make that pleasant for the husbands.

Ppp. reads at the end kṛnotu tat. According to Kāuṣ. 77. 14, the verse is uttered when the train comes in sight of the house. Āpast. vi. 6 (Wint., p. 70 [MP. i. 7. 10]) has the same verse, with the variants māltreṇa in b, asyām for āsti in c, and (like Ppp.) kṛnotu idāt at the end. The comm. to Āpast. understands c of the ornaments worn by the bride, as indicated by the reading asyām. The verse (13 + 11 : 11 + 12 = 47) is but a poor jagati.

13. Propitious hath this woman come to the home; Dhātara appointed this world (sphere) to her; her let Aryaman, Bhaga, both Aṅvins, Prajāpati, increase with progeny.

The Anukr. takes no notice of the irregularities of the meter (9 + 11 : 10 + 11 = 41). [It defines the verse twice, first as trīṣṭubh, then as purodyhatti (cf. vi. 126. 3). Pādas b and d are good trīṣṭubh pādas; and a and c will pass if we resolve naārī iyaṁ and taām.]

14. [As] a soulful cultivated field hath this woman come; in her here, O men, scatter ye seed; she shall give birth to progeny for you from her belly (vakṣāṇās), bearing the exuded (dugdhd) sperm of the male (ṛṣabhā).

A couple of our mss. ([E.]D.) read asyām in c. The first pāda is capable of being compressed into 11 syllables, but with violence. Ppp. has for b yasyān naro vāpanta bijam asyāh, and in c janayāt.

[The likening of the woman to the field is very familiar later: cf. Manu ix. 33 f. Cf. also the ματρός ἀρουραν of Aeschylus (Septem, 753); Sophocles' ἀρώσιμοι γὰρ χάρεων εἶσιν γῆραι (Ant., 569); Eurip. Phoen. 18; etc. My colleague, Professor George F. Moore, calls my attention to Koran ii. 22, "Your women are your plow-land," in Arabic, harth. — Griffith's (not very close) version suggests a different interpretation: he takes dugdhdām as 'milk' of the maternal breast. Perhaps after all we should (with W.) join it with rétas, and in the sense of 'milked'; but with this difference, that it refers to the rétas which is "milked" as a result of the action implied in pāso nī galgalitī dhārakā at VS. xxiii. 22. Mahīdhara says vīryaṁ kṣarati (cf. kṣīram). — This interpretation is fortified by the use of dhayati at RV. i. 179. 4, Lōpāmudrā vṛṣaṇaṁ (naddān) dhayati vṣasntam.]

15. Stand firm; virāj art thou; as it were, Vishṇu here, O Sarasvatī; O Sīnīvālī, let her have progeny; may she be in the favor of Bhaga.

Kāuṣ. 76. 33 uses the verse to accompany the act of making the bride stand firm after rising from the couch. The Anukr. forbids us to abbreviate to 'va in b. In Ppp. a considerable part of the verse is lost. The second half-verse appears again below as 21 c, d.

16. Let your wave smite up the pegs; O waters, release the yoke-ropes (yōktra); let not the two inviolable [kine], not evil-doing, free from guilt, come upon what is unpropitious (ṛḍuna).

The verse is RV. iii. 33. 13, which, however, reads ṣṭnam for ṛḍnam in d, and vṛṇasā for -sāu in d; and Ppp. agrees with RV. [W's "[kine]" seems to overlook the gender of aghnyāt: see Griffith's note, p. 174.] Kāuṣ. 77. 15 makes the verse accompany the sprinkling of the car and unyoking of the oxen at the end of the bridal journey.

17. With an eye not terrible, not husband-slaying, pleasant, helpful (ṣagmā), very propitious, of easy control (suyāma) for the houses, hero-bearing, loving brothers-in-law (?), with favoring mind — may we thrive together with thee.

The concluding word is here rendered as the text gives it, but there is little question that it ought to be emended (with Ppp.) to -mānāh, as qualifying 'we.' This verse and the next are a sort of duplication and variation of RV. x. 85. 44; our a here is nearly the same with the first pāda of that verse, which, however, reads edhi for our syonā. Ppp. makes our 17 c, d and 18 c, d change places, reading for the former vīrasār devakāmā syonān tvedhiṣṭmahi sumanasyamānāh. Our mss. are divided in c between devṛkāmā and devāk, the majority (not Bp.Bs.p.m.E.O.D.) having, with RV. and Ppp., the latter, which is therefore more probably the true reading. Ppp. has in a (like RV.) edhi but with syonā after it [a "blend-reading" such as the Vulgate shows at vs. 18?]; and, in b, sūyamā grheṣu. [Cf. MP. i. 1. 4; MGS. i. 10. 6, and

p. 146.] The verse accompanies in Kāuṣ. 77. 22 the leading of the bride thrice about the fire. PGS. i. 4. 16 and HGS. i. 20. 2 have it in its RV. form, with slight variants in HGS. Our verse (11 + 11 : 7 + 13 = 42) is metrically much too irregular to be set down as simply a triṣṭubh.

18. Not brother-in-law-slaying, not husband-slaying be thou here, propitious to the cattle, of easy control, very splendid, having progeny, hero-bearing, loving brothers-in-law(?), pleasant, do thou worship (sapary) this householder's fire.

Our mss. differ, as in the preceding verse, between devṣkāmā and devāk- in c. The first three pādas agree nearly with RV. x. 85. 44 a-c, but the latter begins a with āghora-caḥṣus (like our 17 a) [and omits ihā], reads sumānās instead of suyāmā in b, and in c omits prajāvatī and gives devākāmā; its fourth pāda is the commonplace phrase çām no bhava dvipāde çām cātuspadē. Ppp. reads for a, b: adevaragñi patiragñy edhi syonaṣ paçubhyas sumanas suvirah; and, for c, d (given, as noted above, as second half of the preceding verse): prajāvatī vīrasūr devṣkāmē 'mam agn- etc.; it thus gets rid of the syonā whose apparent intrusion spoils the triṣṭubh-character of our c, d. [The ms. reckons syonā to d (by placing the mark of pāda-division before it); but the integrity of tmām etc. as a pāda (without syonā) is palpable. Likely our text represents a blend of two readings: vīrasūr devākāmā sionā (RV.), and prajāvatī vīrasūr devṣkāmā (Ppp.): cf. under vs. 17. — Perhaps the corruption at xviii. 1. 39 below is in part due to a confused blending of two readings.]

* 19. Stand up from here; desiring what hast thou (f.) come hither? I [am] thine overcomer, O Iḍā, out of [my] own house; thou that hast come hither, O perdition, seeking the empty — stand up, O niggard; fly forth; rest not here.

This exorcism accompanies, according to Kāuṣ. 77. 16, a complete sprinkling of her new home by the bride. All our mss. [and all SPP's authorities] have at end of c ājagāndha; our edition [not SPP's] makes the, as it seems, necessary emendation to -ntha, which Ppp. also appears to have. [See Roth, ZDMG. xlviii. 108.] Ppp. further reads in a -ṣhā 'daṣ kim, combines ā 'gā 'ham, and begins c with açūryeṣi. In b the translation assumes the pāda-reading ide — not īde, as previous translators prefer to understand; it is hard to tell which word is more out of place. The verse is once more a very poor sort of triṣṭubh. [It may be counted as 44 syllables. Pādas a, b, c scan easily as 11 + 12 : 11; but the good triṣṭubh cadence of d casts suspicion on the integrity of its prior part.]

20. When this bride hath worshiped the householder's, the former (pūrva) fire, then, O woman, do thou pay homage to Sarasvatī and to the Fathers.

Ppp. (which not rarely substitutes āi for i) seems to agree with all our mss. in reading asaparyātī [see the note to vi. 32. 2]. Prāt. ii. 65 prescribes the combination nāmas k- in d. The first pāda (10 syll.) is both irregular and defective. By Kāuṣ. 77. 23, the verse, with vs. 46 below, is to accompany the homage paid by the bride to the deities mentioned.

21. Take this protection, defense, to spread under this woman; O Sinī-vālī, let her have progeny; may she be in the favor of Bhaga.

The second half-verse is the same with 15 c, d above. The rendering implies [after nāryāi in b] an emendation to upastre (infinitive), which is the reading of Ppp. The Āpast. text (Wint., p. 71 [MP. i. 8. 1]) also has it; further, in a it has idāni ā bhara, and, in d, iyām inserted before bhāgasya. In Kāuṣ. 78. 1, the verse is directed to be uttered while he (the bridegroom?) brings the hide of a red ox.

22. What rushes (bālbaja) ye cast down, and [what] hide ye spread under, that let the girl (kanyā) of good progeny mount, who finds a husband.

Balbaja is the Eleusine indica, a coarse rush-like grass. In Ppp., the parts of vss. 22 and 23, and of 24 and 25, are more or less exchanged. In Kāuṣ. 78, the second pāda is first quoted (in 2), after our vs. 21; then follows (in 3) a, then (in 4) the first part of vs. 23, then (in 5) our c, then (in 6) the second half of vs. 23, all accompanying the corresponding acts of preparing a seat for the bride, that she may take a Brahman-boy into her lap, to encourage the obtainment of male progeny. It may be that Ppp. follows with its changed order the succession of the acts as given in Kāuṣ.

23. Spread under the rushes upon the red hide; sitting down upon it, of good progeny, let her worship this fire.

Bp.E. [and SPP's C.] read at the end saparyata. For the use in Kāuṣ., see the preceding note. The second half-verse is used again in 79. 5, when the bride sits down on the nuptial bed.

24. Mount the hide; sit by the fire; this god slays all the demons; here give birth to progeny for this husband; may this son of thine be of good primogeniture.

The last pāda is used by Kāuṣ. 78. 8 as the boy is seated in the bride's lap, though unsuited to the purpose unless forced out of its natural meaning. [Cf. Wint., p. 75.] There must be some error in the Anukr. text relating to this verse and vs. 25 (which are triṣṭubh) and vs. 32 (see below).

25. Let there come forth (vi-sthā) from the lap of this mother animals (paśū) of various forms, being born; as one of excellent omen, sit thou by this fire; with thy husband (sāmpatnī), be thou serviceable to the gods here.

In Kāuṣ. 78. 9 this verse accompanies the removal of the boy again from the bride's lap. The verse is a pure triṣṭubh. [W. pencils the note "cf. K. xxxix. 10."]

26. Of excellent omen, extender (pratāraṇa) of the houses, very propitious to thy husband, wealthy to thy father-in-law, pleasant to thy mother-in-law, do thou enter these houses.

The comm. to Prāt. iii. 60 notes the accent of vaagrīvāṣ. The verse seems to be overlooked altogether in the Anukr. as we have it; it should be called a 3-p. virāṇ nāma gāyatrī (11 + 11 : 11 = 33). It is used in Kāuṣ. 77. 20 as the bride enters her new abode.

27. Be thou pleasant to fathers-in-law, pleasant to husband, to houses, pleasant to all this clan; pleasant unto their prosperity (puṣṭā) be thou.

Ppp. puts this verse at the end of the book.

28. Of excellent omen is this bride; come together, see her; having given unto her good-fortune, go asunder and away with ill-fortunes.

The verse is RV. x. 85. 33, which, however, has a different ending: asyāi dattvāyā 'ihā 'stani vī pāre 'tana; and this is read also by PGS. (i. 8. 9) and MB. (i. 2. 14). [Cf. MP. i. 9. 5; Wint., p. 74; MGS. i. 12. 1, and p. 157.] According to Kāuṣ. 77. 10, it is to be addressed to women who come to look at the bride on her journey. Ppp. reads in ḍ dāurbhāgyena par-. Our edition should read dattvā.

29. What evil-hearted young women, and likewise what old ones, [are] here—do ye all [sām] now give splendor to her; then go asunder and away home.

The last pāda is nearly identical with RV. x. 85. 33 ḍ: see the preceding note. All our mss. [and SPP's] read in b jaratīs, as if vocative; our edition [not SPP's] emends to jār-, as seems unavoidable.

30. The gold-cushioned (?-prastaraṇa) vehicle, bearing all forms, did Sūryā, Savitar's daughter, mount, in order to great good-fortune.

[Nearly] all our mss. [and four of SPP's] accent rukṃāprāst- (p. rukṃāprāst-) in a; our edition emends to rukṃāpra-. [SPP., with 13 of his authorities, reads ruk-māprā-.] The verse is used with 1. 61 (Kāuṣ. 77. 1), when the bride mounts the car. [Note bibhratam joined with vahyām, neuter! is the case like those of cakrām aṣṭam, rātnam brhāntam, gotrāni hariṣṛiyam of RV.? cf. my Noun-inflection, p. 600, s.v. Genders.]

31. Mount the couch with favoring mind; here give birth to progeny for this husband; like Indrāṇī, waking with good awakening, mayest thou watch to meet dawns tipped with light.

Ppp. reads in c suptā for subūdā, of which the stem and sense are questionable (it occurs elsewhere only in vs. 75, below); at the end it has cākaraḥ (for jāgaraḥ). [Cf. Wint., p. 92.] The excess of syllables in ḍ is a very poor reason for calling the verse (11 + 11 : 11 + 13 = 46) a jagati. In Kāuṣ. 76. 25 the verse is used, with 1. 60, when the bride mounts the couch; and again, 79. 4, when she ascends the nuptial bed (vs. 23 immediately follows: see above).

32. The gods in the beginning lay with (ni-pad) their spouses; they embraced (sam-spr̥ṣ) bodies with bodies; like Sūryā, O woman, all-formed, with greatness, having progeny, unite (sam-bhū) here with thy husband.

Ppp. combines at the beginning devā 'gre. The verse (11 + 11 : 12 + 11 = 45) is almost a good triṣṭubh, in spite of the Anukr. [It would be a perfect triṣṭubh in cadence and otherwise if we had the right to excise nārī, the intrusive character of which is very likely.] It is used in Kāuṣ. 79. 6 when the bride enters the nuptial bed; and also, in 75. 11, vss. 32–36 are strangely made to accompany the strewing of grasses by the wooers who have gone out to arrange for the bridal.

33. Stand up from here, O Viçvāvasu; with homage do we praise thee; seek thou a sister (jāmi) sitting among the Fathers, inserted (?-nyāktām); that is thy portion by right of birth; know thou that.

This verse corresponds to RV. x. 85. 22 a, b and 21 c, d; but RV. reads at the beginning úd tr̥ṣvā 'to viç-; and in c anyām for jāmtm, and vyāktām for nyāktām, which seems a mere ignorant substitution for it. Our mss. are divided between nyāktām and -tām; I.E.p.m.O.s.m.R.T.D.K. give -tām, which ending is doubtless to be accepted as the true reading. Ppp. reads with RV. at the beginning, but goes on independently: ud tr̥ṣvā 'taṣ pati hy eṣān viçvāvasuṁ namasā girbhīr idē. The Āpast. text (Wint., p. 89 [MP. i. 10. 1-2]) reads vittām for vyāktām. Compare Hillebrandt also in ZDMG. xl. 711; he renders vyāktām simply by 'bride,' one does not see why. [Cf. also Ved. Mythol. i. 435.] [For the metrical definitions of the Anukr., see above.]

34. The Apsarases revel a joint reveling, between the oblation-holder and the sun; they are thy birthplace; go away to them; homage I pay thee with the Gandharva-season.

The first half-verse is identical with vii. 109. 3 a, b. The verse, a fairly good tristubh, appears, with vss. 36 and 38, to be passed over by the [London] Anukr. [The Berlin ms. gives the three pratīkas, followed, without iti, by agastataḥṣe (!).] Ppp. begins the verse with yā 'psarasas s- (for yā apr-), and in b puts antara (for -rā) before havidhānam.

35. Homage to the Gandharva's mind (?), and homage to his terrible (bhāma) eye we pay; O Viçvāvasu, homage [be] to thee with worship (brāhman); go away unto thy wives, the Apsarases.

The translation implies the naturally suggested emendation in a of nāmase to manase, which Ppp. supports, reading manaso. Ppp. has further bhāsāya for bhāmāya in b; and, for c, viçvāvaso namo brahmanā te kṛnōmi, and, in d, combines jāyā 'ps-. The addition of 'stu' at the end of our c would rectify the meter of the pāda and make the definition of the Anukr. exact.

36. With wealth may we be well-willing; we have made the Gandharva go (vṛt) up from here; that god hath gone to the highest station (sadhistha); we have gone where they lengthen out [their] life-time.

The prefix ā in b seems out of place. The last pāda appears twice in RV. (i. 113. 16 d; viii. 48. 11 d). The definition of the verse (as noted under vs. 34) appears to be omitted in the Anukr. For the application made in Kāuç. of this and the preceding verses, see under vs. 32; it does not seem at all suitable. Ppp. has in d for yatra the variant vayam [implying, perhaps, that the Kashmir Vaidikas understood pratirānta (p. pratirānte) as pratirāntas]. [With regard to an Anukr. statement that seems to concern this verse, see above, p. 739, ¶s 4, 5, 7.] [Cf. xviii. 2. 29 n.]

37. Unite (sam-sṛj), O ye (two) parents (pitṛ), the (two) things that are seasonable; ye shall be mother and father of seed; as a male (mārya) a female (yōṣā), do thou mount her; make ye (two) progeny; here enjoy (puṣ) wealth.

[For "mount her," W. suggests in pencil "make her mount"; but I suspect that the full expression would be ādhi rohaya ṣṭpa.enām.] In a, ṣṭviye is regarded by the pāda-text as dual, and is translated accordingly; it probably means the respective contributions of the two to the embryo. Ppp. reads instead (-rā) vṛddhaye, a welcome emendation. Further, in b, it puts pitā before mātā and has ja for ca and ends b with bhavātha; [and it makes our 37 d and 39 c change place, but with puṣyatu no for our puṣyatam]. [Pronounce māryeva in c: the verse then scans easily as 11 + 11: 11 + 12, if we accept the resolution ṣṭiye in a.] According to Kāuṣ. 79. 8, it is used in the act of coition. [Concerning the matter as an essential element of the ritual, see Winternitz, p. 92.] Ppp. arranges this and the following six verses in the order 37, 40, 38, 39, 42, 41, 43.

38. Send, O Pūshan, her, most propitious, in whom men scatter seed (bṛja); who, eager, shall part our thighs; in whom we, eager, may insert the member.

The verse is RV. x. 85. 37, which, however, reads at end of c (with Ppp.) -ṣṛayāte ['who, eager, shall part her thighs for us'], and of d -hārāma ṣepam. All our mss. accent pūṣan in a; Bp. begins c with yāḥ: naḥ. The same verse is found in HGS. i. 20. 2, with nas after tām in a, visrayātāi in c, and -harema ṣepam in d. PGS. (i. 4. 16) has a corresponding, but quite different, text: sā naḥ pūṣā cīvatamām e "raya sā na ūrā uṣatī vi hara: yasyām uṣantāḥ praharāma ṣepam yasyām u kāmā bahavo niviṣṭyāi. The Āpast. text (Wint., p. 90 [MP. i. 11. 6]) has the RV. version, except -ṣṛayātāi at end of c. [Barring the bad cesura in a, the verse is a good triṣṭubh; but the definition (as noted under vs. 34) is omitted by the Anukr.]

39. Mount thou the thigh; apply the hand; embrace thy wife with well-willing mind; make ye (two) progeny here, enjoying; let Savitar make for you a long life-time.

The first half-verse is found also in the Āpast. text (Wint., p. 90 [MP. i. 11. 7]), with the variant (after ūrām) ūpa barhasva bāhām. [Ppp., as just noted, makes our 37 d change place with our 39 c, reading, however, rodamānāu for mod-; and in its d it has tu for vām, combining tv āyus sav-.] The verse is ill defined as a jagati or bhūrik triṣṭubh; it is properly a svarāṣ triṣṭubh.

40. Let Prajāpati generate progeny for you (two); let Aryaman unite (sam-añj) [you] with days-and-nights; not ill-omened, enter thou this world of thy husband; be weal to our bipeds, weal to [our] quadrupeds.

The verse is RV. x. 85. 43, which, however, begins a with ā naḥ pr-, b with ājarasāya, and c with ādurmañgalīḥ p-. Ppp. also reads the latter (-liṣ p-); and, in d, astu for bhava. RV. further omits inām in c. [MB. at i. 2. 18 follows RV.] The Āpast. text (Wint., p. 90 [MP. i. 11. 5]) has precisely the RV. version. MS. (ii. 13. 23) has pāda a only. The verse is almost a good jagati, only a little damaged by the intrusion of inām in c; [and a perfect jagati, if (with RV. MB. MP.) we omit inām].

41. This bridal garment and bride's dress, given by the gods together with Manu, whoso gives to a knowing (cikittvāns) priest (brahmān), he verily slays the demons of the couch (?).

The translation implies at the end the emendation (suggested also by Weber, p. 211) of tālpāni to tālpāyāni, as required by both sense and meter, and supported by the Ppp. reading trpyāni. For b, Ppp. gives vādhūyam baddho (vadhvo?) vāso 'syāḥ, which, though metrically awkward, is not redundant in expression. In Kāuṣ. 79. 21, the verse accompanies the priest's acceptance of the bridal garment, given him with i. 25. The verse is a good triṣṭubh, if emended as proposed in d. [Cf. vii. 37. i n.]

42. What priest's portion they (dual) give to me the bride-seeker (vadhūyū), the bridal garment and bride's dress, do ye, O Brihaspati and Indra, assenting, together give it to the priest (brahmān).

The anomalous accent dattām at the end is read by all our [and SPP's] authorities. Ppp. varies considerably: yan no 'diti brahmabhāgaṃ vadhūyor vāso vadhvāḥ ca vastram; and dhattām at the end.

43. Awaking out of a pleasant lair (yōni), mightily enjoying yourselves, merry, having good kine, good sons, good houses, may ye, living, pass the outshining dawns.

Ppp. reads in c, ḍ subhāu suputrāu sukṛtāu carātāu jīvā uḥ; our P.M.W. have carātho. To accent tārāthas, counting it to ḍ instead of c, would be an improvement. The verse (which scans 11 + 11: 8 + 11 or 11 + 8 = 41) is very ill described by the Anukr. According to Kāuṣ. 79. 12, it accompanies the rising from the nuptial bed.

44. Clothing myself anew, fragrant, well-dressed, I have risen alive unto the outshining dawns; as a bird from the egg, I have been released out of all sin.

Ppp. combines a-b suṇvāso 'dā. According to Kāuṣ. 79. 27, the verse is used when the priest comes back after washing the bridal garment.

45. Beautiful [are] heaven-and-earth, pleasant near by, of great courses; seven divine waters have flowed; let them free us from distress.

This verse is a repetition of vii. 112. 1. Ppp. reads in b yantusumne, and, for c, āpas sapta sravantis (tā etc.). The redundant syllable in c is not noticed by the Anukr. here, although it was so at the other occurrence. The verse is used by Kāuṣ. 78. 10 with vs. 1 (see the note to that verse), and again in 78. 13 it accompanies the pouring of water into the folded hands of the pair; and yet again, in 79. 25, the pouring of water on the bridal garment; this use is evidently the one which gives the verse its place here.

46. Unto Sūryā, unto the gods, unto Mitra and Varuṇa, unto them who are forethoughtful of that which exists, have I paid this homage.

The verse is RV. x. 85. 17, with a differently ordered ḍ, idāṃ tebhyo 'karam nāmaḥ, by which is avoided the redundancy of a syllable — which the Anukr. passes unheeded. [Ppp. avoids it in yet another way by reading tebhyo 'ham akarāṃ namaḥ.] Kāuṣ. uses it twice in 77; once in 5, on the wedding-journey; and again in 23, on arrival at the new home. [As to the "deity" of the verse, see above, p. 739, ¶'s 4, 5, 7.]

47. He who, without a clamp (abhiṣṛīṣ), before the piercing of the neck-ropes (jatṛī), combines (sam-dhā) a combination — he the bountiful, the one of much good — removes again what is spoiled (vīhṛta).

[Or 'joins a joining' and 'mends again what is damaged,' as W. suggests in pencil.] This obscure verse is RV. viii. 1. 12, and is found also in several other texts, as SV. (i. 244), MS. (iv. 9. 12), TA. (iv. 20. 1), PB. (ix. 10. 1), KṚS. xxv. 5. 30. The RV. text differs from ours only by having in ḍ īṣkarīā for nīṣk; KṚS. alone agrees with RV. in this; SV. is throughout as AV.; PB. begins yakṣate cid, and has vīhṛtam in ḍ; TA.

begins yād r̥tē, has jart̥bh̥yas in b, purovāsus in c, [and vikṛtam in d in the Calcutta ed.: the Poona ed., p. 327, prints it vikṛtam, with a virāma after the h!]. MS. has a very corrupt text for a, b (jāri cētā etc.), and samīdhis and puruv- in c; and the Āpast. text (Wint., p. 69 [MP. i. 7. 1]) agrees throughout with TA. Ppp. writes āydaḥ for āydaḥ. The needed description of the verse as a pathyābhr̥hatī is omitted by our Anukr. Vāit. 12. 7 has the verse used as expiation when anything is broken during the sacrifice; Kāuṣ. 77. 7, when anything on the bridal car needs mending; and also, 57. 7, when a student's staff is broken.

48. Away from us let the darkness shine (vas), that is deep blue, brown (piṇḍāṅga), also red; she who is consuming, spotted, her I fasten (ā-saj) on this pillar.

The latter half-verse is corrupt in Ppp. beyond intelligibility. [The definition sataḥ-paṭh̥ti (cf. my note to vi. 20. 3 and Ind. Stud. viii. 45) presumably means 9 + 11 : 9 + 11. If we could dispense with the yā in c, the verse would be excellent so far as rhythm and cadence go (8 + 11 : 8 + 11).] It is used in Kāuṣ. 79. 22 in connection with taking away the bridal garment to cleanse it. The 'she' is perhaps the female demon supposed to belong to the defiled article.

49. How many witchcrafts in the outer garment (?upavāsana), how many fetters of king Varuṇa, what failures, what non-successes — them I cause to sit upon this pillar.

Ppp. has paścācāne in a for upavāsane; and, for d, asmin tā stāno muñcāmi sarvām. Our P.M.W. read in d tāni sth-; the rest, tāḥ sth-. In Kāuṣ. 79. 23 the verse is used immediately after the preceding. The lack of a syllable in a is disregarded by the Anukr.

50. What is my dearest self (tanū), that of me is afraid of the garment; of it do thou, O forest-lord, make first (āgre) for thyself an inner wrap (nīvī); let us not suffer harm.

This verse is used in Kāuṣ. 79. 24 next after the two preceding, the person who has the garment in charge wrapping a tree with it. The Anukr. contains no definition of the meter (8 + 8 : 8 + 11 = 35). The verse, as noted above, is wanting in Ppp.

51. What ends [there are], how many edges (śīc), what webs, and what lines; what garment woven by the spouses — may that touch us pleasantly.

More lit., '[as] a pleasant one.' With this verse, according to Kāuṣ. 79. 26, the new possessor of the garment puts it on, then coming back with vs. 44. The Anukr. notices this time the redundant syllable in b (we are doubtless to contract to yāu 'tavo). Ppp. reads, for c, d, vāso yat paṭnibhṛtaṁ tanvā syonam upa spr̥ṇaḥ.

52. Eager, these young girls, going to a husband from the father's world, have let go the consecration : hail !

All our mss. [and SPP's authorities] leave yatiḥ in b unaccented, as in 1. 32 c, as if pātin yatiḥ were a sort of compound word, [although the pada-text treats them as separate words!]. [Cf. MP. i. 4. 4, and Wint., p. 54, vs. 4, p. 55 n. 1.] The Anukr. counts in svāhā at the end as a metrical part of the verse. According to Kāuṣ. 75. 24, this verse is uttered as the bride lays fuel on the fire; then [75. 25.] with seven verses, (apparently, this and the six that follow [so schol.]), the prepared water is heated, and with vs. 65 below, the bride is bathed.

53. Her, let go by Brihaspati, all the gods maintained; what splendor is entered into the kine, with that do we unite this woman.

[Cf. Böhrtlingk, ZDMG. liv. 614.] Besides the use of vss. 53-58 made by Kāuṣ. 75. 25, as noticed in the preceding note, they are again applied in 76. 31, when at the end of the wedding ceremony the bride is sprinkled with fragrant powders. The connection of dvasṛṣṭām with āvā 'sṛkṣata in vs. 52 c, suggests dikṣām as the word to be supplied in the first lines of these verses; and so Ludwig translates.

54. Her, let go etc. etc.; what brilliancy (tējas) is entered etc. etc.

55. Her, let go etc. etc.; what fortune (bhāga) is entered etc. etc.

56. Her, let go etc. etc.; what glory is entered etc. etc.

57. Her, let go etc. etc.; what milk (pāyas) is entered etc. etc.

58. Her, let go etc. etc.; what sap is entered etc. etc.

Of these six verses, differing from one another only in one word, Ppp. omits one (58), and puts 55 after 56.

59. If these hairy people have danced together in thy house, doing evil with wailing — from that sin let Agni and Savitar release thee.

This and the three following verses are discussed by Bloomfield in AJP. xi. 336 ff. [or JAOS. xv., p. xlv. = PAOS. for Oct. 1890]. They evidently have no connection originally with marriage ceremonies, but rather with wailings for the dead, which are regarded as ill-omened and requiring expiation.* [Cf. the following verses.] Kāuṣ. quotes only this one (79. 30), and for no definite purpose, combining it with 1. 46 (see note to the latter). Ppp. reads in a yad ami for yadī 'me, and in c kṛṇvātīs. The false accent kṛṇvantās (which our edition has not corrected) is read by all our mss. save one (D.).

[The case is nearly the same with the authorities of SPP., who says, "This reading [kṛṇvantā] appears ancient, traditional, and general." A note in my copy of AV. suggests that the blunder may have crept in from vs. 61; and I find my surmise confirmed not only by SPP. (who, however, attributes the wrong accent and kampa to vs. 60; see his note), but also by the fact of similar occurrences elsewhere: cf., for example, the curious avagraha of sāmojñāpayāmi at vi. 74. 2 (and my note); the impossible utobhāti at xiii. 3. 17, and note; etc.]

*[Cf. Francis James Child, The English and Scottish Popular Ballads, part x., p. 498, under the heading "Tears destroy the peace of the dead," and the citation from MBh. xi. 1. 42-43 given on p. 294 of the same part: "For they [the tears], like sparks, 'tis said, do burn those men [for whom they're shed]." [See Lüders, ZDMG. lviii. 507.]

60. If this daughter of thine has wailed with loosened hair (vikeṣā) in thy house, doing evil with wailing — from that sin etc. etc.

Ppp. has a very different text: yad āsāu [! yadā 'sāu?] duhitā tava vikreṣu arujat: bahu rodhena kṛṇvaty agham.

61. If (yāt) sisters (jāmi), if young women, have danced together in thy house, doing evil with wailing — from that sin etc. etc.

Because of the redundant syllable [the second yād, intrusion?] in a, the Anukr. absurdly separates this verse from the others here, and calls it a triṣṭubh.

62. If in thy progeny, in thy cattle, or in thy houses is settled (ni-sthā) any evil done by the evil-doers — from that sin etc. etc.

63. This woman, scattering shrivelled grains (pūlya) appeals: be my husband long-lived; may he live a hundred autumns.

Ppp. reads in b pūlpāni [instead of our pūlyāni. For the distinction between lpa and lya (note to vi. 127. 1), nāgarī mss. are of course not to be trusted. All but one of SPP's read pūlpāni and his two then living śrotṛīyas recited pūlpāni. But in view of the Prākṛit pulla etc. he reads pūlyāni.] Instead of our d, Ppp. reads edhantāni pītaro mama. The same verse is found in several Sūtras: PGS. (i. 6. 2), HGS. (i. 20. 4), MB. (i. 2. 2), and the Āpast. text (Wint., p. 56 [MP. i. 5. 2]); but with sundry various readings in b and d: for pūlyāni, the Āpast. text has gūlpāni [Oxford ed. kūlpāni], and PGS. lājān, while HGS. and MB. give for the whole pāda gnāu lājān āvapantī; in d the Āpast. text reads jīvātu, and the other three (nearly agreeing with Ppp.) for the whole pāda edhantāni jñātayo mama; MB., moreover, inserts between c and d ṣaṭaṇi varṣāṇi jīvatu. [PGS. has in c āyusmān for dṛghāyus.] [Cf. MGS. i. 11. 12 d, and p. 148.] According to Kāuṣ. 76. 17, the verse is repeated while the bride stands firm upon the stone and scatters the grains. [For āvapantikā, cf. ii. 3. 1; iv. 37. 10; v. 13. 9 and notes.]

64. Here, O Indra, do thou push together these two spouses like two cakravākās; let them, with [their] progeny, well-homed, live out all their life-time.

Ppp. has in c the better reading prajāvantāu sv-, and, in d, dṛgham for viṣvam. Some of our mss. (Bp.E.T.K.) [and three of SPP's] read at the end -nutam. The Kāuṣ. (79. 9), on account of the verb sam-nud, has the verse used to accompany the act of coition.

65. What is done on the chair (āsandī), on the cushion (upadhāna), or what on the covering (upavāsana); what witchcraft they have made at the wedding (vivāhā) — that do we deposit in the bath.

Ppp. reads in a āsandhyā up-. By Kāuṣ. 75. 26, the verse is used at the bride's bath, next after vss. 52-58, and before i. 35, 43. [Griffith would seem to take yād as virtually equivalent to yām kṛtyām.]

[The āsandī appears to be now a throne (cf. AB. viii. 5, 6, 12), and now something between a lounging chair and a bed, 'a long reclining chair' such as Anglo-Indians use today with more comfort than elegance. That it was usable also as a bier carried by four bearers appears from Dīgha Nikāya, ii. 23, and Buddhaghosa's scholion. Compare also the description below, AV. xv. 3. 3 ff. — In Hāla's Saptaçataka, āsandiā is glossed by khaṭvā (no. 112, ed. 1870) or pharyānikikā (no. 700, ed. 1881).]

66. What ill deed, what pollution at the wedding, and what on the bridal car — that difficulty do we wipe off on the dress (kambalā) of the wooer.

Ppp. reads in c sambharasya. Kāuç. 76. 1 makes the verse accompany the rubbing of the bride dry after the bath with a garment, which is then carried to the woods and fastened to a tree.

67. Having settled the defilement on the wooer, the difficulty on the dress, we have become worshipful, cleansed (gudh); may he extend our life-times.

Ppp. also has this time sambhale in a; in d, it combines nā "yūñsi and reads tāriṣam. [Here, as at iv. 10. 6 and ii. 4. 6: see notes,] part of our mss. (Bs.E.O.D.) read tārṣat. With the verse compare xii. 2. 20 above. The Anukr. passes without notice the extra syllable in a.

68. The artificial hundred-toothed comb (?) that is here shall scratch away the defilement of the hair of her, away that of her head.

The majority of our mss. (all but Bs.s.m.P.R.) read kāñṭakas 'thorn' in a. Ppp. has kañkadas. The Kāuç. text, 76. 5, with the subsidiary texts (see note to that rule), gives kañkata, with our edition. There is little to choose between the two readings. Ppp. reads in b apā 'syāt k-. The verse, which is a purausṇih, is not defined by the Anukr. Kāuç. 76. 5 makes it accompany the combing of the bride's hair after she has been bathed and (with i. 45, 53) clothed in a new garment.

69. Away from every limb of her do we deposit the yākṣma; let that not attain (pra-āp) the earth nor the gods; let it not attain the heaven, the wide atmosphere; let that defilement not attain the waters, O Agni; let it not attain Yama and all the Fathers.

Ppp. reads in a, b yo 'yam asyām upa yākṣman ni dhatta naḥ. Kāuç. 76. 14 uses the verse to accompany the purifying of the bride. The metrical structure (8+8: 11+11: 11+11=60) is described as well as the Anukr. knows how.

70. I gird thee with the milk of the earth; I gird thee with the milk of the herbs; I gird thee with progeny, with riches; do thou, being girded, win (ā-san) this strength (? vāja).

TS. (iii. 5. 61) has a corresponding verse, of which this seems an artificial variation: sām tvā nahyāmi pāyasā ghṛtēna s. t. n. apā ṣadadhībhiḥ: s. t. n. prajāyā 'hām adyā sā dīkṣitā sanavo vājam asmé. [Cf. MGS. i. 11. 6 (with adbhiḥ for apās), and p. 156.] Kāuç. 76. 7 uses the verse (with i. 42) at the girding of the bride.

71. He am I, she thou; chant am I, verse thou; heaven I, earth thou; let us (two) come together here; let us generate progeny.

The verse (8+8+8: 7+8=39) is strangely called a br̥hātī by the Anukr. It is found, with more or less variation, in a host of other texts: AB. (viii. 27. 4), TB. (iii. 7. 19), K. (xxxv. 18), ÇB. (xiv. 9. 419), AGS. (i. 7. 6), PGS. (i. 6. 3), HGS. (i. 20. 2), Āp. (ix. 2. 3). In the first pāda, TB. (with which HGS. and Āp. agree throughout) has the unintelligent reading āmūhām; AB. has sa for sā, which seems also a mere blunder. After this, AB.ÇB.AGS.PGS. add the same, inverted: sā (AB. sa again) tvām asy āmo 'hām (ÇB. PGS. ahām). As regards our third pāda, there is no variant in reading, but AB.TB.AGS.HGS.Āp. put it before our second. In our second pāda, the same texts omit the asmī; the whole pāda is wanting in Ppp. For our d, AB. has tāv eha sām vahāvahāi, and ends there; TB. etc. give as ending to the verse tāv é 'hi sām bhavāva sahā réto dadhāvahāi puṁśe putrāya vettavāi; ÇB. nearly the same, but with sahra-bhāvahāi, dadhāvahāi, and vettaye; AGS. instead tāv e 'hi vi vahāvahāi prajām pra janayāvahāi; PGS. spins out the longest ending: tāv e 'hi vi vahāvahāi saha reto dadhāvahāi prajām pra janayāvahāi putrān vindāvahāi bahūn te santu jaradaṣṭayaḥ. [Cf. MP. i. 3. 14, and Wint., p. 52; also MGS. i. 10. 15 d, and p. 146, and i. 10. 15 e, and p. 150, s.v. tā; also GB. ii. 3. 20; JUB. i. 54.] Kāuṣ. 79. 10 uses the verse, with i. 34. 1, after the consummation of the union.

72. The unmarried of us seek a wife, the liberal seek a son; may we (two), with uninjured life-breath, be companions (sac), in order to what is great, to winning of strength (? vāja).

'Of us' in a is dual (nāu) in the text, but requires, doubtless, emendation to nas or to nū. The corresponding half-verse in RV. (vii. 96. 4 a, b) has nū; it reads janīdyānto nu āgravaḥ putrīdyāntaḥ s-. That our denominatives have a right to their short i is further vouched for by their quotation as examples for it under Prāt. iii. 18. Whether one should emend in ḍ to brhatyāi, or translate as is done above, may be made a question; it seems most likely to be a mixed construction, meaning virtually 'in order to the gaining of great vāja.' Vājasātaye is never joined with an adjective in RV. Ppp. reads with our text throughout.

73. What bride-beholding Fathers have come to this bridal-car, let them bestow on this bride, with her husband, protection accompanied with progeny.

The pada-text has the bad reading ā: agaman, instead of āḍagan. Part of our mss. (Bp.P.M.W.O.) read in c śampatyāi, but doubtless only by the scribes' oversight. According to Kāuṣ. 77. 12, the verse is to be used when the bridal train passes by a burial-place.

74. She who hath come hither before, girdling herself (?), having given to this woman here progeny and property — her let them carry along the road of what is not gone; this one, a virḍj, having good progeny, hath conquered.

This obscure verse is not made clear by Kāuṣ. 77. 4; though the latter perhaps means it to be used if another bridal procession goes athwart the track at a cross-roads. The pada-text in a divides without any reason raṣanāyāmānā. Perhaps, too, we ought to resolve pūrvāḍagan into pūrvā: āḍagan, instead of pūrvā: āgan, as the p. does. The third pāda is perhaps a mere ill-wish with contempt: 'she may go to grass.' Ppp. reads in b dhattām, in c abhi for anu, and combines in d suprajā 'ty-. [For consistency, the Berlin text should have datvā.]

75. Continue thou awake, waking with good awakening, unto length of life of a hundred autumns; go to the houses that thou mayest be house-mistress; let Savitar make for thee a long life-time.

Ppp. reads for c grhān pre 'hi sumanasyamānā, and combines in d tā "yus sav-. We had [part of a, above, in 31 c]; c above as 1. 20 c; and d as 1. 47 d [nearly =] 2. 39 d. According to Kāuṣ. 77. 13, the verse is to be used if the bride falls asleep on the road.

The Anukr. is not content with this length of hymn, but adds three more pieces from other parts of the Veda to fill up the "wedding of Sūryā": sahr̥dayam (iii. 30. 1) ity atharvā sāumyam [sāmmanasyam?] ānuṣṭubham ā no agna (ii. 36. 1) iti pativedanaḥ sāumyam trāiṣṭubham vi hī (xx. 126. 1) 'ti tryadhikāi 'ndro [tryadhikam āndro?] vṛṣākapiṛ indrāṇī 'ndraç ca (mss. -drasya) samūdire pāñktam ity eṣa sāuryavivāha iti.

[Here ends the second anuvāka, with 1 hymn (but see pages 738–9) and 75 verses. The quoted Anukr. says pañcasaptatir uttaraḥ (see p. 738).]

[Some mss. sum up the book as of 2 hymns and 139 verses (see p. 739).]

[Here ends the twenty-ninth prapāṭhaka.]

Book XV.

[The Vrātya.]

[This fifteenth book is the third book of the third grand division (books xiii.–xviii.) of the Atharvan collection; and (like books xiii. and xiv.) it clearly shows that unity of subject which is the distinguishing characteristic of the books of the division. Books xv. and xvi. are unlike all the others in that they consist exclusively of paryāya-sūktas, the former of 18, and the latter of 9. The book has, I believe, the distinction of being the first book of the Atharva-veda ever translated into an Occidental language: not only a translation of it, but also the original text, was published by Theodor Aufrecht, in the very first part of the first volume of the Indische Studien, pages 121–140, in August, 1849 (title-page, 1850: but see ZDMG. iii., pages 484, 482), some five or six years before the first part of the Berlin edition, the provisional preface of which is dated February, 1855. The bhāṣya is again lacking.]

[The word vrātya is defined by BR. as ‘belonging to a roving band (vrāta), vagrant; member of a fellowship that stood without the Brahmanical pale.’ It is further applied to the son of an uninitiated man (Bāudhāyana, i. [8.] 16¹⁶: cf. Manu, x. 20), or also to one who has let the proper time for the sacrament of initiation slip by (Manu, ii. 39). And the MBh., at v. 35. 46 = 1227, classes the vrātya with the offscourings of society, such as incendiaries, poisoners, pimps, adulterers, abortionists, drunkards, and so on. — In the St. Petersburg Lexicon, vi. 1503, BR. express the opinion that the praise of the vrātya in this book is an idealization of the pious vagrant or wandering religious mendicant. In this connection, Weber’s History of Indian Lit., p. 112, may be consulted; also Bloomfield’s more recent paragraph in his contribution to Bühler-Kielhorn’s Grundriss, entitled The Atharvaveda, p. 94.]

[The Anukr., in its statements as to the “deity” of the book, says adhyātmakam (see p. 773); and the Cūlikā Upanishad (see Deussen’s Upanishads, pages 637, 640) reckons the vrātya as one among the many forms in which Brāhman is celebrated in the AV., mentioning in the same verse with vrātya (celebrated in AV. xv.) also the brahmacārin and the skambha and the palita (celebrated respectively at AV. xi. 5 and x. 7, 8 and ix. 9), etc. — And this view accords well with the penultimate verse of the fifth prapāṭhaka of the Chāndogya Upanishad (v. 24. 4), where it is said of the sacrificial remnant that, if it be offered even to an outcaste, it is as good as if offered to the omnipresent All-soul, provided only it be done with the right knowledge. And a similar idea is perhaps meant to be expressed by our text here, AV. xv. 13. 8, 9.]

[In spite of its puerility and surface-obscurity, the book is not unworthy of a searching investigation. That investigation should be one of much wider scope than I can now make; but I presume that the principal passages of the literature which would here come into consideration are those that treat of the vrātya-stomas (ceremonies by which vrātyas gain admission to the Brahmanical order), namely the seventeenth adhyāya of the PB. (parts 1-4) and the eighth prapāṭhaka of LṢS. (part 6).—Excerpts from these passages were given by Weber (1849), Ind. Stud. i. 33, 52; and, more recently, the main points were reported by Hillebrandt, Ritual-litteratur, p. 139. And the whole matter has been made the subject of an article by Rājārām Rāmkrishṇa Bhāgavat, in the Journal of the Bombay Branch of the RAS., vol. xix., pages 357-364. He regards the vrātyas as non-Aryans. It is noteworthy that a number of the articles of the outfit of a vrātya as rehearsed by these two texts are found also in our AV. text: so, for example, the turban, the goad, the vīpatha.]

[The divisions of the book.—To begin with, the division into two anuvākas or 'lessons,' the first of 7 and the second of 11 parvāyas, is clearly avouched by the Old Anukr. (see next ¶ but one); and it is also proved by AV. xix. 23. 25, where the vrātya-book is mentioned as a dual, the text reading vrātyābhyām [accent!: sc. anuvākābhyām?] svāhā, 'to the anuvākas about the vrātya hail!'—The decad-division is wanting.]

[In the foregoing books, the Berlin edition has grouped together for the purposes of numeration the combinable parvāyas (see pages 471-2) so as to form the groups which it numbers as viii. 10 (with 6 parvāyas); ix. 6 (with 6); [ix. 7 has but 1;] xi. 3 (with 3); xii. 5 (with 7); and xiii. 4 (with 6). For theoretical consistency, the same procedure should have been followed in this book and the next: but the practical difference would have amounted to little (we should have had to cite, for example, xv. 1. 18¹ instead of xv. 18. 1, or xvi. 1. 9¹ instead of xvi. 9. 1); moreover, the procedure of the Berlin edition is questionable and has not been followed by the Bombay edition. For an account of the discrepancies thus arising, see pages 610-611; and for SPP's detailed defense of his procedure, see the Critical Notice in his first volume, pages 21-22, where he prints the pertinent text of the Old Anukr. in full and that of the Major Anukr. in large part.—A comparison of the two texts shows that the later work has quoted the precise words of its predecessor throughout.]

[The quotations from the Old Anukr. are given piecemeal at the end of the anuvāka or parvāya or group of parvāyas to which they severally refer. They may here be given in metrical form. Of the first line, the prior half refers to the first anuvāka as a whole, and the latter half to the second. Lines 2-4 refer to the parvāyas of the first anuvāka; and lines 5-10 refer to those of the second. The numbers in parentheses refer to the parvāyas as counted from the beginning of the anuvāka; and those in brackets refer to the parvāyas as counted from the beginning of the book.

[A conspectus of the divisions in tabular form follows. In each of the two tables, the first line gives the number of the anuvāka, and that of the paryāya as counted from the beginning of the anuvāka; the second line gives the number of the paryāya as counted from the beginning of the book; the third gives the number of such divisions (gaṇas: p. 472) of a paryāya as show minor subdivisions; and these subdivisions are shown in the fourth line of the first table and in the fourth and fifth lines of the second table (the subdivisions of the fourteenth paryāya being called vacanāni: p. 472). In each table, the last line gives the number of divisions of a paryāya which are not further subdivided. — Observe that the statements of the two tables are all contained in the text of the Old Anukr., excepting those concerning the number of gaṇas (the third line in each table), which statements are taken from the summations noted by some mss. at the end of the gaṇa-paryāyas, and excepting the "sums" in the last column, and excepting the distribution of the avasānarcas of paryāyas 13 and 11 into 2 categories (as explained in the fourth paragraph of the next page).

Note that the "fourteen" and "eleven" assigned respectively to paryāyas ii. 6 (or 13) and ii. 4 (or 11) represent non-coördinate divisions, as explained below, p. 772. — Some mss. sum up the avasānarcas of the first anuvāka as 112. This agrees with the Old Anukr. (and the table). At the end of the second, we find the summation: gaṇas, 20; gaṇa-avasānarcas, 16; vacana-avasānarcas, 24; paryāya-avasānarcas, 71; in all, 16 + 24 + 71 = 111. This agrees with the table except in the last item, 71, which exceeds the 68 of the table by 3; and the sum for the whole book, (112 + 111 =) 223, shows the same excess.] [See pp. clxi, cxxx end, cxxxvii top, clx.]

[Differences between the two editions in the divisions of the paryāyas. There are no differences between them in the paryāyas proper (as distinguished from the gaṇa-paryāyas), i.e. in those eleven paryāyas which have no subdivided divisions, to wit, paryāyas 1, 3, 7, 8, 9, 10, 12, 15, 16, 17, 18. But for 15 and 16 and 17, this statement needs to be modified by rehearsal of the fact that SPP. prefixes to the yō 'sya of each of the avasānarcas of the Berlin ed. from 15. 3 to 17. 7, and also to the 3 remaining avasānarcas of 17, the words tāsyā vrātyasya with an avasāna-mark, but nevertheless makes his numbering as does the Berlin ed.]

[The differences accordingly are confined to the remaining seven pariyāyas (those which have subdivided divisions), that is, to the gaṇa-pariyāyas 2, 4, 5, 6, 11, 13, 14. — In pariyāya 14, each of the 12 numbered divisions of the Berlin ed. is really a gaṇa and is subdivided (alike in both editions, by a mark just after krtvā) into 2 vacanas: but the vacanas are numbered as 24 only by SPP. — A similar statement applies to pariyāya 4, save that here the subdivision is each time into 3: thus the 6 divisions of the Berlin ed. become 18 with SPP. — We should expect the case of pariyāya 6 to be just like that of 4: namely that the 9 gaṇas of the Berlin ed. would become $(9 \times 3 =) 27$ gaṇa-avasānarcas in the Bombay ed.; but in fact the mss. divide one gaṇa (the eighth: see note thereon) into only 2 subdivisions; so that the sum is only 26. Note here especially that the anomalous division is supported by the Old Anukr. and that the two editions do not differ in the marking of the subdivisions, but only in the numbering.]

[With pariyāyas 5 and 2, the case is as explained on pages 628–629: in a sequence of refrains or anuṣaṅgas, the refrain is given in full and counted as a separate avasāna only for its first and last occurrence in that sequence. — In pariyāya 5 (see note), there are 7 gaṇas, each with 3 subdivisions (the first ending with akurvan and the second with īḍanaḥ): therefore we have 2 gaṇas (the first and last), each with 3 subdivisions, making 6; and the remaining 5, each with 2 (a and b-c), making 10; and so, in all, 16. — In pariyāya 2 (for minor differences, see notes), we have the first and last, each with 8 subdivisions, making 16; and the remaining 2, each with 6 (a, b, c, d, e, and f-h), making 12; and so, in all, 28.]

[Finally, in the case of pariyāyas 13 and 11, we have divisions which are not coördinate. In 13, each of the first 5 divisions as numbered in the Berlin ed. is really a gaṇa with 2 subdivisions (the prior one ending with vāsati); and each of the remaining 4 is undivided: SPP. therefore numbers them as $(5 \times 2 =) 10$ gaṇa-avasānarcas and 4 pariyāya-avasānarcas, thus making “14 avasānarcas of both kinds,” as required by the Old Anukr. — In the case of pariyāya 11, the Old Anukr. requires the division into 11 avasānarcas, and this is the division of both editions. The requirement of the non-coördinate subdivisions, namely into $5 + (3 \times 2 =) 6 = 11$, is made only by the summations of the mss., and only by some of them, not all. This division, if made at all, is doubtless to be made by taking the first 5 as pariyāya-avasānarcas and the last 6 as gaṇa-avasānarcas (3 gaṇas of 2 each).]

[Of this book we find in Pāipp. (in xviii.) only the first pariyāya and a phrase from the second.* Moreover, neither Kāuṣ. nor Vāit. make any citations from the book; but it may be noted that xv. 5. 1 is reckoned to the rāudra gaṇa by the schol. to Kāuṣ. 50. 13. In respect of contents and style, the book is quite like the Brāhmaṇas, and it is all in prose. Occasional sequences of words are rhythmical (so the first phrase of 17.8 and the relative clauses of 15 and 16 and 17); but these are doubtless mere casual lapses into meter (cf. p. 869).]

[Whitney's ms. appears to indicate that he intended to give to each pariyāya-sūkta a heading (in Clarendon type, as before); and I have thought it well, for the sake of convenience and typographical clearness, to carry out his apparent intent. — Moreover, to facilitate reference to the Bombay edition, I have added, in ell-brackets ([]), the numbers of SPP's minor divisions, wherever the latter differ from those of the Berlin edition.]

[The excerpts from the Major Anukr. which concern the kāṇḍa as a whole may first be given.]

[aṣṭādaśa paryāyāḥ. adhyātmakam; mantroktadevatyā uta vrātyadāivatam.]

1. Paryāya the first.

[aṣṭān. 1. sāmṇī pañkti; 2. 2-p. sāmṇī bṛhaṭi; 3. 1-p. yajurvbrāhmy anuṣṭubh; 4. 1-p. virāḍ gāyatrī; 5. sāmny anuṣṭubh; 6. 3-p. prajāpatyā bṛhaṭi; 7. āsurī pañkti; 8. 3-p. anuṣṭubh.]

Translated: Aufrecht, Ind. Stud. i. 130; Griffith, ii. 185.

1. A Vrātya there was, just going about; he stirred up Prajāpati.

Ppp. reads: vrātyo vā ida agra āsit. The verse lacks one syllable of a full sāmṇī pañkti (20 syll.).

2. He, Prajāpati, saw in himself gold (suvarṇa); he generated that.

For suvarṇam ātmann, Ppp. reads: ātmanas suvarṇam.

3. That became one; that became star-marked (lalāma); that became great; that became chief; that became brāhman; that became fervor; that became truth; therewith he had progeny.

Ppp. has the same text with slight differences of order. The verse counts the required 48 syllables if we restore the elided a in tāpo abhavat.

4. He increased; he became great; he became the great god (mahādevā).

In this verse both elided initial a's have to be restored, making 19 syllables.

5. He compassed the lordship of the gods; he became the Lord (īṣāna).

We need to read pāri āit and -no abhavat to make 16 syllables. [Of this verse, Ppp. has only the last three words.]

6. He became the sole Vrātya; he took to himself a bow; that was Indra's bow.

Ppp. inserts devānām before ekavṛ, and reads tad indradhanur abhavat. To read abhavat, again, fills out the 20 syllables.

7. Blue its belly, red [its] back.

That is, apparently, of the bow (the rainbow); though 'its' (asya) might equally well be 'his.'

8. With the blue he envelops (pra-vṛ) a hostile cousin, with the red he pierces one hating him [—he who knows thus]: so say the theologians (brahmavādīn).

If we read -ti tti, the syllables are 32; but to call the passage an anuṣṭubh is absurd. It can hardly be questioned that the addition in brackets is called for by the sense.

2. Paryāya the second.

[dayānā triṇṇat. a of 1-4, 1 f, 4 f. sāmnī anuṣṭubh; b of 1, 3, 4. sāmnī triṣṭubh; 1 c. 2-p. ārṣī pañkti; d of 1, 3, 4. 2-p. brāhmī gāyatrī; e of 1-4. 2-p. ārṣī jagatī; 2 f. sāmnī pañkti; 3 f. āsuri gāyatrī; g of 1-4. padapañkti; h of 1-4. 3-p. prājāpatyā triṣṭubh; 2 b. 1-p. uṣṇih; 2 c. 2-p. ārṣī bhurik triṣṭubh; 2 d. ārṣī parānuṣṭubh; 3 c. 2-p. virāḍ ārṣī pañkti; 4 c. nicṛd ārṣī pañkti.]

The Anukr. professes to count 28 divisions in this paryāya; but its metrical definitions are of 32 divisions, 8 in each; in the translation they are marked by introduced letters. [The reckoning is explained above, at page 772, ¶ 3.]

Translated: Aufrecht, Ind. Stud. i. 130; Griffith, ii. 186.

1. a. [1.] He arose; he moved out (vi-cal) toward the eastern quarter;
b. [2.] after him moved out both the brhāt and the rathamtarā and the Ādityas and all the gods; c. [3.] against both the brhāt and the rathamtarā and the Ādityas and all the gods doth he offend (ā-vraṇṣe) who revileth a thus-knowing Vṛatyā; d. [4.] of both the brhāt and the rathamtarā and of the Ādityas and of all the gods doth he become the dear abode (dhātman) [who knoweth thus]. Of him in the eastern quarter e. [5.] faith is the harlot, Mitrā the māgadhd (bard?), discernment the garment, day the turban, night the hair, yellow the two pravartās, kalmāl the jewel (maṇi), f. [6.] both what is and what is to be the two footmen (pariṣkandā), mind the rough vehicle (vipathā), g. [7.] Mātariçvan and Pavamāna (the 'cleansing' wind) the two drawers (-vāhā) of the rough vehicle, the wind the charioteer, the whirlwind the goad, h. [8.] both fame and glory the two forerunners: to him cometh fame, cometh glory, who knoweth thus.

The natural division of the matter of this and the following verses is in the latter half strangely violated by the tradition. Division d should most certainly have at its end yā evāṇi veda, as is shown by the requirements of the sense and by the occurrence of these words in the same connection in 6. 1-9, 8. 3, and 9. 3; but the phrase is wanting in all the mss.; we have introduced it in our text, and the translation gives it (in brackets). Then the mss. most senselessly reckon to d the words which really introduce e-h, or the second half of the verse; i.e., they set no avasāna before īśya, but have one after diṣṭ; and the Anukr. follows the same method; it is corrected in our text [although the division by letters in the translation follows the mss.]; the analogy of the verses of hymns 4 and 5 is a sufficient justification for so doing. In the second half, the only natural division is after paraḥsarāh; very strangely, however, the mss. and Anukr. set no avasāna here, but one, altogether out of place, after pratodās, and two that are uncalled for after maṇis and vipathām respectively; of these two we have retained only that after maṇis (as it denoted a certain change of subject), while we have shifted forward to its proper place the one after pratodās. The metrical definitions of the Anukr. are evidently applicable, with the usual degree of exactness, to the divisions as made by the mss.

The translation follows the mss. in reading in e mitrō (but all save Bs.s.m.D.R. accent mitro) māgadhd. [Correct the Berlin ed. from māntro to mitrō.] The Pet.

Lex. conjectures pravarta to signify a rounded ornament. [As for turban, goad, etc., see p. 770, ¶ 2.] [Ppp. has sa prācīm dīcam anuvayacalai; the remainder of the book is wanting.]

2. a. [9.] He arose; he moved out toward the southern quarter; b. [10.] after him moved out both the yajñāyājñīya and the vāmadevyā and the sacrifice and the sacrificer and the cattle; c. [11.] against both the yajñāyājñīya and the vāmadevyā and the sacrifice and the sacrificer and the cattle doth he offend who revileth a thus-knowing Vṛātya; d. [12.] of both the yajñāyājñīya and the vāmadevyā and the sacrifice and the sacrificer and the cattle doth he become the dear abode [who knoweth thus]. Of him in the southern quarter e. [13.] dawn is the harlot, the māgadhá, discernment the garment, day the turban, night the hair, yellow the two pravartās, kalmālī the jewel, f. [14.] both new moon and full moon the two footmen, mind the etc. etc.

All the mss. have in e māntro; [so also SPP.: correct the Berlin ed.]; in our text it and the mītró of 1 e have been made to change places, for the sake of better adaptation to the surroundings. Why 2 d (44 syllables) should be called by the Anukr. an ārṣī parānuṣṭubh is obscure; perhaps trīṣṭubh is to be added (or implied from the next preceding definition). [For paçavas, perhaps 'victims' would suit the connection better than 'cattle,' here and below.]

3. a. [15.] He arose; he moved out toward the western quarter; b. [16.] after him moved out both the vāirūpā and the vāirājā and the waters and king Varuṇa; c. [17.] against both the vāirūpā and the vāirājā and the waters and king Varuṇa doth he offend who revileth a thus-knowing Vṛātya; d. [18.] of both the vāirūpā and the vāirājā and the waters and king Varuṇa doth he become the dear abode [who knoweth thus]. Of him in the western quarter e. [19.] cheer is the harlot, laughter the māgadhá, discernment the garment, day the turban, night the hair, yellow the two pravartās, kalmālī the jewel, f. [20.] both day and night the two footmen, mind the etc. etc.

All our earlier mss. accent irā in e, and our edition followed them, but some of the later ones (O.D.R.s.m.K.) have correctly trā, and the text should be emended accordingly. [SPP., p. 322, maintains that the mss. showing trā are influenced by the RV. accentuation of the word, and holds that irā is the true AV. reading.] Some mss. (Bs.R.s.m.D.) accent hasās.

4. a. [21.] He arose; he moved out toward the northern quarter; b. [22.] after him moved out both the gyāitā and the nāudhasā and the seven seers and king Soma; c. [23.] against both the gyāitā and the nāudhasā and the seven seers and king Soma doth he offend who revileth a thus-knowing Vṛātya; d. [24.] of both the gyāitā and the nāudhasā and the seven seers and king Soma doth he become the dear abode [who knoweth thus]. Of him in the northern quarter e. [25.] lightning is the harlot, thunder the māgadhrā, discernment the garment, day the turban, night the hair, yellow the two pravartās, kalmālī the jewel, f. [26.] both what is heard and what is heard abroad the two footmen, mind the [rough vehicle, g. 27. Mātariçvan and Pavamāna the two drawers of the rough vehicle, the wind the charioteer, the whirlwind the goad, h. 28. both fame and glory the two forerunners: to him cometh fame, cometh glory, who knoweth thus.]

The majority of our mss. read çaitā in b, c, d; çyāitā is given by I.O.D.R.K. In b, I.O.K. have saptarṣ-; in c, d they agree with the rest in saptarṣ-. [The çyāita and nāudhasa are mentioned together at KBU. i. 5.]

3. Paryāya the third.

[ekādaça. 1. pīpīlikamadhya gāyatrī; 2. sāmny usṇih; 3. yājuṣī jagatī; 4. ṣp. ārcy usṇih; 5. ārcī brhatī; 6. āsurī anuṣṭubh; 7. sāmnī gāyatrī; 8. āsurī pañkti; 9. āsurī jagatī; 10. prājāpatyā triṣṭubh; 11. virād gāyatrī.]

Translated: Aufrecht, Ind. Stud. i. 131; Griffith, ii. 188. — In part also by Zimmer, p. 155.

1. He stood a year erect; the gods said to him: Vrātya, why now standest thou?

One ms. (O.) accents ūrdhvó 't-. The Anukr. apparently reads -vó at- and scans as $10 + 6 + 8 = 24$.

2. He said: Let them bring together a settle [āsandī] for me.

The Anukr. implies só ab- and -tu tti.

3. For that Vrātya they brought together a settle.

The Anukr. implies -yāya ās-. With the description that follows compare that of a similar structure in KBU. i. 5, and JB. ii. 24, [AB. viii. 12, and my note to xiv. 2. 65].

4. Of it, both summer and spring were two feet, both autumn and the rains [were] two.

5. Both brhāt and rathamtarā were the two length-wise [pieces], both yajñāyajñtā and vāmadevyā the two cross[-pieces].

Nearly all our mss. (not Bp., which has -cye tti) give anūcyē; [and SPP. so reads without note of variant]. At the end, the majority have tiraçcē or else -çcē (E.O.K. have -çcē: but Bp. has -çce tti); and this accent [the svartita] points distinctly toward tiraçcyē, which is doubtless the true reading; it is given by R.T., and I. has -çcyē, with wrong accent; our text is to be emended accordingly to tiraçcyē (cf. adharācyā, anūcyā, apīcyā, udīcyā, praticyā, prācyā). [SPP. reads tiraçcyē with no less than six of his authorities; and these are supported, pro tanto, by nine others that read -çcē.]

6. The verses (ṛc) the forward cords (tāntu), the sacrificial formulas (yajus) the cross ones.

The descriptions in KBU. and JB. have ātāna instead of tāntu.

7. The Veda the cushion (āstāraṇa), the brāhman the pillow (upabārhaṇa).

8. The chant (sāman) the seat, the udgīthā the support (?).

The translation implies that udgīthā 'paçrayāḥ at the end (p. -ihāḥ : apaçrayāḥ) is a corruption for -ihā upaçrayāḥ, this being favored by udgītha upaçriḥ [so the Poona ed., p. "114-13," top] in KBU.; the Pet. Lexx. conjecture 'cushion' (Polster) for apaçrayāḥ, but one does not see how the word should get any such sense; Aufrecht conjectures 'coverlet,' as does M. Müller [SBE. i. 278] for upaçri. but the latter should be something that leans against or is leaned against.

9. That settle the Vṛātya ascended.

10. Of him the god-folk were the footmen, resolves (samkalpā) the messengers (prahāyāḥ), all beings the waiters (upasād).

The mss. vary considerably in their readings of prahāyāḥ; Bp.O. [and five of SPP's authorities] have -āryy-, R.p.m. -āry-, R.s.m. -āy-, E. -āyyā v-, P.M.W. -āyyān-. [SPP. reads prahāyāḥ with twelve of his authorities.]

11. All beings become his waiters who knoweth thus.

R. is the only ms. that has the last two words.

4. Paryāya the fourth.

- * [duyūnā viṇçati. a of 1, 5, 6. dāivī jagati; a of 2, 3, 4. prājāpatyā gāyatrī; 1 b, 3 b. ārcy anuṣṭubh; 1 c, 4 c. 2-p. prājāpatyā jagati; 2 b. prājāpatyā pañkti; 2 c. ārcī jagati; 3 c. bhāumārçī [?] triṣṭubh; 4 b. sāmū triṣṭubh; 5 b. prājāpatyā bṛhati; 5 c, 6 c. 2-p. ārcī pañkti; 6 b. ārcy uṣṇih.]

Translated: Aufrecht, Ind. Stud. i. 131; Griffith, ii. 188.—For a table of the seasons and months, see the Introduction to my translation of the Karpūra-mañjarī (ed. Konow), p. 214.

1. [1.] For him, from the eastern quarter, [2.] they made the two spring months guardians, and bṛhāt and rathaintarā attendants. [3.] The two spring months guard from the eastern quarter, and bṛhāt and ratham-tarā attend (anu-sthā), him who knoweth thus.

The subdivisions of verses [see page 772, ¶ 2 above] acknowledged by the Anukr. in this hymn are those marked by the mss. and edition; 1 a has one syllable less than belongs to it by the definition (and so also 1 b, but there is no name * for a division containing 23 syllables). In b is to be read in all the verses ākurvan, with the mss. The Pet. Lexx. render anuṣṭhāt by 'accomplisher,' which does not suit well with anu-sthā in c. * [That is, no express name: gāyatrī nicṛī is a description by reference to another metrical unity.]

2. [4.] For him, from the southern quarter, [5.] they made the two summer months guardians, and yajñāyajñīya and vāmadevyā attendants. [6.] The two summer months guard from the southern quarter, and yajñāyajñīya and vāmadevyā attend, him who knoweth thus.

3. [7.] For him, from the western quarter, [8.] they made the two rainy months guardians, and vāirūpā and vāirājā attendants. [9.] The two rainy months guard from the western quarter, and vāirūpa and vāirājā attend, him who knoweth thus.

The Anukr. implies in a praticī-ās. For c, the definition bhāumārcī [so the Berlin mss. and SPP's excerpts in his Critical Notice, p. 224] is elsewhere unknown, and appears to be equivalent to simple ārcī.

4. [10.] For him, from the northern quarter, [11.] they made the two autumn months guardians, and cyāitā and nāudhasā attendants. [12.] The two autumn months guard from the northern quarter, and cyāitā and nāudhasā attend, him who knoweth thus.

Here again (as in 2. 4), the mss. vary between cyāitā and çaitā in b and c, but Bp. this time has cyāi.

5. [13.] For him, from the fixed quarter, [14.] they made the two winter months guardians, and earth and fire attendants. [15.] The two winter months guard from the fixed quarter, and earth and fire attend, him who knoweth thus.

6. [16.] For him, from the upward quarter, [17.] they made the two cool months guardians, and heaven and Āditya attendants. [18.] The two cool months guard from the upward quarter, and heaven and Āditya attend, him who knoweth thus.

5. Paryāya the fifth.

In this hymn, again, the division made by the mss. and the Anukr. is very strange and obviously opposed to the sense. Sixteen subdivisions [the reckoning is explained above at p. 772, ¶ 3] are made by reckoning the last 16 syllables [following īçānaḥ and] (beginning with nā 'sya) as belonging only to verses 1 and 7; and the mss. set no avasāna-mark after tiṣṭhati, where alone it has reason, but, in vss. 1, 7, introduce it after īçānaḥ, in the middle of a sentence. Rather than put it in so out of place, we have omitted it in our text. One ms. (R.), it may be noticed, fills out to tiṣṭhati°: nā 'sya paçin nā sa°, showing that it understands vss. 2-6 to be carried out in full, like 1 and 7; the other mss. stop at diçāḥ, [but at anuṣṭhātā in vs. 6].

Translated: Aufrecht, Ind. Stud. i. 132; Muir, iv.² 338; Griffith, ii. 189.

1. [1.] For him, from the intermediate direction of the eastern quarter, they made the archer (iṣvāsā) Bhava attendant. [2.] The archer Bhava attends him [as] attendant from the intermediate direction of the eastern quarter; not Çarva, not Bhava, not Içāna ('the lord') [3.] injures him nor his cattle nor his fellows who knoweth thus.

A resolution is needed in a to make 24 syllables (10+6+8), also in b to make the meter bhurij. [This paragraph is reckoned to the rāudra gaṇa; see note to Kāuc. 30. 13.] [The word "him" after "injures" is part of the second avasāna.]

2. [4.] For him, from the intermediate direction of the southern quarter, they made the archer Çarva attendant. [5.] The archer Çarva attends him as attendant from the intermediate direction of the southern quarter; not Çarva etc. etc.

3. [6.] For him, from the intermediate direction of the western quarter, they made the archer Paçupati ('lord of cattle') attendant. [7.] The archer Paçupati attends him as attendant from the intermediate direction of the western quarter; not Çarva etc. etc.

4. [8.] For him, from the intermediate direction of the northern quarter, they made the archer, the formidable god, attendant. [9.] The archer, the formidable god, attends him as attendant from the intermediate direction of the northern quarter; not Çarva etc. etc.

At the beginning, read in our text īasmā for īāsmāi.

5. [10.] For him, from the intermediate direction of the fixed quarter, they made the archer Rudra attendant. [11.] The archer Rudra attends him as attendant from the intermediate direction of the fixed quarter; not Çarva etc. etc.

6. [12.] For him, from the intermediate direction of the upward quarter, they made the archer Mahādeva ('great god') attendant. [13.] The archer Mahādeva attends him as attendant from the intermediate direction of the upward quarter; not Çarva etc. etc.

7. [14.] For him, from all the intermediate directions, they made the archer Īçāna attendant. [15.] The archer Īçāna as attendant attends him from all the intermediate directions; not Çarva, [not Bhava, not Īçāna, 16. injures him nor his cattle nor his fellows who knoweth thus].

The mss. vary in a and b between sārvebhyo ant- and -bhyo 'nt-; in a, only P.M.W.E. have -bhyo 'nt-; in b, [at least two, E. and] Bs. Probably our text ought to give in both places -bhyo ant-; [so SPP. with all but two of his authorities].

After the definition of the c of 1-7 the Anukr. adds: hinasti vyāghrādiṣv avagantavyaḥ; which apparently means that in 2-6 is to be understood the verb hinasti, which is expressed only in 1 c and 7 c; vyāghrādiṣu is probably a corruption.

[After its metrical definition of xi. 1. 36, the Anukr. inserts the words vyāghrādiṣv avagantavyā; and after that of xiv. 1. 60 occur the words (see p. 740) ity, or parāviny, edhiṣīmāhīti vyāghrādiṣv avagantavyaḥ. — One ritual use of xiv. 1. 60 is as a prayer for the safety of the bride as she sets out for her new home. In that connection, a specification of the safety as "in respect of tigers and so forth" would be entirely appropriate. And it is also appropriate here, at xv. 5. — The verse xi. 1. 36 is used in the ritual (Kāuṣ. 63. 9) with iv. 14. 5 in the sava offering: the former, as a prayer for safety on the road to heaven (āgne pathāḥ karpaya devayānān); the latter, somewhat similarly (svār yantu yajamānāḥ svasti). Although tigers more frequently accelerate than retard a Hindu's transit to heaven, the verses may nevertheless be conceived as used secondarily for safety on terrestrial paths. — Accordingly the remark of the Anukr is perhaps intended as exegetical, but it is at any rate most unexpected. — The vs. AV. xii. 1. 49 furnishes testimony (quite superfluous) to the familiarity of the ancient Hindus with “man-eaters.”]

6. Paryāya the sixth.

[saḍvinṣati. 1 a, 2 a. āsuri pañkti; a of 3–6, 9. āsuri bṛhatī; 8 a. paraṣṇih; 1 b, 6 b. ārcī pañkti; 7 a. ārcy usṇih; 2 b, 4 b. sāmni triṣṭubh; 3 b. sāmni pañkti; 5 b, 8 b. ārcī triṣṭubh; 7 b. sāmny anuṣṭubh; 9 b. ārcy anuṣṭubh; 1 c. ārṣī pañkti; 2 c, 4 c. nicṛd bṛhatī; 3 c. prājāpatyā triṣṭubh; 5 c, 6 c. virād jagatī; 7 c. ārcī bṛhatī; 9 c. virād bṛhatī.]

In this paryāya, the division of the Anukr. and of the mss. suits (except in vs. 8, which see) the sense, and has therefore been retained unchanged in our text.

Translated: Aufrecht, Ind. Stud. i. 132; Griffith, ii. 190.

1. [1.] He moved out toward the fixed quarter; [2.] after him moved out both earth and fire and herbs and forest trees and they of forest trees and plants. [3.] Verily both of earth and of fire and of herbs and of forest trees and of them of forest trees and of plants doth he become the dear abode who knoweth thus.

To make the metrical descriptions fit closely the subdivisions, we need to read ut-acat- in a and b, and sā ag- in c: and so more or less throughout the hymn.

2. [4.] He moved out toward the upward quarter; [5.] after him moved out both right and truth and sun and moon and asterisms. [6.] Verily both of right and of truth and of sun and of moon and of asterisms doth he become the dear abode who knoweth thus.

In c, ca is to be inserted after ṛtāsya.

3. [7.] He moved out toward the highest quarter; [8.] after him moved out both the verses and the chants and the sacrificial formulas and the brāhman. [9.] Verily both of the verses and of the chants and of the sacrificial formulas and of the brāhman doth he become the dear abode who knoweth thus.

4. [10.] He moved out toward the great quarter; [11.] after him moved out both the itihāsa (‘narrative’) and the purāṇa (‘story of eld’) and the gāthās (‘songs’) and the nārāṇas (‘eulogies’). [12.] Verily both of the itihāsa and of the purāṇa and of the gāthās and of the nārāṇas doth he become the dear abode who knoweth thus.

5. [13.] He moved out toward the most distant quarter; [14.] after him moved out both the fire of offering and the householder’s fire and the southern fire and the sacrifice and the sacrificer and the cattle. [15.] Verily both of the fire of offering and of the householder’s fire and of the southern fire and of the sacrifice and of the sacrificer and of the cattle doth he become the dear abode who knoweth thus.

6. [16.] He moved out toward an unindicated quarter; [17.] after him moved out both the seasons and they of the seasons and the worlds and they of the worlds and the months and the half-months and day-and-night. [18.] Verily both of the seasons and of them of the seasons and of the worlds and of them of the worlds and of the months and of the half-months and of day-and-night doth he become the dear abode who knoweth thus.

Most of the mss. accent lōka in both b and c (R.s.m.K.D. have lokās; only R.s.m. has lokānām); our text makes the needed correction. [With the almost unanimous support of his authorities, SPP. prints lokās, lokānām, which accentuation (albeit so isolated) he takes in this case to be "the genuine Atharvan accent": see his notes, p. 330 f.]

7. [19.] He moved out toward an unreturned quarter; from it he thought not that he should return; [20.] after him moved out both Diti and Aditi and Idā and Indrāṇī. [21.] Verily both of Diti and of Aditi and of Idā and of Indrāṇī doth he become the dear abode who knoweth thus.

Ānāvṛtta in a is obscure: the Pet. Lexx. render 'untrodden,' and Aufrecht, 'unvisited'; but both against the analogy of nā "vartsyān (also of dnāvṛt and anāvartin; perhaps the true reading is anāvṛtyān 'not to be returned from.' Bp. reads avartsyān, the other pada-mss. āvartsyān. I. accents indrānyāḍ.

8. [22.] He moved out toward the quarters; [no avasāna!] after him moved out the virāj and all the gods and all the deities. [23.] Verily both of virāj and of all the gods and of all the deities doth he become the dear abode who knoweth thus.

There seems to be no good reason why this verse should not be divided, like all the rest, into three parts; but the Anukr. does not so prescribe, nor do the mss. set an avasāna-mark after the first vy ācalat: [compare above, p. 772, ¶ 2]. The mss. all agree in accenting the second ānu.

9. [24.] He moved out toward all the intermediate directions; [25.] after him moved out both Prajāpati and the most exalted one and the father and the grandfather. [26.] Verily both of Prajāpati and of the most exalted one and of the father and of the grandfather doth he become the dear abode who knoweth thus.

7. Paryāya the seventh.

[pañcaka. 1. 3-p. nicṛd gāyatrī; 2. 1-p. virāḍ brhātī; 3. virāḍ usṣih; 4. 1-p. gāyatrī; 5. pañkti.]

Translated: Aufrecht, Ind. Stud. i. 133; Griffith, ii. 191.

1. That greatness, becoming sessile (? sādrū), went to the end of the earth; it became ocean.

[Or, 'He, becoming a sessile greatness, went' etc.: so W. suggests in a pencilled note.] Aufrecht and the Pet. Lexx. suspect a play of words between sādrū and samudrā, but the likeness is too slight to make the matter certain. Aufrecht renders sādrū bhātuvā by "setting itself in motion," as if sa + dru, and the Pet. Lexx. seem to favor the same etymology as had in view by the writer, but it is hardly to be credited. Aufrecht reads in the third pāda sa samudro; I have noted sā only as inserted sec. manu in one ms. (O.); if read, it would make the verse answer better the metrical description. [SPP. does in fact read sā samudrō, with the support of all his authorities.]*

2. After it, turned out both Prajāpati and the most exalted one and the father and the grandfather and the waters and faith, becoming rain.

3. To him come waters, to him cometh faith, to him cometh rain, who knoweth thus.

All our mss. read gachati after āpas; [and so all of SPP's authorities].

4. Unto it turned about both faith and sacrifice and world and food and food-eating, coming into being (bhātuvā).

5. To him cometh faith, to him cometh sacrifice, to him cometh a world, to him cometh food, to him cometh food-eating, who knoweth thus.

[Here ends the first anuvāka with 7 paryāyas: see above, p. 770, end. For the summation of avasānarcas (112), see p. 771, near end.]

8. Paryāya the eighth.

[trika. 1. sāmny usṣṇih; 2. prājāpatyā' nuṣṭubh; 3. ārci pañkti.]

Translated: Aufrecht, Ind. Stud. i. 134; Griffith, ii. 192.

1. He became impassioned (raj); thence was born the noble (rājanyā).

Both elided initial a's need to be restored in order to fill out the metrical description of the Anukr.

2. He arose toward (abhi) the tribes (viṣ), the kinsmen, food, food-eating.

Half the mss. (Bp.Bs.p.m.E.O.D.K.) omit ānnam; the metrical definition of the Anukr. implies its presence.

3. Verily both of the tribes and of the kinsmen and of food and of food-eating doth he become the dear abode who knoweth thus.

*[Upon the margin of his ms., opposite this passage, Whitney has pencilled the memorandum "? Ask Weber and Rost and Roth." He evidently intended to ask them to examine upon this point the Berlin and London and Tübingen mss. respectively and to tell him whether any of them did in fact read sā samudro. In the brief interval since that query was noted, all those three distinguished men of learning have passed away, and likewise he who would have asked them. Meantime, the question has been cleared up (vyākṛta) by the edition of that admirable Hindu scholar, S. P. Pandit, and he too, alas, is no more here!

*praṣṭavyāḥ praṣṭukāmaḥ ca te sarve svargam āsthitaḥ |

Translated: Aufrecht, Ind. Stud. i. 134; Griffith, ii. 192. — Cf. Zimmer, p. 194.

1. He moved out toward the tribes.
2. After him moved out both the assembly and the gathering and the army and strong drink.
3. Verily both of the assembly and of the gathering and of the army and of strong drink doth he become the dear abode who knoweth thus.

1. So then, to the houses of whatever king a thus-knowing Vṛātya may come as guest, —

2. He should esteem him better than himself; so does he not offend (ā-vraṇ) against dominion; so does he not offend against royalty.

[That is, 'he [the king] should esteem him [the Vṛātya] better,' etc.] The Berlin mss. read, as the sense requires, mānayet tāthā, nor was any deviation from this noted in the mss. collated before publication; those compared later, however, all give mānaye tāthā; [and so do all of SPP's authorities, including his then living reciters, but excepting his ms. CP, which has mānayet tāthā, secunda manu, and mānaye t, prima manu. — Compare the case of yame dīrgham, yamed dīrgham, at xviii. 2. 3.]

3. Thence verily arose both sanctity (brāhmaṇ) and dominion; they said: Whom shall we enter?

'Thence' (dtas) Aufrecht understands to mean "out of him (the Vṛātya)" — which is possible, but doubtful: compare dtas in vs. 5.

4. Let sanctity enter Brihaspati [and] dominion Indra; thus verily: it was said (iti).

Or the iti means 'he (the Vṛātya) said'; Aufrecht so understands it. The mss. make very bad work over the verb in this verse: Bp. reads praviṇatu, Bs.P.M.O.T.K. prāviṇatu, all without accent; E. has prā viṇatu, R. prāviṇātu, D. praviṇātu. The true reading is doubtless praviṇātu, and our text should be emended to this; the situation is one in which an accent on the verb-form is called for. There is no reason for understanding pra-ā, and the prolongation of simple pra to prā is wholly unsuited to this book. [SPP's authorities show a fairly bewildering variety of differences, in respect to brāhma praviṇātu: see his note, p. 334.] The metrical definition of the Anukr. [6+7+8: Ind. Stud. viii. 129] does not fit at all.

5. Thence (dtas) verily sanctity entered Brihaspati [and] dominion Indra. For praviṇat the pada-text has prā: aviṇat; doubtless it should be prādvīṇat.

6. This earth verily is Prajāpati, the sky is Indra.
7. This fire verily is sanctity, yonder Āditya is dominion.
8. To him comes sanctity, he becomes possessed of the splendor of sanctity (brahmavarcaśin), —
9. Who knows earth as Brihaspati, fire as sanctity.
10. To him comes Indra's quality, he becomes possessed of Indra's quality, —
11. Who knows Āditya as dominion, the sky as Indra.

II. Paryāya the eleventh.

[ekādaśaka. 1. dāsvi pañkti; 2. 2-p. pūrvaṛiṣṭub atīcakvari; 3-6, 8, 10. 3-p. ārci bṛhati (10. bhurij); 7, 9. 2-p. prājāpatyā bṛhati; 11. 2-p. ārcy anuṣṭubh.]

[As for the minor divisions of this paryāya, see page 772, ¶ 4, above.]

Translated: Aufrecht, Ind. Stud. i. 134; Griffith, ii. 193. — Griffith here cites most appositely the parallel passages of the Āpastambīya Dharma-sūtra; and I have thought it good to give them in the sequel.

[For convenience of comparison, the passage from Āp. Dharma-sūtra, ii. 3. 7, parallel to our vss. 1-2, may here be given: āhitāgniṃ ced atithir abhyāgacchet, svayam enam abhyudetya brūyāt: vrātya kvā vātsir iti: vrātya udakam iti: vrātya tarpayaṃstv (!) iti. 13. purā gñihotrasya homād upāñcu jāpet: vrātya yathā te manas tathā 'stv iti: vrātya yathā te vaças tathā 'stv iti: vrātya yathā te priyaṃ tathā 'stv iti: vrātya yathā te nikāmas tathā 'stv iti. 14.]

1. So then, to whosoever houses a thus-knowing Vrātya may come as guest, —

All that the mss. give for this verse is the two words vrātyó 'tithih. But this is obviously in virtue of their usual abbreviation in case of repeated matter; the verse is the same with 10. 1 except for the omission of rājñas between vrātyas and atithis. The abbreviation is continued in 12. 1 and in 13. 1-4, and then 13. 5 reads in full tād yāsyāt vān vidoān vrātyaḥ, because it is the last case of occurrence of the phrase. All this admits of no real question, and the verses are all thus filled up by Aufrecht in his translation, although he leaves the Sanskrit text in its abbreviated form; it is worth so many words here only because the Anukr. commits the blunder of regarding vrātyó 'tithih as the whole verse, and defines it as one of five syllables (restoring the elided a). He has never committed the same blunder in the numerous, but less striking, cases of the same kind that we have had hitherto.

2. Himself coming up toward him, he should say: Vrātya, where hast thou abode (vas)? Vrātya, [here is] water; Vrātya, let them gratify [thee]; Vrātya, be it so as is dear to thee; Vrātya, be it so as is thy will (vāça); Vrātya, be it so as is thy desire (nikāmad).

3. In that he says to him: Vrātya, where hast thou abode? he thereby gains possession of the roads that the gods travel.

4. In that he says to him: Vrātya, [here is] water, he thereby gains possession of the waters.

.R. is the only ms. that writes out at the beginning of this verse and the next yād enam āha. It seems a blunder of the Anukr. to include this verse with 3, 5, 6, 8, 10 in one definition, as it is shorter than they by some six syllables; one of the mss. does in fact omit it here, but gives no definition of it elsewhere. [At AB. viii. 24 is a passage bearing some similarity to this.]

5. In that he says to him: Vrātya, let them gratify [thee], he thereby makes his breath (prāṇā) longer.

[We had the last clause above at ix. 6. 19.]

6. In that he says to him: Vrātya, be it so as is dear to thee, he thereby gains possession of what is dear.

7. To him cometh what is dear, he becometh dear to his dear one (m.), who knoweth thus.

8. In that he says to him: Vrātya, be it so as is thy will, he thereby gains possession of [his] will.

Here again all the mss. save one (R.) omit the first four or five words, because they occur again in vs. 10. The majority of mss. (except E.D.R.s.m.K.) accent vaçdm, though all have vāças. [Eight or nine of SPP's have vaçdm.]

9. Unto him cometh [his] will, a will-possessor of will-possessors becometh he who knoweth thus.

Most of the mss. (except D.R.s.m.) again accent vaçds; [and so twelve of SPP's, but not his çrotṛiyas]; O. has vaçñām. Read at the beginning in our text āt 'nam (an accent-sign slipped out of place).

10. In that he says to him: Vrātya, be it so as is thy desire, he thereby gains possession of [his] desire.

11. To him cometh [his] desire, he cometh to be (bhū) in the desire of desire, who knoweth thus.

One would like to emend nikāmé to -mī.

12. Paryāya the twelfth.

[ekādāçaka. 1. 3-p. gāyatrī; 2. prājāpatyā bṛhatī; 3, 4. bhurik prājāpatyā 'muçubh (4. sāmnī); 5, 6, 9, 10. āsurī gāyatrī; 8. virād gāyatrī; 7, 11. 3-p. prājāpatyā triçubh.]

Translated: Aufrecht, Ind. Stud. i. 135; Griffith, ii. 194.

[The passage from Āp. Dharma-sūtra, ii. 3. 7 (see introd. to paryāya 11), parallel to our vs. 1-3, may here be given: yasyo 'ddhṛteṣv ahuteṣv agniṣv atithir abhyāgacchet svayam enam abhyudētya brūyāt: vrātya atisrja hoṣyāmi: ity atisrṣṭena hotavyam: anatisrṣṭaṣ cej juhuyād doṣam brāhmaṇam āha. 15.]

1. Now then, to whosoever houses a thus-knowing Vrātya may come as guest when the fires are taken up and the fire-offering (agnihotrā) set on, —

Not one of the mss. writes the first four words of the verse, they being viewed as repeated from 10. 1; and here also (compare note to 11. 1) the Anukr. reckons them as not belonging to the verse. Bp.O.Kp. write ūdhr̥teṣu (the compound being inseparable by Prāt. iv. 62). Bp. further has ūdhr̥te.

2. Himself coming up toward him, he should say: Vrātya, give permission; I am about to make oblation.

3. If he should permit, he may make oblation; if he should not permit, he may not make oblation.

4. He who, being permitted by a thus-knowing Vrātya, makes oblation,—

Prājāpatyā and sāmny anuṣṭubh are each of sixteen syllables; what the Anukr. means by its use of both terms in regard to this verse and not in regard to vs. 3 is difficult to see. [His words are . . . iti dve prājāpatyānuṣṭubhāu; dvitīyā sāmni; tatho 'bhe bhurijāu. He appears to set up a class of two vss. (3 and 4) of 17 syllables (16 + 1) each: from which he then proceeds to except one vs. (4) by saying that it is sāmni or has only 16. He might have expressed himself much less awkwardly by writing (instead of the last two clauses) pūrvā bhurik.]

5. He foreknows the road that the Fathers go, the road that the gods go.

A couple of the mss. (D.R.) accent jānāti, which is better; [and so do seven or eight of SPP's authorities].

6. He does not offend against the gods; his oblation is [duly] made.

7. There is left over in this world a support (āyātana) for him who, being permitted by a thus-knowing Vrātya, makes oblation.

8. Now then, he who, being unpermitted by a thus-knowing Vrātya, makes oblation, —

9. He knows not the road that the Fathers go, nor the road that the gods go.

The same mss. accent jānāti here as in vs. 5.

10. He offends against the gods; his oblation is not [duly] made.

The majority of mss. (except Bs.E.) read vṛccate ah, which is therefore probably the true text; [and so SPP. reads with all but two of his authorities]. The accent ahutām (for āhutām) is probably an error.

11. There is left in this world no support for him who, being unpermitted by a thus-knowing Vrātya, makes oblation.

13. Paryāya the thirteenth.

[caturdaśa. 1 a. sāmny uṣṇih; 1 b, 3 b. prājāpatyā' nuṣṭubh; a of 2-4. āsurī gāyatrī; 2 b, 4 b. sāmni bṛhātī; 5 a. 3-p. nīrd gāyatrī; 5 b. 2-p. virād gāyatrī; 6. prājāpatyā paṅkti; 7. āsurī jagatī; 8. sataḥpaṅkti; 9. akṣarapaṅkti.]

[As to the minor divisions of this paryāya, see page 772, ¶ 4, above.]

Translated: Aufrecht, Ind. Stud. i. 135; Griffith, ii. 195.

[The passage from Āp. Dharma-sūtra, ii. 3. 7 (see introd. to paryāya 11), parallel to our vss. 1-5, may here be given: ekarātraṁ ced atithiṁ vāsayet pāṭhivāṇi lokān abhijayati, dvitīyā 'ntariṁsyāṇs, tṛtīyā divyāṇs, caturthya parāvato lokān, aparimitābhir aparimitāṇi lokān abhijayati 'ti vijñāyate. 16.]

1. [1.] Now in whosoever house a thus-knowing Vṛātya abides one night as guest, [2.] he thereby gains possession of those pure (pūṇya) worlds that are on the earth.

Here again, and in the following verses through 4, the Anukr. fails to make any account of the first four words, tād yasyāi 'vām vidvān, omitted by the mss. on account of repetition (see note to 11. 1); they are restored in our text.

2. [3.] Now in whosoever house a thus-knowing Vṛātya abides a second night as guest, [4.] he thereby gains possession of those pure worlds that are in the atmosphere.

Part of the mss. (I.O.R.T.), [with nine of SPP's authorities], read yé ant- at beginning of b.

3. [5.] Now in whosoever house a thus-knowing Vṛātya abides a third night as guest, [6.] he thereby gains possession of those pure worlds that are in the sky.

4. [7.] Now in whosoever house a thus-knowing Vṛātya abides a fourth night as guest, [8.] he thereby gains possession of those worlds that are pure of the pure.

That is, doubtless, that are especially pure. In a, read vidvān (an accent-mark slipped out of place).

5. [9.] Now in whosoever house a thus-knowing Vṛātya abides unlimited nights as guest, [10.] he thereby gains possession of those pure worlds that are unlimited.

In a, read again vidvān (same error). [Instead of the tripadā of our mss. of the Anukr. in the description of 5 a, SPP. prints dvīpadā, Critical Notice, p. 22¹⁷.]

6. [11.] Now to whosoever houses may come as guest a non-Vṛātya, calling himself a Vṛātya, bearing the name [only], —

Nāmaobibhṛatī (so in p.) is so anomalous a formation that we can hardly regard it as otherwise than corrupt, perhaps for nāma bibhṛat or nāmabibhṛatī.

7. [12.] He may draw him, and he may not draw him.

That is, apparently, whether he invite him urgently or not. But the Pet. Lex. takes the verb as meaning 'treat with violence, punish' — which is unacceptable, as the entertainer is not supposed to be certain whether his guest is a real Vṛātya or not. Aufrecht leaves the verse untranslated. There is [with this interpretation] no perceptible reason why the second kārṣet should be accented. Another interpretation, however, may be suggested as possible: that kārṣed enam is apodosis to the preceding verse: 'he may tousele (maltreat) him'; and the rest, protasis to vs. 8: 'if he do not tousele him' (because he is not sufficiently certain of his real character), then he may pay him honors under protest, as stated in vs. 8. But then we should expect vs. 7 to be divided into two pādas, which is done neither by the pāda-mss. nor by the Anukr.

8. [13.] For this deity I ask water; this deity I cause to abide; this, this deity I wait upon — with this thought he should wait upon him.

That is, my attentions are meant for the deity whom a Vṛātya represents, and not for this particular individual. [See above, p. 770, top.] The repetition imām imām is very strange, and seems unmotivated. The pāda-text sets its avasāna-mark, as if denoting a pāda-division, both times between imām and devātām, in palpable violation of the sense.

9. [14.] In that deity doth that become [duly] offered of him who knoweth thus.

14. Paryāya the fourteenth.

[catvāri viṇṇatiṣ ca [sc. vacanāni]. 1 a. 3-p. anuṣṭubh; b of 1-12. 2-p. āsurī gāyatrī (b of 6-9. bhurik prājāpatyā' nuṣṭubh); 2 a, 5 a. purauṣṇik; 3 a. anuṣṭubh; 4 a. prastārāpaṇkti; 6 a. svarād gāyatrī; 7 a, 8 a. ārcī paṇkti; 10 a. bhurīṇ nāgī gāyatrī; 11 a. prājāpatyā triṣṭubh.]

[Respecting the subdivisions of the paryāya, see page 772, top.]

Translated: Aufrecht, Ind. Stud. i. 136; Griffith, ii. 195.

1. [1.] As he moved out toward the eastern quarter, the troop (śārdhas) of Maruts, coming into being (bhūtvd), moved out after, making mind [their] food-eater; [2.] with mind as food-eater doth he eat food who knoweth thus.

Aufrecht understands the meaning to be as just given, and takes it correspondingly in the verses below. But it would be admissible also to render thus: 'when he moved out toward the eastern quarter, he moved out toward [it] after becoming the troop of Maruts'—and correspondingly in all the other verses. It is possible, by due resolution, to read the first subdivision as 32 syllables and the second as 15 — and so in general in the other verses; no remark will be made upon them unless the cases are especially difficult.

2. [3.] As he moved out toward the southern quarter, Indra, coming into being, moved out after, making strength [his] food-eater; [4.] with strength as food-eater doth he eat food who knoweth thus.

3. [5.] As he moved out toward the western quarter, king Varuṇa, coming into being, moved out after, making the waters [his] food-eaters; [6.] with the waters as food-eaters doth he eat food who knoweth thus.

Most of the mss. accent apó 'nnādīh (but Bs. has -ō). One or two (I.K.) combine -ātīh kṛtvā.

4. [7.] As he moved out toward the northern quarter, king Soma, coming into being, moved out after, making the offering (āhuti) in what is offered by the seven seers [his] food-eater; [8.] with the offering as food-eater doth he eat food who knoweth thus.

5. [9.] As he moved out toward the fixed quarter, Viṣṇu, coming into being, moved out after, making virāj [his] food-eater; [10.] with virāj as food-eater doth he eat food who knoweth thus.

6. [11.] As he moved out toward the cattle, Rudra, coming into being, moved out after, making the herbs [his] food-eaters; [12.] with the herbs as food-eaters doth he eat food who knoweth thus.

7. [13.] As he moved out toward the Fathers, king Yama, coming into being, moved out after, making the call svadhā [his] food-eater ; [14.] with the call svadhā as food-eater doth he eat food who knoweth thus.

8. [15.] As he moved out toward men (manuṣyā), Agni, coming into being, moved out after, making the cry svāhā ('hail') [his] food-eater ; [16.] with the cry svāhā as food-eater doth he eat food who knoweth thus.

9. [17.] As he moved out toward the upward quarter, Brihaspati, coming into being, moved out after, making the cry vāṣaṭ [his] food-eater ; [18.] with the cry vāṣaṭ as food-eater doth he eat food who knoweth thus.

The first pāda is not metrically defined by the Anukr.

10. [19.] As he moved out toward the gods, Iṣāna ('the lord'), coming into being, moved out after, making fury [his] food-eater ; [20.] with fury as food-eater doth he eat food who knoweth thus.

If nāgī gāyatrī means 9 + 9 + 6 (Colebrooke, Miscellaneous Essays, ii. 136, as cited by BR.), the first subdivision here comes so near it as to be capable of being read as 9 + 9 + 7 (being bhurij).

11. [21.] As he moved out toward progeny, Prajāpati ('lord of progeny'), coming into being, moved out after, making breath [his] food-eater ; [22.] with breath as food-eater doth he eat food who knoweth thus.

12. [23.] As he moved out toward all the intermediate directions, the most exalted one, coming into being, moved out after, making the brāhma [his] food-eater ; [24.] with the brāhma as food-eater doth he eat food who knoweth thus.

The metrical definition of the first subdivision is wanting in the Anukr.

15. Paryāya the fifteenth.

[navaka. 1. dāivī pañkti ; 2. āsurī bhātī ; 3, 4, 7, 8. prajāpatya 'nuṣṭubh (4, 7, 8. bhurij)* ; 5, 6. 2-p. sāmnī bhātī ; 9. virāḍ gāyatrī.]

*[The Anukr. counts 'sya as asya in vss. 3, 4, 7, and 8, and thus makes them count as 16, 17, 17, and 17 syllables respectively. The text says simply tisro bhurijas ; but vss. 4, 7, and 8 must be meant.]

Translated : Aufrecht, Ind. Stud. i. 137 ; Griffith, ii. 197.

1. Of that Vṛātya—

Bp. combines this verse and the following into one, reckoning only eight verses in the hymn. And one ms. (R.) regards every verse* in hymns 15, 16, 17 as beginning with tāsyā vṛātyasya [followed by an avasāna-mark, as, in fact, SPP. prints them : see my statement at page 771, end] ; this, which is opposed to the Anukr., seems also quite uncalled for and wrong. [But, for our vss. 3 and 4 at least, SPP. notes that his procedure is in accord with all his authorities.] * [Except 15. 2, which, however, ought properly to form one verse with 15. 1, as it does in fact in Bp.]

2. [There are] seven breaths, seven expirations (apāṇā), seven out-breathings (vyāṇā).

3. His breath that is first, upward by name, that is this fire.

4. His breath that is second, preferred (?prāṇūḍha) by name, that is yon sun (ādityā).

The pada-mss. accent, doubtless falsely, prāṇūḍhaḥ (instead of prāṇūḍhaḥ); Bs. and O.p.m. read prōḍh : see Prāt. iii. 45, note.

5. His breath that is third, inferred (?abhyūḍha) by name, that is yon moon.

Some mss. [of W's and of SPP's also] accent 'bhyūḍho, and Bp. has accordingly abhyūḍhaḥ (but D. abhyū-); our text makes the necessary correction to abhyū-; [and so SPP.].

6. His breath that is fourth, mighty (vibhū) by name, that is this cleansing one (pāvamaṇa).

That is, doubtless, the wind, and not soma.

7. His breath that is fifth, womb (?yōni) by name, that is these waters.

8. His breath that is sixth, dear by name, that is these cattle.

9. His breath that is seventh, unlimited by name, that is these creatures (prajā).

16. Paryāya the sixteenth.

[saptaka. 1, 3. sāmya uṣṇih; 2, 4, 5. prājāpatyo 'ṣṇih; 6. yājusī triṣṭubh; 7. āsurī gāyatrī.]

[The metrical definitions of the Anukr. imply in every verse the inclusion of the words yo 'sya (pronounced as yo asya), and the reading of apāṇaḥ as 3 syllables. — As noted at p. 771, end, SPP. puts each time before yo 'sya the words tāsya vrātyasya with an avasāna-mark.]

In this hymn, the mss. in general omit at the beginning both yō and asya, while in 15 and 17 they omit only yō. Some, however, have asya here also (so K.; R. yō asya throughout).

Translated: Aufrecht, Ind. Stud. i. 137; Griffith, ii. 198.

1. His expiration that is first, that is the day of full moon.

2. His expiration that is second, that is the day of the moon's quarter (daśakā).

3. His expiration that is third, that is the day of new moon.

4. His expiration that is fourth, that is faith.

5. His expiration that is fifth, that is consecration.

6. His expiration that is sixth, that is sacrifice.

7. His expiration that is seventh, that is these sacrificial gifts.

[Bloomfield, AJP. xvii. 411, makes some observations on the word ṣṛaddhā, vs. 4.]

17. Paryāya the seventeenth.

[daça. 1, 5. prājāpatyo'ṣṇih; 2, 7. āsury anuṣṭubh; 3. yājuṣī pañkti; 4. sāmny uṣṇih; 6. yājuṣī triṣṭubh; 8. 3-p. pratiṣṭhā "rcī pañkti"; 9. 2-p. sāmni triṣṭubh; 10. sāmny anuṣṭubh.]

Translated: Aufrecht, Ind. Stud. i. 137; Griffith, ii. 198.

1. His out-breathing that is first, that is this earth.
2. His out-breathing that is second, that is the atmosphere.
3. His out-breathing that is third, that is the sky.
4. His out-breathing that is fourth, that is the asterisms.
5. His out-breathing that is fifth, that is the seasons.
6. His out-breathing that is sixth, that is they of the seasons.
7. His out-breathing that is seventh, that is the year.
8. The gods go about the same purpose (ārtha); thus (etāt) verily the seasons go about after the year and the Vṛāya.

One ms. (R.) prefixes tāsya vrātyasya also to this and the two following verses. [In the Bombay ed., each verse begins with tāsya vrātyasya and an avasāna-mark: see p. 771, end.] The sense of the three is obscure; Aufrecht leaves them untranslated.

9. As they enter together into the sun (ādityā), just so [do they] also into new-moon day and full-moon day. .

The great majority of the mss. (all save Bs.D.K.) accent amāvāsyām.

10. One [is] that immortality of theirs: to this effect (iti) [is] the offering.

Except two (D.R.), all the mss. accent ēṣām.

18. Paryāya the eighteenth.

[pañcaka. 1. dārvī pañkti; 2, 3. ārcī brhatī; 4. ārcy anuṣṭubh; 5. sāmny uṣṇih.]

Translated: Aufrecht, Ind. Stud. i. 138; Griffith, ii. 199.

1. Of that Vṛāya —
2. As for (yāt) his right eye, that is yonder sun (ādityā); as for his left eye, that is yonder moon.
3. As for his right ear, that is this fire; as for his left ear, that is this cleansing one-('wind').
4. Day-and-night [are his] two nostrils; Diti and Aditi [his] two skull-halves; the year [his] head.
5. With the day [is] the Vṛāya westward, with the night eastward: homage to the Vṛāya.

[Here ends the second anuvāka, with 11 paryāyas: see above, p. 770. For the summations of avasānarcas (questionable), see p. 771.]

Book XVI.

[Unity of subject not apparent.]

[This is the fourth book of the third grand division (books xiii.-xviii.) of the Atharvan collection. By what warrant it has found a place among the books whose distinctive feature is their unity of subject it is hard to say; and the same is in a measure true of the next book, book xvii.: but see Whitney's General Introduction; also Bloomfield's contribution to the Bühler-Kielhorn Grundriss, p. 94. The study of the ritual applications of the book distinctly fails, in my opinion, to reveal any pervading concinnity of purpose or of use.]

[In the Indische Studien, xiii. 185, Weber has suggested that parts of the book are evening prayers, to be recited before going to rest, and especially for the warding off of evil dreams (see i. 11; 5; 6; 7. 8-11); and 9. 3-4, at the end of the book, may well be taken as the words of them "that watch [have watched] for the morning" and as expressing the "joy" that "cometh in the morning," and are accordingly placed, as is usual and appropriate, at the end of the mantras concerned, in order to indicate the successful accomplishment of the purpose of those mantras. One is half tempted to give to the book the title "Against the 'terror by night'?"]

[Laying apart book vi., which has received great attention from the translators (see p. 281), it may be noted that this is the first book of the Atharvan samhitā of which no translation has as yet been published by the translators of single books. Here again the bhāṣya is lacking.] [For "Paritta" as title of book, see p. 1045.]

The [Major] Anukr. calls the whole book prājāpatya: prājāpatyasya nava paryāyāḥ; and both of its two anuvākas are evidently called by the same name [prājāpatyābhyām] in xix. 23. 26; whether this means to ascribe the authorship of the book to Prajāpati is not certain.—[On the other hand, the Old Anukr. seems rather to imply by its prājāpatyo ha catuṣkaḥ; pañcaparyāya uttaraḥ that the name prājāpatya pertains only to the first anuvāka, 'the one of four paryāyas.' It may, however, be added that the prājāpatyasya in the first line of the printed extract below may mean the whole book or else only the first anuvāka.]

[Quotations from the Old Anukr. are given piecemeal through the mss. of the book. They may here be given in connected form as printed by SPP. in his Critical Notice, p. 23.—Line 1 refers to the 'prior' and the 'last' (that is the 'latter') of the two anuvākas of the 'prājāpatyan' book: unless indeed the relation of the first two words is appositive ('of the prior, the prājāpatyan' [anuvāka]: see the preceding paragraph). — At the end of the first anuvāka, 8 of W's mss. say prājāpatyo ha catuṣkaḥ; and at the end of the second is read pañcaparyāya uttarāḥ: the two quotations make a half-çloka which we may expect to find in the text of the Old Anukr., standing between lines 1 and 2 of our extract. — Line 2 refers to the paryāyas of the first anuvāka; and lines 3–6 refer to those of the second. — The numbers in parentheses refer to the paryāyas as counted from the beginning of the anuvāka; and those in brackets refer to the paryāyas as counted from the beginning of the book.

prājāpatyasya pūrvasya paramasya pañcaḥ çṛṇu:

trayodaçā "dyañ" (i. 1) vijāntyād, dvāu (i. 2, 3) ṣaṭkāu, sapṭakāḥ paraḥ (i. 4).

ādyam (ii. 1) daçakam, hy (?) ekādaçakam (ii. 2)	[5, 6]
tasmāc ca paraḥ (ii. 3) dyvadhikam vihitam :	[7]
ekādaça vāi triguṇāny aparaç (ii. 4)	[8]
catvāri vāi vacanāni paraḥ (ii. 5).	[9]

The quoted bit of the Old Anukr. at the end of paryāya 6 (or ii. 2) is hyekādaçakam (or hyāu): the fact that the verse is so divided by piecemeal quotation as to bring hi at the beginning of its fragment seems to oppugn the correctness of the reading hi; and the word, as noted below, is not incorporated into the Major Anukr., the Berlin ms. of which, moreover, boggles at this point. — A comparison of the text of the Old Anukr. (above) with that of the Major Anukr. shows that the later text has quoted every word of lines 2–6 of the older, excepting tasmāc ca param and aparaḥ and the questionable hi.]

[A conspectus of the divisions of the book in tabular form follows. The explanations given on page 771 (which see: in book xv.), apply for the most part also to this table.

Pary.-no in anuv.	i. 1	i. 2	i. 3	i. 4	ii. 1	ii. 2	ii. 3	ii. 4	ii. 5	Sums

Note that the "ten" (6 + 4) and the "thrice eleven" (8 + 25) assigned by the Old Anukr. to paryāyas 5 (or ii. 1) and 8 (or ii. 4) represent non-coördinate divisions, as noticed and explained above, p. 771, and p. 772, ¶ 4. — Some mss. sum up the avasānarcas of the first anuvāka as 32 (correctly). Those of the second are summed up as follows: paryāya-avasānarcas, 53 (correctly); gaṇa-avasānarcas, 14 (correctly); avasānarcas "of both kinds," 68 (! but by D. correctly as 67). The 67 with the 4 vacanas make 71 (so Bs. correctly). And 71 + 32 make 103 for the whole book, and so one ms. at least sums them up.]

[Since the book consists wholly of paryāya-sūktas, there is no difference between the two editions in respect to the hymn-numbers: compare pages 611 and 770. — The division into decades is wanting.] [See pp. clxi, cxxx end, cxxxvii top, clx.]

[Differences between the two editions in the division of the paryāyas. The differences occur (as above, p. 771) only in the gaṇa-paryāyas 5 (or ii. 1) and 8 (or ii. 4). In these, SPP. has, as the Old Anukr. requires, 10 and 33 divisions respectively (as against 6 and 27 of the Berlin edition). The explanation is as on pages 628–629 and on page 772: namely, that, in a sequence of refrains, the refrain is given in full and counted as a separate avasāna only for its first and last occurrence in that sequence. — In paryāya 5 there are properly 6 gaṇas, each with 3 subdivisions: therefore we have 2 gaṇas (the first and last), each with 3 subdivisions, making 6; while in each of the remaining 4, the refrains (b, c) are counted as one with a (thus a-b-c), making 4; and so, in all, we have 10. — In like manner, in ṣaryāya 8, there are properly 27 gaṇas, each with 4 subdivisions: therefore we have 2 gaṇas (the first and last), each with 4 subdivisions, making 8; and (27—2=) 25, each counted as one (a-b-c-d), making 25; and so, in all, we have 33.]

[The book is mainly prose: Whitney, Index, p. 5, excepts verses 1. 10, 12, 13; 4. 2, 6; 6. 1-4, 11; 9. 1, 2.]

In Pāipp. (xviii.) are found only fragments of the book, namely 1. 1-3; 4. 7 (beginning with mo 'pa), the first words of 5. 1, then 8. 1, and finally 9. 4, the concluding verse. This looks as if the whole book were acknowledged as part of the text, but its complete presentation deliberately declined for some reason. [The fragments in question follow immediately the fragment of book xv. cited in the note to xv. 2. 1.] [See pages 1015-6.]

[In the Vāit., the book is noticed only twice: see under 2. 6 and 9. 3. And in the Kāuç., it is noticed only about a dozen times: see under 1. 1; 2. 1, 6; 3. 1; 4. 1; 5. 1; 6. 1; 9. 3, 4.]

1. Paryāya the first.

[Prājāpati (?). — trayodaça. 1, 3. 2-p. sāmnī br̥hātī; 2, 10. yājuṣī triṣṭubh; 4. āsurī gāyatrī; 5, 8. sāmnī pañkti (5. 2-p.); 6. sāmnī anuṣṭubh; 7. nicṣṛ virāḍgāyatrī; 9. āsurī pañkti; 11. sāmnī uṣṇih; 12, 13. āreya anuṣṭubh.]

Translated: Griffith, ii. 201.

1. Let go [is] the bull of the waters; let go [are] the heavenly fires.

The verse, or the hymn (ṣaryāya), is quoted in Kāuç. 9. 9, in the process of preparing holy water (çāntiyudaka); with it one "lets go the waters," and then follow question and answer respecting the preparation. In Ppp. the initial a of atisṣṣās is not elided.

2. Breaking, breaking about, killing, slaughtering; —

3. Dimming [mrokā], mind-slaying, digging, out-burning, self-spoiling, body-spoiling.

All these epithets are nom. sing. masc.; as mrokā and nirdāhā are found together in v. 31. 9 as epithets of the flesh-eating fire, they are probably names of the fires mentioned in vs. 1: cf. also vs. 7, below; Ppp. combines -dāhā "tma-. [Weber (Ind. Stud. xiii. 185), discussing mrokā as it occurs above at ii. 24. 3 in the long string of epithets, takes our ṣaryāya here as an evening prayer (see p. 792), and notes the names of the ten Agnis here rehearsed in vss. 2, 3.]

4. That one now I let go; that one let me not wash down against myself; —

5. That one do we let go against him who hates us, whom we hate.

These two verses form a part of vss. 15-21 in the water-thunderbolt (udavaṃjra) hymn, above, x. 5 [see my note]; and fragments of the same hymn are found further on in this paryāya and in 7. 6, 13, indicating some connection of application with that hymn, though Kāuṣ. suggests such connection only for xvi. 2. 1.

6. Thou art tip (āgra) of the waters; I let you go down unto the ocean.

With the second part compare the opening words of x. 5. 23.

7. The fire that is in the waters, it do I let go, the dimming, digging, body-spoiling one.

With this verse compare PGS. ii. 6. 10, used in the ceremonies commemorating the end of Vedic study. [The definition of the Anukr. seems to be wide of the mark.]

8. The fire that entered into you, O waters, this is that; what of you is terrible, this is that.

9. May [it] pour upon you with Indra's Indra-power (indriyā).

10. Free from defilement (-riprā) [are] the waters; let them [carry] away from us defilement;—

11. Let them carry forth from us sin; let them carry forth evil-dreaming.

With the last two verses compare parts of x. 5. 24.

12. With propitious eye look at me, O waters; with propitious body touch my skin.

We had this verse above as i. 33. 4 a, b.

13. We call the propitious fires that sit in the waters. Put in me dominion [and] splendor, O divine [waters].

2. Paryāya the second.

[ṣaṭka. vāgdevatya. 1. āsury anuṣṭubh; 2. āsury uṣṇih; 3. sāmnay uṣṇih; 4. 3-p. sāmnī bṛhatī; 5. ārcy anuṣṭubh; 6. nicṛd virādgāyatrī.]

Translated: Griffith, ii. 202.

1. Out of evil-eating (?) with refreshment [comes] speech rich in honey.

The translation implies the change of durarimanyās to duradmanyās, as proposed by the Pet. Lexx. (add TB. iii. 3. 99 as a reference for duradmanī). The reading of the mss. is, however, assured by its quotation in the Prāt. (4. II. 16 [i.e. Add'l Note, p. 592]), and three times in the Kāuṣ.: namely, in 49. 27, at the very end of the chapter of witchcraft ceremonies, after use of x. 5. 6, 7 and xiii. 1. 56, with the direction iti samdhāvyā 'bhimṛcati; and again, twice (58. 6, 12) in the ceremony for long life after initiation to Vedic study, once with the direction iti samdhāvyā, and once with a smearing with fragrant powders. The word urjā in our text might also be nominative, and 'comes' is of course doubtful. The metrical definition implies the resolution -ṇī-a.

2. Rich in honey are ye ; may I speak speech rich in honey.

‘Ye’ : i.e., the waters, the adjective being feminine. [We had a phrase like to our second clause at iii. 20. 10 : cf. Gram. § 738 a.]

3. Invoked of me [is] the guardian (gopā) ; invoked [is] guardianship.

The different metrical designation of these two 14-syllabled verses is apparently wholly arbitrary.

4. Well-hearing ears, ears hearing what is excellent ; may I hear excellent encomium (ślōka).

‘Ears’ is both times dual ; we might fill out to ‘well-hearing are my ears’ etc.

5. Let both well-hearing and listening (śpaçruti) not desert me — eagle-like sight, unfailing light.

[For the mā . . . mā, cf. below, 3. 2, etc.]

6. Spread (prastarā) of the seers art thou ; homage be to the spread of the divine ones (dāiva).

The verse is used twice in Kāuç. (2. 18 ; 137. 33), and once in Vāit. (2. 9). In the former, it accompanies the taking up of part of the darbha-grass provided, and making a seat for the brahman-priest south of the fire, once at the parvan sacrifice and once in the ājyatantra ceremony. In the latter, it accompanies the making of such a spread in the parvan ceremonies. In all the three cases, it is evidently taken because of its specific meaning, and not because of any connection of those ceremonies with the one implied here.

3. Paryāya the third.

[Brahman. — ṣaṭka. ādityadevatya. 1. āsurī gāyatrī ; 2, 3. ārcy anuṣṭubh ; 4. prājāpatyā triṣṭubh ; 5. sāmy uṣṇih ; 6. 2-p. sāmnī triṣṭubh.]

Translated : Griffith, ii. 202.

1. May I be the head (mūrdhān) of riches, the head of my equals.

Or, perhaps, ‘I am the head of the one, may I be so of the other.’ The verse (or the paryāya) is quoted twice in Kāuç., once (18. 25) in the citrā ceremony, together with a whole series of other hymns or verses, in partaking of a milk-rice-dish ; and once (58. 22), in the ceremony of giving food to a young child (anna-prāçana), with a part of the same hymns.

2. Let both breaking (rujā) and longing (venā) not desert me ; let both the head (mūrdhān) and the distributor (vidharman) not desert me.

The nouns in this and the following verses are in part of obscure meaning and reference.

3. Let both the kettle (?) and the cup (camasā) not desert me ; let both the maintainer (dharitṛ) and the supporter (dharūṇa) not desert me.

The translation follows the suggestion of the Pet. Lexx., to emend urvā at the beginning to ukhā.

4. Let both the releaser (vimokṣā) and the wet-rimmed one not desert me; let both him of wet drops (-dānu) and Mātariṣvan not desert me.
5. Brihaspati my soul, manly-minded by name, hearty (hṛīdya).
6. Free from torment my heart, a wide pasture, an ocean am I by extent (vidharman).

4. Paryāya the fourth.

[Brahman. — sapṭaka. ādityadevatya. 1, 3. sāmny anuṣṭubh; 2. sāmny uṣṇih; 4. 3-p. anuṣṭubh; 5. āsuri gāyatrī; 6. ārcy uṣṇih; 7. 3-p. virāḍgarbhā 'nuṣṭubh.]

Translated: Griffith, ii. 203.

1. May I be the navel of riches, the navel of my equals.

The scholiast (pariṣiṣṭa) adds this verse (or paryāya) to 3. 1 under Kāu. 18. 25. [Cf. note to 3. 1.]

2. Of good seat (?svāsāt) art thou, of good dawns, an immortal among mortals.

The adjectives are sing. masculine. The pada-text reads svāsāt and svaṣāṭh.

3. Let not breath quit me; nor let expiration, deserting me, go away.

[For 'deserting me' one might perhaps say 'leaving me low.' For the combination with pārā gā, cf. TS. v. 7. 9¹.] Most of our mss. (all except D.R.) leave mām unaccented; [the curious blunder is made also by nine of SPP's mss., as against five mss. and two reciters that gave mām]. All our mss. save one (R.) combine apānō 'va- [instead of -nō]. The verse is [almost] identical with vii. 53. 4 a, b [which has me 'mām for mā mām].

4. Let the sun protect me from the sky, Agni from the earth, Vāyu from the atmosphere, Yama from men (manuṣyā), Sarasvatī from them of the earth.

The verse can be read into 32 syllables, but the metrical definition of the Anukr. is altogether absurd. [Griffith gives ahnās its usual meaning: possibly W's "sky" is not intentional, but a mere slip. Cf., however, 7. 6, below.]

5. O breath-and-expiration, do not desert me; let me not perish (pra-mī) among the people (jāna).

6. With well-being today, O waters, may I, whole [and] with my whole train (-gaṇā), attain dawns and evenings.

The verse is really composed of two triṣṭubh pādas.

7. Puissant (śākvarī) are ye; may cattle approach me; let Mitra-and-Varuṇa [assign] me breath-and-expiration; let Agni assign me dexterity.

Nearly all our mss. (not T.s.m.R.) give stheṣu instead of stheṣus; [and so do three of SPP's]. [For the form, see Gram. § 894 c.]

5. Paryāya the fifth.

[Yama.—daṣaka. duḥsvapnanāṇadevatya. a of 1-6. virāḍ gāyatrī (5 a. bhurij; 6 a. svarāj); 1 b, 6 b. prājāpatyā gāyatrī; 1 c, 6 c. 2-p. sāmni bṛhatī.]

[Both the Anukramaṇis reckon the paryāya as of 10 avasānas: that is, they count the anuṣaṅgas (b-c) only in their first and last occurrences, as explained at p. 793, end (cf. pages 628-9, 772).] One or two of the mss. (W.R.) indicate by fragments of b and c given also with verses 2-5 that they regard all the six verses [or gaṇas, rather] as of equal length. [It is true that the summations (see p. 793 and table) number the gaṇas as 2 and call the avasānarcas of the remaining 4 by the name of paryāya-avasānarcas; but it is not apparent why the gaṇas should not be counted as 6, just as those of the second paryāya of xi. 3 are counted as 18 (p. 632, top, p. 628, ¶ 10).—The numbers of the avasānas as given by SPP. in accord with the Anukr. are added by me in ell-brackets.]

Translated: Ludwig, p. 468; Griffith, ii. 203.

1. [1.] We know thy place of birth (janitra), O sleep; thou art son of seizure (grāhi), agent of Yama; [2.] ender art thou, death art thou; [3.] so, O sleep, do we comprehend thee here; do thou, O sleep, protect us from evil-dreaming.

The verses of this hymn are nearly [vs. 6 exactly] identical with vi. 46. 2; and whether they or it are quoted in Kāuṣ. 46. 9, 13, it is impossible, and wholly unimportant, to determine [cf. introd. to vi. 46].

2. [4.] We know thy place of birth, O sleep; thou art son of perdition, agent etc. etc.

3. [5.] We know thy place of birth, O sleep; thou art son of ill-success (dbhūti), agent etc. etc.

4. [6.] We know thy place of birth, O sleep; thou art son of extermination (nīrbhūti), agent etc. etc.

5. [7.] We know thy place of birth, O sleep; thou art son of calamity (pārābhūti), agent etc. etc.

6. [8.] We know thy place of birth, O sleep; thou art son of the wives (-jāmi) of the gods, agent of Yama; [9.] ender art thou, death art thou; [10.] so, O sleep, do we comprehend thee here; do thou, O sleep, protect us from evil-dreaming.

This verse agrees [precisely] with vi. 46. 2, and the [words dēvānām patnīnām garbha yāmasya kara (the readings are not quite certain)] appear in xix. 57. 3; the other verses are therefore most probably varied repetitions of this one.

6. Paryāya the sixth.

[Yama.—ekādaṣa. duḥsvapnanāṇadevatya; uṣodevatya. 1-4. prājāpatyā 'nuṣṭubh; 5. sāmni pañkti; 6. nicṛd ārci bṛhatī; 7. 2-p. sāmni bṛhatī; 8. āsurī jagatī; 9. āsurī bṛhatī; 10. ārcy uṣṇih; 11. 3-p. yavamadhyā gāyatrī vā "rcy anuṣṭubh (see under vs. 11).]

Translated: Griffith, ii. 204.

1. We have conquered today, we have won today; we have become guiltless.

The verse corresponds to the first two pādas of RV. viii. 47. 18, which differ only by reading ca in place of the second adyā. It and its two successors (or also vs. 4) are really metrical, half *anuṣṭubh*s. The verse, or the pharyāya, is used in Kāuṣ. 49. 19, nearly at the end of the abhičāra or witchcraft chapter, with xiii. 1. 28 and 3. 1, to accompany the putting on of adhīpācas (conjectured 'gag' in the minor Pet. Lex.).

2. O dawn, of what evil-dreaming we have been afraid, let that fade away (apa-vas).

The verse [cf. note to vs. 1] is, without variant, RV. viii. 47. 18 c, d.

3. Carry that away to him that hates; carry that away to him that curses.

4. Whom we hate, and who hates us, to him we make it go.

Our yās (in yāc ca no) is an emendation for yāt, which all the mss. read. [SPP. reads yāt with all his authorities.]

5. Heavenly dawn, in concord with speech; heavenly speech, in concord with dawn; —

Part of the mss. read in b devy ūśāsā.

6. The lord of dawn, in concord with the lord of speech; the lord of speech, in concord with the lord of dawn: —

The Anukr. mss. read ārṣt instead of ārct in their definition of the meter of this verse.

7. Let them carry away for yon man the niggards (arāya), the ill-named ones, the saddānvās, —

8. The kumbhikās, the spoilers (dūṣṭkā), the revilers (pīyaka), —

9. Waking evil-dreaming, sleeping evil-dreaming.

Literally 'of one waking' and 'in sleep.' The pada-text reads odusvapnyām both times. The Anukr. twice resolves -nī-am.

10. Boons that will not come, plans of non-acquisition, fetters of hatred that does not release: —

That is, probably, plans or desires that issue in failure. [Griffith takes drūh here and at ii. 10 as a female fiend.]

11. That, O Agni, let the gods carry away for yon man, that he may be impotent (vādhri), faltering, not good (sādhū).

'For him,' here and in vs. 7, is plainly equivalent to 'to him,' or that they may be his. All the mss. accent vīthuras; [so SPP. reads with all his authorities]. As gāyatrī and arcy anuṣṭubh both imply 24 syllables, the Anukr. seems willing to give us our choice between them.

[Perhaps we should understand the definition 3-p. yavamadyā gāyatrīvārcy anuṣṭub as an 'anuṣṭubh of 24 syllables, like (iva: not vā) a 3-p. yavamadyā gāyatrī'

(7 + 10 + 7 : Ind. Stud. viii. 129) : only this one divides rather as 8 + 10 + 6. — One is tempted to deem agne an intrusion and to regard the verse as a couple of simple triṣṭubh pādas : and the temptation is strengthened by the fact that the sole mark of pāda-division in W's Collation Book comes after vahantu.]

7. Paryāya the seventh.

[Yama. — deyadhikāṇi vīhītam. duḥsvapnanāṇācānādevatyā. 1. pāñkti ; 2. sāmny anuṣṭubh ; 3. āsury uṣṇih ; 4. prājāpatyā gāyatrī ; 5. ārcy uṣṇih ; 6, 9, 11. sāmni brhatī ; 7. yājusī gāyatrī ; 8. prājāpatyā brhatī ; 10. sāmni gāyatrī ; 12. bhurik prājāpatyā nuṣṭubh ; 13. āsuri triṣṭubh.]

The definition of number of verses in the paryāya is taken by the Anukr. verbatim from the Old Anukr. (cf. p. 793, line 12), and appears to mean that the number of verses exceeds by two that of the preceding paryāya.

Translated : Griffith, ii. 205.

1. With that I pierce him ; with ill-success I pierce him ; with extermination I pierce him ; with calamity I pierce him ; with seizure I pierce him ; with darkness I pierce him.

The 'that' of the first clause doubtless refers to 6. 11.

2. I demand against him with the terrible, cruel demands (prāiṣḍ) of the gods.

The word prāiṣḍ seems here to be used, not in its ritual sense which is common later, but rather in a sense suggested by its etymology.

3. I set him in the two tusks of Vāiçvānara.

[This seems to be an unmetrical version of iv. 36. 2 c, d.]

4. So, not so, may she swallow down.

The pāda-text reads evā : āneva : dva, and the translation follows it. The text is probably corrupt ; the 'she' (sā) seems unmotivated. Neither Pet. Lex. contains āneva [in its main part ; but the word is given in a supplement to the minor Lex., iii. 250 c].

5. Whoso hates us, him let [his] self (ātman) hate ; whomso we hate, let him hate [his] self.

6. Let us disportion our hater from heaven, from earth, from atmosphere.

Compare x. 5. 25 etc. ; we should expect bhajāmas here as there.

7. O thou of good ways (suyāman), of sight (cākṣuṣā).

Both the words may be proper names. Our P.M. read cākṣuṣaḥ, accentless.

8. Now (idāṁ) do I wipe off evil-dreaming on him of such-and-such lineage, son of such-and-such a mother.

9. What I went at on such-and-such an occasion, what at evening, what in early night ; —

The translation follows our emendation, abhyāgacham ; all the mss. read -chan (one or two in pāda perhaps -chat) ; the true sense is very doubtful. [SPP. reads -chan with all his authorities : see his note, vol. iii., p. 352.]

10. What when awake, what when asleep, what by day, what by night; —

11. What day by day I go at, from that do I cut him off (ava-day).

12. Him do thou smite, with him amuse thyself (?mand), his ribs do thou crush in.

13. Let him not live; him let breath quit.

This verse also forms a part of x. 5. 25 etc.

8. Paryāya the eighth.

[ekādaśa vāi triguṇāni. a of 1-27. 1-p. yajur brāhmy anuṣṭubh; b of 1-27. 3-p. nicṛd gāyatrī; 1 c. prājāpatya gāyatrī; d of 1-27. 3-p. prājāpatya triṣṭubh; c of 2-4, 9, 17, 19, 24. āsurī jagatī; c of 5, 7, 8, 10, 11, 13, 18. āsurī triṣṭubh; c of 6, 12, 14-16, 20-23, 27. āsurī pañkti; c of 25, 26. āsurī bṛhaṭ.]

[The discrepancy in the numeration of the subdivisions of the paryāya, as between the Bombay edition (which follows the Old Anukr.) and the Berlin edition, is of the same kind as in paryāya 5, above, and the explanation given above (p. 794, top) may be consulted. The numbers of the avasānas as given by SPP. are added by me in ell-brackets.]

Translated: Griffith, ii. 206.

1. [1.] Ours [is] what is conquered, ours what has shot up, ours right (ṛtā), ours brilliancy, ours brāhman, ours heaven (svār), ours the sacrifice, ours cattle, ours progeny, ours heroes. [2.] From that we disportion him yonder: so-and-so, of such-and-such lineage, son of such-and-such mother, who is yonder; [3.] let him not be released from the fetter of seizure. [4.] Of him now (iddm) I involve the splendor, brilliancy, breath, life-time; now I make him fall downward.

Here is again a partial correspondence with x. 5. 36. Compare also Āpast. iv. 15. 3. The addition yajus to the name brāhmy anuṣṭubh (48 syllables) in the Anukr. seems, [in the light of the corresponding expression at xvii. 1. 22, 23, intended to inform us that subdivision a is a yajus; but it is not apparent why the author should give this bit of information, which is (of its kind) so isolated: cf. third note to xv. 5. 7].

2. [5.] Ours is etc. etc.; let him not be released from the fetter of perdition. Of him now etc. etc.

3. [6.] Ours is etc. etc.; let him not be released from the fetter of ill-success. Of him now etc. etc.

4. [7.] Ours is etc. etc.; let him not be released from the fetter of extermination. Of him now etc. etc.

5. [8.] Ours is etc. etc.; let him not be released from the fetter of calamity. Of him now etc. etc.

6. [9.] Ours is etc. etc.; let him not be released from the fetter of the wives of the gods. Of him now etc. etc.

7. [10.] Ours is etc. etc.; let him not be released from the fetter of Brihaspati. Of him now etc. etc.

8. [11.] Ours is etc. etc.; let him not be released from the fetter of Prajāpati. Of him now etc. etc.

9. [12.] Ours is etc. etc.; let him not be released from the fetter of the seers. Of him now etc. etc.

All our mss. except one (D.) accent ṛṣiṇām; our text emends to ṛṣiṇām. [In like manner, SPP. reads ṛṣiṇām with four or three of his authorities, against twelve or thirteen that have ṛṣiṇām.]

10. [13.] Ours is etc. etc.; let him not be released from the fetter of them of the seers. Of him now etc. etc.

11. [14.] Ours is etc. etc.; let him not be released from the fetter of the Angirases. Of him now etc. etc.

12. [15.] Ours is etc. etc.; let him not be released from the fetter of them of the Angirases. Of him now etc. etc.

13. [16.] Ours is etc. etc.; let him not be released from the fetter of the Atharvans. Of him now etc. etc.

14. [17.] Ours is etc. etc.; let him not be released from the fetter of them of the Atharvans. Of him now etc. etc.

15. [18.] Ours is etc. etc.; let him not be released from the fetter of the forest trees. Of him now etc. etc.

16. [19.] Ours is etc. etc.; let him not be released from the fetter of them of the forest trees. Of him now etc. etc.

17. [20.] Ours is etc. etc.; let him not be released from the fetter of the seasons. Of him now etc. etc.

18. [21.] Ours is etc. etc.; let him not be released from the fetter of them of the seasons. Of him now etc. etc.

19. [22.] Ours is etc. etc.; let him not be released from the fetter of the months. Of him now etc. etc.

20. [23.] Ours is etc. etc.; let him not be released from the fetter of the half-months. Of him now etc. etc.

21. [24.] Ours is etc. etc.; let him not be released from the fetter of day-and-night. Of him now etc. etc.

22. [25.] Ours is etc. etc.; let him not be released from the fetter of the two congruent (sam-yānt) days. Of him now etc. etc.

There is nothing elsewhere in the text to show what these two days are. Perhaps they are day and night over again, viewed as each a form or aspect of a day. [The use of the obscure sam-yānt (with ṛtū and çrī) at ix. 5. 33 should here be noted.]

23. [26.] Ours is etc. etc.; let him not be released from the fetter of heaven-and-earth. Of him now etc. etc.

24. [27.] Ours is etc. etc.; let him not be released from the fetter of Indra-and-Agni. Of him now etc. etc.

25. [28.] Ours is etc. etc.; let him not be released from the fetter of Mitra-and-Varuṇa. Of him now etc. etc.

26. [29.] Ours is etc. etc.; let him not be released from the fetter of king Varuṇa. Of him now etc. etc.

27. [30.] Ours [is] what is conquered, ours what has shot up, ours right, ours brilliancy, ours brāhman, ours heaven, ours the sacrifice, ours cattle, ours progeny, ours heroes. [31.] From that we disportion him yonder: so-and-so, of such-and-such lineage, son of such-and-such mother, who is yonder; [32.] let him not be released from the fetter, the shackle of death. [33.] Of him now I involve the splendor, brilliancy, breath, life-time; now I make him fall downward.

Some of the mss. read pādvinçāt or pādvīṇçāt. [There should be an avasāna-mark in vs. 26 of the Berlin ed. after the second circle indicating omission.]

9. Paryāya the ninth.

[catvāri vāi vacanāni. 1. prājāpatyā; 2. mantroktabahudevatyā; 3, 4. sāurye. 1. ārcy anuṣṭubh; 2. ārcy uṣṇih; 3. sāmnī pañkti; 4. paraṇṇih.]

Translated: Griffith, ii. 208.

1. Ours [is] what is conquered, ours what has shot up; I have withstood all fighters, niggards.

The verse is identical with the first part of x. 5. 36; and its second part, with vs. 2, is found in MS. i. 5. 3 (reading abhy āsthām).

2. That Agni says; that, too, Soma says: may Pūshan set me in the world of the well-done.

The two pādas are second and fourth pādas of a verse in MS. i. 5. 3 (which rectifies the meter by reading na ā dhāt in place of mā dhāt: our own text probably ought to read mā, i.e. mā ā). With either of these readings, we have two faultless triṣṭubh pādas; but the Anukr. sanctions only 21 syllables. The first pāda is also found as viii. 5. 5 a and xix. 24. 8 c.

3. We have gone to heaven (svār); to heaven have we gone; we have united (sam-gam) with the sun's light;—

The first half is the beginning also of TS. i. 6. 6. In Kāuṣ. 6. 16, the verse is used in the parvan ceremonies, while one looks at the sun; but according to Dārila, this verse with the next is to be so used: [and his view is accepted by SPP. (iii. 350¹⁶) and is supported by the suspension of the sense (see note to vs. 4)]. In Vāit. 24. 5, it is used, together with a RV. verse, to accompany the coming up from the bath in the agniṣṭoma ceremony. [For the general import of this vs., see p. 792, ¶ 2.]

4. In order to becoming better (vāsyas-.). Rich in good (vāsu-) [is] the sacrifice; good may I win (van); rich in good may I be; good put thou in me.

The first word seems to belong in sense rather to the preceding verse; [see note thereon]. All the mss. read vañçīṣīya, and the edition follows them; but we ought unquestionably to have emended to vañsiṣīya. There is even probably a play on words intended between vāsu and vañs-. [Yet SPP. reads vañçīṣīya without note of variant: as to the form, see Gram. § 914 b.] [For use by Kāuṣ., see under vs. 3.]

[Here ends the thirty-first prapāṭhaka.]

Book XVII.

[Prayer to the Sun, identified with Indra and with Vishṇu.]

[This is the fifth book of the third grand division (books xiii.-xviii.) of the Atharvan collection, and its unity of subject (as indicated by the title, above, which is slightly modified from Whitney's, p. 806) is sufficiently apparent. It is the only book of the entire collection that consists of a single anuvāka. At xix. 23. 27, it is called the Viśāsahi (viśāsahyāi svāhā: note the singular number); and the Old Anukr., as noted below at page 812, gives it the same designation. As was true of the preceding book (see page 792), no translation of this book has been published by the translators of single books; but from here on to the end of xx. 37 we have the bhāṣya.]

[The Atharvaṇīya-paddhati, in a chapter on veda-vratas (note to Kāuṣ. 57. 32), nominates a viśāsahi-vrata; and the same vrata is mentioned by Keçava, in his note to Kāuṣ. 42. 12, p. 344²⁴, together with the çiro-vrata, which latter is known as a necessary preliminary to the study of the "Shaveling Upanishad" (see Muṇḍaka, iii. 2. 10). "Doubtless this hymn figured prominently in it" [the viśāsahi-vrata], says Bloomfield, in his part of the Grundriss, p. 95.]

[The hymn consists of just 30 verses: and so again we find the decad-division, — here into three precise decads. This, however, is a mechanical division. Structurally, the hymn is composed of five parts, as follows.]

[Part I., verses 1-5. — This is a sequence of 5 verses of 6 pādas each and of the scheme 8+8:8+12:8+8=52. All 5 verses are identical in the first 5 pādas, which are made up mostly of words containing the roots sah 'overpower' and jī 'win by conquest'; and they differ only in the sixth pāda, which is characterized by the phrase 'may I be' (bhūyāsam), with an āha which makes vs. 1 fall short of the full tale of syllables and makes an overplus for vs. 5.]

[Part II., verses 6-19. — This is a sequence of 14 verses characterized by the refrain 'Thine, O Vishṇu' (tāvéd viṣṇo). It is a curious fact that the mss. do not separate this refrain from the stock of the verse by an avasāna-mark; and herein they are supported by the Anukr. (see below), which describes verses [1-8: that is, 1-5 of Part I. and] 6-8, 10-13, 16, 18-19, and 24 as try-avasāna. In all the tāvéd viṣṇo verses (6-19, and 24), the Bombay ed. follows the mss.: the Berlin ed., on the other hand, inserts an avasāna-mark before the tāvéd; and, so far as the sense and structure go, it is imperatively demanded. — All the vss. of this part are of 7 pādas except 9, 14-15, and 17, which are of 5 each, and except 10, which is of 8.]

[Part III., verses 20-23. — This consists of 4 bits of prose. The verses contain: praise and prayer to the Sun (20-21: 'brilliant art thou; may I be brilliant'); and homage to the Sun, rising, setting, etc. (22-23: namas).]

[Part IV., verses 24-26. — These are 3 perfectly regular anuṣṭubh verses, to the first of which is added the anuṣaṅga that is characteristic of Part II. The 3 verses are closely related and are addressed to the Sun as Āditya or Sūrya, the first and last being appropriate for use at sunrise, and the second for use at sundown. — It may be noted that of the Pāli paritta verses (Jātaka, ii. p. 33-35) cited in the introduction to iii. 26, one set is used at sunrise and the other at sundown.]

[Part V., verses 27-30. — These (if we disregard the palpably intrusive brāhmaṇa of 27 a) are 4 perfectly regular stanzas, of which all the pādas are triṣṭubh except 30 a and 30 c, which are jagati in count and cadence. We might call them paritta-verses, charms for defense and protection; they show various derivatives of the roots vṛ and guṇ, and references to Kaṣyapa (see note to iv. 20. 7).]

1. Prayer and praise to Indra and the Sun.

[Brahman. — ṛcas trīṇcat.¹ ādityadevatyaṣ. 1. jagati; 1-8. try-avasāna; ⁴ 1-4 [intending 2-5?], atijagati; ² 6, 7, 19. atyasṭi; ³ 8, 11, 16. atidhṛti; 9. 5-p. ṣakvarī; 10-13, 16, 18-19, 24. try-avasāna; ⁴ 10. 8-p. dhṛti; 12. ṛti; 13. prakṛti; 14-15. 5-p. ṣakvarī; 17. 5-p. virāḍ atijagati; 18. bhūrig aṣṭi; 24. virāḍ atyasṭi; 1-8 [intending 1-5?]. 6-p.; [6-8.] 11-13, 16, 18-19, 24. 7-p.⁵ 20. kakubh; 21. 4-p. upariṣṭād-bṛhati; 22. anuṣṭubh; 23. nīcṛd bṛhati (22-23. yajusī dve; ⁶ 2-p.); 25, 26. anuṣṭubh; 27, 30. jagati; 28, 29. triṣṭubh.]

The Anukr. has some bad readings and confusions in its account of the book, but they do not concern things of much consequence. [So Whitney, in a note to vs. 5, which note I have transposed hither. He had altered (as often, for brevity) the order of his excerpts from the Anukr.: but I have restored them in this case to the order of the original. Moreover, there are several trifling items which he has omitted or misapprehended: and these I have added or tried to set right without marking them with the usual ell-brackets.]

The hymn, or anuvāka, or book, occurs (except vss. 13, 14, 24) also in Pāipp. xviii., following immediately upon what represents our xvi.

A few of the later verses (18, 21-23) are used in Vāit. The hymn (or the first verses of it) is reckoned to the salila gaṇa, according to Kāuṣ. (18. 25); and the Parīṣiṣṭa [given under Kāuṣ. 54. 11] reckons it also to an āyusya gaṇa. It is used (with i. 30; iii. 8; etc.) in the ceremony of reception of a Vedic student (Kāuṣ. 55. 17); and (with iii. 31; iv. 13; etc.) in the following ceremony for long life (58. 3, 11); and in the anna-prāścana rite (58. 22); further, in a solar eclipse (the whole hymn or sūkta: 99. 3; and Keçava, in his note to 100. 3, p. 3725, adds it also for use in a lunar eclipse). [Vss. 1-5 are quoted by the schol. to Kāuṣ. 7. 21. As to the use of the hymn in the viśāsahī-vrata, see above, p. 805, ¶ 2.]

Translated: Griffith, ii. 209. — Perhaps the Sun is elsewhere variously identified: thus at xiii. 4. 46 (see note) with Indra; and at xiii. 2. 31 with Viṣṇu.

1. Indra of mighty power, overpowering, having overpowered, very powerful, overpowering, power-winning (saho-jīti), heaven-winning, kine-winning, booty-winning, to be praised (īd), by name, do I call: may I be long-lived.

2. Indra of mighty power etc. etc. do I call: may I be dear to the gods.

3. Indra of mighty power etc. etc. do I call: may I be dear to living beings (prajā).

4. Indra of mighty power etc. etc. do I call: may I be dear to cattle.

5. Indra of mighty power etc. etc. do I call: may I be dear to my equals (samānā).

Ppp. reads [in the above 5 verses] every time viśāsahyam; and, for c-f, s. s. viçva-jītaṁ svarjitaṁ abhijitaṁ vasujitaṁ gojitaṁ saṁjitaṁ saṁdhanajitaṁ: īdyaṁ nāma bhūyā indram āyusmān priyā bhūyāsam; in the repetitions, hāya (in place of its previous bhūyā), and indra devānām priyo bhūyāsam. Here, and everywhere else in the hymn, the comm. insists that by indra is intended the sun, and not Indra, quoting in proof of it TS. i. 7. 63: asāt vā ādityā indrah. [For the structure and count of the vss., see above, p. 805, ¶ 4.]

6. Arise, arise, O sun; arise upon me with splendor; both let my hater be subject to me, and let not me be subject to my hater. — Thine, O Viṣṇu, are heroisms manifold; do thou fill us with cattle of all forms; set me in comfort in the highest firmament (vyòman).

Ppp. reads in the concluding pāda of the refrain svadhāyām no dh-; the comm. also has svadhāyām. The mss. commit the absurdity throughout of setting no avasāna between the verse proper and the refrain; we have, as required by the sense, introduced it in our text; [the matter is further discussed above, p. 805, ¶ 5]. The refrain is, as usual, represented in vss. 7-18 only by the word tāva in the mss. (except in R., which fills it out a little further). [With reference to the main stock of the verse, the comm. cites most appositely TB. iii. 7. 63, īd agād ayām ādityō viçvena sāhasā sahā: diviṣṇatam māma randhryaṁ mō ahām diviṣatō radham, although it does not appear why he did not cite rather our verse 24 a-d, below, which see.]

[The refrain seems to count as 11:12+11=34 syllables with the Anukr.; but the true triṣṭubh cadences (viçvadrūpāṁh, vòman) of its second and third pādas suggest the suspicion of metrical disorder in the prior part of each of those pādas. One is tempted to think of pr̥ṇīhi as an ill-considered modernization of p̥ārdhi; and to wish that mā (before dhehi) might be excised, as superfluous in meter and in sense and as making a harsh change from plural (nas) to singular. — The change from singular to plural as between the main stock and the refrain, considering the looseness of their connection, is not to be called harsh.]

7. Arise, arise, O sun; arise upon me with splendor; both those whom I see and those whom I do not — among them make thou favor for me. Thine, O Vishṇu etc. etc.

We should expect me for mā in ḍ; and the comm., on account of mā, takes sumatīm as an adjective (= śobhanabuddhiyuktam) — which is not grammatically impossible, but against all Vedic usage. Verses 6 and 7, [if the main stock of each verse be read rhythmically,] are undoubtedly to be counted as 66 syllables, two less than a true atyasṭi (68), [but also, on the other hand, two more than a true aṣṭi (64); but the a and the b of each can be read as 7 so as to make totals of just 64: see above, page 806, ¶ 6, note 3.] [Concerning the refrain, see notes to vs. 6.]

8. Let them not damage thee in the sea, within the waters — they who approach there having fetters; quitting imprecation, thou hast ascended that sky; be thou then gracious to us; may we be in thy favor. — Thine, O Vishṇu etc. etc.

Ppp. reads in b pācinam, and in c ā ruha etān. The verse counts most naturally 78 syllables (11 × 4 : 34); a proper atidhṛti has 76. Bp. reads in ḍ ā : ruṣaḥ; D.Kp. and all SPP's authorities have ā : ar., which is doubtless the true pāda-text.

9. Do thou, O Indra, in order to great good-fortune, protect us about with unharmed rays. — Thine, O Vishṇu etc. etc.

The comm. takes aktūbhis in its sense of 'night.' Ppp. reads adabdhāiḥ pari in b.

10. Do thou, O Indra, with propitious aids, be most wealful to us — ascending to the triple heaven of the heaven (dīv), besung unto soma-drinking, having a dear abode (-dhāman) unto well-being. — Thine, O Vishṇu etc. etc.

Ppp. reads in a indro adbhīḥ (६). The comm. gives us our choice between -sthāna and -tejas as meanings of -dhāman in e. The verse has two syllables too many for a regular dhṛti (72); [it reads properly as 5 × 8 and 34; but pāda a may be read as 6].

11. Thou, O Indra, art all-conquering, all-gaining (sarva-vid); much invoked [art] thou, O Indra; do thou, O Indra, send onward this well-invoking praise; be thou gracious to us; may we be in thy favor. — Thine, O Vishṇu etc. etc.

Ppp. reads in a viṣvavit; and instead of our ḍ (= 8 ḍ) it has ṣivābhis tanubhir abhi nas sajasva. The verse is a true atidhṛti by number of syllables, but very irregular in structure (8 + 10 : 13 + 11 : 34 = 76).

12. Unharmd in the heaven (dīv), also on earth, art thou; they have not attained thy greatness in the atmosphere; increasing with unharmd worship (brāhman), do thou there, O Indra, being in the heaven (dītv), bestow protection (çárman) on us. — Thine, O Vishṇu etc. etc.

Ppp. reads divaṣ p- in a. [In d, all of SPP's authorities give śān or sān : and W's Collation Book notes nothing to the contrary ; but] the comm. omits the word, as the meter plainly requires. The verse (11 + 12 : 11 + 12 : 34 = 80) is by number of syllables an exact kṛti.

13. What body of thine, O Indra, is in the waters, what on the earth, what within the fire ; what of thine, O Indra, is in the heaven-gaining (svarvid) purifying one (pāvamāna) ; with what body, O Indra, thou didst permeate (vi-āp) the atmosphere — with that body, O Indra, bestow thou protection upon us. — Thine, O Vishṇu etc. etc.

In nearly all our mss. (all save D. and R.p.m.) vyāpītha (p. visāpītha) is most strangely left unaccented, and the reading was in our text emended to vyāpītha, in accordance with the invariable accentuation of such forms in RV. and AV. elsewhere. But a minority of SPP's authorities are reported by him as accenting vyāpīthā, and he accordingly prints vyāpīthā in his edition (our D.R.p.m. have the same). The 'purifying one' is doubtless here the wind (vāyu : so comm.). The verse (12 + 16 : 12 + 12 : 34 = 86) counts two more syllables than a proper prakṛti.

14. Increasing thee, O Indra, with worship (brāhman), the imploring seers have sat down [for] the session (sattrā). — Thine, O Vishṇu etc. etc.

The verse (11 + 12 : 34 = 57) has one more syllable than a regular çakvari. [Verses 13 and 14, as was noted above, are wanting in Ppp.]

15. Thou goest about Tṛita (?), thou about the fountain of a thousand streams, the heaven-gaining council. — Thine, O Vishṇu etc. etc.

All the mss., and hence both editions, read trīdm in a ; but the ms. of the comm. has tritām, and we cannot well believe that the latter is not the true reading ; though the sense of the whole verse is extremely obscure. The comm. explains tritām mysteriously, as either visitrām antarikṣam or meghāir āvṛtam udakam. Vidatha, he says, = yajña. The verse is capable of being read as 56 syllables. Ppp. puts it after our verse 17.

16. Thou defendest the four directions ; thou shinest abroad with brightness (çocś) unto the two firmaments (nābhās) ; thou pursuest (anusthā) all these beings ; thou, knowing, followest (anu-i) the way of righteousness. — Thine, O Vishṇu etc. etc.

The saṁhitā-mss. read vidvāñś tāvé 'd between verse and refrain. The whole (11 + 11 : 12 + 11 : 34 = 79) reads naturally as three more syllables than belong to an atidhṛti.

17. With five thou heatest upward (pārāñ), with one hitherward ; thou goest driving off the imprecation in good weather (sudīna). — Thine, O Vishṇu etc. etc.

The comm. supplies, as is natural, dīdhiti or marici 'ray' for the missing noun, and explains the five as required in order to illuminate so many worlds beyond the sun.

But Ppp. reads instead saptabhiḥ p- 'with seven.' [With reference to the rays, Griffith (note to xi. 1. 36) cites Mahidhara as quoted by Eggeling on ÇB. i. 9. 3¹⁶.] The comm. has the bad reading nādhāmānas for bād-. We have to resolve a saṁdhi in a in order to make 58 syllables in the verse.

18. Thou art Indra, thou great Indra, thou the world, thou Prajāpati; for thee the sacrifice is extended; to thee the offerers make oblation. — Thine, O Viṣṇu etc. etc.

Ppp. reads viṣṇus for lokas in b, and, in c, yajāyate for vi tāyate. Our Bp.P.M.W. T.R.p.m. also have jāyate for tāyate. To make the verse only bhurig aṣṭi (65 syll.), we have to read the first pāda as seven syllables, though it easily makes eight. In Vāit. 3. 3 the verse, with vi. 5. 2, is made to accompany a sāmnāyya offering to Indra, in the darṣapūrṇamāsa ceremony. In our edition, the m of tvām before lokās is lost in printing.

19. In the non-existent is the existent made firm; in the existent is being (bhūtā) made firm; being is set in what is to be; what is to be is made firm in being. Thine, O Viṣṇu etc. etc.

Ppp. combines bhavyā "hitam" [double sandhi after -e as at ix. 1. 14] in c, and has saṁāhitam for pratiṣṭhitam in d. The verse, like 6 and 7, lacks two syllables of a full atyāṣṭi; [but see note to vs. 7 and p. 806, ¶ 6, note 3, above].

20. Brilliant (çukrā) art thou; shiny art thou; as thou art shiny by the shining one (bhrājant), so may I by the shining one shine.

The Ppp. text of this verse is in confusion. Our P.M.I.T. combine (second time) bhrāj 'si, as if we had here, as the first time, asi (instead of dsi). The first pāda is the same with the beginning of ii. 11. 5. MS. iv. 9. 5 has passages resembling this verse and the next. This prose bit is a queer kakubh: [the kakubh calls for $8 + 12 + 8 = 28$; and this may be read as $8 + 11 + 9$].

21. Brightness art thou, bright art thou; as thou by brightness art bright, so may I by both cattle and Brahman-splendor be bright (ruc).

Our P.M.T. have again (second time) roc 'si; [and one of SPP's pada-mss. has correspondingly asi without accent]. The MS. version is in some respects better: rucl asi ruc (or rocyd) 'si sā yāthā tvām rucyā rúcasa evām ahām rucyā rociṣya. Ppp. also gives rociṣya. [For rociṣya or roc, see Gram. § 907.] The metrical definition of the Anukr. is absurd, the "verse" being prose, and having only three possible divisions; it can be made 36 syllables by reading roco asi either in a or in b. It is used in Vāit. 14. 2, in the agniṣṭoma ceremony.

22. To the rising one be obeisance; to the one coming up be obeisance; to the arisen one be obeisance; to the wide ruler (virāj) be obeisance; to the self-ruler (svarāj) be obeisance; to the universal ruler (saṁrāj) be obeisance.

We should expect, by the analogy of the next verse, udēsyatē for udāyātē. The comm. explains the latter by ūrdhvam iṣad gacchate. In Vāit. 11. 16, the verse accompanies worship of the rising sun in the agniṣṭoma ceremony. It is so far an anuṣṭubh that it contains 32 syllables. [The Anukr. informs us that this verse is a yajus; and so of the next. A similarly isolated bit of information we had concerning xvi. 8. 1 a.]

23. To the setting one be obeisance; to the one about to set be obeisance; to the one that has set be obeisance; to the wide ruler be obeisance; to the self-ruler be obeisance; to the universal ruler be obeisance.

In Vāit. 11. 13, the verse accompanies worship of the setting sun in the agnisṭoma ceremony. The Anukr. restores both the elided initial a's in the first half-verse, thus counting 35 syllables.

24. This Āditya hath arisen, together with all ardor (tāpas), making subject to me my rivals; and let me not be subject to my hater. — Thine, O Viṣṇu etc. etc.

We have repeated here once more the refrain of vss. 6–19. The verse is wanting in Ppp. Pādas c, d are nearly identical with our 6 c, d above. [The main stock of the vs., without the refrain, corresponds to] RV. i. 50. 13, which reads sāhasā in b, and dviṣḍantam (for sapātṇān) in c; also mā for mā ca in d; [and it is also TB. iii. 7. 6²³, quoted above in full under vs. 6, which reads like RV., save that it has māma for māhyam in c, and dviṣatō for dviṣatē in d. — In the Calcutta ed. of TB., sāhasā is misprinted māhasā in the text, but is given aright in the comm. (p. 504), and aright in the Poona ed., p. 1105.]

25. O Āditya, thou hast ascended a boat of a hundred oars in order to well-being; thou hast made me to pass over the day, make thou me likewise (satrā) to pass over the night.

The comm. explains satrā by sahāi 'va, aṇnā saha; he gives also as admissible alternative explanation "I have ascended thee as a boat" etc., understanding the second person to be used as a first! Ppp. reads, in fact, ā 'ruham; and, in c, ahar ṇo 'ty.

26. O sun, thou hast ascended a boat of a hundred oars in order to well-being; thou hast made me to pass over the night, make thou me likewise to pass over the day.

Passages analogous and in part accordant with the two preceding verses are found in MB. ii. 5. 13, 14. Ppp. reads in a ā 'rikṣam; and, in c, rātri ṇo 'ty.

27. With Prajāpati's worship (brāhman) [as] defense am I covered, with Kaṣyapa's light and splendor; long-lived, of finished heroism, vigorous (? vihāyas), having a thousand life-times, well-made, may I go about.

[Or, to bring out the connection between varman and āvṛta, one may render, 'with P's defense am I defended,' 'with P's covering am I covered.'] It is plain that brāhmaṇā, which is metrically redundant, has slipped in here out of 28 a; but it appears to be found also in Ppp., as in the text of the comm. The latter explains vihāyas by vividhagamanaḥ, sarvatrā 'pratibaddhagatīḥ; [cf. Bergaigne, Rel. Véd. iii. 287]. The verse (14 + 11 : 11 + 10 [or 11 ?] = 46) has nothing of a jagatī character; [but, if we excise brāhmaṇā, it is a perfectly good tristubh].

28. Encompassed with worship [as] defense am I, with Kaṣyapa's light and splendor; let not the arrows that are the gods' attain me, nor those of men, let loose in order to slay (vadhāya).

SPP. reports his pada-mss. as reading yā instead of yāḥ at end of c; I have not observed the blunder in ours. All, both his and ours, give dvassṛṣṭā instead of -fāḥ in d. The comm. adds the visarga in both words. A part of the verse is wanting in Ppp.

29. Guarded by righteousness and by all the seasons, guarded by what is and by what is to be am I; let not evil attain me, nor death; I interpose with a sea of speech.

That is, I set my uttered charms like a sea between me and them.

30. Let Agni [as] guardian protect me all about; let the sun, rising, thrust [away] the fetters of death; out-shining dawns, firm mountains — let a thousand breaths abide (ā-yat) in me.

Ppp. reads in a gopaṣ pari, transposes pādas b and c (corrupting to vicchantir, and combining uśasaṣ p-), and ends d with mayu te ramantām; and it then adds our xviii. 4. 49. The connection of our c is obscure; the comm. understands mṛtyupācān nudantām or else mām anugṛhṇantu: the former is possible. [The verse is to be read as 12 + 11 : 12 + 11.]

[Here ends the first and sole anuvāka, with 1 hymn and 30 verses. The words prathamō 'nuvākaḥ are not printed here in either edition, but are found in several of W's mss. The quotation from the Old Anukr. is ity etat samanukrāntam ṛcas triṇṣad "viśāsahīḥ."]

[Here ends also the thirty-second prapāṭhaka.]

Book XVIII.

[Funeral verses.]

[Funeral ceremonies. — This eighteenth book is the sixth and last book of the third grand division (books xiii.–xviii.) of the Atharvan collection, and shows very clearly that general unity of subject which is the distinguishing characteristic of the books of that division. In particular, however, the verses of the book do not show an orderliness of arrangement corresponding with that unity of subject. In large part, the verses of this book appear also in the R̥gveda and in book vi. of the Tāittiriya Āraṇyaka, and the readings of these two texts are wont to agree together rather than with those of the Atharvaveda. As appears from the excerpts below, p. 814, the Pañcapatalikā seems to have a special name for this book, 'The Yamas' or 'Yama-hymns.' The book has been translated by Weber in the Sitzungsberichte der königlich Preussischen Akademie der Wissenschaften zu Berlin (cited below as "Sb.") for 1895 and 1896. The bhāṣya is not wanting.]

[The funeral ceremonies of the ancient Hindus (like their nuptial ceremonies — see p. 738) have been often treated: thus, as early as 1801, by Colebrooke, in vol. vii. of the Asiatic Researches (the paper is reprinted by Cowell in his edition of H. T. Colebrooke's Essays, vol. i.: see pages 172–206); by H. H. Wilson, Works, ii. 270 f.; by R. Roth, ZDMG. viii. 467–475; by Max Müller, ZDMG. ix., appendix, pages i–lxxxii; by Monier-Williams in his Religious Thought and Life in India, chapter xi.; and by H. Oldenberg, Religion des Veda, pages 570–591. Closely akin in subject is Whitney's essay on The Vedic doctrine of a future life, reprinted in his Oriental and Linguistic Studies, i. 46–63. — See also my notes upon the customs and ritual of cremation and burial (AGS. iv. 1–6) in my Sanskrit Reader, pages 401–405, and my notes on RV. x. 18 etc., Reader, pages 382–386: in both places I have given many pertinent bibliographical references. — The sixth prapāṭhaka of the Tāittiriya Āraṇyaka is devoted to the funeral rites, and contains much of the material of this book of the AV. Rājendralāla Mitra's analysis of the prapāṭhaka (pages 41–48 of the "Contents" prefixed to his text-edition) may well be consulted, and also pages 33–58 of his Introduction. — The most comprehensive treatment of the subject has been given by Dr. W. Caland, under the title Die Altindischen Todten- und Bestattungsgebräuche mit Benutzung handschriftlicher Quellen dargestellt, Verhandelingen der Koninklijke Akademie van Wetenschappen te Amsterdam, Afdeeling Letterkunde, Deel I. N^o 6, Amsterdam, 1896, pages xiv + 193.]

[Hymns (or anuvākas) 1 and 2 are treated by Weber (as above) in the Sitzungsberichte for 1895, pages 815–866; and hymns (or anuvākas) 3 and 4, in the Sitzungsberichte for 1896, pages 253–294. — Weber's essays give first a general introduction for the whole book (Sb., 1895, pages 815-819); and then, for each anuvāka, a special introduction followed by a translation with running comment. Each special introduction treats of the ritual uses of the anuvāka concerned and of the provenience of the various verses or groups of verses which enter into its composition and also of some general matters relating to that anuvāka.]

[Divisions of the book. — The material of this book is divided by our text into 4 anuvākas and this division coincides with the division into 4 hymns. (Compare the anuvāka-division of books xii. and xiii. and xiv.) A conspectus for book xviii. follows:

Anuvākas	I	2	3	4
Hymns	I	2	3	4
Verses	61	60	73	89
Decad-division	5 tens + 11	6 tens	6 tens + 13	8 tens + 9

Of the "decads," anuvākas 1, 2, 3, and 4 contain respectively 6, 6, 7, and 9. The sum is 28 "decad"-sūktas. These 4 anuvākas and 28 sūktas are recognized by the Major Anukr., as noted below, next ¶. The sum of verses is 283, as is also stated by the same treatise, if we disregard an apparent misreading, ibidem.]

[The Major Anukr. begins its treatment of the book thus: o cit sakhāyam (xviii. 1. 1) iti caturanuvākam aṣṭāvīṇṇatisūktakam tryaṣṭīdvīṇṇatanavatyarcam (? read dvīṇṇatanarcam) yamadevatyaṇ trīṣṭubhaṇ kāṇḍam atharvā mantroktabahudevatyāṇ ca.]

[That is to say: 'The book that begins with o cit sakhāyam has four anuvākas and twenty-eight sūktas and two-hundred-and-eighty-three verses and is in trīṣṭubh meter; the seer is Atharvan; and the deities are Yama and many others mentioned in its mantras.']

[The Pañcapāṭalikā. — The excerpts from the Old Anukr. are given piecemeal at the end of each anuvāka and may here be reconstructed into a metrical couplet:

*ekaṣaṣṭiṣ ca ṣaṣṭiṣ ca sapṭatis tryadhikā paraḥ:
ekonanavatiṣ cāi'va yameṣu vihitā ṛcaḥ.*

That is to say: 'Sixty-one; and sixty; the next [anuvāka] three-over-seventy; and ninety-less-one: are the verses disposed among the Yama-hymns.' These excerpts are quoted in part and verbatim by the Major Anukr.]

[It would thus appear from the Old Anukr. that the division into anuvākas is indeed of considerable antiquity. On the other hand, we cannot claim much intrinsic significance for the coincident division into hymns: at all events, the fact that a ritual sequence runs over the division-line between hymns 1 and 2 (see my note to 1. 49) makes against such significance; and my suggestion (p. 848) as to a possible misdivision between hymns 3 and 4 points the same way.]

[See p. clx, near end.]

The whole book is wanting in Pāipp., although a very few of the verses (namely, 1. 46; 2. 13, 17; 3. 56; 4. 49) are found here and there in its text. In the Vāit., which has no chapter devoted to funeral rites, only fifteen scattered passages [covering about a score of verses] are used; but in the Kāu., most of the verses from 1. 40 on to the end of the book are quoted, solely in the chapter (adhyāya xi.: sections or kandikās 80-89) which deals with funeral rites and rites to the Fathers or Manes. [See p. 1016.]

1. [Funeral verses.]

[Atharvan.—ekaṣaṣṭi. yamadevatyam mantroktabahudevatyaṁ ca (41-43. sarasvatīdevatyās; 40. rāudrī; 44-46. mantroktapitṛdevatyās; 51, 52. pīṭrye). trāiṣṭubham: 8, 15. āṛṣi pañkti; 14, 49, 50. bhurij; 18-20, 21-23. jagatī; 37, 38. paroṣṇih; 56, 57, 61. anuṣṭubh; 59. purāṇṛhatī.]

[Only one verse (46) is found in Päipp., and that in book ii. Only four sūtras of the Vāit. cite verses from this hymn, and those verses are 44-46, 51, and 55. In the Kāuṣ., as already noted by Whitney, p. 814, nearly all the verses from 1.40 to the end of the book have their uses in the ritual. That Parts I. and II. and III. of the hymn as divided below are utterly impertinent to the proper subject of the book and therefore without ritual application, is a fact on which Weber, Sb. 1895, p. 819, has already animadverted.]

[A clear synoptic statement of the provenience of the different groups of verses, or of the single verses, that enter into the composition of this hymn appears so desirable for the critical study thereof, that I subjoin the following:

Part I., verses 1-16. — This is the hymn of Yama and Yamī, RV. x. 10, of 14 vss., but covering 16 in our text by reason of the strange insertion of RV. i. 84. 16 between the RV. vss. 5 and 6 (our 5 and 7) and the expansion of the RV. vs. 12 to two (our 13 and 14). — See Weber, Sb. 1895, p. 819.

Part II., verses 17-26. — This is the Agni-hymn, RV. x. 11, of 9 vss. The order of the last two is inverted, and to the whole part is prefixed a vs. (our 17) not found in other texts. — See Weber, Sb. 1895, p. 828.

Part III., verses 27-36. — This is the Agni-hymn, RV. x. 12, of 9 vss., with the order of vss. 3 and 4 inverted and with its last vs., 9, which we had above as our vs. 25, not repeated. To the whole is prefixed (as our 27, 28) a repetition of the Agni-vss., AV. vii. 82. 4, 5: perhaps vs. 5 (our 28: of which all four pādas begin with prāti) is put here as a parallel to our 29 (on account of its pratyāñ); in that case, vs. 4 (our 27) might be regarded as a mere variation of vs. 5, with anu four times for prāti, etc. — See Weber, Sb. 1895, p. 830.

Part IV., verses 37, 38. — To Indra, RV. viii. 24. 1, 2. See Weber, l.c., p. 819 n.

Part V., verse 39. — Corresponds to RV. x. 31. 9.

Part VI., verse 40. — Here begin the vss. used in the ritual. — To Rudra, RV. ii. 33. 11.

Part VII., verses 41-43. — To Sarasvatī with the Fathers, RV. x. 17. 7-9.

Part VIII., verses 44-46. — To the Fathers, RV. x. 15. 1, 3, 2.

Part IX., verse 47. — To the Fathers, RV. x. 14. 3.

Part X., verse 48. — To Soma, RV. vi. 47. 1.

Part XI., verses 49, 50. — To Yama, RV. x. 14. 1, 2.

Part XII., verses 51, 52. — To the Fathers, RV. x. 15. 4, 6.

Part XIII., verse 53. — Tvaṣṭā dukhīre etc., RV. x. 17. 1.

Part XIV. a, verse 54. — To the dead man, RV. x. 14. 7.

Part XIV. b, verse 55. — Averuncatio, RV. x. 14. 9.

Part XV., verses 56, 57. — Fire-kindling, RV. x. 16. 12 and variation.

Part XVI., verses 58-60. — To Yama and the Fathers, RV. x. 14. 6, 5, 4.

Part XVII., verse 61. — To the Fathers (?), SV. i. 92.]

[It thus appears that every verse of our hymn has its correspondent in the RV. save four (or five, if one wishes to count vs. 57): to wit, vs. 17, which is not found to my knowledge in any other text; vss. 27, 28, repeated from AV. vii. (see above); and vs. 61, found in SV.]

Translated: as AV. hymn, by Weber, as already noted, Sb. 1895, pages 825-842; Griffith, ii. 215. — Translated, furthermore, in so far as it corresponds to RV. material (see above), by the RV. translators, Wilson, Ludwig, Grassmann; 8 of the 14 verses 47 to 60 are from RV. x. 14, which has been translated by Geldner, Siebenzig Lieder des Rigveda, p. 146. In particular, Part I. (RV. x. 10), "Yama and Yamī," has been rendered by Muir, v. 288-291; Geldner, l.c., p. 142; Ludwig, in his Rigveda, vol. ii., no. 989, with comment in vol. v., p. 510. With reference to this same Part I., J. Ehni, Die ursprüngliche Gottheit des vedischen Yama, Leipzig, 1896, pages 139-141, may be consulted. Most important is Geldner's article in the Gurupājakaumudī, pages 19-22, in which he subjects his older views concerning RV. x. 10 to a critical revision in the light of Sāyaṇa's interpretation.

1. Unto a friend would I turn with friendship; having gone through much ocean, may the pious one take a grandson of [his] father, considering further onward upon the earth (kṣām).

That is, 'making thoughtful provision for the future.' The verse is, without variant, RV. x. 10. 1. Our Bs.E. have purū in saṃhitā. The verse is also SV. i. 340, which has a considerably different text: for a, ā tvā sākhāyaḥ sakhyā vavṛtyas; in b, arṇavān jagamyāḥ; for ā, asmān kṣāye pratarān dīdānaḥ. The comm. takes vavṛtyām as of causative value, = vartayāmi: dīdāyānas he explains first (as if it were dīdāyānas) by dīdāyānas, 'becoming illustrious over the whole earth'; but also, alternatively, by "thinking [upon a means of impregnating me]." — The word sakhyā he takes as instr. of sakhyā 'friendship' [so Lanman, Noun-Inflection, JAOS. x. 336], and renders by sakhitvena; but also alternatively as instr. of sakhī, 'by means of a female friend,' a go-between!

[An oxytone feminine stem sakhī corresponding (cf. JAOS. x. 368) to a barytone masculine sakhī should accent its instr. sakhyā (JAOS. x. 368, top, 381), not sakhyā.] [Aufrecht, Festgruss an Böhltingk, 1888, page 1, took sakhyā as a dative of sakhyā; and Pischel, Ved. Stud. i. 65 (title-page dated 1889), made a cogent and interesting argument against my view and came (independently, without doubt) to the same conclusion as Aufrecht. — For Geldner's interpretation of the whole verse, see Gurupājakaumudī, p. 19-20.]

2. Thy friend wants (vaç) not that friendship of thine, that she of like sign should become of diverse form; the sons of the great Asura, heroes, sustainers of the sky (dīu), look widely about.

That is, Varuṇa's spies are on the watch against such unpermitted acts. Our Bp.Bs. read in b sālakṣmyā. The comm. understands sālakṣmā as ekodaratvalakṣaṇam yasyāḥ 'marked as from the same womb,' and viṣurūpā as "changing from sister to wife." The same expression occurs below in 1. 34, and variations of it in TS. i. 3. 10¹ (quoted further at vi. 3. 11²) and MS. i. 2. 17 (a passage corresponding to, but different from, that in TS.); also VS. vi. 20 b (do.). It seems to have a kind of proverbial currency, as applied to things that change from one character to another. The comm. renders pari khyan by pari vadanti or nirākariṣyanti. The verse is RV. x. 10. 2.

3. Truly those immortals want that — posterity (?tyajās) of the one mortal; may thy mind be set in our mind; mayest thou enter [as] husband a wife's body.

The verse shows no variant from RV. x. 10. 3. Bs.E. read in d tanvām. The comm. explains tyajāsam by tyāgam, garbhān nirgamanam, utpattim. [Cf. Weber, Sb., p. 824.]

4. What we (pl.) did not do formerly, why [do that] now? speaking righteousness, should we prate unrighteousness? The Gandharva in the waters and the watery woman (yóśā) — that is our (du.) union (nābhi), that our [du.] highest relation (jāmi).

RV. x. 10. 4 reads ṛtā in b, and sā no n- in d, but nāu at the end. [The inconcinnity of number as between no and nāu tempts one to think that here at least the text of the AV. has scored a point against that of the RV.] Ānṛta seems to be used here, as hardly elsewhere, in the directly opposed sense to ṛtā. The comm. explains rapema by sphaṣtam brūmah. [Cf. Weber, Sb., p. 825.]

5. Verily, the generator made us (du.) in the womb man and spouse — god Tvashtar, Savitar of all forms; none overthrow (pra-mī) his ordinances (vratā); earth knows us [two] as such, also heaven.

RV. x. 10. 5 has no variants. The treatment of prthivī in d as pragrhya is noticed in Prāt. iii. 34 c. [Presumably, W's literal version of d would be 'earth is cognizant of that [fact] of us two, also heaven.']

6. Who yokes to the pole today the kine of righteousness, the diligent, the bright, the slow to wrath (? durhrṇāyū), that have arrows in the mouth, that shoot at the heart, amiable ones? whoso shall prosper their burden, he shall live.

This strangely intruded verse [cf. Weber, Sb. 1895, p. 819 n.] is RV. i. 84. 16 (also found in TS. iv. 2. 113; MS. iii. 16. 4), without variant [save that TS. accents dūr-hṛṇāyūn]. SV. has it at i. 341 (next after our verse 1), with the bad variants āsānn eṣām apsuṣāhaḥ in c. [Cf. Aufrecht's Rigveda 2, vol. i., preface, p. xliv.] The comm. understands bhṛtyām ṛṇādhat in d as here translated; also durhrṇāyūn [alternatively] in b.

7. Who knows of that first day? who saw it? who shall proclaim it here? Great is the ordinance (dhāman) of Mitra, of Varuṇa; why, O lustful one, wilt thou speak to men with deceit (? vīci)?

RV. x. 10. 6 has no variants. The comm. blunderingly attributes the verse to Yamī; he also takes vīcyā [p. vīcyā] as for vīcyās, an adj. meaning vividham āncanto gacchantāḥ samicarantāḥ, and qualifying nṛṇ, which is used as nominative, = narās! [See Geldner, Gurupūjākaumudā, p. 21-22.]

8. Desire of Yama hath come unto me Yamī, in order to lying together in the same lair (yóni); I would fain yield (ric) my body, as wife to husband; may we whirl off, like two chariot wheels.

That is, probably, like the wheels of two chariots interlocked with each other in battle. RV. x. 10. 7 has no variants from our text. The comm. makes vī vrheva mean saṃśleṣaṃ karavāva, adding īlaretarayoh saṃśleṣo vivarhā; and his first explanation of rathyā is as = rathyāyā 'on the carriage road'! Our P.M.I. accent vrhéva. The metrical definition of the Anukr. as pañkti is very strange, though the verse can be reduced to 40 syllables by refusing to make ordinary resolutions.

9. They stand not, they wink not, those spies of the gods who go about here; with another than me, O lustful one, go quickly; with him whirl off like two chariot wheels.

The verse is RV. x. 10. 8, without variant. The comm. reads eke at end of a; he explains thyam in c by tūrṇam, and supplies ramasva: 'hasten to enjoy thyself.'

10. By nights, by days one may pay reverence (daśasy) to him; the sun's eye may open (? ūn mimīyāt) for a moment; with heaven, with earth paired, of near connection;—Yamī must bear the unbrotherly (ājāmi) [conduct] of Yama.

RV. x. 10. 9 differs from our text only by reading in d bībhṛyāt; and this reading the translation implies, vīvṛhāt seeming unexplainable save as a corruption, suggested by the forms of vīvṛh in the two preceding verses. The connection of the verse is very loose, and the sense of b especially doubtful. One is tempted to emend to mimīyāt; but ūn mimīyāt is found in TB. iii. 6. 13 [2d prāṣa] explained by its commentary as meaning āgatyā praviṣeyuḥ. Our comm. explains ūn m- as ūrūhvam gacchet (the RV. comm. as ud etu). Our comm. further reads at the end ājāmis, and understands it of Yamī. The adjectives in c are dual; the comm. supplies "earth with heaven and heaven with earth." [Cf. Weber, Sb., p. 823.]

11. Verily there shall come those later ages (yugā) in which next of kin (jāmi) shall do what is unkinly [ājāmi]. Put thine arm underneath a hero (vṛṣabhā); seek, O fortunate one, another husband than me.

The verse is, without variant, RV. x. 10. 10. Upa barbṛhi in c means 'make an upabārhaṇa (cushion, pillow) of.' Our comm. regards the anomalous barbṛhi [Gram. § 1011 a] as barṛ + hi, -br- being for -brh- by Vedic license.

12. What should brother be when there is no protector? or what sister, when destruction impends (nī-gam)? Impelled by desire, I prate thus much; mingle thou thy body with my body.

The first half-verse apparently means that the matter of near kindred is overborne in importance by the consideration of her loneliness and of the necessity for continuing their race. The verse agrees throughout with RV. x. 10. 11. The comm. renders -mūtā in c by mūrchiṭā.

13. I am not thy protector here, O Yamī; I may not mingle my body with thy body; with another than me do thou prepare enjoyments; thy brother wants not that, O fortunate one.

All our mss. save Op.K. accent yāmi in a; SPP. reports only one of his as doing so. RV. x. 10. 12 is in our text expanded into two verses, its second half being our c, d, without variant. The comm. reads nūnam for tanūm in b; he explains nāthām in a by abhimatārthasamphādakas.

14. Verily, I may not mingle my body with thy body; they call him wicked (pāpā) who should approach his sister. That is not consonant (? asainyāt) with my mind [and] heart, that I, a brother, should lie in a sister's bed (çāyana).

The first half-verse [cf. vs. 13] is RV. x. 10. 12 a, b, which latter, however, reads in a te tanvè tanvān sām. All the mss. leave çayīya at the end unaccented, and both editions read accordingly; we ought in ours to have made the necessary emendation to çāyīya. The mss. vary in c between dsainyat, asainyāt, dsainyāt, and asainyat; SPP. gives in his text dsainyat, which is better than our asainyāt; the pada-text divides asamoyat. The comm. reads instead asum yat, and supplies a verb, apaharet, to govern asum.

15. A weakling (? batā), alas, art thou, O Yama; we have not found mind and heart thine; verily, another woman shall embrace thee, as a girth a harnessed [horse], as a twining plant (lībujā) a tree.

RV. x. 10. 13 varies from this only by reading (as also our Bp.) in d çvajāte. The translation given of kaksyè 'va yuktām agrees with the comm. (also the comm. to RV.), which renders yuktām by svasambaddham aṣvam. Pāda b evidently alludes to 14 c, where Yama talks of his mind and heart. If batās is a genuine word (the metrical disarray intimates corruption), it looks like being the noun of which the common exclamation bata is by origin the vocative. The RV. Anukr. takes no notice of the defective meter; ours requires the verse to be read as only 40 syllables, which is possible (10 + 9 : 10 + 11 = 40); [c and d are good triṣṭubh pādas and b has a triṣṭubh cadence].

16. Another man, truly, O Yamī, another man shall embrace thee, as a twining plant a tree; either do thou seek his mind or he thine; then make for thyself very excellent concord (samvīd).

RV. x. 10. 14 has for a the much better version anyām ū śī tvām yamy anyā u tvām, and in b again çvajāte. Our D., and a single ms. of SPP's (with the comm.), also have anyam [at the beginning], and SPP. accordingly admits anyām into his text, in spite of the absence of tvām. But the comment on the Prāt. three times (under ii. 97; iii. 4; iv. 98) reads anya ū śu, and it cannot well be questioned that this is the true text of our AV. Our P.M.E. accent again yāmi. The Anukr. takes no notice of the lacking syllable in a; [perhaps it balances c against a].

17. Three meters the poets extended (? vi-yat) — the many-formed one, the admirable, the all-beholding; waters, winds, herbs — these are set (ārpita) in one being (bhūvana).

The verse is extremely obscure, in meaning and in connection. The mss. vary much as regards the accent of pururūpam; two of ours (O.D.) and several of SPP's accent -rūp, which, as it is found in other texts, the latter has very properly admitted in his edition. The comm. renders et yetire by yatnam kṛtavantaḥ. The Anukr. takes no notice of the irregularity of the meter. [Concerning this prakṣipta-verse, "glossenartige Parallelstelle," see Weber, Sh. 1895, p. 819 note, and p. 828.]

18. The bull yieldeth (duh) milks for the bull with the milking of the sky (dīv), he the unharmable son (? yahvā) of Aditi; everything knoweth he, like Varuṇa, by thought (dht); he, sharing the sacrifice (yajñīya), sacrificeth to the seasons that share the sacrifice.

The verse is RV. x. 11. 1, whose only variant is yajatu for -ti in ḍ. The comm. explains vṛṣā as Agni, and vṛṣṇe as the sacrificer, dōhasā as = dohanasāadhanena yajñā-dīnā, yakvās as mahān and qualifying vṛṣā together with ādābhiyas, while ādites means "indivisible" and qualifies divās, which is ablative: the general sense being that the god procures rain for his worshiper. His understanding of c agrees with the translation given above. Compare Pischel's version of the verse and general explanation of the RV. hymn in Ved. Stud. i. 183 ff.; his exposition is excessively ingenious and extremely unsatisfactory.

19. Prateth the Gandharvī and watery woman; in the noise of the noisy one (naddā) let [her] protect our mind; let Aditi set us in the midst of what is desired (? iṣṭā); our oldest brother shall first speak out.

RV. x. 11. 2 has for sole variant me for naṣ in b. The comm. to the first half-verse appears to be defective; but it certainly understands the goddesses Bhārati and Sarasvatī to be intended in a; iṣṭasya is either phalasya or yāgasya; the "brother" is Agni. [Pischel discusses the RV. verse at Ved. Stud. i. 183.]

20. She now, the excellent, rich in food, full of glory — the dawn hath shone for man (mānu), full of light (svār-); since they have generated for the council [as] hótr Agni, the eager one, after the will (krātu) of the eager ones.

This is RV. x. 11. 3, without variant. The comm. renders kṣumātī in a by mantra-rūpaśabdavati, and vidāthāya (of course) by yajñāya, and understands anu krātum as "for each several ceremony."

21. Then that mighty (vibhū) conspicuous drop did the bird, the lively falcon, bring at the sacrifice; if the Aryan tribes (vīc) choose the wondrous one, Agni, [as] hótr, then prayer (dht) was born.

RV. x. 11. 4 differs only by reading iṣitās in b. The comm. makes a couple of references, to TB. iii. 2. 1¹ and TS. vi. 1. 6¹, where the legends of the bringing of soma from heaven by the falcon are given. Prāt. iii. 25 notes the short final of ādha in a and d.

22. Ever art thou pleasant (raṇvā), as pastures to him that enjoys (puṣ) them, being, O Agni, well sacrificed to with the offerings of man (mānus); or when, active, praiseworthy, having won the strength (vāja) of the inspired one (vīpra), thou approachest with very many.

RV. x. 11. 5 differs only by reading ukthyām at end of c. The construction and meaning of the second half-verse are difficult and obscure. The comm. explains ṣaṣa-mānas by ṣaṣan yajamānam praṣaṣan (similarly the comm. to RV.); and bhūribhis as "accompanied by many desires or else by many gods" (RV. comm. only the latter).

23. Send thou up the (two) fathers, [as] a lover, unto enjoyment (bhāga). The welcome one (haryatā) desires to sacrifice; he sends from the heart; the bearer (vāhni) speaks out; the merry one (? makhā) does a good work; the Asura shows might (taviṣy); he trembles with purpose (? matī).

The verse is RV. x. 11. 6, without variant. It is extremely obscure, and the general sense, as well as the meaning of several words, is in a high degree doubtful; the translation given is no more than mechanical. [Cf. Weber, p. 829.] The 'two fathers' (parents) are declared by the comm., probably rightly, to be heaven and earth; jāras is explained as ādityas, and ā as = iva. Or, alternatively, jāras is "praiser," coming from jarā "praise," and to ā is to be supplied kvayati. The iṣyati is made = icchatī; vahni is Agni; makkas is makkasādhanō mahhantyo vā; taviṣyate is vardhiṣyate. All this is of interest only as showing that no help is to be obtained from the native exegetes.

24. Whatever mortal hath seen thy favor, O Agni, son of power, he is renowned exceedingly; acquiring (dhā) food (iṣ), borne by horses, he, lightful, vigorous, passes (? ā-bhūṣ) the days (dīv).

RV. x. 11. 7 reads in a ākṣat, of which our ākhyat is doubtless only a corruption. Our Bp. and one of SPP's authorities have akṣat. The comm. renders ā bhūṣati by abhavati; [he adds alternatively: bhūṣati = bubhūṣati, dyumān . . . bhavitum icchatī]. In b he reads abhī instead of ati.

25. Hear us, O Agni, in thy seat, thy station; harness the speedy chariot of the immortal (amṛta); bring to us the two firmaments (rōdasī), parents of the gods; be thou of the gods never (mākis) away; mayest thou be here.

The verse is RV. x. 11. 9 (and 12. 9), without variant. The comm. comfortably supplies saṃghe in d to govern the genitive devānām. Then, as alternative explanation, he understands bhūṣ and syās as third persons, and mākis as "no one."

26. That, O Agni, this meeting may take place (bhū), divine, among the gods, worshipful, thou reverend one, and that thou mayest share out treasures, O self-ruling one, do thou enjoy here our portion filled with good things.

The verse is, without variant, RV. x. 11. 8 (also found in MS. iv. 14. 15).

27. Agni hath looked after the apex of the dawns, after the days, [he] first, Jātavedas; a sun, after the dawns, after the rays; after heaven-and-earth he entered.

28. Agni hath looked forth to meet the apex of the dawns, to meet the days, [he] first, Jātavedas, and to meet the rays of the sun in many places; to meet heaven-and-earth he stretched out.

These two verses we had above as vii. 82. 4, 5. They are here again written out in full by two of our mss. (O.R.). [Cf. my introduction, above, p. 815.]

29. Heaven and earth, first by right, truth-speaking, are within hearing, when the god, making mortals to sacrifice, sits as hōtṛ, going to meet his own being (dsu).

The verse is RV. x. 12. 1, without variant. Some of our mss. (Bp.Bs.Op.) read abhisrāve in b. The comm. explains the word by stotuh ṣṛavanayogyē.

30. A god, encompassing the gods with right, carry thou first our offering, understanding [it]; smoke-bannered by the fuel, light-beaming, a pleasant, constant hōtṛ, skilled sacrificer with speech.

The verse is RV. x. 12. 2, without variant. The majority of SPP's mss., with one of ours (Op.), read bhāṛyeko in c. Neither our Anukr. nor that of the RV. notes the deficiency of a syllable in a.

31. I praise (arc) your (du.) work unto increase, ye ghee-surfaced ones; O heaven-and-earth, hear me, ye two firmaments (rōdasī); when days, O gods, went to the other life (dsunīti), let the two parents (pītarā) sharpen us here with honey.

The rendering is only mechanical, the obscurity of the verse being unresolved. It is RV. x. 12. 4, which, however, reads for c dhā yād dyāvō 'sunitim āyan. Our mss. and the authorities of SPP. vary in c between devās, dēvās, and devās; SPP. reads devās, with [at least] two of his; our dēvās is not defensible; the translation implies devās. The comm. makes the word the subject of āyan, taking dhā (p. dhā) as for ahaṣu; he explains devās by stotāras or ṛtvijas. Our Bp. is the only pāda-ms. that reads (with the RV. pāda) āpaḥ in a; the others have āpaḥ; but, as the comm. gives the former, SPP. adopts it in his text. A majority of SPP's mss. accent ghṛtāsnū, but only one of ours (O.) does so.

32. If the god's immortality (amīta) is easy to appropriate for the cow, thence those who are born maintain themselves on the broad [earth]; all the gods go after that sacrificial formula of thine, when the hind yields (duh) the ghee, heavenly liquor (vār).

The verse is RV. x. 12. 3, without variant. It is all extremely obscure, especially the first pāda, which admits of being rendered in half-a-dozen different ways; the translation given is purely tentative. The comm. gives little help. The pāda-text does not divide or otherwise change svāṇṛk, which indicates that its makers did not see in the word the formation su-ā-ṛj, which is plausibly seen in it by western scholars and by our comm. The latter takes urvā (p. urvā tti) as dual, but in the Prāt. it is quoted by the comment (to i. 74) as example of a locative in ī, which it doubtless is. Our comm. derives yējus first from root yuj and makes it = karman; devās is again, as above (vs. 31), stotāras, ṛtvijas. [With the expression divyān vāh, applied to ghee, compare the expression at x. 4. 3, vār ugrām, applied to snake-venom, which may well be called a 'terrible fluid': but see note to x. 4. 3.]

33. Why forsooth hath the king seized (grah) us? what have we done in transgression of (dti) his ordinance (vratā)? who discerns [it]? for even Mitra, swerving the gods, like a song of praise (glōka), is the might also of them that go.

The verse is RV. x. 12. 5, without variant. The second half-verse, especially the last pāda, is bafflingly obscure. The accent of dsti, as well as the absence of other construction for mitrás, strongly indicates that the whole of the second half-verse forms one sentence; in which case vājas is perhaps most probably a corruption. The comm. understands rājā in a as Yama, and jagrhe as signifying his "acceptance" of offerings — which is very ill guessed; doubtless it is Varuṇa (so Ludwig; the RV. comm. makes it Agni). He then renders juhurānds most absurdly by āhvayan, [saying that "the root hvr 'crook' is here used in the sense of root hū 'call'"]. He reads in ḍ (as do some of the mss., including our O.Op.R.) yātān, as accus. of the pple yāta, qualifying devān understood, rendering devān abhigacchato no 'smān rakṣitum! and so on. The version of the line given above is of course mechanical only.

34. Hard to reverence (? durmāntu) here is the name of the immortal, that she of like sign should become of diverse form; whoso shall reverence Yama with proper reverence (? sumāntu), him, O Agni, exalted one, do thou protect, unremitting.

This verse is found also as RV. x. 12. 6, without variant, but the RV. comm. passes it without notice, as if recognizing it as not genuine. It is very strange to find repeated here as b vs. 2 b, above, as the connection this time does not explain the feminine words in it. The comm. first explains (like Grassmann) the pāda as quoted from the other verse; but goes on to add other interpretations. He defines durmāntu by durmananāni durvacam.

35. In whom the gods revel at the council, maintain themselves in Vivasvant's seat—they placed light in the sun, rays in the moon: the two, unfailing, wait upon (pari-car) the brightness (dyotantī).

The verse is x. 12. 7, without variant. The comm. separates yāsmīn from vidātī, supplying agnāu for the former to qualify (the RV. comm. does the same); perhaps rather manmani is to be inferred from the following verse. [W. suggests by a note to his ms. as an alternative for a, 'In what council the gods revel.'] Our comm. also explains, in ḍ, dyotantīm by dyotamānam agnim, and it reads ajasram, understanding it adverbially; aktūn in c is either raçmin or rātris. [This vs. and the next are discussed by Foy, KZ. xxxiv. 228.]

36. In what secret (apīcyā) devotion (mānman) the gods go about (sam-car)—we know it not; may Mitra, may Aditi, may god Savitar declare us here guiltless to Varuṇa.

The verse is RV. x. 12. 8, without variant. Our comm. explains mānmani by mantavye sthāne varuṇākhye.

37. O companions, we would supplicate (āçās) worship (brāhman) for Indra, possessor of the thunderbolt, to praise, indeed, the most manly, the daring.

The verse is RV. viii. 24. 1 (also SV. i. 390), which reads in a çiçāmahi (SV. -he), and inserts in c vas after ū śū, as required by the meter. The comm's text (but not his exposition) also has the vas. Our Anukr. takes no notice of the lack of a syllable in the pāda. The comm. explains ā çīçāmahe by āçāmahe, and supplies kartum; he renders stusē by either stāumī or stotum. The particles ū śū are included in the prescriptions of Prāt. ii. 97; iii. 4; iv. 98. [Weber, Sb. 1895, p. 189 n., can assign no reason why vss. 37–38 should appear here.]

38. For thou art famed for might (çāvas), for Vṛitra-slaying, a Vṛitra-slayer; thou out-bestowest the bounteous with thy bounties, O hero.

The verse is RV. viii. 24. 2, and without variant, if, with SPP., we read çrutās at end of a. Our text has çritās, with a part of the mss.; they vary between çrutās (our O.Op.D.R., and half of SPP's; also the comm.), çritās (our P.M.T., and two of SPP's), and çritās (our Bp.Bs.E.I.K.Kp., and three or four of SPP's authorities) — which last is doubtless only a careless variant of çritās. The translation given above implies çrutās. The comm. perhaps reads in b vrtrahatyē 'va.

39. Thou goest over the earth as a stegā over the ground; let winds blow here on the great earth (bhūmī) for us; Mitra for us there (ātra), Varuṇa, being joined, hath let loose heat (çōka), as fire does in the forest.

RV. x. 31. 9 corresponds, but has very considerable differences of reading: in a, eti pṛthivīm; for b, mīham nā vāto vi ha vāti bhūma; in c, yātra (for no ātra) and ajyā-mānas (for yuj); in d, gnr v-. Part of the AV. mss. also have gnr v- (our O.R., and nearly half of SPP's), which accordingly might well be adopted in the text; but SPP., like our edition, reads agnr v-. One or two of our mss. (Op.R.s.m.) read in d asṛṣṭa (vyās-), and so do a minority of SPP's; and the latter gives in his samhita-text vyāsṛṣṭa, but (apparently by an oversight) in his pada-text vi. asṛṣṭa; one sees no reason at all for the accentuation of the verb [in the AV. text, with its ātra].* Our text is plainly an unintelligent corruption of an unintelligible verse. The RV. comm. guesses raçmisaniḡhāty ādityaḥ to be the meaning of the [very rare] stegā, but only on the ground of a worthless etymology. Our comm. is defective here, but the lacuna is filled up by the editor, who makes it signify "a frog"! [a meaning possibly suggested by the passage at TS. v. 7. 11 (which is parallel to VS. xxv. 1)]. Ludwig conjectures "a plowshare" [and Weber follows him]. Our pada-text reads in b māh tti, and the case is quoted under Prāt. i. 74 as that of a locative in tī; our comm. renders it [alternatively] by mahatīm; he also renders vyāsṛṣṭa by nāçayatu! The ñ of pṛthi-vīm is [almost or quite illegible] in our text. The Anukr. takes no notice of the metrical irregularities of the verse (10 + 11 : 12 + 11 = 44).

*[The RV. reads vy āsṛṣṭa, and has the difficult pada-reading vi. āsṛṣṭa: here the RV's accentuation of āsṛṣṭa is accounted for by the RV's yātra; and the accent of vi is to be put with the remarkable cases (some thirty) mentioned by W., Gram. § 1084 a, whether we regard it as a blunder helped by the wavering tradition as to ātra, yātra, or not. (Cf. what is said about "blend-readings" under xiv. 2. 18 and, just below, under xviii. 1. 42.) Whitney's Bp. follows the RV. in giving vi. āsṛṣṭa and his Bs. has vyāsṛṣṭa: cf. the vi. ādadhus of xix. 6. 5 a.]

40. Praise thou the famed sitter on the hollow of men (jāna), the terrible king, formidable assailant (? upahatnū); being praised, O Rudra, be gracious to the singer; let thine army (? sénya) lay low (nī-vap) another than us.

The verse corresponds to RV. ii. 33. 11 (also found in TS. iv. 5. 103, without variant from RV.), which reads in a-b sādam yivānam mṛgām nā bh-, and, for d, nyām te asmān nī vapantu sēnāḥ. The substitution in our text of sényam for sēnās at the end throws into confusion sense and construction. The comm. first takes it as = senās, and then as accus. qualifying anyām and signifying tava senārham, in the latter case supplying senās as subject of the verb. Gartasādam he takes first in the Nirukta sense of çmaçñasamçaya, and then in its "ordinary" (prasiddha) meaning, adding tasyā ranye samçārād gartasadanam yujyate. The Kāuç. (85. 19) uses the verse in connection with the digging of a hollow (garta) in the middle of the measured space at the piṇḍapitryajña, and the scattering into it of a number of heterogeneous substances.

Our comm., by some rare and strange oversight, makes no mention of this vinīyoga, and so does not take it into account in the explanation of the verse. Apparently it is only the occurrence of gargasā in the verse that suggests the use; of real applicability to the situation there is none.

41. On Sarasvatī do the pious call; on Sarasvatī, while the sacrifice is being extended; on Sarasvatī do the well-doers call: may Sarasvatī give what is desirable to the worshiper (dācāvāns).

RV. x. 17. 7 is the same verse, but makes better meter by having ahvayanta for havante in c; and the comm. agrees with it. Verses 41-43, with others to Sarasvatī (vii. 68. 1-2; also xviii. 3. 25), are used by Kāuṣ. (81. 39) in the pitr-medha ceremony, accompanying offerings to Sarasvatī. [And they recur below, as noted under vs. 43.] The Anukr. takes no notice of the deficiency of a syllable in 41 c, and 42 a, nor of the excess of two syllables in 43 a.

42. On Sarasvatī do the Fathers call, arriving at the sacrifice on the south; sitting on this barhīs do ye revel; assign thou to us food (iśas) free from disease.

Here again the RV. version (x. 17. 9 a, b, 8 c, d) makes the meter good by inserting [or rather (cf. vs. 59), by not omitting] yām in a before pitrās (and hence accenting hāvante *); it also accents dakṣiṇā in b, as other texts do; two of our mss. (O.s.m.Op.) do the same, with the majority of SPP's, whence the latter adopts dakṣiṇā in his edition; it is undoubtedly the correct reading [as is explicitly stated also by the comm. to xix. 13. 9, page 325²¹]. RV. also avoids the change of subject in the second line by reading mādayasva in c. * [It is interesting to note that SPP's CP accents hāvante, as if the missing yām were not missing: cf. my note about "blend-readings" under xiv. 2. 18, and the end of my note under xviii. 1. 39; also note to 4. 57.]

43. O Sarasvatī, that wentest in company (sarātham) with the songs (ukthā), with the svadhās, O goddess, reveling with the Fathers, assign thou to the sacrificer here a portion of refreshment (iḍ) of thousandfold value, abundance of wealth.

Here, once more, the AV. disturbs the meter by the intrusion into a of ukthāts, which is wanting in the RV. version (x. 17. 8 a, b, 9 c, d). [RV. reads yājamāneṣu in d.] The three Sarasvatī verses are repeated below as xviii. 4. 45-47. The comm. gives annasya as equivalent of iḍās.

44. Let the lower, let the higher, let the midmost Fathers, the soma-drinking (? somyā), go up; they who went to life (āsu), unharmed (avrkā), right-knowing — let those Fathers aid us at our calls.

The verse is found, without variant, as RV. x. 15. 1, VS. xix. 49, and in TS. ii. 6. 123, MS. iv. 10. 6. It is used twice by Kāuṣ. in the funeral book: once (80. 43) at the piling of the funeral pile, and once (87. 14), in the piṇḍapitryajña, at the digging of a pit for receiving certain offerings. Verses 44-46 appear together (87. 29) in the latter ceremony with the bringing in of certain water-pots [i.e. the pouring in (of their contents)?]. In Vāit. (30. 14), vss. 44 and 45, with 51, and 3. 44, 45, are prescribed to be repeated after the pouring of surā into a perforated vessel, in the sāutrāmaṇi ceremony; and again, vss. 44-46 accompany (37. 23) the binding of a victim to the sacrificial post in the puruṣamedha.

45. I have won hither (ā-vid) the beneficent Fathers, both the grand-son and the wide-striding of Viṣṇu; they who, sitting on the barhīs, partake of the pressed drink with svadhā — they come especially hither.

The verse is, without variant, RV. x. 15. 3, VS. xix. 56, and found in TS. ii. 6. 123 and MS. iv. 10. 6 (MS. puts yé after svadhāya in c). Our comm. is uncertain from which root vid to make avitsi, and casts no light on the obscure second pāda; he renders āgamishthās either by āgamaya or āgacchantu. The abbreviated form barhiśddas (p. barhiśddah) is one of those quoted by the Prāt. comment as aimed at by rules ii. 59; iv. 100. For the use of the verse by Kāuṣ. and Vāit., see under vs. 44.

46. Be this homage today to the Fathers, who went first, who went after, who are seated in the space (rājas) of earth, or who are now in regions (dīṭ) having good abodes (suvarjana).

The verse is RV. x. 15. 2, which, however, reads in b āparāsas, and in d vikṣū; and with it in both respects read the corresponding verses in TS. ii. 6. 124 and MS. iv. 10. 6; also VS. xix. 68 (but this, with our E., has nāmo 'stu in a). Ppp. also gives the verse in book ii., reading in b ye parāsaḥ pareyuḥ, and in d suvarjināsu vikṣu. Some of our mss. (P.M.I.R.T.), and one of SPP's, agree with RV. in reading āparāsas; the comm. divides u parāsas; and our E. has vikṣū, while P.M. give divikṣū, and I. prikṣū. For the use of the verse in Kāuṣ. and Vāit. with vss. 44–45, see under 44; it also (or else, more probably, 4. 51 : see under that verse) is prescribed alone (80. 51) to accompany the scattering of darbha-grass in preparing the funeral pile.

47. Mātali with the kavyās, Yama with the Aṅgirasas, Brihaspati increasing with the ṛkvaṇs ('praisers'); both they whom the gods increased and who [increased] the gods — let those Fathers aid us at our calls.

RV. x. 14. 3 has the first three pādas, but, instead of repeating our 44 d, reads for the fourth svāhā 'nyé svadhāya 'nyé madanti; and TS. (ii. 6. 125) and MS. (iv. 14. 16) agree with it in so doing.

48. Sweet verily is this [sóma], and full of honey is this; strong (tīvrā) verily is this, and full of sap is this; and no one soever overpowers in conflicts (āhavā) Indra, having now drunk of it.

The verse is RV. vi. 47. 1, without real variant; its applicability in the funeral book is not apparent, and neither Kāuṣ. nor Vāit. uses it. Part of our mss. (O.R.K.), with nearly all SPP's, combine at the beginning svādūḥ k-, which RV. also has; and SPP., with good reason, adopts this in his text.

49. Him that went away to the advances called great, spying out the road for many, Vivasvant's son, gatherer of people, king Yama, honor (sapary) ye with oblation.

The verse is RV. x. 14. 1, which, however, reads ānu for tti at end of a, and duvasya for saparyata in d. A verse in MS. iv. 14. 16 has the RV. version throughout. TA. (in vi. 1. 1) gives at the end the genuine variant duvasyata, but also in a and b the incredible blunders pare yuvāṇsam and anapaspaçāṇām; [so even the Poona ed., p. 405]. With the first half-verse is to be compared our vi. 28. 3 a, b. The tti of our version, at end of a, seems a worthless corruption (SPP. thinks it certainly "a mistake for āti"; but that is not very plausible, though our I., doubtless by an accidental slip, has āti, and P.M. have ata); the comm. reads anu, with the other texts. [With this vs. and the next, cf. 3. 13 below: the second half of 3. 13 is identical with the second half of this vs.] In Kāuṣ. (81. 34), recital of the verse accompanies offerings to Yama at the lighting of the funeral pile. Metrically, it is svarāj (12 + 11 : 11 + 12 = 46) rather than bhurij.

[Caland, Todtengebräuche, p. 65, observes that "Kāuṣ. 81. 34-36 [meaning 34-37] form one single whole." They indicate the eleven verses (translated by C., p. 64) that are to be used to accompany the eleven oblations to Yama (yāmān homān), offered in the pitṛmedha, after the lighting of the fire. The vs. are: xviii. 1. 49, 50, for the first two oblations; xviii. 1. 58, 59, 60, 61 (the last vs. of the hymn) and xviii. 2. 1, 2, 3, for the next seven; and xviii. 3. 13 and 2. 49, for the last two: in all, eleven, ity ekādaśa. Whereupon follow the oblations to Sarasvatī.—It should be noted that the group 1. 58 to 2. 3 (Kāuṣ.: iti saṁhitāḥ sapta) disregards the existing division of the book into anuvāka-hymns.]

50. Yama first found for us a track (gātī); that is not a pasture to be borne away; where our former Fathers went forth, there (end) [go] those born [of them], along their own roads.

The corresponding RV. verse (x. 14. 2) reads pareyās at end of c, and MS. (in iv. 14. 16) agrees with it. The comm. has yena instead of enā in d. The verse (with vs. 51?) is used by Kāuṣ. (81. 35) next after the preceding one, in the same ceremony.

51. Ye barhis-seated Fathers, hitherward with aid! these offerings have we made for you; enjoy [them]! do ye come with most wealful aid; then assign to us weal [and] profit, free from evil.

The corresponding RV. verse (x. 15. 4) has āthā at beginning of d. VS. (xix. 55) agrees throughout with RV.; TS. (in ii. 6. 12^a) spoils the meter of d by changing nas to asmābhyam; MS. (in iv. 10. 6) has at the end dadhātana; [so has W's Op.]. The comm. also reads atha. The verse is used by Kāuṣ. (87. 27), along with 3. 44-46 and 4. 68, to accompany the untying and strewing of the barhis in the piṇḍapitṛyajña. In Vāit. 30. 14, it appears with 1. 44, 45 etc. (see under 1. 44); and again (9. 8), in the cāturmāsya sacrifice, accompanying (with 3. 44, 45 and 4. 71) a libation to Soma and the Fathers.

52. Bending the knee, sitting down on the right, let all assent to (abhi-gr) this libation of ours; injure us not, O Fathers, by reason of any offense (āgas) which we may do to you through humanity.

That is, through human frailty. The corresponding RV. verse (x. 15. 6) reads for b imām yajñam abhi grṇāta vṛque; and VS. (xix. 62) agrees with RV.; the comm., too, so far as to have grṇāta. In Kāuṣ. (83. 28), the verse accompanies the arranging of the bone relics of the deceased at their place of burial (repeated, with two other verses, in the piṇḍapitṛyajña, 87. 28). The Anukr. takes no notice of the redundant syllable in b.

53. Tvasṭar makes a wedding-car for his daughter; by reason of this, all this creation comes together; the mother of Yama, wife of great Vivasvant, being drawn about, disappeared.

The corresponding RV. verse (x. 17. 1) has iti for tēna at beginning of b; and the comm. also reads iti. With the first half-verse compare iii. 31. 5 a, b, which is a sort of travesty of it. The second verse of the curious and obscure and much discussed (see Bloomfield in JAOS. xv. 172 ff.) bit of legend is found below, as 2. 33, as much out of all connection with its surroundings as this one here. Neither of the two is used by Kāuṣ. or Vāit. The comm. quotes a passage of eight verses from the Bṛhaddevatā in explanation of the legend.

54. Go thou forth, go forth by roads that go to the stronghold (pūr-yāna), as (yēnā) thy Fathers of old went forth; both kings, reveling with svadhā, shalt thou see, Yama and god Varuṇa.

Or svadhāyā may be 'at their pleasure' or 'according to their wont.' The corresponding RV. verse (x. 14. 7) has in a-b pathibhiḥ pūrvyēbhir yātrā naḥ pūrve pītaraḥ pareyūḥ, and, in c, rājānā and mādanā; and MS. (in iv. 14. 16) agrees with it except in reading, with our text, pāretās [in b, and in having pūrvēbhis in a]. Our comm. reads rājānā in c. Prāt. iii. 83 prescribes the u in pūrvyānāis (p. pūrvyānāih); the comm. absurdly explains the word as = pumāṇiso yena . . . yānti! for the pūr, compare x. 2. 28 ff.; xix. 17 and 19. The Anukr. takes no notice of the metrical irregularity in the verse. [It is due to the displacement of pūrvēbhis by pūrvyānāis: the secondary character of the latter (occurring elsewhere only at 4. 63 below) is palpable in more ways than one.] Kāuṣ. does not quote the verse; but our comm. declares it to accompany the laying of the dead body on the cart (for transportation to the funeral pile).

55. Go ye away, go asunder, and creep apart from here; for this man the Fathers have made this world; adorned with days, with waters, with rays (aktū), a rest (avasāna) Yama gives to him.

The verse is RV. x. 14. 9, without variant; and TA. (in i. 27. 5; vi. 6. 1) has the first, third, and fourth pādas; while VS. (xii. 45) and TS. (in iv. 2. 4¹), TB. (i. 2. 1¹⁶), and MS. (ii. 7. 11), have only the first (agreeing with TA. in the second). TA., however, reads dadātṽ av- in ḍ, and that is found also in our P.M.I. The comm. has for b the pāda of the other texts: ye 'tra siha purāṇā ye ca nūtanāḥ. [My discussion of the verse in Skt. Reader, p. 378, may be consulted.] The verse, with 2. 37, accompanies in Kāuṣ. (80. 42) the sprinkling of the place of cremation with holy water; in Vāit. (28. 24), the sweeping of the site for the householder's fire, in the agnicayana ceremony. [Weber, Sb. 1895, p. 839, takes the verse as a call, addressed to all creatures (whether animals or demons) that may infest the resting-place of the dead man, to quit the same (averruncatio).]

[Böhtlingk, in his paper Ueber eśha lokah, discusses this verse at Ber. der sächsischen Gesell. for 1893, xlv. 131. — He would read vīta, not vīta, referring to Whitney's Grammar 2 § 128, and suggesting that divḍva is perhaps the only example for the circumflex; but I have noted vīndra, RV. x. 32. 2, vīva, vii. 55. 2, vīta, AV. iii. 11. 2, and bhīndhidāni, vii. 18. 1, and suspect that Whitney has collected all the prāṣṭiṣṭa svaritas from AV. (nearly a score) in his note to the Prāt. iii. 56.]

56. Eager (uṣānt) would we light thee, eager would we kindle; do thou, eager, bring the eager Fathers to eat the oblation.

The corresponding verse in RV. (x. 16. 12; also VS. xix. 70) has nī dhīmahi for idh- in a; TS. (in ii. 6. 12¹) and MS. (in i. 10. 18) read instead havāmahe, and with these our comm. agrees. Used in Kāuṣ. (87. 19: the comm. says, with vs. 57 also) to accompany, in the piṇḍapitrayajña, the lighting of two pieces of wood. [The next vs. is a variation of this.]

57. Lightful (dyumánt) would we light thee, lightful would we kindle; do thou, lightful, bring the lightful Fathers to eat the oblation.

More than half the mss. (including all ours except O.Op.T.K. [which have dyumatá, p. dyumatáḥ]) read dyumantás in c, which we accordingly adopted in our text, though the form is of course ungrammatical; SPP. reads correctly dyumatás. [Cf. my Noun-Inflection, p. 521.] [This vs. is a mere variation of the preceding, with dyumánt-forms in place of uḍánt-forms. Perhaps in this connection the fact is noteworthy that W's codex I. does not accent the vs. Here again the comm. reads havāmahe for idhīmahi.]

58. The Aṅgirasas, our nāvagva Fathers, the Atharvans, the Bhṛigus, soma-drinkers (somyá) — may we be in the favor of those worshipful ones, likewise in their excellent well-willing.

The verse is RV. x. 14. 6, also VS. xix. 50, and in TS. ii. 6. 12⁶, all without variant; the second half is met with further at AV. vi. 55. 3 [reading as here]; and in other verses of RV. and AV.: [namely, RV. iii. 1. 21; vi. 47. 13; x. 131. 7; AV. vii. 92. 1: but with tásya yajñtyasya instead of our plural]. It is used by Kāuṣ. (81. 36) in the cremation service [with vss. 59-61 and 2. 1-3: see note to vs. 49].

59. Come thou hither with the worshipful Aṅgirasas; revel here, O Yama, with the Vāirūpas — I call Vivasvant, who is thy father — sitting down upon this barhīs.

The verse is found as RV. x. 14. 5, and in TS. ii. 6. 12⁶ and MS. iv. 14. 16. All these rectify the meter by inserting [or rather (cf. vs. 42), by not omitting] yajñe after asmīn in d, and they have in a the equivalent reading āṅgīrobbhir ā gahi yajñtyebhīh. The AV. version is bṛhatt [possibly because one can count its d as 9 syllables: purā-bṛhatt does not seem to occur elsewhere and perhaps it is wrong].

60. Ascend thou, O Yama, this cushion (prastarā), in concord with the Aṅgiras Fathers; let the sacred utterances (mantra) made in praise by the poets bring thee; then (enā), O king, revel thou in the oblation.

This verse also is found as RV. x. 14. 4, and in TS. ii. 6. 12⁶ and MS. iv. 14. 16, all of which have sīda for rōha in a, and haviṣā for -śas in d. The comm., too, reads sīda. The only one of our mss. that accents rōha is Op., and our reading the word with an accent was an emendation; SPP. gives the same, on the authority of most of his mss. [The comm. calls hi an expletive.] Kāuṣ. 84. 2 uses the verse with an offering to Yama in the ceremony of interment of the bones; and the comment appears to quote the same rule under 45. 14, in the vaśācamana rite.

61. These ascended up from here; they ascended the backs of the sky (dītv); the Aṅgirasas have gone forth to heaven (dītv), like bhūrjīs, by the road.

The verse is found in SV. (i. 92), which combines in b dīvāḥ pr-, accents bhūrjāyas in c, and inserts ūd before dyām and leaves yayus unaccented in d. It also accents udāruhan in a, as does our edition; but the mss. decidedly favor ūd ā'ruhan (p. ūt : ā : aruhan), and SPP. rightly adopts this reading. The comm. reads etad instead of ete in a; it makes bhūrjāyas (p. bhūhōjāyah; SV. p. bhūh : jāyah, this pada-text dividing compound words without any hyphen or its equivalent between the parts) an epithet of the Aṅgirasas, rendering it by bharanavanto bhuvan jītavanto vā, and justifies the accent of jayās by treating yāthā as = yādṛṇena "by what road the bhūrjīs went" etc. SPP. accents bhūrjāyas on the authority of a single one of his mss.; all ours leave it without accent (in our text the accent-mark under its final syllable has become lost in printing); both Pet. Lexx. ignore the word entirely; its real meaning is wholly obscure, as it seems to have been to the makers of the pada-text; for their suggested etymology is plainly valueless. The verse is used by Kāuṣ. (80. 35), with 2. 48, 53; 3. 8, 9; 4. 44, in preparing for taking the body of the deceased person to the funeral pile; the six verses are called hariṇīs, and are repeatedly employed in other parts of the funeral and ancestral rites (82. 31; 83. 20, 23; 84. 13); also by Vāit. (37. 24), in a like connection.

[Here ends the first anuvāka, with 1 hymn and 61 verses. The quoted Anukr. says ekāṣaṣṭi ca.]

2. [Funeral verses.]

[Atharvan.—ṣaṣṭi. yamadevatyam mantroktabakudevatyam ca (4, 34. āgneyyāu; 5. jātavedasī; 29. pītryā), trāṣṭubham: 1-3, 6, 14-18, 20, 22, 23, 25, 30, 34, 36, 46, 48, 50-52, 56. anuṣṭubh; [4.] 7, 9, 13. jagatī; 5, 26, 49, 57. bhurij; 19. 3-p. ārṣi gāyatrī; 24. 3-p. saṁaviṣamā "rṣi gāyatrī"; 37. virāḍ jagatī; 38-44. ārṣi gāyatrī (40, 42-44. bhurij); 45. kakummaty anuṣṭubh.]

[Of the eight "measuring-verses," 38-45, the first (vs. 38) is a true gāyatrī; the next six (39-44) are mere repetitions of vs. 38, with an ūha in the first pāda which sometimes spoils the meter; and the last (vs. 45) agrees in its last two pādas with the rest, but has a prior half which is true prose.]

[Of this hymn, only vs. 13 a, b and vs. 17 are found in Pāipp., in books xix. and xx. respectively. The ritual uses by Vāit. are naturally very meagre: namely, we find vss. 19-20 used once, and that in the puruṣamedha. On the contrary, all but about 18 of the 60 vss. are cited by Kāuṣ. (see under the verses). Bloomfield's Index may be corrected on page 410 by the insertion of vss. 1-3 (see under vs. 1). Verses 1-3 and 49 constitute, with verses from hymns 1 and 3, parts of an important ritual sequence of 11 verses, as noted under 1. 49. And verses 4-18, the anuṣṭubhānti, constitute (with the exception of vs. 10) another such sequence.]

[The provenience of the material of this hymn.—Whereas nearly all of the preceding hymn (all but 4 or 5 out of 61 verses) is found also in the RV., of this hymn, on the other hand, but little more than a third part (hardly 25 vss. out of 60) is RV. material. As elsewhere noted, the hymn begins with 3 vss. which form part of a ritual sequence (of 11 vss.) continuous with the last verses of the preceding hymn.

Part I., verses 1-13.—These are two groups of verses from RV. x. 14 (to wit: our vss. 1-3, which sub-group we may call I. a, and which equals RV. x. 14. 13, 15, 14; and our vss. 11-13, which sub-group we may call I. b, and which equals RV. x. 14. 10, 11, 12), between which are interposed the first 5 vss. of RV. x. 16, our vss. 4-5 and 7-8 and 10, which sub-group we may call I. c.—Again, between the second and third verses of I. c (our vss. 5 and 7) is interposed the single verse, RV. x. 14. 16 (our 6); and between the fourth and fifth verses of I. c (our vss. 8 and 10) is interposed a single verse (our 9) which appears to be a parallel to our 8, but is not found in other texts to my knowledge, though its prior half resembles that of xiii. 1. 9.

Part II., verses 14-18. — The Yama-verses of RV. x. 154, in the order 1, 4, 2, 3, 5. The "measuring-verses," 38-45, form a sequence by themselves, and do not recur elsewhere, so far as I know. Compare Caland's Todtengbräuche, p. 145. For the rest, RV. verses occur only sporadically:

our 19	= RV. i. 22. 15	our 54	= RV. x. 17. 3
our 33	= RV. x. 17. 2	our 55	= RV. x. 17. 4
{ our 35 ab	= RV. x. 15. 14 ab	our 58	= RV. x. 16. 7
{ our 35 cd	= RV. x. 15. 13 cd	our 59 cd	= RV. x. 18. 9 cd }
our 50 cd	= RV. x. 18. 11 cd	our 60 ab	= RV. x. 18. 9 ab }

It may be added that a considerable part of the material of the hymn is naturally found in the pitṛmedhahaprapāthaka (vi.) of the TA.: that is to say, all the RV. verses of Part I. or all of it save our vs. 9; and 3 verses of Part II., our 14, 17, 16 = RV. verses 1, 3, 2; and, besides, our vs. 25 and about 8 of the last 11 verses. Of the verses last mentioned, vs. 25 and vss. 56 and 57 seem to be peculiar to AV. and TA. — Finally, several fragments (9 ab, 26 ab, 49 ab) recur elsewhere in the AV.; and 33 is properly inseparable from 1. 53. — The TA. readings correspond more nearly with those of RV. than with those of AV. — Verse 51 is a variation of 50: compare the relation of 1. 57 and 56.]

Translated: by Weber, Sb. 1895, pages 842-866; Griffith, ii. 227; — verses 9 and 20-59, by Ludwig, pages 482-484 (for vss. 32-33, see p. 332); a considerable number also by Muir, v. 293-296, 304; and the RV. verses, of course, by the RV. translators. — For an analysis of the hymn with reference to its contents, see Weber, p. 843.

1. For Yama the soma purifies itself; for Yama is made the oblation; to Yama goes the sacrifice, messengered by Agni, made satisfactory.

The verse corresponds to RV. x. 14. 13, which, however, in a reads sōman sunuta, and in b juhūtā (for kriyate). TA. (vi. 5. 1) agrees with RV. in both points, but has gachatu in c. The comm. reads at the end alamkṛtas.

[Verses 1, 2, and 3 of this hymn are used (Kāuṣ. 81. 36) in one continuous sequence with the last four of the preceding hymn (iti samhitāḥ sapta!), to accompany the oblations to Yama in the cremation ceremony: for details, see my note to xviii. 1. 49.]

2. Offer ye to Yama what is most honeyed, and stand forth; this homage to the former-born, the former, the path-making seers.

This verse and the next correspond to RV. x. 14. 15 and 14, save that RV. makes our 2 b and 3 b change places* and they become respectively its 14 b and 15 b, the double inversion thus leaving our 2 b and 3 b in the same relative position in both texts. TA. (in vi. 5. 1) agrees throughout with RV., both in this verse and the next. Our 2 b agrees also with RV. i. 15. 9 b. But RV. in both places has, like TA., juhōta for our juhōtā.

*[The case is interesting as showing how easily the component elements of many of these verses may be shuffled about without detriment to what we may, out of politeness to the Rishis, call the "sequence of thought." The result of the transpositions is best shown by parallel columns, thus:

RV. x. 14. 14 ab.
yamāya ghṛtāvat dhavṛ
juhōtā prā ca tiṣṭhata.

RV. x. 14. 15 ab.
yamāya mādhumattaman
rājñe haviyān juhōtana.

AV. xviii. 2. 3 ab.
yamāya ghṛtāvat pāyo rājñe havṛ juhōtana.

AV. xviii. 2. 2 ab.
yamāya mādhumattaman
juhōtā prā ca tiṣṭhata.

Roth has beautifully illustrated the matter by shuffling together verses from Schiller's Riddles ("Von Perlen baut sich eine Brücke" and "Es steht ein gross geräumig Haus"): see ZDMG. xxxvii. 109. — Cf. notes to xviii. 2. 35; 3. 47.]

3. Unto Yama the king offer ye an oblation, milk rich in ghee; he furnishes (ā-yam) to us among the living a long life-time, for living on.

The verse is RV. x. 14. 14 (found also in TA. vi. 5. 1), except that b is 15 b: [see note to the preceding verse]. [TA. agrees with RV.] For pāyas in a, RV. reads haviṣ; for haviṣ in b, havyām; and in c, d, it has devēṣv ā yamad dir-. SPP. reads in c-d yamed dir- [so also Caland, Todtengebräuche, note 243], which is certainly better than yame dir-: half his authorities give the former; but of our mss. only Op. has yamet, while D. has yamat, like RV. [TA. and the comm.] [The case is strikingly like that of mānaye tathā, mānayet tathā, at xv. 10. 2.] — The Prāt. (ii. 76) distinctly requires āyus prā to be read in d, but of our mss. only O.s.m. (in margin) gives it; nearly half of SPP's saṁhitā-mss., however, have it, and it ought to be received as the true AV. text, though both editions read āyuh. These three verses make no appearance in Kāuç. [This last statement now appears to be wrong: see note to vs. 1.]

[Considering the exaggerated nicety of the theory of the Hindus respecting consonant groups (cf. Whitney, AV. Prāt., p. 584-90), and in particular their doctrine of the varṇa-krama ("At the end of a word, a consonant is pronounced double," padānte vyañjanam dvīṣ, Prāt. iii. 26), it is strange that the mss. sometimes fail to come up even to the simple requirements of orthography as set by grammar and sense. On the other hand, it can hardly be said that the mss. in the cases of these shortcomings are a less truthful representation of the actual connected utterance of the text than would be for instance the graphical representation of the English some more by the words some ore. — I have thought it worth while to assemble a few notable cases where the one of two needed double letters is omitted. Thus besides yame[d] dīrgham and mānaye[t] tāthā, just mentioned, we have: at xviii. 3. 3, jīvām [m] ṛtībhyas (a most striking example: there is abundant ms. authority for the false ṛtībhyas, which is yet shown beyond all peradventure to be a blunder by the mṛtāya jīvām of TA.); at xviii. 4. 40, juṣantām | āsinām ūrjam ūpa ye śacante, shown to be a gross corruption by HGS., which reads juṣantām | māst 'mām ūrjam etc.; at xix. 31. 2, sā[m] mā sṛjatu puṣṭyā, where Ppp. has in fact sam mā, and where sām is supported by the parallelism of our vi. 5. 2; and, at xix. 7. 3, āriṣṭa[m] mūlam, where all authorities agree in omitting the -m. — On the other hand, a superfluous double is sometimes written. Thus we find: at xix. 42. 3, sumatīm [m] āvṛṇādh, where the pada-text reveals its modernity and lack of insight by reading unaccented mā and āvṛṇādh instead of āvṛṇādh; and at xix. 58. 4, pūrah kṛnudhvam [m] āyasiḥ. At xix. 46. 6, the ghṛtāḍ dūrluṣtas or ūrluṣtas of some authorities, instead of āḍ ūllup-, is a blunder of similar origin. Cf. sādanā[t] te, xviii. 3. 52, note. The well-known sām [m] ahema of RV. i. 94. 1, as taken by BR. at vii. 1609, i. 567, would belong in this category; but Grassmann manages to refer it to root māh.]

4. Do not, O Agni, burn him up; do not be hot upon (abhi-ṣuc) him; do not warp (kṣip) his skin, nor his body; when thou shalt make him done, O Jātavedas, then send him forward unto the Fathers.

This verse and the next are RV. x. 16. 1 and 2, but RV. makes our 4 c and 5 a change places (cf. note to our vs. 2). RV., however, reads ṣocas for ṣūcas in a, and at the end pitṛbhyas [as in our 5 b] for pitṛr ūpa. In d, SPP. reads, with RV., āthe "m enam, alleging for his reading three out of eight authorities, as against two or three that have imām. The comm. appears to read im. Of our mss., all save O.Op.R. give āthe "mām enam (and O. is corrected once to this, but the correction struck out again), as our edition reads; this is so bad a corruption that the authority for the other should be regarded as sufficient. TA. (in vi. 1.4) agrees with RV. except in having karāvas in its c [our 5 a]. The text of the comm. agrees with RV. and TA. in having pitṛbhyas for pitṛr ūpa, while the comm. quotes pitṛbhyas and then adds and explains ūpa [constructively a blend-reading]. Our Bp. appears to give in a çuṇucaḥ, as it [apparently] ought to do according to Prāt. iv. 86, though the example is not quoted in the comment on that rule; but the other pada-mss. [and SPP.] have çuṇucaḥ. The Anukr. is questionable in its reading as to the verse, whether triṣṭubh or jagati: the RV. version is pure triṣṭubh; the AV. one is mixed (12 + 11:11 + 12). Kāuṣ. (81. 33) prescribes this verse to be used, with 2. 36; 3. 71, and ii. 34. 5, when the youngest son lights the funeral pile, some of the schol. declaring vss. 4-7 to be intended instead [cf. the comm., page 86²⁰]; then, in 81. 44, vss. 4-9 and 11-18 are called anuṣṭubh, and are to be repeated by the anuṣṭubh during the cremation. [Root kṣip properly means 'warp' in its obsolete sense 'cast or throw.' If, as I think, W. is right in rendering the causative here by 'warp' = 'twist out of shape, contort,' the cases present an interesting semantic parallel. BR. render by 'platzen machen.' Different is the sense of ava-kṣip at 4. 12: see my note.]

5. When thou shalt make him done, O Jātavedas, then commit him to the Fathers; when he shall go to that other life (āsunīti), then shall he become a controller (? vaṇant) of the gods.

The verse is RV. x. 16. 2, but RV. makes our 5 a and 4 c change places: see note to vs. 4. RV. has yadā [for our yadō = yadā u] at beginning of c, and āthā at beginning of d. TA. (in vi. 1.4) agrees throughout with RV. save in accenting karāsi in a. Both, of course, read āthe "m enam in b; but this time the AV. mss. are as good as unanimous in the corruption of im to imām, and both the published texts are compelled to read it; the Anukr., too, seems to ratify it, by calling the verse bhurij; the comm. has instead idam, and one or two of SPP's authorities follow it. The comm. explains asunīti by asūn prāṇān nayati lokāntaram, and hence prāṇāpahartri devatā; and devānām by svakṛtyānām indriyāṇām; while vaṇant is (caḥsurādindriyāṇām) sūrya-didevatāprāpakāḥ! [Weber deems the idea of getting the gods under your control to be an indication of lateness or possibly of Buddhistic influence: Sb. 1895, p. 845, and 1897, p. 597.]

6. With the trikadrukas it purifies itself; six wide ones, verily one great one; triṣṭubh, gāyatrī, the meters: all those [are] set in Yama.

RV. x. 14. 16, the corresponding verse, has in a patati, and at the end āhitā; TA. (in vi. 5. 3) agrees with it, but transposes triṣṭubh and gāyatrī in c. The sense of the verse is wholly obscure. According to our comm., the trikadrukas are the jyotiṣṭoma, goṣṭoma, and āyusṭoma; the "six wide ones" (f.) are heaven and earth and day and night and waters and herbs; "the great one" (n.) is taken [alternatively] as applying to Yama (m.): mahāntam yamam uddiṣyāi 'va pravartante! The commentator's ignorance is as great as our own; only he has no mind to acknowledge it. [Hillebrandt cites passages akin with this, Ved. Mythol. i. 500.]

7. Go thou to the sun with thine eye, to the wind with thy soul (ātmān); go both to heaven and to earth with [their] due shares (dhārman); or go to the waters, if there it is acceptable (hitā) to thee; in the herbs stand firm with thy bodies.

In the corresponding RV. verse (x. 16. 3) is read in a cakṣur gachatu and ātmā; in b, dyām and dhārmanā; TA. (vi. 1. 4: cf. 9. 2) has the same, but also inserts te in a after sūryam, and accents gācha, Brāhmaṇa-wise, in b—as does also SPP. in his text, with a minority of his authorities (and our Op.): there is the same reason (but no authority) for gācha in a also, but none in c, where, nevertheless, our Op. and R.s.m. have gācha. The verse lacks a syllable of being a full jagati. [Cf. the note to this vs. in my Reader, p. 379.]

8. The goat is the share of the heat (tāpas); heat thou that; that let thine ardor (çocis) heat, that thy flame (arcis); what propitious bodies (tanū) are thine, O Jātavedas, with them carry him to the world of the well-doing.

The RV. version of this verse has (x. 16. 4) tāpasā in a; in this case, as seldom, the AV. reading is better. TA. (in vi. 1. 4) also gives tāpasā, and it ends differently: vahemām sukṛtām yātra lokāḥ; [and it reads ajō bhāgās, which is explained by its comm. as bhāgarahitāḥ]. The comm. also has tapasā. Kāu. (81. 29) directs the verse, with 2. 22 (some mss. say, with 2. 57), to be repeated while “binding a goat on the south,” the anustaraṇī (as which, nevertheless, the goat is here meant) having been already laid, as a cow, on the body to be burned. [But see Weber’s treatment of the vs., Sb. 1895, p. 847.]

9. What ardors (çocī), swiftresses (rānū) are thine, O Jātavedas, with which thou fillest the sky, the atmosphere, let them collect (sam-ṛ) after the goat as he goes; then with other most propitious ones make him propitious.

With the first half-verse is to be compared xiii. 1. 9 a, b. SPP. reads in d çṛtām for çivām, with the decided majority of his authorities; of our mss., only O.Op.R.K. have çṛtām. The comm. has çṛtam; and further, in b, prīṇāsi, rendering it by either pūrayasi or tarpayasi. He takes rañhdyas as an adj., = vegavatyas, which is not unacceptable. The verse is no proper jagati, either in movement or in number of syllables (12 + 12 : 11 + 14 = 49). [The comm. has çivatarābhiḥ in d.]

10. Release again, O Agni, to the Fathers him who goes (car) offered to thee, with svadhā; clothing himself in life (āyus), let him go unto [his] posterity (çṛṣas); let him be united with a body, very splendid.

The corresponding verse in RV. (x. 16. 5) reads at end of b svadhābhis, in c vetu for yātu, and at end jātavedaḥ (for svārcāḥ); TA. (in vi. 4. 2) also has svadhābhis and jātavedas, but in c gives śpa yātu çṛsam. [The last pāda, d, recurs, below at 3. 58.] The third pāda is of doubtful meaning, but perhaps relates to the return of the deceased, after due installation among the Manes, to receive the ancestral offerings. The comm. explains çṛsas [which he takes as çṛsa-s, masc.] simply as apatyanāman. [Kāu. 81. 44 excepts this verse from the sequence of 14 anusṛhānī verses (4–18): see under vs. 4.] In Kāu. (82. 28) the verse is used in the ceremonies of the third day after cremation, in connection with sprinkling and collecting the bones. The Anukr. takes no notice of the deficiency of a syllable in ḍ. [As to ṣeṣas, see my note on this vs., Reader, p. 379-380: W's interpretation seems to me much better than either of those there noted.]

11. Run thou past the two four-eyed, brindled dogs of Saramā, by a happy (sādhu) road; then go unto the beneficent Fathers, who revel in common revelry with Yama.

The corresponding verse in RV. is x. 14. 10. RV. puts sārameyāni before ṣvānāu: [and with this order (but not with that of AV.), the resolution to ṣvānāu is effective in giving a normal rhythm]. RV. reads in c dīhā for ādihā, and ūpa for āpi; TA. (in vi. 3. 1) has āpi 'hi, but agrees otherwise with RV. The comm. gives instead ape 'hi; and it explains this difficult reading by either taking apa as used in the sense of upa, or else understanding it to mean "go away [from the dogs]"! The Anukr. pays no attention to the redundant syllable in b, [unless it assumes a deficiency in a to balance it]. The verse (according to the comm., vss. 11-13) is used (Kāuṣ. 81. 22) when the two kidneys of the accompanying sacrificed animal are (by way of a "sop to Cerberus") put into the hands of the dead man on the funeral pile. Then verses 11-18 are (Kāuṣ. 80. 35) mentioned and used with the haripūṣ (see under 1. 61); and by the schol. [see note to Kāuṣ. 82. 31] and the comm. they are reckoned themselves as haripūṣ. The comm. further prescribes them as accompanying the transfer of the dead body to the place of cremation.

12. What two defending dogs thou hast, O Yama, four-eyed, sitting by the road, men-watching, with them, O king, do thou surround him; assign to him well-being and freedom from disease.

The verse is RV. x. 14. 11, which in b reads pathirākṣi nṛcākṣasāu, and for c tābhyaṃ enam pāri dehi rājan (our dhehi is a corruption), and in d inserts ca after svastī. TA. (in vi. 3. 1) agrees with RV. except in having -cākṣasā, and in placing rājan and enam in c as does AV. The comm. makes a compound of yamarākṣitārāu in a; and it declares pāri dhehi in c to = paridehi.

13. Broad-nosed, feeding on lives (?asutīp), copper-colored, Yama's two messengers go about after men (jāna); let them give us back here today excellent life (āsu), to see the sun.

The corresponding verse in RV. (x. 14. 12) differs only by combining in a -tīpā ud- (p. -tīpāu : ud-). TA. has the verse in vi. 3. 2: it reads in a -pāv ulumbalāt [which seems to answer phonetically to a form beginning uḍum- and is glossed by prabhūta-balayuktāu, as if *ulum were = urum-?]; in b, instead of jānān, it reads 'vācān [i.e. avācān : glossed by asvādhitān prāṇinān]; and in d, for dātām, it has dattāv [accentless, and glossed by prayacchatām!]. Ppp. has the first half-verse, in book xix., reading udumbarāu and caratāu. * [For the confusion between the sounds of ḍ and l and d and l, see Kuhn's Pāli-gram, p. 37, and cf. below, at 3. 1, -pālāyanti, -pād-.]

14. Soma purifies itself for some; some wait upon (upa-ās) ghee; for whom honey runs forward (?), unto them do thou go.

The 'go' in these verses is gacchatāt, imperative of remoter or after action. The translation implies restoration in c of the RV. (x. 154. 1) reading pradhāvati, of which our pradhāv (p. pradhāu) adhi seems only a blundering and unintelligible corruption. Some of our mss. (and one of SPP's) accent pradhāvadhi. The comm. agrees with RV., and SPP. is not to be blamed for adopting, though against all the authorities save the comm., pradhāvati in his text. TA. (which has our vss. 14, 17, and 16 following immediately after our 11-13, little as the two sets appear to have to do with each other) reads (in vi. 3. 2) with RV. [See p. xcii.]

15. They who of old were won by right, born of right, increasers of right—to the seers rich in fervor (tāpas-), born of fervor, O Yama, do thou go.

The corresponding RV. verse (x. 154. 4) reads in a, b pūrva ṛtasāpa ṛtāvānaḥ, in c piṣṭi, in d tāṅ cid evā (as in our vss. 14, 16, 17). The comm. explains yama here to mean yamavan niyata, or yamena niyamāna preta, which is probably not far from correct; it is the deceased person who is addressed.

16. They who by fervor are unassailable, who by fervor have gone to heaven (svār), who made fervor their greatness, unto them do thou go.

The corresponding RV. verse (x. 154. 2) has no variant; in TA. (vi. 3. 2), however, we find gatās for yayūs in b, and mahāt for māhas in c: this latter reading the comm. appears to have in mind when he explains mahas as signifying mahat.

17. They who fight in the contests (pradhāna), who are self-sacrificing (tanūtyaj) heroes, or who give thousand-fold sacrificial gifts; unto them do thou go.

The corresponding RV. verse (x. 154. 3) has no variant; TA. (in vi. 3. 2) has tanuty- in b. Ppp. has the verse, in book xx., and reads for c, tās tvam sahasradakṣiṇāḥ, and in d gachātām.

18. Poets (kavi) of a thousand lays (-nīthā), who guard the sun—to the seers rich in fervor, born of fervor, O Yama, do thou go.

The verse is RV. x. 154. 5, without variant. The comm. adds this time to its explanation of yama (cf. under vs. 15) niyata cakate baddha vā.

19. Be pleasant to him, O earth, a thornless resting-place; furnish him broad refuge.

RV. has a corresponding verse (i. 22. 15), but reads for a syonā prthivi bhava; and in c it reads nas for asmāi, and sapradhas for -thās [see my Noun-Inflection, p. 560]; VS. (xxxv. 21) has nearly the same, but inserts nas after prthivi, and ends with -thās, like our text; MB. (ii. 2. 7) agrees with VS. except in having -thās, like RV.; it also adds a fourth pāda. [MP. ii. 15. 2 agrees with RV. save that it combines naç çarma and ends with -thās. Cf. the pratika in MGS. i. 10. 5, and the Index, p. 158.] The comm. explains anṛkṣarā by anādhikā. In Kāuṣ. (80. 3) this verse (according to the comm., vss. 19-21) is to be used when the man threatened with death is laid on the floor on darbha-grass; and again (80. 38), when the dead body is taken down from the cart at the funeral pile; and once more (82. 33), when the jar containing the bones is deposited in (or on) the earth. In Vāit. 37. 25, vss. 19 and 20 accompany the knocking-down of the animal-victim in the puruṣamedha sacrifice.

20. In the unoppressive wide space (lokā) of earth be thou deposited; what svadhās thou didst make when living, be they dripping with honey for thee.

Most of the pada-texts (except our Op. and one of SPP's) read svadhā instead of svadhāḥ in c. [SPP. gives as pada-reading svadhāḥ, and so the comm. interprets.] At end of c, the authorities are bothered by a confusion of jīvan and jīvam. The pada-mss. read jīvan (two of SPP's [P. and P.², which are unaccented in this book] have jīvan): the samhitā-mss. have either jīvaṁs t- (most of our mss.), or else jīvaṁ t- (our O. and most of SPP's authorities), or else jīvaṁ t- (one or two of SPP's). SPP. reads in his text jīvan t-, and says "the emendation is mine," not noticing that we had made it (the necessity of it being perfectly obvious) before him. The comm., too, has jīvan. The comm., with four or two of SPP's mss., makes the common blunder of reading at the end -cyutaḥ. In Kāuṣ. (82. 21) the second half-verse is quoted in full to accompany the pouring a pot-offering into the fire on the second day after cremation (here, too, only one ms. reads jīvaṁs t-, and most of the rest jīvaṁ t-).

21. I call thy mind hither with mind; come unto these houses, enjoy[ing] [them]; unite thyself with the Fathers, with Yama; let pleasant, helpful (īcagmā) winds blow thee unto [them].

Excepting K., all our mss. read imām (or imān) in b; SPP. records the reading as given only by two of his pada-mss. [Pāda c is RV. x. 14. 8 a.] The comm. glosses īcagmās with sukhakarās. The Anukr. does not heed the redundant syllable in b.

22. Let the water-carrying, water-floating Maruts carry thee up, making [thee] cool by the goat, let them sprinkle [thee] with rain, splash!

Some of the authorities (our O.Op.R.D., and near half of SPP's, with the comm.) have in b udaplūtas. For the use of the verse by Kāuṣ., see under vs. 8 above. [Cf. the use of bāl in i. 3. 1.]

23. I have called up life-time unto life-time, unto ability (krātu), unto dexterity, unto life; let thy mind go to its own [pl.]; then run unto the Fathers.

The majority of our mss. (except Bs.s.m.R.Op.K. [which have svān]; T. has svānn), and two of SPP's, read svām at beginning of c, as does also the comm., which supplies tanum for it to qualify. SPP. gives in c-d māno ādhā, and claims that all his authorities without exception read thus; our Bs. has 'dhā, and if any of the other samhitā-mss. [except O., which has māno ādhā] do not agree with this, I have failed to note it.

24. Let nothing whatever of thy mind, nor of thy life (āsu), nor of thy members, nor of thy sap, nor of thy body, be left here.

The translation implies emendation of mānas to mānasas, as called for by the connection and by the meter. The Anukr. scans the verse as 6 + 8 : 10 = 24. Bs.E. have tanvāḥ in c. This verse, with 26 below, is used by Kāuṣ. (82. 29) in connection with gathering up the bones after cremation; with the same, and further with 3. 25-37, in connection (85. 26) with their interment. [For its general purport, see Weber, Sb. 1894, p. 775, note 2.]

25. Let not the tree oppress thee, nor the great divine earth; having found a place (loká) among the Fathers, thrive (edh) thou among those whose king is Yama.

Only about half the mss. have at the end the true reading yamárājasu (which both editions give, as was proper); some of our samhitā-mss. (P.M.T.) accent yamarājasu, and most of the pada-mss. have correspondingly, as two independent words, yama : rājasu (namely Bp.D.Kp., and two of SPP's); one (I.) has yamárāj. One or two (including our O.) give bādhiṣṭhe in a. TA: (in vi. 7. 2) has two corresponding verses: mā tvā vṛkṣāu sām bādhiṣṭām mā mātā prthivī tvām : pitṛn hy ātra gācchāsy edhāsām yamarājye, and mā tvā vṛkṣāu sām bādhetām mā mātā prthivī mahi : vāivasvatām hi gācchāsi yamarājye vī rājasi: both are partly corrupt. According to Kāuṣ. (82. 32), the verse accompanies the deposit of the collected bone-relics "at the root of a tree." [Baunack, ZDMG. l. 281, 284, understands vānaspatī at RV. v. 78. 5 and AV. xviii. 3. 70, as meaning, like vṛkṣá here, a tree used after the manner of a coffin. Curiously enough, peṭikā (Sāyaṇa's gloss for vanaspatī) usually means κόφινος.] [For consistency, the Berlin ed. should read vittvāt.]

26. What limb of thine is put over at a distance, and what expiration [or] breath has gone forth upon the wind (?), let the associated (sānidā) Fathers, assembling, make that enter thee again, bit (ghāśá) from bit.

With the first half-verse is to be compared vii. 53. 3 a, b. All the samhitā-mss. in b accent vāte, save one of SPP's, sec. manu; and all our pada-mss. divide vā : te, as if, after all, they thought vā : te intended. SPP's pada-mss. also divide vā : te (only one of them is accented); he adopts vā te, on the authority of the one altered ms. [and the comm.]. To me vāte seems rather the preferable reading, though there is not much to choose between the two. Our O. and two or three of SPP's authorities give pāretāḥ [plural: but no pada-ms. has ye to correspond]. Several of our mss., and the decided majority of SPP's authorities (except the pada-authorities: which, as he fails to report them, presumably have -dāḥ) read sānidād gh-; but of our pada-mss., all but one [Op.s.m.] give sānidāḥ, and this SPP. adopts in his text, as do we. The comm. has santlās; in b, he reads ye . . . paretāḥ. The use of the verse with vs. 24 in Kāuṣ. was stated under vs. 24.

27. The living have excluded this man from their houses; carry ye him out, forth from this village; death was the kindly messenger of Yama; he made his life-breaths (ásu) go to the Fathers.

The verse is used in Kāuṣ. (80. 18) with an oblation to the fires, when preparing the body of the deceased for cremation. [Note that the "messengers" or "men" of death or of Yama play a rôle in the Buddhist literature: see Āṅguttara Nikāya, iii. 4 (35: p. 138), Devadūta Vagga; Jātaka, i., p. 138²⁴, and scholion; Journal of the Pāli Text Society, 1885, p. 62.]

28. What barbarians (dāsyu), having entered among the Fathers, having faces of acquaintances, go about, eating what is not sacrificed, who bear parāpūr [and] nīpūr—Agni shall blast (dham) them forth from this sacrifice.

Similar verses are found in VS. (ii. 30), ÇÇS. (iv. 4. 2), AÇS. (ii. 6. 2), MB. (ii. 3. 4), and Āp. (three varying versions at i. 8. 7). Āp. has in its first version for a, b apa yantu asurāḥ pītrrūpā ye rūpāni pratimucyā "caranti, a close analogue to our first half-verse; the rest [including of Āp. only the second version] have, without variant, ye rūpāni pratimuñcāmānā dsurāḥ śantaḥ svadhīyā cāranti, which is not quite so near. [The third version in Āp. is ye jñātinām pratirūpāḥ pītṛn māyayā 'surāḥ pravīṣṭāḥ.] In c, all the texts [including the three versions in Āp.] agree with ours. For d, all the texts [including the first two versions in Āp.] have agnti tām lokāt prā nudāty (AÇS. -dātṛ, MB. -datṛ) asmāt; [while the third version in Āp. reads agne tām asmāt pra-nudasva lokāt]. The comm. to VS. explains parāpūras as sthūladehān and nīpūras as sūkṣmadehān, which is, of course, the purest nonsense; that to MB. divides parā puro ni puro ye bharanti, and connects the prepositions with the verb, rendering the first pūras by "our enemies' houses" and the second by "our kindred's houses" — quite as bad. Our comm., finally, explains parāpūras (through parā pṛṇanti) as piṇḍadātārāḥ putrāḥ, and nīpūras (through nīpṛṇanti [cf. his remark about ni-pṛ reported at the end of note to vs. 30]) as pāutrāḥ — if possible, worse than either of the others. All we can see clearly is that the native exegetes are quite as much in the dark as we with regard to the value of these obscure words. Except O.R., all our mss. have the false accent dasyāvas in a; of SPP's, only two do so. Of the mss. in our hands at the time of printing of the text, only I. accented jñātimukhās at all (two of SPP's also leave it accentless), and we accordingly emended to jñātimukhās, according to the usual rule for such a compound; but I.O.Op.R.K., with the majority of SPP's authorities, read jñātimukhās, which SPP. has therefore properly adopted in his edition. By Kāuṣ. (87. 30) the verse is prescribed to be repeated while a lighted brand is carried three times about and then flung away.

29. Let there enter together (sam-viṣ) here our own Fathers, doing what is pleasant, lengthening [our] life-time; may we be able to reach them with oblation, living long for numerous autumns.

The translation implies in a the pada-reading svāḥ : naḥ, which SPP. gives by emendation, all the pada-mss. save Bp. (which has svā : naḥ) having svānaḥ; again, it implies in b prātirāntaḥ, while all read prātirānte [or -ate]; here also SPP. emends to -ntaḥ. The comm. reads -nte, and glosses it by pravaradhayantu! [A similar uncertainty (as between the Vulgate and Ppp.) concerning the understanding of the combination pratiranta āyuh was noted by me under xiv. 2. 36.] The verse is used, according to Kāuṣ. (83. 29), next after the use of i. 52, in arranging the bones for burial; and it is repeated, like the latter, in the piṇḍapitṛyajña (87. 28); sam-viṣ, as here applied, perhaps has its secondary sense of 'turn in, lie down.' The comm. reads daśyamānās in c, explaining it by vardhamānās. The Anukr. does not notice the redundant syllable in c [or perhaps assumes a deficiency in d to balance it. The word naḥ demands an accusative: so that both meter and syntax combine to cast suspicion on tebhyas].

30. What milch-cow I set down (ni-pṛ) for thee, and what rice-dish for thee in milk (kṣīrā) — with that mayest thou be the supporter of the person (jāna) who is there (ātra) without a living.

That is, 'without the means of sustaining life.' Our Bp.E. read ajīvanas, unaccented; the normal accent would be ajīvanās. The comm. remarks that ni-pṛ is used distinctively of a gift for the Fathers (pītrye dāne variate).

31. Pass forward [over a stream] rich in horses, which is very propitious, or, further on, an ṛkṣāka, more new; he who slew thee, be he one to be killed; let him not find any other portion.

The first half-verse is extremely obscure, and its translation only mechanical; we may conjecture that its text is corrupt. Such a combination as -vā : ṛkṣ- (so all the pāda-texts read) into -vā rṁṣ- is contrary to grammatical rule, unauthorized by the Prāt., and unsupported, so far as I know, by any second case. Part of our samhitā-mss. (P.M.E.I.) have -vā ṛkṣ-, but that is equally abnormal; SPP. makes no mention of any such reading among his authorities. "Stream" is supplied to ācāvāvatīm because Kāuṣ. (82. 10) prescribes the verse to be used, in the ceremonies of the first day after cremation, on crossing a stream, and prā tara naturally suggests it. Ācāvāvatīm is unquestionably the AV. text; it is quoted as an example of long ā in such a position under Prāt. iii. 17. One may conjecture as a plausible emendation ācmanvatīm prā tarayā suṣṭvām (cf. for ācmanvatī xii. 2. 26, 27; and our comm. reads here taraya for tara yā). Then ṛkṣāka might possibly be a region or road [beyond the river] 'infested by bears' (ṛkṣa : so the comm.); the word ṛkṣāka is ignored by both Pet. Lexx. [save in so far as this vs. is cited by the Major Lex. under ṛkṣikā]. [Weber takes it as 'the milky way': Festgruss an Roth, p. 138.] But it is of little use to speculate in such a case. SPP. reads in c vadhyas, with (as he reports) all his authorities save two; we also have both va- and ba- among our mss., but I cannot specify all that favor the one reading or the other. The lacking syllable in b, not noticed by the Anukr., helps in its degree to indicate corruption of text.

32. Yama beyond, below Vivasvant—beyond that do I see nothing whatever; into Yama has entered my sacrifice; Vivasvant stretched after the worlds (bhūtā).

SPP. accents pāras in a, and vivasvān in a and d, though the majority of his authorities have pāras, and, in a, vivasvān; of our mss., only Op. has pāras and in a vivasvān; but O.Op.R.T.K. have vivasvān in d. The Anukr. takes no notice of the metrical irregularities (10 + 12 : 11 + 11 = 44).

33. They hid away the immortal one (f.) from mortals; having made one of like color, they gave her to Vivasvant; what that was carried also the two Aṅvins; and Saranyū deserted two twins.

Whether 'two pairs of twins' is meant is not altogether certain; but that would be strictly dvā mithunā; [but see BR. v. 777, line 3]. The verb abharat does not mean 'bore,' in the sense of 'gave birth to,' though it might mean 'carried [in her womb],' and so might have a nearly equivalent value; our comm. renders it by samābharat or udapādayat. The third pāda means 'that substitute, whatever it really was,' though the usual version "when that was" (for yāt tād āsit) is not altogether impossible. The verse is RV. x. 17. 2, which differs only by reading in b krtvā and adadus (for which our -dhus is a common corruption). It is properly inseparable from i. 53 above; [for bibliographical references, see under that vs.]. Kāuṣ. and Vait. pass it unused, as they did i. 53. [The comm., with one or two of SPP's mss., reads amṛtān in a.]

34. They that are buried, and they that are scattered (vap) away, they that are burned and they that are set up (uddhita)—all those Fathers, O Agni, bring thou to eat the oblation.

Āp. (in i. 8. 7) has a verse analogous with this; the divisions there are [ye garbhe mamrus,] parāstās, uddhatās, and nikhātās. The comm. explains parāptās by dūradeṣe kṣāṭharat parityaktāḥ; but uddhatās by saṃskārottarakālam ūrdhvaḍeṣe pītṛloke sthitāḥ! it evidently refers to exposure on something elevated, such as is practised by many peoples. The pada-text reads uddhitāḥ, undivided, by Prāt. iv. 63. The verse (according to Kāuṣ. 87. 22) is used, with 3. 47, 48 and 4. 41, in the piṇḍapitryajña ceremony, to accompany the setting up of one of two lighted sticks (cf. under i. 56) and piling fuel around it.

35. They who, burned with fire, [and] who, not burned with fire, revel on svadhā in the midst of heaven — them thou knowest, if thine, O Jāta-vedas; let them enjoy with svadhā the sacrifice, the svādhiti.

The verse corresponds to RV. x. 15. 14 a, b and 13 c, d (and to VS. xix. 60 a, b and 67 c, d). In the first half, AV. and RV. agree (two of our mss., O.R., combine yé 'nag'); VS. has -svāttās both times for -dagdhās. For c, RV. and VS. read tvān vettha yāti te jāt 'thou knowest how many they are,' and of this our text is doubtless a corruption. Nearly half the mss. have te (both editions, with the remaining mss., including our O.R.T.K., té); the translation implies te. HGS. (ii. 11. 1) has agne tān vettha yadi te jātavedaḥ. For d, RV. and VS. have svadhābhir yajñān sūkṛtaṃ juṣasva; and here again our text seems only a corruption; svādhitim (p. svāodhitim) must be meant as nomen actionis to svadhā, I think, = 'the giving of svadhā' — a false formation. The comm. reads svadhūyās and svadhitam, explaining the latter as svadhā sañjātā yasya. According to the comm., this verse and the preceding are used in the piṇḍapitryajña "on laying two pieces of fuel."

36. Burn (tap) thou propitiously (śām); do not burn overmuch; O Agni, do not burn the body; be thy vehemence (śiṣma) in the woods; on the earth be what is thy violence (hāras).

Two of our mss. (R.s.m.Op.), and one of SPP's reciters, leave tapas at end of b unaccented; and this is, of course, more correct. For the application of the verse according to Kāuṣ., see under 2. 4, with which it is closely akin in sense. [The comm. reads tanvas in b.]

37. I give this release to him who hath thus come and hath become mine here — thus replies the knowing Yama — let this one approach (upa-sthā) my wealth here.

The translation implies that rāyā before ūpa in d means rāyās (accus. pl.), and not rāyē, as understood by the pada-text; the comm. understands rāyas. Also, that cād in b admits of being taken as ca id [the pada-text always reads ca : it, even when the meaning is 'if'] with individual meaning, and not as the compound particle, = 'if.' [There is a gap in the commentary just after the explanation of etat: but the commentator's text of the AV.] reads yāt for yās at beginning of b. For the Kāuṣ. use of the verse with i. 55, see under the latter. This verse also accompanies (with 3. 73: Kāuṣ. 85. 24) the deposition of the bones in the hole in the ceremony of interment.

38. This measure do we measure, so that one may not measure further; in a hundred autumns, not before.

That is, that there be no more such measuring for any of us till his hundred years of life are full. The comm. understands yāthā nā māsātāi [Gram. § 893 a] as yāthā mā

[= mām] nū "sātāi, nā "sīta, na prāṇnyāt ! Kāuṣ. uses the verse twice (85. 3, 12 — unless in the ce 'mām of sūtra three is disguised the beginning of vs. 39 or 41) in connection with the elaborate measuring out of the place of interment of the bone-relics. [See Caland, Todtengebräuche, p. 145 and note 534.]

39. This measure do we measure forth, so that etc. etc.
40. This measure do we measure off, so that etc. etc.
41. This measure do we measure apart, so that etc. etc.
42. This measure do we measure out, so that etc. etc.
43. This measure do we measure up, so that etc. etc.
44. This measure do we measure together, so that etc. etc.

The comm. regards all these paryāya-variations of vs. 38 as to be used with it where it is prescribed; the Kāuṣ. says nothing of this. The comm. also gives artificial and absurd interpretations of the altered prepositions at the beginnings of the verses. [Some of the alterations spoil the meter (p. 830, ¶ 4).]

45. I have measured the measure, I have gone to heaven (svār); may I be long-lived; so that etc. etc.

[The prior half of the verse appears to be prose.] The Anukr. scans 8 + 6 : 8 + 8 = 30 syllables. This verse (according to the comm., vss. 45–47) follows the process of measurement (Kāuṣ. 85. 17).

46. Breath, expiration, through-breathing (vyāṇā), life-time, an eye to see the sun : by a road not beset with enemies (-pāra) go thou to the Fathers whose king is Yama.

The comm. explains: mukhanāsikābhyām bahir nihsaran vāyuh prāṇaḥ : antar-gacchann apānaḥ : madhyasthaḥ sann acitapītādikaṁ vividham āniti kṛtsnadeham vyāpayati 'ti vyāṇaḥ. It foolishly understands yamārājñas in ḍ as gen. sing.: (the road) "of king Yama." The Pet. Lexx. render āparipara by 'not roundabout,' as if the final para were somehow also a pari; the comm. understands the word nearly as above translated; [and the translation is supported by VS. iv. 34]. The Prāt. (iv. 39 c) notes the division vi-ānāḥ in pada-text, while prāṇā and apānā are always undivided.

47. They that departed unmarried [but] assiduous, abandoning hatreds, having no progeny — they, going up to heaven (div), have found a place (lokā), [they,] shining (? dīdhyāna) upon the back of the firmament.

The comm. commits the absurdity of glossing agru by agraḡamin, and çaṣamāṇā ('assiduous': i.e. having faithfully performed their religious duties) by çaṇsamāna or else (from root çaṣ 'leap') phutagamanaṣila ! It seems hardly possible to avoid taking dīdhyāna in ḍ as meant for dīdyāna; the comm. renders by dīpyamāna. The mss. vary between agrāvas and āgravas, none of ours that were collated before publication having the latter, which is the true accent [correct the Berlin ed.], and is adopted by SPP. on the authority of a majority of his authorities (with which our O.Op.R.T. agree).

48. Watery is the lowest heaven (div), full of stars (? pīlu) is called the midmost; the third is called the fore-heaven (pradiv), in which the Fathers sit.

Rather than leave ṣīlu- in b untranslated, we set in our version the comm's worthless etymological guess (pālayanti 'ti ṣīlavah: grahanakṣatrādayaḥ). SPP. has at the beginning the better accent udanvātī, as read by half his authorities (and by our O.Op.R. among those collated after publication). Our Bp.D. accent also ṣīlumātī; O. reads ṣītūmātī, doubtless an accidental blunder, yet suggesting the emendation ṣītumātī 'rich in nourishment.' For the use of the verse prescribed by Kāuṣ., see under 1. 61; the comm. says simply that with this verse and another one (iti dvābhyām) the body is raised in order to being laid on the cart or litter (for transportation to the funeral pile); a schol. (note to Kāuṣ. 82. 31) uses it also in connection with the interment of the bone-relics.

49. They that are our father's fathers, that are [his] grandfathers, that entered the wide atmosphere, they that dwell upon earth and heaven (dīu) — to those Fathers would we pay worship with homage.

The first half-verse is found again below as 3. 59 a, b. The verse is used (Kāuṣ. 81. 37) [as the last one of eleven verses (see my note to xviii. 1. 49) which accompany the oblations offered to Yama and poured upon the corpse (comm., vol. iv., p. 115:7: he says iti dvābhyām) in the cremation ceremony after the fire is lighted].

50. This time, verily, not further (āparam), seest thou the sun in the heaven (dīu); as a mother her son with her hem (śīc), do thou cover him, O earth.

The last half-verse is RV. x. 18. 11 c, d, without variant (TA., in vi. 7. 1, has at the end bhūmi vṛṇu), and is also found below as 3. 50 c, d. Kāuṣ. (86. 10) applies the verse, with 3. 49 and 4. 66, in raising a pile over the interred bones; according to the comm. [vol. iv., p. 115], the pile is of an uneven number of sticks (ṣalākā) or bricks, and vss. 50-52 are to be used. [Over "hem" W. interlines "skirt." "Border of the garment" says our comm., celāncalena.] [As to this beautiful verse, see Weber, Sb. 1895, p. 861, and cf. the epilogue to the Iṣā Upanishad, especially vss. 15, 16.]

51. This time, verily; not further; in old age another further than this; as a wife her husband with her garment, do thou cover him, O earth (bhūmi).

The first half-verse is very obscure, and the second pāda perhaps corrupt. The comm. takes jarāśī with the first pāda, and explains that "what food etc. has been enjoyed in old age, this verily, left over, not anything else [further], is to be enjoyed"; and then "than this place of interment, any other place is not found for him": all of which is simply silly. The Anukr. pays no attention to the redundant syllable (unless we pronounce patim 'va) in c.

52. I cover thee excellently with the garment of mother earth; what is excellent among the living, that with me; svadhā among the Fathers, that with thee.

The comm. does not scruple to take bhadrāyā as used for bhadrāyās, and qualifying prthivyās. [He treats tān māyī etc. as at xi. 7. 5, 12, 14: cf. note to xi. 7. 12. Weber thinks this vs. is spoken by the heir of the dead man.]

53. O Agni-and-Soma, makers of roads, ye have distributed (vi-dhā) to the gods a pleasant treasure [and] world; send ye unto [us] Pūshan, who shall carry by goat-traveled roads him that goes thither.

The translation implies emendation at the end of gachatam to gāchantam, which seems necessary in order to make sense; the corruption to the former may have been made because it better suits the meter.—[The translation also implies the reading préśyatam, which is given in the Berlin text and is supported by] our Op. (prā : śīyatam), by SPP's [Cr. (prā : śīyatam) and by his] Dc. secunda manu: all the rest read préśyantam (p. prā : śī- or prā : śī-), which SPP. accordingly adopts in his saṁhitā-text; [but in his pada-text he prints prā : śīyantam, and he mentions the accent in his note]. The comm. glosses préśyantam with pragacchantam in his usual loose and easy way.—Nearly all our mss. also have ājōyānāis (p. ajāḥoy-) in d; we followed Bs. in giving ajay- (which the translation implies). [Weber also accepts the reading ajay- and interprets it as 'traveled by man's unborn (a-jā) or immortal part, i.e. his spirit': Festgruss an Roth, p. 138 and note 5.] On the authority of a single ms., SPP. accepts as his reading ājōyānāis; [as to this matter, see my note marked with a * in the next paragraph]. The reading ājōyānāis had already been conjectured by the Pet. Lexx.; [so BR. v. 959, with the meaning 'leading straight to the goal': cf. OB. i. 18 b]. The reading ājay- is given by two or three of SPP's mss.; among them is that of the comm., who explains by āñjasā, ārjavena yānti . . . ebhiḥ. The "goat-traveled" roads, of course, are those to which Pūshan's team of goats are wonted.—Two of SPP's authorities give dadhatus in b; the comm. reads dadhatus in one of two alternative explanations, and -thus in the other.—Possibly vt before lokām is to be taken as belonging to this word alone: 'ye have assigned to the gods a pleasant treasure.' [I do not see what W. means by the last sentence.]—For the use of the verse by Kāuṣ. etc., see under 1. 61 and 2. 48; the comm. includes with it vss. 54 and 55. It exceeds a proper triṣṭubh by two syllables.

* [In reading ājōyānāis, SPP. is supported in fact by three or four of his mss. (B.C.R.Dc.p.m.) and presumably also by at least three of his pada-mss., since he reports nothing to the contrary. Moreover, he thinks that further support is given him by the reading ājāy- of two of his authorities (Dc. sec. manu, and the reciter V.), which reading, as he says, may represent an ill-corrected reading ājōy-; and perhaps the ājāy- of the reciter K. points in the same direction, to ājōy-. As between the readings ājōy- and ajay-, even Whitney's mss. point decidedly to ājōy-.—Leaving the mss. of this passage out of account, however, the word ājōyāna is well supported by its exact synonym āñjasāyana, p. āñjasādyana, used four times of the paths (srutī) by which one goes to the heavenly world (TS. vii. 2. 12; 3. 53; 4. 13; also AB. iv. 17, here as the exact opposite of a 'roundabout road' mahāpathaḥ paryāṇaḥ), and also by the doubtless precisely equivalent āñjasānām (srutīm) of the Rīgveda (x. 32. 7).—This last phrase Sāyana explains alternatively by ṛjūm akuṣṭilam mārgam; cf. his similar explanation of pathō devatrā 'ñjase 'va yānān at x. 73. 7; cf. also āñjasāyana, used in the Dīgha Nikāya, xiii. 4 ff., as a synonym of uju-maggo: all of which is in most perfect accord with the above-mentioned ārjavena etc. of our comm., whose testimony therefore is decidedly in favor of the reading ājōyānāis.—If ājōy- is the true reading and ajay- the corrupt one, the corruption is a very natural one, considering that Pūshan's team (see RV. vi. 55. 6, 4; 57. 3; x. 26. 8; and the occurrences of ajācva) consists of goats.]

54. Let Pūshan, knowing, urge thee forth from here—he, the shepherd of creation (bhūvāna) who loses no cattle; may he commit thee to those Fathers, [and] Agni to the beneficent gods.

The RV. has a corresponding verse (x. 17. 3), without variant. TA. (in vi. 1. 1) has in c dadāt (as has our comm.), and at the end suvidātrebhyas. The mss. are somewhat equally divided in c-d between -bhyo 'gntr and -bhyo agntr; our text adopts the latter; SPP., better, the former, with RV. and TA.

55. May life-time, having all life-time, protect thee about; let Pūshan protect thee in front on the forward road; where sit the well-doers, whither they have gone, there let god Savitar set thee.

RV., in the corresponding verse (x. 17. 4), reads pāsati in a, and tē yayīs at end of c, [thus rectifying the meter in both places]; and TA. (in vi. 1. 2) agrees with it both times; the comm. also has pāsati. The verse is metrically irregular (10 + 11 : 12 + 11 = 44); [but perfectly good in its RV. form (11 + 11 : 12 + 11)].

56. I yoke for thee these two conveyers [vāhni], to convey (vah) thee to the other life; with them to Yama's seat and to the assemblies go thou down (ava).

Ava, in d, is so strange that we can only regard it as a corruption for dpi, which TA. reads in the corresponding verse (in vi. 1. 1). TA. also has the better reading -nīhāya in b [so both editions], as has also the comm., though its explanation seems rather to imply -nīhāya. TA. further has the bad accent vahnī in a, and gives in c yābhyām, and in d (for sāmītis) sukṣtām. The comm. has saṁ iti, taking saṁ as joint prefix with ava, and iti as anena prakāreṇa; our Bp.E. read sāmītī ca; possibly the comm's error is akin with this. According to Kāuṣ. (80. 34), the verse is used when two draft-oxen, or two men, are harnessed to draw the body to the funeral pile.

57. This garment hath now come first to thee; remove (apa-ñh) that one which thou didst wear here before; knowing, do thou follow along with what is offered and bestowed, where it is given thee variously among them of various connection (? vibandhu).

TA. (in vi. 1. 1) has a corresponding verse, but with sundry variants: at the beginning, iddm (which is better) tvā vāstram; in c, d, anu sām paçya dākṣiṇām yāthā te. Te dattām is perhaps better 'given by thee'—thy former deeds of religion and charity, now to be enjoyed in their fruit; and vibandhu 'to those not thine own connections.' The Pet. Lexx. explain vibandhuṣu as 'destitute of connections or relatives.' The comm., with its customary regardlessness of accent, understands the word as two words, vi bandhuṣu, and connects vi (= viçeṣeṇa) with dattam. According to Kāuṣ. 80. 17, the verse is used, with 4. 31, in connection with dressing the body for cremation; in 81. 29, some of the mss. substitute it for vs. 22 above. Some of the schol. (note to Kāuṣ. 80. 52) use it and 4. 31 when the body is laid on the funeral pile. The verse, as a tristubh, is rather svarāj than bhurij (11 + 12 : 11 + 12 = 46).

58. Wrap about thee of kine a protection from the fire; cover thyself up with grease and fatness, lest the bold one, exulting with violence (hāras), shake thee strongly (dadṛh) about, intending to consume thee.

The corresponding RV. verse is x. 16. 7; in b it transposes médasā and p̄tvasā, and in d it has vidhaksyān paryañkhyāte, which is decidedly better. TA. (in vi. 1. 4) reads dādāhad vidhaksyān paryañkhyātāi. Our vidhaksān, though read by both editions, is only another example of the not infrequent careless omission of y after a ś or ç; only one of our mss. (Op.) reads -ksyān, but five of SPP's authorities give -ksyan (as against six with -ksan), and it is much to be wondered at that he has not adopted it in his text; the comm. seems to read -ksan, but explains as if -ksyan (viçeṣeṇa dagdhum icchan). At the end we ought to read pariñkhyātāi, and SPP. gives that, with the majority of his mss., the rest having, with our text, pārīñkhy-; of our mss., only two of the later collated ones (O.Op.) have the proper accent; Bp. has pāriñkhyātāi, which is absurd*; the comm. treats pari as an independent word (as if the reading were pārī "ñkhyātāi). The comm. glosses dadh̄k by pragalbhas; [cf. my Noun-Inflection, JAOS. x. 498]. By Kāuç. (81. 25) the verse is taught to be used when the dead man's face is covered with the omentum of the anustaraṇī cow (hence 'of kine') on the pile; the omentum is to be pierced with seven holes. * [Cf. the impossible pada-reading vlobhātī at xiii. 3. 17, and the other similar ones cited in the note to that verse.]

59. Taking the staff from the hand of the deceased man (gatāsu), together with hearing, splendor, strength—thou just there, here may we, rich in heroes, conquer all scorners [and] evil plotters.

60. Taking the bow from the hand of the dead man, together with authority (ḥṣatrā), splendor, strength—take thou hold upon much prosperous good; come thou hitherward unto the world of the living.

The two verses together correspond to RV. x. 18. 9, our 60 a, b most nearly to 9 a, b, and our 59 c, d to 9 c, d. But RV. has for its b asmé ḥṣatrāya vārcase bālāya, and in its d sp̄dhas for m̄dhas. TA. (in vi. 1. 3) has three verses, with a-b respectively as follows: suvd̄rṇam̄ ḥástād ādādānā m̄r̄tāsya çriyāt brāhmaṇe tējase bālāya; dhānur ḥástād ādādānā m̄r̄tāsya çriyāt ḥṣatrāyāu 'jase bālāya; and mānim̄ ḥástād ādādānā m̄r̄tāsya çriyāt viçē p̄ṣṭyāi bālāya; their common second half agrees with RV. except in having suçevās for suvirās; they are addressed to Brahman, Kshatriya and Vāciya respectively, as our two are addressed to Brahman and Kshatriya, and that of RV. to Kshatriya only. 'Hearing' in our 59 b has a special meaning, the hearing or inspired reception of the sacred word [cf. i. 1. 2, and note]. Kāuç. 80. 48, 49 explains the two verses as uttered while staff or bow is taken from the dead hand, as the body lies on the pile ready for cremation; and 80. 50 implies a third verse addressed to a Vāciya, on taking from him a goad (aṣṭrām). Our 60 c, d is evidently addressed to the person (the son) who removes the article. The comm. reads in 59 c (with TA.) suçevās.

[Here ends also the thirty-third prapāṭhaka.]

[The prose parts are the first pādas (the ūha-pādas) of vss. 25-28 and 30-35, and the yajurmantras, vss. 36-37: see Part III., below.]

[In Pāipp. (in xx.) is found of this hymn only verse 56.]

[Ritual uses. — Only eight verses (2, 5, 18, 25, 38, 39, 44, 45: the last two together twice, and both times in the order 45, 44) are used in Vāit., and, of course, in rites other than funeral rites: see under the verses. In Kāuṣ., about three quarters of the hymn (all but 21 vss.) are used, and used in the chapter (xi.: as noted by Whitney, page 814) on funeral rites: see under the verses. It is of critical interest that two blocks of verses (Parts II. and IV., as divided below, where see) which find no use in the funeral ritual, form each a nearly corresponding block in RV.]

[The provenience of the material of this hymn. — In this hymn, as compared with hymn 2 (see p. 830), the proportional part of material recurring in the RV. rises again, and is about 33 verses out of 73, or nearly one half. — The "Parts" into which the hymn is here divided are primarily for the convenience of the discussion, although some of them (as II., III., IV., V., VI.) have also a critical significance.

Part I., verses 1-20. — This part contains only 3 verses (2, 6, 13) from the funeral hymns of the RV., and only 2 others (7, 18) from other parts thereof, parts widely separated. Of the last 7 vss. of this part, only vss. 17 and 18 find use in the Kāuṣikan ritual.

Part II., verses 21-24. — This block of verses corresponds, without changes of order, to the last varga of the second Vāmadeva hymn, more precisely to RV. iv. 2. 16, 17, 18, and 19 a, b, to which is then appended the last half-verse of RV. ii. 23, with the Gṛtsamada refrain. Neither ritual makes any use whatever of any verse or pāda of this part.

Part III., verses 25-37. — This part consists of two six-membered sequences, a and b (a = the five verses, 25-29: b = the six verses, 30-35), each sequence with one member for each of the "six directions" (E., S., W., N., fixed, and upward); the whole followed by two yajurmantras (vss. 36-37: comm., p. 1584). — All the 11 verses of sequences a and b have the refrain lokakṛtas etc. (a jagati-triṣṭubh half-verse) in common. Moreover, all those 11 verses (except one, namely vs. 29) have as their second pāda the obscure jagati-pāda, bāhucyūtā prthivī dyām ivo 'pāri; and for their first pāda an ūha-pāda applying in turn to one or another of the six directions. — In the excepted verse (vs. 29: see my note below), it would seem as if two directions had been crowded into one verse, the 'fixed' into pāda a and the 'upward' into pāda b: if so, it is this condensation that has reduced sequence a from 6 verses to 5, and effected the displacement of the pāda bāhucyūtā etc. — Thus the refrains of this part are all metrical (smooth jagati or triṣṭubh pādas), as is also the first half of vs. 29; while the ūha-pādas are prose, as are also the yajurmantras. — Parts III. a and III. b look to me like antiphonal sequences (cf. the introduction to ii. 5), the verses of a containing the prayers that are worded as if uttered by the suppliant dead man, and the verses of b containing the responses* of his helper, very likely the dead man's eldest son (see my note to vs. 25: but just how they were used, of course, I cannot say). If I am right, vs. 34, reinforced by the first two clauses of 36, would answer to 29 a; and vs. 35 would answer to 29 b. But against my view is the fact that we have tvā in 29 a where we should expect mā. — * [After writing the above, I find that Weber, Sb. p. 265, had expressed a similar view as to the responsive structure, and had proposed to emend tvā to mā.]

Part IV., verses 38-41. — This again is a real unity in the RV., being the entire hymn RV. x. 13 except its last verse, the fifth, and except its vs. i d. The verses of this part, again like those of part II., find no use in the funeral ritual (although, indeed, Vait. uses two of them in the agniṣṭoma). For the curious dislocation and misdivision of the material by AV., see p. 858, ¶ 10, and cf. ¶ 8 of this page.

Part V., verses 42-48. — Verses from the principal RV. hymn to the Fathers, x. 15, namely its vss. 12, 7, 11, 5, 8, 9, and 10, with much derangement of the RV. order.

Part VI., verses 49-52. — Burial-verses from RV. x. 18, to wit, vss. 10, 11, 12, 13, in strict RV. sequence.

Part VII., verses 53-60. — Eight verses, of which seven are from five of the RV. funeral hymns, x. 14, 15, 16, 17, 18 (represented in the order 16, 16, 17, 18: 14, 15, 16), and of which the remaining one (our vs. 54) is without ritual use and plainly intrusive and doubtless put after our 53 on account of its striking surface-resemblances to our 53. Our vs. 60 is widely separated from its fellow, our vs. 6, as is noted under the verses.

Part VIII., verses 61-64. — Verses not elsewhere found, save, in part, in AV. ÇÇS.MB.

Part IX., verses 65-67. — Found in RV. outside the limits, x. 10 and x. 18, between which the funeral verses are massed, to wit, as RV. x. 8. 1; x. 123. 6; and vii. 32. 26.

Part X., verses 68-72. — This is an anuṣṭubh sequence, peculiar to our AV. text, and with only a couple of longer pādas (namely 69 d, jagati; 71 d, trīṣṭubh).

Part XI., verse 73. — This is a trīṣṭubh which looks as if it had been put here on account of superficial likenesses to its next following companion, vs. 1 of hymn 4. If this surmise is correct, we are to assume here a misdivision of their material by the makers of the anuvāka-divisions somewhat similar to that seen at RV. vii. 55. 1. Cf. the cases at AV. i. 20 (vs. 4) and 21, vi. 63 (vs. 4) and 64: also at iv. 15. 11 and 12.]

Translated: Weber, Sb. 1896, pages 253-277 (with analysis, etc.); Griffith, ii. 236; verses not taken from the RV. are rendered by Ludwig, pages 484-487. — The RV. verses are translated, of course, by the RV. translators: the verses from RV. x. 18, in particular, by Whitney, Oriental and Linguistic Studies, i. 54, 53 (vs. 44 at p. 60: and so on); RV. x. 18 also by Roth, in Siebenzig Lieder des RV., p. 150.

1. This woman, choosing her husband's world, lies down (ni-pād) by thee that art departed, O mortal, continuing to keep [her] ancient duty (dharma); to her assign thou here progeny and property.

Verses 1-4 are translated and interpreted (I think, incorrectly) by Hillebrandt in ZDMG. xl. 708 ff. Kāuṣ. (80.44) and the comm. declare that with this verse the wife is made to lie down beside her dead husband on the funeral pile. The comm. glosses dharmam with sukṛtam, and understands the sense of the pāda as it is translated above. The sense of d alone seems to indicate that the woman's action is nothing more than a show, expected to be followed by that of the next verse, since "progeny and property" are rewards for this life, not for the other. The comm. says it is meant for her next birth. TA. also has the verse (in vi. 1. 3), but reads for c viçvam purāṇām ānu pādhyanti — a very inferior text. Some of our mss. (O.Op.D.R.K.), and even the majority of SPP's, have in c pādhyanti, but SPP. rightly accepts pālā; [cf. the phonetic relation of udumbara and ulumbala, above, 2. 13].

2. Go up, O woman, to the world of the living; thou liest by (upa-çī) this one who is deceased: come! to him who grasps thy hand, thy second spouse (didhiṣú), thou hast now entered into the relation of wife to husband.

The verse is RV. x. 18. 8, whose text differs only by reading in c didhiṣṣ, and this is given also by two of our mss. (R.D.) and the majority of SPP's, so that it certainly ought to be accepted as the true reading, dadh- being only a corruption. TA. (in vi. 1. 3) has didhiṣṣ, but after it tvām etāt, and in b itāsum, in neither case making any important change in the sense. [TA., both text and comm. in both ed's, reads abht sambabhūva : the comm. renders by ābhimukhyena samyak prāpnuhi ! which procedure gives a shock even to one who is wonted to the Hindu laxity of ideas about vaiyadhikarāṇya.] The meaning given to abht sām-bhū in the translation is decidedly the only admissible one; nor need one hesitate to render didhiṣṣ according to its later accepted meaning. The woman cannot be left free and independent; she can only be relieved of her former wifehood by taking up a new one (even if this be, as is probable enough, nominal only); he who grasps her hand to lead her down from the pile becomes, at least for the nonce, her husband. The direction of Kāuṣ. (80. 45) in connection with the verse is simply "one makes her rise"; the comm. [vol. iv., p. 129, end] specifies that this is done "if she desires to live in this world again"; neither tells who is to take her hand—as, for example, Āçvalāyana does (AGS. iv. 2. 18): "her husband's brother, a representative of her husband, a pupil [of her husband], or an aged servant." [Whether the levir and the "representative" are the same person or two different ones does not appear from the translation nor from the original of AGS.] Vāit. (38. 3) uses the verse in the puruṣamedha.

3. I saw the maiden being led, being led about, alive, for the dead; as she was enclosed with blind darkness, then I led her off-ward (āpācī) from in front (prāktās).

The translation of b implies, [not the jīvām rīṣbhyas of the Berlin text, but rather] the reading jīvām mṛtībhyas : this is accepted by SPP. and is supported by the majority of his authorities [including two reciters] and by the comm. and by some of our mss. collated later (O.Op.R.T.), [and especially by the variant of TA., below]. [Compare the cases of yame dirgham, etc., discussed in the note to xviii. 2. 3.] The version in TA. (vi. 12. 1) is better than ours in a, b: āpacyāma yuvatīm ācārantīm mṛtāya jīvām pariṇtyāmānām; but not so good in c, d: andhēna yā tāmāsā prāvṛtā 'si prācīm dvācīm āva yānān āriṣṭyāi. According to Kāuṣ. (81. 20), vss. 3 and 4 are used as the cow (to serve as anustaraṇī) is led, at the funeral pile, around (the fires) leftwise; the comm. gives a corresponding explanation; and the comment to TA. also understands it of such a cow (rājagavī); [cf. Caland, Todtengebräuche, p. 40]. It is very difficult to believe that this was the original meaning of the verse, and that it did not rather refer to some rescue from immolation of a young wife. The comm. paraphrases pāda d by enān gām pūrvadeçāt çavasamīpād apānmukhīm çavāt parānmukhīm asmadābhimukhīm prāpayāmi : this is of no authority. Pāda a can be made full only by the unacceptable resolution āpaçiam; the TA. reading of the word would remove the difficulty.

4. Foreknowing, O inviolable one, the world of the living, moving together [with him] upon the road of the gods—this is thy herdsman (gópātī); enjoy him; make him ascend to the heavenly (svargā) world.

There is no difficulty in understanding this of the anustaraṇī cow, with the sūtras and commentaries, although we should expect rather pitṛlokām in a, and joṣaya in c. [By "sūtras" I suppose W. means sūtra 20 of Kāuṣ. 81 (cited under vs. 3) and sūtra 37 of Kāuṣ. 80 (cited under this vs.); and by "commentaries," the AV. comm. to vss. 3-4 (vol. iv., p. 1313) and the comm. to the TA. correspondent in vi. 12. 1 (Poona ed., p. 449) of our vs. 3.] Besides the use of the verse with the one preceding, as explained under the latter, it again (Kāuṣ. 80. 37) accompanies the leading of a cow around fuel and fire; and the schol. (note to 81. 33) employ it further at the kindling of the pile. The verse lacks only one syllable of being a regular triṣṭubh (11 + 11 : 10 + 11 = 43).

5. Unto sky (dīu), unto reed, more helpful of streams; O Agni, gall of the waters art thou.

The translation of a and b is purely mechanical. Other texts have a quite different version of them. VS. (xvii. 6 a-c) reads ūpa jmdnn ūpa vetasī 'vātara nadiṣv ā; MS. (in ii. 10. 1; but p. dvātaram) the same (and the editor reports K. and Kap.S. as agreeing); TS. (in iv. 6. 12) the same except dvattaram; VS. and MS. admit a much more intelligible rendering ('close to earth, close to reeds, descend thou in the streams'). In all the other texts, the verse is preceded by our vi. 106. 3 a, b and other similar addresses to Agni, in the agnicayana ceremony; and so also in Vāit. (29. 13), where the verses accompany the drawing of a frog, of the water-plant avakā, and of reeds, across the fire-site in all directions. In Kāuṣ. (82. 26), this verse and 3. 60 are used in the ceremony of gathering the bone-relics on the third day after cremation, with the direction iti mantroktiāny avadāya. [The authorities differ as to the day: Caland, Todtengebräuche, p. 99.] The comm. explains [vol. iv., p. 132¹⁵, p. 169²⁰] that vss. 5 and 6 [cf. Ath. Paddhati cited in note to Kāuṣ. 82. 26] [and 60] are addressed to the plants mentioned in those verses [and gives a list of plants: cf. SPP's note with extract from Keçava, and Bloomfield's note to 82. 26]. The comm. adds that the plants are used by the performer in besprinkling a Brahman's bones with milk. Under this verse the comm. makes dyam mean avakām, because this rises above the water without touching earth! The verse does not need to be scanned as niçt.

6. Whom thou, O Agni, didst consume, him do thou extinguish again; let there grow here the kyāmbū, the çāṇḍadūrvā, the vyālkaçā.

RV. (x. 16. 13) has the same verse, but calls two of the plants kiyāmbu and pāka-dūrvā. Vyālkaçā (p. vīalkaçā) might well be an adjective, 'free from alkaça' or the like, if we only knew what alkaça meant. [W's Op.R. accent vyālkaçā: and so five of SPP's authorities, against four with vyāl.] TA. disagrees with both AV. and RV. in reading at vi. 4. 1 kyāmbūts [both ed's], but agrees with RV. in having pākadūrvā, [and with both ed's of AV. in accenting vyālkaçā]; it reads jāyatām for rohātu in c, and vām for tām in b. — The comm. explains çāṇḍadūrvā as dūrvā ('millet') that springs up near water, having egg-shaped roots, or that has long joints, and adds that it is called "big millet" (bṛhaddūrvā); but this is probably without authority. With as little reason he glosses alka by çākhā 'branch,' and declares vyālkaça to mean "furnished with various (vividha) branches"; [so also the comm. on RV. and on TA.]. The verse is not directly quoted by Kāuṣ., but (as was pointed out above) it is regarded by the comm. [and the Paddhati] as included with vss. 5 and 60 in 82. 26, and probably with justice. — This verse and its successor in RV. and TA. (strangely removed to be 3. 60 in AV.) are both plainly intended as remedial and expiatory for the cruel office of Agni in burning a corpse; the fire is not only to be extinguished, but to be followed by its antithesis, the growth of water-plants and the appearance of their attendant frogs: compare Bloomfield in AJP. xi. 342-350 [or JAOS. xv., p. xxxix]. [This expiatory and remedial rite is avouched for antiquity by MBh. viii. 20. 50 = 819: Pāṇḍyaḥ ... svadhām (= pretaçarīrārūpam haviḥ) ivā "pya jvalanaḥ pītrpriyas (= çmaçānūgnih) tataḥ praçāntaḥ satilappravāhataḥ; and a note to the P. C. Roy version of this passage, p. 65, says that it persists even to this day in India.]

7. Here is one for thee, beyond is one for thee; enter thou into union with the third light; at entrance be thou fair (cāru) with [thy] body, loved of the gods in the highest station.

The verse is RV. x. 56. 1, which reads in c tanvās, and in ḍ jantīre (for sadhāsthe). It is also found in SV. (i. 65), TB. (in iii. 7. 13), TA. (vi. 3. 1; 4. 2), and Āp. (ix. 1. 17); in a, TB.Āp. have u (for ū before te); in c, all have saṁvēcānas, while SV. gives tanvè and the others tanūvāi; in ḍ, TB.Āp. read prīyè, and SV.TB.Āp. agree with RV. in jantīre. According to Kāuç. (80. 36), the verse accompanies the carrying of the fire at the head of the procession to the funeral pile; as the comm. states it, carrying the three fires, in the case of one who has established sacrificial fires. The three "lights" are thus understood to be the three sacrificial fires; but they are probably, in the original meaning of the verse, rather three regions of light, to the highest of which the deceased is to be translated.

8. Rise thou, go forth, run forth; make thee a home (śkas) in the sea [as] station; there do thou, in concord with the Fathers, revel with soma, with the svadhās.

The first half-verse is found also in TA. (in vi. 4. 2) which has the easier ending paramé vyōman; the second half of the TA. verse is our vi. 63. 3 c, d. The majority of our saṁhitā-mss. combine dravò 'kaḥ in a-b, but SPP. reports nothing of the kind from his authorities. The verse can be forced down to forty syllables (as a pañkti) by violence in c; [its natural scansion is as 8 + 11: 11 + 11]. It is one of the utthāpanī or 'uplifting' verses, which, with the hariṇīs or 'taking' verses, are used more than once in Kāuç., and are cited in Vāit. (37. 23-24) and elsewhere, in connection with lifting and moving the corpse etc. This one accompanies (Kāuç. 80. 31) the raising of the corpse to carry it to the funeral pile, and later (80. 35), with 1. 61 and 3. 9 and others, the lifting on to the cart and removing; and yet later (82. 31) the gathering up and carrying away the bone-relics.

9. Start (cyu) forward, collect (saṁ-bhṛ) thy body; let not thy limbs (gātra) nor thy frame (garīra) be left out; enter together after thy mind that has entered; wherever in the world thou enjoyest, thither go.

The first half-verse and the last pāda are found also, as parts of different verses, in TA. vi. 4. 2; which, however, reads ūt tiṣṭhā 'tas tanūvaṁ sām bhārasva mē 'hā gātram dva hā mā garīram, and yātra bhūmyāi vṛndse tātra gaccha. Some of our mss. (P.M.O.R.T.K.) accent anu in c; and some (all except O.Op.R.K., also two of SPP's) have bhūme in ḍ; the comm. reads bhūmāu. According to Kāuç. (80. 32), the dead body, after being raised (utthāpay-) with the preceding verse, is made three times to set forth (? saṁhāpay-; saṁ-hā means usually simply 'get up': it is added, "as many times as it is raised") with this one; and this verse is used again, with the preceding verse (under which see) and others, in 80. 35 and 82. 31.

10. Let the soma-drinking (somyā) Fathers anoint me with splendor, the gods with honey, with ghee; making me pass further on unto sight, let them increase me, attaining old age, unto old age.

Some of the mss. (including our D.R.p.m.T.) read đjantu in b; possibly it is their way of emending the false accent of đñjantu; doubtless we ought to change this to añjantu rather than to admit the modulated stem đñja. The pratīka (varcasā mām) applies either to this verse or to the next, or probably is used to include both; whatever it applies to is used, according to Kāuṣ. (81.47; 87.4), in connection with rinsing the mouth at the end of the cremation ceremony and at the beginning of the piṇḍapitryajña; and also (86.17), with 3.61-67, in the ceremony of interring the bones, in connection with supporting the *dhruvanas on the north-west of the fire. The comm. takes notice of only the first of these three applications. * [Caland, WZKM. viii. 369, would read dhruvanāny upayachante at 86.16: I suppose he would render, 'they offer fannings [to the relics].' But are we sure that 86.17 goes with 86.16 and forms a part of the dhruvana ceremony? — Cf. my note to vs. 17 below. — The non-lingualization of the first ṇ gives the strongest possible support for dhruvanāni as against dhru-.]

11. Let Agni anoint me completely with splendor; let Viṣṇu anoint wisdom into my mouth; let all the gods fix wealth upon me; let pleasant waters purify me with purifiers.

The verse is, with resolution of mā-am, a regular triṣṭubh, and no pañkti. As to its ritual application, see under the preceding verse; the comm. regards it as sharing with that verse.

12. Mitra-and-Varuṇa have enclosed (pari-dhā) me; let the sacrificial posts of Aditi increase me; let Indra anoint splendor into my hands; let Savitar make me one attaining old age.

Most of our mss. (all except Op.R.), and half of SPP's, read at the beginning mītrā-varuṇā (Bp. -ṇāu), vocative, which might stand if we altered adhātām to -thām; both editions give mītrāvaruṇā, ours by emendation. A variant for svāravas in b would be very welcome; the comm. gets rid of the difficulty in its characteristic way, by making the word an adjective to ādityās, and signifying either "making a pleasant sound" or "making a distress directed at our enemies"! The third pāda, if properly read, has a redundant syllable; but the Anukr. would apparently have us read nyanaktu in three syllables, as written. The Kāuṣ. uses the verse with washing the hands, at the end of the cremation ceremony (81.46), and at the beginning of the piṇḍapitryajña (87.3); the comm. notices only the latter of the two uses.

13. Him who died first of mortals, who went forth first to that world, Vivasvat's son, assembler of people, king Yama honor ye with oblation.

The second half-verse is identical with 1.49 c, d, and the first half is analogous with the same, a, b (= RV. x. 14. 1 etc.: see under 1.49). The verse is redundant by a syllable in [the perfectly good jagati pāda] d. For its use by Kāuṣ., with 2.49, see under the latter; [and especially my note to 1.49]. [The verse is discussed by Hillebrandt, Ved. Mythol. i. 491.]

14. Go away, ye Fathers, and come; this sacrifice is all anointed with honey for you; both give to us here excellent property, and assign to us wealth having all heroes.

The second half-verse is found also in AÇS. (ii. 7.9) and MB. (ii. 3.5); both read at the end ni yacchata, and at the beginning MB. has dattā 'sm-, and AÇS. strangely dattāyā 'sm-. [Our pāda-texts read dattó (= dattā u) ti: see Prāt. i. 80.] The translation implies that drāviṇe 'há is for drāviṇam ihá (p. drāviṇā: ihá); the comm. glosses drāviṇā by draviṇam; [cf. my Noun-Inflection, p. 331, ¶ 4]. The comm. also understands the first pāda to signify that the Fathers are to go to their own world, and then to return when invoked to their own sacrifice; and this is probably the sense.

15. Let Kaṇva, Kakshīvant, Purumīḍha, Agastya, Ćyāvācva, Sobharī, Archanānas, Viçvāmitra, Jamadagni here, Atri, Kaçyapa, Vāmadeva, aid us.

The comm. amuses himself with giving etymologies for all these names, only passing over Agastya and Sobharī as "evident" (prasiddha).

16. O Viçvāmitra, Jamadagni, Vasishṭha, Bharadvāja, Gotama, Vāmadeva — Atri hath taken (grabh) our çardīs with obeisances; ye Fathers of good report, be gracious to us.

The translation implies in ḍ emendation of sū-saṇṇāsas to suçāṇsāsas [so W's ms. ! it must certainly be a double slip for sūçāṇsāsas], for which it seems most probably a corruption, and which is read by the comm. [he reads in fact suçāṇsāsas, and understands it as W. does]; the only variants in the mss. are sūçāṇsāsas [with palatal ç twice] in some of ours (P.M.I.) and one (C.) of SPP's, and the accentuation on the second syllable, -sāṇṇ-, in a few (including our O.R.T.).* Pitaras in b ought properly to be without accent. [As to what precedes, see the next ¶.] Some of the mss. read çārdīr or çārdīr. The comm. first identifies the word with chardis, and pronounces it a name for 'house'; then, as alternative, he gets it from root çard and makes çardayāti signify balayati; [and, as a final alternative, he regards the word as the name of a Rishi]. Neither Kāuç. nor Vāit. makes any use of these two verses. [Weber, Episches in vedischen Ritual, Sb. 1891, p. 787, suggests a special connection of this book xviii. with the Kāuçikan Viçvāmitras.]

*[The decision here lies between the well-authenticated su-çāṇsa ('of good wishes, kindly': root çais) and the doubtful su-saṇṇās ('kindly admonishing,' presumably oxytone: root çās with saṃ). The former occurs five times in RV. and also at AV. xix. 10. 6. The latter occurs nowhere, unless here, nor does it seem to be apposite in meaning: yet the authority of the mss. and of the çotriya V. is decidedly in favor of it. No ms. soever actually gives sūçāṇsāsas; but the mss. that have the impossible sūçāṇsāsas may well be regarded as intending sūçāṇsāsas. — Moreover, if the two vocatives stood in the order pitaraḥ su-, I should leave the second one unaccented (Gram. § 314 d), as W. suggests; but with the order sū- pit-, the second seems distinctly more independent of the first (Gram. § 314 e) and may properly be accented. I would therefore read sūçāṇsāsah pitaraḥ, and render 'O ye kindly ones, ye Fathers!' As for the meaning of suçāṇsa: note that çāṇsa means 'a wish, good or evil,' i.e. not only 'curse,' but also 'blessing,' and is used in these two opposite senses in two contiguous RV. verses, vii. 25. 2, 3; and that, in its good sense, it is pertinent to the Fathers, as at RV. x. 78. 3, pitṛṇām nā çāṇsāḥ surātīyaḥ. Note further that 'kindly' accords well with the character of the Fathers as described in RV. x. 15: they bless and help (vss. 5 d, 4 c), and are harmless (1 c, 6 c) and gracious (3 a, 9 c). — That, in such a "pestilent congregation of" sibilants as sūçāṇsāsas, a blunder of the tradition is rather to be expected than not, is my opinion: whoso doubts it, let him attempt "with moderate haste" to repeat aloud three times the simple English sentence "she sells sea-shells."]]

17. They overpass defilement (ripṛā), wiping [it] off in the metal bowl (? kasyā), assuming further on newer life-time, filling themselves up with progeny and riches; then may we be of good odor in the houses.

[Pāda c = RV. x. 18. 2 c.] The translation boldly assumes that kasyā is a corruption of, or equivalent to, kāṇṣā; the Pet. Lexx. pass the word without notice; the comm. says that kasa means kikasa 'vertebra,' the kī being dropped by Vedic license (!), and that kasya, as an adjective derived from it, means "the place of cremation"! All authorities read kasyē without variation, [save that SPP's ṣṛotriya K., whose memory of this book was not perfect, recited kāsyē]. [See note *, below.] The authorities are divided, however, between mṛjānās and mṛjānūs (among those having the latter are our O.R.); both editions give the former, though it is an isolated accentuation; mṛjānū is regular (and occurs in RV.), while mṛjāna is supported (Gram. § 619 d) by the analogy of several other such participles; [cf. note to vs. 73]. Two of our three pāda-mss. (Bp.Kp.) have āyuhodādhanās in b as compound, and most of our samhitā-mss. (all save O.R.) accent accordingly āyur d-; but SPP. acknowledges the reading in only a single ms. (pāda), and of course gives in his text (as we in ours by emendation) āyur d-. The comm. regards surabhāyas in d as figurative, for ślāghyagunayuktās. In Kāuṣ. (84. 10) the verse is directed to be used as the women go three times round (the relics of the funeral pile) leftwise, with disheveled hair and beating the right thigh.

18. They anoint, they anoint out (vī), they anoint together (sām); they lick the rite (? krātu), they smear (abhi-añj) with honey; the bull (ukṣān) flying in the upheaving of the river, the victim (paśū) do the gold-purifiers seize (gr̥h) in them [f.].

The verse is RV. ix. 86. 43, the only variant in which is gr̥bhñate at the end (and our I. also has this; also the comm.). SV. (i. 564; ii. 964) has it also and agrees with RV. in this word, but also has before it apsū instead of āsu, and in b mādhvā. The comm. understands sihālīṣu to be intended by the pronoun āsu. The verse is one of the wild utterances of the soma-purifiers in RV., and seems to be introduced here without any proper connection with the funeral ceremonies, simply because there is so much "anoint" in it. In Kāuṣ. (88. 16), it accompanies an anointing in the pīṇḍapitrayajña; and in Vāit. (10. 4), a smearing of the sacrificial post with butter in the paṣubandha. [Pādas b, c, d are good jagati: but a has no jagati character whatever, and by count it is vīrāj rather than bhurij; but perhaps the Anukr. (see note to the excerpts from Anukr.) does not mean to call it bhurij.]

19. What of you is joyous, O Fathers, and delectable (somyā), there-with be at hand (sac), for ye are of own splendor; do ye, rapid (? drvan) poets, listen, beneficent, invoked at the council.

Nearly all our mss. (save Op.R.s.m.) accent pitāras in a; SPP. reports only a single pada-ms. as doing so, and of course reads pitāras, as does our text by emendation. Nearly all the authorities, again, give bhūtām at end of b; [but Whitney's Op. has bhūtā; and his] K. has bhūtā, as have three of SPP's, who reads bhūtā. [The word itself is lost from the comm., but glossed by bhavatha.] We ought to have emended to bhūtā. Once more, all the authorities without exception accent suvidatrās, which SPP. accordingly retains, while we have made the necessary emendation to -dātrās. One is tempted to change arvāṇas in c to arvāñcas. The extra syllable in b suggests corruption; [and so, perhaps, does the fact that in O.R. the avasāna is before bhūtām, not after it].

20. Ye who are Atris, Aṅgirasas, Navagvas, having sacrificed, attached to giving (? rātiṣāc), bestowers (dādhlāna), and who are rich in sacrificial fees, well-doing — do ye revel, sitting on this barhīs.

The meaning of some of these epithets is not altogether clear. No use is made of the verse in the sūtras.

21. So then as our distant Fathers, the ancient ones, O Agni, sharpening the rite: they went to the bright, they shone,* [should be shining], praising with song; splitting the ground, they uncovered the ruddy ones.

The verse corresponds to RV. iv. 2. 16, found also in VS. (xix. 69) and TS. (in ii. 6. 124) which read precisely with RV. The variants of our text are no better than corruptions; the others have at end of b āṇṣānās [p. āṇṣānāḥ], and in c ādhītīm. The translation follows our text.* The comm. takes āṇṣānās (p. āṇṣā-) from root aṇ, and glosses it with vyāpnuvāntas! The "ruddy ones" are in its opinion the dawns [or else the stolen cows which the Aṅgirasas got back from the Papis]. — * [Whitney's ms. reads "they shone": this is probably an oversight and should be "shining"; his Bp., to be sure, but Bp. alone, has dādhyata, not -taḥ.]

22. Of good actions, well-shining, pious, heavenly ones (devā), forging the generations as [smiths forge] metal, brightening Agni, increasing Indra, they have made for us a wide conclave (pariṣād), rich in kine.

The corresponding verse in RV. (iv. 2. 17) combines in a-b devayāntō 'yo, has in c vavṛdh-, and for d ūrūm gāvyaṃ pariṣādanto agman; its pada-text in b reads [jānima like ours]. [Weber, Sb. 1896, p. 263-64, takes devā (jānima) as = devānām and the whole verse as a parallel to vs. 23, where the phrase devānām jānima occurs in full.]

23. As herds at food (kṣum), the formidable one hath looked over [āti] the cattle, the births of the gods, near by; mortals have lamented the urudāṣ, unto the increase of the pious, of the next man.

The translation is purely mechanical, and sundry of the words in it are extremely questionable. The verse corresponds to RV. iv. 2. 18, which, however, reads in a kṣumāti as one word (p. kṣumāti; our p. kṣum: āti), makes good meter in b by inserting yāt after devānām, and reads in c mārtānām. SPP. reads, with RV. and with the comm., kṣumāti; this is against nearly all his and our authorities; [they have kṣumāti]; but our O.R. have kṣumāti and Op. has [the impossible] kṣum: āti [with accentless kṣum]. The translation implies at the end of b ugrās, which SPP. reads, with about half his authorities and the comm.; of ours, most of the later ones have it also (Op.D. ugráh; O.R.K. ugrah [accentless!]). The comm. renders a, b thus: "the mighty one, Agni, looks near by upon the birth of the gods, Indra etc., as in a noisy (kṣumati = śabdavati) herd (yūthā being = yūthe) of kine a master sees his own cattle (paçvas)": or, he says, it is the consuming fire that is addressed: "O Agni, this sacrificer who is being consumed by thee, mighty by thy favor, in a noisy cattle-crowd, looks upon the birth of the gods as upon herds of cattle (paçvas); the sense being that the gods come to light in the neighborhood of him who has gone to the world of the gods." This is the kind of help that the commentator gives in a difficult passage. Urvāçis is to him the Apsarases, Urvāçī etc.; and akṛpran = akalpāyan, which means upabhoktum samarthā bhavanti. Aryás = svāmē. The verse can be forced into the compass of forty syllables (11 + 8 : 10 + 11 = 40), as the Anukr. estimates it.

*[The RV. verse has been discussed by Bloomfield, JAOS. xx.¹, p. 183. He renders c, d thus: "Even for mortal men Urvāçis were fashioned for the production of the noble lower Āyu." He takes akṛpran as 'there were formed,' aor. pass. of kṛp = klp: cf. the akalpāyan of our comm. and the klptās of Sāyaṇa on RV. He explains: Just as Urvāçī, the goddess Cloud, produces the celestial fire, so the fire-drills (called urvāçis) produce for mortals the terrestrial sacrificial fire (āpara āyū).]

24. We have made [sacrifices] for thee; we have been very active; the illuminating (vi-bhā) dawns have shone upon [our] rite (ṛtā); all that is excellent which the gods favor; may we talk big at the council, having good heroes.

The first half-verse is, without variant, RV. iv. 2. 19 a, b; the second half is, also without variant, RV. ii. 23. 19 c, d (and VS. xxxiv. 58 c, d). Many of the mss., however, (including our Bs.O.K.) combine in a-b to abhūma rām. The comm. has in b the strange reading avasvan (voc. := avanavan or pālaka).

25. Let Indra with the Maruts protect me from the eastern quarter; arm-moved [is] the earth, as it were to the sky above; to the world-makers, the road-makers, do we sacrifice, whoever of you are here, sharing in the oblation of the gods.

[As for this whole passage, vss. 25-37, see my introductory notes, p. 847, ¶ 8, and Caland's orientation of it in his Todtengebräuche, p. 154.] This is a very curious and obscure refrain (its last two pādas occur again as refrain of 4. 16-24). In b, bāhucyūtā (which ought to mean 'by a mover, or a moving, of arms') is rendered as if it were bāhucyutā; [Weber proposes to emend to -tām]; the comm. also takes -cyūtā as past pass. pple., glossing it by vinirgatā, or, in an alternative explanation, by prāptā: either "proceeded out from the arms of the givers" or "arrived in the arms of the receivers"; the allusion being to the giving of land to Brahmans: "as land given protects in the future (upāri) the heavenly world which is to be enjoyed by both parties"! The use by the sūtras casts no light upon the meaning. Vāit. (22. 3) prescribes the verse for use with an offering to the Maruts in the agniṣṭoma ceremony [doubtless on account of the word marutvān]. In Kāuṣ. (81. 39), this verse alone, so far as appears [but the comm., p. 1525, says vss. 25-29], is combined with 1. 41-43 etc. to accompany the offerings to Sarasvatī at the funeral pile; again (85. 26), vss. 25-37 (the comm. says, 25-35) are used with 2. 24, 26, etc. in connection with the interment of the bone-relics.

[This last use does indeed perhaps cast light on the passage. The previous sūtra, 85. 25, with Caland's emendation (l.c., p. 154), reads: edam barhir [xviii. 4. 52] ity

asthitas tanuṃ yathāparu saṃcinoti. I think his emendation receives support from the AV. comm., who says, at vol. iv., p. 224⁶, edam barhīr ity ṛcā kule jyeṣṭho 'sthini yathāparu saṃcinuyāt. If we take saṃ-ci in the sense of 'assemble' as used in the phrase 'assemble the interchangeable parts of a bicycle or a Waltham watch,' our sūtra would then mean, 'while repeating xviii. 4. 52, he (the dead man's eldest son) assembles a human figure (tanuṃ), limb by limb, from the bones (asthi-tas), i.e. he makes such a figure out of the bones by assembling them.'—If this be right, then we probably have to infer from the AV. text and from the next sūtra, 85. 26, that the eldest son addresses the deities with vss. 25–29, and does so as spokesman of his dead father, represented by the prostrate figure of bones; and that, while uttering vss. 30–35, he addresses his dead father, but does so as speaking for himself.—As to forming a human figure (puruṣākṛti) with the bones, cf. further Bāudhāyana's Pitṛmedhasūtra, i. 10, especially lines 5, 7, 10, 13 of p. 15, ed. Caland.]

26. Let Dhātār protect me from perdition from the southern quarter; arm-moved etc. etc.

27. Let Aditi with the Ādityas protect me from the western quarter; arm-moved etc. etc.

28. Let Soma with all the gods protect me from the northern quarter; arm-moved etc. etc.

29. Dhartar the maintainer shall maintain thee aloft, as Savitar the light (bhānū) to the sky above; to the world-makers etc. etc.

The translation follows the comm. in connecting ūrdhvām with what precedes, instead of (as the meter suggests, and as is perhaps rather to be preferred) with what follows it.* The definition by the Anukr. of the meter of these five verses is not very acceptable; the refrain of 25–28 has 35 syllables (12:12+11); the prefixed variable part varies from 12 to 14; 28 has 46 syllables (11+12:12+11). [Cf. note to excerpts from Anukr., above, p. 847, top.]

*[There is a clear play of words in dhartā dharuṇo dhārayātāi, not without conscious reminiscence, perhaps, of the familiar plays in varaṇo vārayātāi at x. 3. 5 and vi. 85. 1, and in vār idam vārayātāi varaṇvatyām adhi at iv. 7. 1.† Moreover, I think that these derivatives of root dhṛ make clear reference to dhruvā diḥ, the 'fixed direction' or 'steadfast region,' and that ūrdhvām makes similar reference to the 'upward region.' Render perhaps: 'Let the Steadier, steadying, steady thee [in the steadfast region], as aloft [that is, in the upward region] Savitar [steadier or maintaineth] the light, the sky above.' Cf. my note, p. 847, ¶ 8. —† Cf. xix. 36. 6 d.]

30. In the eastern quarter, away from approach (?), do I set thee in svadhā; arm-moved etc. etc.

The phrase purā saṃvṛtaḥ is very doubtful; perhaps it means rather, with the more literal sense of purā and taking -vṛt as from root vr, 'before covering up' [so Caland takes it: Todtengebräuche, p. 154–5]; the comm., with his ordinary heedlessness of accent, makes it a pple. (as if sānvṛtas), rendering it "formerly covered up" (pūrvam saṃchāditaḥ); or else, he says, purā is instr. of pur = ṣarita 'body,' and it means "along with thy body" (saṣarita eva san). Kāuṣ. (80. 53) uses the verse (doubtless with the five that follow it) in fixing the body in place on the funeral pile; but he adds in the next rule that Uparibabhava prohibits it. The comm. takes no notice of any such application.

31. In the southern quarter, away etc. etc.
32. In the western quarter, away etc. etc.
33. In the northern quarter, away etc. etc.
34. In the fixed quarter, away etc. etc.
35. In the upward quarter, away etc. etc.

These six verses, 30–35, have the same refrain of 35 syllables as vss. 25–28; and the prefixed part, variable only in its first word, ranges from 17 to 19 syllables; the definition of the Anukr. is approximately accurate.

36. Dhartar ('maintainer') art thou; maintaining art thou; bull (vānsaga) art thou.

37. Water-purifying art thou; honey-purifying art thou; wind-purifying art thou.

The comm. regards both these prose verses (yajurmantra) as addressed to Agni, quoting RV. iv. 58. 3 and vi. 16. 39 to prove the applicability to him of the epithets in 36. The sūtras make no use of them save by their inclusion in the series 25–37 in Kāuṣ. 85. 26: see above, under vs. 25. The Anukr., in counting the syllables of 36, restores both the elided initial a's.

[Verses 38 and 39 are addressed to the oblation-carts. The rearrangement of the RV. pādas in the AV. text is of such critical interest that it is worth a little space to exhibit the method to the eye.—The yuje vām etc. of the RV. seems to be clearly prefatory, and probably few will deny that the RV. order is the more nearly original, and that the AV. order and readings are secondary.

38. Both from here and from yonder let them (du.) aid me.

As ye (du.) [neut.] went pressing on (root yat) like two twins, god-loving men (mānuṣa) bring you forward; sit ye, [each] on thine own place, knowing [it]; —

[See my added note just preceding the translation of verse 38.]

In this and the three following verses we have the [entire] RV. hymn x. 13, [except its last verse, the fifth, and] except its vs. 1 d. [See introduction, page 848, top.] This verse is its 2 a, b, c [its d follows at the beginning of our next verse], with a pāda prefixed as our a that forms no part of the RV. hymn. The first two verses are addressed to the two havirdhānas, or vehicles or vessels in which the soma-stalks are brought to the place of pressing; [cf. our comm., p. 158, and Sāyana on RV.]. The reason of the introduction of the hymn here is altogether obscure (unless it be the occurrence of the word yama in 38 b), and Kāuṣ. has no use for it. In a, our mss., so far as noted, accent mā, but SPP. mentions [only one] among his [as reading mā]; and both editions give mā, as is undoubtedly correct. RV., in b, accents ātam, which, of course, is alone grammatically possible; but both AV. editions have ātām, with all the mss. TA. (in vi. 5. 1) also has the verse, and differs from RV. only in having ētam: [so, indeed, the Calc. ed., text and comm.! ētam (not etām, pron.) can only be an imperative: but the Poona ed., text and comm., have ātam, like RV.]. Our text has sīdatam in d, with RV. and a part of our mss. (not O.Op.R.D.K. [which read badly -tām]); but SPP. admits -tām, in spite of its inappropriateness, because [-tām is supported by] only one of his authorities and the comm. [Is the consentaneousness of the mss. in the blundering -tām possibly due to a reminiscence of the correct āsīdatām of the immediately preceding context in TA.? cf. the case at x. 6. 17, and note.] Vidāne might be from vid 'find'; the comm. glosses it with jānati. One might conjecture that ātām in b is for āōātām 'came,' but neither pada-text views it in that way. The verse cannot be made a full trīṣṭubh without violent resolutions in the first pāda—which is, of course, properly prose. [Considering the textual inaccuracies in the tradition of this passage, perhaps it is not too bold to suggest the query whether a mā has been lost: itā ca mā amītaḥ cāvātām mā would be a perfect trīṣṭubh pāda.] Vāit. (15. 11) makes vs. 38 and 39 accompany in the agniṣṭoma ceremony the driving up of the two havirdhānas.

39. Be ye comfortable (? svāsastha) for our soma.

I yoke for you ancient worship (brāhman) with obeisances; the song (ślōka) goes forth like a patron (sūri) on his road; let all the immortals hear that.

[See my added note just preceding the translation of verse 38.]

The verse is pāda d of the RV. vs. x. 13. 2 [of which pādas a, b, c immediately precede in our AV. text], followed by pādas a, b, c of the RV. vs. 1. RV. accents in a svāsasthé; [the AV. accent seems wrong;] both pada-texts divide svās-. RV. further reads in [its b, our] c, etu and sūrés, and at the end amītasya putrāḥ. The RV. verse is found also in VS. (xi. 5) and MS. (in ii. 7. 1) with the same readings throughout as in RV.; and in TS. (iv. 1. 1*), which reads for our c et ślōkā yanti pathyē 'va sūrāḥ, and in d varies from RV. etc. only by having ṣṛṇvanti. The comm. glosses svāsasthe with sukhāsanasthe; he takes yujé as 1st sing., as it is translated above; the form might, of course, be 3d sing., like duhé, ḥāye, etc. [In d, ṣṛṇvāntu is a misprint for ṣṛṇvāntu.]

40. Three steps the form (?) ascended, it went (?) after the four-footed one (f.) with its course (vratā); it matches the song (arkā) with the syllable; in the navel of right it purifies.

The translation is purely mechanical, the verse being highly obscure, and its AV. version evidently corrupt. RV. (x. 13. 3) reads in a pāṇca (for trīṇi) and aroham, in b emi for the absurd āitat (apparently a blundering extension * of ait), at end of c mima etām, and in d dhāt (our abht has to be omitted in translation) sām punāmi. It also has in a rupās, which SPP. admits in his text on the authority of the majority of his mss. and of the comm. (the latter takes it from root rup, and makes it mean mṛtaḥ purusaḥ); some of our later mss. (O.Op.R.D.) also give it, and it is to be regarded as the preferable reading, if there is such a thing in this case. In b, SPP. strangely reads in his samhitā-text āitad vr- and in his pada-text etat, his pada-mss. having etat or ait — both, doubtless, by accidental misreadings*; the comm., however, gives etat, and makes it qualify vratena, being itself = etena! For nābhāu in d the comm. has yonāu.

*[If āitad is a “blundering extension of ait,” one does not see why W. calls the pada-reading ait “an accidental misreading.” — Meantime, in Oertel’s edition of JUB., published in JAOS. xvi., we find (i. 48, p. 125-6) sa hāi ’vahiḥ ṣoḍaśadhā ’tmānāṁ vikṛtya, sārddham samāit. tad yat sārddham samāitat, tat sāmnaś sāmnavam; and (iii. 38, p. 197) tā rcaḥ ṣarīreṇa mṛtyur anvāitat. tad yat etc. On p. 234, Oertel suggests that we might regard samāitat and anvāitat as due to dittography of the following tat, “were it not for AV. xviii. 3. 40, anvāitat, which is protected by the meter.” Cf. also Henry, Revue Critique, 1894, no’s 39-40, p. 146. — See also SPP’s full critical notes upon the verse, p. 160. It may be added that W’s O. gives padmānāṁ anvāitād, and his Op. anu : āitāt.]

41. For the gods he chose death; for his progeny did he not choose immortality (amṛta)? Brihaspati [as] seer extended the sacrifice; Yama left (ā-ric) his dear self (?).

Or, ‘the dear body (tanū).’ Here too the variations from the RV. version (x. 13. 4) seem to be corruptions only. RV. has kām in b, correlative to that in a; for c it gives bṛhaspātīm yajñam akṛvata ṣim, and at the end prā ’rīrecit. The comm. explains ā rīreca by samantād riktāṁ niḥsāram mṛtāṁ kṛtavān. [See Ludwig’s discussion of the verse, Ueber die kritik des RV-textes, Abh. der k. böhmischen Gesellschaft der Wiss., 1889, no. 5, p. 46.]

42. Thou, O Agni, Jātavedas, being praised, hast carried the offerings, having made them fragrant; thou hast given to the Fathers; they have eaten after their wont (? svadhāyā); eat thou, O god, the presented oblations.

The verse corresponds to RV. x. 15. 12, found also in VS. (xix. 66) and TS. (in ii. 6. 125). [Disregarding īlitā,] RV. differs only by reading kṛtvā at end of b; and VS. agrees with it in this, but has kavyavāhana for jātavedas in a; [TS. agrees with AV. throughout.] Āp. (in i. 10. 14) and MB. (ii. 3. 17) have a verse that agrees with this in b and c, save that MB. has prā ’dāt for prā ’dās in c: but their a is abhūn no dūto haviṣo jātavedāḥ; and for d, Āp. has prajānann agne punar apy ehi devān, while MB. reads p. a. p. ehi yonim. The second half-verse occurs again below as 4. 65 c, d. Kāuç. (89. 13) makes the verse, with 4. 88, and with two verses not found elsewhere, accompany the feeding of the fire at the end of the pīṇapitryajña. [The forms dvāt and akṣan are treated, Gram. § 890 a and § 833 a. As for the sandhi dhādh of the mss., see note to Prāt. i. 94.]

43. Sitting in the lap of the ruddy ones (f.), assign ye wealth to your mortal worshiper (dācvaṁś); of that good, O Fathers, present ye to your sons; do ye bestow (dhā) refreshment here.

The verse is found, without variant, as RV. x. 15. 7 and VS. xix. 63. The comm. glosses aruṇānām in a as aruṇavarṇānām mātṛnām, without further explanation. Kāuç. does not quote the verse.

44. Ye fire-sweetened Fathers, come hither; sit on each seat, well-conducting ones; eat on the barhís the presented oblations, and assign to us wealth having all heroes.

The verse is RV. x. 15. 11 through three pādas, RV. having for ḍ: áthā rayñī sárva-vírāñ dadhātana; it also reads attā [p. attā] in c; and three other texts (VS. xix. 59; TS. in ii. 6. 12²; MS. in iv. 10. 6) agree throughout with it. The comm., too, gives atta and dadhātana. The Anukr. does not heed that we need at the end dadhātana to make a full jagati. For the use of the verse by Kāuṣ., with 45 and 46 and other verses, see under 1. 51; for its use by Vāit., with 45 and other verses, see under 1. 44 and 51.

45. Called unto [are] our delectable (somyá) Fathers, to dear deposits on the barhís; let them come; let them listen here; let them bless, let them aid us.

The verse is RV. x. 15. 5, which differs only by omitting the meter-disturbing nas in a. Other texts (VS. xix. 57; TS. ii. 6. 12³; MS. iv. 10. 6) agree with RV.; but TS. combines té avanti in ḍ. [Our ḍ recurs at TB. ii. 6. 16².] The use of the verse in Kāuṣ. and Vāit. is the same as that of vs. 44. The comm. glosses nidhīṣu by nidhīya-māneṣu haviṣṣu.

46. They who, our father's fathers, who [his] grandfathers, followed after (ʔ anu-hā) the soma-drinking, best ones—with them let Yama, sharing his gift of oblations, he eager with them eager, eat at pleasure.

The verse is RV. x. 15. 8 (and VS. xix. 51, which has the same text with RV.); this, however, reads for a: yé naḥ pūrvé pítarañ somyāsaḥ. In b our text gives, with RV. VS. anūhīré (RV. p. anuūhīré), but it is by emendation, for all our mss. have anujahīré or anūjahīré, p. anuvajahīré; [the actual details seem to be as follows: anujahīré is given by Bp.P.D., while O.Op.R. have anujahīré; and anūjahīré is given by Bs.M.T., while K. has anūjahīré.] [SPP's authorities show the same four varying forms of the word:] he reads anūjahīré, p. anuvajahīré, although the majority [five] of his samhitā-authorities and the comm. have the preferable anujah- [as against three with anūjah-]. Our translation implies the manuscript reading, though it is plainly a corruption of what RV. gives. [Whether we read anujahīré (from anu-hā) or anūhīré (from anu-rah: Sāyaṇa, ānupūrvyeṇa . . . dattavantaḥ; Mahīdhara, anuvahanti; Weber, 'welche nachgezogen sind'), in either case the sense is about the same.] The comm. treats the word as if it came from root hr: anukrameṇa haranty ātmasāt kurvanti. It looks a little as if the text-makers had in mind the root jeh, found in the next verse. The use of the verse with its two predecessors in Kāuṣ. was noted under vs. 44. It is very unsuitably reckoned by the Anukr. a jagati, having only one real jagati pāda; [it scans perfectly as 12 + 11 : 11 + 11; the corruption anujahire gives b 12 syllables, but no true jagati character]. [W's version of c accords with Geldner's at Ved. Stud. i. 170 note.]

47. They who thirsted panting among the gods, knowers of offering, praise-fashioned, with songs (arkā)—come, O Agni, with the thousand god-revering true poets, seers sitting at the gharmā.

[This verse and the next correspond to RV. x. 15. 9 and 10; but AV. makes the third pāda of 9 change place with the third pāda of 10: cf. the shuffling at xviii. 2. 2 and note.] The RV. verse occurs also in TB. ii. 6. 16² and MS. iv. 10. 6. All these read in ḍ karyāṭh pitṛbhis after satyāts; and TB. has in a tāṭṛpūs, and in b hotrāvṛdhas. Nearly all our mss., but, according to his account, only one of SPP's, accent ṛṣṭbhis in d.* The comm. glosses jēhamānās with prayatamānās; his explanation of the strange compound stómataṣṭa is in part lost; he understands by gharma the pravargya soma-offering; and he paraphrases sahasram by aparimitaṁ dhanam yathā bhavati. This verse and the next are used by Kāuṣ. (87. 22) as explained under 2. 34. * [SPP. plausibly suggests that the madhyodātta of ṛṣṭbhis in this vs. and the next is to be accounted for by the madhyodātta of the corresponding word in RV., to wit, pitṛbhis. If he is right, the case is very probably similar to that of ṛṣṭbhyas at xix. 22. 14 (cf. the ṣṭṭbhyas of many mss. in the next vs. 1) and to those noted under xiv. 2. 59: other cases at xix. 22. 9, 10; 38. 1 d.]

48. The true, oblation-eating, oblation-drinking [ones], that [go] in alliance (sarātham) with the gods, with strong (turā) Indra—come hitherward, O Agni, with the beneficent, exalted (pāra), ancient seers, sitting at the gharmā.

The RV., in the corresponding verse (x. 15. 10 a, b, d, 9 c) [see under our vs. 47], reads dādānās in b for turēṇa, and pitṛbhis in d for ṛṣṭbhis—which again all our mss. save one (Op.), but of SPP's only one, accent ṛṣṭbhis (as in 47 d) [see my note marked with a * under 47]. In c (see under vs. 47), MS. reads arvāk (but its pada-ms. arvāṇ), [while TB. (ii. 6. 16²) reads as AV. RV.]. The verse is used in Kāuṣ. only with its predecessor, which see.

49. Approach (upa-spp) thou this mother earth (bhūmi), the wide-expanded earth (prthivī), the very propitious; the earth (prthivī) [is] soft as wool to him who has sacrificial gifts; let her protect thee on the forward road in front.

The RV., in the corresponding verse (x. 18. 10), reads yuvatis for the repetitious prthivī in c, and, at the end of d, nṛṣṭer upāsthāt; and TA. (in vi. 7. 1) agrees in general with RV., but substitutes the [modernized] equivalent form nṛṣṭyās; it also has the real variants dākṣiṇāvati in c [and upāsthe in d]. SPP. makes no remark on ūrnamradās, but three of our pada-mss. [Bp.D.Kp.] have the blundering division ūrnamomradāḥ, and nearly all our samhitā-mss. (not R.) correspondingly ūrnammrādās: the blunder grows, of course, out of the equivalence in grammatical theory of mr and mmr. The verse (according to the comm., vss. 49–51) is used [Kāuṣ. 86. 10] with 2. 50 (see under that verse) in covering the bones.

50. Swell thou up, O earth; do not press down; be to him easy of access, easy of approach; as a mother her son with her skirt (śic), do thou, O earth (bhūmi), cover him.

The corresponding verse in RV. (x. 18. 11) has at end of b śūpavañcanā. TA. (in vi. 7. 1) has in a śchmañcasva and vī bādhihās, in b vañcanā, and at end of d bhūmi vṛṇu. We had the latter half-verse above, as 2. 50 c, d. The comm. paraphrases uchvañcasva with ucchūnāvayavā pulakitā bhava. [W. appears to follow the comm. in rendering śc chvañcasva by 'swell thou up.' I do not see why he quit his old version, 'open thyself.' In my Reader, p. 385, I said "Note the meaning of chvañc ['open itself; receive in open arms (as a maid her lover)'] and its concinnity with the metaphor of yuvati" [of the vs. which precedes alike in RV. and AV.]. At RV. x. 142. 6,

Ludwig renders úc chv- by 'gāne empor': cf. Eggeling's version of ucchvañka and the context at ÇB. v. 4. 19. In neither RV. passage does Sāyaṇa seem convincing.]

51. Let the earth kindly remain swelling up, for let a thousand props support (upa-çri) it; let these houses, dripping with ghee, pleasant, be forever a refuge for him there (dtra).

[As to uchvāñc-, see note to vs. 50.] The verse is RV. x. 18. 12, which in c reads bhavantu for syonās. TA. (in vi. 7. 1) has in a úchmāñc- [so Calc. ed.: Poona has ucchmāñc-] and hí [tīṣṭhasi] for sú [tīṣṭhatu]; in b it leaves çrayantām unaccented (if it be not a misprint); [so Calc.: Poona has it rightly çráy-]; in c it [has madhu-çcúto for ghṛtaçcúto, and] omits syonās (or bhavantu); [and begins d with vīçvāhā: so accented in both ed's, as if it were two words, as in RV. i. 52. 11; 130. 2 (dhá vīçvā); iii. 54. 22]. The comm. reads in b mithas, but explains it as if mitas (mtyamāñ oṣadhayaḥ). The Anukr. takes no notice of the extra syllable in a.

52. I brace up (ut-stabh) the earth from about thee; setting down this clod (? logá), let me take no harm; this pillar do the Fathers maintain for thee; let Yama there make seats for thee.

The corresponding RV. verse (x. 18. 13) reads in c-d dhārayantu té'trā [p. te dtra], and ends with minotu. The TA. (in vi. 7. 1) reads tabhnomi in a [despite the interposition of te: an interesting variant; cf. Gram. § 185 c, aty aṣṭhāt etc.]; in b, it substitutes, as do two or three mss. (including our O.) and the comm., lokām [surd] for logām [sonant: cf. note to ii. 13. 3]; at the juncture of c and d it agrees with RV. [-yantu té'trā]; and ends with sādanāt te minotu. [As to sādanāt te, cf. the contrary blunders at xv. 10. 2; xviii. 2. 3, note.] Nearly all the mss. (all save our R. and one of SPP's) have riṣan at end of b; but both editions emend to riṣam [as RV. reads]. Our mss. vary in accent between sthūñām and sthūñām; in explanation of etām sthūñām, the comm. says etām prasiddhām sthūñām tava gṛhanirmāṇāya. As a triṣṭubh, the verse has really three syllables in excess instead of one. Kāuṣ. quotes it (86. 8) in the ceremony of interment of the bones, with the direction logān yathāparṇa, doubtless '[laying] clods for each several joint'; the comm. does not notice this.

53. This bowl, O Agni, do not warp (vi-hvṛ); [it is] dear to the gods and the delectable [Fathers]; this bowl here for the gods to drink from — in it let the immortal gods revel.

The RV. has in the corresponding verse (x. 16. 8) eṣā for ayām in c, and at the end mādayante; TA. (in vi. 1. 4) reads in a jihvāras, and, like RV., eṣā in c. The Kāuṣ. (81. 9) makes it accompany the laying of the iḍā-bowl on the head of the corpse on the funeral pile, when the deceased's sacrificial implements are disposed about him to be burned with him. The irregularity of the verse (12 + 11 : 10 + 11 = 44) is unnoticed by the Anukr.

54. The bowl that Atharvan bore full to Indra the vigorous, in that he makes a draught of what is well done; in that, soma (indru) ever purifies itself.

The comm. supplies yajñasya to sukṛtasya, and, as subject of kṛnoti, ṛtvijām gaṇaḥ. [The verse scans as 8 + 12 : 11 + 11.] — [See my note on Part VII., above, p. 848.]

55. What of thee the black bird (çakundā) thrust at, the ant, the serpent, or also the beast of prey (çvāpada), let the all-eating [viçva-ād] Agni make that free from disease, and the soma that hath entered the Brahmans.

The verse is RV. x. 16. 6 without variant. TA. has it also, in vi. 4. 2. TA. reads in c [for viçvād ('all-consuming') agādām, the curiously perverted] viçvād ('from every') anṛṇām [which is glossed by sarvasmād upadravād ṛṇarahitam upadravarahitam]. In d it has brāhmaṇām (also, in the printed [Calc.] text, āviveça; but its comm. [Calc.] explains brāhmaṇe and āviveça); [in the Poona ed. the comm. seems to show an alternative reading, either brāhmaṇe or brāhmaṇam, glossed by etadiye brāhmaṇa-çarīre; and it reads of course āviveça]. [Our pratīka is cited by Keçava, p. 368¹⁰, as yat te kṛṣṇaḥ çakuntī ṛcā: is çakunt a blunder? cf. iddm yāt kṛṣṇāḥ çakuntis, vii. 64. 1, 2.]

In Kāuç. the verse is used (80. 5) in the very introduction of the adhyāya, before the handling of the corpse begins; and Keçava says it is in case the man dies of the bite of a crow or ant or the like; the comm. makes the same condition, and adds that the wounded place is to be burned with fire; this is then probably the meaning of Kāuçika's direction ity avadīpayati. The verse appears again (83. 20) in connection with the strewing and covering of the bone-relics.

56. Rich in milk are the herbs; rich in milk is my milk; what is the milk of the milk of the waters, therewith let one beautify (çubh) me.

[The translation implies (instead of the çumbhantu of the Berlin text) the reading çumbhatu, which is read by most of SPP's authorities and some of W's and adopted by SPP. Two or three of SPP's, and W's Op., have çumbhata (a blend of AV. çumbhatu and RV. çundhata?). For the misuse of çumbh for çundh, see note to vi. 115. 3.] The corresponding verse in RV. is x. 17. 14, which has vācas instead of pāyas at end of b; for c, the less repetitious apām pāyasvad it pāyaḥ, and at the end çundhata. TS. (in i. 5. 10²) and TB. (in iii. 7. 47) have again a quite different version: namely, for b, pāyasvad vīrūdhām pāyaḥ; for c, our c; for d, tēna mām indra sām sṛja. Ppp. also has the verse [in xx.] with vācas in b. Its former half appeared above, as iii. 24. 1 a, b, likewise with vācas. In Kāuç. (82. 9), it is used in the ceremonies of the first day after cremation, with strewing tufts of kuça-grass; the comm., however, says instead that it accompanies a bath taken immediately after the cremation of the dead body. The comm. supplies Varuṇa, as god of the waters, for subject of the concluding verb.

57. Let these women, not widows, well-spoused, touch themselves with ointment, with butter; tearless, without disease, with good treasures, let the wives ascend first to the place of union.

This verse (= RV. x. 18. 7; TA. vi. 10. 2) was found above, as xii. 2. 31, where see: it is not used by Kāuç. in the book of funeral and ancestral ceremonies.

58. Unite thyself (sam-gam) with the Fathers, with Yama, with thy sacred and charitable works in the highest firmament; abandoning what is reproachful, come again home;—let him unite himself with a body, very splendid.

The corresponding verse in RV. (x. 14. 8) reads in c hitvāya, and in d gachasva, continuing the general construction of the verse. The first half is found also in TA. (in vi. 4. 2), which has svadhābhis for yamēna, and adds after it another sām. We had the last pāda above, as 2. 10 d. The mss. are divided between āvadyam and avadyām in c; both editions give avadyām [with RV.].

59. They that are our father's fathers, that are [his] grandfathers, that entered the wide atmosphere—for them may the autocratic (svarāj) second life today shape our bodies as he will.

The first half-verse we had above as 2. 49 a, b [and its prior pāda also at 3. 46]; the second half-verse corresponds to the second half of RV. x. 15. 14 (and VS. xix. 60), but is much corrupted, even to unintelligibility, so that the translation is only mechanical. RV. reads tēbhiḥ svarād āsunitim etām yathāvacān tanvām kalpayasva; VS. has tēbhyas and kalpayāti, but the rest like RV. The last pāda is identical with vii. 104. 1 d above.

60. Let the mist be weal for thee; let the frost fall down [as] weal for thee; O cool one, possessing cool ones; O refreshing one, possessing refreshing ones; mayest thou be with weal a she-frog in the waters; kindly pacify thou this fire.

Or, 'this Agni.'—Of the ritual use of this verse, the comm. simply says that with it one is to sprinkle the bones of a Brahman with the plants referred to, dipped in water and milk; Kāuṣ. (82. 26) combines it with 3. 5 [doubtless rather 3. 5 and 6: see under 3. 5], in the manner explained under that verse. [Partly because W. overlooked some TA. variants, it seemed necessary for me to rewrite the next paragraph; but I could not easily indicate my changes and additions by the usual ell-brackets.]

The main stock of this verse (pādas c-f) is RV. x. 16. 14 and is the third verse of TA. vi. 4. 1: in both these texts it stands next after the verse which corresponds to our 3. 6 above, namely after RV. x. 16. 13 = TA. vi. 4. 1²: see note to 3. 6. Considering how closely it is connected with our 3. 6 in sense and in position in those texts, it is strange that it should be so removed from 3. 6 in AV.—In d part of the mss. (including our Bp.P.M.I.: also the comm.) read hlādake hlādak-; TA. has hlāduke hlāduk-. For e, RV. has maṇḍūkyā sū sām gamah (of which our version, p. maṇḍūkl : apsū : čām : bhuvah, is no better than a corruption), and TA., again differently, maṇḍūkyāsu (as an adjective, supplying apsu) saṅgamāya; and the comm., finally, maṇḍūkyā 'sya čam bhava: moreover, for the čām of both ed's, some of our mss. (O.Op.R.) and one of SPP's have sām. In e, at the end, RV. has harṣaya and TA. čamāya: our čamaya is better than either.—To the main stock of the AV. verse are prefixed two pādas which agree nearly with the second half of the next verse but one in TA. (vs. 5: interposed as vs. 4 is matter that corresponds to our i. 6. 4 and xix. 2. 1, 2): but for our bhavatu the TA. has varṣatu; and for our čām te prṣvā, it has čām u prṣthā (so Calc.: the Poona ed. accepts prṣvā but gives prṣthā as variant): the comm. glosses prṣvā with jala-binduh.—For Bloomfield's discussion, see under vs. 6. Bergaigne comments on the verse, Rel. Véd. i. 84, note, ii. 472.

61. Let Vivasvant make for us freedom from fear, he who is well-preserving, quick-giving (?-dānu), well-giving; let these heroes be many here; let there be in me prosperity (puṣṭā) rich in kine, rich in horses.

About half of SPP's mss., and one of ours (Op.), accent at the beginning vīvasvān. The comm. explains jīrādānus alternatively by jīvanasya kartā and vayohāner (as if from jī 'waste away') dātā. [Pāda a is found (with metrical rectification) as noted under vs. 62.] The third pāda is identical with xii. 2. 21 d. By Kāuç. 81. 48 the verse is used at the end of the cremation ceremony with an oblation on the north; and again (82. 36), vss. 61 and 62 accompany each [separately: see the comm., p. 176¹³] a sthā-lipāka offering to Vivasvant at the gathering of the bone-relics, while a third offering is made with them both together [82. 37]. And further (86. 17), vss. 61-67 are used with 3. 10 in the interment of the bones (see under the latter verse); the comm. describes it thus: "in the ceremony of gathering at the cemetery, the manager and all the relatives, standing in the western part of the cemetery, should approach the departed." The comm. adds one or two more minor applications. [Verses 61 and 62 are translated by Hillebrandt, Ved. Mythol. i. 489.]

62. Let Vivasvant set us in immortality; let death go away; let what is immortal come to us; let [him] defend these men until old age; let not their life-breaths (dsu) go to Yama.

In ÇÇS. iv. 16. 5, and MB. i. 1. 15 are found as the first two pādas of a verse our 62 b and 61 a. [For the na āttu of our 62 b, both texts have ma ā gāt (the me is incongruent with the following nas); and for the vīvasvān of our 61 a, both have vāivāsvato,] thus rectifying the meter. The mss. accent vīvasvān as in 61 a. We need to resolve mō to mā u in d to make a good triṣṭubh pāda; but the Anukr. would apparently read mo and balance the lack of a syllable by the redundancy of one in c. Possibly ā is intrusive in c, and the meaning was 'defend from growing old.' The ritual use of the verse was explained above, under vs. 61.

63. He who maintains himself by his might, like [birds?] in the atmosphere, poet of the Fathers, favorer (? prāmāti) of prayers (matī)—him praise ye, all-befriended, with oblations; may that Yama give (dhā) us to live further on.

The reading in the first pāda is doubtful; our text has antārikṣeṇa, but the other edition -kṣe na. Bp. and Op. read antārikṣe : nā, and so, apparently, SPP's pāda-mss.; but our D.K. have -kṣeṇa, and with it agree our P.M.I., while O.R.T., though they give na, do not accent it; SPP's mss. are somewhat similarly at variance. The commentator's interpretation is an interpretation of antārikṣeṇa; but his text (according to SPP.) reads -kṣe na. Only the sense can decide, and that is quite doubtful; the translation ventured above implies -kṣe na. The second half-verse occurs again below as 4. 54 c, d. One is tempted to understand viṣvāmitrās [so accented in both ed's with all the authorities] in c as 'O Viṣvāmitras'; but this is so decidedly opposed by the accent and by the short vowel of the second syllable (which is authenticated by the pāda-reading viṣvāmitrāḥ, while viṣvāmitra is never divided: see Prāt. iii. 9 and note) that I have not dared to assume it; [but the comm., ignoring these considerations, takes it as voc. For the verse in general,] the comm., as usual in a trying case, gives no help whatever; he glosses prāmāti with prakṛṣṭabuddhi, and matī with mantr or stotr, in apposition with pitṛṇām; and he makes antarikṣeṇa dadhre mean (pitṛṇ) antarā kṣāntena lokena dhārayati.

64. Ascend ye to the highest heaven; O seers, be not afraid; ye soma-drinkers, soma-drenchers, this oblation is made to you; we have gone to the highest light.

Encouraged by the comm. (anyān api yajamānān somam pāyayanti), the translation mends the repetition in c by violently taking -pāyin as causative to -pā.

65. Agni shines forth with great show (ketú); the bull roars loudly unto the two firmaments (ródasi); [even] from the end of heaven he hath attained unto me (?); in the lap of the waters the buffalo increased.

The verse corresponds to RV. x. 8. 1, and is also found as SV. i. 71 and in TA. vi. 3. 1. RV. and SV. read in a yāti; in b [which occurs again as RV. vi. 73. 1 d also], TA. has āvtr vícāni (for ā ródasi); in c, RV. has the far more acceptable reading ántān upamān, while SV. gives ántād upamām and TA. ántād úpa mām; [moreover, TA. accents udānaq]. The AV. mss. are at variance in c; all read ántāt save our K., which gives ántām; the samhitā-mss. generally have upamām (K. -mām), and Bp. upamām; but some (Op.D., also T.) and two of SPP's pada-mss. have úpa : mām, with TA., and with the comm.; and this last is implied by the translation, though both editions adopt upamām, with SV. [Pischel, Göttingische Gelehrte Anzeigen, 1897, p. 811, renders the verse.]

66. As, longing with the heart, they looked upon thee, flying up* [as] an eagle in the firmament (nāka), golden-winged messenger of Varuṇa, busy (bhuranyú) bird (ṣakund) in the lair of Yama.

The RV. has the verse (x. 123. 6), and it is found also in SV. (i. 320 and ii. 1196), TB. (in ii. 5. 8³), and TA. (vi. 3. 1); all read alike throughout, save that the RV. (not the SV.) pada-text has the bad division and accent abht : dcakṣata. Our P.M.O. have at the end bhuranyām. It is noteworthy that vss. 65 and 66, which have no apparent connection with funeral rites, and are not used by Kāuṣ. save in the group 61-67, are found almost together (separated only by our 3. 7) also in the funeral collection of TA. * [W's "up" for úpa may be an oversight: render perhaps 'they looked upon thee, flying onward (úpa) [as] an eagle'? Our comm., taking 'thee' as the dead man, construes, 'flying unto the eagle'; but is not the verse addressed rather to Agni? cf. Griffith and comm. on TA. — Sāyana, commenting on the RV. vs., says he vena; but in his comm. on TB. he says he pravargyasvāmin: an interesting diversity of opinion! Perhaps RV. ix. 85. 11 may throw light on our verse.]

67. O Indra, bring us ability (krātu), as a father to his sons; help (ṣikṣ) us in this course (yāman), O much-invoked one; may we, living, attain to light.

The verse is RV. vii. 32. 26, found also as SV. i. 259; ii. 806, and TS. vii. 5. 74; the only variant anywhere is that TS. has no as-, unlingualized, in c. The comm. glosses yāmani with samsāragamane, and ṣikṣa by anuṣādhi.

68. What vessels covered (api-dhā) with cakes the gods maintained for thee, be they for thee rich in svadhā, rich in honey, dripping with ghee.

The verse is repeated below as 4. 25. Only one of our mss. and one of SPP's accent ādharayan; [but one of SPP's at 4. 25 also accents ādha].

69. What grains I scatter along for thee, mixed with sesame, rich in svadhā, be they for thee abundant (vibhū), prevailing; them let king Yama approve for thee.

According to the comm., the grains are roasted barley; and anu manyatām means 'assent to thine enjoying'; [at 4. 26 he says tā dhānās tava bhogāya . . . anujānātu. It depends on Yama's favor, says Weber, Sb., 1896, p. 276, whether the dead man may have the benefit of his viaticum, or not.] The verse is nearly identical with 4. 26, and is precisely identical with 4. 43. Its meter is $(9 + 8 : 8 + 10 = 35)$ rather irregular, and lacks a syllable of being full measure. [With an easy double sandhi in a (dhānānu) and the resolutions taās and rājā anu in ḍ, it scans very well as $8 + 8 : 8 + 12$.] Kāuṣ. (85. 27) directs that grains be scattered 'with verses that have the sign (saliṅga)'; and Keçava states these verses to be the two that begin yās te dhānās (doubtless 3. 69 [= 4. 43] and 4. 26, since 3. 70 is evidently not saliṅga), also 4. 32 and 33, and another not found in the text; the comm. says that such grains are to be put upon the bones with the two vss. that begin with yās te dhānās, [by which he seems to mean 3. 69 (= 4. 43) and 4. 26 rather than 3. 69 and 70 : at any rate, he immediately cites 3. 70 for another use].

[It is hardly doubtful that the black variety of sesame (kṛṣṇatila) is meant here, and that it is used, like the black rice and black victim, on account of its color: Pischel, GGA., 1897, p. 813. Pischel's view is confirmed by the fact that, if an offering to the Manes is performed apropos of some joyful occurrence in the family, barley is substituted for sesame: so Çrāddhakalpa, iv. 5, as cited by Caland, Totenverehrung, p. 37.]

70. Give back, O forest tree, him who is deposited here with thee, that in Yama's seat he may sit speaking counsels.

Two of our pada-mss. (Bp.Kp.) read vidātha in ḍ. The verse is repeated, according to Kāuṣ. (83. 19), when the bone-relics are removed from the root of a tree, at which they had been for some time deposited: the comm. adds "provided they have been previously so deposited." It reads more as if it were originally addressed to the (hollowed) tree in which a corpse is buried (in which case, tvāyi ought to be rendered 'in thee'). [With regard to vanaspate, see my note to 2. 25, above: and as to vidāthā, see Geldner, ZDMG. lii. 735.]

71. Take hold, O Jātavedas; let thy seizure (hāras) be with sharpness (téjas); his body do thou consume; then set him in the world of the well-doing.

Or (in b) 'let thy flame be brilliant.' The verse is used [Kāuṣ. 81. 33] with 2. 4 and others (see under 2. 4) at the lighting of the funeral pile.

72. What Fathers of thine went away earlier and what later, for them let there go a brook of ghee, hundred-streamed, overflowing.

The second half of the verse is nearly identical with 4. 57 c, ḍ below. The mss. are not agreed about kulyāḥ 'tu [so both ed's]: some (including our R. and [one or] two of SPP's) read kulyā 'tu. Our Bp. has kulyā : etu; but Op. accents -yā, and Kp. has kulyāetū. The noun is elsewhere accented kulyā, and hence our text ought doubtless to be kulyāt 'tu [so SPP's B.]. The verse is twice used with 4. 57 in Kāuṣ.: once (86. 2) in the ceremony of interment of the bones, on filling a dish (caru) with butter and honey and depositing it by the head [see note to 4. 16]; and again (88. 17), in the pinḍapitṛyajña, on smearing the pinḍas with sacrificial butter.

73. Ascend thou this, gaining (ud-mṛj) vigor (vāyas); thine own [people] shine here greatly; go forth, unto [them],—be not left behind midway—unto the world of the Fathers that is first there.

Nearly all the mss. (all save our I.O.R., and one or two of SPP's) accent in a unmrjānas, which our edition accordingly reads; SPP. makes the proper emendation to jānds (cf. mrjānds, vs. 17, note). The comm. glosses vāyas with antarikṣam, because vīyanti gaacchanty asmin! and then of course makes it the object of ā roha, explaining unmrjānas as caṭrīrād utkramaṇena svātmānam ṣoḍhayan. For the use of the verse in Kāuc. 85. 24, with 2. 37, see under the latter. [Cf. p. 848, ¶ 8.]

[Here ends the third anuvāka, with 1 hymn and 73 verses. The quoted Anukr. says saptatis tryadhikā paraḥ: cf. page 814.]

[Notes to the Anukramaṇī-excerpts.] ¹[In giving this item, the Anukr. repeats the half-śloka from the Old Anukr., given at p. 814.] ²[The mss. read namo vāḥ pitara iti pitṛdevatyam: ādyā (vs. 81) prājāpatyānuṣṭub etc. By using the neuter -devatyam, perhaps the Anukr. means the whole decad-sūkta (the 28th), except vss. 88 and 89.] ³[Verses 43 and 25 were defined by the Anukr. under 3. 69 and 3. 68, and the definitions are not repeated here.] ⁴[In stating that vss. 71-86 are 1-av., the Anukr. uses the . . . itiprabhṛti . . . ityātas that appears at Kāuc. 81. 44: cf. 85. 26 and 86. 17, where also we have the strange ityātas.]

[Parts of the hymn are prose: vss. 27, 67-68, 71-74, and 76-87: so Whitney, Index, p. 6. As to vs. 75, it is hard to say whether the fact that it scans easily is significant or not. Perhaps we have here a mere casual lapse into meter (cf. p. 772, ¶ 5); or it may be that the mantra, as the first of the sequence to which it belongs, is intentionally metrical, while the ūhas of vss. 76 and 77 destroy the rhythm of those vss. The comm., p. 240²⁰, lumps the whole decad-sūkta, vss. 71-80, together, and says etat sūktam sarvaṁ yajurmantrātmakam.]

[Only one verse (49) is found in Pāipp. As to the significance of the occurrence, see under vs. 49.]

[Ritual uses.—The Vāitāna naturally makes few citations from this hymn: vs. 59 is used in the agnyādheya; and vss. 28 and 75-77 in the agnīṣṭoma. But in the sāka-medha, particularly in the offering to the manes (Vāit. g. 8) in one of the seasonal sacrifices, vs. 71 finds application; as also, I suspect, vss. 72 and 73, though the latter are not so recognized by Garbe. Something like two thirds of the verses find use in Kāuc., and those uses are all in the eleventh adhyāya, the pitṛmedha and piṇḍapitṛyajña, as noted above, p. 814, end. Verse 48 constitutes no real exception. For all ritual uses, see under the verses.]

[The provenience of the material of this hymn.—Whereas in the preceding three hymns a very large or a large part of the verses are found also in RV., in this hymn only a small part, to wit 12 verses out of 89, are so found. However much or little weight is to be laid on the fact that these 89 verses are called a "hymn," the hymn is, at any rate, the longest in the AV. In general, the collection looks as if it were made of after-gleanings from the stock material of tradition (cf. Weber, Sb. 1896, p. 278); although indeed some parts of it appear to be the reflex of what we may well regard as very ancient elements in the ritual: such are the giving of the viaticum to the dead (vss. 16 ff.) and the invocation of the ancestors (vss. 75-77) and so on. The relation of the order of occurrence in the AV. text to the order of use in the ritual is obscure and in part indeterminable. But a reason for the arrangement is sometimes to be found: thus the practices that go with vss. 51 and 52 are separated in the ritual; but the vss. are set together in the text because of several notable surface-resemblances between them. — The RV. verses are as follows:

our 28 = RV. x. 17. 11	our 59 = RV. vi. 2. 6
our 29 = RV. x. 107. 4	our 60 = RV. ix. 86. 16

The verses that recur in the sixth prapāṭhaka of the TA. (if we count those in TA. vi. 8 as five: see note to vs. 16) also number about a dozen: to wit, 16 ff., 28, 30, 34, 35, 51, 55, 57.]

[For the purpose of the following discussion, the hymn may be divided into Parts; of which only some, not all, are of critical significance.

Part I., verses 1-15. — Refers in general to the ignis rogalis and its belongings and is treated as a ritual unit by Kāuṣ. 81. 45.

Part II., verses 16-27, and 28. — Offering of the viaticum for the dead: cakes, with milk, etc. etc.; then sesame. — The unity of vss. 16-24 is sufficiently marked by their external form alone. Verse 28 seems to me to belong to this part, and to be appended for use as an expiation in case of any spilling of the liquids of the foregoing libations: cf. TA. comm., vikṣarantam abhimantrayate etc.

Part III., verses 29-44. — This seems to me to be in general essentially a continuation of Part II., but with certain disturbing elements. The water poured on the bones (29-30, but also 36), the garment (31), the black sesame (32-34, but also 43), and the vānyā cow's milk (35) may well be taken as parts of the dead man's viaticum. If vs. 42 be part of the dhuvana (Caland), it is not far in time from the viaticum ceremony, I suppose. But the ritual use of 44 (corpse on cart) certainly precedes the cremation; while that of vss. 38-41, if rightly reckoned to the pinḍa ceremony (so comm.), may well follow it by a long interval. As for vs. 37, see under the verse.

Part IV., verses 45-47. — To Sarasvatī with the Fathers, RV. x. 17. 7-9, recurring as Part VII. of hymn 1. The īrca is a ritual unit, used (so comm.) immediately after the cremation.

Part V., verses 48-70. — Verse 48 and the group 58-60 and vs. 67 and vs. 70 find no use in Kāuṣ. The comm. assigns a use to 48, but only by a blunder; and the group he perhaps considers as a part of the pitṛmedha ritual; and in reporting the use of 66, he groups with it 67. — Vss. 49 and 50 stand side by side in Kāuṣ.: with 49 the liturge takes the two bullocks that drew the hearse, and with 50 he accepts his fee. Vs. 51 goes with the strewing of darbha on the pyre: and 52 would seem (see under 52) to belong with it, but is put to a use quite different and later in natural order, the forming of a human figure with the bones (Kāuç. 85. 25). If the latter use be the correct one, then the acts that go with vss. 53 and 54 (covering bones with palāṣa and stones) form a reasonable sequel to it; although, to be sure, they also form a sequel to vs. 36 (besprinkling of the bones), both naturally and in the text of Kāuç. If I am right in understanding vs. 55 to accompany the patting of the grave-mound (see under 55), then the piling thereof (with vss. 66 and 67) must intervene between 54 and 55. Vs. 56, a symbolical taking of his hereditament by the oldest son, must belong to an earlier stage of the proceedings. One use of 57 is in the viaticum ceremony (described under vs. 16); the other is in the much later piṇḍa or cake ceremony. Here too, if anywhere (but see under 58), belongs the group 58-60; and the group 61-65, with 68, seems to belong also to the same cake ceremony (61, cake-sprinkling; 68, strewing the barhis to receive the cakes; 62, strewing of sesame on that barhis; 63, dismissal of the Fathers; 64, offering of grains with the pot-offering noticed below under Part VI.; 65, the "withdrawal of the fires," apparently the ultimate act in this connection). Vss. 66 and 67 (mound-piling) were mentioned above; and so was 68, which clearly suits the action immediately preceding that of 62. Vs. 69 accompanies a much earlier act, the expiatory bath taken just after the cremation. Vs. 70, which has no use in Kāuç., seems to me to be put here because, like 69, it contains a prayer for release from the bonds of Varuṇa.

Part VI., verses 71-87. — All this passage of unbroken prose (but see p. 869, ¶ 5) belongs to the piṇḍapīṭṭyañā. The comm., p. 2419, aptly notes that offerings to the gods are announced with svadhā and vāṣaṭ and those to the Fathers with svadhā and nāmas. This Part falls naturally into 5 subdivisions, each with its own manifest unity:

subdivision 3 = verses 78, 79, 80; subdivision 4 = verses 81, 82, 83, 84, 85;

subdivision 5 = verses 86, 87.

Subdivisions 1 and 3 accompany the ceremony of strewing three handfuls [of grain? trīṇ adhomaṣṭīṇ, Keç.], and they dovetail each into the other in such wise that they are used (Kāuç. 87. 8) thus: 71, with 78; 72, with 73 or 79; 74, with 80. Thus the second handful is strewn while the liturge repeats idaṁ "somāya pīṭṛmate svadhā" (72) either with pīṭṛbhyaḥ somavadbhyaḥ (73) or else with pīṭṛbhyaḥ antarīkṣasadbhyaḥ (79). The appropriateness of the linkage in each of the three cases is palpable. The second use of the mantras of subdivisions 1 and 3 is with the pot-offering (Kāuç. 88. 1-4). — Then comes (88. 11) the offering of the cakes with subdivision 2 (piṇḍapradānamantrā evaṁ āmnāyante: comm.). These first three subdivisions are clearly triplets; and their symmetry is marred only by vs. 73, which is simply an alternative of vs. 79, awkwardly interjected after vs. 72 for lack of a better place. — Subdivision 4 consists of doublets (5 in all): to wit, 8 ascriptions of homage to the Fathers' various attributes, 4 expressed by nouns and 4 by substantival relative clauses, and a final doublet (85) with nāmas and svadhā. — Subdivision 5 consists of 2 entirely symmetrical 4-membered mantras, the prior one relating to yonder world, the latter to this.

Part VII., verses 88 and 89. — Verse 88 accompanies the laying on of fuel just before the final withdrawal of the fires (explained under 65). Why the Tritaverse, 89, should be here, is, as Whitney observes, very obscure.]

Translated: as AV. hymn, by Ludwig, pages 488-493; Weber, Sb. 1896, pages 277-294; Griffith, ii. 247-258; also the occasional RV. verses by the RV. translators. — Weber's analysis etc., p. 277-8, may be consulted.

1. Ascend to [your] generatrix, ye Jātavedases; by [roads] that the Fathers travel I make you ascend together; the offering-carrier, sent out, hath carried the offerings; united (yuktā), set ye him who hath sacrificed in the world of the well-doing.

The translation implies emendation in a to jātavedasas, though all the mss., and hence both editions, read jātāv-; all, also, accent in c havyavāhas, and SPP. has that in his text; our edition makes the obviously necessary emendation to -vāhās [cf. the opposite error in vs. 10]. All our samhitā-mss. [see Prāt. i. 94, note] make in c the false combination āvādh dh-; SPP. says nothing of his, and both editions have correctly āvādh dh-. Our O.Op.R., and one of SPP's mss., read in c iṣitā; the comm. also has it, explaining it with iṣitāny iṣṇāni. The comm. also understands jātavedasas as vocative (probably, after his manner, simply disregarding the accent); he explains janitrim as svotpādikām arāṇim; and the Kāuṣ. (80. 23) takes the same view: iti pṛthag arāṇiṣv agnīm samāropayanti; but its correctness as original sense of the verse may be strongly questioned. The comm. explains ā rohata by çaktyātmanā praviçata; and describes the samāropaṇa as taking place "because of the absence of any further ceremonies to be performed by him, being now dead, by help of the fires." In the comm's vinīyoga he says simply arāṇidvayam agnāu prātāpayet. All this is, in the case of a person who has died away from home. But vs. 1-15 are also used nearly at the end of the cremation ceremony (Kāuṣ. 81. 45), with the direction ity āhitāgnim (Keç. adds upatiṣṭhate), [and the comm. fills out the direction thus: citistham āhitāgnim pretam upatiṣṭheta]. The verse, as a triṣṭubh, is redundant by a syllable [in a, which is thus a good jagati-pāda: and also by one in d, which, however, by reason of its triṣṭubh cadence, is neither one thing nor the other].

2. The gods, the seasons, arrange the sacrifice, the oblation, the sacrificial cake, the ladles (srūc), the implements (-dyudha) of sacrifice; with them go thou by roads that the gods travel, by which they that have sacrificed go to the heavenly (svargā) world.

The word srucās in b is shown by the meter to be probably an intrusion, and it is superfluous as regards the sense. [The excision of havās would give a better cesura.] The verse is, of course, in no way a real jagati. Kāuṣ. (81. 10) directs it to be used as a sacrificial cake is laid on the breast of the corpse on the funeral pile; the comm. takes no notice of this.

3. Look thou happily (sādhū) along the road of righteousness, by which go the Aṅgirasas, well-doers; by those roads go thou to heaven (svargā), where the Ādityas feed on honey; spread thou out upon the third firmament.

The last pāda we had above as ix. 5. 8 d. Our O.Op.R., and one or two of SPP's mss., read tābhyas at beginning of c. The comm. explains viçrayasva in e by viçritāḥ pratiṣṭhito bhava. The metrical description of the Anukr. fits the verse, if we [decline to make two of the three easy resolutions (in c and d) by which the verse reads as five good triṣṭubh pādas].

4. Three eagles (suparṇā) . . . upon the back of the firmament (ndāka), at the summit (? viṣṭāp) are set (çritā); let the heavenly (svargā) worlds, filled (?) with amṛta, yield (duh) food, refreshment to the sacrificer.

The pada-text reads in a māyā tī, which is, I presume, intended to mark the word as a locative: see Prāt. i. 74 and note upon it. The comm., however, understands it as dual, and explains it as meaning nāyumanāu çabdakārīṇāu vāyuparjanyāu, because Vāyu and Parjanya are noisy in connection with clouds; for upara, by Nirukta 2. 21, means 'a cloud'; and the three eagles are Agni, Sūrya, and Soma! the general sense being that Vāyu and Parjanya are set over the world of the atmosphere, and the other three over the heavenly world! In c, the translation follows the comm. [and Whitney's P.M.I. and one of SPP's mss.] in reading viṣṭās instead of viṣṭhās (p. viosthās); it is glossed with vyāptāḥ pūrṇāḥ. Neither this verse nor the preceding is quoted by Kāuṣ., nor has either a vinīyoga indicated in the comm.

5. The sacrificial spoon (jukhū) sustains the sky, the offering spoon (upabhṛt) the atmosphere; the ladle (dhruvā) sustains [dhṛ] the earth, the support (pratiṣṭhā); unto me (?) let the worlds, ghee-backed, heavenly (svargā), yield every desire for the sacrificer.

The reading and sense at the beginning of c are very doubtful; the pada-mss. all give pratiṣṭhām, as if it were accusative of pratiṣṭhā; most of the samhitā-mss. have pratiṣṭhām (our Bs. has pratiṣṭhām [!], and P.M. pratiṣṭhām; T. has pratiṣṭhām), and it is quoted in the comment to the Prāt. (ii. 35: so the ms.) as the same [that is, I presume, in the form pratiṣṭhām]. SPP. emends to prātī 'mām, since, with his usual disregard of the accent, the comm. so reads, explaining imām as referring to prthivīm; our edition has pratiṣṭhām, with the majority of our earlier mss. The translation implies prātī 'mām, simply on account of superior intelligibility; doubtless the true AV. reading is pratiṣṭhām. Simply prātī would rectify the meter, and give a yet better sense. The verse (13 + 11: 12 (11?) + 11 = 47) is, of course, no proper jagati. This and the verse next following are used, according to Kāuṣ. 81. 7, as the sacrificial utensils are laid about and upon the body, to be burned with it.

6. O ladle, ascend the all-nourishing earth; stride, O offering spoon, unto the atmosphere; O sacrificial spoon, go to the sky (dīu) in company with the sacrificer; with the little spoon (sruvā) [as] calf, milk thou all the teeming, unirritated quarters.

The mss. in general strangely accent the two vocatives in a and b on the final syllable; all ours (save Op.s.m.), and all but one or two of SPP's, have dhruvā (-vā in samhitā); all ours (save Op.), and nearly all SPP's, have upabhṛt; all ours [save Bs.] and most of SPP's, however, accent jukhū correctly in c (but P.I. have jūhū, and M. has jūhū); both editions make the necessary corrections. At the end, SPP. gives in his text āhṛṇīyamānāḥ, with the great majority of his authorities, and with the comm.* Of our mss., only O.s.m.Op.D.R.p.m. give -nāḥ, while O.p.m.R.s.m. have -nāḥ; the reading -nāḥ is, in my opinion, decidedly the preferable one; it is the quarters that kindly make no resistance to being milked. According to the comm., the adhvaryu, at time of sacrifice, holds the upabhṛt in his left hand, and makes oblation with the jukhū in his right. The verse (13 + 11: 12 + 11 + 9 = 56) counts as the Anukr. describes it. Its ritual use was given under the preceding verse. * [The comm. assumes a very harsh change to the direct address and applies āhṛṇ- to the sacrificer: atha pratyaḥsavād ukṭih: evaṁ srugbhir lokatrayam prāpito yajamānas tvam āhṛṇīyamānāḥ.]

7. By fords they cross the advances (pravāt) called the great ones, by what [road] the sacrifice-makers, the well-doers, go; there did they set a world for the sacrificer, when they arranged the quarters, the creatures (bhūtā).

[Or, 'By crossings (tīrthā) they cross (tr).'] The comm. explains pravāto mahīr iti by prakṛṣṭā mahatīr āpadaḥ . . . evam; it also makes dīḥas and bhūtāni in d the joint subject of ākālpayanta, having before taken adadhūs as an imperative (vidadhatu)! Though the verse is obscure, the probabilities are doubtless in favor of the translation as given. [Pāda a seems to be a reminiscence of I. 49, above, or RV. x. 14. 1. Pischel renders the vs., Ved. Stud. ii. 74.]

8. The track (āyana) of the Aṅgirasas is the eastern fire; the Ādityas' track is the householder's fire; the track of the sacrificial gifts is the southern fire; do thou, with thy limbs, whole (sārva), powerful (? ṣagmā), go unto the greatness of Agni [as] disposed by brāhmaṇa.

Both in this verse and in the next, most of our mss. accent falsely dākṣiṇāgnis; SPP. reports it of only one of his, and only in vs. 9. The comm. glosses ṣagma with sukhita. The verse (11 + 11 + 11 : 13 + 11 = 57) counts short of what the Anukr. describes it (atiṣakvart = 60 syll.).

9. Let the eastern fire burn (tap) thee happily (ṣām) in front; let the householder's fire burn happily behind; let the southern fire burn refuge, defense for thee; from the north, from the midst, from the atmosphere, from each quarter, O Agni, protect him round about from what is terrible.

[Cf. vs. 11.] As to the accent of dākṣiṇāgnis in c, see under vs. 8. The funeral pile is separately, but simultaneously, kindled from each of the sacrificial fires. To make the verse bhūrti, we have to commit the violence of scanning agne instead of 'gne' in the last pāda (so 12 + 10 : 12 + 11 + 12 = 57). [The a of agnis in a and that of agne in e are of course to be elided. The insertion of another tvā in b after ṣām paṣcāt rectifies the meter. In c we have perhaps to tolerate 5 pre-cesural syllables; but with this reservation and the rectification in b, all 5 pādas are faultless triṣṭubhs.]

10. Ye, O Agni, having become back-carrying (? praṣṭivāh) horses, shall with most healthful forms (tanū) carry him that has sacrificed unto the heavenly (svargā) world, where they revel in common revelry with the gods.

The doubtful word in this verse is praṣṭivāhas (as both editions read). All our mss. save one (Op.), and the majority of SPP's, accent praṣṭivāhās, as if nom. sing. of -vāhā, apparently by an error the opposite of that committed in vs. 1. Two of our later collated mss. (Op.R.), and one of SPP's by correction [as if to correspond with -vāhās], have āḥvas before it; and the comm. also reads aḥvas, with praṣṭivāhas, explaining that praṣṭi is a chariot of the gods, harnessed with three horses, of which one is in front and two behind; and a praṣṭivāha horse is, of course, one that draws such a chariot. [Cf. vi. 102. 2 and note.] [Four] of our mss. [Bs.M.I.T.], but only one of SPP's, leave madanti unaccented at the end; [Whitney's Bp.O.Op.R.K. accent it, as it should be]; the comm. reads instead madema. The Anukr. passes without notice the deficiency of a syllable in b.

11. Burn (tap), O Agni, happily behind, happily in front; burn him happily above, happily below; being one, O Jātavedas, triply disposed, set him collectedly (samyák) in the world of the well-doers.

[Cf. vs. 9.] The adverbs translated 'behind' etc. might with at least equal propriety be rendered 'on the west,' 'on the east,' 'on the north,' and 'on the south.' Nearly all our mss. (not Bs.I.), and half of SPP's [have the impossible] accent jātavedas in c; and a few (including our O.R.) have at the end lokām. [Although samyāg enām must pass for the true AV. reading, one cannot forbear to query whether it has not displaced an original samyāh tām.]

12. Let the fires, kindled, take hold happily; let the Jātavedases, making done (grīdā) here him that is Prajāpati's [and] sacrificial, not throw him down.

The verse (11 + 12 : 12) lacks a syllable of counting as a full bṛhatti. Two of our mss. (O.R.) read in b jātavedaḥ (without accent). The comm. reads sam instead of ṣam at the beginning. [Cf. vs. 13.]

[The verse reminds us strongly of 2. 4 (which see), where cikṣīpas without ava has quite a different meaning. Here, cikṣīpan with ava means 'let them [the fires, not] throw [any part of the dead man] down'; that is, Agni (in his kindly forms, śivās tanvās) is to treat the dead man kindly and not let a foot, the head, or a hand fall off from the funeral pile, but is to consume him completely: cf. the comm., who aptly says, yathā niravaṣaṇā dahyate tathā. The importance, in Hindu belief, of having every member of the body carried by Agni to the other world for use in the next life is abundantly shown by the hymns: see especially AV. xviii. 3. 9 ab; 2. 24 c; 4. 64; iv. 34. 2: and Whitney, Oriental and Linguistic Studies, i. 56-57.—When, as often happens, the pile of wood is too short for the corpse, the feet will naturally overhang and drop off from the pyre. In my journal of a visit at Benares, under date of Feb. 25, 1889, I find the following: "Saw a cremation, at the Burning Ghat. One foot of the corpse fell off the pyre (which was none too long), and a man tried to put it back on the fire with a bamboo. But failing, he took it by the toe with thumb and fingers and chucked it back." An allusion to an occurrence of this kind is clearly made by the Chāndogya Upanishad at vii. 15. 3: atha yady aṇṇ enān utkrāntapṛāṇāṇ cchūlena [cf. the bamboo, above] samāsān vyatīsamādaheṭ: nāi 'vāi 'nam brūyuh pītṛhā 'sī'ti etc.]

13. The sacrifice goes, extended, adapting itself (? kīp), [taking] him who hath sacrificed, unto the heavenly (svargā) world; let the fires enjoy it, made a whole oblation; let the Jātavedases, making done here him that is Prajāpati's [and] sacrificial, not throw him down.

[Cf. vs. 12.] 'Sacrifice' and 'whole oblation' [and 'it,' that is tām in c,] all refer, of course, to the deceased himself. [Cf. Whitney, Oriental and Linguistic Studies, i. 56: "To burn the body of a deceased person was accordingly an act of solemn sacrifice, which made Agni its bearer to the other world, the future dwelling of its former possessor."—Cf. also Caland's most apposite citation from Bāudhāyana, jātasamśkāreṇa 'maṁ lokam abhijayati; mṛtasamśkāreṇa 'muṁ lokam, in his Todtengebraüche, pages 174, 178.] The defective meter and incomplete construction of b make it altogether probable that the text is corrupt: ijānānām would help both. The comm. makes no difficulty of taking abhi . . eti causatively, = abhiḡamayati. He paraphrases kālpamānas by iṣṭam pradacam prāpayitum samarthāḥ. The mss. vary between kālpāmānas, kālpamānas, and kālpamānas; all of ours that were collated before printing had kālpā, which we accordingly admitted in our text; but we ought to have emended to kālpa, which SPP. reads. Two of our mss. (O.R.), and one of SPP's, also have jātavedasaḥ at end of d. The verse counts just a full atiṣṭakvārī (11 + 10 : 11 + 12 : 12 = 56).

14. He that hath sacrificed hath ascended the piled fire, about to fly up to heaven (div) from the back of the firmament (nāka); for him, the well-doer, shines forth from the welkin (nābhas), full of light, the heavenly road, traveled by the gods.

The mss. vary in a between cītām and cittām; our text reads the latter; SPP's the former, which is doubtless correct, and which is implied by the translation. The comm. notes that agni is used to mean iṣṭakacitaḥ pradeśaḥ, quoting Āpast. 25. 4 as authority. According to Kāuṣ. (80. 52), the verse (the comm. says, vss. 14-15) accompanies the laying of the body supine on the pile; it comes next after 1. 46.

15. Agni thine invoker, Brihaspati thine officiating priest, be Indra on the right thy supervising priest (brahmān); this offered sacrifice, being completed (śāntsthita), goeth where is the ancient track of those offered.

Both editions read in c, with nearly all the mss. (all ours save R.s.m., and half of SPP's), hutō 'yām, but both are wrong, the emendation to hutō 'yām being a matter of simple necessity (see note to Prāt. iii. 55). The verse is the last of the long passage that is used (by Kāuṣ. 81. 45) at the end of the cremation ceremony (see under vs. 1). It is far from being a regular triṣṭubh; [after resolving hotō adh- in a and restoring in c the elided vowel, pādas a and b and c scan with smooth cadences as 12 + 11 : 11; there remains pāda d, with one syllable missing before the cesura: it would be a faultless triṣṭubh if we dared to insert āsti (yātrāsti): the comm. understands the equivalent vidyate].

16. Rich in cakes, rich in milk (kṣīrā-) let the dish (carū) take seat here; to the world-makers, the road-makers, do ye sacrifice, whoever of you are here, sharing in the oblation of the gods.

[The definition of verses 16-24 as 14: 12 + 11 = 37 is right by mechanical count; but the metrical character of what precedes the first avasāna is wholly misprized by the Anukr.: carūr ā ihā sīdatu is doubtless an anuṣṭubh pāda; and I am strongly tempted to suspect the loss (by haplography again: cf. iv. 5. 5, note) of a ca before caru, poor as the resulting cadence may be, so that instead of 14 we should have 8 + 8.]

We had the same refrain above, in 3. 25-35. [Cf. my introduction to hymn 3, p. 847, ¶ 8.] According to Kāuṣ. (86. 3), the verses beginning with apūpavān (16-24) are used as, in each case, what is specified in the verse (mantrōktam) is deposited in the quarters and intermediate quarters (dikṣu aṣṭamadeśeṣu); this is in the ceremony of interment of the bone-relics, next after the use of 4. 57 and 3. 72 (see under the latter). [At this point Whitney compares TA. vi. 8 and cites part of it. The TA. leaves out the depositions in the intermediate directions, SE. etc., and so has only 5 deposition-mantras instead of 9. The matter is treated more fully just below.] According to the comm., caru means specifically the contents of the dish here: kumbhyām pakva oḍanaḥ; and ihā signifies: asmin saṃcayanakarmany asthnām samīpe paścimadighāḥ; the others are set in the remaining half-directions, and one in the middle. [Observe that the AV. begins the depositions with the west (so the comm., at p. 197⁸, and at 201¹⁶ just cited), while the TA. begins, as noted below, with the east.]

[As part of the requisites for performing the pitrnīdhāna, Kāuṣ. (83. 2) prescribes eleven dishes (carūn). According to Kāuṣ. 86. 2, two dishes (*carū) are to be deposited, with our 4. 57 and 3. 72, near the head of the human figure formed with the bones (note to 3. 25); next, eight more (Kāuṣ. 86. 3) in the eight directions, with 8 vss. of our present sequence, that is, 4. 16-23; and then the eleventh and last dish in the center with our 4. 24, according to Kāuṣ. 86. 4, where we are to read (see under vs. 24) madhye 'pavantam (for pacantam), 'in the center [a dish] with water.' * [So we must read, with three of Bloomfield's mss., as Caland suggests, Totengebräuche, p. 152, and as the AV. comm. makes plain at 224¹⁹ (carudvayam), though not at 176²³.]

[TA. vi. 8 reads thus: apūpāvān gṛtāvān carūr é 'hā sīdati 'ttabhnuvān pṛthivīm dyām utó 'pāri : yonikṛtāḥ pathikṛtāḥ saparyata yé devānān gṛtābhāgā ihā sthā : eṣā te yamasādane svadhā nī dhityate gṛhē 'sān : dācākṣarā [.] tān rakṣasva, etc. etc.— This set of mantras is metrical as far as gṛhē inclusive, 7 (8?) + 8 + 12 : 12 + 11 : 8 + 8; then prose. It accompanies the deposition of the cakes with a dish of ghee to the east of the bone-relics, and is followed by four other sets, which are not given in full in TA., but may, with the help of Sāyaṇa, be reconstructed as ūhas of this set. The order of deposition is (strangely) pradakṣiṇa, that is, from E. to S. to W. to N. and center. In the first set (used at the east) the words to be replaced are gṛtāvān, gṛtābhāgās, and dācākṣarā; and they are replaced in the second set (south) by ṣṛtāvān, ṣṛtābhāgās, and ṣatākṣarā respectively; in the third set (west), by kṣṛāvān, kṣṛābhāgās, and sahāsṛākṣarā; in the fourth set (north), by dādāvān, dādābhāgās, and ayūtākṣarā; and in the fifth set (center), by mādhumān, mādhubhāgās, and acyutākṣarā. Thus the mantra of the last set would begin apūpāvān mādhumān etc., for the deposition of cakes is common to that of all the dishes (so AV. comm., p. 2023: apūpa-sāhityam sarveṣān carūṇān sādharanam).]

17. Rich in cakes, rich in curds (dādhi-), let the dish etc. etc.

18. Rich in cakes, rich in drops (drapsā-), let the dish etc. etc.

Our O. reads drāpsa, [and so does one of SPP's mss.]. According to the comm., drapsa signifies "particles of curds" (dadhikaṇās).

19. Rich in cakes, rich in ghee, let the dish etc. etc.

20. Rich in cakes, rich in flesh (mānsā-), let the dish etc. etc.

21. Rich in cakes, rich in food, let the dish etc. etc.

22. Rich in cakes, rich in honey, let the dish etc. etc.

23. Rich in cakes, rich in sap, let the dish etc. etc.

24. Rich in cakes, rich in water (āpa-), let the dish etc. etc.

Instead of apavant in this verse, the comm. has a second time apūpavant, explaining that it means cakes of a different material. In the five dishes of TA. (vi. 8) are contained respectively (besides the cakes), ghee, boiled flesh (ṣṛtā), milk, curds, and honey. [Caland's suggestion of 'pavantam for pacantam at Kāuṣ. 86. 4 (see WZKM. viii. 369) brings the text of Kāuṣ. into harmony with āpavāns of this vs.: cf. ¶ 3 of the notes to vs. 16.]

25. What vessels covered with cakes the gods maintained for thee, be they for thee rich in svadhā, rich in honey, dripping with ghee.

This is a [precise] repetition of 3. 68 above. While most of the mss. quote it, as usual, by the first words with ity ēkā added, two (O.R.) write it in full. According to the comm., the verse follows the deposition of the nine dishes; and it adds: "one should put on mixed grains"; the Kāuṣ. makes no mention of it.

26. What grains I scatter along for thee, mixed with sesame, rich in svadhā, be they for thee uprising (udbhū), prevailing; them let king Yama approve for thee.

This verse, differing from 3. 69 and 4. 43 by a single word (udbhū instead of vibhū), is written out in full by all the mss. The comm. has, instead of udbhū, abhū, glossing it with mahatya. [For a possible ritual use of the verse, see under 3. 69.]

27. A more abundant inexhaustibleness.

The comm. adds this to the preceding verse as a part of it; but the Anukr. and the mss. reckon it as an independent verse.

28. The drop leaped (skand) toward the earth, the sky (dīu), toward both this lair (yōni) and the one that was of old; of the drop that goes about toward the same lair do I make oblation, after seven invocations (hōtrā).

The verse is RV. x. 17. 11, and found also in several other texts: VS. (xiii. 5), TS. (iv. 2. 82, 95), TA. (vi. 6. 1), MS. (ii. 5. 10), ÇB. (vii. 4. 120). RV. differs from our text by reading in a prathamān ānu dyūn; all the rest agree throughout with AV., save that TS.TA. have trīyam for samānam in c. [In MS. this verse stands between our ix. 4. 5 and 4. 4, as already noted under ix. 4. 5.] Kāuṣ. does not apply the verse, but it is found (as above) in the funeral ceremony of TA., next after our 4. 35 below, being addressed to any overflow of the offered dish of curds and honey. The comm. explains drapsa by somarasasthitodakakana, and teaches that such a drop, or the soma itself, is here praised, in view of the enjoyment of the fruit of their soma-sacrifices by the Fathers in heaven; it also points out that in ÇB. (vii. 4. 120) this drop is praised as the sun (āditya). In Vāit. (16. 17) the verse (with RV. x. 17. 12, 13 and one or two others) is used in the agniṣṭoma ceremony, with offerings to the soma-drops (vāipruṣa), on occasion of the overflow of soma.

29. A hundred-streamed Vāyu, a heaven-finding sun (?arkā), wealth, do those men-beholders look upon; whoso bestow (pr) and present (prayam) always, they milk a sacrificial gift having seven mothers.

The verse corresponds to RV. x. 107. 4, which differs by reading havi at end of b, [and samgamé at end of c]; it also reads duhate in d and puts the word after dakṣiṇām; the RV. hymn is one in praise of generous givers. Nṛcākṣasas in b might of course be gen. sing. (so Grassmann); both translators [Grassmann and Ludwig] take saptāmātaram as 'mother of seven,' which is against the accent; the comm. takes it properly as possessive, but gives three different guesses at its value. The comm. takes id in b as 'for thy sake,' against the accent. Kāuṣ. does not quote the verse; the comm. says that it and the next are used together on watering the bone-relics with water falling from a vessel with a hundred holes; and these hundred holes it regards as referred to by the first word of the verse.

30. They milk a receptacle (kōṣa), a jar with four orifices, idā [as] milch-cow rich in honey, in order to well-being; reveling refreshment, Aditi among the people, injure thou not, O Agni, in the highest firmament (vyōman).

The first half-verse is found also in TB. iii. 7. 4¹⁶ and Āp. i. 13. 1, both of which read utsam for kōcam, devīm for dhenūm, and suvaroldam for svastāye. The second half occurs in VS. (xiii. 49 c, d), TS. (in iv. 2. 10²), [MS., in ii. 7. 17, page 102¹⁵], and TA. (in vi. 6. 1); they all agree in reading for c ghṛtūm dūhānām āditiḥ jānāya, for which our text is a corruption, capable of only mechanical translation. The comm., in a, still thinks of four of the holes in the hundred-holed vessel; idā is either the earth or the name of a certain cow. In the funeral ceremony of TA. (as above), our c, d, with [the correspondent of] our 36 a, b below as first half, is used next after our vs. 28, and for the same purpose. The Anukr. does not heed that the first two pādas are jagati.

31. This garment god Savitar gives thee to wear (bhṛ); putting on that, which is tārpyā, do thou go about in Yama's realm.

Some of the mss. (including our O.Op.R.) read dadātu in b. Our Op. accents tārpyam, and the word is variously accented by half of SPP's authorities. The comm. first explains the word as tarpaṇārham pṛitikaram, and then adds: 'or, made of a kind of grass called trpā, [and] anointed with ghee.' For the ritual use of the verse, in company with 2. 57, see under the latter verse. The comm. says only that it is addressed to the garment when the dead man is wrapped up.

32. The grains became a milch-cow; the sesame became her calf; upon her, unexhausted, one lives in Yama's realm.

The mss. are a little at variance as to the accent of tilo 'bhavat; but the majority give tilā, which is accepted in both editions. The comm. reads at the end jīvāti. The ritual application of this verse and its successor was given with that of 3. 69 above; the comm. says here that with vss. 32-34 grains mingled with sesame are put upon the bones. The first pāda is one syllable short.

33. Be these, O so-and-so, thy milch-kine that yield what is desired; variegated, white, of like form, of different form, with sesame as calf, let them wait upon (upa-sthā) thee there.

One of our mss. (Op.), and three or four of SPP's authorities, accent tlavatsās in d. The comm. has bhavanāni in b. The verse (8 + 7: 11 + 11 = 37) is not at all an upa-riṣṭādbṛhatti, but rather an irregular āstārāpāṅkti.

34. Grains variegated, yellow, white, grains black, red, [be] thy milch-kine here; with sesame as calf, yielding (duh) him refreshment, be they ever unresisting.

The verse is found also in TA. (in vi. 7. 1), with its first half abbreviated to ēnīr dhānā hāriṇīr ārjunīḥ santu dhenāvah; and it accents tila- in c (with our Op. and one or two of SPP's mss.). Our O. [and apparently also P.I.], with [one or] two of SPP's mss., also accent entī. Only a minority of the mss. (including our Bs.p.m. and Op.) have at the end -ntīḥ, the rest -ntī. Here and in vs. 36, most of the mss. accent anāpasphūr-, and accordingly both edited texts accept it; but the readings ought unquestionably to be emended to anapasphur- (which is given here by [TA., Poona ed.,] our O.R., [and one or two of SPP's mss.]; in 36, by none); the accentuation in this part of the text is more than usually faulty. The comm. stupidly declares apasphurāṇa = nāga, and the participle therefore = [avinācavaryah or] akṣīṇāḥ. [As alternative rendering, W. suggests 'not refractory.'] [W's 'here' seems to be meant as (the hardly licit) version of the accentless asya: Weber notices the wild incongruity (absent in the T.A. version) between asya in a, te in b, and asmāi in c.]

35. In Vāiṣvānara I offer this oblation, a thousand-fold, hundred-streamed fountain (utsa); it supports (bhrj) [our] father, grandfathers; [our] great-grandfathers it supports, swelling.

That is, with fatness or abundance (pinv). The verse is found also at the beginning of T.A. vi. 6; but this rectifies the meter of b by reading sāhasrām utsam catādāharam etām; and its c, d are not less different: tāsminn eṣā pītāram pītāmahām prāpitāmaham bibharat pīnvamāne. One of our mss. (Op.) also accents prāpitāmahām. In T.A. (as noticed above) the verse is next followed by our 4. 28, in the relic-interment ceremony; according to Kāuṣ. (82. 22), it is used on the second day after cremation, with an oblation on the back of a *vānyavatsā cow, after causing her to be milked on the site of the funeral pile. The comm. [p. 209¹⁸] calls the cow anyavatsā (only by an error of the editor?). [If error, it is an easy one, for the comm's words as combined are dahanasthānasaṁnidhāv anyavatsāyāḥ: but anyavatsā occurs in the comm. to AB. vii. 2, mentioned below.] The verse (11 + 9: 11 + 12 = 43) is hardly fit to be reckoned a trīṣṭubh.

*[Primarily, vānyā, abhivānyā, apivānyā, nivānyā, as gerundives of van, mean 'to be won over to or wanted to': abhivānyavatsā is 'a calf that has to be wanted to' its new or adoptive mother. Such a word as the last, with bahuvrīhi accent, means 'a cow' possessing such a calf; and by inference, 'a cow that has lost her own calf': so abhivānyavatsā, AB. vii. 2, and Hiranyakeṣi-sūtra, in Caland's Pītmedha-sūtras, p. 588; apivānyavatsā, Kāuṣ., twice?, see below; nivānyavatsā, ÇB. xii. 5. 1⁴. — These possessives are then abbreviated, and we find abhivānyā at TB. i. 6. 8⁴ and four times in the Pītmedhasūtras (see Caland's Index), and nivānyā at ÇB. ii. 6. 1⁶, both words with the same meaning as abhivānyavatsā, but coming to it secondarily; and also vānyā at TB. ii. 6. 16², p. 676 Poona, glossed by mṛtavatsā dhenuḥ, and ĀpÇS. viii. 15. 17, as equivalent of the not quotable vānyavatsā. — After putting to paper the explanations just given I find them confirmed by Nārāyaṇa, to whom I was brought by Aufrecht's valuable note upon his excerpt from Sāyaṇa's comment on AB. vii. 2 (p. 377): Nārāyaṇa, in his comm. on AÇS. iii. 10. 17 says abhivānyavatsā nāmā nyavatsena dohaniyā: abhivānyo vatsa yasyāḥ sā bhivānyavatsā: abhivānyo bhivānantiya ity arthaḥ. — In Kāuṣ. 82. 22 there can be little doubt (cf. BR. i. 347) that we have to read apivānyavatsām after ādahane ca; and in like manner, at 80. 25, apivānyavatsāyās: with the latter passage is to be compared ÇB. ii. 6. 1⁶, which describes the same ceremony; see also Caland, Todtengebräuche, p. 151. The use of the milk of a cow whose calf is dead is in keeping with the use of cows that are old, ugly, barren, etc.: cf. ÇB. xii. 5. 1⁴ (dead man's agnihotra) and Caland l.c., p. 173, p. 20.]

36. A thousand-streamed, hundred-streamed fountain, unexhausted, expanded upon the back of the sea, yielding refreshment, unresisting, do the Fathers wait on at their will (? svadhābhis).

The first half-verse stands in VS. [xiii. 49] TS. [iv. 2. 10²] TA. [vi. 6. 1] MS. [ii. 7. 17, p. 102¹⁴] as the first two pādas of a verse of which our 30 c, d above is second half; in all, the first word is imām followed in VS.MS. by sāhasrām, in TS.TA. by samuḍrām, before catādāh; all of course omit the evidently intruded *ākṣitam, and end b with mādhye, VS. having before it sarirāsyā, and TS.TA. bhūvanasya. Some of the mss. (including our O.[?]Op.R.K.) have in d the false accent upāsate. The verse exceeds the proper measure of a triṣṭubh by the amount of ākṣitam in a. By Kāu. (86. 5), it accompanies a sprinkling with water; [Keç. says that it is the bones that are so sprinkled; so also the comm., who adds that it is done with a very leaky old dish (sahasracchidra-pātra): cf. Caland, l.c., p. 173. The sprinkling is part of the dhuvana ceremony, l.c., p. 137.] * [The rationale of the intrusion becomes clear, I think, if we compare with our a, b the first pāda of iv. 27. 2, utsam ākṣitam vidānti ye siddā.]

37. This funeral pile (?kāsāmbu) [is] piled with piling; come, ye [his] fellows, look down at it; this mortal goeth to immortality; make ye houses for him according to his kindred.

A number of the mss. (including our P.M.I.) read in a cittam, as in 14 a above. The pāda-text at end of b is paçyata : ā : ita. Some of the mss. make a blundering insertion of signs of kampa in mārtyo 'yam in c. O. has at the end -sāmbudham. The comm. shows its usual skill in explaining kaśāmbu; it means kaśāc cā 'mbūni ca, kaśa being by abbreviation from kikasa, and = asthi! Kāu. (86. 1) has the verse accompany the viewing of the bone-relics [which are now in the trench, says Keç.] by the 'fellows' of the deceased; the comm. says that either the relatives or all are to look at them as deposited in the hollow, while the manager recites the verse. The meter of the last pāda is redundant, and suggests emendation of the closing word. [The vs., with its cayanena citam and grhān (cf. ÇB. as cited below under vs. 55), seems clearly to refer to a grave-mound; but the ritual use, with its trench, is in flat contradiction with such reference.]

38. Be thou just here, winning riches, with thought here, with ability here; be thou here, very heroic, vigor-bestowing, not smitten away.

The comm. understands iha citta iha kratuḥ as four independent words. According to Kāu. (87. 21), the verse is made to accompany the taking of one of two lighted sticks of wood (see under 1. 56), and setting it up in the dirt (see under 2. 34). That this was its original office may be questioned; perhaps it is rather an invocation of the ancestor for help to his descendants.

39. These waters, rich in honey, satisfying (abhi-trp) son [and] grandson, yielding to the Fathers svadhā [and] amṛta—let the heavenly waters gratify both sides.

That is, the Fathers on the one side, and their living descendants on the other. Some of the mss. (including our O.R.) accent abhi in a. The abhi could extremely well be spared, and its omission would make the verse a good āstārapañkti [with triṣṭubh close in c and d]. According to Kāu., the next verse is used in the pinḍapitryajña while pouring water on the fire (88. 23), after the presentation of the pinḍas, and this one while then rinsing the mouth (88. 24).

[As to vs. 40, see p. xcvi, note.]

40. O waters, send forth (pra-hi) Agni unto the Fathers; this sacrifice of mine let the Fathers enjoy; they who attach themselves unto a sitting refreshment, may they confirm to us wealth having all heroes.

A corresponding verse is found in HGS. (in ii. 10. 6), reading thus: āpo devīḥ pra hiṇutā 'guṇim etaṃ yajñam pitaro no juṣantām : māsi 'mām ūrjam uta ye bhajante te no rayiṁ sarvavīraṁ ni yacchantu; and the comparison appears to convict our unintelligible third pāda of being a very gross corruption. [Observe that the word preceding āsinām ends in m, and cf. the cases assembled under xviii. 2. 3.] The comm. has no difficulty in explaining 'a sitting refreshment' as "a pīṇḍa set upon the barhis." Both editions read at the end yachān, but all the mss. save one of SPP's read yachāt; the comm. has -ān. The Anukr. does not heed that the first pāda is jagati. For the ritual application, see under the preceding verse. [With a, cf. 2. 4 d, above.]

41. They kindle the immortal one, oblation-carrying, ghee-loving; he knoweth the deposited deposits, the Fathers that are gone away to the distances.

The comm., with his usual disregard of the accent, takes ghṛtapriyam as from ghṛtā + priyā [prītikaram ājyam yasya]. For the ritual use as prescribed by Kāuṣ. 87. 22, see under 2. 34, one of the verses that accompanies it. But the verse is used also, by Kāuṣ. 86. 18, at the end of the ceremony of interment on "making the devouring (samkasuka) fire blaze up"; this the comm. does not report in his statement of vinīyoga. [Caland appears to be right in thinking that the pratīka samindhate means samindhate samkasukam, xii. 2. 11, and not our verse here. See under xii. 2. 11 and note the free use of vss. from xii. 2. in the sūtras immediately following 86. 18.]

42. What stirabout for thee, what rice-dish, what flesh I offer (ni-pr) to thee, be they for thee rich in svadhā, rich in honey, dripping with ghee.

The second half-verse is identical with 3. 68 c, d, above. Nearly all the mss. (of ours, all save Op.) accent māntham in a; both editions read manthām. The comm. again [see under 2. 30] notes the technical sense of ni-pr: nīparaṇām nāma pītryopavitinā parācīnaṇāpīnā pītarthaṁ coditadravyasya prakṣepaḥ. By Kāuṣ. 84. 6, the verse accompanies an offering of the articles mentioned, in the hut (vīmīta) in the preparation for interment of the relics; the comm. overlooks this. [For the ceremony, cf. Caland, Todtengebräuche, p. 137.]

43. What grains I scatter along for thee, mixed with sesame, rich in svadhā, be they for thee abundant, prevailing; them let king Yama approve for thee.

This is a repetition of 3. 69, being distinguished as such (and not of 4. 26) by the words iti pīrvā, instead of ity ekā, after the pratīka in most of the mss. Nevertheless, the two samhitā-mss. of ours (O.R.) which give it in full, read udbhvīs in c, the word in 4. 26, instead of vibhvīs, that in 3. 69; and the comm. also states the repetition to be of 4. 26; and SPP's text reads accordingly. [For the ritual, see under 3. 69.]

44. This [is] the former, the after down-track, by which thy former Fathers went away; they who are the forerunners, the followers (? abhiṣāc) of it, they carry thee to the world of the well-doing.

Our reading abhiṣācas is an emendation, almost every ms. giving abhiṣācas (our Op. has abhiṣācaḥ, and also one [or two] of SPP's authorities); -āc- is of course intended, and the comm. gives it. SPP's text follows the mss. The comm. explains niyāna as the wagon (śakaṭa) on which the corpse is carried to the funeral pile; and the 'forerunners' and 'followers' as the oxen that draw it, in front and on all sides: which is doubtless not at all the true sense; he also reads vahantu in d. The verse is one of the hariṇis [Kāuṣ. 80. 35; 82. 31 note]: see under 1. 61. It lacks (in a) a syllable of being a full triṣṭubh. Its second pāda is identical with 1. 54 b.

45. On Sarasvatī do the pious call; on Sarasvatī, while the sacrifice is being extended; on Sarasvatī do the well-doers call; may Sarasvatī give what is desirable to the worshiper.

46. On Sarasvatī do the Fathers call, arriving at the sacrifice on the south; sitting on this barhīs, do ye revel; assign thou to us food free from disease.

47. O Sarasvatī, that wentest in company with the songs, with the svadhās, O goddess, reveling with the Fathers, assign thou to the sacrificer here a portion of refreshment of thousand-fold value, abundance of wealth.

These three verses are a repetition of 1. 41-43 [see notes thereon], quoted by iti tis-rāḥ in most mss., but written out by our O.R. (both accenting dakṣiṇā in 46 b).

48. Thee, being earth, I make enter into earth; may god Dhātār lengthen out our life-time; let him that goeth very far away be a finder of good for you; then may the dead (pl.) come to be (sam-bhū) among the Fathers.

The first pāda is identical with that of xii. 3. 22, and hence the comm. here makes the blunder of reporting this verse as quoted by Kāuṣ. 61. 30,* whereas it is evidently the other; and he explains the meaning to be that earth is smeared upon the vessel [porridge-pot], which is entirely out of place in this connection, the analogy being with our own phrase "earth to earth." The problematic pārāparāitā [p. pārāparāitā] in c is rendered strictly according to its form, as if composed of pārā-parā + etr; the Pet. Lexx. render it as "one who departs after another or in due order"; but I cannot see how this meaning is arrived at. The comm. reads parāparetās (our O. gives -retas), and explains it as dūradeṣam parāṇmukham ito gatāḥ. The comm. also, against pāda-text and accent, understands adhā 'mrtās in d. * [Cf. p. 869, ¶ 7.]

49. Start ye (du.) forward hither, wipe off that which the portents (? abhibhā) have said there of you; from that come ye, inviolable ones, to this which is better, being bestowers here on me, a giver to the Fathers.

This is highly obscure, and the second half-verse, especially, is rendered only mechanically, and even then with substitution of vāsiyas where nearly all the mss. have vāṣṭyas or vaṣṭyas (our M.I.D., and one of SPP's, vaṣṭyas, which our text, quite unsuccessfully, emends to vaṣṭya); SPP. admits vāṣṭyas in his text; the comm. has vāsiyas. According to Kāuṣ. (82. 40), the verse is addressed to the two kine (the comm. says, the two that have drawn the hearse): the direction is iti gāvāu upayachati; it is perhaps intended as a purification of them after the ill-omened service which they have performed. In c the vocative, aghnyāu, is an emendation, SPP. reading with the mss. aghnyāu; but the accentuation of the mss. is here very unauthoritative; the comm. also takes the word as vocative. Nearly all our mss. (all save O.Op.R.) leave ācus in b without accent. The comm. is not ashamed to derive abhibhās formally from abhi-bhā, and to explain it by abhibhāvākās or dūṣākās; his general explication of the pāda, as intimating a reproach brought against the pair for having been engaged in such business, is doubtless good. The defective meter suggests a corruption of the text. The comm. takes iha and bhojanāu in ḍ as two independent words, and renders bhojanāu by bhojayitārāu or pākyitārāu. Two of SPP's mss. also accent the words separately. [On his margin Whitney pencilled the memorandum, "Recast this note."] [In Ppp., immediately after our xvii. 1. 30, comes this verse. Its appearance in that place is possibly to be interpreted as a hint at the existence in Ppp. of our book xviii., of which, however, there are no other traces in Ppp. save the straggling verses 1. 46 (in ii.), 2. 13 (in xix.), 2. 17 and 3. 56 (in xx.).] [Last addition misplaced: see p. 1016.]

50. This sacrificial gift hath come excellently to us, given by him, well-milking, vigor-bestowing; old age, coming close to (? upa-prc) them living in youth, shall lead these away together unto the Fathers.

According to Kāuṣ. (82. 41, the next rule to that which quotes the preceding verse), the verse accompanies the giving [or receiving: comm.] of a dakṣiṇā or sacrificial gift of at least ten kine [the comm. says one], at the close of the after-cremation ceremonies. But this gives no clew to the meaning of the second half-verse, whose connection with the first remains very obscure. The two editions agree in their text throughout, but upapṛñcatī is obviously an inadmissible accentuation, requiring emendation to upa-prñcatī; and it is against all rule to accent any but the last of two or more prefixes to the same verb: hence upasampārāṇayāt—which accent is given by [two or] three of SPP's authorities, and which he therefore had good reason for adopting (it is also given by our O.Op.R., all collated after our publication). [If I understand the Collation Book, O.R. accent upasām pārā-.] Three of our pada-mss. (Bp.Kp.D., but D. not accented) make the anomalous division upaśām : pārāṇayāt; the other (Op.) has upaśampārāṇayāt, which is the regular and proper form: see Prāt. iv. 2 and note, and iv. 7. In c, our Bp.D. (but D. without accent) have the strange reading yāu : vāne, and Op. yāuvāneṣu; while Bs. [O.K.] also accent yāu vāne, as do two of SPP's mss. (three others yāuvāne, and only two, with our M.T.R.s.m., yāuvāne).

51. This barhīs I bring forward for the Fathers; a living, higher one I strew for the gods; that do thou ascend, O man, becoming sacrificial; let the Fathers acknowledge thee who art departed.

A corresponding verse is found in TA. (in vi. 7. 2), which reads in a bharema, for b devébhyo jīvanta ūttaram bharema, for c, ḍ tāttvam āroḥāso mēdhyo bhāva [Poona ed. *bhāvam] yamēna tvām yamyā samvidāndh: its text is plainly in part corrupt. Bhāvan in c is an emendation, all our mss. save one (Op.), and the majority of SPP's, reading bhavan, as if mixing the word up with bhava, imperative. The comm. reads in b jīvan. Neither this verse nor its predecessor is to be called with any reason a jagatī; [but 50 c, d and 51 c have jagatī cadences]. This has the same pratikā, so far as concerns the first two words, as 1. 46, and it is impossible to tell which of the two verses is quoted by Kāuṣ.; but the comm. declares the first half of this one to be used as darbha-grass is strewn upon the wood of the funeral pile, and the second half as the corpse is laid supine upon the grass thus strewn: that is to say, this verse is intended in Kāuṣ. 80. 51; [so also Caland, WZKM. viii. 368]. * [The mss. vary between bhāvam and bhava and the TA. comm. understands bhava.]

52. Thou hast sat upon this barhīs, thou hast become sacrificial; let the Fathers acknowledge thee who art departed; collect thy body according to its joints; I arrange thy members with brāhman.

The reading yathāparū in c is an emendation, made alike by both editions; * the comm. has it, but all the mss. give yathāpurū — which is perhaps not altogether untranslatable: 'according to its muchness.' We should expect in b rather jānan than another jānanu (51 d). The verse evidently belongs with its predecessor [used at 80. 51], but is entirely separated from it in ritual use, accompanying, according to Kāuṣ. 85. 25, [the assembling of the bones so as to form a human figure, as explained under 3. 25]; next after it are quoted 2. 24, 26 and 3. 25-37. Pāda b has an extra syllable. [With regard to the place of the vs., see p. 870, ¶ 1, and p. 870, end.]

* [In support of the emendation, SPP. adduces ix. 5. 4, with its yathāparū and paruṣḍ. I think that yathāparū (as against yathāpurū) is strongly supported by the sense (much less so by the mss.) of the two Kāuṣikan passages which give the ritual for ix. 5. 4 and for this vs. respectively, to wit, 64. 10 and 85. 25. In the latter passage the mss. have yathāparuh saṁcinoti (one, paru), and Keçava says yathāparu, and Bloomfield emends to yathāparu; but I am not quite sure that it is necessary, for yathāparus may not be bad Sanskrit.]

53. King leaf is the cover of the dishes; the strength of refreshment, the power, vigor, hath come to us, dispensing (vi-dhā) life-time to the living (pl.), in order to length of life for a hundred autumns.

The comm. reads in a, against the pada-text and the metrical requirement, the later abbreviated pidhānam. It understands by parṇa ('leaf') the tree so called, or the palāṇa-tree; and this may be correct; this tree, it says, owing to its sacrificial quality, is the overlord of trees. [Cf. the synonyms brahmapādapa (in Hemacandra) and yājñika, viśvapriyā (in Rājanighaṇṭu): cf. also brahma vāi palāṇa, ÇB. xiii. 8. 4¹.] It takes ūrjās as a nominative, which makes a decidedly easier reading, but is unsupported by Vedic usage elsewhere. Only two or three mss. (including our Op.) read in c vidādhāt, the rest vidādhat (and the pada-mss. viśādhat, which is absurd [cf. note to xiii. 3. 17], but rather indicates that the word was correctly viewed as a participle); and SPP. accepts vidādhat, p. viśādhat, because the comm. supports the majority of the mss. by understanding viśādhat. The true reading is, beyond all reasonable question, vidādhat, as our text gives it. The meter seems to be viewed by the Anukr. as $10 + 11 : 8 + 11 = 40$; it is rather too irregular to merit a name. Its use* in Kāuṣ. (86. 6) follows that of vs. 36 above; it accompanies the laying of middle-foliage (? madhyamapalāṇās) down upon the offering dishes: the comm. says, more explicitly, upon the nine dishes spoken of in vss. 16-24, and also upon the perforated plates (madhya-palāṇapatrāḥ ācchādayet); Keçava's explanation corresponds closely with this.

* [The palāṇa has ternate leaves, from 8 to 16 inches long: Roxburgh, Flora Indica, p. 540, Calc. ed. 1874. By madhyama parṇa or palāṇa is meant the middle one of any of these ternate groups; the middle one is especially fit for holy use by reason of its likeness to a sacrificial ladle: TB. i. 6. 103, madhyamēna parṇēna juhōti: srūḡ ghy ḷḡḡ: cf. also Sāyaṇa on TS. i. 8. 6, p. 1167, Poona. I am indebted to Caland's excellent paragraphs on this subject, ZDMG. liii. 212. — The "nine dishes" are the last nine of the eleven whose deposition is explained above, under vs. 16. The "plates" are the leaky old dishes noticed above under vs. 36.]

54. The share of refreshment that generated this man; — the stone attained (gam) the overlordship of the foods; — him praise ye, all-befriended, with oblations; may that Yama make (dhā) us to live further.

The second half-verse is identical with 3. 63 c, d above. The translation of the first half is purely mechanical, the sense being wholly obscure. The comm. renders bhāgās by sambhaktā, and ārjās by annasyā 'sthisamīpasthāpitacarulakṣaṇasya, yamas being the implied subject; then the 'stone' is the one used to cover the same annāni or cara-vas. A couple of our mss. (O.R.) and one of SPP's read in b ācṛā 'nnām; several (including our O.O.P.R.) have ādhipatyam. Some of ours (O.R.K.) and three of SPP's leave jagāma without an accent, which seems better, and is implied in the translation. One of SPP's gives bhāgām in a. In Kāuṣ. (86. 7) the verse is used next after 53, and accompanies the covering of the same dishes with stones—or, the comm. adds, with bricks. [Cf. Caland, Todtengebräuche, p. 157.] It lacks a syllable in a. Our edition leaves viṣvāmitrās in this verse without accent, on the authority of two of our mss. (Bp.M.); all SPP's give viṣvāmitrās, p. viṣvāmitrāḥ, as in 3. 63, and he accepts this in his text. The two verses ought of course to be made to agree, but there is little reason for preferring either nominative or vocative [the comm. takes the doubtful word as voc.]. [If the Viṣvāmitras be not meant here and at 3. 63, then Weber's observations reported under 3. 16 lose some of their basis.]

55. As the five clans (mānavā) scattered (vaṣ) a dwelling (harmyā) for Yama, so do I scatter a dwelling, that there may be many of me (?).

A corresponding verse is found in TA. (in vi. 6. 2); it reads harmyām in a and c, and evām in c; and for d yāthā 'sāma jīvalokē bhūrayas, which, however unmetrical, is at least capable of being translated, while this can hardly be claimed for our d. All the mss. read at the end āsatas, save one of SPP's, which follows the comm. in giving āsata, as is read in both editions—in ours, purely as an emendation. The comm. makes no difficulty of taking āsata as = syāta, and explaining "that ye my relatives may be numerous"; but that would be āsatha; and āsata has no grammatical standing of any kind, and hence is to be rejected. The comparison with TA. at least shows that the pāda is corrupt. The comm. foolishly divides evāvapāmi in c into eva āvapāmi. Three of our pāda-mss. (not Op.) most absurdly divide āva-pan in b; it is strange that SPP. reports nothing of the kind from his authorities. By Kāuṣ. (86. 11) the verse is used next after 2. 50 etc., with the direction iti samṛitya ('on finishing the pile?'); the comm. says that with it they are to divide (kutṭay) leftwise, with sticks or bricks, the part of the cemetery on which the pile stood: in TA. it accompanies the "placing in the jar [of relics] the drugs called sarvānuṣadhi" (hence, perhaps, the use of vaṣ in the verse, as they are strewn in); [but cf. Caland, Todtengebräuche, p. 149].

[On saṃṛitya (?) and kutṭayeyus.—Kāuṣ. 86. 10 reads: idam id vā ṇ na (xviii. 2. 50) uṇa sarpa (3. 49) asāu hā (4. 66) iti cinvanti. Sūtra 11 continues: yathā yamāya (4. 55) iti saṃṛitya. Upon 10, Keç. says: ṣilābhir (? ṣalākābhir?) viṣamābhir iṣṭakābhir vā prasavyam cinvanti ṣmaçānam. And the AV. comm., in giving the ritual for 2. 50 (p. 115) and 3. 49 (p. 161) and 4. 66 (p. 233), says: ṣmaçānadeçam viṣamasamkhyākābhiḥ ṣalākābhir iṣṭakābhir vā prasavyam cinuyāt, using the very same words in all three passages, save that he leaves out the second word in the second passage. Then, for 4. 55 (p. 224) he says: ṣalākābhir iṣṭakābhir vā prasavyam citam ṣmaçāna-pradeçam kutṭayeyuh.—In all these passages, ṣmaçāna or ṣmaçāna-deça or -pradeça must mean the mound which they heap (ci) over the buried bones: cf. ÇB. xiii. 8. 11 athā smāi ṣmaçānam kurvanti, grhān vā prajñānam vā ('or as a monument'), and Harisvāmīn's comment, p. 1017¹³, ṣmaçānam prasiddham asthi-samrakṣa-vāstu; the mound is, as with us, not quite knee-high, ÇB. xiii. 8. 3¹², adhojānu.—The meaning of our comm. on 4. 55, accordingly, seems to be: after the mound has been heaped up

(citam), they should pat (kṛṣṭay) it with splints of wood or with bricks, [going around it, as they pat it.] to the left.'—If this be right and if kṛṣṭay is the comm's version of the word after iti in sūtra 11, then I suspect that Bloomfield has not hit the right reading in the printed text. Whitney's 'on finishing the pile' would call for saṁsthāpya; but saṁsthāpya is much nearer to the meaning of kṛṣṭay and also to the probable intention of Bl's mss., and I would accordingly read saṁsthāpya in place of the printed saṁsthāpya. Root sthā means 'thrust, push,' in their ordinary and in their obscene senses, and here, with saṁ, 'to make [the mound] compact or firm by striking or beating or patting,' as a modern gravemaker pats the mound with his spade to give it shape and firmness.]

56. Wear (bhṛ) thou this gold, which thy father wore before; of thy father, going to heaven (svargā), do thou wipe off the right hand.

The majority of mss. read pītur in c, some pītur, and hardly any (of ours, only Op.) pītur. Many of ours have mṛdāhi in d: see Prāt. i. 94 and note. The comm. strangely gives pīpṛhi [cf. xiii. i. 1, note] in a (though abibhar in b!). According to Kāuṣ. 80. 46, 47, the first half-verse is used as the manager takes with the right hand some gold worn by the deceased, smears it with ghee, and passes it to the eldest son; the second half-verse, as he makes him wipe off his (of course, the father's) right hand; the comm. states it thus: "with the first half he makes the oldest son heat (ādīpayet: as if the comm. read in Kāuṣ. ādīpayati instead of ādāp-) in the fire god found in the hand of the deceased; with the other half the son should wipe the deceased's hand."

57. Both those who are living and those who are dead; those who are born and those who are worshipful—for them let there go a brook of ghee, honey-streamed, overflowing.

We had the second half-verse above as 3. 72 c, d, only with ṣatādharā instead of mādhudharā. The mss. are again at variance as to the accent of kulyā; and the majority also accent mādhudharā, as if they had ṣatād- in mind [cf. end of note to 1. 42 above]. Yajñīya is a queer antithesis to jātā, and the comm. reads instead yajñīyās, explaining it as yajñim utpattim yānti gacchanti: that is, yajñi + root yā! The comm. also understands in d mādhudharās, as object of vyundati. A corresponding verse is found in TA. (in vi. 12): it omits the first ca in a; has at end of b the almost acceptable reading yāntīyās (it ought to be yāntīvās); offers in c the curious corruption dhārayitum for kulyāi 'tu'; [and accents mādhudharā in d]. The schol. add the verse to 56, as used by Kāuṣ. 80. 46; the Kāuṣ. uses it twice with 3. 72: see under that verse; in TA. it has an utterly different application, in the ceremony of turning loose the cow that was led with the corpse to the funeral pile.

58. There purifies itself the conspicuous bull of the prayers, the sun of days, lengthener out of dawns, of the sky (dīv); the breath of the rivers hath made the jars to resound loudly; entering Indra's heart with skill.

This is a verse out of one of the most formidable hymns of the RV. soma-book (RV. ix. 86. 19), and occurring also twice in SV. (i. 559; ii. 171). In b, RV. reads sōmo āhnaḥ prataritō 'śāso dīvāḥ; in c, krāṇā and avīvaṇat; in d, hārdi and manīṣ-bhis; with this SV. in general agrees, but has, with AV., āhnaṁ and uśāsam in b, and acikeradat in c; it is peculiar in reading prāṇā (p. prāṇā) at beginning of c; a corruption, doubtless, which is carried out to greater intelligibility in our prāṇās. The

AV. corruption, of both sense and meter, in b, pratāritā us-, supported by the pada-reading pratāritāh, is very strange; of our mss., only three (O.R., supported by Op. -tā : us-) have the correct -to 's-; of SPP's, according to his account, about half support -to 's-, and he accordingly admits that reading into his text; we ought to have done the same by emendation. [For hārdim āviçān (p. āviçān) man-, the comm. reads hārdima . . . aviçat . . . man-.] What right the verse has here (or vs. 60, coming from the same RV. hymn) does not appear; neither Kāuç. nor the comm. uses it in the ritual; but the latter says, as if by way of excuse, that, as the Fathers enjoy the fruit of the soma-sacrifices which they have offered, soma is praised in the ceremonies for the Fathers. He explains the 'rivers' in c as the vasatīvarī waters. [He says, p. 224²³, vṛṣā matīnām ityādinān tīrṣṇām (vss. 58, 59, 60) pīṭmedha eva kāṇdokto viniyogo 'nusañdheyaḥ, which is not clear to me: should it be pīṭmedhakāṇḍa evokto ?]

59. Let thy sparkling (? tveṣā) smoke cover, being in the sky, extended bright; for thou, O purifier, shinest like the sun with luster, with beauty (kṛpā).

The verse is RV. vi. 2. 6 and SV. i. 83; both read ṛvuvati in a; [in b, SV. combines divt sāt ch-: cf. divt sāt ch- at xvii. 1. 12]. The comm. explains kṛpā as = kṛpayā or stutyā. Vāit. (6. 11) uses the verse, with others, in the ceremony of establishing the fires.

60. Soma (indū) verily goes forward to Indra's rendezvous; the comrade does not violate (pra-mī) the comrade's agreements; thou rushest to join, as a male after females—soma, in the jar, by a road of a hundred tracks.

The verse corresponds to RV. ix. 86. 16, which has, however, important variants: in a, pró ayāstā indur and niṣkṛtām; in b, sañgtram; in c, yuvattbhis and aṣṭati; in d, çatdyāmnā; SV. (i. 557; ii. 502) agrees with RV. except in the last item, having, like our text, -yāmanā. [The meter shows that it is to be pronounced -yāmanā, whichever way it is written: cf. JAOS. x. 532.] Our niṣkṛtim is hardly better than a corruption of the RV. reading; but the comm. understands it as Indra's "belly" (jaṭharalakṣaṇaṁ sthānam), and supports his opinion by quoting RV. iii. 35. 6. Sañgīrās, in b, is understood in the translation as sañgītras (which is read by two or three mss., including our O.), the former being unintelligible; the comm. gives two explanations, both implying the accent -gīr-, one from saṁ-gī 'agree,' the other from saṁ-gī or -gīl 'swallow down,' thus finding in the verse another "belly" (sañgīras = sañgīram = udaram). Our text of c spoils both the meter and the connection, making the line render very lamely; the comm. reads yóṣā, and takes it as an instrumental (like yuvattbhis); in d he has the RV. SV. reading. The metrical definition of the Anukr. is worthless. [The RV. verse is a good jagatī, and so is this, barring c, where the corruptions have spoiled meter as well as sense.]

61. They have eaten; they have revelled [surely]; they have shaken off (dva) those that are dear; having own brightness (svābhānu), they have praised; inspired, youngest, we implore.

The verse corresponds to RV. i. 82. 2 a-d, and is found also in other texts: SV. i. 145; VS. iii. 51; TS. in i. 8. 5²; MS. in i. 10. 3. All these agree in reading in c priyās for priyān, and, for d, vīprā nāvīṣṭhayaḥ matī; and they add a fifth pāda, a refrain, having nothing to do with the meaning of the verse. A majority of the AV.

mss. (including our M.O.Op.R.K.D.) read āvā 'priyān (p. āva : apriyān), and this is perhaps the true Atharvan text (though the accent, in that case, should be āvā 'priyān), and defensible on the ground of sense; our last pāda is nothing but a senseless corruption. In Kāuṣ. (88. 27) the verse is used, next after vss. 81 ff.,* in the piṇḍapitryajña, with the direction ity uttarasicam avadhūya; the comm. paraphrases this to mean that one is to perform an additional sprinkling (? uttaraparīṣeka) next after the worship (upasthāna) of the piṇḍas. For the application of the verse to the Fathers, compare TB. ii. 6. 3², ākṣan pītaraḥ : ānimadanta pītaraḥ, etc.; [also Sāyana's comm. on TS. i. 8. 5², Poona ed., p. 1159]. * [It is to be noted that in the piṇḍapitryajña of the VS. (ii. 31), animadanta pītaraḥ etc. comes just before the verses corresponding to our vss. 81-85.] [ÇGS., i. 15, prescribes the RV. verse for use when the bride greases the axle of the wedding-car: is this because of the resemblance of ākṣam ('axle') to ākṣan (root ghas)?!] [See p. lxxix.]

62. Come ye, O Fathers, delectable, by profound roads that the Fathers travel, assigning to us lifetime and progeny; and do ye attach yourselves to us with abundances of wealth.

The last pāda was found above as ix. 4. 24 d. Corresponding verses are found in HGS. ii. 10. 5 and MB. ii. 3. 5. For a, b, MB. reads eta pītaraḥ somyāso gambhīrēbhīḥ pathibhīḥ pūrvīnebhīḥ; and as second half-verse it has our 3. 14 c, d. HGS. has ā yāta pītaraḥ somyā gambhīraḥ (misprint for -rāḥ?) pathibhīḥ pūrvyāḥ, with an altogether different c, d. We should prefer somyāsas unaccented, both in this verse and in the next, but no ms. so reads. The comm. has in c adhata, which he pronounces the same as dhatta. In Kāuṣ., in the pitṛnidhāna ceremony, the verse accompanies (83. 27) the bringing of the bone-relics, before sunset [into the hut: Keç.]; and it is followed (83. 28, 29) by 1. 52 and 2. 29; then, in the piṇḍapitryajña (87. 28), the three are repeated; the comm. notices only the latter use, stating that with this verse one is to scatter sesame on the darhis spread for the purpose of giving the piṇḍas. In number of syllables, the verse answers to the description of the Anukr. (9 + 10 + 11 + 11 = 41). [The MB. reading makes a rectification of the meter at the beginning of b.]

63. Go away, O Fathers, delectable, by profound roads that go to the stronghold (pūryāṇa); then, in a month, come ye again to our houses to eat the oblation, with good progeny, with good heroes.

All the pāda-mss. commit the strange blunder of dividing āyāta in c into ā : ayāta; both editions make the necessary correction; the comm. also understands ā yāta. In d, some of the mss. make great difficulty over āttum, reading also [anum,] atnum, antum, atūn, and the comm. gives as a compound haviratnān; but our O.R.D., and the majority of SPP's authorities, have the correct reading; as does also HGS. in its corresponding verse [ii. 13. 2]. HGS. [spoils the meter of a by modernizing somyāsas to] somyās; reads in b pūrvyāis; [and begins c with atha]. The first half-verse occurs also in MS. i. 10. 3 and AÇS. ii. 7. 9. MS. makes nearly good meter of it, reading pāre 'tana pītaraḥ somyāso gambhīrēbhīḥ pathibhīḥ pūrvēbhīḥ (which should evidently be emended to pūrvyēbhīḥ); AÇS. differs from this only by having at the end pūrvīnebhis (with K. and Kap.S., as pointed out by Schröder). Prāt. iii. 83 quotes the word pūryāṇa. Kāuṣ. uses the verse in the piṇḍapitryajña (88. 28), next after vs. 61, in dismissing the Fathers after their feast of piṇḍas. The metrical description of the Anukr. is very poor: [it is probable that the verse originally was 11 + 11 : 12 + 11; but its b is spoiled metrically.]

64. What one limb of you Agni Jātavedas left when making you go to the Fathers' world, that same for you I fill up again; revel ye, O Fathers, in heaven (svargā) with [all] your limbs.

HGS. has (in ii. 11. 1) an analogous but quite different verse: yad vañ kravyād aṅgam adahat lokān ayam pranayañ jātavedāḥ : tad vo 'ham punar ā veçayāmy ari-ṣṭāḥ sarvāir aṅgāiḥ sam bhavata pitarāḥ. Most of our mss. (all except O.Op.R.), but, by his account, only one of SPP's, leave ajahāt in a unaccented; on the other hand, all without exception accent in pitāras, which SPP. accordingly admits into his text; but our emendation to pitaras is plainly necessary. What the comm. says is here unknown, because the manuscript shows a considerable lacuna, involving the latter half of the explanation of this verse, with the text of the next and the larger part of its exposition. Kāuṣ. uses the verse (88. 5) in the piṇḍapitṛyajña, next after vss. 74, 78, to accompany an offering of rice-grains with the stirring-stick (sāyavana [that is, sa-āyavana : SPP's sāmyavana, p. 233⁴, does not seem right]). [As to completeness of limbs in the other world, see my note to 4. 12, above. This verse was translated metrically by Whitney, O. and L. S., i. 57.]

65. Jātavedas has been the messenger sent forth, at evening, at close of day to be honored by men;—thou hast given to the Fathers; they have eaten after their wont; eat thou, O god, the presented oblations.

We had the second half-verse above as 3. 42 c, d. Part of our mss. (O.Op.R.D.), with, so far as appears, the majority of SPP's, read in b upavāndyas, and the latter accordingly adopts it in his text; the root vand does not appear to be anywhere else combined with upa. The line reads like a kind of echo of RV. iv. 54. 1 [TB. iii. 7. 13⁴]. The verse is the last one quoted in the piṇḍapitṛyajña by Kāuṣ. (89. 14), to accompany the withdrawal of the "extended" fires. [By "extended" I suppose W. means the technical pranīta (cf. comm., p. 233⁶). The words of Kāuṣ. are agnim pratyānayati: the ceremony seems to be the same as that prescribed by ÇB. at ii. 4. 2²⁴, punar ulmukam api sṛjati, and by ÇÇS. at iv. 5. 9, ulmukam agnāu kṛtvā.]

66. Thou yonder, ho! hither thy mind! as sisters (jāmi) a kakutsala, do thou cover him, O earth.

The translation implies the evidently necessary emendation to asāu in a; both editions give asāu, because this is read by all the mss.; the comm. understands the word as a vocative; it also reads the interjection as hā, while the pada-text gives hāt. It further glosses jāmayas [alternatively] with bhaginyas, and reads kakutsthalam, explaining it as pradhānāvayavapradeçam, and paraphrasing with putrādinān çirah-prabhṛtiny aṅgāni çitātāpavātānīvārāṇāya. The Pet. Lexx. conjecture kakutsala to be a pet word for a little child. We had the third pāda above as 2. 50 d, 51 d, and 3. 50 d. Kāuṣ. uses the verse (86. 10) with 2. 50 and 3. 49 in the ceremony over the bone-relics. The comm. includes with it vs. 67.

67. Let the worlds where the Fathers sit adorn themselves (çumbh); I make thee to sit in the world where the Fathers sit.

The first phrase is VS. v. 26 f, which, however, reads çandhanātām; Āp. vii. 9. 10 has çundhatām lokāḥ pitṛçadanāḥ. [For variants as between çundh and çumbh, cf. notes to vi. 115. 3; xii. 2. 40; 3. 13, 21, 26; xviii. 3. 56.]

68. Thou art the barhīs of them that are our Fathers.

The metrical description of the Anukr. implies the reading yé asm-. In Kāuṣ. (87. 27) the verse is used with 1. 51 etc. (see under 1. 51) in connection with the strewing of barhīs.

69. Loosen up the uppermost fetter from us, O Varuṇa, [loosen] down the lowest, off the midmost; then may we in thy sphere, O Āditya, be guiltless unto Aditi.

The verse [which is RV. i. 24. 15, etc.] occurred above as vii. 83. 3 [which see]; among our mss., only O.R. write it out in full. The comm. notices the repetition, yet goes on to give a full explication. In Kāuṣ. (82. 8), it is used in the ceremony of the first day after cremation (next before 3. 56), with the direction iti jyeṣṭhaḥ, apparently implying that "the oldest" son of the deceased pours water on the attendants; the comm. says that with this verse, immediately after the cremation, all the Brahmans should take a bath (snānān kuryuḥ).

70. Release from us all fetters, O Varuṇa, with which one is bound crosswise, with which lengthwise; so may we live hundreds of autumns, by thee, O king, guarded, defended.

The rendering of samānt and vyānt in b is far from certain: cf. iv. 16. 8. The comm. explains: samānto nāma vyāmasaṁjñitapradeṣāt saṁhucitapramāṇako deṣaḥ: saṁnikṛite pradeṣe dīre pradeṣe ce 'ti yāvat. Two of our mss. (O.R.) and one of SPP's read samānt; and two or three of the latter have badhyate, without accent. Nearly all, again, read ṣarādam in c (our O.R.p.m. [and one of SPP's] -das), and SPP. admits ṣarādam into his text; our -dām is an emendation, and a necessary one, unless we take instead -das, as in apposition with ṣatāni. The comm. makes no difficulty of reading -dām, understanding it, according to one of his convenient rules of interpretation, as a sing. used in place of a plural. Most of our mss., again (except P.O.Op.R.), but only one of SPP's, accent rājan. The comm. points out that rākṣamānās is for rākṣya, which is altogether probable, considering how easily a y is lost after ṣ or ç. The first pāda is identical with vii. 83. 4 a. All the pāda-mss. except one of SPP's read gṛhītā instead of -tāḥ. The comm. directs the verse to be recited for good fortune evening and morning at the end of the daṣarātra in the pīṭṛmedha.

71. To Agni, carrier of the kavyās, [be] svadhā [and] homage.

72. To Soma with the Fathers [be] svadhā [and] homage.

[Verses 71-87 are prose, except vs. 75, with regard to which see p. 869, ¶ 5.] These verses [71, 72] are found, in reversed order, in AÇS. ii. 6. 12. In VS. ii. 29 a, b, are found both, but with svāhā in place of svadhā nāmaḥ, and the same in ÇÇS. iv. 4. 1 and GGS. iv. 2. 39, except that in the latter svāhā precedes the datives. VS. accents pīṭṛmāte. [See also under vs. 74.] In Kāuṣ. 87. 8, vss. 71-74 are combined in alternation with vss. 78-80 to accompany in the piṇḍapīṭṛyajña the scattering downward of three handfuls of offering; and [are used] again, later (88. 2, 3, 4) in the same ceremony, with oblations. [Verse 71 is employed by Vāit. (9. 8) in the sākamedha, and I suspect (see p. 869, ¶ 7) that the sūtra intends vss. 72 and 73 also to be thus used: cf. also ĀpÇS. viii. 13. 15, 16.]

73. To the Fathers with Soma, svadhā [and] homage.

74. To Yama with the Fathers, svadhā [and] homage.

For the ritual use of these verses see the preceding note. [Parallels of our vss. 72 and 74 and 71, and in that order, recur at MGS. ii. 9. 13: cf. the pratikas in Knauer's Index, and also under pitṛbhyas, p. 152.]

75. Here is svadhā for thee, O great-grandfather, and for them that are after (anu) thee.

76. Here is svadhā for thee, O grandfather, and for them that are after thee.

77. Here is svadhā for thee, O father.

Passages analogous with these three verses are found in a number of other texts: TS. i. 8. 5¹; AÇS. ii. 6. 15; Āp. i. 9. 1 (cf. also viii. 16. 6; xiii. 12. 9); ÇÇS. iv. 4. 2; GGS. iv. 2. 35; ÇB. ii. 4. 2¹⁹ forbids the use of yé ca tvām annu, and KÇS. iv. 1. 12 is of the same opinion. [Opposite vs. 75, W. notes K. ix. 6.] In 77 all our mss. save one (Op.) read tātas instead of tata; half of SPP's do the same. In Kāuç. 88. 11 the three verses (doubtless: only the pratika of 75 is quoted; the comm. says the three) are used on setting down three combined (samhata) piṇḍas on the barhis; and Vāit. (22. 22) employs them similarly in the agnistoma. Though 75 is easily read as two anuṣṭubh pādas, the Anukr. allows it only 15 syllables, refusing to resolve tu-ām here, as it also refuses in 76. [As to vs. 75, see p. 869, ¶ 5.] [Apropos of tata and tāta, the comm. cites AA. i. 3. 3; and Sāyana, in his comment on that passage, gives two little tales about Prajāpati's early linguistic ventures which remind us somewhat of the beautiful βέκός story as told by Herodotus in the beginning of Euterpe.]

78. Svadhā to the Fathers that sit upon the earth.

79. Svadhā to the Fathers that sit in the atmosphere.

80. Svadhā to the Fathers that sit in the sky (dīu).

These verses are found also in Āp. i. 9. 6, and in GGS. iv. 3. 10. GGS. has prthi-vīṣadbhyaṣ [and antarikṣasadbhyaṣ]; both combine pitṛbhyo 'ntar-; and our O.R.K., with half of SPP's authorities, do the same; the Anukr. implies -bhyo antar-, but that proves nothing. For the ritual use, see under vss. 71, 72 above. Both Āp. and GGS. prescribe the verses for the case that the names of the Fathers intended are not known.

81. Homage, O Fathers, to your refreshment (śrj); homage, O Fathers, to your sap.

82. Homage, O Fathers, to your terror* (bhāma); homage, O Fathers, to your fury.

83. Homage, O Fathers, to that of yours which is terrible; homage, O Fathers, to that of yours which is cruel.

84. Homage, O Fathers, to that of yours which is propitious; homage, O Fathers, to that of yours which is pleasant.

85. Homage to you, O Fathers; svadhā to you, O Fathers.

For a wonder, these formulas are written by all the mss. without variation and without error. Corresponding passages are to be found in many other texts: VS. ii. 32; TB. i. 3. 10⁸; MS. i. 10. 3; K. ix. 6; ÇÇS. iv. 5. 1; AÇS. ii. 7. 7; Āp. i. 10. 2 and xiii. 12. 10; GGS. iv. 3. 18–21; MB. ii. 3. 8–11; none of them agree closely with our text; but the details of accordance and of difference are not worth giving. In Kāuç. (88. 26)

they accompany in the piṇḍapitryajña the reverence (upasthāna) paid to the Fathers, being then followed by vss. 61 and 63. * [That is, 'to your terror-inspiring fury.']

86. They who are there, O Fathers—Fathers there are ye—[be] they after you; may ye be the best of them.

87. They who are here, O Fathers—alive here are we—[be] they after us; may we be the best of them.

The translation here implies certain emendations of the text: pitaraś [accentless] in 87 and the first time in 86, and the omission of ye after the second pitāraś in 86: the latter is made also in our text, while SPP. reads, with the mss., ye 'tra pitāraḥ pitāro ye 'tra yūyān sthā. As to the accent of the pitaraḥ pitāro in 86, the mss. are wildly discordant, presenting every possible variation, and, considering the many accentual blunders which they commit in this part of the text, the details are not worth reporting, nor need we feel any hesitation in amending to what seems to make the best sense. The omission of ye is much more serious, but seems demanded by the sense, and by the analogy of 87. Similar passages are found in [TS. iii. 2. 5⁶,] TB. i. 3. 10⁸⁻⁹ [like TS.], and ÇÇS. iv. 5. 1 (the latter nearest like our text: ye 'tra pitāraḥ pitāraḥ stha yūyān teṣān cṛeṣṭhā bhūyāstha: ya iha pitāro manusyā vayan teṣān cṛeṣṭhā bhūyāsmā); compare also MS. i. 10. 3 and AÇS. ii. 7. 7.* All our mss. save one (Op.), and most of SPP's, leave stha in 86 unaccented; this non-accentuation, so far as it goes, favors the omission of ye. Bhūyāstha is a grammatically impossible form, and should be emended to -sta, which is read by [TS. and] TB. in the corresponding passage; ÇÇS., as has been seen, gives -stha. One of SPP's mss. has bhūyāsta. In 87, most of the mss. insert an avasāna after smāḥ, and SPP. follows them; it is of course senseless, unless we use one also after stha in 86†; nor does the Anukr. appear to acknowledge it, since it notes no difference of division as between the two verses; but our [printed] text at any rate blunders in not reading either smo asmān or smo 'smān since it has omitted the avasāna-mark. The metrical definitions of the Anukr. are worthless, as there is no trace of meter in the two passages; they can by violence be read into the number of syllables called for.

* [In the second and third paragraphs below are given these passages from TB., MS., and AÇS. The TS. passage agrees with the TB. passage, save that TS. has ye 'smiñ loké for the very bad ye 'smiñ loké of TB.]

† [We ought, I think, in fact to read with SPP. an avasāna-mark after smāḥ in vs. 87, not only as being abundantly supported by the mss. of both editions, but also as called for by the sense and the general (quadripartite) structure of the verse. And the same applies to the reading of an avasāna-mark after stha in vs. 86; it is printed in neither edition, but appears to be well warranted by the authorities of both.]

[The TB. passage, at i. 3. 10⁸⁻⁹, with the avasānas as printed in the Poṇa ed., is: yā etāsmiñ loké sthā (8) yusmāns té 'nu | ye 'smiñ loké | mān té 'nu | yā etāsmiñ loké sthā | yūyān teṣān vāsiṣṭhā bhūyāsta | ye 'smiñ loké | ahān teṣān vāsiṣṭho bhūyāsam.—This passage and its analogues have been discussed in two papers by Böhltlingk, Berichte der sächsischen Gesell., sessions of July 8, 1893, and May 2, 1896. In the first, having the TB. passage before him, he proposed to read, in place of the first sthā, the word syās, and to begin the first apodosis with it, and to delete the second sthā. In the second, having our AV. verses before him, he ascribes the false ending of bhūyāstha of 86 to the correct preceding stha; and, on the other hand, the false smā of 87 to the correct ending of bhūyāsmā. The false smā, however, is—as we have seen—to be printed smo or smah (cf. Index, p. 41 b). Moreover, he suspects that the second pitaraś of 86 may be a corruption of pāretās ('mortui istic vos estis'): this would be an easy corruption in nāgarī, but I do not feel that pāretās offers a better antithesis to the jīvāś of 87 (ÇÇS. manuśyāś) than does the word pitaraś itself; and the latter are distinctly enough other-world beings: cf. 2. 48 (but also 49), and 1. 50, 54 above, also x. 6. 32. — Apropos of the blunder bhūyāstha: reading Dīgha Nikāya on the day of writing the above note, I observed at ix. 7, line 5, the phrase saññā uppañjanti etc., 'ideas arise,' and then in the very next sentence, ekā saññā uppañjanti, 'a single idea arise,' with plural verb-ending, albeit the ekā makes the breach of common concord most manifest and some mss. indeed read uppañjati. For the like error, see xv. 7. 3: cf. also notes xiv. 2. 59; xviii. 3. 47.]

[The MS. passage, p. 143⁶, is: eṣā yuṣmākam pītarah: imā asmākam: jīvā vo jīvanta[h] ihā śantaḥ syāma. — The AÇS., p. 125 end, reads: etā yuṣmākam pītarah: imā asmākam: jīvā vo jīvanta iha śantaḥ syāma. To this, Gārgya, in his vr̥tti, adds: itīkāradhyūhāreṇa sūtracchedaḥ: śantaḥ syāmeti mantrāḥ paṣṭhitavyo vaḥkāram varjayitvā. — The etās and imās seem to refer to svadhās (cf. ÇÇS. as above: yā atra pītarah svadhā, yuṣmākaṁ sā: ya iha pītara edhatur, asmākaṁ saḥ); and the eṣā of MS. appears to require correction to etā p. etāḥ.]

88. Thee, O Agni, would we kindle, full of light (dyumant), O god, unwasting; as that very wondrous fuel of thine shall shine in the sky (dītv), bring thou food for thy praisers.

The verse is RV. v. 6. 4, and occurs also as SV. i. 419 and ii. 372, and in TS. iv. 4. 4⁶ and MS. ii. 13. 7. All these agree together throughout, reading in a te agna idh- for tvā 'gna idh-, and in c syā for sā. SPP. reads in c, with the comm., yād gha, and makes no note upon it, implying that his mss. have the same; ours, however, give yād dha (p. yāt: hā), in accordance with the other texts. All the mss. put an avasāna between d and e [i.e. after dyāvī], and the Anukr. supports it, whence SPP. has it in his edition; we left it out as being uncalled for, and wanting in the parallel texts. For the use of the verse in Kāuc. with 3. 42, see the note to the latter: cf. p. 871, ¶ 3.

89. The moon among the waters runs, an eagle in the sky (dītv); they find not your track, O golden-rimmed lightnings: know me as such, O firmaments (rōdasī).

The verse is RV. i. 105. 1 and also SV. i. 417 [Trāita Sāman]; and its first two pādas are VS. xxxiii. 90 a, b; it is quoted by pratīka in GB. i. 2. 9; [pāda e is refrain all through the RV. hymn, save in the last, the 19th, verse]. Both RV. and SV. read in d vidyūtas, as vocative, and the AV. mss. are divided between that and vidyūtas; SPP. has the former, which is to be preferred. The comm. repeats the story of Trita and his two brothers, as "told by the Çātyāyanins," in almost precisely the same words as those in which it is given in the commentator's introduction to RV. i. 105. [Oertel gives a summary thereof, and also the corresponding passage, JB. i. 184, text and version, JAOS. xviii. p. 18-20.] [The comm. quotes the verse as applied in a maḥāṇṇṭi called vāruṇī in the Nakṣatra Kalpa, 18.] Why the verse should be found as conclusion of this book of funeral hymns is very obscure. [See p. 1016.]

[Here ends the fourth anuvāka, with 1 hymn and 89 verses. The quoted Anukr. says ekonanavatiḥ cāi 'va yameṣu vihitā rcaḥ: cf. pages 814 and 869, ¶ 4, note 1.]

[Here also ends the thirty-fourth prapāṭhaka.]

Book XIX.

[Supplementary hymns.]

[This nineteenth book forms a supplement to the three grand divisions of the Atharvan collection, and is shown to be a later addition by a considerable variety of cumulative evidence. The evidence concerns in part the contents of the book; in part, the character of its tradition as respects both text and division and extent; and in part, the relation of its text to the ancillary Vedic treatises, the Pada-pāṭha and the Pañcapāṭalikā and the Prāti-çākhyā, and to the Kāuçika and Vāitāna sūtras.]

[The contents of book xix. resemble in large measure those of the earlier books, and wear (as W. says: see the General Introduction) the aspect of after-gleanings: cf. hymn 1 with i. 15; h. 18 with iv. 40; h. 34 with ii. 4, and especially 34. 4 with ii. 4. 6; h. 39 with v. 4; h. 44 with iv. 9; h. 57 with vi. 46. Had these hymns of book xix. been parts of the original collection, we should have expected (as W. intimates) to find them in their respective places with those of the earlier books. But more conclusive evidence could hardly be wished than is offered by hymn 23 of book xix., which hymn, under the form of "Homage to parts of the AV.," is incidentally also in some sort a table of contents to the preceding eighteen books, and presupposes their existence as a collection, and in an arrangement substantially accordant with that which they show in our text: cf. the introduction to h. 23.]

[The general character of the tradition in this book is strikingly inferior to that of the preceding eighteen. Such a statement can be duly verified only by a detailed study of the verses of the book, with reference to their intelligibility as they stand, and to the multiplicity or wildness of the variants presented; but a casual glance at the footnotes on pages 478, 484-5, and 539 of the Bombay edition will give some idea of their multiplicity. Many of them (like trān nākaṁ at 27. 4: see W's note) "are of the superficial variety of discordant readings which swarm in this book and have no real importance." Others are blunders of the grossest sort, as to which there is substantial agreement among the authorities or even complete harmony: such for example is the impossible yāsmāi . . . yacchati at 32. 2, where not a single one has the absolutely necessary yācchati: cf. W's note to 45. 5. Especially noteworthy is vs. 4 of h. 40 as illustrating "what this nineteenth book can do in the way of corruption even of a text that is intelligibly handed down elsewhere" (so Whitney: the AV. version is so utterly corrupt that he is forced to translate from the RV. version, RV. i. 46. 6). If degrees of corruption and badness are to be distinguished, perhaps we may set down 49. 2 as the worst in book xix., or possibly in books i.-xix.; in the latter case, vi. 22. 3 is surely a close second. The uncertainties of the tradition of this book as to the precise amount of material to be included in it, and as to its division and the numeration of the parts, are rehearsed in the sequel: cf. the references at p. 898, end of ¶ 2.]

[Relation of the text of book xix. to the ancillary Vedic treatises.—First, the Pada-pāṭha appears to be very modern, as it is certainly very blundering and untrustworthy:

see SPP's notes on pages 410 and 460 and especially 543; and W's note on hymn 68, and observe, for example, the wild resolution of vārmā sīryadhvām as vārma: asi: viśadhvām at 58. 4. The corruptness of the text made Whitney doubt (in 1862: see his Prāt., p. 581) the existence of a pada-pāṭha. — Second, book xix. is entirely ignored by the Pañcapaṭalikā or Old Anukr., as is stated also by SPP. in his Critical Notice, vol. i., p. 24. — Third, "to the apprehension of the Prātiçākhyā the Atharva-Veda comprehended only the first eighteen books of the present collection": so Whitney, Prāt., p. 581; cf. his Index of passages referred to by the AV. Prāt., p. 600 c, and especially his notes to Prāt. ii. 67 c and ii. 22.]

[Relation of book xix. to Kāuçika. — The sūtra-citations do not imply recognition of the text of book xix. as an integral part of the saṃhitā. — Bloomfield has made a critical separation of the more original vidhāna-matter from the grhya-matter in the text of Kāuçika, and styles the former "Atharva-sūtra" or "Vidhāna-sūtra": see his Intro. to Kāuç., p. xxviii., and his essay in Göttingische gelehrte Anzeigen, 1902, p. 489. His Vidhāna-sūtra comprehends the text of Kāuç. from the beginning of kaṇḍikā 7 to the end of kaṇḍikā 52, excepting perhaps most of the matter (42. 19 to 43. 20) just preceding the vaçāçamana, and excepting the vaçāçamana itself (43. 21 to 45. 19): that is, his Vidhāna-sūtra runs from 7. 1 to 42. 18 and from 46. 1 to 52. 21.* — Now it is in the first place to be noted that no verse whatever is cited in the text of the "Vidhāna-sūtra" (whether by pratīka or by technical designation or in sakalapāṭha) which is also to be found in book xix., with the single exception of prāṇa prāṇām.† In the second place, disregarding the verses cited by technical designation (the "jivās-verses": see below) and those which are cited in full and by pratīka besides (33. 3; 52. 5; 72. 1: see below), it appears that there are in the entire text of Kāuçika only six pratīkas which might seem at first blush to imply the recognition of book xix. as part of the Atharvan text by Kāuçika. The six pratīkas cover some eleven verses. Including with them a seventh pratīka, devāsya tvā, I give them in tabular form:

[Citations by pratīka. — The three phrases, (1) devāsya tvā savitūṣ prasavé and (2) açvīnor bāhūbhyām and (3) pūṣṇo hāstābhyām, are unvaried as between the AV. text and the citations by Kāuç. (in full at 2. 1 and 2. 21 and 137. 18: the citation at 91. 3 is by pratīka with dyūto 'hām) and by Vāit. (in full at 3. 9): what follows hāstābhyām is, at Kāuṣ. 2. 1, agnāye jūṣṭam nīr vapāmi (as at TS. i. 1. 4²); at 2. 21 and in Vāit., it is prasūtaḥ praṇiṣṭa paristṛṇāmi (Vāit. pratigṛhṇāmi); and at 137. 18 it is ā dade (as at TS. i. 3. 1¹ and very often); while AV. xix. differs from all these in adding prāsūta ā rabhe. The phrases are of such extremely frequent occurrence (see introd. to h. 51) that they may be called a commonplace of the sūtra-literature; and, as W. intimates, the pratīka-citation by Kāuṣ. is not to be regarded as having any special reference to our book xix.,—much less the citations in full by Kāuṣ. and Vāit. The case is a typical and striking one. Of the same type are the hymns tvām agne vratapā asi and agne samīdham āhārṣam, both of which, besides, are given by the scholia in sakalapāṭha. For the rest, so far as any necessary connection with book xix. is concerned, vāñ ma āsān and kāmas tād and divyacasā ca may fairly be regarded as kalpajā mantrās. Only for dyūto 'hām am I unable to point out occurrences elsewhere than in book xix.; but it may be noted that the comm., at p. 4994, takes dyūto 'hām and the immediately following devāsya tvā as one sūkta of sacrificial formulas, yajurmantrātmakam sūktam.]

[Citations by technical designation.—Thrice in the text of Kāuṣ. (at 3. 4; 58. 7; 90. 22), as also once in Vāit. (at 1. 19), we meet the prescription jīvābhīr ācanya. The “jīvās-verses,” says Dārila (on 3. 4), mean “four verses beginning with jīvā stha.” They are associated, both at Kāuṣ. 3. 4 and at Vāit. 1. 18, 19 as well, with other sūtra-material, and in particular also with the five prapads (which are called in Vāit. prapadanas and which Dārila characterizes as kalpaja): considering this fact, the citation may well be viewed as containing no distinct reference to our book xix., albeit indeed the verses are found there as 69. 1–4; and the entire absence of sakalapāṭha both in text and in scholia, if taken in connection with the mode of citation (by a technical name and so without iti), does not appear to be inconsistent with this view.]

[Citations in sakalapāṭha.—The most conclusive evidence to show that book xix. was not recognized by Kāuṣ. is afforded by the five verses which, although occurring in our xix., are yet cited by Kāuṣ. in full (sakalapāṭha): these are 59. 3; 33. 3 and 44. 4; and 52. 5 and 72. 1. As to the first of the five, ā devānām āpi pānthām aganma, cited at 5. 12, Bloomfield has already remarked in his note that the sakalapāṭha shows that it is regarded as coming from some other source than our book xix., and it is in fact not infrequent elsewhere (RV.MS.TS.ÇB.); moreover, it is a part of the same group as tvām agne vratapā asi, of which group, as already noted, Dārila (on 6. 37) gives the sakalapāṭha. The verses tvām bhūmim (cited in full at 2. 1: a later citation, at 137. 32, is naturally by pratīka) and prāṇa prāṇām (cited in full at 47. 16) have not been found, so far as I know, except at xix. 33. 3 and 44. 4; but of the former Dārila expressly says that it is kalpaja. Finally, there remain the cases of yāt kāma and yāsmāt kōcāt. These are peculiar in that they are cited at 92. 30 and 139. 25 by pratīka, and immediately thereafter (at 92. 31 and 139. 26) in sakalapāṭha: cf. Bloomfield's Introduction, p. xxix. The verse yāt kāma is found at xix. 52. 5, and yāsmāt kōcāt at the end of the book, and neither elsewhere.]

[Relation of book xix. to Vāitāna.—Still less than Kāuṣika, does Vāitāna imply by its citations a recognition of the text of book xix. as an integral part of the samhitā.—In all Vāitāna there are only seven sūtras (Garbe gives five) that cite passages occurring in book xix.: they are Vāit. 1. 18 and 19, citing the apratiratha hymn and the “jīvās-verses”; 3. 5 and 19. 12, citing ā devānām; 3. 9, citing devāsya tvā; 28. 14, citing yāt agne yāni hāni cit; and 37. 19, citing sahāsrabāhus. Of these, the devāsya tvā, the “jīvās-verses,” and the ā devānām are cited also by Kāuṣ. and have already been sufficiently discussed. Of the remaining three: the puruṣa hymn (sahāsrabāhus: xix. 6)

appears also in RV.VS.TA.SV.; and the verse yád agne yāni káni cit (xix. 64. 3) is common to RV., and to the Yajus texts, MS.K.Kap.TS.VS.; while the apratiratha hymn (ācūḥ śtānāḥ: xix. 13. 2 ff.) is found in RV. and the Yajus texts just named and in SV. also.]

[Divisions of the book. — The prapāṭhaka-division is not found in this book, having ended with book xviii.; nor does any decad-division appear. The following statements refer to the hymns as printed, divided, and numbered in the Berlin edition. The book numbers 72 hymns, with 456 verses, and is divided into seven anuvākas. If the verses numbered 455, a precisely even division would give 65 to each anuvāka, and it appears that the division aims in general to make each anuvāka as nearly of that length as may be without breaking hymns: but hymn 20 is put into anuvāka 2 rather than 3, because it forms a subject-group with hymns 17–19; for a like reason the limit of anuvāka 4 is set after hymn 33 and not before it; and that of anuvāka 5, after hymn 45 and not before it. A tabular prospectus follows:

Anuvākas	1	2	3	4	5	6	7
Hymns	9	11	6	7	12	9	18
Verses	59	72	65	68	74	63	55

Sum, 456 verses. Several mss. sum up the verses as 457. Uncertainty of verse numeration affects hymns 16, 27, 38, 47, 54, 55, 57, and 67 (see notes to the hymns). The comm. omits hymns 60–63 and reckons 69 and 70 as one hymn (see introd. to h. 60); and some mss. insert RV. i. 99 between our 65 and 66.]

I. With an oblation for confluence.

[Brahman. — [ṛcam.] yājñīkam; cāndramasam. ānuṣṭubham: 1, 2. pathyābṛhatyāu; 3. pañkti.]

The hymn is found also in Pāipp. xix. (the order of vss. 2 and 3 being inverted). It resembles i. 15, and, as it has the same pratīka of the first verse, the comm. maintains that it may be used along with or instead of that hymn where the latter is quoted (Kāuṣ. 19. 4, and Nakṣ. K. 20). [Cf. also note to Kāuṣ. 19. 1.]

Translated: Griffith, ii. 259.

1. Together, together let the rivers flow, together the winds, together the birds; increase ye this sacrifice, O songs (gīr); I make offering with an oblation of confluence.

The first half-verse is nearly identical with i. 15. 1 a, b; the third pāda, nearly with i. 15. 2 c; the last pāda, with i. 15. 1 d; ii. 26. 3 d. The translation implies gīras, voc., in this verse and the next; it is read by the mss. almost without exception, and so by SPP's text; also in i. 15. 2. Ppp. reads in a śravanti sindhavaḥ.

2. This sacrifice do ye aid, O offerings (hóma); this one, ye also that flow together: increase ye this sacrifice, O songs; I make offering with an oblation of confluence.

SPP. reads in a hómās, with all the mss., but our emendation to homās is evidently demanded by the sense; the comm. also understands the word as vocative. Ppp. reads homā yajña pacate idam, and uses the last half of vs. 3 as refrain, instead of that of vs. 1.

3. Form by form, vigor (vāyas) by vigor — taking hold together I embrace him : let the four quarters increase this sacrifice ; I make offering with an oblation of confluence.

The comm. understands the sacrificer by enam in b. [In c, cātasraḥ is metrically and otherwise superfluous.]

The metrical definitions given by the Anukr. for this hymn are of no value ; the first two are inexact even as regards a mechanical count of syllables.

2. Praise and prayer to the waters.

[Sindhudvīpa. — pañcarcam. āpyam. ānuṣṭubham.]

Found also in Pāipp. viii. The comm. finds it used in Nakṣ. K. 20, in addressing waters brought from streams etc. for a ceremony of appeasement.

Translated : Griffith, ii. 259.

1. Weal to thee [be] the waters from the snowy mountains (hāimavatā), and weal be to thee those from the fountains ; weal to thee the running waters, and weal to thee be those of the rain.

Our sanīṣyadās in c is an emendation, and called for [see Skt. Gram. § 1148. 4. k., near the end] ; all the mss., and SPP., accent sanīṣyaddās. Many of the mss. accent tā in d. The comm. omits u in b. The pāda-mss. make the absurd division sanīṣyaddāḥ. Ppp. makes the combinations caṁ tā "po and -syadā "paç ç.

2. Weal to thee [be] the waters of the wastes, weal be to thee those of the marshes ; weal to thee the waters of the canals (khanitṛima), weal those brought with vessels.

Ppp. has again caṁ tā "po dñ- ; [also -trimā "paç ç-]. TA. (in vi. 4. 1) has a verse and a half similar to these two, and in part accordant with them (reading corruptly anūkyās) : [Poona ed., p. 420, rightly anūkyās]. Our i. 6. 4 above is still more closely analogous.

3. Digging for themselves without shovels, keen (vīpra), working in the deep (gambhīrā), more healing than the healers (bhiṣaj), the waters we address.

The mss. and SPP. with them, read in b gambhīrē apāsah, which is good enough to be exempt from emendation ; the comm. seems to make a compound, gambhīrēapāsah. The mss. and SPP. also have in d āchā vad- (p. ācha : vad-) ; it was altered in our text to achāvād- (= achāvād-) because the Atharvan everywhere else [except iii. 20. 2] reads the latter and not the former. Ppp. reads and combines gambhīrēpsā bhiṣagbhyo bhiṣaktarā "po a-.

4. Of the waters indeed from the sky, of the waters from the streams (srotasyā) — in the forth-washing indeed of the waters, ye become vigorous (vājīn) horses.

The last pāda is very literally rendered ; anything else would require some alteration of the text ; it is identical with i. 4. 4 c. SPP. reads in a divyānām, with very nearly all the mss. ; the emendation of accent [divyā, as in the Berlin text] is unquestionably to be made. [Error due to srotasyānām ?]

5. Weal [be] to thee the waters, propitious the waters, effecting freedom from yakṣma the waters; just as joy to one who thirsts, [be] they for thee healers of dislocation.

The translation follows our text, which has numerous emendations. At the beginning, the mss. and SPP. read tās for śān te (śāntās might be better); the latter was intended to fill up both sense and meter (the Anukr. says nothing of a defective pāda; but this is of very little account). Then they have thrice apās in a, b, instead of āpas; but the comm. has āpas both times in a. In c they all give tṛpyate; Ppp. has athāi 'va dṛcyate mayas. For d, SPP. reads tās ta ā datta bheṣajīḥ, with the comm. [who understands the second word as té or also as te]; the mss. mostly have ād uta (p. āt : uta), but they vary to ādutta, ādata, [ādatta, ādruta,] āhuta, with various accentuation. The verse is so corrupt throughout that it offers a free field for conjectural emendation. SPP. combines in b apō 'yakṣmaṅkār, which is inadmissible, though found in the mss.; we must change to apō 'y-, if not to āpo 'y-. Ppp. makes in a its usual combinations, tā "paç çivā "po 'y-, and reads for d tvābhyatva bheṣajīḥ.

3. Praise to Agni.

[Atharvāṅgiras.—caturṣcam. āgneyam. trāiṣṭubham : a. bhurij.]

The hymn occurs also in Pāipp. xx., but only in fragments, not intelligible beyond the first half-verse. The comm. notices that the hymn has the same pratika as ix. 1, and labors to point out that it [xix. 3] and its successor have features adapting them to the same use as the two parts of ix. 1; and that hence they may also be regarded as quoted (Kāuṣ. 10. 24; 12. 15; etc.) by that pratika: this is, of course, a worthless bit of special pleading. Vāit. (16. 12), wishing to quote ix. 1 only, adds the specification mādhustūktena.

Translated: Griffith, ii. 260.

1. Forth from the sky, from the earth, from the atmosphere, out of the forest trees, the herbs—whithersoever borne, O Jātavedas, come thou, enjoying, thence to us.

The translation implies emendation to jātavedas, voc., in c. SPP. reads in d tāta stutō j-, with nearly all the mss.; one or two read tātas-tato j-; [this report coincides virtually with the Index, p. 124 b: but, if I understand the Collation Book, P. and M., which Whitney here intends, read tātas tatō j-, which is neither one thing nor the other, but a confusion between the āmreḍita and tātas + stutō]; and the comm. has tatas-tataḥ. The mss. also, almost without exception, give bībhṛtas or bībhṛatas in c; here SPP's text agrees with ours, and with the comm. Ppp. has for b vātā paçubhyo ay oṣadhībhyah, evidently intending the text which TB. has in a corresponding verse (in i. 2. 122), vātāt paçubhyo ādhy oṣadhībhyah. For c, d TB. has yātra-yatra jātavedaḥ sambabhūva [so Calc. ed., text, p. 32, comm., p. 91; but Poona ed. has aright sambabhūtha, text and comm., p. 83] tāto no agne juṣāmāna é 'hi; Āp. (in v. 13. 4) agrees with TB. [precisely: reading sambabhūtha].

2. What thy greatness is in the waters, what in the woods, what in the herbs, in the cattle, within the waters—all thy bodies (tanū), O Agni, grasp together; with them come to us, a giver of property, unailing.

Two or three of our mss., [and (six) half] of SPP's, read tanvāḥ in c, and some of ours have bharasva instead of rabhasva, probably as an only accidental variation, though bharasva would be a very good reading. A little emendation would rid us of the otiose repetition of apsū in the first line. [In d we have to pronounce nāi 'hi, with double sandhi (as often in Ppp.)]

3. What thy heavenly (svargā) greatness is, among the gods, what body of thine entered into the Fathers, what prosperity of thine was spread among men (manuṣyā) — therewith, O Agni, assign wealth to us.

The translation implies at end of a svargās [so SPP.]; our text has -ge on the authority of only a single ms., and against the comm. [svargaḥ] and the parallel texts [suvargāḥ] as found in TB. (in i. 2. 1²¹⁻²) and Āp. (in v. 13. 4). Both these read further, for b, yās ta ātmā paçūṣu prāvīṣṭaḥ, and, for d, tāyā no agne juṣāmāṇa ē'hi; while TB. has in c prathé for paprathe [so Calc. ed., text and comm.: but Poona aright, paprathe]. The Anukr. takes no notice of the redundant syllable in c.

4. To him of hearing ears, the poet, worthy to be known, I apply for gifts (vṛtī) with words, with speeches; whence [there is] fear, be there no fear for us; pacify (ava-yaj), O Agni, the wrath (heḍas) of the gods.

The verse is found also in Āp. xiv. 17. 1, but with very different b: namobhūr nākam upa yāmi çaṇsan; with tat kṛdhi naḥ at end of c; and, for d, 'gne devānām avā heḍa iyakṣva: cf. also Āp. v. 5. 8, which is far more different. [In c, asty is a misprint for astv.]

4. To various divinities.

[Atharvāṅgiras. — caturṛcam. āgneyam [2. mantroktadevatyā]. trāṣṭubham: 1. 5-p. vīrād atijagati; 2. jagati.]

The second, third, and fourth verses are found in Pāipp. xix.

Translated: Griffith, ii. 261.

1. What oblation (dhnuti) Atharvan sacrificed first, with what one Jātavedas made an offering, that same do I first call loudly for thee; gratified with that, let Agni carry the offering: hail to Agni.

This version represents neither of the edited texts, nor the mss., nor the comm., but is a pure make-shift. SPP. reads in a-b ātharvā yā jātā yā h-, and at beginning of d tābhi ṣṭupṭo v- (p. tābhiḥ: stupṭāḥ; so all the pada-mss. [but Op. and L. have srupṭāḥ]; what stupṭāḥ [or srupṭāḥ, for that matter] should be supposed to be is a complete mystery). The comm. reads in a-b atharvā yā jātāya havīyām, and in d tābhi stutāḥ; he explains that Atharvan means the paramātman, who at the beginning of creation made an oblation to please the gods whom he had created; pāda b signifies this: "what (yā being used instead of yām) oblation, given by Atharvan, Jātavedas made worthy to be offered for his progeny [the progeny of Atharvan in the rôle of paramātman?]: that is, for the crowd of gods made manifest by him." Our āyejé in a is indefensible, but the translation implies ejé (ā-ijé) or something equivalent; in d it implies tāyā ṛṣṭō v-; all the mss. have -pto, except one of ours s.m., which favors the comm. Johavīmi possibly comes from root hu (so BR.) instead of hū. We ought to have in a ākūtim, as in the following verses, but it is not easy to reconstruct the verse so as to match that emendation.

2. Heavenly fortunate design (ākūti) do I put forward (puro-dhā); let the mother of intent (cittā) be easy of invocation for us; to what expectation I go, be it entirely mine; may I find it entered into [my] mind.

Half the mss. accent in b cittāsyā; in c and d, all have emi and [nearly all] vidēyam, which SPP. accordingly admits into his text; our emi and vidēyam are necessary emendations: in such a condition of text as is offered in this book, it is useless to be governed by the tradition when it is certainly and palpably wrong. The verse is found also in TB. (in ii. 5.3²), which reads in a mānasas for subhāgām, in b [yajñāsya for cittāsyā and] me for nas, and for c, d yād icchāmi mānasā sākāmo vidēyam enad dhīdaye ntvīṣṭam. Ppp. reads devyām in a, and me 'stu in b [? or c?]. The first pāda is the only jagati element in the verse.

3. With design to us, O Brihaspati, with design come thou unto us; then assign to us of fortune (bhāga); then be easy of invocation for us.

The comm. has in c dehi. The definition of the verse as an anuṣṭubh has apparently dropped out of the Anukr. Ppp. reads in d subhagas.

4. Let Brihaspati acknowledge my design, the son of Aṅgiras this [my] speech; of whom the gods, the deities, came into being, let that desire (kāma), well-conducting, go after us.

Kāmas in d is shown both by meter and by sense to be intrusive; also the omission of vācam in b would improve the verse in both respects, making it easier to understand aṅgirasas as simply epithet of Bṛhaspati. The mss. differ in their accent of sambabhūvus; [of SPP's authorities, about seven accent sām-, and four accent-vūh]. All read in d supranītās, which SPP. accepts in his text. Ppp. gives tasya devā devatā sambabhūva ciṣupranīta, which is too corrupt to give any help. Ppp. also combines in a mā "kūtim. The comm. has abhy etu in d. The omission of metrical definition by the Anukr. seems due to a lacuna. [If the suspicions resting on vācam and kāmas are justified, the vs. would scan smoothly as 8 + 11 : 11 + 11.]

5. Praise and prayer to Indra.

[Atharvāṅgiras (?). — ekarcam. āindram. trāiṣṭubham.]

The verse is RV. vii. 27. 3, without variation, and is found also, with the same text, in Pāipp. xx. The comm. gives as its vinīyoga that one who desires riches may worship Indra with it.

Translated: Griffith, ii. 261; also by the RV. translators.

1. Indra [is] king of the moving creation (jāgat), of human beings (carṣant), whatever of various form is upon the earth (kṣām); thence he gives good things to his worshiper (dācvaṅs); may he, whenever praised, urge (cud) hitherward bestowal (rādhas).

6. Purusha and his sacrifice.

[Nārāyaṇa. — śoḍaṣarcam. puruṣadevatyam. ānuṣṭubham.]

This is the familiar puruṣa-hymn of the Rig-Veda [x. 90] with considerable variation in the order of the verses, but comparatively little in the readings. The RV. verses are found here in the following order: 1, 4, 3, 2, 11-14, 5-7, 10, 9, 8, 15. The same hymn occurs in VS. xxxi. (in the order of RV. verses 1-5, 8-10, 7, 11-14, 6, 15) and in TA. iii. 12 (in the order of RV. verses 1-6, 15, 7-14); also the first five RV. verses in the 7th or Nāigeya chapter of SV. [Nāigeya 33-37 = SV. i. 618-622] (in the order of RV. verses 1, 4, 2ab3cd, 3ab2cd, 5). The verses (except our 7 and 8) occur also in Pāipp. ix. In Vāit. (37. 19), the hymn is cited, with x. 2, in the puruṣamedhā, accompanying the release of the human victim; and the comm. finds it used in the Āntikā xv., and in Parīṣiṣṭa x. 1.—[The Bombay ed. makes two hymns of this hymn: see note at end of the anuvāka, p. 915.]

[In the WZKM., xii. 277-280, von Schroeder reports the existence of the Puruṣa hymn in two recensions in the ṛcaka of the Kāṭhas, and observes that the passage may come from a Kāṭha Brāhmaṇa or Āraṇyaka. The first recension accords with that of RV.: the second also agrees in general with that of RV., except for the variants which I have reported below under verses 1, 2, 3, 5, 7 (the most important), 9, 12, 14; and, further, it agrees with RV. in the order of the verses from 1 to 15. For brevity, I refer to the source of these variants as the KāṭhaB.]

Translated: Griffith, ii. 262-265; and, as RV. hymn, very often: so by Colebrooke (1798), in Misc. Essays 2, i. 183; by Burnouf (1840), in the Preface to his great folio ed. of the Bhāgavata Purāṇa (see pages cxiv to cxxiv); by Muir, v. 367; Ludwig, Der Rigveda, ii., p. 574, notes in v., p. 437; Grassmann, Rig-Veda, ii., p. 486; Zimmer, p. 217; Scherman, Philosophische Hymnen, pages 11-23 (with ample notes); Henry W. Wallis, Cosmology of the RV., p. 87; P. Peterson, Hymns from the RV., p. 289; Deussen, Geschichte, i. 1. 150-158 (repeated in his Sechzig Upanishads, p. 830).—Finally, as VS. hymn, it was translated by Weber (apropos of Anquetil du Perron's Upanishads), in Indische Studien, ix. 5, with instructive notes and introduction and a tabular view (p. 4) of the sequence of the verses in RV., TA., VS., and AV.; and also by Griffith, in The Texts of the White Yajurveda, p. 260.—It may be added that the text of the hymn with Sāyana's comment was published as a separate work as no. 3 of the Ānanda Āgrama Series.—Burnouf cited and translated the hymn for the purpose of comparison with the corresponding passage in the Purāṇa, ii. 5. 35-6. 29, pages 235-241. Note the multum-in-parvo half of vs. 35, sahasra-rv-aṅghri-bāhu-akṣaḥ sahasra-nana-gīrṣavān.—Especial attention is called to Deussen's elaborate introduction to his translation in his Geschichte, as cited above, p. 150-156.

1. Thousand-armed is Puruṣa, thousand-eyed, thousand-footed; he, covering the earth entirely, exceeded it by ten fingers' breadth.

[The verse is RV. x. 90. 1; VS. xxxi. 1; SV. i. 618; TA. iii. 12. 1.] All the other texts begin with sahśrasraṅgīrṣā (SV. -rṣāḥ); SV.VS. [KāṭhaB.] have in c sarvōtās, and VS. after it śpṛtvā; [von Schroeder reports the KāṭhaB. reading as smṛtvā: but perhaps the intention of his mss. is rather śpṛtvā]. The comm. gives very long expositions of most of the verses, but casts no light upon them. [Deussen, p. 150, calls the substitution of -bāhuḥ for -gīrṣā a "rationalizing variant: because, if Puruṣa has 1000 eyes, he ought to have only 500 heads"! But even the AV. comm. glosses sahasrākṣaḥ by bahubhir akṣibhir upetaḥ.]

2. With three feet he ascended the sky; a foot of him, again, was here; so he strode out asunder, after eating and non-eating.

[RV. x. 90. 4; VS. xxxi. 4; SV. i. 619; TA. iii. 12. 2.] RV. has a quite different text: tripād ūrdhvā ūd āt pūruṣaḥ pādo 'syē 'hā bhavat pūnaḥ: tāto vīṣvaṇ vy ākramat sācanānaṣanē abhī; VS. agrees with this throughout; [and so does KaṭhaB., except that it has bhūmim for viśvañ]; TA. differs only by reading in b 'hā "bhavāt [i.e. 'hā : ā : bhavāt?] (doubtless, however, a misprint); [but dhavāt is read by both Calc. and Poona ed's in the text; while both ed's have ābhavat in the comm.]; SV. differs (and agrees with AV.) by tāthā in c and aṣan- in d. The comm. has in a ā rohat, and in b (with RV. etc.) pādo 'sya; two or three of SPP's authorities agree with the comm. in both points. The pada-mss. give in b pādasya; [but SPP. accepts pāt : asya in his pada-text]. No samhitā-ms. has viśvañ a-, and accordingly SPP., against all rule and usage, admits viśvañ a- in his text; but he accents aṣanānaṣanē with us, though almost all the mss. have aṣanānaṣanē. The comm. gives an absurd array of discordant explanations of this compound: aṣanā is "men, animals, etc.," and anaṣanā "gods, trees, etc."; then (adhyātmapakṣe), the two are "the immovable and movable creation," or else "the intelligent (cetana) and unintelligent creation."

3. So many are his greatneses; and Purusha is superior (jyāyān) to that; a foot of him is all beings (bhūtā); three feet of him are what is immortal in the sky.

[RV. x. 90. 3; VS. xxxi. 3; SV. i. 621; TA. iii. 12. 1; ChU. iii. 12. 6.] RV. reads in a, b: etāvēn asya mahimā 'to jy-; VS.TA. agree with RV. (but TA. [in the Calc. ed. only] shortens the ā of pūruṣaḥ in b). [SV. makes up its vs. 620 and 621 thus: 620 = RV. 2 a, b (our 4 a, b) + RV. 3 c, d (our 3 c, d); 621 = RV. 3 a, b (our 3 a, b) + RV. 2 c, d (our 4 c, d); that is, between the two halves of our vs. 4, it interjects the two halves of our vs. 3 in inverted order.] SV. has for our a, b, etāvēn asya mahimā tāto jy- etc.; and, for the viśvā of our c, it has sarvā; [and so has KaṭhaB.]. Ppp. omits asya in a and has pād asya in c. 'Foot,' of course, in this and in the next verse, = 'quarter.' [ChU. agrees with SV., except that it does not dislocate the two halves of our vs. As to the vs. in ChU., cf. Böhtlingk, Berichte der sächs. Gesell., July 10, 1897, p. 82; in his edition, he emends the vs. to conformity with the RV. readings.]

4. Purusha is just this all, what is and what is to be; also [is he] lord (iṣṭvārā) of immortality, which was together with another.

[RV. x. 90. 2; VS. xxxi. 2; SV. i. 620; TA. iii. 12. 1.] The wholly obscure last pāda is doubtless a mere corruption, all the other texts reading instead yād ānnenā 'tirohātī (which is itself obscure enough). In c, all of them give iṣṭānas; and in b, RV.TA. [and Ppp. and KaṭhaB.] have bhāvvyam, SV. bhāvvyam, VS. bhāvvyam; this last should be the reading of our text also, as all the mss. have it; [rather: all of W's and seven of SPP's ten authorities;] SPP. accepts it; the comm. has bhāvvyam, and, in d, annena. Some of the mss. accent ānyena; [that is, they have the spelling of ānyena and the accent of ānnena]. [Pāda b is nearly = xiii. 1. 54 d.]

5. When they separated (vi-dhā) Purusha, in how many parts did they distribute (vi-kṣip) him? what was his face? what his (two) arms? what are called his (two) thighs [and] feet?

[RV. x. 90. 11; VS. xxxi. 10; TA. iii. 12. 5.] The mss. vary between *vyādadhū*s and *vyādadhū*s; the pada-mss., between vi : ad- and vi : dā-: the latter is (without any good reason: cf. my Skt. Gr. 2 § 1084 a) [and note to xviii. 1. 39] the reading of the RV. pada-text. [In b, KaṭhaB. has enam for our vi.] In c, d, VS. agrees with our text, save that it wantonly defaces the meter by intruding an unnecessary āsīt after asya;

RV.TA. have for kīm (except the first time) kāū; and RV. combines kā ū- and pādā ū- [AV. and RV. pada-texts, pādāu], while TA. has kāv and pādāv; Ppp. has pādāv ucyate: cf. Prāt. ii. 22 and note; [also my Noun-Inflection, p. 341]. [KāṭhaB. agrees with VS. in showing the intrusive āst, and with Ppp. in reading the ungrammatical ucyate.]

6. The Brahman was his face; the Kshatriya (rājanya) became his (two) arms; the Vāiçya [was] his middle; from his (two) feet was born the Cūdra.

[RV. x. 90. 12; VS. xxxi. 11; TA. iii. 12. 5.] The other three texts read in b rājanyāḥ kṛtāḥ, and in c ūrū (for mādhyam).

7. The moon [is] born from his mind; from his eye the sun was born; from his mouth both Indra and Agni; from his breath Vāyu was born.

[RV. x. 90. 13; VS. xxxi. 12; TA. iii. 12. 6.] RV.TA. have no variant from our text; VS. reads for the second line ṣrōtrād vāyūḥ ca prāṇāḥ ca mūkhād agnir ajāyata. [KāṭhaB. has for b the much better cakṣuṣor adhi stūryaḥ (avoiding the undesirable cakṣo: see Noun-Inflection, p. 569 top, p. 410 top); and in c, d it agrees with VS., except that it substitutes nāso for ṣrōtrād.]

8. From his navel was the atmosphere; from his head the sky came into being (sam-vṛt); from his (two) feet the earth, the quarters from his ear (ṣrōtra): so shaped they the worlds.

[RV. x. 90. 14; VS. xxxi. 13; TA. iii. 12. 6.] The three other texts agree with ours throughout.

9. Virāj in the beginning came into being (sam-bhū); out of Virāj, Puruṣa; it, when born, exceeded the earth behind, also in front.

[RV. x. 90. 5; VS. xxxi. 5; SV. i. 622; TA. iii. 12. 2.] RV.TA. read, for a, tāsmād virāḍ ajāyata; SV.VS. [and KāṭhaB. read] the same, save tātas for tāsmāt. Ppp. reads in b pāuruṣāt, and in d purā. [For purāḥ in the Berlin ed., read purāḥ.]

10. When, with Puruṣa as oblation, the gods extended the sacrifice, spring was its sacrificial butter, summer its fuel, autumn its oblation.

[RV. x. 90. 6; VS. xxxi. 14; TA. iii. 12. 3.] [The first half-verse is our vii. 5. 4 a, b, where, however, devāṣ follows yajñām.] Of the other three texts, the only variant is vasantō 'sy- in VS.

11. They sprinkled with the early rain (prāvṛṣ) that sacrifice, Puruṣa, born in the beginning; therewith the gods sacrificed, the Perfectibles (sādhyā) and they that are Vasus.

[RV. x. 90. 7; VS. xxxi. 9; TA. iii. 12. 3.] The other three texts agree in reading in a barhiṣi (for prāvṛṣā), in b agratāḥ, in d ṣṣayas (for vāsavaḥ). Ppp. has in d sādhyā ca. One or two of our mss. give agratās (like RV. etc.); about half SPP's authorities accent dyajanta [as does also TA.].

12. From that were born horses, and whatever [animals] have teeth in both jaws; kine were born from that; from that [are] born goats and sheep.

[RV. x. 90. 10; VS. xxxi. 8; TA. iii. 12. 5.] The other three texts [but not KāṭhaB.] omit ca after yé in b.

13. From that all-sacrificing sacrifice were born the verses (īc), the chants (sāman); meter [sic!] were born from that; sacrificial formula was born from that.

[RV. x. 90. 9; VS. xxxi. 7; TA. iii. 12. 4.] The other texts have at beginning of c chāndānsi, and our edition gives the same; but the mss., except one of ours p. m. and two of SPP's, read instead chāndo ha, and SPP. follows them; this, though an ungrammatical corruption (as shown in the translation), has the best right to figure as Atharvan text. [See p. xcvi.]

14. From that all-sacrificing sacrifice was collected the speckled butter (pr̥ṣadājyā); it made those cattle belonging to Vāyu — those that are of the forest and of the village.

That is, the wild and the tame. [The verse is RV. x. 90. 8; VS. xxxi. 6; TA. iii. 12. 4.] RV. alone combines in c paçūn tā-; in d, RV. and TA. read āranyān. SPP. unaccountably accents at end of b pr̥ṣadājyām, against the majority of his mss., all of ours, and the usage everywhere else. The mss. vary between vāyavyān and vāyavyān. Ppp. has in c cakrīre; [and so has KāṭhaB.]

15. Seven were made its enclosing sticks (paridhī), thrice seven its pieces of fuel, when the gods, extending the sacrifice, bound Purusha as victim.

[RV. x. 90. 15; VS. xxxi. 15; TA. iii. 12. 3.] The other three texts offer no variant. In connection with the 'seven,' the comm. of course thinks of the meters; of the 'twenty-one' he gives more than one explanation, sufficient to show that he is merely guessing.

16. Seven times seventy rays (añçū) were born from the head of the great god, of king Soma, when born out of Purusha.

This verse is found nowhere else. The RV. has also a 16th verse, an appendage to the hymn in a different meter, which was earlier found as RV. i. 164. 50, and is our vii. 5. 1, besides occurring in a number of other texts — in VS. [xxx. 16] and TA. [iii. 12. 7], in connection with the rest of the Purusha-hymn. The comm. refers to the double character of soma, as plant and as moon, and notes that, while the sun's rays are a thousand, those of the moon are four hundred and ninety.

7. To the lunar asterisms: for blessings.

[Gārgya. — pañca. mantroktanakṣatradevatyam. trāṣṭubham: 4. bhurij.]

The hymn is wanting in Pāipp. The comm. finds it used three times (in 1, 6, and 12) in the Nakṣatra Kalpa.

[Regarding the asterisms in general, the reader may consult Whitney's Oriental and Linguistic Studies, ii., pages 351–356, 377, and 421 and the chart following it, or else Whitney in JAOS., vi. 414, 468, and chart; further, Weber's essays, Die vedischen Nachrichten von den naxatra, Abh. der Berliner Ak., 1860 and 1861.* A list of the asterisms is given in my translation of the Karpūra-mañjarī, appended to Konow's ed.,

p. 214. Especially important are the nakṣatra-passages, TS. iv. 4. 10 and TB. i. 5. 2 and iii. 1. 1-2 : cf. references to asterisms in AV. vi. 110 and notes, ii. 8, xiv. 1. 13, etc. — Note, on the one hand, that our series begins, as does that in TS., with the old beginning in Taurus, to wit, with the Kṛttikās or Pleiades, and not (as later : see Whitney, O. and L. S., ii. 421), two asterisms further to the west, in Aries, with aṇvayujāu or aṇvini (β and γ Arietis). Note also, on the other hand, that our series, unlike the series in TS., by including abhiṣṭ or Vega, far to the north of the ecliptic, comprises 28 asterisms, as is expressly stated below, at 8. 2 a : but whether 28 or 27 is the original Hindu number is a moot point carefully discussed by Whitney, l.c., pages 409-411. — The names of the asterisms in our hymn differ from those in TS. in a number of minor and major points : most notable among the latter is the TS. name tiṣṭā for the 6th (or 8th) asterism, our puṣyā; and TS. has ṛonā for the 21st (or 23d), our ṛāvāṇa. — Bloomfield, in his part of the Grundriss, p. 35, observes that this hymn and the next are repeated in full in Nakṣatra Kalpa 10 and 26; and he infers that the date of the incorporation of these hymns into the text of the Vulgata is posterior to the time of the Nakṣatra Kalpa, because, in the contrary case, they would have been quoted by their pratikās.] * [See especially the second essay, pages 300, 303, 315 : at p. 300, Weber gives the deities of the several asterisms.]

Translated : Griffith, ii. 265.

1. Seeking favor of the twenty-eight-fold (?) wondrous ones, shining in the sky together, ever-moving, hasting in the creation (bhūvana), I worship (sapary) with songs the days, the firmament (nakṣa).

The translation implies our conjectural emendation of turmiṣam [two of W's mss., -mich- in c to aṣṭāvīṇḍam (or -ṣṭā). [This is supported by the textually unimpeachable aṣṭāvīṇḍam of 8. 2 a, and the fact that the series in this hymn is actually of 28 members, as noted in the introduction.] The comm. has turmiṣam, and gives for it a double etymology and explanation : either it is turmi + ṣā, or it is tur + miṣā; in the former case, turmi is from root turv, and means "injuring" (hiṁsaka), and ṣā is the root ṣā "sharpen," hence "make thin"; in the latter case, tur is [a root-stem from] root turv, and miṣā is by Vedic license for miṣā, from root miṣ "contend" (spardhāyām); in either case, the compound means "putting down oppressors," and is adjective qualifying sumatīm! All the mss. accent saparyāmi, and SPP. admits it in his text; the accent is defensible, and would be required by Brāhmaṇa usage. Our emendation in c helps the meter as well as the sense; but no stress can be laid upon the circumstance that the Anukr. appears to regard the verse as a full trīṣṭubh.

2. Easy of invocation for me [be] the Kṛttikās and Rohiṇī; be Mṛigaśiras excellent, [and] Ārdrā healthful (ṣām); be the two Punarvasus pleasantness, Pushya what is agreeable, the Āṅgīrās light (bhānū), the Maghās progress (āyana) [for me].

The translation again implies in a the emendation me for agne, made in our text, for the improvement both of sense and of meter; SPP. reads agne; and the comm. points out that Agni is invoked here because he is the deity of Kṛttikās, and that the deities also of the other asterisms are to be regarded as included in their invocations — which is quite ingenious. The mss. in b are divided between ṣām and sām; in c, between pūsyas and pūsyās; SPP. gives pūsyas, with, as he reports, nearly all his authorities; and this is doubtless the better supported reading. There seems to be no good reason for imagining that dyana in d contains any hidden reference to the solstice (in later astronomical language, ayana, by abbreviation for ayanānta 'end of a [northern or southern] progress of the sun') as occurring in Maghās.

3. Be the former Phalgunīs and Hasta here auspicious (pūṇyam); be Chitrā propitious, and Svāti easy (sukhā) for me; be the two Viçākhās bestowal (rādhas), Anurādhā easy of invocation, Jyeshthā a good asterism, Mūla uninjured.

There are sundry difficulties in this verse, in part attempted to be removed by emendation in our edition. It is very strange to find in a the former Phalgunīs distinctly mentioned, and the latter (uttara) as distinctly left out; it would be easy to put the dvayā of 5 b in place of pūrvā here;* or one wonders whether uttara is not somehow hidden in the awkwardly redundant ātra. All the mss. (both samh. and pada) agree in the ungrammatical [ending -tt of] svātt, and SPP. accordingly admits svātt into his text: ours emends to svāts: svātt would have been equally acceptable, and is supported by two of SPP's çrotayas [V. and K.] and by the comm. The mss. sukhās (p. suokhāḥ) can hardly be tolerated; we ought to have sukhām, or else, with the comm., sukhā. All the mss. read in c rādhe, as if there were an adjective rādha; SPP. and the comm. read rādhe, the latter explaining it as another name for viçākhē (not a word defining the expected blessing!): this involves an anachronism,† and would be in the highest degree improbable even if it did not: rādho is a very easy and plausible improvement. Finally, all the mss. have in d āriṣṭa mūlam [cf. note to xviii. 2. 3], which SPP. adopts, in spite of its utter ungrammaticalness; the comm., with his usual disregard of pada-text and accent, appears to understand āriṣṭamūlam, a compound.

*[Or rather to put dvayā? The comm. renders pūrvā by pūrve, for which pūrvā is a bad reading or a worse solecism. But the position of ca, too, is very suspicious.]
†[I suppose Whitney's implication is that rādha, as a name for the 14th (or 16th) asterism viçākhā, is a later one, based on a misunderstanding of the name of the 15th (or 17th) asterism, anurādhā, which word simply means 'success' (cf. ānu eṣām arātsmē 'ti: tād anurādhāḥ, TB. i. 5. 2³), but was thought of as meaning the one 'after (anu) or following rādha']

4. Let the former Ashādhās give me food; let the latter ones bring refreshment; let Abhijit give me what is auspicious; let Çravaṇa [and] the Çravishthās make good prosperity.

Here are more bad readings: in a, the mss. give pūrvā rāsātām, and SPP. accepts the reading, as if rāsātām could be 3d du. act., which, in view of all the circumstances, is absurd; our emendation to -ntām is unavoidable.* In b, the mss. vary between dehy ūtt [all of Whitney's and most of SPP's] and devy ūtt, and SPP. adopts the latter, because the comm. has it; but then the comm. makes no difficulty of understanding it as = devyas; it is merely, in his opinion, a Vedic substitution of sing. for pl.; and it is to be hoped that no modern scholar would follow him in that. The emendation of our text to yé hy ūttare,† considering that all our mss. (and all but two of SPP's authorities) have ūttare (p. ūtotare), was a naturally suggested and easy one; but we need instead yā hy ūttarā ā, feminine words, like the pūrvās [the pada-mss. and the Anukr. read pūrvā] in a; SPP. reads ūtтарās, with the comm. and two of his reciters. The meter of d would be better if we had çrōṇas for çrāvāṇas; but the Anukr. acknowledges the redundancy of the verse.

*[SPP. seems rather to view rāsātām in a as of the plural number, 3d person imperative middle, = dadātu (the ms. of the comm. has in fact dadātu, singular); and plural 3d it might be (from the s-aorist tense-stem rās, used as a secondary root: Gram. § 896), thus conforming in number with vahantu. On the other hand, we cannot take rāsātām in c otherwise than as of the singular number, 3d person imperative middle of the a-conjugation, present-stem rāsa: and the identical form in a ought, one would think, to be of the same value. If we take it as singular, and read aṣāḍhā as fem. and sing. so as to conform with pūrvā (p. pūrvā), then pāda b is intolerably out of congruity with a in the matters of gender and number. —I offer the following suggestions for what they may be worth. First, in spite of the (unauthoritative) pāda-reading ūtatare, I would take the ūtārā ā of the living reciters K.V. as representing a correct metrical utterance of ūtārā (= ūtārā: ā). Secondly, for vahantu I would read vahātu (cf. svadātu, nudātu, muñcātu): this seems to me better than a possible vahāti, and does as little violence to the tradition as the rāsātām and yé hy ūttare suggested above. If our vahantu is a corruption, it may well be a faulty assimilation (cf. end of ¶ 4 of note on xviii. 4. 87) of vahātu to the ending of vs. 5 d. — My text then would be as follows: annam pūrvā (p. vā) rāsātām (as 3d sing.) me aṣāḍhōrjam (p. -ḍhā: ūr) devy ūttārā vahātu (p. devī: ūtārā: ā: vahātu): ‘may the Former Ashāḍhā give me food; may the Latter, the divine one, bring refreshment.’] †[It appears from the Collation Book that RW. meant in fact to print yé hy ūtta: but the Berlin ed. has actually yé hy ūtta, an accent-mark having perhaps slipped to the left, over hyu from over tta.]

5. Let Çatabhishaj [bring] to me what is great widely; let the double Proshṭhapadās [bring] to me good protection (suçārman); let Revatī and the two Açvayuj [bring] fortune to me; let the Bharanīs bring to me wealth.

There are no difficulties or variants in this verse.

8. For well-being: to the asterisms etc.

[Gārgya. — saṅgā. mantroktanakṣatradevatyam (6. brāhmaṇaṣṭayā). trāṣṭubham: 1. virāḍ jagatī; 6. 3-av. 6-p. atijagatī.]

Verses 4-6 are found in Pāipp. xx. The same vinīyoga is pointed out by the comm. for this as for the preceding hymn.

[As to the asterisms, and as to the inclusion of the full text of this hymn in the Nakṣatra Kalpa, see introduction to hymn 7.]

Translated: Griffith, ii. 267.

1. What asterisms are in the ský, in the atmosphere, in the waters, on the earth, what ones in the mountains, in the quarters, what ones the moon goes on preparing (pra-k!p), let all those be propitious to me.

The mss., and so SPP., have the incorrect accent prākālpayan in c; it is emended in our text. It is possible, but not natural, to count in the verse 46 syllables, with the Anukr.

2. Let them of the series of twenty-eight, propitious, helpful, together allot to me acquisition (yóga); I go forward to acquisition and possession (kṣéma); I go forward to possession and acquisition; homage be to day-and-night.

In b, the comm. reads sahā yōgam as a compound, sahayogam. He explains, after the usual fashion, yoga as alabdhavastuprāpti (his ms., alabhya-), and kṣema as labdhavastuparipālana, and the translation follows him. The verse (11 + 8 : 8 + 8 + 8 = 43) is quite improperly let pass as simply a triṣṭubh. [As for the twenty-eight, see introduction to hymn 7.]

3. Be it for me well at sunset (?), well in early morning, well at evening, well by day; be it for me well with beasts, well with birds; with easy invocation, O Agni, having gone with well-being to a mortal, come thou again enjoying.

In a the translation follows our conjectural emendation of svāstītam (or svastī tām, or svastītam, as some of the mss. variously read; the pada-texts have svastī : tām or svāstītam; [one ms. and two gṛotriyas of SPP. and] the comm. give svastī tāt) to svastamitām, which is bold, but not implausible. For sudīvam the comm. has the better supported sudīnam. The mss. [except D. and L., which read suçakundm] and SPP. accent suçakūnam, which may be correct. The translation of the second half-verse is only a makeshift; the line appears to be thoroughly corrupt; implied is the reading svastyā mārīyaṁ gatvā; SPP. reads, with nearly all the mss., svasty āmārīyaṁ gatvā, against the proper accent āmārīyam. SPP's pada-mss. read at the end āya : abhīnāndan (one has āyā); both our mss. are imperfect, one reading simply ā, the other perhaps āyā with the y erased; if the word is to be accepted at all, it should apparently be ā : aya. The repetition of mārīya in our text is doubtless too daring, considering how unsatisfactory a result it yields after all.

4. Detraction, evil gossip, reproach, sneezing about (?)—them, O Savitar, drive (suva) away for me empty-handed (?), with all.

The translation implies the text of the mss., which is also read by SPP., in the second half-verse: sārvāir me rīktakumbhān pārā [most mss. pārā or yarā] tānt savitah suva; we might alter sārvāis to sarvātas, so as to fill out the meter and give a much better sense; the comm. understands it to mean “allied with all the deities of the asterisms”; rīktakumbha he simply glosses with çānyakalaça, adding no further explanation; the Pet. Lexx. conjecture “perhaps idle talk (lit. empty-pottedness)”; the translation implies their going away ‘with empty vessels’—that is, carrying off no result or advantage. The comm. explains anuhavā as a calling out [inauspiciously] to a person from behind, and parīhavā as the same from both sides; parīvādā is “harsh talk” (paraṣa-bhāṣaṇa); parīkṣavā is [alternatively] sarvataḥ kṣutam. Some of the mss. read parichavām in b [cf. note * and vs. 5]. Ppp. has for b parīvādām parīkṣayam; and for c, d, savyāimavirīktakumbhyām pārā tānt savitus savaḥ. The comm. appears to read suvaḥ at the end, but glosses it with parākuru, as if suva.

[The AV. comm. begins his remarks on this vs. virtually as follows: If a man sets out on business under a lucky asterism, and some one from behind him calls his name or does something of that sort [probably scolding, sneezing, and coughing are meant], those things are of ill-omen as tending to thwart the business in hand; and this verse contains a prayer for warding off the ill effects of those omens. (In this connection, we may note the cries and slaps by which the woodpecker deters the hunter just as he sets out, Jātaka, ii. 153²², 154³.)—It almost seems as if our comm. were acquainted with ĀpGS. 9. 2, which prescribes an expiation in case some one sneezes or coughs near one who is setting out on business: arthaprādhwasya parīkṣave parīkṣane cāpa upaspr̥çyo 'tare yathālingam jāpet (cf. ed. of Winternitz, p. 12 and p. 61). Winternitz, Hoch-

seitsrituell, p. 95 (cf. p. 26), gives the verses that are to be repeated: I give them as he has printed them at MP. i. 13. 5-6: anuhavām parihavām parivādām parikṣapām : dūsvapnam (should be -niam) dūruditam tād dviṣādbhīyo diṣāmy ahām : anuhūtam pārihūtam cakūnāir yād aṣākundm : mrgāsya sṛtām aksnāyā tād etc. This passage and AV. x. 3. 6 stand in close rapport with our vss. 3-4 here.]

*[As for the readings parichavam and chavam as against parikṣavam and kṣavam (4 b, 5 a, b), the former are avouched by a large minority of SPP's authorities and they prevail also in the mss. first collated by Whitney: and so Ppp. has paricchava for parikṣava of our x. 3. 6. The forms with ch appear to be allowable Prākṛitisms, like uchantu = ukṣantu at iii. 12. 4: cf. ṛchara = ṛtsara at x. 9. 23 and my note; and uccase = ucyase at xii. 4. 4. — For sneezing as an omen, see Henry C. Warren, On superstitious customs connected with sneezing, JAOS. xiii. = PAOS. May, 1885, p. xvii-xx. He quotes Jātaka, ii., p. 15 ff. etc., and Whitney adds JB. ii. 155.]

5. [Drive] away evil sneezing about; may we enjoy (bhāj) propitious (pūnya) sneezing; let the evil-nosed jackal and the pūnyaga urinate upon [it] for thee.

Part of the mss. read in a, b parichavam and chavam: [see note * to vs. 4]. All the mss., and so SPP., have at the beginning apapāpām; the comm., with us, āpa pāpām. Again, all the mss. and SPP. accent bhākṣmādhī. Ppp. reads āpa māpa parikṣapām pūnyam bhākṣmāhi kṣapām, which gives no help. For c, d, SPP. reads çivā te pāpa nāsikām pūnyagaç cā 'bhi mehatām (the pāda being pūnyagaç: ca : abhi : me : hatām); the comm., çivā te pāpanāçikā paṇḍakaç cā 'bhi medhatām. The comm. explains çivā as a name for jackal (so adopted in the translation above); pāpanāçikā is, of course, destroying evil; abhi medhatām = protsāhayatu: the general sense being that, whereas the sight or hearing of a jackal, or the sight of a eunuch, is a bad omen, they are in virtue of the spell of this verse to have a totally opposite influence. How SPP. would render his text [of a, in particular?] it is impossible to see. The version given here lays no claim to being of any value. Ppp. reads çivā te pāpanāçakā (in this word favoring the comm.) ṣaṇṇagasyā 'bhimehatah, which does not seem to help us. The reading of the line in our edition is not to be praised.

6. These (fem.), O Brahmanaspati, that go dispersing upon the wind — do thou, O Indra, making them come together, make them most propitious for me.

The pāda-mss. give in b vātaḥ instead of vāte, which latter is evidently the true reading. The comm. also understands vātas, which compels him to take īrate as = īrte, and to translate it as if causative. The comm. understands the quarters (diṣas) as intended, and points it out as well-known that in a violent wind these are confounded, one of them being taken for another. This is hardly better than silly; but what is really the subject of the verse is very hard to see. The Anukr. omits any definition of these three anuṣṭubh verses*; and, what is much more strange, although it describes the hymn as of seven verses, and the mss. and the comm. so number, it combines 6 and 7 together into one verse as 8+8:8+8:11+9=52. [Ppp. has, for b, viṣūcer vāca tyate, and at end of d -tamaṣ kṛdhi.] * [No: see p. 912, line 9.]

7. Let well-being be ours; let fearlessness be ours; homage be to dāy-and-night.

The verse is wanting in Ppp.

9. For appeasement and weal : to various divinities.

[Brahman (çāntikāmañ). — caturdaça. sāumyam. trāiṣṭubham : 1. virāḍ urobyhatī ; 5. 5-p. pathyāpāñkti ; 9. 5-p. kakummatī ; 12. 3-av. 7-p. aṣṭi ; 14. 4-p. sañkṛti.] [The Anukr. adds : çeṣāñ (that is vss. 2-4, 6-8, 10-11, 13) kāṇḍapratīkatvenā *'nuṣṭubhañ. There thus remains not a single vs. that is not excepted from the definition trāiṣṭubham ! — The Berlin ms., in its treatment of hymns 9-12, after ekarcam (h. 12), adds : vāsiṣṭhañ vāciṣvadevañ çantātiyañ trāiṣṭubham (these four words apply well to hymns 10-11) ādyam (hymn 9) mantroktabahu-devatayam. W. follows the London ms.] * [At the beginning of its treatment of the kāṇḍa, the Anukr. says brahmakāṇḍam ānuṣṭubham.]

The hymn is not found in Pāipp. The comm. finds it used in Parīçīṣṭa 4. 5 ("muttering this, one should conduct a king to his dwelling-house") and 6. 5 (in the piṣṭarātri-kalpa), and in Nakṣ. K. 18, as a hymn belonging to the çānti gaṇa (cf. note to Kāuṣ. 9. 7). Translated : Griffith, ii. 268.

1. Appeased (çāntā) be heaven (dyáu), appeased be earth, appeased be this wide atmosphere, appeased the waters rich in moisture (udanvānt), appeased be the herbs for us.

[With a, b, cf. AGS. ii. 4. 14 ; PGS. iii. 3. 6 ; MGS. ii. 8. 6 b.]

2. Appeased be the foretokens, appeased for us be the done-and-undone, appeased both what is and what is to be : be just everything weal for us.

The comm. explains pūrvārūpāni first as kāryāpekṣayā kārṇāvāsthāpānnāni vastūni, and again as "former births, the fruit of evil deeds." Instead of nas in b it reads me ; and it points out that 'the done' means what is done that should not be done, and 'the undone' what was left undone that should have been done — which is far from necessary or certain.

3. This speech that is most exalted, divine, sharpened by brāhman, by which is produced (syj) what is terrible — by that be there appeasement for us.

4. Or (?) this mind that is most exalted, sharpened by brāhman, by which is produced what is terrible — by that be there appeasement for us.

All the mss. read in b vām instead of vā, and SPP's text follows them. The comm. makes no mention of either in its exposition of the verse ; but its text (so SPP. reports) reads vā, as does ours by emendation.

5. These five senses, with mind as sixth, that are in my heart, sharpened by brāhman, by which is produced what is terrible — by them be there appeasement for us.

The mss. read mānañ ṣaṣṭhāni (p. mānañ : ṣaṣṭhāni), but SPP., as well as our text, emends to -ṭhāni, and this the comm. also understands. In all the verses 3-5, some of the mss. leave saṣṭje unaccented. This verse (10+8+7:8+8=41) is ill defined by the Anukr.

6. Weal for us be Mitra, weal Varuṇa, weal Viṣṇu, weal Prajāpati, weal for us Indra, Bṛihaspati, weal for us be Aryaman.

This verse corresponds nearly to RV. i. 90. 9 and VS. xxxvi. 9; both these, however, put the pādas in the order a, d, c, b, and they read for our b cañ no viṣṇur urukramāḥ.

7. Weal for us be Mitra, weal Varuṇa, weal Vivasvant, weal the destroyer (āntaka), [weal] the portents from earth and from atmosphere, weal for us the planets (?) moving in the sky.

The mss. vary between utpātās and utpātās, the great majority favoring the former. SPP. reads pārthivā "ntarīkṣās, giving in pada-text -vā : ānt-, while the pada-mss. read -vā : ant-; but his reading is palpably wrong and impossible, while a very slight emendation would have given pārthivāntarīkṣās (implying the pada-text pārthivāntarīkṣāḥ), which is implied in the translation above. The comm. explains as if he had pārthivās and āntarīkṣās as two separate words; but, according to SPP., his text reads pārthivāntarīkṣāḥ. Half the samhitā-mss. or more combine -ikṣācāñ no, as if the word had ended in -kṣāt; and, as these included all known to us down to the time of printing, our text reflects them. The comm. of course makes no question of explaining grahās at the end as "Mars and the rest"; and perhaps there is no sufficient reason for questioning that interpretation. The Anukr. does not remark the redundancy of a syllable in 7 c.

8. Weal for us be the quaking (vip) earth, and weal what is meteor-smitten; weal be the red-milked kine, weal the earth when cleaving down.

All the mss. accent veṣyamānā in a, and nearly all (including the pada-mss.) end it as a nom. pl. -mānāḥ; SPP. emends by dropping the blundering visarga, but does not venture to alter the equally blundering accent; of course, it must be made veṣyāmānā, as pres. pass. pple of the causative, unless we emend further to veṣamānā, as our text reads, and as is decidedly better. The comm. reads veṣyamānā, and explains it once by kāmpamānā and once by kāṃpyamānā. [Most] mss., and SPP., read in b ulkā nīr-; [but Whitney's I. and three of SPP's authorities give nī- for nīr-]; the comm. [reads nī- and] understands the two words to form a compound, as it is made to be in our text by simply removing the accent of nīr-; one does not see the applicability of the prefix nī-. In c, some of the mss. read lōhitāḥ, and some accent kṣīrāḥ; 'red-milked' would be with equal propriety rendered 'bloody-milked'; and the two things are of course equivalent. In d, the comm. has avadyryatī, glossing it with avadyryamānā, and this reading has been gratefully adopted in the translation. All the mss. give avadyryatīs, and all the pada-mss. divide it avatiḥ : yatīḥ; SPP. emends to avadyryatīḥ, by which nothing at all is gained; we emended to avadyryatī, which is at least grammatical, though hardly intelligible; avadyryatī is both; [one of SPP's reciters gives ava dyryatī].

9. Be the meteor-smitten asterism weal for us; weal for us the enchantments and weal be the witchcrafts; weal for us the buried spells (valagā), weal the meteors; and weal be for us the land-plagues.

Literally, 'the afflictions (upasarga) of a region.' All the mss. read in a ulkābhīh- (p. ulkā : abhīh-), which SPP. accordingly adopts; the comm. again (as in 8 b) regards it as a compound, which it is unquestionably meant to be, and which our text gives by emendation; the prefix abhi suits the situation, as nīr (8 b) did not. In c, SPP. has the better accent nikhātās, with a large minority of his mss.; none of ours give it, and we accepted nikhātās, since it is not without support elsewhere. Our valagās was an emendation for valgās; but our two pada-mss. [D.s.m. L.] compared later, have valagāḥ, as does one of SPP's; the latter, however, adopts valgās, against meter and sense, and against the comm. The pada-mss. all have ulkā in c, an evident blunder for -kāh, which SPP. this time ventures to read by emendation: it is extremely difficult to understand his selection of the cases where he is willing to emend. The metrical definition of the verse (really 12 + 11 : 11 + 11 = 45) by the Anukr. is as bad as possible.

10. Weal for us be the planets belonging to the moon, and weal the sun (ādityā) with Rāhu; weal for us smoke-bannered death, weal the Rudras of keen brightness.

The translation follows in b the text of the comm. ādityaḥ ca rāhuṇā, as is read also by SPP., who follows the comm. and three or four authorities. Most of the mss. have -tyaḥ ṣarāhuṇā (p. also ṣarāhuṇā), but two or three caṇi rāhuṇā. Those that accent -rāhuṇā or rāhuṇā at all accent it on the final, -huṇā, and this accent SPP. has not dared to change, although it is against all rule and practice. In connection with dhūmaketu the comm. quotes Kāuṣ. 127. 1, where the word is used; it seems to me extremely unlikely that it signifies a comet; [does it not refer rather to the smoke that rises from the pyre?].

11. Weal [for us be] the Rudras, weal the Vasus, weal the Ādityas, weal the fires; weal for us the divine great seers, weal the gods, weal Bṛhaspati.

In c, SPP. reads maharṣṭyas, against most of his authorities (although he gives saptarṣṭyas in the two following verses). Some of the mss. leave devās in c unaccented; and two of SPP's treat the word in the same manner in d. Our emendation in d to devīs is probably too venturesome, although it seems strange to have 'the gods' mentioned as a body in connection with the mention of so many of them separately.

12. The brāhman, Prajāpati, Dhātār, the worlds, the Vedas, the seven seers, the fires — by them happy progress (svastyāyana) is made for me: let Indra grant (jam) me refuge; let Brahman grant me refuge; let all the gods grant me refuge; let the gods all grant me refuge.

The Anukr., the comm., and a better connection are here followed, by adding to this verse the two pādas which in our edition are printed as 13 a, b, in accordance with the numbering of our mss. (8 + 10 : 8 + 8 : 10 + 10 = 62, two syllables short of a full aṣṭī); SPP. makes the same division. Some of SPP's mss. read in b devās instead of vedās: the accent vedās seems to be modeled on devās, for 'the Vedas' should be védās, and the word ought doubtless to be so emended; [O.D. actually have védās, and the comm. says the four Vedas are intended]. We should expect at the beginning brahmā. [With c, cf. 16. 1 b.]

13. Whatsoever things that are appeased in the world the seven seers know, be they all weal for me; let weal be mine, let fearlessness be mine.

Many of the mss. accent in b lōke and saptarṣayo. [In d asty is a misprint for astv.]

14. [Be] earth appeasement, atmosphere appeasement, sky appeasement, waters appeasement, herbs appeasement, forest trees appeasement; [be] all the gods appeasement for me, the gods all appeasement for me.

appeasement with appeasements; by those appeasements all-appeasing do I appease what here is terrible, what here is cruel, what here is evil; [be] that appeased, [be] that propitious; be just everything weal for us.

With a large minority of his authorities, and with the comm., SPP. adds one more çāntiḥ before çāntibhis at the end of the first division; in the second division, he follows the mss. slavishly in reading sārva çāntibhiḥ; the comm. apparently (it is defective here) agrees with our emendation to sarvaçāntibhis. After this word, the mss. all have çamayāmoham, accenting either çamayāmohām or çamayāmohām; the pada-mss. divide it absurdly çamaya : mohām; the comm. understands it as çamayāmo 'ham, with substitution of aham for vayam by Vedic license (a mere exchange of plural and singular); SPP. unaccountably gives çamayāmohām with the pada-text çām : ayāmaḥ : ahām; our emendation to çamayāmy ahām is evidently necessary. Similar passages occur in VS. xxxvi. 17; TA. iv. 42 (28); MS. iv. 9. 27 [p. 138¹²]; but it is not worth while to quote them in detail; TA. (29) contains the compound sarvaçānti and MS. has sārva-çānti. The "verse" is the only one in the whole work that is called a saṃkṛti (96 syllables); it counts naturally 94 syllables.

[Here ends the first anuvāka, with 9 hymns and 59 verses. The comm. (not SPP.) divides the Purusha-sūkta (our hymn 6) into two hymns, so that our vss. 1-5 make his hymn 6 and our vss. 6-16 make his hymn 7: thus his first anuvāka consists of 10 hymns. — There are of course no further quotations from the Old Anukr. or Pañcapāṇīkā: cf. p. 896, line 4.]

10. For well-being.

[Brahman (çāntikāmaḥ). — daça. sāmyam. trāiṣṭubham.]

This hymn and the one following it are together RV. vii. 35, this one being vss. 1-10 of the latter, in unchanged order, and without a variant except in 8 b. Both are found together in Pāipp. xiii. [For the quotation of the hymn in the çānti gaṇa, see note to Kāuṣ. 9. 7.]

Translated: Griffith, ii. 270; and also, of course, by the RV. translators.

1. Weal for us be Indra-and-Agni, with their aids; weal for us Indra-and-Varuṇa, on whom offerings are bestowed; weal Indra-and-Soma, for welfare, weal [and] profit (yós); weal for us Indra-and-Pūshan in booty-winning.

This verse is found also in VS. xxxvi. 11, which inverts the order of pādas c and d. The comm. takes indrāgnī in a as vocative [and says so expressly; but] apparently out of mere carelessness, as he does not make any change in the 3d du. verb bhavatām.

2. Weal for us be Bhaga, and weal for us Çaṇsa; weal for us Purandhi, and weal be wealths; weal for us the tribute (çāṇsa) of well-ordered (suyāma) truth; weal for us be the much-born Aryaman.

About half the mss. read in c suyāmaṣ tu (p. suyāmastu). Pādas b and c have dropped out of Ppp. The comm. takes çāṇsas in a to be by abbreviation for narāçāṇsas.

3. Weal for us be Dhātār, and weal for us Dhartar; weal for us be the wide-spreading one (urūcī) with her powers (?svadhī); weal the two great firmaments (ródasī), weal for us the rock (ādri); weal for us be the successful invocations of the gods.

The mss. write in b urūcī, urucī, and ūrūcī; the comm. explains it as the earth, dhartṛ as Varuṇa, separator (vidhārayitr) of the good and bad, and svadhā as anna; adri he simply glosses by parvata.

4. Weal for us be Agni with front of light, weal for us Mitra-and-Varuṇa, weal the two Aṅvins; weal for us be the things well done of the well-doers; weal let the lively (iṣirā) wind blow upon us.

Ppp. has in b -nā aṅvinā.

5. Weal for us be heaven-and-earth in our early invocation; the atmosphere be weal for us to see; weal for us be the herbs, the trees (vanīn), weal for us be the conquering lord of the welkin (rūjas).

The comm. regards Indra as intended in the last pāda.

6. Weal for us be god Indra with the Vasus; weal Varuṇa of excellent praise [su-çāṁsa] with the Ādityas; weal for us healing (jālāṣa) Rudra with the Rudras; unto weal for us let Tvashṭar listen here with his spouses (gnā).

The comm. declares jālāṣa a sukhanāman. All the pada-mss. have in d tvāṣṭā: agnābhiḥ! SPP. emends to gnābhiḥ; the comm. of course has gnābhis and glosses it with devapatnībhis. [As to suçāṁsa, cf. note to xviii. 3. 16.]

7. Weal for us be soma, weal for us the brāhman; weal for us the pressing-stones, and weal be the sacrifices; weal for us be the settings of the sacrificial posts; weal for us the sprouts (prastū), and weal be the sacrificial hearth (védī).

The sprouts, namely, of sacrificial grass. The comm. declares svaru used in the sense of yūpa as the thing possessed for the possessor. [The last pāda has dropped out of Ppp.]

8. With weal for us let the wide-looking sun arise; weal for us be the four directions; weal for us be the firm mountains; weal for us the rivers, and weal be the waters.

The RV. order of words in b [cf. introd.] is this: çāṁ naç cātasraḥ pradīço bhavantu. [The first pāda has dropped out of Ppp.]

9. Weal for us be Aditi with her courses (vratā); weal for us be the tuneful (svarkā) Maruts; weal for us Viṣṇu, and weal be for us Pūshan; weal for us the place of being (? bhavitra), and weal be Vāyu.

The comm. glosses vratebhis with karmabhiḥ sārddham, and bhavitram by bhuvanam udakam antarikṣaṁ vā. [Ppp. also reads bhavitram.]

10. Weal for us be the rescuing god Savitar; weal for us be the out-shining dawns; weal for us be Parjanya for our progeny; weal for us be the wealful lord of the field (kṣétra).

The comm. quotes a verse to the effect that some regard Rudra, and some Agni, as 'lord of the field.'

11. For well-being.

[Brahman (çāntikāmah). — çat. sāmyam. trāiṣṭubham.]

The hymn is made up of the remaining verses of RV. vii. 35, [vss. 11-15,] with another RV. verse (v. 47. 7) added. Among the former the differences of order and reading are very slight. [The hymn is found, as noted under hymn 10, in Pāipp. xiii.] Translated: Griffiths, ii. 272; and also, of course, by the RV. translators.

1. Weal for us be the lords of truth; weal for us the coursers and weal be the kine; weal for us the Ṛibhus, well-doers, having good hands; weal for us be the Fathers at our invocations.

This verse and the following one are found in RV. in inverted order (as vss. 12 and 11). The comm. quotes sundry RV. verses illustrating the character of the Ṛibhus, and is uncertain whether háva at the end comes from root hū or from hu.

2. Weal for us be the gods, the all-gods; weal be Sarasvatī with the prayers (dhi); weal the followers (?abhiṣṭac) and weal the gift-following (?rātiṣṭac); weal for us they of the sky, they of the earth, weal for us they of the waters.

This verse is found, without variant, also in TB. ii. 8. 6³ and MS. iv. 14. 11. The comm. declares devā viṣvadevās to mean bahustotrakā indrādayaḥ; abhiṣṭacas, yajñam abhitaḥ samavayanto devāḥ; and rātiṣṭacas, dānārthaṁ saṁgacchamānā devāḥ — these two epithets belonging to the viṣve devāḥ. Ppp. reads at the end apyāḥ.

3. Weal for us be the divine (devā) one-footed goat (ajā ékapad), weal the bottom snake (dhi budhnyā), weal the ocean; weal for us be Peru, grandson of the waters (apām nāpāt); weal for us be the spotted one (pṛçni), guarded by the gods.

The RV. version reads in b çām nō 'hir b, and at the end -gopāḥ [Müller's 2d quarto ed. and Aufrecht's 2d ed. have -gopā: as for the form, see my Noun-Inflection, p. 445]; Ppp. agrees with RV. in b, and has -gopāḥ at the end. The comm. explains perús as pārayitā duḥkhebhyaḥ, and pṛçni as mother of the Maruts. The omission of nas in our b makes the meter defective, but the Anukr. takes no notice of it.

4. Let the Ādityas, the Rudras, the Vasus enjoy this very new worship (bráhman) as it is performed; let there hear us them of the sky, them of the earth, also the kine-born, who are worshipful.

The RV. version [vs. 14] reads at end of a juṣanta. The comm. explains gojātās as the Maruts, born of Pṛçni.

5. They who are the worshipful priests (ṛtvij) of the gods, to be worshiped of man (mānu), immortal, right-knowing — let them bestow on us today wide passage (urugāyā): do ye protect us ever with blessings.

RV. reads in a devānām yajñtyā yajñtyānām. The comm. apparently takes -gāya as from gā 'sing,' as he glosses urugāyām with prabhūtām kīrtim, and does not even, as is his wont in such cases, give an alternative explanation implying gā 'go.'

6. Be it so, O Mitra-and-Varuṇa, so, O Agni: weal [and] profit for us be this praise (çastā); may we reach sounding (gādhā) and firm standing; homage to the great sky, [our] seat.

The verse is found, without variant, as RV. v. 47. 7. The comm. takes çastam in b as adjective to çam yos, which is perhaps better; also it connects bṛhate with sādanāya, and understands by this the earth. Ppp. reads in c gātum for gādhām, and in d sādanāya.

12. For success and long life.

[Brahman (çāntikāmaḥ).—ekarcam. sāumyam. trāiṣṭubham.]

The hymn, or verse, is wanting in Pāipp. Its first half is identical with RV. x. 172. 4; its second half, with RV. vi. 17. 15 (also SV. i. 454). It is reckoned as a çānti-hymn, and used as such in company with the hymns that precede it [see note to Kāuṣ. 9. 7].

Translated: Griffith, ii. 273; and by the RV. translators.

1. The dawn, with nobleness, makes the darkness roll together [and] away on her sister's track; therewith may we win the prize (vāja) set by the gods; may we revel, living a hundred winters, rich in heroes.

The sense of the first half-verse is difficult and doubtful. Āpa in a is really an emendation [following RV.], all our mss. [save B., which has āṣaḥ], and very nearly all SPP's (only one has āpa [and one, apā]) reading instead āpaḥ; the comm. has apa. Half [of SPP's authorities, and one or two of W's] give in b śuyātātā. The comm. amuses himself with etymologizing svaṣṭ as svayam eva sārīṇ.

13. For success in war: [Apratiratha hymn].

[Apratiratha.—ekādaça. āindram. trāiṣṭubham: 3-6, 11. bhurij.]

The hymn is, with slight variations, identical for the most part with the familiar Apratiratha hymn of the Rig-Veda (x. 103), found also in other texts: VS. xvii. 33 ff.; SV. ii. 1199 ff.; TS. iv. 6. 4; MS. ii. 10. 4. [The readings of VS. and SV. agree with those of RV., as noted under vs. 2.] Our first verse is peculiar, being found elsewhere only in SV. (ii. 1219); and vss. 10, 12, 13 of the RV. hymn are here wanting. [The RV. vss. here occur in the order 1-3, 5-7, 4, 8-9, 11.] The hymn occurs also in Pāipp. vii. In Vāit. i. 18, the selected brahman-priest is directed to recite the Apratiratha hymn; this probably means our hymn; GB. (ii. i. 18) quotes the pratika of our vs. 1 as the apratiratha. [Varāhamihira's Yogayātrā (8. 6) prescribes the hymn for use by a king just about to march forth to war: Ind. Stud. xv. 170.]

Translated: Griffith, ii. 273; and by the RV. translators.—Cf. also Oldenberg, Die Hymnen des RV., i. 247.

1. Indra's two arms [are] stout, virile (vṛṣan), these two wondrous successful bulls; them will I first yoke when the conjuncture (yōga) arrives—they by which was conquered the heaven (svār) that is the Asuras'.

The SV. text (ii. 1219) is considerably different: in a, b, yūvānāv anādhṛṣyāū supratikāṁ asahyāū; in c, tāū yuñjīta prathamāū; at the end, sāho mahāt. Vṛṣānāū (instead of the regular vṛṣanāū) is read also by Ppp., and the meter demands it [cf. Noun-Inflection, p. 537, 523]. The combination citrā imā vṛṣ, if representing, as the sense clearly requires, citrāū: imāū: vṛṣ, is anomalous in AV., though regular for some of the other Vedic texts (cf. Prāt. ii. 22 note); and the pada-text shows a sense of this, by reading citrāḥ : imā : vṛṣ. SPP. gives as his pada-text citrā : imā, which leaves the saṁhitā reading unaccounted for; the comm. assumes citrāu and imā. In c, all the mss. (whence also SPP.) read yokṣe, for which our yokṣe is an emendation, plainly demanded by both sense and meter; it is one of the common cases of a y lost after ṣ; Ppp., too, has yokṣe (before it, ta for tāu); the comm. has the senseless yakṣe. All the mss., again, read prathamās (-mō yō-), and the comm. likewise, with, of course, SPP.; our emendation to -māu (with SV.) is an improvement, but not a necessity. The comm. foolishly declares agate = kṣeme, in order to bring about the ordinary combination of yoga and kṣema, here quite out of place. He also takes svār yāt, against accent and pada-text, as one word [cf. 15. 4, note], and explains -yat as a participle, = gacchat ! Ppp. reads and combines in c prathamayogā "gate.

2. Swift, sharp, terrible like a bull, greatly smiting, disturber of men (carṣaṇī), roaring, unwinking, sole hero, Indra conquered a hundred armies together.

This verse [RV. vs. 1] agrees throughout with the RV. text; SV. and VS. show no variants from RV. through the whole hymn; TS.MS. read here in a yudhās for bhīmās, and MS. has also kṣobhanas. The mss. also vary in this last word between -nas and -nas; SPP. adopts -nas, as does our text.

3. With the roaring, unwinking, conquering, invincible, immovable, bold one — with Indra thus conquer, thus overpower the fighters, O men, with the arrow-armed bull (vīṣan).

RV. [vs. 2] begins b with yutkārṇa, and all the other texts agree with it. The comm. carelessly reads yodhyena instead of ay-, explaining it by yuddhasamsaktēna; he takes yūdhas in d as vocative = yoddhāras; with tāt (twice) in c he supplies jetavyam [and abhibhavanīyam].

4. He with the arrow-armed, he with the quiver-hung, [is] controller; he, Indra with his train, brings together the fighters — [he,] conquering those brought together, soma-drinker, defiant with his arms, of formidable bow, shooting with fitted [arrows].

[Vs. 3 in RV.] TS.MS. read in d ūrdhvūdhanvā; and MS. has a very different b, sāmsrṣṭāsu yutsu indro gaṇḍṣu. Many of the mss. (as often in such words) read in b sāmsrṣṭā; some (as also elsewhere) lengthen the u in kampa at beginning of d; all have at the end āstāt — which, however, even SPP. emends to āstā, with the comm. The pada-mss. give in c somasṛṣṭā (RV. -ṣṭā). [The comm. notes as an alternative that yūdhas in b (both ed's, yūdhas) may be taken as yudhās, oxytone and abl. sing. (he cites Pāṇini, vi. 1. 168) — which is a regard for the accent (cf. note to vs. 9) that is unusual with him.] [For prātihiṭā used pregnantly of an arrow, cf. the citations under vi. 65. 1.]

5. To be known by his strength, stout, foremost hero, powerful, vigorous (vājīn), overpowering, formidable, excelling heroes, excelling warriors, conquering with power — mount, O Indra, the victorious kine-winning chariot.

The fourth verse of the RV. hymn is transposed [in the AV. text so as] to follow our vs. 7, and vs. 5 AV. is vs. 5 RV. The other texts [RV. etc.] all read at the end govt; and all except MS. have in c sahojās. SPP. retains in a the visarga before sthāv, with the majority of the mss.; he also accepts in c abhiśatvā, with half the mss., but against all the parallel texts, apparently because the comm. has ś. Ppp. reads for d jāitṛāyāi ā ratham ā tiṣṭha kovidam. [The *govt*dam of the Berlin text seems to be an emendation. Nearly all the authorities of W. and of SPP., and SPP's text as well, and the comm., have *govt*dan; but one or two have govt, with RV. etc.]

6. Be ye excited after this formidable hero; take hold, O companions, after Indra, the troop-conqueror, kine-conqueror, thunderbolt-armed, conquering in the race, slaughtering with force.

We had this verse [which is RV. vs. 6] above, as vi. 97. 3; the reversal in the other texts of the order of the two lines, and the other variants, were there noticed. TS. and MS. alter a little the order of verses: RV. 4 is followed in TS. by RV. 6, 5, 7, and in MS. by RV. 7, 5, 6. The Anukr. reckons vss. 3-6 alike as bhurij, although 3 is redundant by two syllables. [Ppp. reads satvānas for sakhāyas in b.]

7. Plunging with power into the cow-stalls, Indra, pitiless, formidable, of hundred-fold fury, immovable, overpowering fighters, invincible—let him favor our armies in the fights.

The stalls, namely, in which the kine are shut up by the Asuras. All the samhitā-mss. read 'dāyā ugrāḥ at beginning of b, but all the pada-mss. (except one of SPP's) give adāyāḥ, and one of ours puts after it the sign that is wont to be used when a word shows an anomalous change in samhitā. RV. [vs. 7] SV.VS. (also K.Kap.: see Schröder's note to MS.) read adāyās, and our text follows their authority; but TS. has adāyās (of which the Pet. Lexx. take no notice), and MS. has ādāyās; the comm. reads adāyas, but explains it by nirdayas, as if it were adāyās. Adāyās is doubtless the established AV. reading. All the other texts have after it vīrās instead of ugrās. In c, all the others except MS. have ayudhyās. Most of the pada-mss. accent ayodhyāḥ, [and so the pada-reading of MS.]. The first pāda is bhurij [read gotrā?].

8. O Bṛihaspati, fly about with thy chariot, demon-slaying, forcing away our enemies; breaking up our foes, slaughtering our enemies, be thou the helper of ourselves.

Or, 'of our bodies (tanū).' This verse corresponds to vs. 4 of all the other texts; and they read in concert for c prabhañjant śenāḥ pramṇo yudhā jāyann, and at the end rāthānām. The pada-mss. commit the blunder of reading mitrān [or mitrān] in b; SPP. emends to amitrān, which the comm. also gives. A number of SPP's samhitā-mss. have (after the fashion of MS.) -mitrān or -mītrān; [cf. note to 27. 4, below].

9. Indra [be] their leader; let Bṛihaspati, the sacrificial gift, the sacrifice, soma, go in front; in the midst of the smashing conquering armies of the gods let the Maruts go.

[RV. vs. 8.] The text of MS. agrees throughout with ours; the others read āsām in a, and āgram (for mādhye) in d [but TS. āgre]. The comm. does here a thing which is hardly paralleled elsewhere in his work: he points out that some explain dakṣiṇā in b as meaning "on the south," but that, as the word would in that case have to be accented dakṣiṇā, as shown by xviii. 1.42, it must signify here rather 'sacrificial gift' (yajñe dīyamānā gorūpā dakṣiṇā). A like attention to the element of accent elsewhere would notably improve the character of his lucubrations. [Cf. note to vs. 4.]

10. Of Indra the bull (vṛṣan), of king Varuṇa, of the Ādityas, of the Maruts, the spirit (gārdhas) [is] formidable; the noise of the great-minded, creation-stirring, conquering gods hath arisen.

[RV. vs. 9.] All the other texts agree with ours throughout.

11. Indra [is] ours when the banners meet [in conflict]; let the arrows that are ours conquer; let our heroes be superior; us, O gods, aid ye at the invocations.

All the other texts read in d asmān u devās; and MS. has the peculiar ending bhāreṣv ā. The verse is vs. 11 of the RV. hymn, RV. vs. 10 being omitted in the Atharvan (save as it is found in part as iii. 19. 6); RV. vs. 10 is omitted also by MS., which ends its hymn with 11; in TS., RV. vs. 10 is put after 11, and 13 follows, only 12 being omitted; in the Atharvan, RV. vs. 12 occurs as iii. 2. 5, and 13 in part at iii. 19. 7.

14. For safety.

[Atharvan. — ekarcam. dyāvāprthivīyam. trāṣṭubham.]

This hymn is not found in Pāipp. It and the one following are included in the abhaya gaṇa (note to Kāuṣ. 16. 8).

Translated: Griffith, ii. 274. Griffith calls it a "hymn after victory" and refers tvā to the conquered enemy.

1. Here have I come up to a better stop (avasāna); heaven-and-earth have been propitious to me; let the directions be for me free from rivals; we verily hate thee not; be there fearlessness for us.

The mss. read in a uchréyas (p. utcréyah); very possibly the true reading would be u créyas. The pada-mss. fail to divide avasānam (it should be avaśānam, and this SPP. reads by emendation). Some mss. read te for me in b. Some of ours combine at the end no 'stu. Āp. vi. 29. 1 has a corresponding passage: idaṁ creyo 'vasānam yad āgām syone me dyāvāprthivī abhūtām: anamvāḥ pradiṣaḥ santu mahyam: gomad . . . svāhe 'ty avasite juhoti: cf. also Āp. xiii. 25. 3.

15. For safety and success.

[Atharvan. — ṣaḍcam. 1-4. āindram; 5, 6. mantroktabakudevatyam. 1. pathyābr̥hātī; 2, 5. 4-p. jagatī; 3. virāt pathyāpāñkti; 4, 6. trīṣṭubh.]

The hymn is found also in Pāipp. iii. As noted under the preceding, it belongs to the abhaya gaṇa; and the comm. points out sundry uses of the gaṇa (Çānti K. 16; Nakṣ. K. 18; Pāriṣiṣṭa 5. 3).

Translated: Ludwig, p. 513; Griffith, ii. 275.

1. What we fear, O Indra, make thou fearlessness for us of it; O bounteous one, help (ṣak) that for us by thy aids; smite away haters, away scorners.

The verse is RV. viii. 50 (61). 13, without variant; also SV. i. 274; ii. 671, which reads ātāye in c. Most of the mss. give tvām instead of tāt in c, but two of ours (P.M.) have tān na ū, and on the authority of these and of RV.SV. our text gives the same; SPP. reads tvām, and so does the comm., and it is probably to be regarded as the true Atharvan version.

2. Indra the success-giver do we invoke; may we be successful with biped, with quadruped; let not the niggardly armies come upon us; make the haters (drūh) disperse and disappear.

The translation is defective in making no account of the prefix anu (twice), which ought to have an appreciable value, although it is very difficult to see what; the comm. paraphrases anurādham by anukrameṇa pūjanīyam, and he quotes RV. iv. 25. 8 in illustration of how various classes in succession invoke Indra. Ppp. preserves the a of anu in b. SPP. reads in d, with all the mss., druhās; there was no good reason for its alteration in our text to drūhas.

3. Indra [is] rescuer and Vṛitra-slayer, our desirable far-and-wide protector (?); be he our defender at the extremities, he in the middle, he behind, he in front.

In b the translation follows the comm., who explains parasphā (-pāh) no v-; all the mss. (save one or two s.m.) * have parasphāno v- (p. parasphānāh, without division), and this is doubtless the true Atharvan text, though an unintelligible corruption, of which our gayasphāna is an only partially successful emendation. * [In fact, W's O. and three of SPP's mss. have -sphā, p.m., and -spā, s.m.; and SPP's reciter K. gave -sphā, while his reciter V. gave -spā.] Ppp. reads paramphāno (parasphā no?). The pada-mss. unintelligently divide ca : ramatāh in c; some of our mss. have -matā sā. The verse (8 + 8 : 12 + 10 = 38) is poorly described by the Anukr.

4. Do thou, knowing, lead us toward broad space (loka), light that is heavenly (svār), fearlessness, well-being; may we dwell under the formidable arms of thee the stout one, O Indra, [those two] great refuges.

The verse is RV. vi. 47. 8, found also in TB. (in ii. 7. 133); both these texts read in b svārvaḥ jy-, at beginning of c ṣṣvā, and in d stheyāma. The comm. gives svaryat, but explains the -yat as -gacchat (as above, 13. 1); Ppp. agrees with RV.TB. [in reading svārvaḥ]; [Ppp. abbreviates the consonant group -j jy- to -jy-; and so does TB., ed. Calc., reading sīvarva jy-]. In d, the comm. has the better reading kṣiyema.

5. May the atmosphere make for us fearlessness; fearlessness both heaven-and-earth here; fearlessness from behind, fearlessness from in front; from above, from below be there fearlessness for us.

The comm. prefers to take the words of direction in c, d in their other admissible sense of points of compass, pointing out that adhara gets the value 'south' by antithesis to uttara 'north.' The verse (11 + 12 : 11 + 11 [?] = 45) is no sort of a jagati.

6. Fearlessness from friend, fearlessness from enemy, fearlessness from one known, fearlessness [from one] that is away; fearlessness for us by night, fearlessness by day; be all places my friend.

At the beginning of b, all the mss. read ābhaye; but even SPP. emends to -yam, having the comm. with him. At the end of the same pāda, all [so also Ppp.] give purō yāh (p. purāh : yāh), which SPP. retains; the comm. reads paro yah, but understands it as if paro yāh, explaining as jñātād anyah or aparijñātāh. Our emendation to parōkṣāt is defensible; but the translation implies parō yāh, as a less alteration. [In d, Ppp. combines sarvā "cā and omits māma.] ["Save me from my friends:" cf. ii. 28. 1 d and note; also RV. iv. 55. 5, where the antithesis between jānyam ānhas and mitrīyam ānhas is most instructive.]

16. For safety and protection.

[Atharvan. — trcam.* mantroktabakudevatyam. 1. anuṣṭubh; 2. 3-av. 7-p. byhatigarbhā 'tīcak-varī.] * [So the London ms.; the Berlin ms. says in fact duyṣcam: see under vs. 2.]

This and the following hymns, to 23 inclusive, are wanting in Pāipp. The comm. has 16-19 used in the night, in a ceremony to be performed by the purohita, on the entrance of a king into his sleeping-house (according to Parīṣiṣṭa iv. 5). The hymn is repeated below as 27. 14, 15.

Translated: Griffith, ii. 276.

1. Freedom from rivals in front, behind us [is] fearlessness made; Savitar [protect] me on the south, the lord of Çachī me on the north.

The comm. takes ṛtām in b as 2d du. impv., = kurutam, in spite of the accent, trying to find a dual subject in the two gods mentioned in c, d; and SPP., in obedience to this, even reads ṛtām, although twelve of his thirteen authorities (with all of ours) have ṛtām, the thirteenth evidently disagreeing with the rest purely by the accidental omission of an accent-mark.* It would not be impossible to take mā in c and d as object of dakṣiṇatās and uttarāt. * [For the use of ṛtām (the participle), cf. tātr me ṛtān svastyāyanam, above, 9. 12 c. — In his Collation Book, W. refers to RV. khila, 3. 4, which reads asapatnām purāstān naḥ çivām dakṣiṇataḥ kṛdhi: abhāyam sātātam paçcād bhadrām uttaratō gṛhē.]

2. From the sky let the Ādityas defend me; from the earth let the fires defend; let Indra-and-Agni defend me in front; let the Açvins yield (yam) refuge round about; crosswise let the inviolable [cow], let Jāta-vedas, defend [me]; let the being-makers be my defense (vārman) on all sides.

In e the mss. all read tiraçṭānaghnyā, which the pāda-text resolves into tiraçṭān : aghnyā, and this SPP. retains, though tiraçṭān is not a possible word. Our emendation to -ānā 'ghnyā is a very simple one (implying -ānā : aghnyā); the translation is founded on it; but a more radical alteration of the pāda would be acceptable: something like, for instance, tiryāk cā 'gñī rakṣatu jātāvedāḥ; the jātāvedāḥ leads naturally to the suspicion that agnis is somehow hidden in the 'ghnyā; the comm. indeed reads tiraçṭān agñi r-; but he is able to regard tiraçṭān as a masc. accus., implying asmān; or else as by Vedic license for -ctis, and this for -cibhyas, implying dighhyas (!); and such assumptions are forbidden us. The pāda-mss. all read rakṣantu in e.

The Anukr. in its metrical definition treats this all as one verse, and the same treatment is implied by the summation at the end of the anuvāka (see p. 928); but the comm. and one of our mss. make what follows the second avasāna into a separate or third verse; [a like contradiction obtains as between the Anukr. and the comm. in the repeated passage, below, 27. 14, 15 (see the note); here, moreover, as noted above, the mss. of the Anukr. are at variance as to whether the hymn is to be reckoned as of 2 vss. or of 3]. The addition of brhatigarbhā to the metrical definition is quite uncalled-for; [doubtless because pāda b scans better as 8 syllables than as 9: no less uncalled-for is the addition of saptapādā, unless, dividing what follows the second avasāna into 3 pādas, we begin the seventh with an enclitic].

[I suspect that our text consists of 6 pādas ($8 + 8 : 11 + 11 : 11 + 11 = 60$, "atiṣakvārī"), call them 1 vs. or 2, as you will. Pādas c and e and f have good triṣṭubh cadences: c is good triṣṭubh if we resolve indraagnī; so is e, with W's tiryāk cā 'gnī r-; the presence of me in f is all that spoils f; and the absence of me after yachatām is all that spoils the cadence of d, if, substituting the grammatical equivalent, we pronounce açvīnā 'bhītaḥ at the beginning.]

17. For protection: to various gods.

[Atharvan. — daṣakam. pratyecam mantroktadevatyam. jāgutam: 5, 7, 10. atijagatī; 6. bhurij; 9. 5-p. atiṣakvārī.]

[Prose.] [Not found in Pāipp.] This hymn and the next are used, the comm. points out, in the same ceremony as 16, with other hymns, as detailed in Parīṣṭa 4. 4; both are also prescribed in Par. 19. 1 (see note to Kāuṣ. 140. 9), in a ceremony against danger from the various quarters. [See introd. to next hymn.] [Note that the vss. of this hymn group themselves in 5 dyads (comm., ṣaryāya-dvayas), one for each cardinal point and a fifth for the 'fixed and upward points'; and that those of h. 18 do likewise and are so grouped by the comm. also.]

Translated: Griffith, ii. 276.

1. Let Agni with the Vasus protect me on the east: in him I step, in him I take refuge (çri), to that stronghold I go forward; let him defend me, let him guard me; to him I commit myself: hail!

The comm. first understands and explains krame and çraye as nouns in the locative, qualified by tasmin! then he again makes them verbs, quoting from vs. 6 iāsu krame iāsu çraye, to support this understanding of them; no one less superficial and blundering could possibly suggest the former explanation, against the accent and the sense.

2. Let Vāyū with the atmosphere protect me from that quarter: in him I etc. etc.

3. Let Soma with the Rudras protect me from the southern quarter: in him I etc. etc.

4. Let Varuṇa with the Ādityas protect me from that quarter: in him I etc. etc.

The comm. quotes AÇS. ii. 11. 12 to show that elsewhere also Soma is associated with the Rudras and Varuṇa with the Ādityas.

5. Let the sun with heaven-and-earth protect me from the western quarter: in him I etc. etc.

6. Let the waters with (-mant) the herbs protect me from that quarter: in them I . . . ; let them defend . . . ; to them I etc. etc.

7. Let Viṣvakarman with the seven seers protect me from the northern quarter: in him I etc. etc.

8. Let Indra with (-vant) the Maruts protect me from that quarter:
 in him I etc. etc.

The comm. quotes Bhagavad-Gītā x. 6 (rather futilely) to support the association of the seven seers with Viṣvakarman as highest self (paramātmān), and (most superfluously) RV. viii. 85 (96). 7 and AB. iii. 20. 1 (part) to show that Indra and the Maruts go together.

9. Let Prajāpati, possessing generative powers (prajānanavant), together with firm support (pratiṣṭhā), protect me from the fixed quarter: in him I etc. etc.

Many of the mss. give various other accents to prajānanavān; all read pratiṣṭhāyā (p. asthāyāḥ), which SPP. accordingly retains,* although it is a palpable corruption; the comm. makes no difficulty of it, viewing it simply as a case of the substitution of genitive for instrumental; he adds, however, another interpretation, supplying prajānanena for sahā to govern, and making pratiṣṭhāyās an adjective qualifying diśas. * [W's B. and all of SPP's authorities appear to accent pratiṣṭhāyā, p. pratiṣṭhāyāḥ, and this is in fact the accentuation and reading in SPP's text, although I do not see what is to be made of it.]

10. Let Bṛhaspati with all the gods protect me from the upward quarter: in him I etc. etc.

The comm. calls these prose "verses" and those of the next hymn paṛyāyas; and the metrical definitions of the Anukr. are of course worthless, although it is possible to read out something like the numbers of syllables required by that treatise.

18. For protection: to various gods.

[Aitharvan.—daṣakam. pratyṛcam mantraktadevatyam. dvāpādam: 1, 8. sāmñi triṣṭubh; 2-6. ārcy anuṣṭubh (5. samrāj [intending svarāj?]); 7, 9, 10. prājāpatyā triṣṭubh.]

[Prose.] [Not found in Pāipp.] See note to the preceding hymn [for ritual uses]. The gods etc. are throughout the same as in that hymn. [The two hymns are closely accordant in general and special peculiarities of structure.] [A similar passage is found at MS. i. 5. 4, p. 719-15, as W. notes in the Collation Book: he also says "cf. K. vii. 2." AV. v. 10 presents some analogies with our hymn, and iv. 40 still more.]

Translated: Griffith, ii. 277.

1. Let those malignants (aghāyū) who shall attack (abhi-dās) me from the eastern quarter come upon (rch) Agni with (-vant) the Vasus.

The comm. has the more regular vasumantam. All the mss., and the comm., have at the end of all the verses 'bhidāsāt', which SPP. accordingly retains; our edition makes the absolutely necessary emendation to -sān. [Is -dāsāt a faulty reminiscence of AV. v. 10?] Most of the samhitā-mss. also accent diśo 'bhi'. Some of the mss. leave tē unaccented. 'With' is represented throughout the hymn by -vant or -mant, not by the instrumental case. As usual, rch signifies a coming into hostile or detrimental contact or collision. [W. interlines "run against" as alternative for "come upon."]

2. Let those malignants who shall attack me from that quarter come upon Vāyu with the atmosphere.

3. Let those malignants who shall attack me from the southern quarter come upon Soma with the Rudras.

4. Let those malignants who shall attack me from that quarter come upon Varuṇa with the Ādityas.

The Anukr. ought properly to call this verse bhurij.

5. Let those malignants who shall attack me from the western quarter come upon the sun with heaven-and-earth.

[The accent of dyāvā- is noted by W., Skt. Gram. § 94 b.]

6. Let those malignants who shall attack me from that quarter come upon the waters with the herbs.

7. Let those malignants who shall attack me from the northern quarter come upon Viṣvakarman with the seven seers.

In our text there has dropped out an accent-sign under va before śūṭīcyā.

8. Let those malignants who shall attack me from that quarter come upon Indra with the Maruts.

9. Let those malignants who shall attack me from the fixed quarter come upon Prajāpati with generative qualities.

10. Let those malignants who shall attack me from the upward quarter come upon Bṛhaspati with all the gods.

Verse 8 is properly bhurij (23 syllables). Verses 9 and 10 are each properly of 27 syllables; but by restoring elided initial a here and there (with regard to which the Anukr. appears to acknowledge no rule) the meters as defined can be made out.

19. For protection by various gods.

[Atharvan.—ekādaśakam. cāndramasam uta mantroktadevatyam. pāñkṭam: 1, 3, 9. bhurij brhātī; 10. svarāj; 2, 4-8, 11. anuṣṭubgarbhā.]

[Prose.] [Not found in Pāipp.] The comm. says that, besides the uses stated in connection with preceding hymns, the purohita is to accompany with this the entrance of the king in the night into his sleeping-house; and that it also appears in the ceremony of a king's entrance into his city.

Translated: Griffith, ii. 278.

1. Mitra ascended with the earth: to that stronghold I lead you forward; that enter ye into; that enter ye; let that yield (yam) you both refuge and defense.

The comm. declares that Mitra here means Agni.

2. Vāyu ascended with the atmosphere: to that stronghold etc. etc.

3. The sun ascended with the sky: to that stronghold etc. etc.

4. The moon ascended with the asterisms: to that stronghold etc. etc.

5. Soma ascended with the herbs : to that stronghold etc. etc.
6. The sacrifice ascended with the sacrificial gifts : to that stronghold etc. etc.
7. The ocean ascended with the streams : to that stronghold etc. etc.
8. The brāhman ascended with the Vedic students : to that stronghold etc. etc.

The comm. says that brāhman here means the Veda with the aṅgas.

9. Indra ascended with heroism : to that stronghold etc. etc.
10. The gods ascended with the immortal (amṛta) : to that stronghold etc. etc.
11. Prajāpati ascended with progeny : to that stronghold etc. etc.

The comm. explains ud akrāmat by yām purāṇ rakṣitum utkrāntavān, as antecedent of tām puram etc. The metrical definitions of the Anukr. are not worth comparing in detail.

20. For protection by various gods.

[Atharvan. — bahudevatyam. trīṣṭubham : 2. jagati ; 3. purastādbṛhati ; 4. anuṣṭubh.]

[Not found in Pāipp.] The comm. says, purely on his own authority, that with this hymn the purohita arms with a breastplate a king going to battle. [For the reference to vs. 4 in Kāuṣ. 25. 36 note, see above, introd. to viii. 5.]

Translated : Griffith, ii. 279.

[In Anukr. we miss caturṛcam.]

1. Have set down apart the human deadly weapon Indra-and-Agni, Dhātār, Savitar, Bṛihaspati, king Soma, Varuṇa, the Aṅvins, Yama ; let Pūshan protect us round about from death.

It is quite as likely that 'Soma' etc. in the second half-verse should be viewed as coördinate with Pūshan. The translation omits yām in a ; it seems probable that a is deeply corrupt. [Caland, KZ. xxxiv. 456, citing Avestan usage, takes pāśruṣeyāṇ vadhān yām as accusative of the crystallized combination pāśruṣeyo vadhō yāḥ which we had at i. 30. 1 : see note to xii. 2. 19. But W's suspicion is weighty.] All the mss. accent nyāddhus (the pada-mss. having, against all rule and practice, nyāddhuḥ, instead of niāddhuḥ or nt : adhuḥ), and SPP. follows them (in p. also) ; our nyāddhus is an emendation, apparently a necessary one—unless we can construe, with the comm., b-d as together constituting the apodosis : 'what means of death for men [our enemies] have fixed in secret—from [that] death let Indra-and-Agni etc. etc. protect us.' [Griffith : 'May Soma etc. guard us from Mṛityu—death caused by men, which Indra etc. appointed.'] The verse is far too irregular (11 + 12 : 12 + 9 = 44) to be called simply a trīṣṭubh.

2. What [defenses] he who is lord of creation, Prajāpati, Mātariṣvan, made for his creatures (prajā), what ones the directions and the quarters put on (vas)—let those defenses (vārman) be abundant (bahulā) for me.

The mss. accent vasatē [except several that have vasate] ; our emendation to vasāte is unquestionably called for, even though there are a few cases in RV. of such accent as vasatē [Gram. § 613]. The comm. etymologizes mātariṣvan as antarikṣe vāsati

'ti. [The verse is properly 12 + 11 : 11 + 11 : for ḍ has triṣṭubh cadence, and there are three possibilities of excising a syllable from its prior half.]

3. What [defense] those gods fastened on themselves, when fighting for overlordship, what defense Indra made for himself, let that protect us on all sides.

Pāda b is altogether corrupt; the translation implies the reading ādhirājyāya yodhī-naḥ, which differs a little from the emendation in our text, but which the Pet. Lex. assumes under ādhirājya. The mss. give (devā) 'dhirājayōdhekinah', which the pada-text analyzes into (deva :) ādhirāja : yāḥ : dhehi : naḥ (SPP. reports his pada-mss. as giving at the beginning devā, apparently by an oversight, as devā is no form*). The comm. has (devāḥ) dyurājayo (implying p. dyur-) dehinah, and this SPP. accepts, despite its unsatisfactory character; the comm. explains dyurājayas as divi dyuloke rājā-mānās, which is absurd, and adds that, since the wearing of armor implies a body (deha), the gods were embodied (dehinas), which is silly. The pada-mss. (and one of SPP's samhitā-mss.) strangely read sarvātas at the end instead of viśvātas; the comm. and both editions accept the latter; [and since W. notes nothing to the contrary, his D. presumably has viśvātaḥ]. The text, with b as translated, and with ca-kr-e in c [making 11 + 8 : 8 + 8], answers excellently to the definition of the Anukr. * [W. means, I take it, no form which is usable in this connection.]

4. Defense for me may heaven-and-earth, defense may day, defense may the sun, defense for me may all the gods make; let not the affrontress (? pratīkikā) reach me.

Some of the mss. leave pratīkikā accentless, and nearly all accent kṛān; both editions have kran and -kṛā. The comm. seems to read agnis instead of āhas in b, and mo for mā in d. The comm. paraphrases pratīkikā as catrusenā 'jñātapratīkikūlāṇcanā (ka being added to pratīcī "ajñātārthe"); the [minor] Pet. Lex. conjectures 'discomfort' (Ungemach); the translation above is of course only tentative. To be compared with the verse is viii. 5. 18 above; found also in AÇS. i. 2. 1, which has our a, b (but reading agnis with our comm.), and, for third pāda, varma me santū tiraçcikāḥ; and in Āp. xiv. 26. 1, with agnis in b, and, for c, d, varma me brahmaṇaspatir mā mā prāḥpad ato bhayam.

[Here ends the second anuvāka, with 11 hymns and 72 verses. If we counted hymn 16 as of 3 verses, there would be 73. Some mss. sum up the verses as 72, and thus support the numeration of hymn 16 as given by both editions (see p. 923).]

21. The meters.

[Brahman. — ekarcam. chāndasam. 1-av. 2-p. sāmīnī bṛhatī.]

[Prose.] [Not found in Pāipp.] The comm. finds the verse quoted by the appellation chandogana in Nakṣatra Kalpa 18. — [The Anukr. says: idam Brahmā chand-nukrāntivijñānāyā 'paçyat. — The meters are arranged, according to the number of their syllables, in an arithmetical progression ascending by a difference of 4. In VS. xiii. 33, all these and kakūbh are mentioned.]

Translated: Griffith, ii. 279.

1. Gāyatrī, uṣṇih, anuṣṭubh, bṛhatī, paṅkti, triṣṭubh-and-jagatī.

The mss. are at variance as to the use of any kampa-sign between the first two words. [The metrical definition (18 syllables) calls for the resolution gāyatrī uṣ-.]

SPP's authorities appear all (except one pada-ms., -tī) to read at the end jāgatyāi; ours vary between -tī, -tye, -tyāi, and -tyāu. The text of the comm. reads pañkti (instead of -tis), and, either with reason or on account of his usual disregard of accent, he takes the whole verse as a single compound word in the dative case, explaining it to mean gāyatrīyāi svāhā, uṣṇīhe svāhā, etc., and declaring it thus to contain seven mantras; and SPP. thinks this to be "doubtless" the original character of the line; it would be safer to say "perhaps," or "possibly," since the separate accentuation, the nominative form pañktis, and the division by the Anukr. into two pādas (in the pada-mss., after anuṣṭubh) all speak against it. The mss. accent triṣṭub jāgatyāi.

22. Homage to parts of the Atharva-Veda.

[Āṅgirasas. — ekaviṃṣati. mantroktadevatyam. 1. sāmny uṣṇih; 3, 19. prājāpatyā gāyatrī; 4, 7, 11, 17. dāivī jagatī; 5, 12, 13. dāivī triṣṭubh; 2, 6, 14-16, 20. dāivī pañkti; 8-10. āsuri jagatī; 18. āsury anuṣṭubh (1-20. 1-av.); 21. 4-p. triṣṭubh.]

[Verses 1-20, prose.] [Not found in Pāipp.] The comm. quotes from Nakṣatra Kalpa, 17, 18, to the effect that this hymn and the following (together called sanāsa) are to be used in the great appeasement-ceremony called āṅgirasā, by one who seeks success as practising or suffering witchcraft. [Cf. introd. to next hymn.]

Translated: Griffith, ii. 279; vs. 21 also by Ludwig, p. 219.

1. With the first five anuvāks of the Āṅgirasas, hail!

It is very strange that the instrumental case is used here, instead of the dative, which is used everywhere else through this hymn and the next. [Conversely, note the use of the abl.-dat. form mādbhyas, below, 27. 2 c, where we expect the instrumental, as in the other pādas.]

2. To the sixth, hail!
3. To the seventh-and-eighth, hail!
4. To the black claws, hail!
5. To the green ones, hail!

Two of our mss. (O.D.) accent with our text hāritebhyas; SPP. reads haritebhyas, with (apparently) all his authorities and nearly all of ours.

6. To the petty ones, hail!
7. To them of the paryāyas, hail!
8. To the first conchs, hail!
9. To the second conchs, hail!
10. To the third conchs, hail!

In 9 and 10, SPP. accents, with all the mss., dvitīyebhyas and trītyebhyas; we have not hesitated to make the necessary emendations to -tye-. [The false accent is perhaps a blundering assimilation to that of prathamēbhyas: cf. notes to vss. 13 and 14, and especially to xviii. 3. 47. — Two of W's later collated mss., D.L., have rightly -tye-.]

11. To the next to the last ones, hail!
12. To the last ones, hail!
13. To the further ones, hail!

SPP. again follows the mss. in accenting uttarēbhyas; [again a blundering assimilation to the accent of uttamēbhyas, vs. 12].

14. To the seers, hail!

Here also we emended the accent [to ṛṣibhyas, which W's D.L. indeed give]; but SPP. has, with the mss., ṛṣibhyas. [For the rationale of the blunder (due to ṛṣibhyas, vs. 15), cf. notes to vss. 10 and 13 and note to xviii. 3. 47.]

15. To the peaked ones (? ṣikḥin), hail!

Here the mss. vary between ṣikḥibhyas and ṛṣibhyas.

16. To the gaṇds, hail!17. To the great gaṇds, hail!18. To all the gaṇd-knowing (??) Aṅgirasas, hail!

It is altogether likely that vidagaṇā either never meant anything or is a corrupt reading; the translation is given merely in order not to leave the word untranslated.

19. To the two thousands severally, hail!

20. To the brāhman (?), hail!

SPP. reads brahmāṇe, and mentions no disagreement among his authorities; all but one or two of ours have the same, and our text might probably have been better left to read so; but the accentuation of the mss. is wholly unauthoritative, and the distinction here also of no manner of importance. The comm. understands brahmāṇe. [I think brāhmanē is to be preferred for the reason given at p. 932, line 7.] The numbers of syllables in the verses agree throughout with those demanded by the definitions of the Anukr.

It is a great disappointment to find that the designations given in this hymn to the various parts or elements of the Atharvan text are just as much a puzzle to the commentator as they are to us, so that he does not even venture to conjecture a meaning for them. He understands the authors rather than the mantras to be meant as the recipients of the homage. His whole comment follows: atra viṇcatikāṇḍātmikāyām asyām ṣikḥāyām vidyamānānuvākasūktagaṇaviṣeṣādisamjñārūpāḥ ṣabdāir anuvākhadidraṣṭāra etannāmāna ṛṣayaḥ pratipādyante: nilanakḥadisūktaviṣeṣānām prasiddhatvāt tāni viṣeṣato na pradarṣitāni: brahmane svāhe 'ti brahmaṣabdena viṇcatikāṇḍātmakavedavācakena tasya draṣṭā brahmākhyā ṛṣiḥ pratipādyate: anyat sarvaṁ nigadavyākhyātam. It sounds like a bad joke that he calls nilanakha etc. 'familiarily known.' That anuvāka is used in vs. 1 in the same sense as in the present division of the text seems very unlikely.

21. Heroisms [were] gathered with the brāhman as chief; the brāhman as chief in the beginning stretched the sky; the Brahman was born as first of creatures; therefore (tēna) who is fit to contend with the Brahman?

Or (in d) 'with that (tēna) Brahman.' SPP's text of the verse agrees with ours save that he accents in d brāhmanā with the mss., and has in c prathamō 'tā (p. -māḥ: utā, though the pada-mss. read -mā: utā); the text of the comm. has -mō 'tā here, but -mō 'tā in the verse repeated as 23. 30; the emendation in our text to -mō ha is plainly the easiest way out of the difficulty. The pada-mss. divide at the beginning, with remarkable absence of intelligence, brāhma: jyeṣṭhā, or jyeṣṭhā; half the samhitā-mss. also accent jyeṣṭhā; finally, the pada-mss., with incredible folly, divide at the end spārdāhi: tumkāḥ! SPP. holds that the verse must have originally had brāhman throughout (four times), and gives in his note a text of it in that form (but with prathamō 'tā in c); but it is far from improbable that brāhman was used in the first half-verse and brahmān in the second, as in our text. Indeed, in a corresponding verse in TB. (ii. 4. 7¹⁰), brāhman [more appropriately, it would seem, if I am right in supposing that vss. 29 and 30 of hymn 23 refer to the Brahmadeva: cf. p. 932, l. 3] is used every time: brāhmanajyeṣṭhā (its commentary takes this as vocative) vīryā sambhṛtāni brāhmā 'gre jyeṣṭhaṁ dīvaṁ ā tatāna: ṛtāsyā brāhma prathamā 'tā (! its comment paraphrases by simply prathamām) jajñe tēnā 'rhati brāhmaṇā spārdhitum kāḥ. Our comm. gives a second explanation of brahmanajyeṣṭhā as = brahmaṇā jyeṣṭhena, the case-ending of the former word being omitted, as well as the in part of that of the second!

23. Homage to parts of the Atharva-Veda.

[Atharvan. — triṇṇat. mantroktiadevatyam uta cāndramasam. 1. āsurī brhātī; 2-7, 20, 23, 27. dāivī triṣṭubh; 8, 10-12, 14-16. prājāpatyā gāyatrī; 17, 19, 21, 24, 25, 29. dāivī pañkti; 9, 13, 18, 22, 26, 28. dāivī jagatī; (1-29. 1-av.).]

[Verses 1-29, prose.] [Not found in Pāipp.] The application of the hymn, as defined by the comm., was given with the one preceding.

As in the case of the preceding hymn, the comm. to all the verses is given together at the end. Its main parts are given below under the separate verses. It further declares that by the words ekarca to daṣarca are designated the ṛṣis named Atharvan, and by those from ekādaṣarca to viṇṇatī are designated the ārṣeyas named Atharvaṇa; and it quotes as authority the beginning of i. i. 5 of the Gopatha Brāhmaṇa.

[With regard to this hymn in general, and leaving books xix. and xx. out of account in the statements that follow: in the first place it is clear that the books of the third grand division of the AV., books xiii.-xviii. (see p. 708), are intended by verses 23-28 respectively (see under the verses below and see the introductions to the several books).]

[In the second place it is clear that the hymns of the books (but not the books themselves severally) of the first grand division of the AV., books i.-vii. (see p. 388), are intended to be covered by verses 1-15 and 19 and 20 (between 19 and 20 we miss the divyrcabhyāḥ which the commentator's text has). In this connection it is significant that vs. 1 begins with homage "to them of four verses," which is the norm of our first book, and not with homage "to them of one verse" — see the first table on p. 388. Moreover, as appears from the table on p. cxliv, the first grand division contains a hymn or hymns of every number of verses from 4 verses to 18 verses (mostly in books i.-v.) and from 1 verse to 3 verses (exclusively in books vi. and vii.). Again, while there is in the first grand division (and only there) one hymn or more of every number of verses from 1 verse to 18 verses, it is interesting to note that there is, in the whole AV. (books i.-xviii. or even i.-xix.), not one hymn of 19 verses, nor yet one of 20 verses (cf. p. 471 top): and of this fact account seems to be taken in so far as the form of our verses 16 and 17 differs from that of the 15 preceding.]

[Thirdly, the books of the second grand division of the AV. (books viii.-xii.) consist of hymns of over 20 verses (p. 471, top). There is, therefore, in all our present hymn, no special reference to this division, unless it be in verse 18, which may accordingly mean 'To the division (kāṇḍa) of great (mahant) [hymns], hail,' and refer to books viii.-xii. It is not impossible that a Hindu might use kāṇḍa to signify a 'division' comprising several books and tantamount to one of our so-called "grand divisions" (see my note to vs. 18). Against my view, I might well object that dirgha would be a more appropriate adjective than mahant for the 'long' individual hymns of which the division consists; but, per contra, if the difference between mahadguṇa and mahāguṇa be a valid parallel, the text ought, if it means 'great book,' to read mahākāṇḍāya. A graver objection to my view, perhaps, is the position of vs. 18, which, if I were or am right, ought to come between verse 20 and verse 23.]

[Fourthly, verses 29 and 30 doubtless refer to this Veda as a whole, to the Brahman-veda, or to the incantations (brāhman) which form its subject-matter. After writing this, I note that Bloomfield in the Grundriss, p. 40, note 7, expresses an opinion similar, but much less specific. If I am right, brāhman is to be preferred to brahmān in these two verses, as also in vss. 20–21 of the preceding hymn: cf. the T.B. vs. cited under 21. 21. On the other hand, I ought not to pass in silence the fact that the Anukr., at the beginning of its treatment of book xix., seems to call book xix. the brahmakāṇḍa.]

[Finally, therefore, aside from verse 18, just discussed, and assuming that verses 16 and 17 were added (in genuine Hindu fashion) merely for schematic completeness, we have only to note that all the verses of the hymn are reasonably accounted for, save only verses 21 and 22.]

[See pages cl, clvii, clix.]

Translated: Griffith, ii. 280.

1. To them of four verses of the Ātharvaṇas, hail!
2. To them of five verses, hail!
3. To them of six verses, hail!

All the saṃhitā-mss. read ṣaḍarc-, and two of SPP's pada-mss. ṣaḍarc-; both editions ṣaḍrc-, with the comm. and three pada-mss. The Gop.Br. has ṣaḍarc- in i. 1. 5.

4. To them of seven verses, hail!
5. To them of eight verses, hail!
6. To them of nine verses, hail!
7. To them of ten verses, hail!
8. To them of eleven verses, hail!
9. To them of twelve verses, hail!
10. To them of thirteen verses, hail!
11. To them of fourteen verses, hail!
12. To them of fifteen verses, hail!
13. To them of sixteen verses, hail!
14. To them of seventeen verses, hail!
15. To them of eighteen verses, hail!
16. Nineteen: hail!
17. Twenty: hail!

In these two verses, some of the mss. read -ṣatt sv-; the text of the comm. has -ṣatyāt, which would be an improvement; and two of SPP's reciters give the same. [But cf. p. 931, ¶ 6, end.]

18. To the great book (mahat-kāṇḍā), hail!

[All of W's and of SPP's mss., and the reciters as well, give mahat, not mahā; but the comm. appears to read mahā, and to say that it means the 'entire Veda of twenty books': mahākāṇḍāye 'ti ṣabdena viṃśatikāṇḍāt makakṛtsnavedavācinā; and this seems to support my suggestion that a Hindu might use kāṇḍa of a group of kāṇḍas: cf. ¶ 5 of introduction, above. Weber suggested at Ind. Stud. iv. 433 that mahatkāṇḍa might mean book xx.; but in a later volume (xviii. 154), that book v. might be intended.]

[See pages clvii–viii.]

19. To them of three verses, hail !

Between this verse and the next, the commentator's text inserts dvyyrcebhyaḥ svāhā.

20. To them of one verse, hail !

21. To the petty ones, hail !

[See page clviii top.]

This is a repetition of 22.6 above, and after it the commentator's text adds 22.7.

22. To them of a half-verse, hail !

All the mss., and the comm., have here ekānṛcebhyaḥ (p. eka-anṛc-), and SPP. follows them. Our ekadvyrcebhyaḥ (misprinted ekadvyr-) was meant as an emendation, but is hardly successful. What ekānṛc- should mean does not appear; the translation simply follows the comm., for lack of anything better.

23. To the ruddy ones (rohita), hail !

The mss. [except W's O.D., which have rōh-], and hence also SPP., accent here rohitēbhyaḥ. The comm. remarks that in this and the following verses the books intended are clear. This, of course, means book xiii. [which is designated by rohitāis at Kāuṣ. 99.4.]

24. To the two Sūryās, hail !

That is, to the two parts (anuvākas) of the book beginning with the Sūryā-hymn (xiv.).

25. To the two Vṛātyas, hail !

Again the two anuvākas of the Vṛātya-book (xv.). [Both ed's read vṛātyābhyaṁ, with all the authorities, save W's D.L., which have vṛātyā-. The minor Pet. Lex., vi. 189, notes vṛātyā as an adj. to vṛātya: hence, rather, 'To the two [anuvākas] about the vṛātya, hail!' See my note, p. 770, ¶ 3.]

26. To the two of Prajāpati, hail !

The two anuvākas of book xvi. are evidently intended, though why they are called prajāpati is difficult to say. [The Major Anukr. calls the whole book prajāpati, as noted p. 792, ¶ 4.] The Old Anukr. quoted in the endings says at the end of xvi. 4 prajāpatyo ha catuṣkaḥ, [. . .] saptakaḥ paraḥ: i.e. 'the [first] Prajāpati-anuvāka has four hymns [or paryāyas]; the [paryāya] next after [2 and 3: i.e. paryāya 4] is one of seven verses.' [For the probable relative position and the significance of these extracts, see p. 792 (¶ 5)–793.]

27. To the viśāsaht, hail !

The seventeenth book begins with the word viśāsaht; and this time the comm. takes the trouble to specify that "the seventeenth kāṇḍa" is intended. [Cf. p. 805, ¶ 1.]

28. To them of good omen (māṅgalikā), hail !

This, from its position, ought to signify book xviii.; the comm. says nothing about it; his text reads māṅg-. [That the funeral book is held to be most inauspicious appears from SPP's preface to his ed., vol. i., p. 4, p. 5, and especially p. 2. To call the book auspicious is a euphemism such as is familiar in the case of the dreadful god Śiva.]

One of our mss. (I.) inserts after this verse five others which do not appear to occur elsewhere, as SPP. does not mention them: nākṣatralpāya svāhā. 29. vāttānakal-pāya svāhā. 30. çāntikalpāya svāhā. 31. aṅgirasakalpāya svāhā. 32. sāmhitāvidhaye svāhān. 33. Our 29 then follows, in the form tulibrahmāṇe svāhā, and our 30 as given in all the mss.: brāhmaṇeṣṭhē 'ty ēkā. [The foregoing are the readings of the Collation Book: apart from the accents, they require correction, I suppose, to āṅgīrasa- and samhitā.]

29. To the brāhman, hail!

See above, 22. 20, with which this is identical. This time, two of our mss. [and three of SPP's] have brāhmaṇe; the others, and SPP's text, read brahmāṇe. [As to the meaning, see introduction, p. 932, ¶ 2.]

30. Heroisms were gathered with the brāhman as chief; the brāhman as chief in the beginning stretched the sky; the Brahman was born as first of creatures; therefore who is fit to contend with the Brahman?

This is a repetition of 22. 21 above; the commentator's text apparently gives it in full, as SPP. notes that (doubtless only by an accident) it reads this time in c prathamā 'tha.

24. For prosperity: with a certain garment.

[Atharvan.—aṣṭāu. mantroktabahu devatyam uta brāhmaṇaspatyam. ānuṣṭubham: 4-6, 8. triṣṭubh; 7. 3-p. ūrṣi gāyatrī.]

The hymn, except vs. 2, is found also in Pāipp. xv. The comm. points out that it is prescribed by Nakṣatra Kalpa 17-18 to be used in a mahācānti ceremony called tvāṣṭrī, on occasion of the loss (kṣaya) of a garment.

Translated: Ludwig, p. 458; Griffith, ii. 281.

1. With what [garment] the gods caused to wrap god Savitar, with that, O Brahmanaspati, do ye wrap this man in order to royalty.

The translation implies emendation in b of adhārayan to adhāpāyan; this, obviously suggested by the whole sense of the hymn (and proposed in the Pet. Lex.), is supported by the Ppp. text, which reads devā 'dhyāpāyan. The comm. reads -dhār, but explains it as if it were -dhāp: paritaḥ sarvata ācchādayan. Many of the mss. have adhārayan, unaccented. The comm. quotes TS. vi. 1. 14, to the effect that "this same garment belongs to all the gods," to explain why the verb in the second half-verse is plural.

2. Wrap ye this man [as] Indra in order to life-time, to great dominion, that [it] may conduct him unto old age; may he long watch over dominion.

All the mss., both here and in the next verse, read at end of c nayām, which SPP. therefore accepts, although both form and accent are indefensible; the comm. has both times naya; the translation implies our emendation to nayāt, the propriety of which can hardly be questioned, especially as it is supported by a corresponding verse three times repeated, with variations, in HGS. i. 4. 8: pari 'mam indra brahmaṇe mahe crotreya (or rāṣṭrēya, or poṣāya) dadhmasi: athāt 'naṁ jarimā nayej jyok crotre (or rāṣṭre, or poṣe) adhi jāgarat: of these three forms, the first is intended for a Brahman, the second for a Kṣatriya, the third for a Vāiṣya: compare our next verse. The comm., [in 2 a and 3 a, appears to have had before him indramāyuse and somamāyuse, whatever his accentuation and pada-text may have been: this he understands as indra mā

"yuse and soma mā "yuse, his vocative indra] agreeing with HGS. and giving an easier and better text; [his mā goes easily as an appositive with inām, but the following enam is quite out of joint with it].

3. Wrap ye this man [as] Soma in order to life-time, to great instruction (grōtra), that [it] may conduct him unto old age; may he long watch over instruction.

It is perhaps only by an accident that vs. 2 is omitted in Ppp.; at any rate, this verse shows what would have been read for verse 2 by it: it has somam, not soma, in a;* and naya, with the comm., in c; further, in a it gives pare 'man'. * [Strictly speaking, it has somamāyuse, with a possibility for the same objectionable division as appears under vs. 2, which see.]

4. Wrap, set ye him for us with splendor; make him one to die of old age; [make] long life-time; Bṛhaspati furnished (pra-yam) this garment to king Soma for wrapping himself.

This is a repetition of ii. 13. 2, above. The comm. mentions that the verse has been already explained where it first occurred, but adds: "the sense, however, is compendiously this," and proceeds to give the same exposition over again, word for word (unless, indeed, the editor is responsible for the repetition). For the parallel passages etc., see the note to ii. 13. 2.

5. Go thou safely (sū) unto old age; wrap thyself in the garment; become thou protector of the people (?) against imprecation; and live thou a hundred numerous autumns; and wrap further about (upa-sam-vyā) thee abundance of wealth.

[The verse is found in PGS. (i. 4. 12), HGS. (i. 4. 2), and MP. (ii. 2. 7). In a, PGS. omits sū, while HGS.MP. have jarām gacchāsi; in b, all three texts read gr̥ṣṭinām and abhiçastipāvā; all three end c with suvarcās; and PGS. has for d rayinī ca putrān anu samvayayasva, adding āyusmatī 'dam paridhatsva vāsaḥ.] In b, the translation follows Ppp. [and the three texts just cited] in reading gr̥ṣṭinām 'people' instead of the absurd gr̥ṣṭinām 'heifers,' which is given by all the mss. and the comm., both here and in the nearly accordant verse ii. 13. 3: see note to ii. 13. 3 [and cf. Roth, ZDMG. xlviii. 110]. The comm. is driven by the reading gr̥ṣ- into taking abhiçasti- from ças 'cut': abhiito viçasanam hiṁsā. [Our abhiçastipā u, at the end of b in vss. 5 and 6, would seem, in view of the -pāvā of the other texts, to be a faulty assimilation to the end of d in vs. 4, paridhātavā u, such as may be found elsewhere.]

6. Thou hast wrapped thyself in this garment in order to well-being; thou hast become protector of thine allies (?) against imprecation; and live thou a hundred numerous autumns; living, pleasant (cāru), thou shalt share out good things.

The translation implies in b abhar āpinām [see below], or else an analysis of the ms. reading vāpinām [misprinted vap- in foot-note of Berlin ed.] into u and āpinām (the pada-mss. have abhar: vāpinām). The vaçānam of our text* is a conjecture provoked by the gr̥ṣṭinām of vs. 5; as that is got rid of, this naturally falls away also. The comm. has again gr̥ṣṭinām, and this time interprets abhiçasti- as a fear on the part of the 'heifers' of losing their skins (tvagādānabhiti [cf. note to ii. 13. 3])! The Ppp.

text appears to give us no variants. The HGS. has a corresponding verse (in i. 4. 3), reading in a, b adhi dhāh [one ms. correctly 'dhithāh'] svastaye 'bhūx āpīnām† abhiçastī-pāvā: and, for d, vasūni cāyyo vi bhajā sa jīvan; the variant to cārus, taken in connection with the small appropriateness of cārus, makes its genuineness suspicious. [MP., at ii. 2. 8, also has āpīnām; and it agrees otherwise with HGS., save that it has dhā for dhāh, cāryo for cāyyo, and vī bhajāsi (agreeing with AV.). Kirste, in his note to HGS., p. 8, mentions as further variants cāyo and cārye. MB., at i. 1. 6, has c, ending with suvarcās, and d, reading cārye.] * [Misprinted vaçānām.] † [One ms. correctly āpīnām.] [See page xxxvi, note.]

7. We, companions, call to aid Indra the very mighty at every conjuncture, in every contest (? vāja).

This verse is, without variant, RV. i. 30. 7; also found in SV. (i. 163; ii. 93), VS. (xi. 14), TS. (in iv. 1. 2'), MS. (in ii. 7. 2), [MP. i. 6. 3]. Sākhāyas, in c, which might be either nominative or vocative, the comm. prefers to take as nominative.

8. Of golden color, unaging, of excellent heroes, having old age as death, do thou enter into union (saṁ-viç) with progeny: this Agni says, and this Soma says, this Bṛhaspati, Savitar, Indra.

The second half-verse we had above as viii. 5. 5 a, b [which see; and pāda c occurred at xvi. 9. 2]; the comm. does not notice the repetition. He explains saṁ viça as used in the sense of nirviça 'enjoy'; or else, he says, of praviça = svagrham adhiṣṭha. Ppp. reads in a ajayas suv.

25. To a horse.

[Gopatha.—ekarcam. vājidevatyam. ānuṣṭubham.]

The verse is not found in Pāipp. The comm. finds it quoted in Nakṣ. K. 17–18, in a mahāçānti ceremony called gāndharvī, on occasion of the loss (kṣaya) of a horse.

Translated: Griffith, ii. 282.

1. I harness (yui) thee with the mind of one that is unwearied and that is first; be thou an up-carrier uphill; having carried up, then run thou back.

The real sense of the hymn is very obscure; neither the vinīyoga nor the comm. casts any light upon it. [SPP. regards the comm. as taking utkūlamudvaho as one word;] the comm. reads bhavas for bhava: and he explains the phrase simply by atidrpto bhava. Instead of uduhya, the comm. has duhīya (= çatrujayalakṣaṇāni phalāni labhēya). SPP. accents ūtūlām, with all the mss.; our alteration to utkūlām is not sufficiently motived; the minor Pet. Lex. has utkūlām, which is more in accordance with general analogies. Fully half the mss. accent ūduhya. In our text, bhāva (in c) is a misprint for bhava (an accent-mark fallen out).

26. For long life etc.: with something golden.

[Atharvan.—caturṛcam. āgneyam; hāiranyam. trāiṣṭubham: 3. anuṣṭubh; 4. pathyāpāṇkti.]

Of this hymn only vs. 4 is found in Pāipp. (in xx.). The comm. finds it used in Nakṣ. K. 17, 19, in a mahāçānti ceremony called āgneyī, on occasion of danger from fire, with the insertion of a golden earring; further, in Parig. 11. 1, in a tulāpuruṣa ceremony.

Translated: Grill, 49, 192; Griffith, ii. 283; Bloomfield, 63, 668.

1. The gold that, born out of the fire, immortal, maintains itself over mortals — whoso knows it, he verily merits (ark) it; one that dies of old age becomes he who wears (bhr) it.

SPP. accents at the end bībhārti, with the great majority of the mss. (the same also in 2 d); our preference for bībhārti was because only this accent is found elsewhere in AV. Most of the mss. accent ēnad in c. The masculine enam in c is surprising, as no hint of anything masculine is met with elsewhere in the hymn; the comm. explains it as anvādiṣṭam hiranyarūpam padārtham. In a corresponding verse (6) found in a khila of the RV. (to x. 128) is read instead enad (one ms. vedam), which is more likely to be the true text. The same has in b jajñe for dadhre. The Anukr. takes no notice of the redundant syllable in c.

2. The gold, of beauteous color by the sun, that men (mānu) of old with their progeny sought — that, shining (candrā), shall unite thee with splendor; of long life becomes he who wears it.

Very nearly all the mss. read īṣiré at end of b; but both editions, and the comm., give īṣiré. The majority of mss. also accent pūrva. SPP. reads at end of c srjati, with all the authorities (save his P., which has srjāti)*; both sense and meter so plainly call for srjāti that we adopted it as an emendation in our text; the comm. reads srjatu. As to bībhārti at the end, see note to vs. 1. *[W's P.M. have srjasvā "yu-.]

3. For life-time thee, for splendor thee, and for force and for strength — that with brilliancy of gold thou mayest shine out among the people.

The comm. reads in c hiranyam tej. The comm. supplies in a, b saṁ srjatu to each noun, as if they were in the instrumental case, which is plainly wrong. Probably the 'thee' of the first line is different from the 'thou' of the second, being addressed to the article of gold itself.

[The comm. (as noted) and the text of the comm. have hiranyam tejasā; but all the other authorities are agreed as to the accentuation hiranyatījasā; which, however, is inherently improbable (Gram. § 1267 b), if, with the pada-text, we take the combination as one compound word. Both mss. and comm. and accent all point the other way, and we have doubtless to assume as pada-reading hiranya : tejasā, as two words, of which the first is vocative; and, but for our blundering pada-kāra, this is just what our saṁhitā-reading would naturally be taken to mean. The comm. understands 'thee' as referring to the man who wears the gold amulet; but the whole verse gains in concinnity, if we refer 'thee' (with W.) to the amulet itself, and supply with the first half the verb badhnāmi (as at i. 35. 1 c; iv. 10. 7 c; xix. 46. 1 c, d), and take the second half also as addressed to the amulet.]

4. What king Varuṇa knows, [what] divine Bṛihaspati knows, what Indra the Vṛitra-slayer knows, — may that be for thee life-giving, may that be for thee splendor-giving.

Next after the verse already quoted (under vs. 1) from the RV. khila, occurs another corresponding to this, but having for b yad u devī sarasvatī, and for d tan me vārcasā āyuṣe, and lacking a fifth pāda. Ppp. has in b yad u divo bṛh, puts yad before indras in c, and has for d, and for end of the verse, tac cittaṁ cittaṁ arhaṇam.

[Here ends the third anuvāka, with 6 hymns and 65 verses.]

27. For protection etc. : with a triple amulet.

[Bhṛgvaṅgīras. — pañcadaçakam. trivṛddavatyaṃ uta cāndramasam. ānuṣṭubham : 3, 9. triṣṭubh; 10. jagati [? see under the verse]; 11. ārcy uṣṇih; 12. ārcy anuṣṭubh; 13. sāmnī triṣṭubh (11-13. 1-av.)]

Found (except verses 12 and 13) also in Pāipp. x. The comm. quotes from the Nakṣ. K. (17, 19) its use, in a mahāçanti called prājāpatyā, by one desiring progeny and cattle, and in case of the loss of progeny, with the binding on of an amulet made of three metals, gold and silver and copper.

Translated : Griffith, ii. 283.

1. Let the bull (ṛṣabha) protect thee with the kine; let the virile one (vṛjan) protect thee with the vigorous ones (vājīn); let Vāyu protect thee with brāhman; let Indra protect thee with Indra's powers (? indriya).

The comm. reads in a ṛṣabhas.* In b, he naturally understands horses as intended, and connects vājīn with the root vij (vājibhir vejanavadbhiḥ çighragatibhir açvāḥ). Of brāhman he gives three different and equally worthless explanations. To indriya he says indriyāny atre 'ndrasṛṣānt 'ndrajuṣṭāni vā, which gives us no help. * [But the text of the comm. has pātv ṛṣabhas.]

2. Let Soma protect thee with the herbs; let the sun protect with the asterisms; [let] the moon, Vṛitra-slayer, [protect] [thee] from the months; let the wind defend with breath.

All the mss. without exception read in c mādbhyas, instead of the mādbhis which we should have expected, and which the comm. has. It seems like a blundering confusion of the two cases (the reverse of that in 22. 1, above). The comm. makes nakṣatra here refer to the planets, most unnecessarily; he reads in d rakṣati, but glosses it with rakṣatu.

3. They call the heavens (dīu) three, the earths three, the atmospheres three, the oceans four, the song of praise (stōma) triple, the waters triple: let these triple ones defend thee with the triple ones.

In Ppp., b and c have apparently dropped out, and d is made to end with trivṛtās trivṛtibhiḥ. The mss. vary between trivṛtā (which both editions read), trivṛtās, and trivṛtāt; the translation implies trivṛtas, which the comm. has, and which is pretty evidently the intent of the verse; [cf. vs. 9 d, below]. The mss. to a great extent read trv- instead of triv-, as in other like cases. In a in our text, emend to tisrāp. We need to combine trivṛtā "pa ā- in c to make a good triṣṭubh. [I doubt if it is a triṣṭubh. To reckon trīni to pāda a is very harsh. I suspect we have to pronounce prthvīs in a, and to read and pronounce trīny antārikṣā in b. Thus the verse scans as 8 + 11 : 11 + 11.]

4. The three firmaments (nāka), the three oceans, the three bright ones (bradhna), the three at the summit (? vāṣṭapā), the three Mātariçvans, the three suns, do I arrange (kṛp) as thy guardians.

Nearly all the mss. read in a nākaṣ, and a part also bradhnaṣ.* The comm. has badhnān, and [some of] our mss. also badh, although SPP. strangely appears to find no badh among his authorities. The pāda-mss. give nākam and [some of them] bradhna.

Some mss. accent mātāriṣ- in c, and read goptrīn in d. All these are of the superficial variety of discordant readings which swarm in this book, and have no real importance. The comm. explains his badhnān thus: trin badhnān badhnaḥ sarvasya bandha ādhāra-bhūta ādityaḥ, in which he shows himself equal to the occasion after precisely his own fashion. The Anukr. takes no notice of the metrical irregularity ($7 + 7 : 9 + 7 = 30$). [Roth notes expressly that Ppp. reads vāṣṭapān.] * [Cf. note to 13.8 above, and to 28.2; also Müller's 1st quarto ed. of RV., vol. i., preface, p. xii; and Pischel, Gram. der Prakrit-sprachen, § 83.]

5. With ghee do I sprinkle thee all over, O Agni, increasing thee with sacrificial butter; of fire, of moon, of sun, let not the wily ones damage the breath.

The comm. takes the liberty of filling out c, d so as to mean "by the favor of the fire etc. . . thy breath, O man that wearest the threefold amulet." Some of SPP's mss. read in a ukhyāmi and uksyāmi.

6. Let not the wily ones damage your breath, nor your expiration nor flame (? hāras); shining, all-possessing, run ye, O gods, with what is of the gods.

The translation implies emendation of devās in d to dēvās; the comm. understands dēvās, but doubtless only by his customary disregard of the accent. He understands vas in a [alternatively] as plur. majest. of the king on whom the amulet is bound, and haras in b as ṣaṭrubalāpahārakaṁ tejas. To dāvryena in d he supplies rathādinaṁ sādhanena vegena vā. We are tempted to emend at the end to dāvryenā "dhāvata"; Ppp. reads māvata for dhāvata.

7. One unites Agni with breath; the wind is combined with breath; with breath the gods generated the sun that faces all ways. [See p. xxxvi, n.]

All the mss. (save one of SPP's, which has -jāti) read srjati in a, and, as the meter favors it, it might better stand (our text emended to -anti). Ppp. gives for a prāṇenā 'gnim saṁ dadhata, and [reads and] combines at the end [suryam] devā 'janayan.

8. Live thou with the life-time of the life-time-makers; live as one long-lived; do not die; live with the breath of the soulful (ātmanvānt); do not come under the control of death.

Nearly all the mss. read in a āyurkṣīṭām, and SPP. follows them, although the comm. gives -uṣk-. In c, both the editions emended to ātmanvāntām, all the mss. having ātmavāntām (p. ātmavāntām !); the comm. appears to imply -nvatām in his explanation, though (according to SPP.) his text also has -ivatām. Nearly all [SPP's authorities] accent after it jīvā; both editions read jīva, [SPP.] on very slender authority. Our ūpa gās in d is an emendation, for the ūd agās of the mss., SPP., and the comm.; the change was demanded by the requirements both of grammar and of the sense; and Ppp. supports it, reading ūpa gā v-.

9. The treasured (ni-dhā) treasure of the gods that Indra discovered by roads that the gods travel—the gold did the waters guard with triple ones; let those triple ones defend thee with the triple ones.

The last pāda is a repetition of 3 d, and has the same readings as there in mss.,* editions, and comm. Instead of indro 'nv- in a, b the mss. give indrā 'nv- (p. indra : anu-); but this time SPP. also, as well as we, emends to the former reading, which is that of the comm. [Nidhitū devānām nihitām yām indraḥ would be good rhythm.] * [Or nearly so; but trivṛtā of 3 is here trivṛtā.]

10. Thirty-three deities and three heroisms guarded [it] within the waters, holding [it] dear; what gold there is upon this shining one (? candrā), therewith shall this man do heroisms.

All the mss. read in b prīḍyāmāṇā (p. prīḍya : māṇā /); but here again SPP. has the courage to follow us in emending to prīḍyāmāṇās (p. prīḍyāmāṇāḥ), since the comm. so understands it; it is only a question whether in pada-text-māṇā should not rather be read, as agreeing with the nearer of the two nouns; the comm. takes it as fem. (prīyam ivā "carantyaḥ"). The Anukr. is curiously confused here; after correctly defining the verse devānām nihitām as a triṣṭubh, it proceeds to define āpo hiranyam juguḥṣa as a jagati, and takes no note of trayastrīṇaḍ devatāḥ as a pratika. Probably there is a quid pro quo here, by a slip of memory; but one does not see how this highly irregular* verse (13 + 11 : 10 + 11 = 45) should be called simply a jagati. [With a, cf. 37. 1 c, below.] * [Possibly we have to substitute the older grammatical equivalent in a, trī ca vṛyā (cf. 3 b); a "stī before ādhi would mend c.]

11. Ye, O gods, that are eleven in the sky, do ye, O gods, enjoy this oblation.

12. Ye, O gods, that are eleven in the atmosphere, do ye, O gods, enjoy this oblation.

13. Ye, O gods, that are eleven on the earth, do ye, O gods, enjoy this oblation.

With these three verses corresponds RV. i. 139. 11 : yé devāso divy ékādaça sthā prīṭhyāṁ dāhy ékādaça sthā : apsukṣhito mahināl 'kādaça sthā té devāso yajñām imām juṣadhvam; VS. vii. 19 precisely agrees with this; MS. (in i. 3. 13) reads devās in a; TS. (in i. 4. 10) reads devās in both a and d [and apsuṣādo in c]. The comm's text inserts in vs. 11 divyās after devās.

14. Freedom from rivals in front, behind us [is] fearlessness made; Savitar [protect] me on the south, the lord of Çachī me on the north.

15. From the sky let the Ādityas defend me, from the earth let the fires defend; let Indra-and-Agni defend me in front; let the Aṣvins yield refuge round about; crosswise let the inviolable [cow], let Jātavedas, defend [me]; let the being-makers be my defense on all sides.

These two verses are a repetition of 16. 1, 2 above, and in our mss., as usual, are read simply thus : asapatnām purāstād tī dvé. The Anukr. does not repeat its definition of their meter; inasmuch as it reckons the hymn as of fifteen verses, it plainly takes the addition here as of two verses only; the comm., however, again counts three, making of [our 15 a, b] a separate verse*; [cf. notes to 16. 2]. In general, the comm. does not comment for the second time a repeated passage; here, however, he gives a full explanation, as if it were the first appearance of the verses; and in 14 b (perhaps merely by an oversight?) he reads me instead of nas. * [The comm. in fact takes our vss. 11-13 as one vs., his 11; our 14 as his 12; our 15 ab as his 13; and our 15 c-f as his 14. Or, he says, we may take our 14 with 15 ab as one mantra. He reads agnis again in our e as in 16. 2 e.]

28. For various blessings: with an amulet of darbhā.

[Brahman (sapatnakṣayakāmaḥ). — daçakam. mantroktadarbhamaṇidevatyam. ānuṣṭubham.]

The hymn is found also in Pāipp. xiii., with very few variants. The comm. finds it [or rather the whole triad of hymns, 28, 29, 30] used by the Nakṣ. K. [17, 19] in a mahāçānti ceremony called āindrī, with binding on of a darbha amulet, by one desiring victory and the like.

Translated: Griffith, ii. 285.

1. I bind for thee this amulet, in order to long life, to brilliancy — the darbhā, damager of rivals, burner (tāpana) of the heart of the hater.

Nearly all the mss. accent dārbham. Ppp. reads in b varcase, and in c jambhanā.

2. Burner of the heart of the hater, causing to burn the mind of foes, do thou, O darbhā, burn together like heat (gharmā) against all the evil-hearted.

The mss., and hence SPP., read for a dviçatās tāpāyan hr̥dāḥ, as if hr̥dās could be an accus. sing.; and the comm. has the same, and glosses hr̥dās with hr̥dayam. [By some oversight, SPP. says on p. 384, note 3, that the text of the comm. reads sarvaṇs tvam̐; and on p. 385, note 1, "Sāyaṇa's text too has sarvaṇ."] The comm. explains as if the [questionable] word were simply sarvaṇ, 'the evil-hearted one's everything.' In d, the mss. and SPP. read ivā 'bhīnt samtāpāyan (one of ours abhī, another abhūt: mere accidental variations), the pada-text presenting abhīn: samo; the comm. has the same, and explains thus: abhīn abhayān samtāpāyan bhīnddhi [iti sambandhaḥ: connecting the phrase with the bhīnddhi of vss. 3, 4, 5]. Our abhisamtāpaya is heroic surgery, but very plausible; abhī't s- (i.e. abhī: tt: s-) would save a little more of the original, and tt is elsewhere added to reinforce abhī: cf. viii. 4. 21; xi. 1. 6; Ppp. has very nearly this reading, namely, gharme 'vā 'bhī't samtāpāyaṇ. The comm. glosses gharmas first with ādityas, then (on authority of TA. v. 1. 5) with pravarṅyas. The Anukr. takes no notice of the redundancies caused in 2 d and 3 a and d and 4 c if ivā is not abbreviated to 'va; in at least two of the cases, 2 d and 3 d, Ppp. combines to suit the meter, gharme 'va, indrāi 'va. [The first pāda is wanting in Ppp.]

3. Burning against [them] like heat, O darbhā, burning down the haters, O amulet, split thou our rivals to the heart, like Indra breaking apart Vala.

The translation implies emendation in d to valām, as made in our edition; SPP. follows the mss. and comm. in accepting balām, in spite of its false accent. Nearly all the mss. read virujām (p. virujām), but the comm. jan, which, of course, is alone admissible; SPP. very strangely compromises by reading virujām in samhitā, but virujām in pada! In c, SPP. gives, with [five of his authorities], -dāḥ sapātnānām bhīnddhi; even the pada-mss. vary between sapātnān: ā: bh- and sapātnānām: bh-; the comm. has -nānām, and so has Ppp.; the translation above implies *-nān ā, in spite of the separation of ā from hr̥dās. [Ppp. gives indrāi 'va in d, as noted under vs. 2.]

* [This reading is given by eight of SPP's mss. and one of W's. In sapātnānām we may have a case of faulty assimilation from 4 a: SPP's Dc., which is usually carefully corrected, here carries the blunder half way prima manu, giving sapātnānām (accents ! so perhaps also W's O.D.L.), and completes it secunda manu, giving sapātnānām.]

4. Split, O darbhā, the heart of our rivals, of our haters, O amulet; make their head fly apart, as the rising [sun] does the skin of the earth.

The comm. reads and explains ni pātaya in d (though the ms. gives vi p-). The obscure and perhaps corrupt third pāda is thus explained: udyann ūrdhvaṃ gacchan bhujādipradeṣam adhitiṣṭhan tvam bhūmyās tvacam [tva] tṛṇagulmāuśadhyādy-adhiṣṭhānabhūtām yathā takṣaṇena nīpātayati grhādinirmāṇārtham loke.

5. Split, O darbhā, my rivals; split those that fight against me; split all my enemies (durhārā); split my haters, O amulet.

In the following fourteen verses, of this hymn and the one that follows it, only the verb in each pāda is changed. In c, Ppp. blunderingly reads chindhi, anticipating the next verse.

6. Sever, O darbhā, my rivals; sever those etc. etc.

7. Hew down (vraçe), O darbhā, my rivals; hew down those etc. etc.

8. Cut, O darbhā, my rivals; cut those etc. etc.

In verses 6, 8, 9, 10 of this hymn, also in 29. 2 below, a part of the mss. read durhārān instead of -das in c; and SPP. strangely follows them in 28. 6, 8.

9. Carve (?), O darbhā, my rivals; carve those etc. etc.

The Pet. Lex. (under root piś) proposes to emend in this verse piñśā to piñśā. Ās, however, we have root piś below in 29. 6, there seems to be no sufficient reason for substituting it here. One of SPP's mss. reads here piñśā p.m. [piñśā s.m.].

10. Pierce, O darbhā, my rivals; pierce those etc. etc.

The mss. vary here between vidhya and vidhyā. [Ppp. reads viddhi.]

29. Continuation of the foregoing.

[As 28. navakam.]

This is a mere continuation of the preceding hymn, and if is hard to see why they are divided. They are found together in Pāipp. xiii. [Ritual use under 28.]

Translated: Griffith, ii. 286.

1. Gore, O darbhā, my rivals; gore those that fight against me; gore all my enemies; gore my haters, O amulet.

Half the mss. accent in this verse nikṣā. The comm. follows the dhātupāṭha in interpreting it to mean cumba 'kiss'! [He intends rather the root cumb 'harm,' hiṃsāyām, not cumb, vaktrasaṃyoge.]

2. Bore, O darbhā, my rivals; bore those etc. etc.

The comm. glosses the verb with nāçaya.

3. Obstruct, O darbhā, my rivals; obstruct those etc. etc.

The comm. glosses the verb (after the dhātupāṭha) with āvṛṇu nirodham kuru. The Pet. Lex. [s.v. 3 ru 'zerschlagen'] suggests reading instead rudhī "according to mss."; but rudhī is found in only one ms., in a, while the same ms. has rundhī in b, c, d; rudhī is accordingly only a careless misreading. Ppp. has bhaṅkti.

4. Kill, O darbhā, my rivals; kill those etc. etc.

5. Grind, O darbhā, my rivals; grind those etc. etc.

About half the mss. accent manthā. The comm. gives, as if from the dhātupāṭha, mantha loḍane (Westergaard and Böhtlingk vilodane).

6. Crush (piś), O darbhā, my rivals; crush those etc. etc.

Ppp. reads piṇḍī.

7. Scorch (uṣ), O darbhā, my rivals; scorch those etc. etc.

The majority of mss. combine in a-b me ḥṣa, and SPP. follows them.

8. Burn, O darbhā, my rivals; burn those etc. etc.

The decided majority of mss. accent dahā.

9. Slay, O darbhā, my rivals; slay those etc. etc.

30. For protection etc.: with an amulet of darbhā.

[As 28. pañcakam.]

Found also in Pāipp. xiii., with the two preceding, and, according to the comm., associated with them in use.

Translated: Griffith, ii. 287.

[See p. 1045.]

1. What thou hast that brings death in old age, O darbhā, that has hundred-fold defense, good defense, therewith having made this man defended (varmīn), smite thou my rivals by thy heroisms.

The translation implies jarāmṛtyu çatvārma suvārma te, which is the text of neither edition, nor of the mss., nor of the comm., but simply what makes best sense with least departure from the mss. The mss. all give -tyuḥ çatm vārmasu [W's B. varmasu] (p. vārmāsu) vārma te; the comm. has jarāmṛtyuṇāṁ marmasu (explaining jarasām mṛtyūnām ca çatm granthiṣu). The te in b had to be omitted in translating.

2. A hundred are thy defenses, O darbhā, a thousand thy heroisms; as such, all the gods have given thee to this man to wear, in order to [attain] old age.

Ppp. has at the end dadus. The comm. (with two of SPP's mss.) again reads in a marmāni. The decided majority of mss. have tvām at beginning of c; none of ours collated before publication had tām, which is doubtless the true text, and is read [by W's O. and] by SPP. and by the comm.

3. Thee they call the gods' defense, thee, O darbhā, Brahmanaspati; thee they call Indra's defense; thou defendest kingdoms.

The majority of mss. leave devavarma unaccented. We are tempted to emend to -pāteḥ in b. Ppp. reads [presumably in c] tvām indrād devavarmā "hus.

4. A destroyer of our rivals, O darbhā, burner of the heart of our hater—an amulet, increaser of dominion, protector of thy body, I make for thee.

Emendation to darbhām in a would relieve the anacoluthon of the verse. The comm., to get rid of it, first explains te as = tvā; but then secondly connects the whole verse into one sentence leaving darbha out. [I am not quite clear as to whether he means to leave it out. He says: atha vā rakṣākāmaḥ puruṣaḥ sambodhyate: he rājan darbhamaṇiṁ sapatnakṣayaṇādisāmarthyopetaṁ te tubhyaṁ kṣatrasya vardhanaṁ tanūpānaṁ ca kṛṇomī 'ti sambandhanīyam.]

5. What the ocean roared (krand) against, [and] Parjanya with the lightning, therefrom was born the golden drop (bindū), therefrom the darbhā.

Our edition emends in a to samudrē, which is doubtless an improvement, but not necessary. [The translation follows the mss., SPP., and comm., which have samudrō: Ppp. samudro 'bhya-.] The comm. derives the word (as many times elsewhere) from sam-nā-dravanti, and makes it an epithet of *parjanya*s, which he explains as meaning meghas. Most of the mss. accent bindus. The comm. makes the second tatas refer to bindu, but gives no opinion as to the meaning of the latter. [Ppp. reads vindus in c.] [Cf. Pischel, ZDMG. xxxvi. 135, who thinks the "drop" refers to pearl: cf. introduction to iv. 10.]

31. For various blessings: with an amulet of udumbāra.

[Savitṛ (puṣṭikāmaḥ).—caturdaṣa. mantroktāudumbaramaṇidevatyam. ānuṣṭubham: 5, 12. tri-ṣṭubh; 6. virāḍ prastārapañkti; 11, 13. 5-p. ṣakvari; 14. virāḍ āstārapañkti.]

[Partly prose, vs. 12 (?).] Found also in Pāipp. x. The comm. finds it used in Nakṣ. K. 17, 19, by one desiring wealth, or in the case of loss of wealth, in a mahā-ḥantī ceremony called kāubert, with binding on of an amulet of udumbāra.

Translated: Griffith, ii. 287.

1. With an amulet of udumbāra, for the pious one desiring prosperity: may Savitar make in my cow-stall fatness (sphāti) of all cattle.

The translation implies in b emendation to vedhāse, which seems hardly avoidable. The comm. gives two explanations of vedhasā: vidhātṛā purā prayogaḥ kṛtaḥ; and puṣṭyādividhātṛā kartrā maṇinā. Nearly all the mss. accent paṣṭnām (one of ours has -ḥnām), and SPP. passes the anomaly without remark.

2. Whatever householder's fire of ours may be overlord of cattle: let the virile (vīṣan) amulet of udumbāra unite me with prosperity.

The connection of the parts of the verse is obscure. The comm. makes b apodosis to a, supplying asti in a, and taking dsat optatively—which is extremely implausible. In d the mss. read sā mā (p. sāḥ: mā); the comm. divides sam ā, with his usual disregard of accent (ā = sarvataḥ); our sām mā is an obvious and unquestionable emendation, and is also read by Ppp. [See my note to xviii. 2. 3, where this case and similar ones are put together, and cf. vi. 5. 2.] The mss. further vary between puṣṭyā and puṣṭyā, the decided majority having the latter.

3. Rich in manure, rich in fruit, svadhā and cheer (īrā) in our house — prosperity let Dhātār assign to me through the keenness (tējas) of the [amulet] of udumbāra.

A few of the mss. again accent pūṣṭim. Ppp. reads in a karīṣṇaṁ phalāvatinḥ. The comm. explains īrā first as = bhūmī, and then as = ilā gāuḥ = gāvaḥ.

4. Both what [is] two-footed and what four-footed, what foods [there are], what savors (rāsa) — I seize (grah) the abundance of them, wearing the amulet of udumbāra.

Some of the mss. read rāsā at end of b. In c, our tēṣām is an obviously called-for emendation; most mss. read tveṣām or tveṣām (p. tū : ēṣām or tū : ēṣām); SPP. strangely gives tveṣām in saṁhitā and tū : ēṣām in pāda, the two not agreeing together; the comm. either reads ēṣām simply or overlooks the tu in his exposition. Ppp. gives grhṇyāṁ teṣām bhāumānaḥ.

5. I have seized all (pāri-) the prosperity of cattle, of quadrupeds, of bipeds, and what grain [there is]; the milk of cattle, the sap (rāsa) of herbs, may Bṛihaspati, may Savitar confirm to me.

Nearly all the mss. accent this time pūṣṭim.

6. Let me be the over-ruler of cattle; let the lord of prosperity (pūṣṭā-) assign to me prosperity; let the amulet of udumbāra confirm to me possessions (drāvīṇa).

SPP. leaves asāni in an unaccented, though every ms. but one (doubtless an accidental exception) accents it, and defensibly, on the ground of antithesis.

7. Unto me the amulet of udumbāra, with both progeny and riches: the amulet quickened by Indra hath come to me together with splendor.

Either Ppp. lacks 6 d and 7 a-c, or so much of its text is lost in the manuscript. Our jinūtās in c was an emendation, all the mss. (SPP's as well as ours) giving jinūtās, and Ppp. likewise; but the comm. has jinūtas, and SPP. accordingly adopts it also in his text. Some of the mss. leave upa at the beginning unaccented.

8. The heavenly amulet, rival-slaying, riches-winning, in order to the winning of riches: let it confirm [to me] abundance of cattle, of food, [and] fatness of kine.

Nearly all the mss. read in d sphātīr nī; [disregarding the accent, five of SPP's authorities show sphātim]; SPP's text agrees with ours [sphātm], the comm. having the same. Ppp. again has bhāumānaḥ in c.

9. As in the beginning thou, O forest tree, wast born together with prosperity, so let Sarasvatī assign to me fatness of riches.

Some of the mss. accent pūṣṭyā, and all [but four] leave jajñise unaccented. The majority accent sphātim in c. Ppp. reads in d ā dadāti [sarasvatīm (or -ti?)].

10. Riches, fatness of milk, and grain shall Sarasvatī, shall Sinīvālī, and this amulet of udumbāra bring to me.

Both our pada-mss. divide in b pāyaḥsphātim, but SPP. reports no such reading among his three, and gives correctly pāyaḥsph- (the accent is probably false). Our text emends, perhaps unnecessarily, to gīty-. In c, the pada-mss. make the blundering analysis of upāvahāt into ūpa : avahāt; SPP. gives, by emendation, ūpa : vahāt; our text emends further to upāvahāt (i.e. upa-āvahāt); it is uncertain which the comm. favors, but probably the latter: the sole ms. has [twice upāvahāt and once] upa vahāt (probably misreading for upāvahāt) upāvahatu. Ppp. has upāvahat; in b, it agrees with the mss. in reading payasph-.

11. Thou art the virile (vīṣan) over-ruler of amulets; in thee the lord of prosperity generated prosperity; in thee [are] these powers (vāja), [are] all possessions; do thou here, O [amulet] of udumbāra, force (sah) far away from us the niggard, misery, and hunger.

In a the comm. reads adhiṣas. In b Ppp. gives puṣṭipatis. At beginning of c, the comm. has tvayā me, which is not bad. In c, the pada-mss. have vājā. At beginning of d, all the mss. present ādudumbaras, and SPP. does not emend to -ra with us, although the comm. has it and the sense demands it. But in e, where all the mss. read amīṭam, he ventures to follow the comm. in substituting āmatim, which is better than our conjecture dvartim (misprinted avārtim). [Ppp. has, for e, ārād arātim abhitiṣṣayaṁ ca.] The verse scans naturally as $5 \times 11 = 55$: it is easy, but needless, to make up the full count of a ṣakvartī, 56, by resolution.

12. Troop-leader art thou, arising a troop-leader; being anointed (abhi-śic), do thou anoint me with splendor; brilliancy art thou, brilliancy maintain thou upon me; wealth art thou, wealth assign thou to me.

The reading of a is probably corrupt; for utthāya, which both editions give (with two or three mss.), the mss. in general have ukthyāya or utthyāya or ucchyāya, with ā or ū. According to SPP., the comm's text has grāmaṇī chāyā, and Ppp. strangely gives the same; what he attempts to explain is very doubtful: ato 'smākam api grāmaṇī bhava . . . atha vā mām api creṣṭhaṁ kuru. SPP. divides grāmaṇī in his pada-text, but without authority from the mss., and against his practice in iii. 5. 7. In b, some of the mss. read śiṅca. On the ground of meter, SPP. suggests that rayis in d may be for ādhirayis, one of the two successive adhi's being lost; this would be more acceptable if the word adhirayī, or anything closely analogous with it, anywhere occurred. The comm. makes an adhirayis (explaining it as adhigatarayis or prāptadhanas) by stealing for it the ādhi of c, with his usual disregard of pada-division and accent (neither of which, to be sure, is of much account in this book). [The Index calls this vs. prose; but with ādhi at the end of c and adhirayis in d it might scan as $11 + 12 : 11 + 11$.]

13. Prosperity art thou, with prosperity anoint (añj) thou me completely; being house-sacrificer, make thou me householder; O [amulet] of udumbāra, do thou here put in us and confirm to us wealth having all heroes; I fasten thee on in order to abundance of wealth.

The comm., against the Anukr. and the natural division, adds e to verse 14. Part of the mss. again accent puṣṭi in a. Some, including all the pada-mss., have indhi for añdhi; Ppp. agdhi. SPP. again fails to follow us, the comm., Ppp., and one of our mss., in reading ādudumbāra (instead of -ras) in c; some of his mss. leave tvam without accent. [The non-elision of a in ahām justifies the count as çakvarī, but hurts the meter, which is none too good if we scan the vs. as 5 × 11.]

14. This amulet of udumbāra is bound, a hero, to a hero; let it make for us a winning rich in honey, and may it confirm to us wealth having all heroes.

Some of the mss. accent śānim in c. Ppp. reads ucyate for badhyate in b.

32. For long life etc.: with an amulet of darbhā.

[Bhṛṅgu (sarvakāmaḥ. āyuṣe).—daçakam. mantroktiadevatyam. ānuṣṭubham: 8. purastād-bṛhatī; 9. triṣṭubh; 10. jagati.]

Found also in Pāipp. xii. The comm. finds the hymn quoted in Nakṣ. K. 19, as used in a mahāçanti ceremony called yāmī, with the binding on of an amulet of darbhā, in case of fear of Yama (yamabhaye).

Translated: Griffith, ii. 289; vs. 8 also by Zimmer, p. 205, with comment.

1. Hundred-jointed, hard to be stirred, thousand-leaved, uplifting (?) — the darbhā that is a formidable herb, that I bind on thee in order to [prolonged] life-time.

Some of the mss., as usual, read duçcav- in a. Very nearly all read uttirās in b (p. utotirāḥ), and SPP. follows them; and this the translation implies, since it is acceptable enough [cf., for the formation, uttudās, iii. 25. 1, and, for the meaning, uttirān, vi. 36. 2], and appears in Ppp. (with -rnam before it); but the comm. has ūtītaras, as our text by conjectural emendation. Some mss. have tāt for tām in d; the comm., tena for tani te. [Ppp. combines yograoṣadhis in c, which is susceptible of more than one interpretation.] [The gender of ugrās would seem to call for some remark.]

2. His hair they scatter not forth, they smite not blows on their breast [for him], to whom one yields refuge by the darbhā of uncut leaves.

The expression in a is a good example for the real identity of roots vap 'strew' and vap 'shear.' Many of the mss. accent urāsi in b. All the mss. leave yachati in d unaccented, and both editions commit the error of refraining from emendation to yāchati, which is of course necessary. Ppp. has at end of b ghnatī, and combines in c yasmā cch-. Bloomfield translates and comments on the verse in AJP. xi. 339 [or JAOS. xv., p. xlv]. The comm. supplies in the first line as subject mṛtyudātā rakṣaḥpiçācādyā vā, renders pra vapanti by ākaraṣanti, and combines urasitādam into a compound — all very bad.

3. In the sky is thy tuft, O herb; in the earth art thou set (ni-sthā); with thee, that hast a thousand joints, do we increase further our life-time.

The translation follows the mss., the comm., SPP., and Ppp., all of which read tūlam in a. [Cf. ii. 7. 3, which perhaps suggested the wrong emendation of the Berlin text.] In b, the comm. has viṣṭhitas [and Ppp. niṣṭhitā].

4. Thou didst bore through the three skies, also these three earths; by thee do I bore into my enemy's (durhārd) tongue [and] utterances (vācas).

In a, SPP. reads more correctly divās, with nearly all the mss. The comm. reads atīnas; he explains atī atīnas by atikramya gatauvān asi or veṣṭitavān asi, and nī tīnadmi by veṣṭayāmi, both very unsuitably. The meter clearly calls for ca at the end, and Ppp. has it; whether the comm. means to acknowledge it as part of the text is doubtful; his text, according to SPP., does not present it. [None of the other authorities has ca, but the Berlin ed. gives ca by emendation.] Ppp. reads in b tisro dyām prth.

5. Thou art overpowering; I am full of power; may we, both of us, becoming full of power, overpower our rivals.

The comm. reads in a sahamānā; Ppp. in a-b, no aham. To be compared is iii. 18. 5 (RV. x. 145. 5), which ends grammatically with a dual, sahāvahāi. Our sahīṣṭvahi [Skt. Gram. § 907] was an emendation, but is given also by Ppp.; the mss., SPP., and the comm., have -mahī.

6. Do thou overpower our hostile plotter, overpower those that fight us; overpower all enemies (durhārd); make for me many friends (suhārd).

Most of the mss. read in ḍ bahūm; Ppp. and the comm. and two of SPP's authorities and one of ours have bahūn. Ppp. combines and reads in a, b no 'bhimātiham sahasvā pr-.

7. With the darbhā, god-born, constantly sky-propping — with it I have constantly won and shall win men (jāna).

In a most of the mss. read devajātēna; SPP. with us. In b, SPP. follows the mss. in giving divī śambhēna (p. divī: śambhēna); our emendation to divīśambhēna is obviously required, and is assumed by the comm. In c, our jānān was an emendation for the jānās of the mss.; but two of SPP's mss. read jānān, and it is accepted also in SPP's text. The comm. supports it by giving janān; [and his text has janān asanam]. [Ppp. also has janān, as noted below.] In ḍ, nearly all the authorities read āsanām (three of them have āsanānt s-), but SPP. finds among his, two that agree with the [text of the] comm. in presenting āsanam, which he adopts, and which is undoubtedly the true text; the aorist is the tense that best suits the connection. [This remark seems to involve the implication that āsanām might be an imperfect of the nā-class; but that can hardly have been Whitney's intention.] Ppp. reads janān asanām, [and, in b, divāśambhēna].

8. Make me, O darbhā, dear to Brahman-and-Kshatriya, both to Çūdra and to Āryan, and to whomsoever we desire, and to every one that looks abroad.

That is, 'every one that has eyes to see.' [Cf. 62. 1, below, and VS. xviii. 48.] A few authorities have the more proper accent -nyābhyām, but VS. xxvi. 2 (which has this and the following four words together) likewise accents -nyā-, as does SPP. Our çūdrāya was an emendation, all our mss. [collated at time of publication] having sūryāya, as do nearly all SPP's; but one of our later ones, with two or three of SPP's, the comm., and Ppp., give çūdrāya. All the mss. mis-accent vipācyate, most having vipācyatē, others vipācyate or vipācyate; SPP. this time ventures to follow us in emending to [vipācyate] the true reading. The Anukr. regards brahmarājanyābhyām as belonging to the first pāda, and does not heed that the pāda has 13 syllables, one too many for a purustādbrhatt.

9. He that, being born, made firm the earth, that propped (stabh) the atmosphere and the sky, whose wearer evil hath not found out — that darbhā here [is] our supporter [and] blessing.

Or, 'be our supporter.' Here at the end, the translation follows the very acceptable reading of Ppp., dharuṇo 'dhivākāḥ. All the mss. give vāruṇo [one, vāruṇo !] divā kāḥ (the comm. divā 'kāḥ), which was plainly corrupt, but which SPP. (justifiably, from his point of view) retains without question. Roth's emendation, as read in our text, to vāruṇo 'dhivākāḥ hit very near the mark. All the mss. (except, doubtless by accident, one of ours) have in c viveda, without accent, and this SPP. admits in his text, though emendation (to vivēda, as made in our edition) is as obviously necessary as in vs. 8. All the mss. [but O. tanū], and Ppp., read in c nanū; [and so does SPP.;] our emendation to nā 'nu is acceptable, but not necessary. The comm. explains quite prosaically the plant's 'making firm the earth'; its roots keep the ground from being dissolved by water! The last words he understands thus: varuṇa (as coming from vr) means a keeper off (nivāraka) of darkness; and divā 'kāḥ signifies prakāśaṇi karotu. [Ppp. begins b with so 'stabh-.]

10. Rival-slaying, hundred-jointed, powerful, came into being the first of plants; let that darbhā here protect us all about; by it may I overpower fighters, them that fight [against me].

In a-b the mss. read sahasvanāṁ 'śadh- (p. -svanā : śś-), but SPP. emends, as we had done, to -vān śśadh-, as is read [by one of his pāda-mss., p.m.,] by the comm., and also by Ppp. It is a naturally suggested conjecture that at some time -āno- as written in the Bengālī fashion may have been misread into -anāu-, and SPP. puts this forward; the lateness and unscholarly character of the pāda-text to this book make the assumption of such an error far from implausible; we are surprised only at finding the comm's text antecedent to it. In d a few of the mss. accent pr̥tanyātas. The verse is jagati only in its second half. [Pāda c is identical with 33. i c.]

33. For various blessings: with an amulet of darbhā.

[As 32. — pañcakam. 1. jagati; 2, 5. triṣṭubh; 3. ārjī pañkti; 4. āstārāpañkti.]

Found in Pāipp. xii., following our hymn 32. Used with the latter in the same ceremony, according to the comm. [For citations by Kāu., see under vs. 3.]

Translated: Griffith, ii. 290.

1. Of thousand-fold worth, hundred-jointed, rich in milk, fire of the waters, consecration (rājashya) of plants — let this darbhā here protect us all about; may the divine amulet unite us with [prolonged] life-time.

SPP. accents in a sahasrārghas, with the minority of mss.; Ppp. has -ghyas. The comm. reads sahasvān (for pay-), and renders sahasrārghas by bahumūlyas. Ppp. reads in d dāivas and sr̥jātu.* The verse is a jagati only in the second half. [Pāda c is identical with 32. 10 c.] * [Other forms like sr̥jātu under 7. 4.]

2. Snatched out of ghee, rich in honey, rich in milk, earth-establishing, unstirred, stirring [other things], thrusting away and putting down rivals — ascend thou, O darbhā, with the energy (indriyā) of the great ones.

There are no variants in this verse except of a few mss. on one and another point of no consequence. Ppp. has at the end mahatā mahendriyena. The verse is a sort of variation of v. 28. 14, above; [and a recurs below, 46. 6 a].

3. Thou goest across the earth with force; thou sittest beauteous (cāru) on the sacrificial hearth at the sacrifice; the seers bore thee [as] purifier; do thou purify us from difficulties.

Literally, 'purify (remove, strain out) difficulties from us.' [As to a, Griffith notes appositely that "the [darbha] grass spreads with great rapidity, re-rooting itself continually." In c, the translation follows the text of SPP., who emends bhārantas of all the mss. [save one] and of our edition to abharanta on the authority of the comm. alone. Ppp. reads bhūmīg ady eṣy oj-. The comm. quotes TB. i. 3. 7¹ to prove that darbha is properly called a 'purifier' or 'strainer.' There is not a bit of pañkti-character in the verse; [with the ordinary resolutions, and that of bhūmin besides, it scans easily as 12 + 12 : 11 + 11 :] of course it can be scanned down to 40 syllables by neglecting easy and natural resolutions. [The verse is quoted by Kāuṣ. in full at 2. 1 and by pratikā at 137. 32 : cf. p. 897, ¶ 3, and see Bloomfield's notes to the passages of Kāuṣ.]

4. A keen (tikṣṇā) king, of mighty power, demon-slaying, belonging to all men (-carṣanī), force of the gods, formidable strength [is] that; I bind it on thee in order to old age, to well-being.

Ppp. reads in c tejas for ojas, and in d tat for tam.

5. With the darbhā thou shalt do heroic deeds; wearing the darbhā, do thou not stagger by thyself; excelling (ati-sithā) over others with splendor, shine thou like the sun unto the four quarters.

Our kṛṇāvas is an emendation; all the mss., and SPP., give kṛṇāvat or kṛṇavat, which the comm. also reads [and renders by kuryās] (without spending a word of explanation on the grammatical anomaly; it simply falls under his general rule that in the Veda one form may be used in place of another); Ppp. has kṛṇu. In c SPP. reads, with the comm. [but the ms. atha], ādha instead of our ādhi (vārcasā 'dhā'nyānt s-); the mss. have vārcasāidhyānyāni (also -sāindhyā-, -sāidhā-, -sāindhā-, -sidha-; and the comm's text -saudha-), in pada-text vārcasā : āidhi (or eddhī) : ānyām (or anyām), or (in our pada-mss., and one of SPP's s.m.) vārcasā : eddhānyām. Our emendation affords better sense, and accounts for the *y that appears in the majority of mss. after dh. Ppp. also supports it, reading atiṣṭhāpo varcase 'dhy anyā sūryāi 'vā bhāhi. [In b, Ppp. reads bibhratā "tmanā." [The comm. has adhiṣṭhāya in c.] * [But SPP. points out that dhyā and dhā look very much alike in most old mss.]

[Here ends the fourth anuvāka, with 7 hymns and 68 verses. If you reckoned 27. 14-15 as 3 verses, the sum would be 69.]

34. With a jaṅgīdā-amulet: for protection etc.

[Āṅgiras. — daçakam. mantroktadevatyam uta vānaspatyam. ānuṣṭubham.]

Found also in Pāipp. xi. The comm. quotes it as used by Nakṣ. K. 19, in a mahāçānti ceremony called vāyavyā, with the binding on of an amulet from the jaṅgīdā tree. Hymn 35 is used in company with it.

Translated: Bloomfield, 38, 669; Griffith, ii. 291; verses 1 and 7 ab also by Grohmann, Ind. Stud. ix, 417-18.

1. Jaṅgīdā art thou, jaṅgīdā; defender art thou, jaṅgīdā; what of ours is two-footed, four-footed — let jaṅgīdā defend it all.

Our emendation at the beginning to āṅgīrā asi [suggested by vs. 6?] is to be disapproved and withdrawn; it is not even necessary to change to vocative the jaṅgīdās at the end of a and b (though in the translation they may be understood as either nom. or voc.); but the comm. reads jaṅgīdā at end of b; [the text of the comm. has jaṅgīdo 'si jaṅgīdo rakṣitā 'si jaṅgīdā]. Compare iv. 12. 1; ix. 5. 16; RV. i. 191. 1 for similar repetitions, in part of nominatives where we should think it more natural to change in part to vocative. SPP. reads [in a and b], with all the mss., jaṅgīdās three times. Ppp. has at the beginning the corrupt jaṅgīdīsi, but in both other instances [in a and b] -das. Compare the hymn ii. 4, where alone this plant appears further. The comm. amuses himself (and us) with a number of his ludicrous derivations for jaṅgīdā — from roots jā or jan or jī with gir 'swallow'; or from jaṅgam, intensive.

2. The witchcrafts that are thrice fifty, and the witchcraft-makers that are a hundred — may the jaṅgīdā make them all of vanished brilliancy (-téjas) [and] sapless.

The first pāda is corrupt in the mss., and very doubtful; the translation implies yāḥ kṛtyāḥ, which is most naturally suggested by the connection, and takes tripañcācāṣ as an indefinite large number (like tisrūḥ pañcācāṣ, RV. i. 133. 4), and as formed like trisaptā, tripravā, etc., in spite of the important objection that none of these make a fem. in ī, and that the word most naturally means 'fifty-three, composed of fifty-three,' or the like. [W's conjecture, yāḥ kṛtyāḥ, nearly coincides with that of Geldner (KZ. xxvii. 218), yāc ca kṛtyāḥ. Geldner's is metrically better; and he takes trip- as an indefinitely large number (cardinal), as does W.] It was this word tripañcācāṣ, applied to the set of dice in RV. [x. 34. 8] (but perhaps meaning 'thrice fifty'), that suggested the not very happy emendation in our edition to akṣa-kṛtyāṣ. The mss. read mostly jāgrtsyas tr- (with various accent, most often on -syās: p. jāgrtsyāḥ: tripañcācāṣ !), also fyā-, yyā-, and (two of SPP's) yāgrtsyās; this last the comm. also has, and understands it as yā(h) grtsyas, explaining the latter as = gardhanaçtīlās [SPP's pada-text accordingly, yāḥ: grtsyāḥ], and tripañcācāṣ as tryadhikapañcācāṣatsamkhyāḥ, both as epithets of kṛtyāṣ (understood). [With this reading, we can take grtsyas as nom. pl. fem. to grtsa and render 'what fifty-three clever or sly [witchcrafts there are]'; but grtsa, in such an application and with such sinister meaning, has rather slender support, to wit, VS. xvi. 25, as cited by BR. ii. 778.] Ppp., gives yā kṛcchrā tripañcācāṣ ch-, which, while it is itself (emended to yāḥ kṛcchrās) not wholly unacceptable, also favors our yāḥ kṛtyāṣ; there is insufficient reason for the feminine words if kṛtyāṣ be not expressed. [I cannot here attach much value to the evidence of Ppp.: on the one hand, it confuses surd and sonant very often (kovidam for govidam, xix. 13. 5: cf. xi. 5. 4, note); and, on the other, the relation of its cch to ts may be somewhat like that discussed under x. 9. 23 (rchāra, ṛtsāra, etc.). The mss. are decidedly in favor of grtsyas as against kṛtyāṣ; but Whitney's objection as to the omission of kṛtyāṣ seems to me a weighty argument in favor of his conjecture.] Our vināṣtatejasas in c was an emendation, which, now that the comm. also reads it, may be regarded as sufficiently established; the mss. mostly vinaktatējasas (also vinaktu t-, vinīṣat-, bhanakti t-, minaktu t- [etc.]: pada-readings, vinaktu [as independent word or as compounded with tējasah] or also vinakta^ot-). SPP. strangely contents himself with vinaktu tējasas, which certainly he would be unable to translate into anything even simulating sense.

Ppp. is corrupt, and brings no help; it has sarva vyunaktu tej-. [Did not SPP. understand his reading thus: 'Let the amulet separate them all from their téjas (ablative)?' The instrum. téjasā, which good authorities give, would also be a proper construction with root vic: 'Let the amulet part them all with their efficiency (téjas),' i.e. rob the wizards of their power to make their witchcrafts efficacious against us. Whitney's reading and rendering are wholly satisfactory in themselves: but vinaktu téjasas or -sā seems to me no less so; and it has much stronger support (directly or indirectly) from the mss., and even from Ppp., than has RW's vinas̄tatejasas. — After writing the above, I notice that Bloomfield, p. 672, interprets SPP's reading quite differently: the way in which he construes vic does not seem to me admissible.]

3. Sapless the artificial noise, sapless the seven that fall apart; away from here, O jāṅgīdā, make fall (çat) misery, as an archer (dsiṛ) an arrow.

The first half-verse is perhaps corrupt, as it is certainly unintelligible. The pada-text makes in a the astonishing division kṛtrīm : anna-oddm; many of the samhitā-mss. read kṛtrīm. All the mss. accent visrasas, and SPP. with them; our text emends to vis-rāsas. The minor Pet. Lex. suggests that the saptā visrūhas of RV. vi. 7. 6 may be meant: ingenious, but not comforting, as no one has any idea what the latter signifies. The comm.'s guess is this: mūrdhaniṣṭheṣu . . . saptaṣu cchidreṣu abhicarato 'tpādītāḥ sapta niṣyandāḥ. In a, b, the reading of Ppp. is rasaṁ kṛtrimaṁ nādam arasas s-. In c the mss. have much unimportant variation of accent. At the end, Ppp. gives sādhayā. The translation gives to çātaya the meaning ascribed to it by the Hindu grammarians, since it suits the connection; the comm. renders the word by tanūkuru, of which it is hard to see the reason or sense.

4. A spoiler of witchcraft verily is this, likewise a spoiler of niggardry; likewise may the powerful jāṅgīdā lengthen out our life-times.

The majority of mss. leave ayām in a unaccented; and they divide pretty evenly between tārīṣat and tārṣat at the end; [cf. under iv. 10. 6]. Ppp. reads kṛtyādūṣaṇa vāyam atho 'rāt. With the verse compare ii. 4. 6, which is nearly the same.

5. Let that greatness of the jāṅgīdā protect us all 'about, wherewith [it] overpowered the viṣkandha with force, [being] a counteracting force (?).

Sāṁskandha occurs nowhere else, and is in the translation assumed to be a word made as the opposite and contrary of viṣkandha; it may, of course, be only a variation of the latter, another evil of the same sort, as understood by the Pet. Lexx. and the comm. (yena rogeṇa skandhaḥ samnataḥ samlagno bhavati sa rogaḥ saṁskandhaḥ). The majority of the mss. read in c sāsāha (p. sasaha [with various accent]); but sāsahé (as in our text) is in accordance with the nearly invariable use of the root in AV. as middle, [and is read by one of SPP's mss.]. Ppp. reads sāsahā, and combines in d ojo 'jasā. The comm. reads and explains in c viṣkandham ojasā saha (favoring sāsaha).

6. Thrice the gods generated thee that art settled (ni-sthā) upon the earth; and Brahmans of old know thee thus as Aṅgiras by name.

All the mss. read at the beginning trīṣṭvā (p. the same); but even SPP. emends to trīṣ tvā, as we had done; the comm. has the latter. Ppp. gives niṣ tvā. The comm. reads tiṣṭhantam in b instead of niṣṭhitam. Some of the mss. are discordant as to the accent of aṅgīrās in c.

7. Not the former herbs surpass thee, not thee the recent; a formidable dispeller [is] the jaṅgīdā, a protector round about, of good omen.

Some of SPP's mss. read nāvā at end of b. The comm. has jaṅgīdā in c; [in both text and comment of the comm., the ḍa-sound is, naturally enough, spelled with a la]. Our paḍa-mss. read in d paripānaḥ, without division.

8. So then when thou didst come into being, O jaṅgīdā, [O thou] of unmeasured heroism, Indra of old, O formidable one, [in the beginning (agrataḥ)] gave unto thee heroism.

The translation follows our text, which, however, is more thoroughly altered from that of the mss. than in any instance thus far; and, of course, in a manner open to question. At the beginning, all the samhitā-mss. give āthopadānābhagavo [one, bhā], which the paḍa-mss. divide thus: ātho tti : padā : nā : bhagavaḥ [one, -vāḥ]; but the comm. understands it as ātho 'padāna bh-, and SPP. follows him (p. ātha : upadāna : bh-); the comm. explains upadāna by upādīyate sūkriyate kṛtyānirharanādīvyāpāreṣu — which is utterly implausible. Ppp. gives no help, giving aṣṭayopadāni bh-. For c, the mss. read purā ta ugrā grasata (āp-), p. purā : te : ugrā : grasate : āpa : etc.; and SPP. emends only by changing ugrā to ugrāḥ [in p.], as the comm. understands. The latter explains it to mean: "Indra, perceiving that formidable creatures will devour (purā grasate = bhakṣayisyanti!) thee, O jaṅgīdā, gave" etc. Ppp. has a text for c-d that would make good sense: purā ta ugrāya sato 'pendro (i.e., by the usual double combination, sate : uḥpa) 'to thee, being before formidable, Indra added further heroic quality.'

9. To thee, O forest tree, the formidable Indra imparted (ā-dhā) formidableness; expelling all diseases (āmīvā), do thou smite the demons, O herb.

With the first half-verse compare iv. 19.8 d. For this verse there are no variants of any consequence, and the two editions agree throughout with one another and with the comm. Ppp. reads in a-b vanaspataya indro 'j-, and, for c, āmīvās sarvā rakṣāṁsi.

10. The crusher, the burster, the balāsa, the side-ache, the takmān of every autumn, may the jaṅgīdā make sapless.

The two names in a are found nowhere else; the comm. regards them as names of specific diseases, the one meaning 'wholly injurious,' the other 'especially injurious.' The root gr has not been found with ā as prefix [except, as noted by OB. vi. 209, at GB. i. 2. 18]. The words might of course also be epithets. The only variants concern the accent of prṣṭyāmayam; the majority of mss. agree with the editions; some have prṣṭyāmayam. Ppp. reads at the beginning ācaritrāḥ, and in d arasaḥ.

35. The same.

[As 34. — pañcakam. 3. pathyāpāñkti; 4. nicṛt trīṣṭubh.]

This hymn is found with the preceding in Pāipp. (in xi.), and it has the same vinīyoga.

Translated: Grohmann, Ind. Stud. ix. 419; Zimmer, p. 65; Bloomfield, 39, 674; Griffith, ii. 293.

1. Taking (grak) the name of Indra, the seers gave the jaṅgīdā, which the gods in the beginning made a remedy, spoiler of the viṣkandha.

The comm. (apparently by an oversight) explains at the end viṣkandhabheṣajam, while his text, according to SPP., agrees with ours.

2. Let that jaṅgīdā defend us, as a protector of riches his riches; which [jaṅgīdā] the gods, the Brahmins, made a protector round about, slayer of niggards.

The pada-mss. read at end of b dhānāvīva; [SPP. emends to dhānāvīva, which the translation implies;] Ppp. gives dhanāi'va.

3. The enemy of terrible aspect (-cākṣus), the evil-doer that has come — them do thou, O thousand-eyed one, make to vanish by thy watchfulness (? pratibodhā); thou art jaṅgīdā that protects round about.

The translation implies in a emendation to durhārdaḥ ghorācākṣuṣam, which is venturesome, but something has to be done to make sense. SPP. reads, with [most of] the mss. and the comm., durhārdaḥ saṃghoraṃ (= atyantakṛm, comm.) cākṣus; the comm. [joins cākṣus with] nācaya. Ppp. gives no help; its text (dūhārda saṃghora cakṣuḥ) apparently is meant for the same with ours. In b is implied, instead of the ā'gamam of the mss. and both editions, āgatam, which may be confidently accepted on the authority of both Ppp. and the comm. [But ādabhan is read by W's O., by two of SPP's mss., and by a third,* s.m.] Our text emends at the end to jaṅgīdā; as all the authorities, including Ppp., give -dāḥ, this is retained in the translation. In d the comm. appears to have pratib, but it is very probably an oversight of the ms. The Anukr. takes no notice of the deficiency of a syllable in c. * [The carefully corrected Dc.]

4. Me from the sky, me from the earth, from the atmosphere, me from the plants, me from what is, and me from what is to be — from every direction let the jaṅgīdā protect us about.

The majority of mss. accent in c mó'tā bhavyāt. One of the mss. of the Anukr. calls the verse a jagati; for this there is no ground, but also as little for calling it nicṛt as a triṣṭubh.

5. What [witchcraft-]workers are made by the gods, and also what from mortals — all those may the all-healing jaṅgīdā make sapless.

The translation follows our text, which deviates widely from that of the mss. in a, b. All these have, without exception, yāḥ kṛṣṇāvo; all further devakṛtā (p. devaakṛtāḥ), but with differences of accent; [of SPP's authorities, 6 give correctly -vā, and 8 give -tāḥ;] then they vary in b between yā and ya (all the pada-mss. yāḥ); all have utó (p. utó tti); [but W's B. seems to read yātó;] finally, they vary between vabhṛtenyāḥ (the majority), -tenyāḥ, -tyenyāḥ (the pada-mss., vabhṛtenyāḥ, or -tēnyāḥ). SPP's text has yā (p. yē) ṛṣṇāvo devakṛtā (p. -tāḥ) yā (p. yāḥ) utó vavṛtē 'nyāḥ (p. vavṛtē : anyāḥ : but this would give for saṃhitā-text vavṛtē 'nyāḥ), which, apart from the added accents, is the text of the comm., as SPP. reports; the comm., however, assumes in his explanation ye . . . anye in b instead of yāḥ . . . anyāḥ, and declares vavṛtē = vavṛtīre. Ppp., finally, gives ye ṛṣṇāvo devakṛtā yo co bibhṛthebhyā. The case is evidently a rather desperate one. The word ṛṣṇavas, found in both Ppp. and comm., occurs nowhere else; the comm. gives for it one of his usual artificial and wholly worthless explanations, gantāro hīnsakāḥ puruṣāḥ; b he makes to mean "also what other oppressors (bādhakās) go about."

36. With a çatāvāra-amulet: for protection etc.[Brahman. — ṣaḍṛcam. çatāvāraddāvatam. ānuṣṭubham.]

Found also [except 4 c, d, 5 a, b] in Pāipp. ii. The comm. quotes its use from Nakṣ.K. 19, in the mahāçānti ceremony called saṃtati, performed for a failure of family, with the çatāvāra amulet.

Translated: Griffith, ii. 294.

1. The çatdvāra hath by its keenness (téjas) made to vanish the yákṣmas, the demons, mounting together with splendor, an amulet that expels the ill-named.

Our mañts in d was an emendation, all the mss. having mañtm; SPP. also has -ts, on the authority of the comm.; Ppp. reads -ñim and -çātanam. What çatāvāra really means is very questionable; the Pet. Lexx. conjecture "consisting of a hundred hairs," which does not seem probable; the comm. says "having a hundred roots, or awns"; and he further adds, on the authority of vs. 6, where the accordance with vāraya is played upon, "warding off a hundred diseases"; moreover, there is no reason apparent why it should not signify 'bringing a hundred choice things' (cf. viçvādvāra). The comm. declares 'ill-named' to denote a skin-disease. ["Mounting": i.e. being raised up to the neck of the person on whom it is "bound" — so Griffith.]

2. With its two horns it thrusts away the demon, with its root the sorceresses; with its middle it drives off (bādhi) the yákṣma; no evil over-passes it.

All the mss., the comm., and Ppp., read at the end tatrati, which we emended to tarati, as the other seems an inconceivable 3d sing.; the comm. glosses it with atikrāmati, and explains the form by çluḥ ṣaṣ ce 'ti vikarāṇadvayam. The comm. explains the 'two horns' as "the two parts of its apex, set on like horns." The mention of a "root" is, of course, an indication (though not a certain one) that a plant is intended.

3. The yákṣmas that are petty, and they that are great, noisy — all of them the çatdvāra amulet, slayer of the ill-named, hath made vanish.

Ppp. reads in b çapathinas. The Anukr. takes no notice of the deficiency of a syllable in a.

4. A hundred heroes it generated; a hundred yákṣmas it scattered away; having slain all the ill-named ones, it shakes down the demons.

The mss. (both s. and p.) vary in a between vīrās and vīrān, the decided majority of SPP's giving the latter; of ours, none save one or two of those collated since publication; SPP. reads vīrān aj. Ppp. has çatanī vīrāni janayac ch., which, with emendation to vīryāni janayañ, is perhaps the true reading. About half, indeed, of the mss. read -nayan, which also makes a possible text (çatānī vīrā ajanayan).

5. A golden-horned bull [is] this amulet of çatdvāra; having shattered (trh) all the ill-named ones, it hath trodden down the demons.

A few of the authorities [some confusing the primary with the vṛddhi-derivative] read in b çatāvāras or çatavārās or çādvāras. In c, all the mss. [save perhaps W's B.] read trdhvā, which SPP. mistakenly emends to trddhvā (as if one were to emend the dhvā of rūdhvā and līdhvā to -ḍdhvā). Ppp. is corrupt, giving durṇās tris sarvās triḍhvā apa raksāṁsy apa kramīm. The second half of vs. 4 and the first half of vs. 5 are wanting in Ppp.

6. With the ṣatāvāra I ward off (vāraya-) a hundred of the ill-named ones (f.), a hundred of the Gandharvas-and-Apsarases, and a hundred of the doglike ones (f.).

Some of the mss. accent in b gandharvāṣarsāsām. All [save W's B.] have in c ṣatām ṣaṣvanvātinām (varying to ṣaṣcatv-: p. ṣaṣvanvātinām); our ṣatām ca ṣvānva- is an emendation, and, as it seems, an easy and necessary one, supported by Ppp., which reads ṣatām ca ṣvānvinām [Griffith renders by 'dog-mated nymphs,' referring it to the Apsarases, and citing most appositely xi. 9. 15 and iv. 37. 11]. The comm. reads with the mss., and furnishes one of his characteristic absurd explanations: the word comes from ṣaṣvat 'constantly,' with n substituted for d in the combination, and means muhur-muhuh pīḍārtham āgantryo grahāpasmūrādya vyādhayaḥ! He declares the fem. durṇāmnī to be used in a [with reference to] vyādhi, forgetting that vyādhi is masculine. [For the play in ḍ, cf. my note to xviii. 3. 29.]

37. With an amulet: for various blessings.

[Atharvan. — caturṛcam. āgneyam. trīṣṭubham: 2. āstīrapaṅkti; 3. 3-p. mahābhyatī; 4. puraṣṇik.]

Not found in Pāipp. The comm. neither quotes nor devises a vinīyoga, but SPP. finds it used in Nakṣ.K. 19, in the mahāṣānti ceremony called tvāṣṭrī, with a threefold amulet, on occasion of the loss of a garment.

Translated: Griffith, ii. 295.

1. This splendor hath come, given by Agni, brightness (bhārga), glory, power, force, vigor (vāyas), strength; and the heroisms that are thirty-three—those let Agni give forth to me.

Most of the mss. accent balām at end of b. The first half-verse corresponds to a first half-verse in TB. (ii. 5. 7¹), MS. (ii. 3. 4), and AÇS. (vi. 12. 2); all these read at end of a ḍ'gāt, and AÇS. has rādhas instead of vārcas; then, in b, TB. and AÇS. give yāco bhārgaḥ sāha oḥo bālām ca, MS. māhi rādhaḥ sāha oḥo bālām yāt, all making a good trīṣṭubh pāda; the verse is too irregular to be called simply a trīṣṭubh. [With c, cf. 27. 10 a, above.]

2. Splendor set thou in my body (tanū), power, force, vigor, strength; unto Indra-like action, unto heroism, unto [life] of a hundred autumns, do I accept thee.

The majority of mss. again accent balām. In a, SPP. has the better reading tanvām, with the comm. and a single ms. (accidental?). [The transition-form ought probably to be oxytone, tanvām: see my Noun-Inflection, p. 412, near top.] [With our second half-verse cf. the second half of the verse just cited from TB.MS.AÇS.: apart from two or three misprints, it reads dirghāyutvāya ṣatācārādya prāti grhṇāmi (MS. grbhṇāmi: AÇS. grbhṇāmi, cf. Grammar § 195 a) mahatē vīryāya (MS. -tā indriyāya)—a confused blending of tags: cf. xi. 1. 3, 7, and so on.] [The comm. takes a, b as addressed to Agni.] Under 2 c, d and vss. 3 and 4, he speaks of the thing addressed simply as a padārtha, 'a substance,' not presuming to define what it is: an unusual restraint on his part.

3. Unto refreshment thee, unto strength thee, unto force, unto power thee, unto superiority thee do I carry about, unto the wearing of royalty for a hundred autumns.

Very likely the last word is best rendered as a noun; the comm. so takes it. The mss. all accent rāṣṭrābhṛt, which SPP. retains; our text makes the necessary emendation to -rābhṛt [cf. Gram. § 1213 c]. [Even though 3-p. maḥābhṛt be taken (Ind. Stud. viii. 243) as 12:12:12,] the definition of the Anukr. is bad: the verse is just as much an āstārāpañkti as vs. 2; [both are doubtless to be scanned as 8+8:11+11].

4. Thee with the seasons, with them of the seasons; thee unto life-time, unto splendor; with the brilliancy of the year — with that we make [thee] cheek by jowl.

[All the mss. give here ṛtūbhiṣ tvé 'ty ekā (= v. 28. 13), except W's O. and SPP's careful Dc., which have, disregarding the accents, ṛtūbhyaṣ tvé 'ty ekā (= iii. 10. 10). The metrical definition of the Anukr. as ṣuraṣṇih, coinciding with its definition of v. 28. 13 (not with that of iii. 10. 10), supports the mss. in the implication that a repetition of v. 28. 13 is here intended; and so does the pratīka given by the Anukr., which is ṛtūbhaṣ tvā "rtavāñih (not the "rtavebhyah of iii. 10. 10). The Berlin ed., accordingly, here repeats v. 28. 13: SPP., on the other hand, repeats iii. 10. 10;] in this he follows the comm., who gives at this point, curiously, iii. 10. 10 in full, and makes an entirely new commentary upon it, taking no notice of its having occurred before. The mss. appear to have confounded the two pratīkas in a measure: [and this probably accounts for the false lingualization of -bhyaṣ tvā — see note to iii. 10. 10, and observe that both mss. of the Anukr. here have ṛtūbhaṣ tv, which is neither one thing nor the other!] [For sāñhanu, W's 'cheek by jowl' is perhaps a better version than the one which he gave at v. 28. 13, 'of closed jaw, free from involuntary opening of the jaws.' A third version is given by Griffith: 'we fasten thee [the amulet] about the neck.' Dīgha Nikāya, ii. 61, suggests still a fourth interpretation, 'affected with lock-jaw,' not applicable here: cf. viii. 1. 16.]

38. With gūggulu: against disease.

[Atharvan. — tryam. mantroktagūlguluḍevatākam. ānuṣṭubham. 2 a-d. 4-p. uṣṇih; 2 e-f. 1-av. prājāpatya'nuṣṭubh.]

Found also in Pāipp. xix. Used, according to the comm. (together with hymn 39), by Parī. 4. 4, in the ceremony of a king's entrance into his sleeping-house, to the accompaniment of incense of kuṣṭha and gūggulu.

[With regard to the name of the latter substance, there is a question as to its spelling, whether with -lg- or with -gg-; and a second as to its accent, whether on the first syllable or on the last. As to the first question, the mss. are here, as elsewhere, quite at variance: see below. As to the second, the proper accent seems to be paroxytone: so TS. at vi. 2. 86, gūlgulu, nominative; and above, at ii. 36. 7, where the word is nom., both W's and SPP's authorities agree in accenting the first syllable. In this hymn, however, all of W's and of SPP's authorities agree in vs. 1 in accenting the last syllable,

-gūlās, and so both editions print: in vs. 2, again, all (save W's P.M.W., -lō) agree in having -lū; and the Bombay ed. has -lū (as nom.), while the Berlin ed. and the Index have guggulu (as voc.); whether the comm. intends guggulo (voc.) or guggulus (nom., with the later gender), I am not sure. If we read guggulu (as voc.), it may be noted that no other voc. sing. neuter from stems in u or i is registered in my Noun-Inflection (see p. 413, 390.)]

Translated: Grill, 39, 193; Bloomfield, 40, 675; Griffith, ii. 295.

1. Yākṣmas obstruct him not, a curse attains him not, whom the agreeable odor of the healing gūggulu attains.

All the mss., and SPP., read in a drundhate, which our text emends to ar-; but the form is obviously false; ā rundhate would be the simplest and easiest change. Ppp. has yakṣmā ru- [i.e. yakṣmāru-: which may of course mean yakṣmās ā ru- as well]; and, at end of b, -tho 'cñute. As everywhere, the mss. vary between gugg- and gulg- in c; SPP. adopts the latter; the comm. agrees with our text in giving the former; Ppp. has always gulg-. At the end of d, all the mss. have açñute, but this time SPP. follows us in making the necessary emendation to açñutd. [Again, as often (cf. note to xviii. 3. 47), the accent-blunder is due to a faulty assimilation,—in this case, with the accent of açñute at the end of the preceding half-verse.]

2. From him the yākṣmas scatter away, like antelopes from a wild beast. If, O gūggulu, thou art from the river, or if also from the ocean, the name of both have I taken (grah), that this man may be uninjured.

There is discordance among the authorities as to the division and numbering of the verses of this hymn. The Anukr. makes three verses, reckoning the last two pādas as third verse, and SPP. follows it, although this division is wholly opposed to the sense, as breaking a sentence in two. The comm. reckons only the first of the three lines as vs. 2, noting that it may also be explained as belonging to vs. 1, being connected in sense with that; the other two lines he makes vs. 3. Our division followed the majority of our mss., with which agree the minority of SPP's. The choice between the three modes of division is difficult, and fortunately the matter is of no importance. [Grill, p. 193, suggests that 1 a, b is the foreign element, a prefixed fragment about yakṣma. That leaves 1 c, d and 2 a, b for our first vs., and 2 c-f for our second.] The mss. all read in b mṛgā dçvā iva,* which is obviously wrong and unintelligible, though the comm., after his fashion, gives two equally worthless interpretations, once taking dçvās as an adjective (= āçugāminas) to mṛgās, and once supplying a second iva: "like deer [or] like horses." The translation follows our emendation, which is certainly plausible to an acceptable degree. Ppp. is corrupt: yakṣmiād mṛgāyaçāya vedhase. The pada-mss. blunderingly read irate at end of a; even SPP. allows himself to emend to irate. In c he again gives gulgūlū [not gugg-], with the majority of his mss.: our guggulu is in respect to accent [as voc.] an emendation (our mss. read -lū or -lō), but one called for by the following āsi; [this reason does not seem to me cogent: reading the nom. -lū (with SPP.: see introd.), we may render, 'whether thou art guggulū from the river or [guggulū] from the ocean']. In d, the mss. give either yādvāpyāsi or yādvāpyāsi (p. yāt: vā: āpi: ādāsi); SPP. accepts in his samhitā-text vā 'py āsi, but in his pada-text changes ādāsi to āsi, thus making the two texts discordant; if he had courage for the latter alteration, he should also have had it for emending āsi in samhitā to āsi, as we had done, and as is plainly required. [The text of the comm. has 'py asi.']* [But W's P.M.W., mṛgān.]

39. With kūṣṭha: against diseases.

[Bhṛgvaṅgīras. — daçakam. mantruktakūṣṭhadevatyam. ānuṣṭubham: 2, 3. pathyāpāñkti; 4. 6-p. jagatī (2-4. 3-av.); 5. 7-p. çakvarī; 6-8. aṣṭi (5-8. 4-av.).]

Found also in Pāipp. vii. The vinīyoga is the same with that of the preceding hymn. [Whitney, note to Prāt. ii. 67, speaks of the critical bearing of the fact that vs. 1 is cited by the comm. to the Prāt.: see above, p. 896, ¶ 1.]

Translated: Grohmann, Ind. Stud. ix. 392, 420-422 (parts); Ludwig, p. 198; Bloomfield, 5, 676; Griffith, ii. 295. — Hillebrandt, Ved. Mythol., i. 65-66, discussing the connection of kūṣṭha and soma, cites part of the hymn. Cf. v. 4 and vi. 95.

1. Let the heavenly rescuing kūṣṭha come hither from off the snowy [mountain]; do thou make vanish all takmán and all the sorceresses.

Of course, himāvanta may also be rendered 'Himālaya.' [For -tas pari, cf. note to Prāt. ii. 67.] Emendation in c to nāçāyan is suggested as acceptable; [and nāçayan is the reading of Ppp., both here and in 5 f]. Some of the mss. read at the beginning etu; the pada-mss. have blunderingly āltu instead of ā: etu; SPP. emends to the latter.

2. Three names are thine, O kūṣṭha: by-no-means-killing, by-no-means-harming: — by no means may this man take harm, for whom I bespeak (pari-brū) thee, at evening and in the morning, likewise by day.

In a, part of the mss. accent kūṣṭha. In b, c, SPP. reads nādyamāro nadyāriṣaḥ: nādyā 'yam etc. There is hardly any ms. that distinguishes dya and gha in such a manner that confidence can be placed in its testimony as between the two; so that, although SPP. reports nadya- from all his mss., it is really of no account. But the comm. shows that he reads nadya- by his explanation: nadya, he says, means "being in a stream (nadr)," and by "stream" is meant the waters (udākāni) in a stream; and the virtual sense is "diseases that originate in faults of water": or else, he sagely adds (betraying that his expositions are, as usual, the merest guesses of a skillless etymologist), nadya means nadaniya or çabdantiya: i.e., atyantaduṣpariharatvena çabdyamāna; and the two epithets mean "killing" or "harming" such nadyas; while the third name is nadya simply, since a killer (māraka) of nadyas is himself called nadya. We had the second of the two epithets above, at viii. 2. 6 and 7. 6, and in the former passage the comm. explained (falsely) and read nagha-. It seems hardly doubtful that our readings [with gh, not dy] and the translation founded on them are the true ones here, though that implies that the comm. worked from mss. only, and not from oral representatives of the text. [Weber, Sb. 1896, p. 681, discusses na gha.] Ppp. agrees precisely with our text in b and c (in d it has asmāi and in e dīvaḥ). In b, all the mss. read (assuming, here and later, that the character is dya, and not gha) nadyā māro (p. nadyā: māraḥ); nearly all follow it with nadyāyuso or -ṣaḥ (p. nadyā: āyusaḥ); but two of SPP's, and two others p.m., give nadyāriṣo [the comm. nadyariṣo]. In c the general reading is nadyāyāmpūruṣoriṣat, but one or two fail to accent 'yam, and a few have -so rṣat (all the pada-mss. rṣat). The comm. treats nadya in c as a vocative, and SPP. accordingly changes the accent to nādyā 'yam; in b he alters the pada-text to nadyāwmārāḥ: nadyādorisaḥ. The Anukr. pronounces this verse, as well as the two following, tryava-sāna, but nearly all the mss. omit here the sign of interpunction before na gha 'yam puruṣo riṣat, although they introduce it both times later; in this verse, our edition follows the mss., but SPP's the Anukr. In ḍ, all the mss. give pāri bra-; SPP. follows us in emending the accent to paribhrāṇmi. The comm. repeats nadyā 'yam puruṣo riṣat a second time.

3. "Lively" by name is thy mother; "living" by name is thy father:—by no means may etc. etc.

All the mss., the comm., and Ppp., read in b jīvantās, and so of course SPP.; there was doubtless no sufficient reason for altering to jīvalās in our text. Ppp. adds further, after pilā, mārṣa nāma te svasā. With a, b compare i. 24. 3 a, b.

4. Thou art the highest (uttamā) of herbs, as the draft-ox of moving creatures (jāgat), as the tiger of beasts of prey:—by no means may etc. etc.

[Pādas a-c are repeated from viii. 5. 11: see note.] Ppp. combines uttamo 'sy oṣ-. It repeats in the refrain its readings asmāi and dīvaḥ (see note to vs. 2).

5. Thrice from the Āmbus, from the Aṅgirasas, thrice from the Ādityas, thrice from the All-Gods art thou born; this all-healing kūṣṭha stands along with soma; do thou make vanish all the takmán and all the sorceresses.

All the authorities [save Ppp.] agree in āmbubhyas, and our alteration to bhṛgubhyas is not to be approved. All our samhitā-mss., and the majority of SPP's samhitā-authorities, with the text of the comm., read after it āṅgirebhyas (one or two -raye-), and the comm. takes the word as adjective (= aṅgirasam apatyabhūtebhyah) qualifying āmbubhyas. SPP. adopts āṅgirebhyas, with the rest of the mss.; our emendation to -robhyas is a very simple and plausible one, when dealing with a text in the condition of this. Ppp. is very corrupt: tiṣyāmividyogirayebhyas; in ḍ, further, it has -bheṣaja, in e tiṣṭhasi, in f nāçayan (as in i c). SPP., probably by an oversight, inserts a stroke of interpolation between ḍ and e; it is against the Anukr., and our mss. do not have it.

6. The açvatthā, seat of the gods, in the third heaven from here: there [is] the sight (cākṣaṇa) of immortality; thence was born the kūṣṭha.

This verse and the next correspond nearly with v. 4. 3, 4 (repeated as vi. 95. 1, 2). Most of the mss. accent in ḍ kuṣṭhās. SPP. adds to this verse and the next the last four pādas of vs. 5, as a refrain continued from that verse; and this is evidently the understanding of the Anukr., and the comm. ratifies it. Whether SPP. makes the addition on the authority of these two alone, or whether some of his mss. also intimate it, he does not state; not one of our mss. gives any sign of it. [Ppp. has jayatāi saḥ: presumably answering to the end of pāda ḍ of the Berlin ed.; but Roth's Collation is not quite clear.]

7. A golden ship, of golden tackle, moved about in the sky; there [is] the sight etc. etc.

As to the correspondence and the extent of this verse, see the note to vs. 6. Ppp. reads hiranyena nāur [and omits c, ḍ].

8. Where there is no falling downward (?), where the head of the snowy [mountain], there is the sight of immortality; thence was born the kūṣṭha:—this all-healing kūṣṭha etc. etc. (as vs. 5).

The mss. all [save SPP's D., which has nāvaḥ : cf. the navaḥ of Ppp.] read in a nā'va prabhṛāṇanam (p. nā : āva : prabhṛ), and the comm. so understands it (yatra dyuloke tatrasthānām sukr̥tīnām avāṇmukhaprabhṛaṇo nā'sti); and considering this (if there were such a place-name, it is just the sort of thing that we might fairly expect the comm. to know and report), and that nāva nowhere appears as combination-form of nāu, and that pra-bhṛaṇ is not used of the sliding down of a boat or ship on a mountain, and appears wholly unadapted to that use, it must be pronounced an excessively daring and not less questionable proceeding to emend to nāvaprabhṛāṇanam, translate it by the "descent of the ship," and connect it with the more modern Brāhmaṇa-legend of Manu's flood — as is done in our text, by Weber in his notes to Die Fluthsage (Ind. Streifen i. 11), and by others elsewhere [cf. Griffith's note]. Ppp. reads [sa] yatra navaḥ paribhṛaṇanam.

9. Thou whom Ikshvāku of old knew, or thou whom Kushṭhakāmya [knew], whom Vāyasa, whom Mātsya — thereby art thou all-healing.

There is almost nothing here that is not very questionable. Only the comm. has ikṣvākus in a; the majority of mss. give ikṣvākas, but some (which SPP. follows) ikṣvākas. In b the pada-mss. divide kuṣṭha : kāmyāḥ, and the comm. so understands it (kāmya = kāmaputra); SPP. follows them; though here our emendation to kuṣṭha-kāmyās seems plainly called for. In c, the mss. have yām vā vāso (or vāso : SPP. vāso) yām ātsyas t; the text of the comm., yām vā vāso yamāsyas (explained as "having a mouth like Yama's" !); here emendation is a rather desperate undertaking; the translation follows the conjectures of our text [but with ikṣvākur in a]. Ppp. reads, in a-c, pūrvakṣvāko yām vā tvā kuṣṭikā ca ahiṣyāvāso anusāricchas tenā etc. — too corrupt to give any help.

10. The head-paining, the tertian, [and] that which is constant, is hiberna — the takmān, O thou of power in every direction, do thou impel (sā) away downward.

The last half-verse is identical with v. 22. 3 c, d, above. The mss. read in a ṣṭṛṣa-lokām (p. ṣaḥlo-); and the comm. understands it as two words, ṣṭṛṣa lokām, translating "they call thy head the third world (i.e. the sky, which is third world in respect to earth)" ! Ppp. has ṣṭṛṣālākām. The comm. reads in c vṛyām, with his customary disregard of accent; [some mss. accent viṣvādhā, thus suggesting viṣvādhāvṛyām (epithet of takmānam) as a possible, if inferior, variant]. Only two or three of the mss. give the accent iṣṭiyakām, found elsewhere in the text (i. 25. 4 : v. 22. 13), and SPP. follows the majority and adopts iṣṭi. SPP. is also inconsistent in writing in pada-text sadamodīḥ but in samhitā-text sadandīr; Ppp. has instead sadanti.

40. To various divinities : for various blessings.

[Brahman. — caturṛcam. bārhaspatyam uta vāiṣvadevam. ānuṣṭubham : 1. parānuṣṭubh triṣṭubh ; 2. pūrahkakummaty upariṣṭādbrhati ; 3. brhatigarbhā ; 4. 3-p. ārṣi gāyatrī.]

Of this hymn only the first verse occurs in Pāipp. (in xix.). The comm. reports no vinīyoga, but SPP. supplies one, finding it quoted in Parīṣ. 37. 4, in a ceremony of expiation for the loss (nāṇa) of a strainer; [and again, in 37. 14, for use in case a certain earthen vessel (upayāma) falls from the hand].

Translated : Griffith, ii. 297.

1. What that is defective (chidrā) of my mind, and what of my voice hath found (? jagāma) Sarasvatī enraged, let Bṛhaspati, in concord with all the gods, mend (sam-dhā) that.

The meaning of b is extremely doubtful. SPP. reads sārasvatī against the large majority of his authorities and all of ours, which have -tīm. Our hārasvantam was a conjecture, and perhaps not a particularly successful one. The translation given (tentatively) above implies -tīm manyumatīm, while all the mss., the comm., and SPP., have -māntam. Ppp. reads sarasvatī: manuvavittam jagāma. Hardly a ms. gives an accent to jagāma (one of SPP's, probably by accident, and another, p.m.). Ppp. reads in ḍ sandadātu. There are corresponding verses in VS. (xxxvi. 2) and Āp. (xiv. 16. 1), but they cast no light on b: VS. reads yān me chidrām cākṣuṣo hṛdayasya mānaso vā 'titṛṣṇam bṛhaspātir me tād dadhātu; and Āp., yan me manasaḥ chidram yad vāco yac ca me hṛdah: ayaṁ devo bṛhaspatiḥ sam tat sīnatu rādhasā.

2. Do not ye, O waters, devastate (pra-math) our wisdom nor our brāhman; come ye flowing with easy flow, being invoked; [be] I of good wisdom, having splendor.

All the mss. accent āpas in a, and SPP. refuses to follow us in the obvious emendation to āpas, although the comm. also takes the word as vocative. At the end of b, the comm., followed by three of SPP's authorities, has mathiṣṭa naḥ. In c, the mss. read ṣusyadāt (p. the same), and the comm. understands it as ṣusyat: ā; SPP. emends by conjecture to suṣyadāt (p. suṣyadāt), which is decidedly more successful than our ṣuṣmadāt. The translation, however, ventures to emend yet further, to suṣyadāt (p. suṣyadāt: ā). Most of the mss. give syannadhvam; [W's O. and SPP's carefully corrected Dc., s.m.,] join with the comm. in syanda-, which stands in both printed texts. The translation, finally, implies our reading āpahūtās, against the mss., SPP., and the comm., which give -tas (-to 'ham); against, also, the Anukr.* but making much better meter than if c is ended with syandadhvam. The mss. and SPP. have sumédhās (the p.-mss. wrongly suomedhā); [in the edition] we [should have] rectified the accent [so as to read] sumedhās. * [The Anukr. would scan as 6+8:8+12; the Berlin text as 6+8:12+8.]

3. Do not ye injure our wisdom, nor our consecration, nor what ardor (tāpas) is ours; be they propitious to us in order to [prolonged] life-time; let them become [our] propitious mothers.

The mss. have in b hiṁsiṣṭam, and SPP. does not follow our obviously acceptable emendation to -ṣṭa. The comm., too, has -ṣṭam, and explains it by calling [into service] that everlasting pair dyāvāprthivī; but, as alternative, he apparently goes on to anticipate the pair of Aṅvins from vs. 4; there is, however, a lacuna in the sole manuscript, cutting off this explanation almost at the beginning. In c, the mss. all have sāmsvanta āy- (p. sāmsvantaḥ!), but the comm. ṣaṁsantu, explaining it as = stuvantu; [SPP. reports that the text of the comm. is ṣaṁsantu and that the sole ms. of the commentary has actually santu;] SPP. takes this, and alters it to ṣāṁ santu; our emendation to simple santu, suiting both sense and meter, is obviously to be accepted. The pada-mss. in general give ṣivā in c; [but one of W's and one of SPP's, each s.m., have ṣivāḥ;] they all [except perhaps W's L.] have ṣivāḥ in d. There is no good reason why the Anukr. should call the verse bṛhatigarbhā, since c can be read as eight syllables in either form.

4. That food (?īṣ), O Aṣvins, which, full of light, shall make us pass through the darkness, may ye give (rā) to us.

The verse corresponds to RV. i. 46. 6, and is translated from the RV. text, the AV. version being utterly corrupt, and offering a very noteworthy measure of what this nineteenth book can do in the way of corruption even of a text that is intelligibly handed down elsewhere. The ms. reading is mā naḥ pīparid aṣvinā jyōtiṣmatī tāmas tirāḥ : tām asmāt rāsātām tṣum. Our text differs from that of RV. only by reading pīparid (which is an oversight for the pīparad [Grammar § 869 c] of the RV.) and rāsātām (which is bad); [RV. has rāsāthām, to be taken as augmentless s-aorist, 2d person dual middle]. The comm. differs from RV. by giving mā at the beginning; [his text, furthermore, has rāsātām; but his comment has rāsāthām, like RV.]; he understands aṣvinā correctly as vocative. SPP. clings to rāsātām, and thinks to make it answer by accenting aṣvinā (on the authority, [probably] accidental, of a single ms.). [I suppose Whitney means to imply that, if SPP. intends to make rāsātām a 3d person dual imperative middle of the s-aorist, but from an a-stem, as explained at Grammar § 896, the form ought to be rāsetām, corresponding to the 3d singular rāsātām there noticed.] There is really no way but to adopt the RV. text throughout; any attempt at compromise simply spoils the verse. The comm. takes mā pīparat as pāram mā gamayatu, and b as its antithesis, supplying karotu to tiras; and he refers at the end to yā as read śākhāntare (i.e., in RV.).

41. For some one's welfare.

[Brahman. — ekarcam. mantroktatapodevatyam. trāṣṭubham.]

Not found in Pāipp. No vinīyoga.

Translated: Griffith, ii. 298.

1. Desiring what is excellent, the heaven-finding seers in the beginning sat down in attendance upon (upa-ni-sad) ardor [and] consecration; thence [is] born royalty, strength, and force; let the gods make that submissive to this man.

Asmē 'to us' would be an acceptable emendation in d; [but TS. has asmāt]. The comm. glosses upanīśedus simply by pṛāptās; in his explanation of c, d there is a considerable lacuna. A corresponding verse is found in TS. (in v. 7. 43; repeated without variation in TA. iii. 11. 9): bhadrām pācyanta ūpa sedur āgre tāpo dikṣām ṛṣayaḥ suvarvīdāḥ : tātaḥ kṣatram bālam ōjaḥ ca jātām tād asmāt devā abhī sām namantu.

42. Extolling the brāhman etc.

[Brahman. — catasras. mantroktabrahmadevatyam. 1. anuṣṭubh; 2. 3-av. kakummatī pathyā-pāṅkti; 3. triṣṭubh; 4. jagatī.]

Only fragments of this hymn are found in Pāipp.; [Roth's Collation says that the hymn probably stood somewhere near the beginning]. No vinīyoga is given.

Translated: Griffith, ii. 298.

1. The brāhman is invoker (hōtr); the brāhman is the sacrifice; by the brāhman the sacrificial posts are set up; the officiating priest (adhvaryū) is born from the brāhman; within the brāhman is put the oblation.

In a all the authorities [and so SPP.] read yajñās, which might better have been left unchanged. In b the authorities have mostly svāravāmītā (also svāravāmītā, and sār- or sāravāmītā), pada-text svāh : avāmītā; the comm., svāragāmītā, for which he gives a labored and worthless explanation; svāravo mītāh was our emendation, which is made certain by its occurrence in TB. ii. 4. 7¹⁰ (in a verse otherwise corresponding with our vs. 2); and even SPP. follows it. In d the comm. has brahmaṇi, which suits better with antar; but the same sense is perhaps possible with -ṇas,* which is the universal reading. Then the mss. give antārhiṭe (p. antārhiṭe); our edition emends to antār hiṭam; SPP. agrees so far as to give antārhiṭam; the comm. has either the one or the other (the absence of accent makes it impossible to say which); if brāhmaṇas is not altered to -ṇi, antārhiṭam is as good as necessary; otherwise, each is about equally acceptable. * [W. seems to have in mind such a construction as tād antār asya sār-vāsyā, at Iṅā Upanishad, vs. 5. If so, I do not see why he says that, if we read brāhmaṇas, we must also read antārhiṭam.]

2. The brāhmaṇ is the sacrificial spoons filled with ghee; by the brāhmaṇ is the sacrificial hearth set up (ud-dhā); and the brāhmaṇ is the essence (tattva) of the sacrifice—the priests that are oblation-makers: [to the slaughtered [victim] hail!]

To the verse corresponds one in TB. ii. 4. 7¹⁰, which, however, has for b our ī b (as noted above), and in c yajñāsya tāntavaḥ, and lacks the addition after d. In our text is left in a inadvertently srucās, which most of the mss. give; SPP. has the correct śrī-cas (so TB.). In b, our pada-mss. have ūt-hiṭā, [a word-division] which is contrary to Prāt. iv. 63 and to the usage of the AV. hitherto; SPP. reads in his pada-text ūddhiṭā, and makes no note upon the matter; [he had in fact a note stating that his P.P.*] also read ūt-hiṭā: but, as appears from his "Corrections" to vol. iv., p. 446, his note was disordered in printing;] the comm. has instead ūddhiṭā. In c all the authorities give yajñāsya tāttvaṃ ca [but W's P. tāntvaṃ], and SPP. retains tāttvaṃ, without even making the necessary emendation of accent to tāttvaṃ; the comm. also supports it, and it is implied in the translation given above; our alteration to yajñāc ca sāttvaṃ ca is probably more venturesome than is called for. [The place of the accent in the ms.-reading tāttvaṃ ca, the Paris reading tān, the un-Vedic look of tāttvaṃ, the ṣcaḥ prāñcas tāntavas of AV. xv. 3. 6, and the TB. parallel, all join in suggesting that the true reading is yajñāsya tāntavas.] In the appendix to the verse, the comm. reads sammitāya.

3. To him who frees from distress I bring forward my devotion (manīṣā), unto him who rescues well, choosing to myself his favor; accept, O Indra, this oblation; let the desires of the sacrificer be realized.

Or (at the end) 'come true.' A corresponding verse is found in TS. (in i. 6. 123) and in MS. (in iv. 12. 3). In a both read bhāremā [p. -ma] manīṣām, thus rectifying the meter; and Ppp. does the same; for b, TS. gives oṣiṣṭhādāvne sumatīm grṇāndh [good grammar (plural -nās) and good meter]; MS. bhūyīṣṭhādāvne sumatīm avṛṇāndh [bad in both respects]. Very nearly all the AV. authorities give in b -tīm mā vṛṇāndh; [per contra, cf. note to xviii. 2. 3]. One would like to get rid of the superfluous ā at the beginning of b by emending to ācūtrādāvne [ācu- would accord closely in sense with the oṣiṣṭha- of TS.]. [Our bhāre is evidently a corruption due to haplography, which has brought in its train the further corruption of avṛṇāndh to -nāh.] In c, d, TS. MS.

agree throughout* with AV. [save that MS. has juṣasva for grbhāya]. In c, Ppp. has havyā; only parts of the verse are left in its text; [Roth says the first word is lost]. The comm. reads sutrāmne in a, -tiṁ grṇānaḥ (like TS.) in b, and havyā (like Ppp.) in c. * [In c, the idām of the Berlin text is an emendation, since all the mss. collated by W. before publication have imām; and it is confirmed by TS.MS., which give idām, and by W's subsequently collated O., and apparently also by his L. But SPP. prints imām without note of variant; and the comm. has imam, which he makes = idam in the sense of idānim !]

4. Him who frees from distress, the bull of the worshipful, him that shines forth (vi-rāj), the first of the sacrifices (adhvarā), the child of the waters, O Aṣvins, I call with prayer (dhi); do ye with Indra give me Indra-like force.

A corresponding verse in TS. (in i. 6. 123) reads thus: prā samrājāṁ prathamām adhvarāṇām anhomūcam vṛṣabhām yajñtīyānām: apām nāpātām aṣvinā hdayantam asmin nara indriyām dhattam ojaḥ. It helps us least in the critical part of our verse, where the mss. all read aṣvinā huve [huve, havé] dhiya (p. dhiyaḥ) indriyēṇa (p. te) indr-. The translation follows our emendation (aṣvinā, with TS.; dhiyē 'ndreṇa ma indr-). SPP. follows the mss. Ppp. nearly agrees with them: aṣvinā huve dhiya indriyēṇa na indriyam dhattam ojaḥ. The comm. has dhiyam and dhattām (but his text, according to SPP., reads dhattam).

43. To various gods: for attaining heaven.

[Brahman.—aṣṭāṁ. bahudevatyam uta brahmadevatyam. 1-8. 3-av. cañkumati pathyāpāñkti.]

Not found in Pāipp. No vinīyoga.

Translated: Griffith, ii. 299.

1. Whither the brahman-knowers go, along with consecration, with ardor—thither let Agni conduct me; let Agni impart (dhā) to me wisdom: to Agni hail!

SPP. strangely prefers to read medhā da- in d, with a mere majority of his authorities, but with the comm. [who gives medhās]; our mss. also are divided between -dhā and -dhām. In the pada-text, SPP. emends to -dhāḥ; the pada-mss. have -dhā or -dhām.

2. Whither the etc. etc.—thither let Vāyu conduct me; let Vāyu impart to me breaths: to Vāyu hail!

3. Whither the etc. etc.—thither let the sun conduct me; let the sun impart to me sight: to the sun hail!

4. Whither the etc. etc.—thither let the moon (candrā) conduct me; let the moon impart to me mind: to the moon hail!

5. Whither the etc. etc.—thither let Soma conduct me; let Soma impart to me milk: to Soma hail!

The comm. has a lacuna including all the explanations of verse 4, and part of the text of verse 4 and of this.

6. Whither the etc. etc.—thither let Indra conduct me; let Indra impart to me strength: to Indra hail!

7. Whither the etc. etc.—thither let the waters conduct me; let immortality (amṛta) approach (upa-sthā) me: to the waters hail!

Our nayantu in c is the obviously necessary emendation of nayatu of all the mss., which SPP., after his manner, retains. The comm. does not have occasion to quote the word; but his text also, according to SPP., reads nayatu. [The faulty assimilation of the original nayantu to the nayatu which obtains throughout all the other verses of the sequence, is precisely paralleled by the gachati (so all authorities) after āpas at xv. 7. 3.]

8. Whither the etc. etc.—thither let Brahman conduct me; let Brahman impart to me brāhman: to Brahman hail!

The comm. explains brāhman by jagatsraṣṭā hiraṇyagarbhaḥ, and brāhman by svasvarūpabhūtaṁ śrutādhyayanajanyaṁ tejo vā.

44. With an ointment: against diseases etc.

[Bhṛgu.—daṣa. mantroktāñjanadevatyam. (8. 9. vāruṇa.) ānuṣṭubham: 4. 4-p. ṣaṅkumaty usṇih; 5. 3-p. nirṇā viṣamā gāyatrī.]

[Partly prose: verses 4 and 5.] Found also in Pāipp. xv. Used, according to the comm., with an ointment amulet, by Nakṣ.K. 19, in a mahācānti ceremony called nāirṛti, when one is seized by nirṛti (destruction). [Verse 4 is quoted in sakalapāṭha by Kāuṣ. at 47. 16, to accompany the taking of a staff in a witchcraft ceremony.]

Translated: Griffith, ii. 300.—He very pertinently notes that this hymn closely resembles in parts iv. 9. See W's notes thereon.

1. Thou art an extender of life-time; all-healing art thou called; so, O ointment, do thou [make] wealfulness; make, O ye waters, weal [and] fearlessness.

The translation follows our text, which is variously emended. In b, the mss. and comm. and SPP. read vīpṛam bhesajām; the comm. explains vīpṛam as prīṇayitr (as if it were somehow prīyam) vīpravac chuddhaṁ vā. Ppp. gives vīpṛe. In c, all have ṣaṁtāte, glossed by the comm. with ṣaṁrūpa [the ms. of the comm. actually has -pam]. In d, all accent āpas, and also (with one accidental exception) kṛtām; but one of our mss. (probably also by accident) gives kṛtā, which we adopted, with emendation to kṛta; [if I understand W's Collation Book, his B. has kṛta, without accent;] SPP. is satisfied with emending to kṛtam, as if āñjana and āpas could somehow be construed together as a dual subject. Part of the mss. have ucyate at end of b. The pāda-mss. read ṣaṁtāte without division. Ppp. has for second half-verse yad āñjani drahṁ ṣaṁtāte aṇināyo bhavaṁ kṛtam, which is too corrupt to be of any assistance.

2. What the jaundice is, the jāyānya, the limb-splitter, the visālpaka—all yākṣma from thy limbs let the ointment expel (nir-han) out.

The mss. make very bad work with the last pāda, nearly all (the variations are of no account) giving barhīr utrahantu (p. barhīh: nīh: ahantu); SPP. makes the same emendation that we had made; and [it is confirmed by] Ppp. and the comm., [which] have the same. [Three or four of SPP's authorities, including two reciters, gave bahis.]

In a, the comm. strangely reads and explains jyāyān yaḥ; Ppp. presents jāyānhyo. For visalpakas (which SPP. reads here also, as in vi. 127 and ix. 8), the comm. gives visarpakas, explaining it as vividhaṃ saraṇaṣilo vrapaviṣeṣaḥ; Ppp. has viṣalyakas.

3. The ointment, born on the earth, excellent, giving life to men — let it make [me] unperishing, of chariot-swiftness, free from offense.

Ppp. reads in d rathajūtām. The comm. thinks the word may mean either rathavadvegagāminam or rathavantam.

4. O breath, rescue thou breath; O life-breath (dsu), be gracious to life-breath; O destruction, free us from the fetters of destruction.

[Prose.] The comm. follows a different division in verses 4-7, making of them but three verses,* and of the whole hymn but nine. The method of the mss. and the Anukr. is plainly decidedly preferable; it is followed also by SPP. One does not see any justification for the division by the Anukr. of the last five words of this verse into two pādas, with five syllables (cañku-) in the closing one. [It counts 7 + 7: 7 + 5.] Ppp. reads trāyasva aso 'save. The comm. has mām instead of nas. About half the authorities give at the beginning prāṇas. [For the citation of the vs. by Kāuṣ., see introd. to this hymn, and cf. especially p. 897, ¶ 3.] * [Our 4,5ab = his 4; our 5cd,6ab = his 5; our 6cd,7 = his 6.]

5. Embryo of the river art thou, flower of the lightnings; the wind [thy] breath, the sun [thine] eye, from the sky [thy] milk.

[Prose.] SPP. and the comm. read puṣpam, and all the mss. probably are to be regarded as having it; ṣpa and sya are practically indistinguishable in the mss. Ppp. also gives puṣpam. At the beginning all the mss. have śindho (p. śindho tti); even SPP. emends to śindhos, the comm. giving it. The comm. curiously explains vidyutām puṣpam by vr̥ṣṭyudakam: one can hardly help suspecting a misreading. The Anukr. scans the "verse" (restoring the a of asi) as 6 + 5: 12 = 23; its definition is far from acceptable. [Bloomfield discusses the vs., AJP. xvii. 405.]

6. O divine ointment, thou from the three-peaked [mountain], do thou protect me all about; the herbs do not surpass (tṛ) thee — those from abroad and those from the mountains.

All the mss. [save one of SPP's] read dēvāñjanam (p. dēva-āñj-) trāṅkakudam; SPP. emends the former to -na, but not the latter to -da, although this is as indisputably vocative as the other; the comm. [with one of SPP's mss.] makes the same difference, though he regards trāṅkakudam as vocative (he trāṅk-). Ppp. reads dēvāñjani trāṅkakuda. [As to the rarity of neuter vocatives, see my Noun-Inflection, p. 339.] The great majority of mss. accent bāhyās; SPP. reads bāhyās. The comm. understands the word as meaning "from other localities than the mountains." Our emendation to bātyās, supported by an article [2. vātyā 'cultivated'] in the major Pet. Lex. [vi. 903] is withdrawn by the omission of that article in the minor Lex. Ppp. reads corruptly bāhyaṃ parvatyā.

7. The demon-slayer, disease-expeller, hath crept down over the middle here, expelling all diseases, making portents vanish from here.

The change to masculine here in b is obscure and questionable; emendation to -cātanam is desirable; it would allow idām to be understood as 'this [ointment],' which is easier and more natural. Ppp., too, has cātanañ, which gives the emendation sufficient support.* Ppp. has for a vīrañ madhyam avāsrjat. The pada-mss. commit the egregious inconsistency of reading cātīyan : nācīyat in c, d; SPP. emends in pada-text to cātīyat.* Ppp. has in d nācīyatam ivāhitā. [In c of the Berlin ed., correct sārvāc to sārvāc.]

*[Both editions print rakṣohāmīvacātanañ, and the pada-reading is rakṣaḥohā : amīvacātanañ. Whitney, doubtless by oversight, neglects to say how he would emend rakṣohā to make a corresponding neuter of it, and the question is a very troublesome one (for details, see Noun-Inflection, p. 478 end, p. 479). The neuter form would properly be -hā; but none such is quotable, so far as I know, unless here. May it be that we have here that very form, -hā (neuter), concealed in the combination -hāmīva, and that the misunderstanding of it as -hā (masculine) amīva led to a corruption of an original -cātanañ into -cātanañ and also of an original pada-reading cātīyat into cātīyan? If so, all would be in harmony.]

8. Much untruth, O king Varuṇa, doth man (pūruṣa) say here; from that sin (dīnhas) do thou free us, O thou of thousand-fold heroism.

The mss. vary between rājan and rājan, and between ānṛtam, anṛtam, and ānṛtam. The great majority accent at the end pāryaṇhasaḥ, and all the pada-mss. have pāri-ānhasaḥ. SPP. reads at the beginning bahv īdām, after the manner of the Sāma-Veda; we emended to īdām, because that is the Atharvan practice (cf. note to Prāt. iii. 65, p. 499), against which the concurrence even of all the mss. [save W's I.], as here, ought not to count. Ppp. reads in b pūruṣaḥ.

9. In that we have said O waters, O inviolable [kine], O Varuṇa, from that sin do thou free us, O thou of thousand-fold heroism.

That is, if we have called these divinities to witness an untruth: cf. the nearly equivalent vii. 83. 2 c-e. The translation implies emendation to āghnyās : vāruṇa, which can be only vocative, proves each of its predecessors such; the comm. understands all the three as vocative, and paraphrases [he] āpo yūyañ jānīdhve, he āghnyā yūyam mama cittañ jānīdhve, etc. Ppp. reads in b varuṇena yad. Our mss. read again pāryaṇh- (p. pāri-ānhasaḥ), and so apparently do SPP's, although he does not distinctly say so; [his note to vs. 8 (note 2, p. 455) perhaps makes such an implication].

10. Both Mitra and Varuṇa went forth after thee, O ointment; they, having gone far after thee, brought thee back for enjoyment (bhogā).

All the authorities [save W's E. and one of SPP's reciters], and Ppp. also, give at the end pūnar ohatu; but the pada-mss. give pūnaḥ : rohatu, which is a blunder, since the corresponding samhitā would be pūnā rohatu [which W's E. in fact has]. SPP. emends to pūnar ó "hatuḥ (p. pūnaḥ : ā : āhatuḥ), and the translation follows this, rather than our own nearly equivalent and equally acceptable emendation to pūnar ó "hatām. [Whitney here overlooks the lack of accent on the oh-: the Berlin text, the text of W's Collation Book, and his Index, under 1 ūh, all give ohatām without accent. Root 1 ūh does not appear to be quotable with ā, and it would seem that SPP's emendation (root vah with ā) must of need be preferred.] The comm., [with his text, and with SPP's reciter V., who accented pūnar āhatuḥ,] gives pūnar āhatuḥ (= pūnar āgantav-yaṁ ity ācatuḥ!). [We might better render bhogāya by 'for our use.'] Half the mss. accent with us ānu prēy- in b; SPP. gives anu, with the pada-text (anuprēyatuh).

45. With an ointment etc.: for various objects.

[Bhṛgu. — daṣa. 1-5. āñjanadevatyam; 6-10. mantroktadevatyam. 1, 2. anuṣṭubh; 3-5. triṣṭubh; 6-10. 1-av. mahābṛhaṭi (6. virāj; 7-10. niçṭi).]

[Prose in part, vss. 6-10.] Found (except vs. 9) also in Pāipp. xv., next after our 44. The practical use is, according to the comm., the same with that of 44.

Translated: Griffith, ii. 301.

1. Bringing together witchcraft to the house of the witchcraft-maker, as it were debt from debt, do thou, O ointment, crush in the ribs of the hostile eye-conjurer.

With the second half-verse compare ii. 7. 5 c, d. The first half seems to mean "paying back or returning . . . as debt upon debt, or repeated debt"; this is, except for the sense given to the ablative ṛṇāt (which he explains by ṛṇāt . . . bhittāḥ, or, alternatively, ṛṇādātur uttamarṇāt: both wrongly), the understanding of the comm. [Griffith says: "As debt from debt: as a man returns to his creditor a part of what he owes him."] Many of the authorities give riṇād riṇām (Ppp. has ṛṇ); and some accent the first syllable, ri- or ṛ-. At the end of a, nearly all have saiṇṇayām (p. saṇṇayām), but the comm. saiṇṇayan, which SPP. adopts (saṇṇāyan) and which is followed in the translation above, as being a smaller alteration of the original than our emendation. sām naya, and at least equally acceptable in point of sense. In c the comm. has the bad reading caḥṣur mitrasya. Ppp. ends d with āñjanam.

2. What evil-dreaming [is] in us, what in [our] kine, and what in our house, also the . . . of one hostile, let him that is unfriendly take upon himself (prati-muc).

Both sense and meter require the emendation in d of priyās to āpriyas, and the comm. has the latter, but all the authorities,* and Ppp. (durhārdaṣa priya pra), and SPP. give the former. In c, the general reading of the mss. is anāmagas tvām (p. anāmagah : tvām); for tvām ca is found tvām ca, tām ca, tānta, [tvāc ca, tā ca, tac ca]. SPP. accepts anāmagas tām, but what sense he can possibly attach to the words does not appear. Ppp. gives māmagatasya dur. The comm. reads anāmakas tac ca, which is equally impossible; and he makes a senseless explanation of anāmakas: idrīnāmā idrīnāmā 'ty evaṇi nāmarahitaḥ; and he falsely regards durhārdaṣa as a nom. sing. qualified by anāmakas. Our conjecture, anāmagastvām 'guiltlessness' would make a good anuṣṭubh pāda, and be very near to the reading of the mss.; but it would be, equally with anāmayatvam, discordant with duṣṣvāpnyam, and would require priyās in d. [Ppp. reads muñcatā at the end.]

*[The reciter V., curiously, has as an alternative, durhārda 'priyās, which (the accent being wrong) is neither one thing nor the other, but may well be taken as supporting the comm's reading āpriyas, as against priyās; the true samhitā-reading would then be durhārdō 'priyah.]

[The solution of this desperate passage seems to me to be suggested by 57. 5 below, of which the first part is identical with our a, b here, and of which the second part begins with anāsmākās tād and ends (nearly like v. 14. 3 d) with niṣkām iṣa (pronounce niṣkēva) prāti muñcatām. In our c, d I would read anāsmākās tād durhārdō 'priyah prāti muñcatām (pāda-reading duḥhārdāḥ : āpriyah), and render 'that let him who is not of us, the evil-hearted, the unfriendly, put upon himself.' The tād is supported by the comm., and in a measure by SPP's D.V. and C^s.; the āpriyas, by the comm. and V. (as above) and the meter; and anāsmākās comes near to the ms.-readings, and, indeed, considering the dnāmakas of the living reciter V. and of the comm., is not ill supported.]

[It remains to note that no valid objection can be taken against making a nom. sing. of durhārda-s: its use as such is a natural way of avoiding the form from the consonantal stem (which was as much of a stumbling-block to the ancient Hindu as it is to the modern tyro in Sanskrit), and is entirely analogous to the use of hṛdayam rather than hṛd (cf. my Noun-Inflection, p. 471). The comm. is accordingly right in saying here durhārdo duṣṭacittaḥ, as he was also in glossing the suhārt of ii. 7. 5 by ṣobhanahārdaḥ sumanaskaḥ. The nom. durhārda-s is a form of transition to the a-declension, with durhārd-am (so viii. 3. 25) as its point of departure (cf. durhārdān of the mss. at xix. 28. 8); just so the later pāda-s (from pād-am) replaces the older pāt (Noun-Inflection, p. 471).]

[Of the older nom. sing. masc. or fem., however, the true form is suhār, p. suohāḥ, of which traces, albeit scanty, are found in the Veda: one is at MS. iv. 2. 5, p. 26¹⁹, priyā naḥ suhār naḥ; and another is at AV. ii. 7. 5, where both ed's read yāḥ suhārt téna naḥ sahā. Here the samhitā-authorities taken together are divided between suhārt téna (so 11) and suhāt téna (so 6); but the pada-authorities (7 out of 8) give suohāt, the notable exception being the ṣrotriya K., who recited the true form suohāḥ. The samhitā-form for this ought to be suhās (téna), and possibly this form is concealed in the reading suhāsténa of S^m, etc. If not, then (since rtt = rt: Gram. § 232) we may regard the combination suhārt t- as representing suhār t-, nom. suhār, with breach of the rule of sandhi requiring the change of suhār to suhās before t-. The motive for this breach was perhaps to avoid disguising still further the form suhār, itself extremely rare and none too easily recognized; and the motive is perhaps as clear as it is in the case of aves avet, ajāis ajāit, etc., cited by W., Gram. § 555 a.—The nom. suhārt seems to be grammatical and not intolerable in the texts, and to be unparalleled (cf. Noun-Inflection, p. 472).]

3. Increasing from the force of the refreshment of the waters, born out of Agni Jātavedas — may the ointment that is four-heroed, that is of the mountains, make the quarters, the directions, propitious to thee.

In a, ūrjās might, of course, be ablative, coördinate with śjaśas; the whole expression is too obscure to help the construction by the sense. The comm. reads ūrjam; Ppp. combines ūrjo 'jaso, and has in c parvatām. The Anukr. does not heed the redundant syllable in c.

4. The four-heroed ointment is bound to thee; be all the quarters free from fear for thee; firm shalt thou stand, like Savitar desirable; let these people (vīṣas) render thee tribute.

In a, b Ppp. combines bādhyatā 'ñj-, diṣo 'bhayās. In c, the mss. [with one or two exceptions] read cāryā i- (p. ca: āryāḥ); SPP. alters the accent to cārya (p. ca: āryaḥ); our emendation to vāryas [W's B. has vāryā i-] is not absolutely necessary, yet certainly a plausible improvement; and it is in a certain measure supported by Ppp., which gives vāri imā; the translation above implies it. The comm. understands arya, vocative, rendering it by svāmīn. In d all the mss. have vīṣas [but W's E. seems to have diṣas], and our substitution of diṣas was hardly called for; but Ppp. favors it, reading diṣo bhriyante. The comm. gives two explanations for the strange epithet caturvīra, showing that he is merely guessing what its sense might possibly be. We have in d again an extra syllable of which the Anukr. takes no notice.

5. Use thou one as ointment; make one an amulet; bathe with one; drink one of them; let the four-heroed one protect us about from the four destructive bonds of seizure (grāhi).

All the mss.* have at the beginning ākṣva, which the pada-text leaves undivided; SPP. goes so far as to emend the latter to ā : akṣva, but is unwilling to follow us in reading ā 'nksva, although akṣva is no possible form, and the comm. agrees with our emendation. Ppp. reads ākṣakam maṇ. In b the mss. give ēkenāpivālkam, and the pada-mss. resolve it into ēkena : āpi : vā : ekam. Our emendation to ēkena pibāt 'kam is evidently just what is required; but SPP. chooses to retain ēkenā, and so reads [in pada-text] ēkena : ā : piba, remarking that "if RW. had discerned the ā after ēkena, their very correct emendation would have been free from the defect of unnecessarily changing the ancient accent of the sāṃhitā-text." This reads like a joke, considering how the text of book xix. (not to speak of previous books) abounds in gross errors of accentuation, and how often we and he have been compelled to emend it—for example, in the preceding verse, where the "ancient accent" cāryā was changed by him to cārya. [Apart from this passage,] the compound ā + pā does not occur in the Atharvan, and, although it is not unknown, it would be distinctly out of place here. The version of the pāda in Ppp. is totally corrupt: ṣvāṣikenapavīkam eṣām. The comm. reads ēkenā 'vivekam eṣām, and labors, with his usual ill-success, to devise an explanation of avivekam. To ekam etc. he supplies āñjanam; as his reading gets rid of the fourth, he connects the first three with the "three-peaked mountain" from which the ointment is derived: triṣu parvatakakutsū 'ṭhannāni! Apparently the fourfold-ness is related in some way or other to the "four-heroed"-ness. In d, the comm. commits the extraordinary blunder of taking grāhyās as gerundive: grahitavyā āñjanamayā oṣadhayaḥ! and this compels him to change pātu to pāntu. The pada-mss. (except one of SPP's, p.m.) have grāhyā, they also failing to recognize the not uncommon noun grāhi; SPP. makes the necessary emendation to -hyāḥ. * [But SPP's Sm., ākṣvāikam.]

6. Let Agni favor (av) me with fire (? agnī), in order to breath, to expiration, to life-time, to splendor, to force, to brilliancy, to well-being, to welfare: hail!

The comm. is uncertain whether by the second agni (agninā) is meant agnitvadharmena, or pūvākādiguṇakena svamārtyantarenā 'gninā sahitaḥ. All the mss. accent subhūtāye here, [but sūbhūtā at iii. 14. 1 (cf. Grammar § 1288 e): SPP. accents here -tāye, with the mss.; but the Berlin text sū here, in conformity with both editions and the mss. at iii. 14. 1.] Ppp. reads mā agninā.

7. Let Indra favor me with what is Indra's (indriyā), in order to breath etc. etc.

The comm. gives a double interpretation of indriya. Ppp. again has mā indriy.

8. Let Soma favor me with what is Soma's (sāūmya), in order to breath etc. etc.

The comm. explains sāūmyena as somatvasampādakena dharmena jagadāpyāyana-kāritvādidharmena.

9. Let Bhaga favor me with fortune (bhāga), in order to breath etc. etc.

The comm. has here a lacuna, embracing the commentary to this verse and the text of the next. [The verse is wanting in Ppp., as noted above.]

10. Let the Maruts favor me with troops, in order to breath etc. etc.

Ppp. reads this time suprabhūṭaye. It is possible to make out of these prose "verses" the number of syllables demanded by the Anukr. Perhaps the modification nicrt belongs only to vss. 7-9 (the manuscripts are discordant and unclear).

[Here ends the fifth anuvāka, with 12 hymns and 74 verses.]

46. With and to an amulet called āstrta 'unsubdued.'

[Prajāpati. — saptakam. āstrtamaṇḍivātām. trāṣṭubham: 1. 5-p. madhyeṣyotiṣṭamā trīṣṭubh; 2. 6-p. bhurik cakvarī; 3. 7. 5-p. pathyāpaukti; 4. 4-p.*; 5. 5-p. atijagati; 6. 5-p. uṣṇiggarbhā virād jagati.] * [The Anukr. says: indrāya tvā (vs. 4) catuṣpadā: asmin maṇḍv (vs. 5) iti pañcapadā jagati (Berlin ms., atijagati): most unsatisfactory; and why should vs. 4 be defined as 4-p. ?]

Found also in Pāipp. iv. (in the verse-order 1, 2, 6, 5, 3, 4, 7). Used, according to the comm., by one desiring strength, in a mahācānti ceremony called mārudgaṇṭ, with a threefold amulet named āstrta, being so prescribed by Nakṣ.K. 19.

Translated: Ludwig, p. 462; Griffith, ii. 302. — See also Bergaigne-Henry, Manuel, p. 165.

1. Prajāpati bound thee first [as] unsubdued (āstrta), in order to heroism; it do I bind for thee in order to life-time, to splendor, and to force and to strength: let the unsubdued one defend thee.

Āstrta is literally 'not laid low.' In the two occurrences above (i. 20. 4: v. 9. 7) it is accented on the final; but, as āstrta would be the normal accent, it is left here unchanged in our text, as well as in SPP's. The pada-texts read in a badhnāt, but that is no reason why we should not understand it as abadhnāt, and our text (not SPP's) so prints it. Our text further emends at the beginning of c the tāt of the mss. to tām, as required by the gender of āstrtas. The omission of badhnāt in a, and of vārcase in the second half-verse, would make an anuṣṭubh (apart from the refrain); but the meter throughout the hymn is unusually careless of regularity, and Ppp. has both words, reading in a, b badhnātu prathama sambhṛtaṁ, and in d, e combining vārcaso 'jase and ca āstrtas. [With c, d, cf. iv. 10. 7 c, d.]

2. Standing upright, defend thou this man unremittingly, O unsubdued one; let not the Paṇis, the sorcerers, damage thee; as Indra the barbarians, [so] do thou shake down them that fight [us]; overpower and scatter (vā) all our rivals: let the unsubdued one defend thee.

All the mss. [with unimportant variants] read in a tiṣṭhanta; SPP. emends to tiṣṭhatu, because the comm. reads the latter; our tiṣṭhan suits the connection decidedly better. [The vocative āstrta and the tvā are] perhaps sufficient reasons for our altering the vākṣann of the mss. (also of the comm. and Ppp.) into raṁṣa, and the translation follows [the printed text of Berlin]. To humor his tiṣṭhatu, SPP. changes the following āstṛta (mss. āstṛte 'mām ; p. āstṛta : imām) to āstṛtas [but only in the pada-text, so that his saṁhita does not agree therewith] ; our text simply emends to āstṛta [accentless] ; the comm. also regards the word as vocative. Ppp. has instead saṁbhṛta, [and, if I understand Roth's Collation, combines it with a following corrupt imanu, so as to read saṁbhṛte 'manu] ; and, in c, Ppp. has indrī 'va. The majority of mss. accent pr̥tanyātas. The Anukr. apparently means us to scan thus : 11 + 4 + 11 : 15 + 8 + 8 = 57.

3. Whom even a hundred, hurling (pra-hṛ), smiting down, have not subdued (str), to him Indra committed sight, breath, also strength ; let the unsubdued one defend thee.

In a, the pada-mss. wrongly divide ca : nā, and SPP. follows them. In b, about a third of SPP's authorities read vighnāntas ; Ppp. has bhijanto. The yām that follows it is our emendation, plainly suggested by the meter, the requirement of the sense, and the accent of the verb ; but the comm. and Ppp. agree with the mss. in lacking it. At the end of b our tastiré is an emendation (now supported by Ppp., which has the same reading) for the tastiré of the mss. (one or two have tasthiré), the comm. [but the ms. has nirastire] , and SPP. ; the comm. explains it as = tastarire, with Vedic omission of part of the ending : this is of his usual degree of insight ; what SPP. would do with his tastiré is hard to see ; the emendation to tastiré is obvious and unquestionable. For tāsmīn in c Ppp. gives yasmin. The mss. in general read pāryadanta (p. pāri : adanta), but two or three of ours, with the comm's text (SPP.), -ntaḥ ca ; our emendation to pāry adatta, now ratified by Ppp., is accepted by SPP. The comm's explanation implies pāri yad antaḥ ca ; and he takes the yat as a form of root i (pāri yat pāryagamayat pariṣṛitavān) ! With the insertion of yām in b, the verse is a good pañkti, as defined by the Anukr.

4. With Indra's defense (vārman) we surround thee, who became over-king of the gods ; let all the gods lead thee forward again ; let the unsubdued one defend thee.

A part of the verse [pāda b, it would seem?] has fallen out in Ppp. ; [this has dhāmāi for dhāpayāmo]. The meter is insufficiently defined by the Anukr. (13 + 11 : 11 + 8 = 43) : [see introduction, above].

5. In this amulet [are] a hundred and one heroisms ; a thousand breaths in this unsubdued one ; a tiger, do thou attack (abhi-sthā) all [our] rivals ; whoso shall fight against thee, be he inferior (ādharma) : let the unsubdued one defend thee.

SPP. reads in b asmin ; our asmin is given by a small minority of the mss. ; the majority have dsmin, some asmin, one asmin. [The vs. (11 + 10 : 11 + 11 + 8 = 51) is a triṣṭubh (defective in b), with the refrain added : see introd.]

6. Snatched out of ghee, rich in honey, rich in milk, thousand-breathed, hundred-wombed (?-yōni), vigor-imparting, both wealful and delightful, both rich in refreshment and rich in milk — let the unsubdued one defend thee.

[We had a at 33. 2 a, above : cf. v. 28. 14.] Ppp. reads at the beginning ullabdhās ; one or two of SPP's mss. have dūrluptas [cf. note to xviii. 2. 3], ūrluptas. In b, all the authorities (save one or two) give śaśāsraṁ prāṇās or śaśāsa prāṇāḥ

(p. sahāsram : prāṇāḥ); * but the comm. implies (perhaps only by his usual neglect of accent) sahāśraprāṇas, and SPP. reports one of his mss. as giving the same; and he accordingly follows us in adopting it; Ppp. reads with the mss. [sahasram prāṇaḥ]. The comm. gives an extraordinary explanation of yonī in b: yonīcabdena śatrusaṅ-gamananimitāṁ caturvīyojanasādhanam vā balaṁ vivakṣyate: that is, without any regard to the established meanings of yonī, he takes it here as a mere representative of the radical sense of the root yu 'unite' or of the root yu 'separate'—he does not venture to decide which! The metrical description of the Anukr. is fairly correct (11 + 12 : 7 + 8 + 8 = 46). * [These corruptions of the true sahāśraprāṇas are noteworthy as examples of faulty half-way assimilation of a reading to something similar in the immediate context: here the cause of the confusion is plainly the sahāsram prāṇāḥ of vs. 5 b.]

7. That thou mayest be superior, free from rivals, rival-slaying—mayest be controler of thy fellows—so may Savitar make thee: let the unsubdued one defend thee.

The mss., and SPP., read in a uttaras (p. utotardāḥ); our text makes the necessary emendation to úttaras. In c, the same read asat; we emended to asas, and ought to have gone a step further and accented dsas, since the following táthā shows that the three preceding pādas are all alike under the government of yáthā; Ppp. has in c, with us, asas. Ppp. further combines 'so' sapatnaḥ in a-b, and reads tvā abhi in e.

47. To night: for protection.

[Gopatha. — navakam. mantroktarātridevatyam. ānuṣṭubham: 1. pathyābṛhaṭi; 2. 5-p. anu-ṣṭubgarbhā parātijagati; 6. purastābṛhaṭi; 7. 3-av. 6-p. jagati.]

Found also in Pāipp. vi. According to the comm., hymns 47 and 48 form a single "sense-hymn" (arthasāhita), and 49 and 50 another; and their use is prescribed in Paṇḍ. 4. 3-5, as of two hymns, in a ceremony of worship of night.

Translated: Ludwig, p. 467; Zimmer, p. 179; Griffith, ii. 303.

1. O night, the earthly space (rājas) hath been filled with the father's orderings (dhāman); great, thou spreadest thyself (vi-sthā) to the seats of the sky; bright darkness comes on (ā-vṛt).

The verse is VS. xxxiv. 32, and is also found as first verse of a khila (Aufr., p. 682) to RV. x. 127, in both places without variant. [It is quoted in Nirukta, Dāivatakāṇḍa iii. 29.] Ppp. reads in b pitaras prāyu dh-, and in c sudhānsi. The comm. holds 'the father' in b to designate the "skye world" (dyuloka), quoting the commonplace dyāuḥ pītā prthivī mātā in support of it; dhāmabhis he glosses with sthānāḥ saha, and tvēsam with dīpyamānam. [For dhāmabhis we might perhaps better say 'by or in accordance with the orderings'; but Griffith understands it as 'wondrous works.']

2. She of whom the further limit is not seen, nor what separates; in her everything that stirs goes to rest (ni-viḥ); uninjured may we, O wide darksome night, attain thy further limit—may we, O excellent one, attain thy further limit.

In a, SPP. accents dādṛce, without adding any note as to ms.-readings; it is perhaps merely an oversight, as all our mss. save one have plainly dādṛcé, and this is the Atharvan accent (cf. x. 8. 8), against RV. dādṛce, which is wholly anomalous. Ppp. reads yoyavad, and, in b, nī miṣate rejati; its c is wholly corrupt. The comm. connects na yoyavat with what follows, and explains it thus: na vibhajamānaṁ vibhaktam nā 'sīt kin tu viçvam ekākūram evā 'bhūt. The RV. khila, in vs. 4, has pāda e, twice repeated.

3. The men-watching lookers that are thine, O night, ninety [and] nine — eighty are they [and] eight, also seven [and] seventy of thine;—

In b, SPP's pada-mss. have navatīh. In c, the decided majority accent açtīs, and all santi, which SPP. emends to sānti, thus changing "the ancient accent," and without sufficient reason, since santi is defensible, 3 c to 5 b inclusive being of the nature of a parenthesis, extending the navatīr nāva of 3 b. The khila [vs. 2] to RV. x. 127 has a corresponding verse [as also has ÇÇS. at ix. 28. 10], with yuktāsas for draṣṭāras, with santu in c, and [so the khila, at least] the accent saptā in d. The Atharvan mss. vary between sāpta and saptā; our text gives the former, SPP. the latter, which is better, as being the usual Atharvan accent, and having [about] half the mss. in its favor. The comm. explains the draṣṭāras as "troop-gods" (gaṇadevās), and does not so much as hint at any connection with the stars, which nevertheless we cannot well question to be meant, in their various and manifold groupings. A ca after aṣṭāu in c would be a welcome addition to both meter and sense.

4. And sixty and six, O wealthy one; fifty [and] five, O pleasant one; four and forty, three and thirty, O mighty (vājīn) one;—

Ppp. has in b naçamnihi, in d vādini.

5. And two of thine and twenty of thine, O night; eleven the least (avamā) — with those protectors today do thou protect us, O daughter of the sky.

At beginning of d all the authorities [with one unimportant variant] read nā, which seems impossible. We emended it to nt (cf. nt pāti in ix. 10. 23); SPP., following that blind guide the comm., reads nū; this is entirely unacceptable, both on account of the sense, and because nū cannot stand at the beginning of a pāda: cf. note to v. 6. 5. The authorities are much at odds as to the accent of duhitār divās, the majority having duhitār divās. Ppp. reads in b rātrī ek.

6. Let no demon, [no] mischief-plotter master us; let no evil-plotter master us; let no thief today master our kine, nor a wolf our sheep;—

The mss. have at the beginning rākṣā (p. rākṣa), as 2d sing. imperative, and pāda d of RV. vi. 71. 3 (the verse is found also in VS. [xxxiii. 69] TS. [i. 4. 24¹] TB. [ii. 4. 47] MS. [i. 3. 27]) gives the same, [as does RV. vi. 75. 10 d]. The translation follows our conjectured emendation, which, in view of the implausibility of the impv. rākṣa standing so alone, has a right to consideration. Ppp. reads mākir yo a-.

The comm. reckons our 6 a, b as a whole verse [his 6]; our 6 c, d and 7 a, b as his vs. 7; our 7 c, d and 8 a, b as his vs. 8; our 8 c, d and 9 a, b as his vs. 9; and our 9 c, d and 10 as his vs. 10; thus making the sixth verse instead of the tenth to consist of two pādas only, while yet counting ten verses in the hymn. SPP., on the other hand [see his Critical Notice in vol. i., p. 24], counts vs. 6 as our edition does, but adds our 8 a, b to our vs. 7 to form his vs. 7, thus making it of six pādas; and then counts our 8 c, d and 9 a, b as his vs. 8, and our 9 c, d and 10 as his vs. 9. This is in accordance with the Anukr. [in that it gives six pādas to vs. 7 and makes a total of 9 vss.], and is a decidedly preferable division to that in our text, which was founded on the numbering of our first mss., and it will be followed in translating here. The sense, however, would be still better suited by making vs. 6 of three lines, instead of vs. 7. [In what follows, I give first the numeration of the Berlin edition, and then, in parenthesis, SPP's numeration.]

7, 8 a, b. (7.) Nor a robber our horses, O excellent one; nor the sorceresses our men.

By the most distant roads let the thief, the robber, run; by a distant one let the toothed rope, by a distant one let the malignant hasten (१३).

As to the division, see under the preceding verse. In the fourth pāda, part of the mss. accent taskarās. In the first, there is discordance among them as to the accent of bhadre. The 'rope with teeth' is of course the snake, as the comm. also has sense to see (rajjivād āyataḥ sarpādīḥ). Our 8 a, b is identical with iv. 3. 2 c, d; and our 7 c, d resembles a, b of the same verse. [For yātudhānyās the comm. reads the masculine, nās.]

8 c, d, 9 a, b. (8.) Do thou, O night, make the snake blind, harsh-smoked (?), headless; grind up the two jaws of the wolf; cast (ā-han) the thief into the snare.

[Apart from the variation in c, the verse is identical with 50. 1, below: see note thereon.] All the mss. (except, by accident, one of SPP's) at the beginning have andha; SPP. reads adha, with one ms. and the comm.; but adha is plainly out of place, and andham, as emended in our text (it should have been accented andhām; [correct the misprint]), a very plausible correction. Our rendering of trṣṭadhūma is mechanically accurate; probably the word is corrupt; Ppp. reads the pāda andho rātri tiṣṭadhūmam. The comm. explains as ārtikāri dhūmo viṣajvālādūmo ni- (ms. vi-ṣvāsadhūmo vā yasya; the translators understand -dhūma as "breath" or "odor"; [Griffith renders 'with pungent breath']. In c, d the mss. have jambhāyāstēna tān drupadē jahi (but many of them have -bhā). SPP. follows them and prints jambhāyās tēna tān dr- from this our text makes a bold departure * [implying as its pāda-reading jambhaya : ā : stenām : drupadē : jahi]; but something had to be done to make sense; any one is invited to do better if he can. The comm. reads with the mss., and forces through a meaningless version. Ppp. has a different and corrupt text: hano vṛkasya jambhayādvāinān nṛpate jahi [cf. end of note to 50. 1].

* [The assumption of an ā (ā . . . jahi) after jambhaya is supported by nirjāyāstēna . . . jahi at 50. 1 c, d, below, where the collocation is almost unequivocal (see the note); for although jāhyās (as given by the pāda-mss.) is a good optative of hā, the combination of hā with nis is hardly Vedic, and we must there assume the division nir jāhy ā ste, the locative drupadē fitting well with ā jahi (cf. i. 11. 4; x. 8. 4 c). The rationale of the corruption here is not hard to see: the hiatus between c and d being once covered by the fusion of the final of jambhaya with the ā of ā stenām, nothing was easier than to see a form jambhāyās in the first part of the combination, and then to substitute tēna for the vastly less common stenām or for the meaningless tendm (which might be read out of the combination: see Prāt. ii. 40 note); the exigency of the meter occasioned by the blunder with jambhāyās then made the insertion of tām easy. With the Berlin solution of the corruption, the meter is in perfect order. The interesting parallel from the Avesta, hām zavva zembayadhwm, Yasht i. 27, adduced by Geldner, KZ. xxx. 514, may here be noted.]

9 c, d, 10. (9.) With thee, O night, we stay; we shall sleep, do thou watch; yield refuge to our kine, horses, men (pūruṣa).

'Stay' (vas) means specifically 'spend the night.' In b the pada-mss. commit the incredible blunder of dividing svapīṣyām: āsi (or asi); some of the samhitā-mss. accent svāpīṣyā; and all either jāgrhi or jāgrhi; SPP. follows us in violating the "ancient accent" and emending to jāgrhi. In c, Ppp. has yachād aḥ.

48. To night: for protection.

[As 47. — ṣaṭ. ānuṣṭubham: 1. 3-p. ārṣi gāyatrī; 2. 3-p. virāḍ anuṣṭubh; 3. bṛhatīgarbhā; 5. pathyāpāṅkti.]

Found also in Pāipp. vi., in connection with hymn 47, with which it also shares its liturgical application.

Translated: Griffith, ii. 305.

1. Now then what things we note, or what things are within the box, those things we commit to thee.

The first pāda here differs widely from the traditional text, which instead of cāyāmahe has ca yāsmā (p. yāsmāi) āha, or (a minority) yāsmāha; the comm.'s text (according to SPP.) gives ca yasmā ha, but his explanation implies instead yasmāi (explained as = yasya); and SPP. accordingly reads in samhitā-text ca yāsmā ha, and in pada-text ca: yāsmāi: ha, which is altogether to be condemned, since the two texts must correspond, and yāsmā is also no word. SPP. in a note proposes further emendation of our cāyāmahe to ca yāmahe (= īmahe or yācāmahe), which seems entirely unacceptable, as regards both form and sense. The whole verse is so obscure in meaning that we get little help from this element in reconstruction of the text; yet it is plain that we do not commit to another that which we do not possess, but are only wishing for. Ppp. also fails us; its reading of a, b is atho yāni tamassahe yāni cā 'ntaḥ pareṇihi. The yāni-vāntāḥ of b is by the pada-mss. strangely resolved into yāniṣva: antāḥ (but one of SPP's has p.m. yāni: vā: antāḥ). It is also strange that SPP. emends to cā 'ntāḥ, on the sole authority of the comm., though as regards the sense there is nothing to choose between ca and vā. All the mss. accent parīṇahi (except our pada-mss., which have parīṇāhi; and one of SPP's has s.m. pāri: nāhi); but SPP. follows our emendation parīṇāhi. Nearly half the mss. have at the end dadhmasi, and Ppp. agrees with them. The comm. in his explanation connects the verse closely with 47.9: there one's [domestic] animals were spoken of, here one's very numerous house-articles (bahiṣṭhāni grhāvartini . . . vastāni); and in two classes: those out in open sight (anāvṛtadeṣe), and those inside an enclosed house or the like (parito naddhe pariṇrite grhādau).

2. O night! mother! commit thou us to the dawn; let the dawn commit us to the day, the day to thee, O shining one (vibhāvārī).

Compare 50.7, below*; also MB. i. 5. 15, where more such commitments are given. The comm. reckons the first division of the verse to vs. 1. The metrical definition of the Anukr. is mere arithmetic ($12 + 10 + 8 = 30$). The pada-text, both here and below, leaves vibhāvārī undivided (RV. vibhāvārī). * [Also vi. 107. 1-4.]

3. Whatsoever flies here, whatsoever that is crawling (sarīrpa) is here, whatsoever creature is on the mountain — from that do thou, O night, protect us.

The third pāda is wholly corrupt. All the mss. read parvatāyāsātvaṃ (p. pār-vatāya : sātḥ : tvām), with some differences of accent (-yāsātvaṃ, or -yāsātvaṃ, or -yāsātvaṃ); and the comm. and SPP. (in saṃhitā) follow them (SPP. -yāsātvaṃ; but in p., by emendation, -tāya : asātvaṃ, since the comm. so understands). Our text emends to pārvaṇy āsaktam 'what has fastened on the joint,' which seems extremely unsatisfactory. The translation above is perhaps hardly better, but it implies a text much closer to the mss. — pārvaṇa (i.e. -te, hence -tay) ā sattvaṃ; and so it may pass for what it is worth; it is by no means proposed as a definite solution of the difficulty. Ppp. has padvad āsunvan, which gives no help. Ppp. also reads yadi kim three times.

4. Do thou protect behind, thou in front, thou from above and from below; do thou guard us, O shining one; here we are, thy praisers.

5. They who follow (anu-sthā) the night, and who watch over beings, who defend all cattle—they watch over our selves (ātman), they watch over our cattle.

The mss. accent *jāgrati in ḍ and e, and in ḍ the accent might well enough be retained, on the principle of antithesis; SPP. gives jāgrati, like us. Emendation to jāgratu would be decidedly welcome in both pādas. Ppp. has considerable variations: for b, yeṣu bhūteṣu jāgrabhi,† and, for ḍ, e, tenā tvam asi jāgratu te naṣ paṇubhir jāgratu: corrupt, but supporting our proposed jāgratu. * [It is very reasonable to suppose that in jāgrati at end of ḍ and e we have two cases of assimilation of an original jāgratu to the jāgrati which stands correctly at the end of b (cf. note to xix. 43. 7), each case being doubly faulty, in respect, namely, of accent and of ending.] † [In Roth's Collation there is a note which perhaps means that Ppp. reads jāgrati for rākṣanti at end of c; but I am not at all sure.]

6. Verily I know thy name, O night; thou art "ghee-dripping" (ghṛtācī) by name; as such Bharadvāja knows thee; do thou watch over our property.

In b, Ppp. combines vā 'si; in c and ḍ it reads, with our edition, tvā and jāgrhi, while SPP. gives tvām and jāgrati, the latter for jāgrati, as all the mss. [save one] read; our emendation was a perfectly obvious one, and should have been followed by SPP. The comm., to be sure, reads -rati, but, by the simple application of his general rule, that any verb-form can be used for any other, he is able to declare it = jāgartu—which SPP. has too much knowledge and conscience to do. The pāda-mss. have tvām, tvām, and tvām; our tvā was an emendation, called for after tām. More than half of the mss. accent bharadvājās. In our text, the accent-sign printed over jā in ḍ should be shifted to over dhī: it is a misprint.

49. Praise and prayer to night.

[A 47.*—daçakam. ānuṣṭubham: 1-5, 8. tristubh; 6. āstārapaṇkti; 7. pathyāpaṇkti; 10. 3-av. 6-p. jagati.] * [The Anukr. adds bharadvājaç ca (or bhārad-), apparently meaning that Gopatha and Bharadvāja were jointly the seers in the case of this hymn.]

This hymn and the following occur together also in Pāṭh. xiv. Their viniyoga is the same with that of the two preceding hymns (see under hymn 47). They are translated together (but in reversed order) by Ludwig.

Translated: Ludwig, p. 466; Griffith, ii. 306.

1. The lively woman, household maiden, night, of god Savitar, of Bhaga, all-expanded, of easy invocation, of assembled fortune (?-çrī), hath filled heaven-and-earth with greatness.

In a, the pada-mss. read dāmūnā; SPP. emends to -nāh. In c, all the mss., with the comm. and SPP., read açvakaṣabhā (p. açvakaṣabhā), which, as being unintelligible, our edition emends at a venture to viçvavyacāś, and the translation follows the latter, for lack of anything better. The comm. gives two explanations: açu (= āçu) + akṣa + bhā (= abhibhavati or tiraskaroti), meaning çighrapravṛtticakṣurādinirodhikā; or, alternatively, by analogy with vs. 4 c, açvakaṣā (= açvān kṣayati or kṣapayati) bhā (= dīptih) yasyāḥ sā: both as absurd as possible. Ppp. reads açvakaṣarā. Many of the mss. read sāmbhṛtaçrīr, and the pada-mss. divide falsely sāmbhṛtaçrīh instead of sāmbhṛtaçrīh; SPP. follows them. Ppp. reads sāmbhṛtaçrīr ā.

2. The profound one hath surmounted all things; the most mighty one hath ascended to the loftiest sky; the eager night spreads toward me like a friend with excellent svadhās.

The translation follows our text of the verse, which, however, is full of emendations, and by no means satisfactory. Nearly every ms. reads at the beginning āvi (one dvīm, and one authority [SPP's reciter V., with impossible accent] ābhi), while Ppp. has ābhi, which is also, except for the accent, an easier emendation for āvi. The comm. has ati. Nearly all authorities, again, have for verb in a āruhat (the accent is perfectly defensible as an antithetical one, and might well have been left in our text); but the reciter V. gives (ābhi) ārhat, thus agreeing in part with the (ati) arhat of the text of the comm.; [and one of W's mss. has āsahat]. The explanation of the comm. reads atyarhati, which he glosses by atikramya vyāpya vartate, which is wholly without authority, since even the Dhātupāṭha gives only pūjāyām as the sense of ārḥ. Ppp. has aruhāt. SPP. goes half way with the comm., adopting āti . . . aruhāt (unnecessarily abandoning the "ancient accent" of the verb). All authorities have viçvāni (but Ppp. only viçvā ar); and all [save Ppp. again] have gambhīrō, p. -rāḥ, [but one of W's pada-mss. gives -rā, p.m.], although the comm., against his own text (according to SPP.), explains gambhīrā. Here perhaps Ppp. brings help, reading gambhīrō 'd varṣ; this is better than our -rā = rā : ā. [The gambhīrā of the Berlin ed. seems to be a misprint for gambhīrā, if we judge by the Collation Book and the Index Verborum: but it may be intended as an emendation, as it certainly is a metrical improvement.] SPP. reads gambhīrō vā, although gambhīrās is simply unusable, and the change to -rā as easy as possible. Nearly all, including Ppp., read varṣiṣṭham, [save three of SPP's authorities and one of W's, which have -ṣiṣṭam]. Then follows in nearly all aruḥāntas, p. aruḥāntah; but -hānta is found in one, -hānta in two, and arhāti is given by a reciter, with the comm.; the comm. has arhati, and explains it precisely as he did his ati . . . arhati above; SPP. emends to aruhanta; our [ā . . .] dyām aruhāt is very bold, but the case was a desperate one. Ppp. reads aruḥād agraṇiṣṭhā, and this, with emendation to āgramiṣṭhā (cf. RV. iv. 4. 12), makes acceptable sense. One of SPP's mss. has çramiṣṭhā, but doubtless only by accident; all the other authorities, including the comm., have [apart from some unimportant details] çraṇiṣṭhā, which SPP. emends to çrāṇiṣṭhā. There was probably no sufficient reason for our changing çrav- to çdv- in our text. The fairly acceptable and least altered version of the line would be this: abhi viçvāny āruḥād gambhīrō 'd varṣiṣṭham aruhād āgramiṣṭhā. The third pāda is in equally bad condition. All the authorities [with unimportant variants], including Ppp., have at the beginning uṇatī rātry (a-), but the pada-mss. give rātri instead of rātri, as they should give, and as SPP's pada-text reads by emendation. What follows in the pada-mss. offer as ānusāma : drāhim (or drāhtim); in the samhitā-mss. the first word appears as ānusāma (once ānusama) or (accentless, and so making one word with -drāhim or -drāhi) anusāma- or ānusāma-; and the second appears as -drāhim, -drāhi, drāhim, drāhtim, drāht, drāvi, prāhim. The rest of the half-verse, tiṣṭhate mitrā iva svadhābhīh, is the same in all, including the comm. and Ppp. SPP. emends to ānu sã bhadrã 'bhi ti-, which appears to be modeled on our ānu mā bhadrābhīr vi ti-, but is defective both in sense and in meter. The comm. gives anukṣaṇam vi ti-, cutting loose entirely from the ms.-reading; his own text, according to SPP., has anusāmadrã vi ti-. Ppp., finally, has avasāna bhadrãd vi ti-, which suggests the emendation uṇatī rātry āvasã no bhadrã vī tiṣṭhate etc. Our vī tiṣṭhate, at any rate, is by the support of Ppp. and the comm. put nearly beyond question.

[I have made some modifications in the above paragraph which I could not well indicate by the ell-brackets. — For those who do not have the Bombay ed., it may be well to give SPP's reconstructions of the verse : first, the text of the comm. : ati viṇvāny arhad gambhīrō varṣiṣṭham arhati ṇaviṣṭhā : uṇatī rātry anusāmadrã vi tiṣṭhate mitrā iva svadhābhīh; second, the text which the comm. actually explains : ati viṇvāny arhati gambhīrã varṣiṣṭham arhati ṇaviṣṭhā : uṇatī rātry anukṣaṇam vi tiṣṭhate mitrā iva svadhābhīh; third, SPP's reading : āti viṇvāny aruhad gambhīrō varṣiṣṭham aruhanta ṇaviṣṭhā : uṇatī rātry (p. rātri) ānu sã bhadrã 'bhi tiṣṭhate mitrā iva svadhābhīh.]

3. O desirable, welcome, well-portioned, well-born one! thou didst come, O night; mayest thou be well-willing here; save thou for us the things that are produced (jātā) for men, likewise what [are] for cattle, by prosperity [puṣṭyā].

[Or, '[and] prosperous,' if we read puṣṭā.] The mss. all read in a vārye, which we need not have altered to vārye, as vārya is found elsewhere as early as TB.; Ppp. has niryāi. Three of SPP's authorities and one of ours have vāndye, [one has vēde], the rest with Ppp., vānde; the comm. vade (= sarvāir abhiṣṭīyamāne). Ppp. has svajātā. In b, most of the mss. begin with ājāgan (one djāgan; p. ḍ : jā : agan), and the true reading is in all probability ājāgan, impf. intensive of gam; or, if left as "pluperfect," as in our edition, it should at any rate be ājāgan, as SPP., with the comm., reads. Rātri is our (evidently called-for) emendation for rātri of the mss., which SPP. follows. Syās, at the end of b, is also for syām of the mss., the comm., and SPP.; it is an obvious improvement, though not quite necessary [and receiving no support from Ppp.: see below]. Ppp. has a peculiar (and corrupt) version : ā (if svajātā, as quoted above, is for svajātā ā) cāgni rātri sumanā hy asyām. In c, the translation implies emendation of asmānis to asmé, against all the authorities, including Ppp. and the comm. The pada-mss. read jātāh, their natural inference from the rare and anomalous combination jātā ātho; SPP. emends to jātā. In ḍ, Ppp. reads ṇriyā instead of ātho, and at the end puṣṭyā, with all the mss. (they vary only as to its accent), and with SPP.; our conjectural emendation puṣṭā is supported only by the comm. [text and explanation].

4. The eager night has taken to herself the splendor of the lion, of the stag, of the tiger, of the leopard, the horse's bottom, man's (pūruṣa) roar (māyū); many forms thou makest for thyself, shining out.

The samhitā-mss. accent rātry uṇatī (p. rātri : uṇatī); SPP. emends, with us, to rātry uṇatī; the comm. also understands rātri. The mss. all [with trifling variations] read piśāśya or pīṣāśya (or sīśāśya); SPP. accepts pīṣāśya; the comm. gives piśāśya, which is doubtless only a bad spelling of our piśāśya; [lion and stag are mentioned by these names together at RV. i. 64. 8;] Ppp. has nīpāśya; and, at end of b, varcādhe. In c, all the authorities, including Ppp. [but not the comm.], offer bradhñām; the translation implies correction to budhñām,* which is the reading of the commentator (he explains it as = mūlam) [and adds, aṣṭavṛtyasya vego hi mūlam]; in vi. 38. 4 we had the horse's vāja and man's māyū combined; and TB. (ii. 7. 7¹) in the corresponding passage reads krāndye for vāje. The comm. explains māyū as ṣabdam āhvānā-dilakṣyaṃ. Ppp. has kṛṇuṣi for -ṣe. [The majority of the authorities read vibhātīḥ at the end.] * [Cf. āṣṭvabudhna, RV. x. 8. 3; and Aufrecht on āṣṭvabudhya, ZDMG. xxiv. 206.]

5. Propitious to me [be] night and [the time] after sunrise; be the mother of cold (himā) easy of invocation for us; notice, O well-portioned one, this song of praise, with which I greet thee in all the quarters.

The translation implies in a a new conjectural reading: çivā me rātry anūtsūryāni ca; an accusative is opposed by the connection, and the meter needs another syllable. Anūtsūryā is venturesome, but we had otsūryām, p. āutsūryām, above, at iv. 5. 7. At any rate, neither our text nor that of SPP. (çivām rātrim anūtsūryāni ca) seems to give any sense. Ppp. supports the mss.: çivām rātrim ahi sūryam ca; the majority of the samhitā-mss. have çivām rātrim ahi sū, others anu for ahi (p. çivām : rātrim : anūtsūryam : ca); the comm. has rātrimahi, and understands it as rātri (voc.) mahi (= mahāntam, and qualifying sūryam /). [SPP. suggests çivā rātri mahi sūryaḥ ca.] In b, Ppp. has yamasya. In c, nearly all the mss. read aṣṭā (or āṣṭā) for asyā; and the pada-mss. treat it as an independent word; SPP. has asyā, with us. In d, a few mss. have vāndye or vādye. Ppp. reads at the end vikṣu.

6. Our song of praise, O shining (vibhāvan) night, like a king thou enjoyest; may we be having all heroes, may we become having all possessions, through (ānu) the out-shining dawns.

The mss. read at the end anūśāsaḥ (p. anūśāsaḥ); SPP. emends as we had done. Ppp., in b, c, d, has joṣaṣi yathā naḥ sarvavitrā bh-. The verse is very ill described by the Anukr.; it is a good pañkti with one syllable wanting in c.

7. Pleasant names thou assumest:—whoso desire to damage my riches, them, O night, do thou burn continually, so that no thief be found, so that he be not found again.

The translation follows our text, which is considerably altered from that of the mss. All of them, with the comm. and SPP., have at the beginning çamyā, for which our rāmyā is, so far as the written form is concerned, a very easy emendation. The comm. explains: "thou wearest the name çamyā = çatruṣamanasamarthā"; one of his usual absurdities. Ppp. reads for a, b çamyā ha nāma taruṣe vimrechanti yo janān. There seems to be no good reason why dadhiṣe should be accented. Nearly all the mss. give dhanāḥ at end of b; the comm. understands dhanā, and SPP. reads it. For c the pada-text is rātri : hiṭā [or hi : tā]: naḥ : sutapā! The comm. understands instead rātri : 'hi tām asutapā, and SPP. follows him, making a new pada-text to correspond (rātri : hi : tām : asutapā). The comm. explains asutapā as either "burning their life-breaths" (asu-tapā) or "badly burning" (a-su-tapā). Ppp. gives no help, reading [for our c, ḍ, e: it is not clear just how much of the reading is to be assigned to c] rātri hīrcāna sadanātasteno anuvaidyate. Our emendation is fairly acceptable; but the hi [which, with the imperative, hardly needs a separate word in translation] requires that we accent anūtāpa. For our yāthā, in ḍ and e, the mss. and SPP. give the first time yās and the second time yāt; the comm. both times yas; the meter and sense alike call for our emendation. Ppp. has for both pādas only ta steno anuvaidyate, [which might (see above) be understood as atas steno etc.].

8. Excellent art thou, O night, like a decorated bowl; thou bearest [as] maiden the whole form of kine; full of eyes, eager, [thou showest] me wondrous forms; thou hast put on (prati-muc) the stars of heaven (divyā).

Of this verse also the translation is a make-shift, following in part the mss. and in part our conjectural emendations. In a the only point of question is the last word, which the mss. read as śiṣṭās (so the majority) or śiṣṭās or viṣṭās [etc.]; the comm. has viṣṭas (= bhojanārtham pariviṣṭas). Ppp. gives the whole pāda as bhadrā 'si rātris tapaso nu viṣṭo. In b, nearly all the mss. give viṣvam gōrūpaṇi yuvattī [several have -tīm] bibharṣi (one has bibh-), and this the translation follows, alterations not seeming to supply a better sense. SPP., however, follows the comm. in offering viṣvaṇ for viṣvam (in samhitā he prints it incorrectly viṣvaṇ gō, as if there were an assimilated final in the case); [but in his Corrections at the end of vol. iv. he duly notes the error;] he would hardly accept the comm's interpretation, = viṣṇu (one gender for another); but how he would render it, it is hard to see. Ppp. reads viṣvaṇ gōrūpaṇi yuvattid vi-bharṣi, but another hand has written above -tir bibha-. In c, nearly all the mss. (including the comm's text, as stated by SPP.) leave me unchanged before uṣatī, and SPP. accepts it in his text, though against all rule and practice; two of our mss. have ma. [All the authorities give cakṣuṣmatī, and this is followed by the comm. and SPP., and also by W. in the translation, therein departing from the emendation ('to me having eyes') of the Berlin ed.] Ppp. has for the pāda cakṣuṣmatī ve yuvattī 'va rūpaḥ. The translation supplies a verb, as seems necessary unless the text be still further altered. For ḍ the general ms.-reading is prātī tvāṁ divyā tākmā amukthāḥ (also tvām and tvā for tvāṁ, and takmā: p. takmāḥ or -māḥ); but the comm. offers prātī tvāṁ divyā nā kṣām amukthāḥ, and this SPP. accepts [accenting thus] and prints. Ppp. has pratyāṁ dityāṁ divyām arukṣam amugdhāḥ. The comm's version of the text is senseless, and his attempt to put meaning into it very absurd; it might suggest prātī tvāṁ divyā nākṣatrāṇy amukthāḥ. Our text ought to accent tārakā am, if the reading is admitted.

9. What thief shall come today, [what] malicious mortal villain, may night, going to meet him, smite away the neck, [away] the head of him;—

The two following pādas [10 a, b] evidently belong to this verse rather than to verse 10; but our division is that of the mss. and the Anukr., and so is adopted also by SPP. The comm. inserts another line after our 9 a, b: yo mama rātri surūpa āyati sa sam-ṣiṣṭo apāyati; and then he divides the four lines that follow into two verses of four pādas each, giving eleven verses to the whole hymn. The majority of mss. accent martyās in b. The comm. reads harat for hanat at the end. Ppp. has yu dya stenā yutu aghāyu mṛtyo rūpaḥ; and, in ḍ, pra giyasva pra. Pāda a is the a of iv. 3, 5, [of which the b recurs here as the second pāda of the comm's inserted line and also as the fourth pāda of our vs. 10.]

10. [Away] his feet, that he may not go; [away] his hands, that he may not harm.

What marauder shall approach, may he go away all crushed; may he go away, may he go well away; may he go away in a dry place (?).

At the end of b, the majority of mss. read yāthāḥṣiṣaḥ, which all the pada-mss. resolve into yāthā : ḥṣiṣaḥ; [most of] the rest, and SPP., give yāthā ḥṣiṣat; the comm. yāthā ḥṣiṣat (= saṁḥṣeṣayet). Ppp. offers pra pādāu na yat ākataḥ pra hastāu na yanāḥṣiṣat. In e, the pada-mss. compound sudāpāyati, doubtless wrongly; [read as pada-text sū : āpa : ayati]. All the mss., the comm., and SPP., give in f sihāpāu, and the comm. explains it as = śākhopaśākhārahītaṣṭamūla ācraṣe. After it, the mss. have apāyataḥ (p. apaśyataḥ), but the comm. agrees with us in āpā'yati, and SPP. accordingly also adopts it. The translation follows throughout the emendations of our text; perhaps, in f, sihāne would be better than sihālē, as more closely resembling the ms.-reading. We are deprived of the help of Ppp. upon the point, as it skips from apāyati in e to trīṣṭadhūmam in 50. 1 a; for c, d, it had yo mulalanī sulapāyati sa saṁpiṣṭyo nṛpāyati. We had d above as iv. 3. 5 b; [cf. the end of the note to vs. 9].

50. To night: for protection.

[As 47. — saptakam.]

Follows also in Pāipp. xiv. our hymn 49. Has the same liturgical use as hymn 49. Translated: Ludwig, p. 465; Griffith, ii. 307.

1. Do thou, O night, make the snake blind, harsh-smoked, headless; smite out the eyes of the wolf; cast the thief into the snare.

This verse is nearly identical with that translated as 47. 8 above (8 c, d and 9 a, b of the printed text). As there, the mss. have at the beginning āndha, which SPP., with the comm., changes to ādha; and all, in c, d, have nīr jāhyās tēna tān* [or tvān] ārupadē jāhi in a manner analogous with the reading there. [The translation implies the division nīr jāhy ā . . . jāhi: cf. my note to 47. 8.] [Apart from some less important variants,] the mss. are divided, as often in such cases, between akṣāu and akṣyāu, and SPP. chooses the worse, akṣāu; our akṣyāu is alone defensible. Ppp. omits (see note to 49. 10) the first two words, and reads, as at 47. 8, trīṣṭadhūmam; [it begins the second line with hano vṛkasya and ends it (as above) with nṛpate jāhi; what the intervening words are is not clear from Roth's Collation]. [Meantime Bloomfield kindly informs me that Ppp. reads the line thus: hano vṛkasya nīr jāhy ā tvāinanā nṛpate jāhi: this gives no support for a jāhyās (see note to 47. 8); but the tvāinanā obviously stands in some relation to the dvāinanā of the Ppp. reading at 47. 8, which is jambhayādvāinanā.] * [The pada-reading is nīh : jāhyāḥ : tēna.]

2. What draft-oxen thou hast, O night, sharp-horned, very swift, with them do thou today pass us always (viṣvāhā) over difficulties.

SPP. follows the mss. in the false accent tīkṣṇa in b. In c, d, he reads pārayā'ti with us and with the comm. (also with Ppp.), [but against the mss., most of which] have pārayaty āti. In b, Ppp. gives ṣṛṅgyāvāsavaḥ.

3. May we pass (tr) night after night receiving no harm with ourselves (tanvā); may the niggards fail to pass [it], as men without boats a deep [water].

Or tanvā belongs to tarema. The comm., against the accent and the sense, takes āriṣyantas as a future participle (= gamīsyantas)! Ppp. reads in c, d apravāyusaṇi na tarehur ar-.

4. As the millet-seed, flying forth, blowing away, is not found, so, O night, make him fly forth who is malicious against us.

The mss. read in a mostly çamyākas (so the comm. and SPP.), also çyāmyākas and çyāmākas; and have prapātan or prāpātan, with other chance variations; and in b, apavūṭn (p. apa-vūṭn) or -vūṭn; in respect to this word, the translation [taking it as present participle of apa-vā] follows them rather than our emendation aparām. None of the mss. accent na, but SPP. ventures [with the Berlin ed.] to emend the reading. At the beginning of c, the mss. all have etāv ā [several ā] (p. etāv : ā); the comm. and SPP. (also Ppp.) agree with our evā. The majority of mss. have at the end -yānti. Ppp. has in a, b sānyākas prapātante divān nā 'nu-; in d it combines yo 'smān.

5. Thou didst make the thief stay away, and the kine-driving robber, also him who, haltering the courser's head, tries to lead it [away].

The pada-mss. strangely read at the beginning apāh; the rest [save one of SPP's, p.m., which has āpa] accent apā; SPP., as well as our text, emends to āpa, which the comm. also understands. All the mss. have vāsas, and the comm., and SPP.; our avāsayas is a bold emendation, but makes both good meter and good sense. Ppp. gives, no help: apa stedaṇ vāsamathavi. In b, SPP. follows the comm. in reading goajām; most of the mss. give gór ājam, but a part górājas (p. górājah! but one ms. gó 'jah [or gójāh: that is gó and jāh with avagraha-sign between], corrected to gódjāh). [Ppp. reads gotham.] The comm. absurdly takes goajām as a copulative compound, = gā ajāñ ca, and makes it and vāsas objects of ninīṣati. The translation implies rather SPP's text than ours [that is goajām rather than gór ājam, I suppose]. [At the end, the nineṣati of the Berlin text is doubtless to be corrected to ninīṣati (cf. the stems in W's Roots, Verb-forms, etc., p. 233-4): ninīṣati is read by Ppp., by W's O.D.I., and (since he reports nothing to the contrary) by all of SPP's authorities. From the Index Verborum and from the Roots (p. 91) it would appear that W's later judgment rejected the nineṣati of the text and some mss., though he has overlooked the matter here. The desiderative] so distinctly calls for a prefix that one is tempted further to emend ātho in c to āpa.

6. When, O well-portioned night, thou comest today, sharing but what is good, [then] make us to enjoy that, that it go not away.

The translation follows our text, which is very different from that of the mss. and SPP. Our adyā in a implies adyā ā (ā . . . āyas), which all the pada-mss. have, while SPP., with the comm., treats it as only adyā with the final lengthened by the usual Vedic license. In b all the mss. accent vt bhajanti [p. vt : bhajanti]; SPP. emends to vi-bhājanti, while our text means vibhājanti. The comm. understands -nti [supplying çatrasvas as subject], and takes āyas after it as the noun, 'metal' (ayamayaṇ vastu); for us āyas is verb. [Ppp. has vasuḥ at end of b.] In c the mss., the comm., and SPP., begin with yād; we have emended it to tād. For d, most mss. have yāthe 'dām nā 'nupāyāsi (p. anuopāyāsi); but one -yāti, one -dānyānu-; SPP. follows the comm. and prints yāthē 'd anyān upāyāsi (p. upādāyāsi), but in a note conjectures yāthē 'd anyān nō 'pāyati 'that it go not unto others,' which is very acceptable, as giving a good sense with less alteration of the original text than our version requires. Ppp. is wholly corrupt: yathed yasmā nitājaya yathed anyān upāyati; but the last pāda favors SPP's conjecture.

7. Unto the dawn, O night, do thou commit us all, free from guilt; may the dawn bestow (ā-bhaj) us on the day, the day on thee, O shining one.

The comm., two of SPP's reciters, and Ppp., read in c bhajat. Compare the verse 48. 2, above [and MB. i. 5. 15, there cited].

51. Accompanying acceptance (?).

[Brahman.—dve. 1. ātmadevatyā; 2. sāvitrī. 1. 1-p. brāhmy anuṣṭubh; 2. 3-p. yavamadhya 'ṣṣiḥ (1, 2. 1-av.).]

[Prose.] Both the "verses" of this hymn are quoted in Kāuṣ. 91. 3, in the madhuparka ceremony, accompanying acceptance (prati-grah) of the offering. The second verse contains a formula very often used in the liturgical literature,* and this formula, as far as hastābhyām, occurs several times in Kāuṣ., given in full, and not to be regarded as having anything to do with the verse here; the same is the case with the use of the formula in Vāit. 3. 9. There is nothing to correspond to the hymn in Pāipp. * [An idea of its frequency may be gained from the array of citations (fourscore or more) given by Knauer in his Index to MGS., p. 151 a. See the table on p. 896, and cf. p. 896, end.]

Translated: Griffith, ii. 308.

1. Unrepelled (? dyuta) am I, unrepelled my soul, unrepelled my sight, unrepelled my hearing, unrepelled my breath, unrepelled my expiration, unrepelled my out-breathing, unrepelled the whole of me.

We unfortunately lack the comm's interpretation of dyuta, there being a lacuna in the ms. at this point; SPP. supplies sampūrṇa, it does not appear on what authority, but certainly without the least particle of plausibility. [The count of the Anukr. (48 syllables) implies restoration of all the elided a's.]

2. In the impulse of the heavenly impeller (savitṛ), with the arms of the Aṣvins, with the hands of Pūshan, I, impelled, take hold of thee.

To render (in the first clause) 'of god Savitar' would hide the word-play between prasa and savitṛ. The syllables (if the a of *aṣvino*s is restored) count 10 + 11 + 6 = 27: a pretty poor uṣṇiḥ.

52. Of and to desire (kāma).

[Brahman.—pañcakam. mantroktakāmadāivatam. trāṣṭubham. 3. 4-p. uṣṇiḥ; 5. upariṣṭād brhati.]

Found also in Pāipp. i. Used* in Kāuṣ. 6. 37, with xix. 59, at the very end of the sections on the parvan-ceremony (hence perhaps a later addition?), to appease the fuel in case there has been an omission of the due ceremony; again, in 45. 17 (with iii. 29. 7 vi. 71; vii. 67), after the end of the vaṣācamana ceremony (also here a later addition?) to accompany the acceptance of something; once more, in 68. 29, in the savayajñas, with the acceptance of the sacrificial gifts (? sadaksīnam); and the Paddhati (note t Kāuṣ. 79. 28) adds it at the end of the chapter of marriage ceremonies. The comm. notes the Kāuṣ. uses, but not the Paddh. one; and he adds one application, from Pariç. 10. 1, of this hymn with the two following and xix. 6 (the puruṣasūkta), in the rite of presenting a golden image of the earth. * [See table on p. 896.]

Translated: Griffith, ii. 309. — Cf. ix. 2, above.

1. Desire here came into being (sam-vrt) in the beginning, which was the first seed of mind; O desire, being of one origin with great desire, do thou impart abundance of wealth to the sacrificer.

The first half-verse is nearly identical with RV. x. 129. 4 a, b [TB. ii. 4. 1¹⁰; 8. 94; TA. i. 23. 1], which differ only by adding ādhi at end of a; the word is missed in our verse both for sense and for meter. Our text omits * at beginning of c a sá (sá kāma) that is in both these respects superfluous; it is found, however, also in Ppp. The comm. explains kāmena bṛhatā to mean mahatā deçakālavastuparicchedarahitena kāmāyitrā parameçvareṇa. The last pāda is xviii. 1. 43 d. * [And so accents kāma.]

2. Thou, O desire, art set firm with power, mighty, shining (vibhāvan), companion for him who seeks a companion; do thou, formidable, overpowering in fights, impart power [and] force to the sacrificer.

The second pāda nearly corresponds with RV. x. 91. 1 d, which, however, reads suśākhā sakhiyātē. The authorities give sakha ā sakhiyātē (or -te); and the pada-mss. make the very blundering division vibhān : āsakhe : ā : sakh-. [The comm. understands sakhiyate (not as dative pple, but) as finite verb-form (3d sing., which would have to be accentless: he says bhavacchaddākyāhāreṇa prathamapuruṣaḥ.] SPP. follows the comm. in reading vibhāva sakha ā [SPP's pada-text is vibhāvā : sakhe : ā]; but he disagrees with the comm. by [making a participle of] sakhiyātē, which he accents. The translation implies sākhā, i.e. sākhā ā. [We have ā with the denominative grāvyāt at RV. v. 37. 3; but with the pple, ā seems very strange; nor do I see how W. meant to take it. One is tempted to fall back on the RV. reading suśākhā: the more so, inasmuch as] Ppp. presents the RV. reading suśākhā. In d, Ppp. has soho 'jo yaj-.

3. To him that desired from afar, that trembled on at the inexhaustible — the places (āṇā) listen to him; by desire they generated heaven.

It is of no consequence how this verse, especially the first half, is rendered; it is nothing but corrupt nonsense. The degree of its corruption may be seen by comparing it with the corresponding verse in TA. iii. 15. 1: sadyāç cakamānāya pravepānāya [Poona ed., -vepān-] mṛtyāve : prā 'smā āṇā aṇṇvan kāmēnā 'janayan pūnaḥ; neither version is translatable. The majority of authorities read in b pravipāṇāyākṣaye [or -ākṣaye] (the pada-readings are, for the first part, pravipāṇāya, and, for the second, ākṣaye or āṇāyā or ākṣaye); but some have pratipāṇāya [the lingual n of which seems to betray the ti as a corruption for vi] and paripāṇāya. The comm. understands pratipāṇāya and ākṣaye, and SPP. follows him, accenting pratipāṇāya and ākṣaye, and reading in pada-text pratiopāṇāya (as if that would or could become in samhitā-text -pān-!); with his usual carelessness, the comm. takes -pāṇāya, in spite of its n, from root pā (= sarvatorakṣaṇāyā 'bhimataphalaprapāṇāya: the latter equivalent looks as if he also saw something of pra-āp in it!). Ppp. has in b pratipāṇāyākṣe, in c āsmā 'aṇṇvan, and in d -janayat saha. The translation implies in b pravipāṇāyā 'kṣaye. The Anukr. apparently scans the verse as 7 + 7: 7 + 7 = 28.

4. By desire hath desire come to me, out of heart to heart; the mind that is theirs yonder, let that come unto me here.

In TA. (iii. 15. 2) a corresponding verse follows the one quoted under vs. 3: kāmena me kāma ā 'gād dhṛdayād dhṛdayam mṛtyōh: yād amīṣām adāh priyām tād āt 'tū 'pa mām abhī. SPP. has the same text as we, both deviating in ā from the mss., which leave upa unaccented (p. upa-mām); [but SPP's R. has upa mām and the comm. also takes upa mām as two words]. Ppp. combines kāmā "gan in a.

5. Desiring what, O desire, we make to thee this oblation, let that all succeed with us; then eat (vṛ) thou of this oblation: hail!

The verse is found, [cited by pratīka at Kāuṣ. 92. 30, and] written in full [sakala-pāṭha] at 92. 31, prescribed for use at the end of the madhuparka ceremony.* SPP. gives the same text as we; the mss. leave kṛmāsi unaccented in b, and most of them accent it after it. At the beginning, all the pada-mss. [except possibly L., of which no note is made] very strangely read yātōkāmāḥ, though no saṃhitā-mss. have kāmāḥ; [with the support of the latter, as also of the comm. and of Ppp., both ed's read yāt kāmā]. * [See p. 897, ¶ 3.]

53. Praise of time (kāla).

[Bhṛgu. — daçakam. mantruktasarvātmakakāladevatyam. ānuṣṭubham: 1-4. triṣṭubh; 5. nirṇī purastādbrhatī.]

This hymn and the following, which (as even the Anukr. [cf. introd. to h. 56] points out) are only two divided parts of one hymn, occur also in Pāipp. xiv. and xii. (53. 1-6 in xiv.; 53. 7 to 54. 6 in xii.). They are translated together by Muir, Ludwig, Scherman, and Bloomfield. As kālasūkta, they are used by Pariç. 10. 1 in connection with the preceding hymn (kāmasūkta): see under that hymn.

Translated: Muir, v. 407; Ludwig, p. 191; Scherman, Philosophische Hymnen, p. 78; Grill, 73, 193; Deussen, Geschichte, i. 1. 210; Griffith, ii. 309; Bloomfield, 224, 681. — Cf. also Monier-Williams, Indian Wisdom 3, p. 25; Hillebrandt, Veda-Chrestomathie, p. 41. — The epic kāla-verses are in rather a different vein: cf. Böhrtlingk, Ind. Sprüche, 1688-1709, 3193-6; Hopkins, in AJP. xx. 25, etc.

1. Time (kālā) drives (vaḥ) [as] a horse with seven reins, thousand-eyed, unaging, possessing much seed; him the inspired poets mount; his wheels are all beings (bhūtvana).

The 'wheels' in ā show that the 'mounting' in c is not on the back of the horse, but on the chariot drawn by him. Ppp. combines in a kālo 'cvo v, and reads in b akṣaras, and in c vīpaçyatas. There is nothing at all noteworthy in the exposition of the comm. [In ā, read cakrāṇi ?]

2. Seven wheels doth this time drive; seven [are] his naves, immortality (amṛta) forsooth [his] axle; he, time, including (?) all these beings, goes on as first god.

The principal difficulty is here in the third pāda, where our arvāṇ (though accepted by all the translators without any heed to the ms.-readings given at the foot of the page) is a very bold and questionable emendation, most of the mss. (with the comm. [the ms. has añjan *] and SPP.) giving instead añjat, a few añjāt, and some of ours anyat or ayat (evidently accidental and unimportant variations); Ppp. has añjan [i.e. bhuvanāñjan]; arvān is not to be accepted as at all satisfactory, much less authoritative; it is no proper antithesis to pratyān† in 3 c, nor construable with the accusative. The translation, for a venture, implies bhūvanā nyanjan, evolving a sense for nyanjan out of nyakta 'inherent'; it may pass for what it is worth. All the mss., and SPP., read in a cakrān [and so does Ppp.]; the comm. has cakrā 'nu vahati. The redundancy of syllables in d could be easily remedied either by omitting the superfluous sā (left out in the translation) or by reading irte for īyate [or by reading sé "yate with double samdhī as Ppp. suggests]. Ppp. reads kāle sāiyyate. The comm. has in b amṛtañ tanv akṣaḥ. [For the nū of d, the ms. of the comm. has in fact u.] * [The comm. has in one place añjat, explained as añjan; and, in another, the ms. of the comm. has (as noted) añjan, which SPP. prints as añjat = prerayan!]

† [It is a curious fact that Whitney here anticipates and parries the very argument in favor of the Roth-Whitney emendation arvān which Bloomfield later adduces, SBE. xlii. 684. W. may have written this in 1893 or thereabouts. Bl's translation appeared in 1897.]

3. A full vessel is set upon time; we indeed see it, being now manifoldly; it [is] in front of all these beings; it call they time in the highest firmament (vyòman).

[For '[is] in front of' W. interlines the alternative 'faces toward.'] All the mss. [save W's P.: santīh] read at end of b santās, and SPP. retains it, without even changing its false accent; the comm. glosses it with satpuruṣās, or, in an alternative explanation, with sadrūpabrahmopāsakās. Our emendation to sāntam is supported by Ppp., which gives nī santāñ. We also emend the pācyāmas of the mss. (and SPP.) to pācy. Ppp. combines in a to adhi kālā "hitas, and reads in c pratyāñ. The highly obscure 'full vessel' is thus illuminated (?) by the comm.: pārṇaḥ sarvatra vyāptaḥ kumbhaḥ kumbhavat kumbho 'horātramāsartusamhvaṣarādirūpo 'vacchinno janyaḥ kālāḥ.

4. He indeed together brought beings; he indeed together went about (pari-i) beings; being father, he became son of them; than him verily there is no other brilliancy that is higher (pāra).

The position of sām in a and in b is so strange that we are tempted to emend both times to sān 'being';* one pada-ms. reads sān in a, but this can count for nothing. The comm's exposition omits sām in a [there seems to be a gap in the ms.], but duly treats it (sanyak parigacchati) in b. Ppp. reads in b sa yava sañ pari-yāñ. [With c (pitā . . . putrās), cf. the note to 54. 3 a.] The Anukr. takes no notice of the metrical irregularities. * [In that case, perhaps we might render sā evā by 'the same.']

5. Time generated yonder sky, time also these earths; what is and what is to be stands out sent forth by time.

SPP. reads in a amūm with a small minority of the authorities, and with the comm.; Ppp. also has it, [combining 'mūm]. For b, Ppp. gives kālāi 'mām prthivīm uta. In c, our kālēna was an emendation, for the *kālē ha of the mss. (which SPP. follows); we find the former now supported by Ppp. In d, the mss. have havts (p. havik) for ha vi; the text of SPP. follows us in emending to the latter, which the comm. also gives; Ppp. reads (ca) ṣatāñ ha vi ti. The metrical definition of the Anukr. is not to be approved. * [Probably a faulty assimilation to the reading of vs. 6 c.]

6. Time created the earth; in time burns (tap) the sun; in time [are] all existences; in time the eye looks abroad.

Our bhūtim in a is an emendation for the bhūtm of the mss. : SPP. accepts bhūtm; the comm. explains it as = bhavanavaj jagat. Ppp. reads bhūtam asṛjat; it also omits ha in c.

7. In time is mind, in time is breath, in time is name collected (sam-ā-dhā); by time, when arrived, all these creatures (prajā) are glad (naud).

This and the remaining three verses of the hymn are found in Ppp. xii., with the following hymn, without any [real] variants in the four verses.

8. In time is fervor, in time is what is chief, in time is the brāhman collected; time is the lord (īśvarā) of all, who was father of Prajāpati.

All the pada-mss. except one, resolve pitāsit in d into pitā : āsti; SPP. reads āsti. In spite of the repetition of kālē between, jyēsthām and brāhma may be conjectured to belong together: cf. x. 7. 24, 32-34; xi. 5. 5, 23. [Note that the usual RV. accent is jyēsthā, and that the usual AV. accent is jyēsthā; and that AV. has the RV. accent only in books xix. and xx. and in a RV. passage, at v. 2. i.]

9. Sent by it, born by it, in it is this (tāt) set firm; time, becoming the brāhman, bears the most exalted one.

We should expect janitam 'generated' in a. The comm. understands iṣitam as iṣtam or kāmitam.

10. Time generated progeny, time in the beginning Prajāpati; the self-existent Kaṣyapa from time, fervor from time was born.

The comm. identifies Kaṣyapa with the eighth sun as taught in TA. i. 7. 1. [Cf. Bloomfield's remarks, at AJP. xvii. 403, on the kaṣyapaḥ paṣyako bhavati of TA. i. 8. 8.] Ppp. combines in b kālo 'gre.'

54. Praise of time.

[Bhṛgu etc. (as 53). — pañcakam. 2. 3-p. ārṣi gāyatrī; 5 [5 and 6 of the Berlin ed.]. 3-av. 6-p. virāḍ aṣṭi.]

Properly a part of the same hymn with the preceding, and found with vss. 7-10 of the latter in Pāipp. xii. See under hymn 53.

Translated: Muir, v. 409; Ludwig, p. 191; Scherman, Philosophische Hymnen, p. 80; Deussen, Geschichte, i. 1. 212; Griffith, ii. 311; Bloomfield, 225, 687. — As to the verse-division, see under vss. 2 and 5, and SPP's Critical Notice, vol. i., p. 24.

1. From time came into being the waters; from time [came] the brāhman, fervor, the quarters; by time the sun rises; in time he goes to rest (ni-viṣ) again.

All the mss. save two [of SPP's] read abhavat at end of a; SPP. also [as well as the Berlin ed.] gives -an, with the comm., and with Ppp. In b, the comm. reads vratatapas for brāhma tāpas.

2. [Comm's 2 a, b, c.] By time the wind cleanses (pavate); by time the earth [is] great; the great sky in time [is] set.

A part of the verse is lost in Ppp. The comm. adds the first two pādas of our vs. 3 to this one, and makes then the three remaining verses of four pādas each. This makes a decidedly better division, so far as the sense is concerned; but the mss., the Anukr., and SPP. agree in the division given in our text (except as regards vs. 6), and it is accordingly retained here.

3. [Comm's 2 d, e.] Time, [their] son, generated of old what is and what is to be. [Comm's 3 a, b.] From time the verses (īc) came into being; the sacrificial formula (yájus) was born from time;—

In the first half-verse, the translation follows the mss. [they read kāló and putró], rather than our emendations [*kālē and māntro], which seem more venturesome than there is reason for; and departs from them only in assuming at the end purā, instead of pūras, as the mss. in general read (purā is accepted by both editions, and is supported apparently by Ppp., and to a certain degree by one of SPP's mss. which has pūra). Perhaps pūnaḥ [which Whitney's I. actually has] is a yet more plausible substitute for pūraḥ. Ppp. has kālena bhūtaṁ janayat: [so Roth's Collation: I take it to mean "kālena bhūtaṁ in a and 'janayat in b"]; and the comm. also has at the beginning kālena [which he glosses with pitrā prerakeṇa: cf. his putras in b, and cf. 53. 4 c]; and at the end of b he seems to have read puras [the word does not actually appear], since he gives purastāt for explanation. In c, part of the mss. have abhavat. * [As kāló is given by all the mss. collated by W. before publication, kālē was indeed an emendation; but some of SPP's authorities do have kālē.]

4. [Comm's 3 c, d.] Time set in motion (sam-īr) the sacrifice, an unexhausted portion for the gods. [Comm's 4 a, b.] In time are set firm the Gandharvas-and-Apsarases; in time the worlds;—

In a, the translation implies kālds, with all the authorities, but āirayat, against nearly all of them; the comm. gives āirayat and SPP. accepts it; [and it is supported by his ms. P. (which has āirayan, p.m., corrected to āirayat) and by Ppp's īrayat]. Ppp. reads kālo yajño sam īrayat, and has at the end samāhitāḥ.

[5 and 6 of Berlin ed. = 5 of Bombay ed.] [Comm's 4 c, d.] Upon time stand this heavenly Aṅgiras and Atharvan. [Comm's 5 a, b.] Both this world and the highest world, and the pure (pūnya) worlds and the pure separations— [6 of Berlin ed.: Comm's 5 c, d.] all worlds by the brāhman having conquered, this time goes on as highest god.

Verses 5 and 6 of our edition are here combined into one, on the authority of the Anukr. and part of the mss., and in accordance with SPP. Of the mss. compared by us before printing, all made a sixth verse of the last two pādas. In a, the mss. read kāleyām [W's O. has kāleyām] (p. kāleyām or kāleyam) [SPP's pada-ms. Cp., here unaccented, has kāleyam]; SPP. emends the pada-text to kālē: ayām, but strangely presents a samhitā-text inconsistent with this, namely kālē 'yām, instead of kālē 'yām, as our edition reads. All the mss. read divó 'th- in a-b (p. divák), but SPP., on authority of the comm., emends to devó 'th-, and the translation follows this; Ppp. also reads devó 'th-. [At the end of b, the comm. reads tiṣṭhātī.] In d a number of the mss. give vidhṛtīṅ ca; the obscure word is passed over lightly by the comm., who simply glosses it with lokadhārakān. The last pāda is identical with 53. 2 d, [save that it has paramó where 53. 2 d has prathamó], and Ppp. combines, as there, sāyyate. The most natural count of syllables ($8 + 8 : 11 + 11 : 11 + 12 = 61$) comes three short of a full aṣṭi: [the jagati cadence of e suggests that something is missing (read sārvāṇṣ ca lo?) in that pāda; and f is to be read (like 53. 2 d, with Ppp. double sanidhi) as 11 syllables.]

[Here ends the sixth anuvāka, with 9 hymns, and with 63 verses as they are numbered by the Berlin text and summed up by certain mss.; but the Anukr. counts 9 and 5 verses (instead of 10 and 6) in hymns 47 and 54 respectively, which makes the sum 61 instead of 63.]

55. To Agni.

[Bhṛgu. — śadyam. āgneyam. trāṣṭubham : 2. āstārapañkti ; 5 [i.e. 5 and 6 a, b of the Berlin ed.]. 3-av. 5-p. puraścājjyotiṣmatī.] [Of 6 (= 6 c, d, 7 a, b of Berlin ed.), the definition is lacking: see my note to vs. 6.]

Only the first verse is found in Pāipp. (in xx.). The comm. points out that the hymn is plainly meant to be used in the early morning worship of Agni, but quotes no authority. [As to a seventh verse, see SPP's Critical Notice, vol. i., p. 24, and see under vss. 5 and 7.]

Translated: Ludwig, p. 363; Griffith, ii. 312.

1. Night after night bringing to him without mixture, as fodder to a horse that stands, let not us, O Agni, thy neighbors, receive harm, reveling with abundance of wealth, with food (īṣ).

The verse corresponds nearly with VS. xi. 75, also with a verse in TS. iv. 1. 10¹ and MS. ii. 7. 7. VS. begins a with dhar-ahar (but ÇB. vi. 6. 4¹ [like KÇS. xvi. 6. 2] gives a pratika with rātrīm-rātrīm instead), TS. reads with us, and MS. has rātrīm-rātrīm [and repeats the pratika at iii. 1. 9, p. 12¹²]. At end of b, all have asmāi unaccented. In d, all put agne at the beginning, 'gne mā te prati'. In a, all the authorities have āprayātam [an isolated -tum counts for nothing], and so has the text of the comm., according to SPP, who prints āprayātam. But the comm. in his explanation has āprayāvam, which he glosses by apracchidyā or sāmtatyena [which harmonizes well with the sādam it of iii. 15. 8 a]; [the six Yajus texts just cited (both verses and pratikas) all read āprayāvam, on which the Berlin emendation* rests]. [Weber, Ind. Stud. xvii. 251, cites K. xvi. 7 as reading rātrīm-rātrīm, with the rest as in VS.; and Knauer, Index to MGS., p. 155, adds K. xix. 10 and Kap. S. xxx. 8.] The second half of our iii. 15. 8 above agrees precisely with our c, d here; the first half differs a good deal, [having for a viçvāhā te sādām id bharema, and ending b with jātavedaḥ instead of ghāsām asmāi]. Ppp. has in a āprayāmaḥ, at end of b agne for asmāi (as in our vs. 7), and in d 'gnāi mā te pr- (intending the same as the Yajus texts).

*[Griffith's version of āprayāvam is 'with care unceasing' (AV.VS.); and Egge-ling's is 'unremittingly' (ÇB.); so also W. at iii. 5. 1 (see the note); and in his Roots he connects -yāvam only with root yu 'separate'; one does not see why he departs from that here: nevertheless, the sense 'mix' is well avouched for the root yu 'unite' with pra by JUB. i. 8, yathā madhūnā lājān prayuyād evam (see JAOS. xvi. 88 and 228). — I may add in the proof that even the Anukr. reads āprayātam, but that the Yajus readings, and the sādām it (W. 'constantly') of iii. 15. 8, seem to place the Berlin emendation beyond doubt: and that the Ppp. reading āprayucchan at iii. 5. 1 helps to establish for the Vulgate not only the form āprayāvam as gerund, but also the meaning 'without being careless' or 'unremittingly' as against 'without mixing'.]

2. Of thee that art good what arrow [is] in the wind, this is that of thine; therewith be gracious to us. Let not us, O Agni, thy neighbors, receive harm, reveling with abundance of wealth, with food.

The translation follows the text of the mss. rather than our emendations, as the latter afford no more satisfactory sense than does the former. Several authorities, however, read yāta instead of vāta (one has vāca; one iṣuḥ, two iṣuḥ; [and so on]): the pada-mss. divide vātaḥ : iṣuḥ : sā. The comm's text has iṣa; but how his explanation is related to the text is hard to see: he agne vāsakasya tava yā 'nugrahabuddhir anna-pradasya yā cā 'nugrahabuddhis tayā 'smān sukhaya; that is all.

3. Evening after evening [is] Agni our house-lord; morning after morning [is he] giver of well-willing; be thou giver of good to us of every kind; may we, kindling thee, adorn (pus) ourselves.

The third pāda is literally 'of good thing after good thing be thou giver of good.' The pada-mss. divide vasuodānaḥ : edhi instead of vasuodāḥ : naḥ : edhi, as is implied by our text; the meter makes us suspect that the true original reading was vasuodāno na edhi. The fourth pāda is v. 3. 1 b etc. (see under that verse). [Cf. vs. 4.]

4. Morning after morning [is] Agni our house-lord; evening after evening [is he] giver of well-willing; be thou giver of good to us of every kind; kindling thee, may we thrive (ṛdhi) a hundred winters.

In d the mss. read ṣatāmhimās (p. ṣatāmhimāḥ); the comm. takes it as two words, ṣatām himās, [ignoring the accent]. [With pāda d, cf. RV. i. 64. 14 d.] [Cf. vs. 3.]

5. May I be one not falling short of food; to the food-eating lord of food, to Agni [as] Rudra be homage.

Here also there is discordance as to the verse-division; the Anukr. [and comm.] further add to vs. 5 what in our edition is 6 a, b, and then make one verse of what remains of the hymn; and SPP. follows them. The translation adheres to our text (which represents all the mss. till that time known to us), especially because its division seems better suited to the sense. At the beginning, all the authorities, and SPP., have āpaṣcādagdādhānnasya, divided by the pada-text into āpaṣcā : dagdādhānnasya (or -gdhādn-); [but Whitney's W. has daghānt-; his M. has dagdhwānn-; and his P. has dagghvānt- or possibly dagdhwānt-, it is not clear which: at any rate, in P. and M. there is a v before the ā;] the comm. understands āpaṣcādagdādhānnasya, and solemnly explains it as meaning: annasyā 'paṣcā[dagdādhā] paṣcādabhāge 'dagdhā sthālīprṣṭhabhāge dagdhānnarāhitaḥ! The correctness of our conjectural emendation to āpaṣcādagdhvānnasya is put beyond question by the occurrence of a corresponding phrase, āpaṣcādagdhvānnam bhūyāsam, in MS. iii. 9. 4, p. 120¹⁷, and also in Āp. vii. 28. 2.* Part of the mss. accent bhūyāsām. In b, all SPP's authorities [save one], and most of ours, give annādāyo 'nn- (variously accented: p. annacāddyah), apparently a case of misunderstanding of āyā as yo after the Bengālī method of writing o; † but two of our mss., P.M., have annādāyā 'nn-, which is the reading of our text; the comm. likewise understands -dāya, and SPP. also accepts it in his text.

*[The phrase āpaṣcādagdhvane nāre occurs at RV. vi. 42. 1; TB. iii. 7. 10⁶; Āp. xiv. 29. 2; compare āpaṣcādagdhvane naraḥ at SV. i. 352, ii. 790. It may be worth noting that the comm. to TB. brings the epithet into connection with food, explaining the phrase as 'a man devoid of brightness (i.e. dull) after his meal, unable to digest what he has eaten,' paścād bhakṣottarakālaṁ dīptirahitāya, bhakṣitaṁ jarayitum asamarthāya. He seems to connect a- . . . -daghvan (= dīptirahita) with dah; but BR. and W., with Sāyaṇa on RV., derive it from dagh: cf. RV. i. 123. 5 c; vii. 56. 21 b.] †[Cf. SPP's notes to xviii. 4. 48; xix. 32. 10; 48. 1; 56. 3.]

6. O thou of the assembly, protect my assembly (sabha), and [them] who are of the assembly, sitters in the assembly; having much invoked thee, O Indra, may they attain their whole life-time.

The translation is to be taken simply for what it is worth, as it does not follow the mss., nor either printed text. At the beginning, the mss. [except several of W's, which have the impossible sabhyā], SPP., and the comm., read sabhyās, which might well enough have been left by us unchanged, save for accent (viii. 10. 5 sābhyas). But the mss. read sabhyās again later [save two of W's, which have sabhyās]; this time SPP. emends to sabhyās (should be sābhyās, with us?), since the comm. has this. In c, the mss. in general give tvām indrā (or indrā) puruhūtya (p. puruhūtya); the comm's text offers tvām [his exposition: tvam] indra puruhūta; and SPP. adopts tvām indrā (p. indra) puruhūta; our conjecture, tvāyē'd gāhī puruhūta, seems too violent, and the translation implies tvām indra puruhūtya, with aṇavan at the end, while the mss., and SPP., have aṇavai (the comm. has the same, unblushingly explaining it as = prā-paya, a mere substitution of one person for another!), and our text emended to -vam, an ungrammatical but not wholly unprecedented form. [The London ms. of the Anukr. adds as the prattka of its vs. 6 tvam indrā puruhūtye 'ti (our 6 c: note the reading), but gives no metrical definition: the Berlin ms. does not even give the prattka.]

7. Day after day taking tribute to thee, O Agni, as fodder to a horse that stands [, let not us, O Agni, thy neighbors, receive harm, reveling with abundance of wealth, with food (iś)].

None of the mss. have the second half-verse; it was added because it seemed called for by the first half, as in vss. 1 and 2. That the comm. and part of the mss., and so also SPP., in agreement with the Anukr., make only six verses in the hymn, was explained above under vs. 5. A majority of the mss. accent bālīm in a (including all those used by us before publication), and so the error has got into our text; SPP. has correctly balīm; some leave hārantas without accent; the comm. and a ms. or two have tye for ti te (= prāptavye grhe vartamānāyā 'gnaye, comm.). All the mss. have in b jātdm instead of ghāsām; but the comm. has the latter, and it is therefore read in SPP's text as well as in ours.

56. To sleep (or dream).

[Yama. — ṣaṭkam. dduṣvapnyam. trāṣṭubham.]

Found also in Pāipp. iii. The comm. quotes no authority as to the viniyoga, but points out that the hymn is shown by its content to belong to the ceremony for getting rid of duṣsvapna 'evil-dreaming.' He holds, namely, throughout the hymn, that svāpna means duṣsvapna (in the Atharvan always duṣvāpnya); and the language is too obscure to show clearly whether he is right or not; the probability is certainly against him, because elsewhere (e.g. in the next hymn), when evil-dreaming is intended, its own name is freely used, and in xvi. 5 svapna is contrasted with duṣvapnya. [As in the case of hymns 53 and 54, the Anukr. suggests that the hymns 56 and 57 are only two divided parts of one group of 11 verses; and the suggestion is reinforced by the juxtaposition in the RV. text (viii. 47. 15 and 17) of matter corresponding to our 56. 4 and 57. 1 (see under those verses); and hymns 56 and 57 are translated together by Ludwig.]

Translated: Ludwig, p. 467; Griffith, ii. 313.

1. Out of Yama's world hast thou come hither (ā-bhū); with mirth (?) dost thou, wise, make use of (pra-yuj) mortals; knowing, thou goest in alliance (sarātham) with the solitary one, fashioning (mā) sleep in the lair (yóni) of the Asura.

If prāmadā (p. prōmadā) is to be rendered as above, it must have its accent changed to pramādā; the comm., against the pada-text, understands it as pramadās = striyas, joint object with mārtiyan of prā yunakṣi. One or two mss. read mārtiān in b. The comm. renders dhīras by dhīṣṭas. [Apart from W's P.M.W., which have svāpnam,] all the mss., the comm., and SPP., read svāpnam in d, and the translation follows this rather than our svāpna, willing, in so obscure a matter, to stick as closely to the authorities as possible. Ppp., to be sure, gives svapna mi, but this counts for very little. The comm. understands the verse to be addressed to the demon of ill-dreaming (he duḥsvapnābhīmānin krūra piśāca); but his explanations through the whole hymn are worthless, being only the etymologizing guesses of one to whom the real sense is precisely as obscure as it is to us: asura is prāpavant ātman; the 'lonely one' is the man who is dying of the effect of evil-dreaming, having abandoned son, wife, relatives, etc.; yāsi means yamalokam prāpayasi; and so on, and so on. [Griffith cites "Death and his brother Sleep" of Shelley's Queen Mab (it is found also at Iliad xiv. 231) and "the twins, Sleep and Death," Il. xvi. 682.]

2. The all-vigorous bond saw thee in the beginning, in the one day before the birth of night; from thence, O sleep, didst thou come (ā-bhū) hither, hiding thy form from the physicians.

In this verse also, for the reason given above, the translation follows the mss. more closely than does our text. Nearly all authorities have at the beginning bandhās; a couple [the reciters, K. and V.], with the comm., bandhūs (wrong accent [as in vs. 5]); Ppp. reads bambhas. All have viśvācayās (p. viśvācayāḥ), though in some of them the c could be read as v; the comm. is able to make a sense for it: sarvasya cetā, samcetā, sraṣṭā; the translation implies viśvāvayās, as the smallest possible intelligible change; Ppp. presents viśvavathāv [and apacyan]. The pada-mss. divide in b rātryā: jānitaḥ: rēke; the comm. understands, with us, rātryāḥ: jānitoḥ: ēke; and SPP. substitutes this in his pada-text. Eke ahni [which Ppp. combines to ēke 'hni] might, of course, also be understood as locative absolute. Our itātas at beginning of c was an emendation for tāva of the mss.; the comm. has it (also Ppp.), and SPP. accordingly also adopts it in his text. The whole pāda reads in Ppp.: tatas svapnena madhyā ca bhāyatha. In d all the mss. have bhīṣāgbhya r, and the pada-mss. bhīṣāgbhyaorūpam (!); only one or two give an accent to rūpām; the comm. understands bhīṣāgbhyo rūpām, and SPP. reads this; the translation follows it. There is much discordance as to the accent of apāgūhamānas. Ppp. reads bhīṣajña rūpam apigūh. The comm. is a grammarian of such sort that he does not accept ēke as used here for the more regular ekasmīn; but he does accept ahni as used, by the ordinary license to put one case in place of another, for ahnas, coördinate in construction with rātryās; and ēke means mānasaprajāpatyādāyas, and is subject of apacyan understood. The evil-dreaming hid itself away from the medicine-men, says the comm., lest they should meet it with an efficacious remedy; and something like that is possibly the real meaning.

3. He of great kine (?) turned unto the gods away from the Asuras, seeking greatness; to that sleep the three-and-thirty ones, having attained the sky, imparted over-lordship.

At the beginning, the samhitā-mss. in general read br̥hád gāuvā (p. br̥hát : gāuvā or grāuvā); Ppp. has vṛhamgrāuvā [combining -vāsurebhyo]; the comm. gives br̥hadgāuvā, as nom. of -gāvan, deriving it from gā 'go'; and SPP. accepts this (br̥hadgāuvā, p. br̥hatgāuvā), while at the same time suggesting that -gavó may be meant, by such a confusion of the two modes of writing o as we have already more than once [cf. 55. 5 b and the note] had occasion to conjecture. Ppp. reads 'bhi instead of 'dhi. There is discordance among the mss. as to the accent of upā 'vartata. Ppp. reads at end of b rechan. The majority of mss. have in d trāyastriṅcāśa sv; and part of the pada-mss. divide trāyaṣṭriṅcāḥ : śaḥ : sv; SPP. gives trayastrīṅcāśa sv, as do we.

4. Not the Fathers, and not the gods, know it, whose (pl.) murmur goes about within here; in Trita Āptya did the men (nī), the Ādityas, taught by Varuṇa, set sleep.

The mss. read at the beginning nāt 'tām [and so SPP.], the etām 'it' apparently being viewed as relating to jālpis; the comm. makes the relation plainer by giving in b yāi 'śām; but this latter SPP. rejects. At end of b, the mss. vary between antarētām and antarē 'dām (p. antarā : idām); the comm. gives the latter, and SPP. accepts it; Ppp. also has it; [and it is implied in the translation]. The mss., as always, vary between trīṣ and trīṣ; the great majority here give the former. Vāruṇena in d was our emendation for dr; it is read also by the comm., and by one of SPP's mss., and is found in Ppp.; SPP. also adopts it in his text. The mss. all accent ādityāśas, and SPP. does not emend, as we do, to ādityāśas. Ppp. reads in b jālpyaḥ c, and has for c trīṣe svapnam arididyāḥ prate narā (ādī). With c, compare RV. viii. 47. 13-17 and especially 15 c, d. The comm. tells a tale of how duḥsvapna, having received overlordship from the gods, waxed topping, and seized on the Ādityas; the latter applied for relief to Varuṇa, and, duly instructed by him, put off the duḥsvapna upon the great seer (maharṣi) Trita, son of the waters: this is pretty plainly no tradition, but an account devised by the comm. to fit the immediate case.

5. Of whom the evil-doers shared [bhāj] the cruelty, the well-doers, by non-sleep, [shared] the pure (pūnya) life-time — thou revelest in the sky (svār) with the highest relative; thou wast born out of the mind of one practising fervor.

The translation is a merely literal rendering, and does not pretend to be an intelligent one. It implies in a, with SPP., a majority of his mss., and the comm., abhājanta (the other readings are apacanta, abhacanta, aṣacanta; and there are varieties of accent); in b, all the samhitā-mss. combine duṣkṛto sv, implying asvāpnena; but [SPP's] pada-mss. [and W's pada-ms. D., p.m.] read svāpnena; [W's D. seems to be corrected to asvāp and his L. also seems to have asvāp;] SPP. accepts asvāp, with the comm. Ppp. gives no help; its text is vy asya krūrām abhijanta duṣkṛṇe sv; and āpuḥ for āyuh at the end of b. In c, bandhūnā (read by both editions, with the mss.) ought to have been emended [cf. vs. 2 a] to bāndhunā, as both texts emend to taḥyā from tāpya, which appears in most of the mss. At the end, SPP. has the correct jajñiṣe, with about [half of his authorities, including the carefully corrected Dc.] (and with one of our later ones); our jajñiṣe represents the rest, but has no reason. Ppp. has in c svarasajasi.

The comm. renders abhajanta by prāpnuvanti, and asvapnena by duḥsvapnadarṇanā bhāvena; he regards duḥsvapna as addressed in the second half-verse, and explains svār as equivalent to a locative (as rendered above) [cf. Noun-Inflection, p. 488], and bandhunā (cf. 2 a) as śṛṣṭeḥ prākkāle tvān dr̥ṣṭavatā vidhātṛā saha.

6. We know all thine attendants (?) in front; we know, O sleep, who is thine over-ruler here; protect us here with the glory of the glorious one; go thou away far off with poisons.

In b, the pada-mss. give blunderingly svapnac-yāḥ. Ppp. reads yo 'dhipā hyo te. Of course, yaçasvinas in c may be accus. pl., 'us who are glorious'; the comm. takes it so, and explains that the glory comes from our wonderful knowledge as set forth in the first half-verse. [Ppp. reads yaçaso hi for yāçase 'hā.] In d, the saṁhitā-mss. (also Ppp.) give ārādvīṣ-, which is equivalent to ārādādvīṣ-; and the pada-mss. assume the latter, dividing ārād- : dviṣḍbhīḥ; since a derivative dviṣā is as good as unknown, and of a very unusual formation, we preferred to read viṣḍbhīḥ; [the comm., text and exposition, has dviṣo-bhīḥ;] SPP. has dviṣḍbhīḥ. In a the translation of parijāṣ is that of the comm. (= pari-jāṇān), which seems more probable than the conjecture of the Pet. Lexx., "perhaps places of origin."

57. Against evil-dreaming.

[Yama. — pañcakam. dāuṣapnyam. trāṣṭubham : 1. anuṣṭubh; 3 [of Anukr. : = 3 and 4 a (to mukham) of Berlin ed'n]. 3-av. 4-p. trīṣṭubh; 4 [of Anukr. : = 4 b to 5 b of Berlin ed'n, that is taṁ tvā svapna to gṛhe]. 6-p. uṣṇīṣṭhāṭigarbhā virāṭcakavari; 5 [of Anukr. : = 5 c to 6 of Berlin ed'n, that is andmākas tad to end of hymn]. 3-av. 5-p. paraṣākvārā 'tjagati.]

[Partly prose — verses 2, 3, 4, and 6.] Pāipp. has only the first verse (in ii.). The comm. quotes from a Parīṣṭa (SPP. is unable to identify the passage) a direction for using it (with vi. 45, 46) to a king who sees bad dreams. [As to the connection of the material of this hymn with that of h. 56, see introd. to h. 56.] [As to the differences of division, see under vss. 3, 4, and 5, and cf. SPP's Critical Notice, vol. i., p. 24.]

Translated: Ludwig, p. 468; Griffith, ii. 314.

1. As a sixteenth, as an eighth, as a [whole] debt they bring together, so do we bring together all evil-dreaming on one who is offensive (āpriya).

The verse is nearly identical with vi. 46. 3, differing only by substituting āpriya in d for dviṣatā. Apriya comes near to the āptye of RV. viii. 47. 17, with which both verses correspond: see note to vi. 46. 3. The comm., in fact, reads āptye.

2. Kings have gathered (saṁ-gā), debts have gathered, kuṣṭhās have gathered, sixteenths have gathered; all evil-dreaming that is in us — let us impel away evil-dreaming to him that hates us.

The pada-mss. read sāḥ : mṛṇāni for sām : ṛṇāni, and sāḥ : kalāḥ (the saṁhitā-mss. also sā kalā ag-) for sām : kalāḥ; SPP. follows us in emending in both places to sām, which the comm. also has. At the beginning of the second division, we have emended sām of the mss. and comm. (which SPP. follows) to sārvam. For yāt (after asmāsu) the saṁhitā-mss. read yāta, and the pada-mss. yātaḥ; our yāt is supported by the comm., and SPP. adopts it. The comm. says that kuṣṭha is a skin-disease, symptomatic of various maladies; and, when one of these remains unhealed, boils and sores etc. (? piṭakavraṇādiṇi) show themselves. Also, that kalās are anupādeyāvayavopalak-ṣaṇa, and worthless parts of cattle etc. are collected in old pits. And in like manner collected ill-dreaming is made over to an enemy. That is his idea, and a wholly unacceptable one, of the general meaning of the verse. [The verse is prose, no triṣṭubh; but may be stretched so as to count as 43 syllables.]

3. Embryo of the wives of the gods, instrument of Yama, excellent dream; the evil [dream] that is mine, that do we send forth to him that hates us.

The mss. all read devānām pātūnām gārbha (one pada-ms. -ḥam) yamasya kārāyo bhadrāsvapnaḥ; the translation implies no further emendation than to gārbho and kārāyo; [the minor Pet. Lex., iv. 249, accepts bhadrāsvapna as a descriptive compound, although the accent (Gram. § 1280 c) is very exceptional;] SPP., following the comm., changes to devānām pātūnām garbha yamasya kara yō bhadrāḥ svapna. Our devāpātūnām and kāraṇas were suggested especially by the devajāmīnām and kāraṇas of vi. 46. 2 and xvi. 5. 6, of which neither the comm. nor SPP. take any notice. In the second division of the verse the two editions agree, save that ours emends tāt of the mss. (which SPP. follows) to tām; and the latter is supported by our P.M., and by the comm. But the mss. have at the beginning saṁdmayāḥ, and the pada-mss. resolve it into saṁdm : ayaḥ. The Anukr. and comm. and SPP. add to this verse what in our text is the first division of vs. 4; our division is that of our first mss., and is preferable on the ground of the sense. [The prose verse, according to the division of the Anukr., may be made to count (8 + 10 : 13 : 13 ?) as 44 syllables.]

4. Thee that art "harsh" by name, mouth of the black bird (-ṣakūni) — thee, O sleep, we thus know completely; do thou, O sleep, as a horse a halter, as a horse a girth, scatter him who is not of us, the god-reviler, the mocker.

[Prose.] The translation here is of no authority, including various venturesome emendations of the text; it follows our text except at the end, where, instead of badhāna, it implies the (unsatisfactory) vapa of the comm. and SPP.; all the mss. read vāpuḥ [or vāpu]. At the beginning, the pada-mss. give mātrṣṭā : nāma : asi : kṛṣṇaṣakune : mūkham; and the saṁhitā-mss. agree with them, with worthless variations of accent [and some slight differences besides], and with -kuner in one or two. SPP. reads, however, mā trṣṭānām asi kṛṣṇaṣakunér mūkham, won, as he claims, by adding accents to the comm's text; but this differs from the mss. only by [the word-division and] by -nāmasi and -ner; how the comm. divides and understands mātrṣṭānāmasi is unknown, as his explanation of the words is wanting (though SPP. notes no lacuna). So much (to mūkham) is, as was noted above, added to vs. 3 by Anukr., comm., and SPP. In the next division of the verse, for kakṣyam, the mss., the comm., and SPP., give kāyam, which might mean 'body'; the comm. is apparently imperfect here, reading aṣvo yathā svaktiṣām rajodhāsaram [kāyam] dhunoti yathā cā 'ṣvo nīnāham palyāṇakavacādikam avakirati: with kāyam is perhaps omitted also cariran, its gloss. Our mss. end vs. 4 with nīnāham, and it was our emendation to add the next clause; but this the comm. does also, ending with vapa, while SPP. goes on to grhe without making a verse-division; the sense (so far as we can be said to understand it) favors our division and the comm's. The latter reads avā 'smākam, finding thus an ava . . . vapa, which he explains by tiraskurnu. All the mss. give pīpāruṃ [P.M.: pīy-] vāpū [or vāpu] yād etc., with not even a pāda-division after vāpū; such a division was due in our text, however, after nīnāhām. [The Anukr. seems to intend to count the verse (taṃ tvā to grhe) as 9 + 9 + 7 + 13 (reading vapa): 8 + 8 = 54.]

5. What evil-dreaming is in us, what in our kine, and what in our house, that let him who is not of us, the god-reviler, the mocker, put on like a necklace (niṣkēḍ).

[Pādas a and b are identical with 45. 2 a, b, above; and the rest of the verse seems to throw much light on 45. 2 c, d: see my note to that verse. In his Collation-Book, Whitney here made a note of this important parallel, but seems to have overlooked his note when working out his commentary.] The mss. again all read pīpārus [P.M.: pīy-]; and the comm. again avā 'smākam, supplying a gamaya to the ava in his explanation. The omission of devapīyūs would make a fair anuṣṭubh of this verse [and a faultless one, if we pronounce niṣkēva]; it is evidently metrical, and a verse by itself [cf. 45. 2] as it stands in our text; the Anukr. and SPP., with part of the mss., end vs. 4 with grhe, and throw all the rest of the hymn together as vs. 5; the comm. agrees with us as to vss. 5 and 6. [The Anukr. seems to intend to count its verse 5 (anāsmā-ḥeds tād to end of hymn) as 12 + 9 : 9 + 7 [:] 14 = 51, and to put its second avasāna, with some of the mss., after pāri, as does SPP.]

6. Having measured off nine cubits, forth from that do we divide off to him who hates us all our evil-dreaming.

[Prose.] Instead of our āpamāya, the mss., the comm., and SPP. read āpamayā (p. āpasmayāḥ); how the comm. (or SPP.) would explain it does not appear, as he gives only the general sense of the expression: asmākaṃ sambandhī duṣvapnyam navā-ratnīparyantam āpasāraya. He reads at the end apriye saṃ nayāmasi (= 1 d).

58. For various blessings.

[Brahman.—ṣaḍṛcam. mantroktabāhudevatyam uta yājñikam. trāiṣṭubham: 2. puro-nuṣṭubh; 3. 4-p. atīcākvarī; 5. bhurij.]

The first four verses occur also in Pāipp. i.; [Roth's Collation, strictly interpreted, means that the whole hymn is found there]. The comm. quotes vs. 5 as used in Kāuṣ. 3. 16; but the verse there intended is evidently ii. 35. 5, of which vs. 5 here is a repetition. At the beginning of his exposition of vs. 1 he says: asmin sūkte manasā nir-vartyo yajñāḥ stīyate.

Translated: Griffith, ii. 315.

1. The swiftness of ghee evenly always increasing the year with oblation—be our hearing, sight, breath unsevered; unsevered be we from life-time, from splendor.

The translation implies in a samanā sadāt 'vā. [This last may be a slip for sādāivā, p. sādā: evā; the Berlin text and the Index imply sādeva, p. sādā-iva.] Five authorities give samanā (so in p.); five or six, samanāḥ; the rest samanāḥ or sāmanāḥ, or else samanāḥ or samanā or finally sāmanā; SPP. accepts the last, from only two mss.; the comm. reads samanāḥ, and explains it as samānāmanāḥ. After it the mss. read sādevāḥ (p. sādevāḥ), but the comm. and his text sadevā, and SPP. follows these, accenting sādevā. Ppp. has yūtis sumanās sudevās (s-). The comm. says that, since all words signifying 'motion' also signify 'knowledge,' jāti here means sarvatra praptam jñānam! Ppp. combines in c prāṇa ach-. In d, the pada-mss. read āchinnā instead of nāḥ. The connection of the two half-verses is perhaps this: it is prayed that the prospering flow of the libations of sacred butter be uninterrupted, carrying as a consequence the continuance of physical blessings.

2. Let breath call unto us; we call unto breath; the earth, the atmosphere hath seized (grāṇi) splendor; splendor [also] Soma, Bṛhaspati, the maintainer.

Some mss. (including most of the pada-mss.) begin b with ūpa hvayām. In c, one of SPP's mss. and Ppp. combine prthivy ānt-. At the end, the pada-mss. have correctly dhartā; the samhitā-mss. vary between this and dhattā, dhattām, and dhattāt; and the reciter K. gave vidhartā. The comm's text (SPP.) has vidhattām, but his explanation reads vidhattā (misreading for -artā?) viśeṣeṇa dhartā 'gnih sūryo vā; and SPP. most strangely adopts the senseless vidhattā (it is read also by one ms.). Ppp. gives instead bibhartu, which is not bad. Furthermore, Ppp. begins a with apa, but b with upa. The seizing of splendor by these various divinities is, according to the comm., for the purpose of giving it to us. Pādas b and d lack each a syllable. [A similar antithesis with upahā occurred at i. 1. 4, and others were pointed out there.]

3. Heaven-and-earth have become joint-seizers of splendor; seizing splendor may we go about upon the earth; with glory the kine, coming, wait upon (upa-sthā) the lord of kine; seizing glory may we go about upon the earth.

[The verse is by no means one of 4 pādas, but rather one of 6 (a-f: so designated below): in fact, it is a regular anushtubh, to each half of which is added in prose an āha-refrain (varco etc., yaṣo etc.) of 14 syllables.] The mss. read in b babhuvāthus, accenting also dyaṁvāprthivī; the translation implies the simpler and more probable emendation to -vatus; [and of course the retention of the ms.-accentuation of dyaṁvāprthivī: correct the Berlin ed. accordingly;] SPP. leaves both words unchanged, without heeding their irreconcilable character; that the comm. takes dyaṁvāprthivī as vocative is simply in accord with his usual disregard of the accent. In c and f, the mss. vary between ānu-sam [so most], anu-sām, and ānu sām (the pada-mss. have ānuśāṁcarema: but one has ānuśāṁcarema!); SPP. adopts ānu sām [cf. note to Prāt. iv. 3], against our anu-sām; there is little choice between the two. In d, the mss. in general begin with yaśāsām [some with yāśāsām], two or three having yāśasam or yaśasam; SPP. adopts the last, we yāśasā; here, again, there is little to choose; the comm. explains yaśasā, though his text (SPP.) gives yaśasām. The comm. foolishly takes āyatīs in e as, jointly with yāśas, object of grhītvā in f, supplying dhenū for it to qualify. The verse counts (16 + 14: 16 + 14 = 60) as a full atiśakvārī; [but see beginning of this paragraph].

4. Make ye a pen (vrajā), for that is men-protecting for you; sew ye coats-of-mail (vārman), abundant, broad; make ye strongholds of metal, unattackable (ādhrṣṭā); let not your bowl leak (sru); make it strong.

The verse is RV. x. 101. 8, with slight variation: RV. has vārma in samhitā as well as in pada in b; the mss., too, leave dṛghatā in d without accent, and SPP. does not correct their error. [Roth notes that Ppp. reads varmā: cf. Noun-Inflection, p. 540 top,

539 end.] But the pada-text exhibits its skill in blundering: in b it reads vārma : asi : viśadhvām (and nearly all the saṁhitā-mss. accent śvayadhvām), and in c kṛṇudhvam : mā : āyasih (or ayasih) : ādhr̥ṣṣā (and the saṁhitā-mss. accordingly read -dhvaniṁāy-). The comm. gives three distinct interpretations of the verse: as concerned respectively with the senses, with officiating priests, and with soldiers (indriyaparātvena rtvik-parātvena yoddh̥rparātvena). [As to -dhvam mā-, cf. note to xviii. 2. 3.]

5. Of the sacrifice the eye, beginning, and face; with voice, with hearing, with mind do I make oblation; to this sacrifice, extended by the all-working one, let the gods come [ā-i], with favoring minds.

We had this verse above, as ii. 35. 5 [see note thereon]. Our mss. cite it by the whole first pāda : yajñāśya cākṣuḥ prābh̥rtir mukhaṁ cē 'ty ēkā. [The Anukr. does not ignore the ā at the beginning of d.]

6. They that are priests (rtvij) of the gods, and that are worshipful, for whom the oblation (havryā) is made the portion — coming to this sacrifice together with their spouses, let the gods, as many as they are (ydvant), revel on the oblation.

In b, the mss. have also kriyate, kṛyate, [kṛyāte,] and kṛṇute. In c, the pada-mss. read sahāpātubhīḥ, and nearly all the saṁhitā-mss. agree with them; SPP. also emends to pāt. In d, all the mss. have taviṣā or tāviṣā (p. -ṣā); SPP. reads, with the comm., taviṣās (= mahāntaḥ, comm.); the translation implies haviṣā, instead of our emendation śm iṣā. The verse [12 + 11 : 11 + 12] has two more syllables than a regular triṣṭubh; [the cadences of a, b, c accord with the number of syllables: but d, with 12, has a triṣṭubh cadence; this casts still further suspicion on taviṣā, in place of which we should expect only two syllables].

59. For successful sacrifice.

[Brakman. — tṛcam. āgneyam. trāiṣṭubham : 1. gāyatrī.]

Hymns 59–64 are not found in Pāipp. For the practical use of 59 with 52, see under the latter. [Other uses under vs. 3.] Verses 1 and 2, it will be noticed, are put together also in TS., and vs. 3 is not far off [preceding 1 and 2]. In MS., on the other hand, vss. 2 and 3 have the same sequence as here; [but in RV. their sequence is inverted]. [As for the ritual use, cf. p. 896 and the table.]

Translated: Griffith, ii. 317.

1. Thou, O Agni, art protector of vows among gods (?), among mortals; thou art to be praised at the sacrifices.

The verse is RV. viii. 11. 1, and found also in VS. iv. 16; TS. i. 1. 14; 2. 3¹, and MS. i. 2. 3, everywhere without variant, except as the AV. mss. in general read in b devā ā m- [three have devā ām-]; [Whitney's P. and M. and SPP's Sm. and his Dc., p.m., have devā ā m-]; the pada-mss. give devāḥ (two of SPP's, after it, āomartyeṣu). The RV. pada-text has devāḥ; [so also TS. pada-text: see Weber's note in his ed., p. 13;] the translation implies devé, in the sense of devéṣu. The comm. understands devās, and SPP. also reads it by emendation.

[Roth, Ueber gewisse Kürzungen des Wortendes im Veda, p. 3, treats the RV. verse, with report of the comm. on RV.VS.TS.: he assumes devé : ā as pada-reading and understands devé as = devéṣu. Cf. daça (= daçabhis) dvādaçabhir vā 'pi,

MBh. xii. 307 (or 306). 10 = xii. 11377, as cited by Hopkins, JAOS. xxiii. 111; cf. also English inside and out (out = outside); Goethe's Jeden Nachklang fühlt mein Herz froh- (= froher) und trüber Zeit; etc.]

2. If we, O gods, detract from (pra-mī) your [ordained] courses — we that are very unknowing, of you that are knowing — let Agni the all-devouring fill that up, knowing, and the soma that has entered the Brahman.

The first three pādas are RV. x. 2. 4 a-c, found also in TS. i. 1. 144 and MS. iv. 10. 2. All these read in c viṣvam ā prṇāti; our viṣvād (p. viṣva-āt) can only be regarded as a corruption; the translation, however, follows it, as being the real Atharvan reading; SPP. adopts it in his text, against the comm., who reads and explains viṣvam. The comm. agrees with RV. etc. further in giving prṇāti. As for the last pāda, we had it above as d of xviii. 3. 55; it is also a RV. phrase, and found elsewhere: see under that verse.

3. We have come unto the road of the gods, to convey (vaḥ) along forward what we may be able; Agni [is] knowing; he shall make offering; he verily is hótar; he shall arrange the sacrifices (adhvarā), he the seasons.

The verse is RV. x. 2. 3, and found also in TS. i. 1. 143, MS. iv. 10. 2, and ÇB. xii. 4. 4¹. These texts read in c, d śé'd u hótar śó adhva-, and all save ÇB. accent du in b. The comm's text also has the RV. reading se'd u hotā. The verse, with the Atharvan readings in c, d, is found in full in Kāuṣ. 5. 12, in the parvan-ceremonies. In the same ceremonies it accompanies in Vāit. 3. 5 an offering to Agni sviṣṭakṛt; and again, in Vāit. 19. 12, an after-offering to various gods. [As for the critical significance of the citation of the vs. in sakalapāṭha, see p. 897, ¶ 3.]

60. For physical abilities.

[Brahman.—dyvyam. mantruktavāgādiddivatam. 1. pathyābrhātī; 2. kakummatī purauṣṇih.]

[Prose.] As was noticed above, the hymn is wanting in Pāipp. Hymns 60–63, both text and explication, are lacking in the comm. The comm., at p. 517⁵, assigns only fourteen hymns to this the final anuvāka; [but at p. 552⁹ he numbers the last hymn as the thirteenth, having combined hymns 69 and 70 of the Berlin ed. into one of 5 vss. (pañcamantrātmakam sūktam, p. 548¹): both numbers are at variance with the] eighteen of the mss. [in general: but see under h. 65] and of the Anukr. The hymn is quoted in Kāuṣ. 66. 1 in the savayajña chapter [see table on p. 896]; the mss. of Kāuṣ. read āsyān [like the AV. mss.].

Translated: Griffith, ii. 317.

1. Speech in my mouth, breath in my nostrils, sight in my eyes, hearing in my ears, my hair not gray, my teeth not broken, much strength in my arms.

A similar enumeration is found in TS. (in v. 5. 9²), TA. (x. 72, in supplement: [p. 887 of Poona ed.]), and PGS. (in i. 3. 25): vān mā āsān (PGS. āsyē) nasōḥ prāṇd 'kṣyōc cākṣuḥ kārṇayoḥ ṛśītram bāhuvōr bālam ūruvōr bjo 'rīṣṭā vīṣvāny āngāni (PGS. 'rīṣṭāni me 'ṅgāni) tanūś tanūvā me sahā; it covers both verses of our hymn and the beginning of the next. [MGS. i. 4. 4 may be compared.] Nearly all the saṁhitā-mss. read āsyān [like those of Kāuṣ.] nāsoḥ; [and the pada-reading is āsyām : nāsoḥ]. Further on, the mss. read akṣóḥ or akṣyóḥ (one of ours and one of SPP's give akṣnóḥ; our text gives akṣnóḥ, but it should be akṣyóḥ, as everywhere else in the Atharvan, and as in the parallel texts); yet further, āpalitā kēcā [or keçā] çonaditā bāha (or vāha) bāhvōr bālam. SPP. follows our emendations (even akṣpós) throughout; except that he very properly corrects our bāhvōs to bāhvós. Instead of āçonā dāntāḥ the minor Pet. Lex. suggests āçīrṇā ā-, which is decidedly preferable, and is implied in the translation.

2. Force in my thighs, speed in my calves, firm standing in my feet, all things of mine uninjured, myself not down-fallen.

[Passing in silence some minor details of variation,] the mss. read ōja instead of ōjas [but ōjaḥ is found in two or three pada-mss.]; [about ten authorities] leave jañghayos unaccented; they accent jāvas or javás, and pādayos or pādāyos; some insert a blundering avasāna between pādayoḥ and pratiṣṭhā; [all accent ariṣṭāni instead of ār-]; and end with sārvān mā 'tīprṣṭhāḥ or -ṣṭhā (p. ātīprṣṭhā or -āḥ). SPP. follows our emendations quite closely: but he corrects to jañghayos; accents javás (which is rather to be preferred *); [accents correctly pādāyos: the accent of the Berlin ed. should be amended accordingly]; [leaves the avasāna after pādayoḥ; and forgets in saṁhitā-text to combine pratiṣṭhā and ariṣṭāni into pratiṣṭhā 'riṣ-; the mss., however, commit the same oversight, although the pada-text reads pratiṣṭhā (not -āḥ). The blunder arises possibly from the transference of the avasāna-sign from its proper place after pratiṣṭhā (to which our text restores it) to the place before that word. The metrical definitions of the Anukr. for these two bits of prose are naturally worthless, and the extensive emendations in our text make them still more inapplicable. * [In RV. the masc. javá is oxytone, and the neuter jāvas is paroxytone; but at iii. 50. 2 and iv. 27. 1 we have the adjective stem javás: cf. Gram. § 1151. 2. e.]

61. For length of life etc.

[Brahman.—ekarcam. brāhmaṇaspatyam. virāt pathyābrhāt.]

Wanting, as already pointed out, in the comm. and in Pāipp.

Translated: Griffith, ii. 317.

1. A body together with my body. [. . .] May I attain all my life-time. Sit thou on what is pleasant; fill thyself full, cleansing thyself in heaven (svargā).

The verse is utterly obscure and disconnected, and we might long for the comm., if we had found that he ever gave any help in such a case. The first clause is translated as corresponding with that in TS. etc. (see under 60. 1); what is inserted between it and the following clause is omitted as unintelligible. The mss. read sahe (with varying accent), and dāntāḥ (so all the pada-mss. and some others) or datāḥ, or rādātāḥ [or radāntāḥ]; SPP. adopts sahe datāḥ, to which he might be puzzled to give any meaning. In the second division, SPP. reads with the mss. syonām me s-, and purūḥ pr-.

62. For popularity.

[Brahman (etc., as 61). — anuṣṭubh.]

Wanting in Pāipp. and in the comm.

Translated: Zimmer, p. 205; Griffith, ii. 318.

1. Make thou me dear to the gods, make me dear to kings, dear to everything that sees, both to Çūdra and to Āryan.

A nearly corresponding verse is found in the supplement to RV. x. 128 (Aufr.², p. 685), and in HGS. i. 10. 6, [and in Kaṭha-hss., p. 36]. In the first half-verse, RV. differs only by reading both times kuru; its c is priyaṁ viçveṣu gotreṣu, and its d entirely different from ours. HGS. also has kuru, with mā brahmaṇi for rājasu mā in b, and the second half-verse reads priyaṁ viçveṣu çidreṣu [cf. rūcaṁ viçveṣu çidrēṣu, VS. xviii. 48] priyam mā kuru rājasu. The mss. read in c-d [with varying accent] paçyata 'ta (p. paçyata : uta); [but one of SPP's pada-mss. has paçyatāh, p.m.]; and a part of the mss. (including [so far as noted] all the pada-mss.) have çidrām in d. SPP's text agrees throughout with ours. [With this verse Zimmer compares 32. 8, above, and VS. xviii. 48 etc. With the d of the Berlin text, cf. the d of iv. 20. 4 and 8. Zimmer rightly notes that the "gods" of a are the Brahmans, and aptly cites ÇB. ii. 2. 26, with 32. 8 etc. as just mentioned.]

63. To Bṛihaspati: for sundry blessings.

[Brahman (etc., as 61). — virāḍ upariṣṭādhṛhaṭi.]

Wanting in Pāipp. and in the comm.

Translated: Griffith, ii. 318.

1. Arise, O Brahmanaspati; awaken the gods with the sacrifice; increase [his] life-time, breath, progeny, cattle, fame, and the sacrificer [himself].

The mss. vary between paçm and paçn in the second half-verse. K'irtin is pretty evidently intruded, spoiling the [otherwise good anuṣṭubh] meter; the Anukr. reckons it to the fourth pāda. The paddhati uses the verse (see note to Kāuç. 6. 21) in the course of the darçapūrṇamāsa ceremony.

64. To Agni: with fuel.

[Brahman. — caturṛcam. āgneyam. ānuṣṭubham.]

Not found in Pāipp. Used in Kāuç. (57. 26) in the ceremony of initiation of a Vedic student, to accompany the laying of four sticks of fuel on the fire — the schol. say, one at each verse. [With regard to the ritual use, see the table on p. 896, and p. 897, l. 9.]

Translated: Griffith, ii. 318; vs. 1 also by Ludwig, p. 265.

1. O Agni, I have taken fuel for the great Jātavedas; let that Jātavedas extend to me both faith and wisdom.

The whole verse is found in ÇGS. ii. 10, the only variant being āgneye at the beginning; [Oldenberg's text (cf. his note, p. 139) should read āhārṣam, with his codex F.]; the first half-verse occurs in several other Sūtras (AGS. i. 21. 1; PGS. ii. 4. 3; HGS.

i. 7. 2; MB. i. 6. 32), with a very different latter half, but all reading agnaye; [and we find agnaye at MP. ii. 6. 2; and again at GGS. ii. 10. 46, where the prattka is cited]. The comm. also has agnaye, with one of SPP's reciters. The Atharvan reading is plainly agne, apparently a metrical emendation, and the translation follows it, rather than our unnecessary conjecture, agre. [In this case, as the meter clearly shows, we must allow that the AV. has the better reading agne as against the agnaye of a whole series of Sūtra-texts. Their inferior reading is of course not to be changed; but still less should the AV. be changed to agnaye, as Oldenberg, note to ÇGS., p. 139, overlooks the meter, suggests.]

2. With firing, O Jātavedas, with fuel do we increase thee; so do thou increase us, both with progeny and with riches.

The [text and explanation of the] comm. add [as does the Daça Karmāṇi: see Kāuṣ. 57. 26 note] the further pāda dirgham āyuh kṛnotu me, and two or three of SPP's authorities give it or have traces of it.

3. In that, O Agni, we put on for thee any pieces of wood whatever, be all that propitious to me; enjoy thou that, O youngest one.

The first two pādas and the fourth are RV. viii. 91 (or 102). 20, which reads kāni kāni cid in a [and tā for the tād of our d]. The Yajus-texts, VS. xi. 73, MS. (in ii. 7. 7), TS. (in iv. 1. 10¹), all have the inserted pāda c: VS.MS. end it with to ghṛtām instead of our me cīvām, while TS. makes it read tād astu tūbhyam id ghṛtām. VS. reads a as does RV., but TS.MS. have yāni kāni ca. Nearly all the authorities have dārūṇi [only W's P.M. have dārūṇi]; and all have dadhmasi, without accent: SPP. emends both words to accordance with RV., as we had done. Part of the mss. [and the comm.] have in d yaviṣṭha. The verse is used by Vāit. (28. 14) in the agnicayana ceremony. [Cf. p. 898, line 1.]

4. These pieces of fuel are for thee, O Agni; with them, O burning one, become thou united; put in us [long] life-time; put immortality in the Āryan.

The second and fourth pādas are wholly corrupt; the translation follows in part our emended text. [For b, the translation implies tābhir dhakṣo (cf. RV. x. 115. 4; ii. 4. 4, where the samhitā has dākṣoḥ; RV. Prāt. iv. 41 end) sām id bhava;] and for d, it implies amṛtatvām cā "rye. For b, the general reading of the authorities is tvām id dhañśo (p. hañśāḥ) samid (p. samāt) bhava; one or two have dhaso or vāñso, one tvāṣṭv id dhañśo, three bhavaḥ. SPP. conjectures that the original reading may have been tābhir vaso samid bhava; he adopts as his text, from the comm., tvām iddhāḥ samid bhava. In c, the ā before dhehi is not found in the mss.; a less correction, with better meter, would have been dhehy ā. For d, the mss., the comm., and SPP., give amṛtatvām ācāryāya (p. amṛtastvām; ācāryāya).

[The Daç. Kar., as reported by Bloomfield on Kāuṣ. 57. 26, also gives ācāryāya; moreover, the passage in PGS. (ii. 4. 3), which treats of the ceremony of initiation to which (see introd., above) these verses belong, contains in fact a prayer of the student on behalf of his teacher or initiator: jīvaṇputro mamā "cāryo medhāvya aham asāni etc.; and the AV. comm. explains ācāryāya accordingly by upanayanakartre gāyatrīpradātṛe etc. This all makes against W's cā "rye and in favor of the ms.-reading ācāryāya: this dative, no less than the locative asmāsu, goes easily with dhehy ā].

65. Praise of the sun.

[Brahman.—ekarcam. jātavedasam ; sūryam. jāgataṃ.]

Found also in Pāipp. xvi. The comm. says that hymns 65–67 are shown by their contents to belong to the worship of Sūrya.

Translated: Griffith, ii. 319.

1. A yellow eagle, thou hast ascended unto heaven (dīu) with radiance (arcis); whoso (pl.) would injure thee flying up to heaven, them smite thou down with flame (hāras), O Jātavedas, unfearing; ascend unto heaven, O sun, formidable, with radiance.

By metrical evidence, jātavedas in c is an intrusion [although obviously older than the Anukr.], besides being at least superfluous in sense. The mss. read bībhyat ugro 'rc- (p. bībhyat : ugraḥ); but SPP. emends to ābībhyat : ugrāḥ, as we had done [but neglects the necessary abhinihita svarita]; the comm. so understands the words. Ppp. reads ugro arcisā in d.

After this hymn, three of our mss. (P.M.W.) insert as next hymn, numbering it 66, the one-versed RV. i. 99, without variant.

66. To Agni: for aid.

[Brahman.—ekarcam. jātavedasam ; sūryam ; vajradevatyam. atijāgataṃ.]

Found also in Pāipp. xvi. The comm. connects it in use with the preceding hymn.

Translated: Griffith, ii. 319.

1. The trickish Asuras that go about, having metal nets, hooking with fetters of metal, them I make subject to thee with flame, O Jātavedas; go thou, a thousand-barbed thunderbolt, slaughtering our rivals.

Ppp. combines in a -jālā 'surā, and reads in b ayasmāi p-; in c it seems to give harase, which would be an acceptable emendation. Our sahāsrabhr̥ṣtis in d is for the -hr̥ṣtis (the majority) or -d̥r̥ṣtis [two] or -hraṣtis [two or three] or -haṣtis or -hraṣti or -hruṣtis or -riṣtis or -bhr̥ṣtis (all these, one each) of the authorities; SPP. reads, with the comm., -ṣtis. SPP. also follows the comm. in adopting pāhi, against the majority of his authorities (though in such a case their reading, whether pā- or yā-, is extremely doubtful); [here the testimony of his oral reciters is of especial weight, and they (his K. and V.) gave yāhi].

67. For long life and prosperity.

[Brahman.—aṣṭāu. sūryam. prājāpatyā gāyatrī.]

Not found in Pāipp. According to the comm., it is used in the same manner as the two preceding hymns. [Cf. khiṭā to RV. i. 50.]

Translated: Griffith, ii. 319.

1. May we see a hundred autumns.
2. May we live a hundred autumns.
3. May we wake a hundred autumns.

4. May we ascend (ruhi) a hundred autumns.
5. May we prosper a hundred autumns.
6. May we be a hundred autumns.
7. May we adorn a hundred autumns.
8. More autumns than a hundred.

The comm.* reckons the hymn as only one verse; the Anukr. and all the mss. [see SPP's ed., p. 543, note 1] count eight verses, and SPP. also adopts this. The first two verses are the last two pādas of RV. vii. 66. 16; they are found also in GGS. iii. 8. 5; a third verse, with ṣṛṇuyāma, is added in PGS. i. 6. 3; [MS., at iv. 9. 20, has four pādas, with ṣṛṇuyāma pushed to the fourth place by the insertion of prābravāma (ed. prābruv-) in the third;] and the series is carried further in VS. xxxvi. 24, which, beginning as does PGS., has five pādas, [with prābravāma in the fourth, and ādīnāḥ syāma in the fifth, and] with the added ending bhūyaḥ ca śarādāḥ śatāt, which needs emendation. [MGS., at i. 22. 11, agrees with VS.] In TA. iv. 42. 5 and in HGS. i. 7. 10 [the series is carried to eight pādas]: these agree from 1 to 7 [with pācyema, śṛvema, nāndāma, mōdāma, bhāvāma, ṣṛṇāvāma, prābravāma], and differ only in the eighth, where TA. has ājītāḥ syāma against ajitāḥ syāma of HGS.; and both have the added ending vyōh ca śūryaṁ dṛṣṭ. In none of the other versions is there anything to help us with the doubtful forms in the Atharvan. In vs. 3, most of the mss. read būdhdhema (some būdhdhema); our emendation būdhdhema is given also by the comm., and SPP. adopts it. In vs. 5, on the other hand, the mss., the comm., and SPP., give the wholly anomalous pṛṣṣema (= puṣṣim labhemahi, comm.); SPP. ought to have emended to pṛṣyema, as we had done. Bhūyema (= bhūyāsmā, comm.) in vs. 7 is another impossibility retained by SPP. In vs. 8 all the mss. have bhūyastī [or -āsī]; but the comm. has -stī, and so SPP. has the courage to adopt and read it, as we had done before. * [At p. 5439.]

68. With ceremonial performance.

[Brahman. — ekarcam. mantroktakarmamātradevatyam. ānuṣṭubham.]

Found in Pāipp. xix. Quoted once in the text of Kāuṣ. (139. 10), in the ceremony of introduction to Vedic study, as to be murmured prior to pronouncing, by pādas, the Gāyatrī (RV. iii. 62. 10), and the Atharvan verses iv. 1. 1 and i. 1. 1 (or 1-4). But the various schol. (the Paddhati, Daṣ. Kar., Keçavī) make frequent mention and use of it: thus (see note to Kāuṣ. 25. 36), it is reckoned to a svastivācana; it is used in the śimantonnayana (to 35. 20) and godāna (to 53. 2) ceremonies; it is added (note to 57. 22) to vii. 33. 1 in the ceremony of restoring lost fire, in the initiation of a Vedic student; it is used in the vedavratāni (to 57. 32), in the annaprāṇa (to 58. 19), and the preparation for the marriage ceremonies (to 75. 1), and for the ājyatantra (to 137. 4), and in the introduction to the rājākarmāṇi of § 14 (p. 315, l. 2). In all this is very probably to be seen only the influence of the occurrence of vedam and of karmāṇi kṛmahe in the second half-verse; it need not imply any real comprehension of the obscure verse, with recognition of its appropriateness to all these various situations. [As to the critical bearing of the uses of the vs. in the ritual, cf. the table on p. 896, and see p. 897, line 12.]

Translated: Griffith, ii. 319.

I. Of non-expansion and of expansion do I untie the aperture with magic; by those two having taken up the Veda, we then perform acts.

That is, doubtless, 'conduct sacred ceremonies.' All the mss.* have at the beginning avyayas (p. āvi-asah), and so have Ppp., the Anukr., Kāuṣ. and all its scholiasts, and the comm.; whence of course also SPP.; it is unquestionably the Atharvan reading. Yet even the comm. can only say for it that it is the same as avyacasas, a syllable being omitted by Vedic license; and the analysis of the pada-text appears to be one of those wild and senseless guesses of which in this book it presents not a few examples. [The important thing to observe in the pāda avya[ca]saṣ ca vyacasas ca is the recurrence of so many confusingly similar syllables: the corruption is a case of haplography (cf. note to iv. 5. 5, and Bloomfield in AJP. xvii. 418); but one would expect avyacaso vyacasas ca.] The pada-mss. [save SPP's J.] have vīśyāmi in b as an integral word; but the comm. understands vī: syāmi, and SPP., as well as our text, so reads; many of the mss. have bī instead of vī. One accent in c vedām, [and one has vedam, without accent; Griffith's 'bunch of grass' implies the reading vedām here and at 72. 1]; we might conjecture vedīm as a better reading; véda is not to be expected in the Atharvan. [The Index gives for books i.-xviii. three occurrences of véda, namely at iv. 35. 6; x. 8. 17; xv. 3. 7: at x. 8. 17 W. suggests that it is perhaps to be rendered simply by 'knowledge'; but in iv. and xv. it can hardly be aught else than 'Veda.'] Some of the mss. accent kṛyāmdhe. There was no sufficient reason for altering the accent of vyācasas in our text to vyācasas; SPP. reads vyāc- with the majority of his authorities. The comm. has no notion of what the verse really means: he gives two different expositions — one explaining avyayas and vyācas to mean the two varieties of breathing, prāṇa and vyāna, the bīla to be the mūlādhāra, and veda 'the Veda' (akṣarātmakamantrasaṅgha); the other taking the first two to be the paramātman and jīvātman, the bīla the heart, and veda 'knowledge' (cikīrṣitakarmaviśayaḥ jñānam). * [If I understand the Collation Book, W's P. actually begins with avyacsaṣ ca vyācasas ca, which, apart from the wild accents, is worth noting.]

In Ppp., this hymn is immediately followed by our hymn 72.

69. To the waters: for long life.

[Brahman. — catasrah. mantroktābdevatyāḥ. 1. āsury anuṣṭubh; 2. sāmny anuṣṭubh; 3. āsurī gāyatrī; 4. sāmny uṣṇih (1-4. 1-av.).]

[Prose.] Found also in Pāipp. xix. The four verses of this hymn are called in Kāuṣ. and Vāit. jīvās, and are prescribed to accompany the rinsing of the mouth with water in the parvan ceremony (Kāuṣ. 3. 4; Vāit. 1. 19, misunderstood by the editor), in a rite for long life at the reception of a Vedic student (Kāuṣ. 58. 7), and in the madhuparka ceremony (Kāuṣ. 90. 22); of these the comm. takes notice only of Kāuṣ. 58. 7. With this use is doubtless connected the attribution of the hymn in the Anukr. to the waters as divinity. [As to the citation by technical designation, and especially as to the ritual uses, see p. 897, ¶ 2.]

Translated: Griffith, ii. 320.

1. Living are ye; may I live; may I live my whole life-time.
2. Living on are ye; may I live on; may I live my whole life-time.
3. Living together are ye; may I live together; may I live my whole life-time.
4. Lively are ye; may I live; may I live my whole life-time.

The comm. adds our hymn 70 as fifth verse to this hymn, and then commits the blunder of understanding Indra etc., there spoken of, as addressed with "living are ye" etc.; it is, of course, the waters that are meant, as the liturgical use plainly shows. In vs. 2 all authorities give úpa jīvā stha (p. úpa : jīvāḥ : stha); [both editions give upa-jīvās]. In vs. 3 they have sañjīvās (though with considerable variety of accent); most, too, accent sañjīvyāsam. The comm. reads upa-jīvyās and sañjīvyās, which make the decidedly easier sense, 'fit to be lived on and with'; then the following clauses would mean 'may I live on you and with you.' Ppp. reads throughout stu instead of stha.

70. For long life.

[Brahman.—ekarcam. sāuryam. 3-p. gāyatrī.]

[Prose.] Not found in Pāipp. [See note to 69. 4.]

Translated: Griffith, ii. 320.

1. Live, O Indra; live, O Sūrya; live ye, O gods; may I live; may I live my whole life-time.

The mss. read jīvās after dēvās, and SPP. retains it, false accent and all. The comm. explains it by adding a bhāvata.

71. For various blessings.

[Brahman.—ekarcam. gāyatrīdāivatam. 3-av. 5-p. atijagatrī.]

Wanting in Pāipp. The comm. is unable to quote any authority as to its use; but he declares it to belong to the worship of the Veda that one has studied, or of the gāyatrī.

Translated: Zimmer, p. 204; Griffith, ii. 320.

1. Praised by me [is] the boon-giving Veda-mother. Let them urge on the soma-hymn of the twice-born. Having given to me life-time, breath, progeny, cattle, fame, property, Vedic splendor, go ye to the brahma-world.

A corresponding verse is found in the supplement (p. 915 of the Calc. ed.) [p. 855 of the Poona ed.] to TA. x. 36, reading thus: stuto mayā varadā vedamātā pracodayantī pavane dvijātā: āyuh prthivyaṁ draviṇam brahmanavarcaṣam mahyaṁ datvā prajātum brahmalokam (the accentuation is only partial, and worthless); its variants hardly help the interpretation of our verse. The translation given above makes no pretense to being an intelligent one; it merely endeavors to make what sense it can, with least divergence from the manuscript readings. For a it implies stutā mayā varadā vedamātā, which agrees throughout with the mss., save that they accent vedamātā in several different ways; the pada-mss. give varadā without division. For b is implied prā codayantām pāvamānīm dvijānām (with our edition); the mss. accent pracodayantām; and [excepting W's P.M.W., which give pāvamānīm] they read pāvamānī, which SPP. adopts. In the second division, SPP. reads paçūm, with [about] half the authorities, and with the comm.; the remaining authorities favor our paçūn, giving that or paçūm. The comm. explains varadā by iṣṭakāmapradātrī, and vedamātā by vedasya rgādirūpasya mātā, signifying the sāvitṛī, and standing as subject to prā codayantām, which is pluralis majestaticus, as is also vrajata. [Weber discusses varadā and the TA. passage at Ind. Stud. ii. 194 (as Whitney notes in the margin), and resolves stuto into stutā u.]

72. For the favor of the gods.

[Bhṛgvañgiras Brahman. — ekarcam. paramātmaddāvatam. trāṣṭubham.]

Follows in Pāipp. directly after hymn 68. It is given in full* in the Kāuṣ. text (139. 26), at the end of the ceremony of commencement of Vedic study; [and the pratīka is cited at 139. 25;] and the scholiasts add its use at the end of the parvan ceremonies (Keç. to section 6; p. 310, l. 5), and of the piṇḍapitryajña (Keç. to 89. 17; p. 371, l. 12), and to the snānavrata (note to 42. 18). * [As to the citation in sakala-pāṭha, cf. p. 897, ¶ 3.]

Translated: Griffith, ii. 320.

1. Out of what receptacle we bore up the Veda, within that do we set it down; what is performed [and] sacrificed by the heroic might of the brāhman, with that fervor, O gods, favor ye me here.

Some of the mss. accent variously abharāma and vedam; [Griffith renders by 'bunch of grass,' again (as at 68. 1) implying the accent vedām: but this accent is given only by SPP's Sm.;] two or three of SPP's have ṛtām instead of ṛjām in c; the version in Kāuṣ. 139. 26 gives in place of either adhitam. Ppp. reads in a, b udbharāmi veda tasminn antar va dudhmay enam.

[Here ends the seventh and last anuvāka, with 18 hymns (or 14 or 13: see introd. to hymn 60, above); and with 55 verses, if we count them as they are numbered in the Berlin text. They are summed up as 55 verses by certain mss. — No mention of the ending of a prapāṭhaka is made in the colophon.]

[Pāippalāda excerpts concerning book xx.]

[Roth, at the end of his Collation, adds the Ppp. variants for verses 12 and 16 and 17 of AV. xx. 34; the hymn appears in Ppp. xiii. and corresponds to the sā janāsa indraṣ hymn, RV. ii. 12.]

[Verse 12. In a, Ppp. has paryacarakṣac instead of paribhāvan; its b is yo vārṅga-kasya vāpibat sutam; its c reads yajamānam bahun janam; and in d, it has āmori-cakṣat for āmūrchat.]

[Verse 16. In a, Ppp. has vyakṣat putror up- for vyāktāḥ pitrōr up-; its b is simply bhuvana veda janitāḥ; its c is parasyā bhaviṣyamāṇo krojokṣad.]

[Verse 17. In a, Ppp. has haryasyaṭur for hāryaṣva āsutér.]

[Then follows a note to the effect that nothing of the Kuntāpa hymns appears in Ppp.]

[Roth's Collation closes with the words:

"explicit feliciter 25. Juni 1884."]

2. List of Hymns ignored by the Kāuṣika-Sūtra

[In his copy of the Kāuṣika, Whitney has noted the hymns in question. I have modified his list; but it can hardly be drawn with entire precision and certainty. Thus if we accept the statements of the scholiasts as to what hymns or verses are included in certain gaṇas or meant by certain terms (like brahmagavyāu at 48. 13 or vṛṣalingāḥ at 29. 15) or pratikas, all the hymns under book v. and some others (like vi. 95) may be struck from the list. At 36. 13, rathajitām should mean vi. 130; but Dārila and Keçava both understand 130-132 to be intended. For some hymns as to which the reader, seeing an asterisk or a blank in Bloomfield's Index, might be in doubt, a few words may be said: iv. 4 is textually cited at 40. 14, and so is ix. 9 at 18. 25; for ii. 20-23, see introd. to ii. 19; and for iv. 7, see introd. to iv. 7. Hymns iii. 26-27 are really cited under the name digyukte at 14. 25; iv. 23-29, as the mṛgāra-hymns, at 27. 34; and vi. 35-36 as the vāiṣṭvānarīye at 31. 5. Hymn vii. 81 is cited as the dārçī-verses at 24. 18. Certain pairs have the same pratika and so give rise to questions: thus vii. 59. 1 and vi. 37. 3; vii. 73. 11 and ix. 10. 20; vii. 75. 1 and iv. 21. 7; xvi. 5. 1 and vi. 46. 2. Hymns vi. 94, vii. 92, and vii. 93 are perhaps doubtful. As to book xix., see p. 896. The table follows according to the three grand divisions.]

3. Concordance of two Methods of citing the Kāuṣika-Sūtra

[The references to this treatise in the commentary as printed in the Bombay edition are made by adhyāya, and by kaṇḍikā as numbered from the beginning of each adhyāya, but without giving the individual sūtra. Bloomfield and Whitney cite by kaṇḍikā as numbered from the beginning of the treatise, and by sūtra. The addition of the sūtra makes the reference more precise and convenient; but both methods are at fault. The citations should be by adhyāya, by kaṇḍikā as numbered from the beginning of the adhyāya, and by sūtra. For the convenience of those who wish to study the Kāuṣika as cited by the comm., the following concordance is given. The Roman numerals with the smaller Arabic figures (at the left and middle of each column) show the citations according to the method of the Bombay edition; the larger Arabic figures show the kaṇḍikās as numbered by Bloomfield. A better way to harmonize the two methods than by the use of this table is to write on the upper outside corner of each odd page of Bloomfield's text-edition the adhyāya with a Roman numeral, and the kaṇḍikā as numbered from the beginning of the adhyāya with an Arabic numeral.

5. Päippalāda Passages corresponding to Passages of the Vulgate

[Primary use of the table, its genesis and character.—Its primary use is for finding in the facsimile the Päipp. parallel of a given Vulgate passage. For the genesis of the table, the reader will please consult pages lxxxv–lxxxvi. It is a provisional table; but it will be, as I hope, a very useful one, pending the appearance of the transliteration of the Kashmirian text with marginal references and index as explained at p. lxxxvii. The pencilled numbers described at p. lxxxv I have used with care in making the table; but since I have not verified the table from the facsimile, I do not warrant its accuracy, nor can I vouch for its completeness.]

[Incidental uses of the table.—It is of no small critical interest as giving a bird's-eye view of the mutual relations of the Vulgate and Päippalāda material as respects general arrangement. Thus the cases in which hymns of a given Vulgate book correspond to hymns of the same book in Päipp. are noticeably frequent in books i., ii., iii., and iv.; while Vulgate book vi. appears largely in book xix. of Päipp. The fact that the hymns of book vii. appear mostly in the very last book of Päipp. (in xx.) agrees remarkably with our conclusions respecting the character of that book as a supplement to the nucleus of the first grand division. So, again, the fact that the material of the second grand division is massed in

Päipp. in its books xvi. and xvii. is a striking confirmation of the view that the Vulgate books viii.-xii. constitute a distinct unity subordinate to that of the whole saṃhitā. Even yet more striking is the fact that the material of the third grand division of the Vulgate, books xiii.-xviii., has been grouped by the Päippalāda text-makers into a single book, their xviii. The fact has already been noted above (p. clix) in its proper connection; and the details of the correspondence are given below, in the next paragraph. It will be noticed that while nearly all of the paryāya material of division II. appears in Päipp., nearly all of that of division III. is no less noticeably lacking, although it is probably recognized in the case of books xv. and xvi. as a part of the text. Once more, the table shows interesting examples of the breaking up in Päipp. of material which, although treated as a hymn-unit in the Vulgate (cf. vi. 28), is devoid of internal connection. As was noted above (pages cli and cliv), the put-together character of some of the hymns in vii. appears plainly here; and the added verse by which the Vulgate hymn in vi. transcends the norm is conspicuously absent in Päipp. — I may add that the table gives a conspectus of the number of the verses of the individual hymns which will sometimes prove useful. In vii., although retaining the Berlin numbering, I have made shift to take account of the true division of the material into hymns (cf. the table at vii. 6, 45, 54, 68, 72, 76).]

[Vulgate grand division III. and Päippalāda book xviii. — This book fills just a trifle less than a dozen of the birch-bark leaves, namely leaves 228-239: its first verse (= first vs. of Vulgate xiv.) begins on the very last line of folio 227 b, and its last (= last vs. of Vulgate xviii.) ends on line 8 of folio 239 b with the vīpsā of Vulgate xviii. 4. 89 d, oṃ vittam me asya rodasī. The Päipp. book falls between 313 a and 330 b of Roth's Kashmirian nāgarī transcript (p. lxxxi); but, in the citations which follow in this paragraph, reference is made; not to that transcript, but rather to the leaves of the birch-bark original as given in the facsimile, and the side of the leaf, recto or verso, is indicated by a or b, and the line by a number. The relations of Vulgate division III. to Päipp. xviii. are obscured in the table on p. 1023 by the straggling verses of which account is there made; I therefore subjoin (p. 1015) a tabular statement designed expressly to make those relations clear. It will be observed, in the first place, that, on the one hand, the Vulgate books xiv. (wedding verses) and xvii. (Vishṇu sun-hymn), and the first half of xiii. (Rohita sun-hymns) are given substantially in full in Päipp.; and that, on the other, the paryāya-books xv. (Vrātya) and xvi. (Paritta) and book xviii. (funeral verses) are not textually given, but are merely acknowledged as a part of the text by the citation of a few representative passages; and that, moreover, so far as Päipp. xviii. is concerned, the paryāya-hymn xiii. 4 and the hymn xiii. 3 are ignored entirely. — It appears, secondly, that the order of Vulgate xiii. and xiv. is inverted in Pāipp.; but that the order of the remaining four books is the same for both recensions. — It appears, thirdly, that Pāipp. xviii. consists of 6 anuvākas, and that these anuvākas correspond in the main to certain Vulgate anuvākas: anuvākas 1 and 2 of Pāipp. to the two long anuvāka-hymns which make up Vulgate xiv.; 3 and 4 of Pāipp. to the first two anuvāka-hymns of Vulgate xiii.; and anuvāka 6 of

Päipp.¹ to the Vulgate anuvāka-hymn, or book, xvii., and the representative verse of Vulgate xviii. — It appears, finally, that anuvāka 5, containing the representative citations from Vulgate books xv. and xvi., consists of hardly 16 lines. The fact that so brief a passage should figure in the text as an anuvāka (it is expressly so called in its colophon: 238 a 12) must, I think, be interpreted as indicating that these books were acknowledged as a part of the text by the text-makers (so Roth and Whitney: cf. p. 794). — The colophon of anuvāka 3, we may add, appears to be somewhat misplaced: another case of misdivision (cf. p. 814).]

[By way of correction to p. 794, line 10, we may add that Roth errs in saying that xvi. 8. 1 is given in Päipp.; its pratika is like that of 9. 1, but the facsimile actually shows 9. 1 and not 8. 1. This is in accord with the general method of scribal abbreviation (cf. p. cxx), for 9. 1 is the last paryāya, and the abbreviated book thus appears to be represented, as it should be, by the beginning and end of each of its two anuvākas. — A similar error has arisen at p. 884, in my second addition to the note on xviii. 4. 49, where this verse is said to come immediately after the end of Vulgate xvii. in Päipp. The error is due to a slip of Roth's, who, in his Collation, had written xviii. 4. 49 where he should have written xviii. 4. 89. The latter is the last verse of xviii., and is therefore the one that we should expect as representative verse. The addition should be transposed from p. 884 to p. 894.]

[Explanation of the table.— The table follows the sequence of the hymns of the Vulgate, book by book. At the left of each column is the number of the hymn. Then follows the word "has," with the number of verses of which the hymn consists and a colon. If the hymn is lacking in Päipp., the colon and all else is omitted. Otherwise, after the colon comes the word "at" and then the number of the leaf of Roth's Kashmirian nāgarī transcript (p. lxxxi) on which the beginning of the correspondent of the Vulgate passage concerned occurs, with the recto or verso of the leaf indicated by a or b. At the right is added in Roman numerals, immediately after the word "in," the book of the Kashmirian recension to which the passage concerned belongs. It is to be understood that the Vulgate passage includes the whole hymn unless the contrary is indicated by the specification of the verses of the hymn between the colon and the word "at." The number specifying the verses is to be understood as an ordinal throughout division I. and the Supplement (the short hymns). Elsewhere (that is, throughout divisions II. and III., the hymns of many verses) it is to be understood as a cardinal, and the abbreviation vss. or vs. is added. To find which verses of a given hymn are meant and the details of their order, the reader will have to consult the introduction to that hymn (cf. the introduction to ix. 3 or 4 or x. 2 or xi. 6).]

[Manner of using the table. — Example: to find in the facsimile of the birch-bark ms. the Pāippalāda passage corresponding to Vulgate xix. 50. 5. First find in the table the number of the leaf of Roth's Kashmirian nāgarī transcript, which is 196 b. Then find in the facsimile the number 196 b, noted in the margin in Roth's hand. Between that and 197 a will be found the beginning of the passage required, which in this case will be at line 1 of birch-bark folio 158 b, on plate 286, and in the Second Part. The passage belongs to book xiv. of the Kashmirian recension.]

[Users of the table will find it convenient to note clearly in pencil on the margin of each plate of the facsimile the number of the leaf of the transcript opposite the place where Roth has written it on the birch-bark original, since, by reason of repairs to the original or otherwise, Roth's numbers are sometimes hard to make out when taken singly. When taken together in their regular sequence, they can usually be identified with ease. Thus the 197 a on plate 286 (just cited) is very faint indeed; but the 197 b (some five inches lower down) is so plain that it enables us to identify the 197 a. Of the references to Roth's Kashmirian nāgarī transcript on the first 42 plates, only a few can be made out easily (6 a, 6 b, 7 a, 8 a, 11 b, 12 a, 12 b, 13 b, 14 a, 15 b, 16 a); but beginning with 19 a, on plate 43, there is usually little difficulty.]

[Tabular Concordance. — The table now follows on the next six pages. It is made up into pages in such a way as to give incidentally a good idea of the structure of the Vulgate text; and the same purpose I have endeavored to subserve also in the arrangement of the Table of Hymn-titles (pages 1024–1037); see especially pages 1034 and 1035.]

6. Whitney's English Captions to his Hymn-translations

[These captions form an important element in his interpretation of this Veda. — Upon this subject I have already spoken in the proper place, above, p. xcv, which see. I would merely repeat the statement that these captions or hymn-titles have been formulated with much care and deliberation by the author, and give briefly his view of the general purport of each hymn. The absence of a positive view in them is often to be taken as indicating that he could not accept the view of his predecessors. Such titles of individual hymns as are not from Whitney's hand are enclosed in ell-brackets; but the headings to the Grand Divisions and to the books of division III. and to the paryāyas of books xv. and xvi., although not bracketed, are from the editor's hand.]

[In tabular form, they give a useful conspectus of the subject-matter of this Veda. — While this fact is obvious, it is perhaps not so obvious that the giving of this table as a part of the Table of Contents in volume VII., beginning on p. xv, would have detracted much from the perspicuity of that table as a guide to this work as a whole. Moreover, such a table as this is more naturally sought near the end of the work, and the balance of the two volumes is better maintained by putting these pages in volume VIII.]

[Note on the division of this work into two separately bound volumes. — With reference to this subject, the reader is asked to consult the paragraphs entitled "External form of this work," volume VII., pages xxiv-xxv. In order to arrange the following matter so that Division II. should face Division III. (pages 1034-5), it was necessary to leave this page blank. The blank may be utilized in part to show clearly that the break between volume VII. and volume VIII. corresponds with the break in the text between the first grand division on the one hand, and the second and third grand divisions on the other. In using this work, it will be convenient, as it is also easy, to remember that

and that

Volume VIII. begins with book viii., page 471.]

7. The Names of the Seers of the Hymns, as given by the Anukramaṇī

[Whitney's exploitation of the Major Anukramaṇī. — In his Excerpts from the Anukramaṇī, Whitney has given most of the material of value to be found in that treatise, but of course without attempting to settle all doubtful points in such a way as might properly be expected of a critical editor of its text. One of the uses of the following Index will be to make the deficiencies of this part of his work more readily apparent. The Excerpts and Index together will make the task of producing a critical edition relatively easy.]

[Doubtful points. — In some cases, this Index does not tally perfectly with the Excerpts. Thus vi. 46 and 47, as well as 45, seem to be ascribed to "Aṅgiras Pracetas, with Yama": cf. the Excerpts. Again, mantroktarṣi of the Excerpt for vi. 48 may perhaps mean "Agni and Ṛbhu and Indra"; but I have not entered those names for this hymn in the Index. Whitney seems to have had a doubt as to vii. 27–29, whether they should not be ascribed rather to Bhṛgvaṅgiras than to Medhātithi; and as to vii. 31, whether it should not be ascribed rather to Brahman than to Bhṛgvaṅgiras; and as to vii. 33. What the Anukr. means to say about vi. 63 is not wholly clear.]

[Entire books of division III. ascribed each to a single seer. — It will be noticed that four entire books (all belonging to the third grand division: see p. 1035) are ascribed by the Major Anukramaṇī each to a single seer: books xiii. and xvii., each addressed to the Sun, are ascribed to Brahman as seer; the wedding verses, book xiv., most appropriately to Sāvitrī Sūryā; and the funeral verses, book xviii., to Atharvan (the Old Anukr. most appropriately calls them the Yama-hymns: p. 814). Further, so far as quasi-authorship goes, the Vrātya book, xv., is treated as a unit in that no seer is named for the whole nor for any part of it. As for book xvi., which puzzles us in more ways than one, there is good reason to think that tradition ascribes it to Prajāpati (see p. 792, ¶ 4); on the other hand, this is not wholly certain (p. 792, ¶ 5), and the Excerpts actually assign 3–4 to Brahman and 5–7 to Yama, and leave 2 and 8 and 9 without express assignment, unless indeed we are to assume that the statements for 1 and for 7 hold good respectively for 2 and for 8 and 9.]

[Value of these ascriptions of quasi-authorship. — The facts just cited would appear to be of some moment as differentiating the third grand division from the other two; but otherwise and in general, how much value, if any, is to be attached to these ascriptions is matter for special study. It would be interesting to compare the ascriptions of the AV. Anukr. with those of the RV. Anukr. and to see how far the two treatises agree as to hymns or verses common to both saṁhitās. The Puruṣa-hymn (xix. 6 = RV. x. 90) is ascribed by both treatises alike to Nārāyaṇa; and the Apratiratha-hymn (xix. 13 = RV. x. 103) similarly to Apratiratha. In this connection, cf. Dr. Ryder's pertinent observation at p. 739, ¶ 7.]

[Prominence of Atharvan and Brahman as seers.—The most prominent names among the "seers" are Atharvan and Brahman. To the former are ascribed 175 hymns or parts of hymns; and to the latter, 100. Then comes Atharvāṅgiras with 17, and Āṅgiras with 16. The preponderance of ascriptions to Atharvan and Brahman may have something to do with the designation of the text as "Atharva-Veda" and "Brahma-Veda" (brahman suggests both Brahmán = 'God Brahm' and bráhmaṇ = 'incantation': cf. p. 931, top). It is perhaps matter for surprise that more hymns are not ascribed to the "dreadful Āṅgiras" (RV. x. 108. 10: cf. x. 14. 3 a).]

[Question of contrast between hymns of Atharvan and hymns of Āṅgiras.—Bloomfield, discussing at SBE. xlii., p. xviii, the name Atharvāṅgiras as name of this Veda, opines that atharvan refers to the auspicious practices and āṅgiras to the practices of hostile sorcery (yāti, abhicāra) of this Veda. Similarly Victor Henry, in his La magie dans l'Inde, p. 22. This opinion is not in the least degree supported by the general character of the hymns ascribed respectively to Atharvan and to Āṅgiras. Of those ascribed to Atharvan, nearly all are indeed intended for use in working good, and the infrequent exceptions (like iii. 18; vii. 35 and 70; vi. 138, a charm to make a man impotent) do not count for much. Of those ascribed to Āṅgiras, on the other hand, hardly more than one (vii. 90: this also is for destroying a man's virility) may be said to be for use in working evil. It is licit, however, to adjudge the facts last rehearsed as making rather against the critical value of the Anukramaṇi's ascriptions than against the acceptability of the opinion of Bloomfield and Henry.]

[Consistency in the ascriptions.—Consistency does nevertheless characterize these ascriptions to a certain degree. Thus the frequency with which each of the hymns of a related pair or of a larger group (e.g. the Mrgāra hymns) is ascribed to the same seer is significant. Significant also are such facts as follow. Of the seven hymns ascribed to Garutman, every one is an incantation to be used against poison: v. 13 and vi. 12 and x. 4, in particular, against snake-poison. Each of the three hymns ascribed to Kāṇva is an incantation against worms. Each of Jamadagni's three has for its purpose to win a woman's love. Of those ascribed to Yama or to Yama with Āṅgiras (disregarding xvi. 8 and 9, they number 13), all but one refer either to "Death" or to "his brother Sleep" (cf. p. 994, ¶ 4). Thus ten, as appears from the duḥsvapna etc. of the Excerpts, refer to evil dreams; and one (vii. 64) to the omen of a "black bird" as Yama's "messenger of death"; and one (xii. 3) to cremation of the dead. Verse 13 of this last also makes reference to the black bird, and so does xix. 57. Of the four ascribed to Bādarāyaṇi,* two (iv. 38; vii. 109) are for success in gambling.]

* [Weber suspected that the author of the Anukr. may have been a Vedantist, and that it was thus not unnatural that the name of Bādarāyaṇi should appear among his ascriptions (see above, p. 218, top). Weber derived his suspicion from a remark by the author of the Anukr. on the last verse of book iv., Brahmāṇaṁ sarvatra jātavedābhīmukhyenāstaut. If the author bases his remark upon the letter of our text (which has brāhma, neuter), let us hope that his philosophical acumen was more penetrant than his philological.]

[Palpably fabricated ascriptions. — Not a few of the ascriptions are palpably fabricated from a word in the text. Of this kind are Up-heater and Forth-heater (Ucchocana and Praçocana) as seers of vi. 103 and 104, and Deliverance and Release (Unmocana and Pramocana) as seers of vi. 105 and 106. Strangely enough, none of these four words (or "names") occurs in any of these four hymns, but rather (the first two) in vii. 95 and (the second two) in v. 30, which latter furthermore is also ascribed to Unmocana.]

[Alphabetical index of seer-names and of passages ascribed to them. — This Index was made by Whitney, but was carefully revised by Dr. Ryder and again by me.]

8. Brief Index of Names and Things and Words and Places

[An elaborate index uncalled for here. — The existence of Whitney's complete and accurate Index Verborum to the AV. makes needless a full index of Sanskrit words for this work. Again, since the whole text is treated, each place or passage in its natural order, an index of places is also unnecessary. Moreover, an excellent English index of names and things is furnished by Griffith in his Translation. The following index, therefore, may legitimately be kept within very narrow limits. Its purpose is merely to aid in finding a few matters which are not to be found by the help of Whitney or Griffith. On the other hand, it is obvious that it would be possible and most useful to make for this work an exceedingly detailed index, giving, for example, under the heading Surd and sonant interchanged, every case of that kind to be found by careful comparison of the Atharvan text with the variants reported in this work. Such an index would be practically a collection of brief essays upon the subjects named in its headings, and would involve (see p. xxxvii, ¶ 2) a variety of special investigations which are too large to be undertaken here and must be left for another occasion. I hope that the student of this work will find the arrangement of the matter of the General Introduction so clear, and the analytical table of contents so thorough and perspicuous, that the absence of a detailed index to the matter of the Introduction will not be felt.]

[Arabic numerals by themselves refer to the pages of the main body of this work, the "Translation and Notes"; Roman numerals by themselves refer to the pages of volume VII. which precede the "Translation and Notes." Numerals in groups refer to book and hymn and verse, or rather to the notes thereon.]

9. Additions and Corrections

[Omissions and errors not easy to rectify in the electrotypes plates.—
 Of the omissions and errors, the minor ones have been made good in the plates; the more considerable ones are rectified here, and to these rectifications special attention is called at the proper places by a hand (✍) inserted in the plate and pointing to the number of this page or the following.

- lxxxii, paragraph 2, and lxxxv, top : I seem to be in error in supposing that Roth made his autograph nāgarī transcript directly from the birch-bark original. Garbe writes me, April 27, 1905, that Roth's autograph nāgarī transcript consists of two quarto volumes, that it was made from Roth's Kashmirian nāgarī transcript (see p. lxxxi), and that it has been collated with the birch-bark original at the beginning, not very far, the variants being noted in red ink. I can hardly see what Roth's purpose was in making a new transcript from anything else than the birch-bark original, unless it be that the new transcript was to serve merely as a convenient hand-copy on which to note the variants of the birch-bark leaves, which could thus be collated in their proper order without injury.
- 57 (ii. 13. 3) : Confusion of surd and sonant, aspirate and non-aspirate. This is shown by the variants of the following passages which I have noted : AV. vi. 3. 3; 28. 1; 29. 3; ix. 9. 17; x. 4. 13, 23 (saruebhyo); 7. 43; xi. 1. 2; 5. 1; xii. 2. 23; 3. 2. 55; 4. 29; xiii. 1. 1; 2. 15, 43; xiv. 2. 31, 37 (vrddhaye), 68; xviii. 1. 30; 2. 14, 35, 47; 3. 52; 4. 63; xix. 9. 8; 11. 6; 13. 5; 24. 6 (adhi dhās); 33. 3; 34. 2, 3; 36. 3; 38. 1 (gantho); 39. 10; 56. 4, 5. Roth discusses these matters, ZDMG. xlviii. 106-111. Cf. above, p. 1043, Index, s.v. Surd; also J. Hertel, Tantrākhyāyika, 1904, p. xvi; and Bloomfield's Vedic Concordance, passim (e.g., under atha and adha).
- 58 (ii. 14, introd.) : See Ludwig, Sb. der Böhmischen Ges. der Wiss., 1898, no. 10, p. 11.
- 94 (iii. 7. 1) : As to viśāṇū, see references in Index, s.v., p. 1044.
- 197 (iv. 27. 6) : Neither von Schröder nor I can find the MS. citation.
- 266 (v. 25. 8) : ÇGS. reads abhi kranda vīlayasva.
- 327 (vi. 61. 3) : Add : [Here ends the sixth anuvāka, 10 hymns with 30 verses; the Anukr. quotation is [pañcama-jaṣṭhāu triṇcatkāu (read triṇcatkāu?).]
- 455 (vii. 90. 3) : The Old Anukr. says [dvitīya-jaṣṭamāu nava]. The dvitīya- was not given at p. 404, but refers to anuvāka 2, with its 9 hymns.
- 461 (vii. 101. 1) : The hymn is treated at length by Pischel, Album-Kern, 115-7.
- 547 (ix. 7, introd., line 10) : The an-uktapāda verses are rather all except 7, 18, 19, 22, 23.
- 601 (x. 8. 43) : Garbe, in his Sāṃkhya-tattva-kāumudī, Abh. der Bayerischen Ak. der Wiss., xix., p. 529, reports previous views as to this verse, renders b by "mit drei Schnüren (d. i. dreifach) umhüllt," and takes "triply covered" as referring to skin and nails and hair.
- 792 (book xvi., introd.) : It occurred to me as an afterthought (p. clviii, note) that the Pāli term Paritta, 'protection, defense' (cf. Sanskrit paritrāṇa), might be an acceptable equivalent in a single word for 'a prayer against the terror by night.' See Index, p. 1043, s.v. Paritta, and compare the use of the term in the Jātaka, ii. 34¹⁶, 35²², and especially at 1489. The Mora-jātaka contains a Paritta to be used at sunrise (ii. 33¹⁹; iv. 334⁴) and one to be used at sunset (ii. 35¹¹; iv. 334⁷).
- 943 (xix. 30) : It is of interest to note that a part of this hymn was translated by Sir William Jones in a botanical essay published by him in the Asiatick Researches, Calcutta, 1795, vol. iv., p. 257. In the London reprint of 1798, it may be found at

iv. 253; and in that of 1801, at iv. 243. I do not remember meeting any earlier translation into English of a part of this Veda.

- 970 (xix. 45. 2): Whitney cites doubtfully, at Grammar, § 194, the MS. combination suhārṇ nah. At § 150 b he records instances of retention of radical non-nasal mute after r: thus, ūr̥k, vār̥k, avart, āmārt, suhārt; compare Kielhorn's Grammar, § 14 of either edition, German or English.]

Harvard Oriental Series

EDITED, WITH THE COÖPERATION OF VARIOUS SCHOLARS, BY

CHARLES ROCKWELL LANMAN

PROFESSOR OF SANSKRIT IN HARVARD UNIVERSITY

Published by Harvard University, Cambridge, Massachusetts
United States of America

* * A copy of any one of these volumes, postage paid, may be obtained directly anywhere within the limits of the Universal Postal Union by sending a Postal Order for the price as given below, to The Publication Agent of Harvard University, Cambridge, Massachusetts, United States of America.

* * The price per volume of the royal octavos is one dollar and fifty cents ($1.50) = 6 shillings and 2 pence = 6 marks and 27 pfennigs = 7 francs or lire and 70 centimes = 5 kroner and 58 öre = 3 florins and 70 cents Netherlandish. From this, the approximate equivalents of the other prices may be estimated. The precise equivalents may be learned at any post-office that issues money-orders.

VOLUME I.—The Jātaka-mālā: or Bodhisattva-avadāna-mālā, by Ārya-çūra; edited by HENDRIK KERN, Professor in the University of Leiden, Netherlands. 1891. Royal 8vo, bound in cloth, xiv+254 pages, price $1.50.

This is the editio princeps of a collection of Buddhist stories in Sanskrit. The text is printed in Nāgarī characters. An English translation of this work, by Professor Speyer, has been published in Professor Max Müller's Sacred Books of the Buddhists, London, Henry Frowde, 1895.

VOLUME II.—The Sāṅkhya-pravacana-bhāṣya: or Commentary on the exposition of the Sāṅkhya philosophy, by Vijñāna-bhikṣu: edited by RICHARD GARBE, Professor in the University of Tübingen. 1895. Royal 8vo, bound in buckram, xiv+196 pages, price $1.50.

This volume contains the original Sanskrit text of the Sāṅkhya Aphorisms and of Vijñāna's Commentary, all printed in Roman letters. It is of especial interest in that Vijñāna, not accepting the atheistic doctrine of the original Sāṅkhya, here comes out as a defender of downright theism. A German translation of the whole work was published by Professor Garbe in the Abhandlungen für die Kunde des Morgenlandes, vol. ix., Leipzig, Brockhaus, 1889. "In spite of all the false assumptions and the errors of which Vijñāna-bhikṣu is undoubtedly guilty, his Commentary . . . is after all the one and only work which instructs us concerning many particulars of the doctrines of what is, in my estimation, the most significant system of philosophy that India has produced."—Editor's Preface.

VOLUME III.—Buddhism in Translations. By HENRY CLARKE WARREN. 1896. 8vo, buckram, xx+520 pages, price $1.20.

This is a series of extracts from Pāli writings, done into English, and so arranged as to give a general idea of Ceylonese Buddhism. The work consists of over a hundred selections, comprised in five chapters of about one hundred pages each. Of these, chapters ii., iii., and iv. are on Buddhist doctrine, and concern themselves respectively with the philosophical conceptions that underlie the Buddhist religious system, with the doctrine of Karma and rebirth, and with the scheme of salvation from misery. Chapter i. gives the account of the previous existences of Gotama Buddha and of his life in the last existence up to the attainment of Buddhahip; while the sections of chapter v. are about Buddhist monastic life.

VOLUME IV.—Rāja-çekhara's Karpūra-mañjarī, a drama by the Indian poet Rāja-çekhara (about 900 A.D.): critically edited in the original Prākṛit, with a glossarial index and an essay on the life and writings of the poet, by Dr. STEN KONOW, of the University of Christiania, Norway; and translated into English with notes by Professor LANMAN. 1901. Royal 8vo, buckram, xxviii+289 pages, price $1.50.

Here for the first time in the history of Indian philology we have the text of a Prākṛit play presented to us in strictly correct Prākṛit. Dr. Konow is a pupil of Professor Pischel of Berlin, whose Prākṛit grammar has made his authority upon this subject of the very highest. The proofs have had the benefit of Professor Pischel's revision. The importance of the play is primarily linguistic rather than literary.

VOLUMES V. AND VI.—The Bṛhad-Devatā, attributed to Çāunaka, a summary of the deities and myths of the Rig-Veda: critically edited in the original Sanskrit with an introduction and seven appendices, and translated into English with critical and illustrative notes, by ARTHUR A. MACDONELL, Boden Professor of Sanskrit in the University of Oxford, and Fellow of Balliol College. 1904. Royal 8vo, buckram, xxxvi+198 and xvi+334 pages, price per volume $1.50.

Volume V. (or Part I.) contains the introduction and text and appendices. Volume VI. (or Part II.) contains the translation and notes. The arrangement of the material in two volumes is such that the student can have the text of any given passage, together with the translation of that passage and the critical apparatus and the illustrative notes thereto appurtenant, all opened out before his eyes at one time, without having constantly to turn from one part of the volume to another, as is necessary with the usual arrangement of such matter.

VOLUMES VII. AND VIII.—Atharva-Veda Samhitā, translated, with a critical and exegetical commentary, by WILLIAM DWIGHT WHITNEY, late Professor of Sanskrit in Yale University. Revised and brought nearer to completion and edited by CHARLES ROCKWELL LANMAN, Professor of Sanskrit in Harvard University. 1905. Royal 8vo, buckram, clxii+iv+1046 (= 1212) pp., price of the two volumes $5.00.

This work includes, in the first place, critical notes upon the text, giving the various readings of the manuscripts, and not alone of those collated by Whitney in Europe, but also of those of the apparatus used by S. P. Pandit in the great Bombay edition. Second, the readings of the Paippalāda or Cashmere version, furnished by the late Professor Roth. Further, notice of the corresponding passages in all the other Vedic texts, with report of the various readings. Further, the data of the Hindu scholiast respecting authorship, divinity, and meter of each verse. Also, references to the ancillary literature, especially to the well-edited Kauçika and Vaitāna Sūtras, with account of the ritualistic use therein made of the hymns or parts of hymns, so far as this appears to cast any light upon their meaning. Also, extracts from the printed commentary. And, finally, a simple literal translation, with introduction and indices. Prefixed to the work proper is an elaborate critical and historical introduction.

VOLUME IX.—The Little Clay Cart (Mṛcchakaṭika), a Hindu drama attributed to King Shūdraka, translated from the original Sanskrit and Prakrits into English prose and verse by ARTHUR WILLIAM RYDER, Ph.D., Instructor in Sanskrit in Harvard University. 1905. Royal 8vo, buckram, xxx + 177 pages, price $1.50.

VOLUME X.—A Vedic Concordance: being an alphabetic index to every line of every stanza of every hymn of the published Vedic literature, and to every sacrificial and ritual formula thereof. By MAURICE BLOOMFIELD, Professor of Sanskrit and Comparative Philology in Johns Hopkins University.

The work, with which Bloomfield has been busy for over a dozen years, will form a royal quarto of about 1100 pages. Of these, fully 800 are already printed (June, 1905); the completely revised manuscript of the remainder is at the press; and it is hoped that the printing will be finished soon after Jan. 1, 1906. For an account of the work, see the last page of vol. iv. of this Series. The Concordance will serve as a register of the varietas lectionis for the texts of the Vedic literature, and thus prove to be an auxiliary of the very first importance in the work of making new editions of the Vedic texts; and many subsidiary uses of Bloomfield's collections will suggest themselves to scholars.

IN PREPARATION

No promise of a definite time for the completion and appearance of any of the following works will under any circumstances be given; they are nevertheless in such a state of advancement that some public announcement concerning them may properly be made.

Buddha-ghosa's Way of Purity (Visuddhi-magga), a systematic treatise of Buddhist doctrine by Buddha-ghosa (about 400 A.D.): critically edited in the original Pāli by the late HENRY CLARKE WARREN, of Cambridge, Massachusetts.

The "Way of Purity," which has been for fifteen centuries one of the "books of power" in the East, is, as Childers says, "a truly great work, written in terse and lucid language, and showing a marvelous grasp of the subject." Mr. Warren published an elaborate analysis of the entire treatise in the Journal of the Pāli Text Society for 1891-93, pages 76-164. His plan was to issue a scholarly edition of the Pāli text of the work, with full but well-sifted critical apparatus, a complete English translation, an index of names, and other useful appendices, and to trace back to their sources all the quotations which Buddha-ghosa constantly makes from the writings of his predecessors. The text, it is hoped, may be published without too much further labor on the part of the editor of the Series.

Mr. Warren died in January, 1899, in the forty-fifth year of his age. Accounts of his life and work may be found in the (New York) Nation for Jan. 12, 1899; in the Harvard Graduates' Magazine for March, 1899; in the Journal of the Royal Asiatic Society for April, 1899 (with a list of his writings); in the (Chicago) Open Court for June, 1899; or in the Journal of the American Oriental Society, vol. xx., second half.

Buddha-ghosa's Way of Purity, a systematic treatise of Buddhist doctrine, translated into English from the original Pāli of H. C. Warren's edition, by the late HENRY CLARKE WARREN and CHARLES ROCKWELL LANMAN. Mr. Warren had made a large part (about one third) of the translation. With this part as a help and guide, the editor of the Series hopes to complete the version and to publish it as soon as is feasible. The text and translation will perhaps take three or four volumes.

The Pancha-tantra, according to the recension of the Jaina monk Pūrṇa-bhadra (about 1200 A.D.), critically edited in the original Sanskrit by Dr. JOHANNES HERTEL, of the Royal Gymnasium of Doebeln in Saxony, and Dr. RICHARD SCHMIDT, of the University of Halle.

The basis of Doctor Schmidt's excellent version of the Pancha-tantra was a text prepared by him from several European manuscripts. In the meantime, Doctor Hertel has procured a very large amount of manuscript material from India, chiefly from Poona, has subjected the same to searching critical study, and is embodying his results, so far as they concern the actual readings, in a thorough revision of the printer's copy of the text. The other results of his labors have been published in several periodicals, especially the Berichte der Kön. Sächsischen Gesellschaft der Wissenschaften for April, 1902, and in recent volumes of the Zeitschrift der Deutschen Morgenländischen Gesellschaft (vi., lvii., lviii., lix.). The Čāradā-MS., numbered viii. 145 in the Catalogue of the Deccan College MSS. and containing the Tantra-ākhyāyika or Kashmirian recension of the Pancha-tantra, has proved to be of such great importance for the history of this branch of Sanskrit literature that Doctor Hertel has published it (Abhandlungen of the Saxon Society, vol. xxii., 1904), not as a definitive text-edition, but as part of a literary-historical investigation and as one of the essential preliminaries for the edition of Pūrṇa-bhadra's recension to be issued in the Harvard Series. It appears that the last-named recension is a fusion of the Tantra-ākhyāyika and the so-called Textus Simplicior of the Pancha-tantra.

The Pancha-tantra, translated into English from the original Sanskrit of the recension of Pūrṇa-bhadra, by PAUL ELMER MORE, sometime Assistant in Sanskrit in Harvard University, now of the Editorial Staff of the New York Evening Post.

This version, prepared several years ago from Doctor Schmidt's manuscript copy by Mr. More, has yet to be so revised as to bring it into conformity with the meantime thoroughly revised text of Pūrṇa-bhadra's recension. Apart from the intrinsic interest and merit of the stories of which the Pancha-tantra consists, this translation makes an especial appeal to students of Indian antiquities, of folk-lore, and of the history of popular tales.

History of the Beast-fable of India, with especial reference to the Pancha-tantra and to the related literature of Southwestern Asia and of Mediaeval Europe, by Dr. JOHANNES HERTEL of the Royal Gymnasium of Doebeln in Saxony.

Although this volume is primarily designed to be an introduction to Pūrṇa-bhadra's Pancha-tantra, its scope is nevertheless such that it may with propriety be entitled a History of the Beast-fable of India. The definitive arrangement of the material is not yet settled, but the general plan may be given under six headings.

I. Brief outline of the incidents of each story, together with a reference for each story to its precise place in the original Sanskrit text, the method of citation to be such that the same reference will apply with equal facility to either the text or the translation or the apparatus criticus or the commentary.

II. Tabular conspectus of strophes and stories contained in forms of the Pancha-tantra anterior to Pūrṇa-bhadra.

III. Apparatus criticus. 1. Account of the MSS. collated. 2. A piece of the text printed in several parallel forms side by side (Tantra-ākhyāyika, Simplicior, Ornatior) as a specimen, to illustrate the relative value of the several MSS. and Pūrṇa-bhadra's way of constructing his recension. 3. Readings of the MSS. Bh, bh, A, P, p, etc.

IV. Introduction to the text of Pūrṇa-bhadra. A. First part, extending to the death, in 1881, of Benfey. 1. Editions: Kosegarten's; Kielhorn-Bühler's; other Indian editions. 2. Translations: of Benfey, Lancereau, Pavolini, Fritze, Galanos. 3. Semitic recensions and their effluxes. 4. Benfey's results as contained in his Pantschatantra of 1859 and his Introduction to Bickell's Old Syriac Kalilag und Damag of 1876. B. Second part, from the death of Benfey. 5. Bibliography of the various treatises. 6. History of the Sanskrit Pancha-tantra. Form, age, and name of the original Pancha-tantra. 7. The Brahmanical recensions of the work: Guṇādhya, Nepalese fragment, etc.; Tantra-ākhyāyika; Southern Pancha-tantra. 8. Jaina recensions: so-called Simplicior, its age, etc.; so-called Ornator, author, age, etc.; Megha-vijaya; later recensions; mixed recensions. 9. Buddhist recension, Tantra-ākhyāna.

V. Notes to the several stories of Pūrṇa-bhadra's text. Parallels in the Jātaka, etc. References to Benfey.

VI. Indices. 1. Of names. 2. Of things. 3. Of verses. 4. Of meters.

The Çakuntalā, a Hindu drama by Kālidāsa: the Bengālī recension critically edited in the original Sanskrit and Prākritis by RICHARD PISCHEL, Professor of Sanskrit in the University of Berlin.

Thirty years ago Pischel made his first edition of this master-piece of the Hindu drama. Mean-while he has published, as a very important part of the Bühler-Kielhorn Grundriss der Indo-Arischen Philologie, his elaborate Grammatik der Prākrit Sprachen. In the way of experience and study, therefore, his equipment as an editor of this play is peculiarly complete. As for the externals of paper and print and binding, it is intended that this edition shall be got up in a manner to correspond with its scholarly character and with the intrinsic merit of the play; and it is to be sold at a very moderate price.

The Çakuntalā, translated into English from the edition of Pro- fessor Pischel, with an exegetical and illustrative commentary, by ARTHUR WILLIAM RYDER.

Whereas Dr. Ryder's version of The Little Clay Cart (vol. ix. of this Series) was primarily a literary one and aimed to avoid technicalities, his work upon the Çakuntalā is primarily philo-logical, and of it the technical commentary is an essential part. In this comment he hopes to include the most or all that is of substantive importance in the observations of his predecessors whether Occidental or Hindu; to treat the relation of the subject-matter of the play to the older forms thereof as seen in the Epos and the Jātaka; to bring out the double meanings and the various other Hindu "embellishments" of the play; to note the parallelisms in poetic thought or diction or technique between the Çakuntalā and the other works of Kālidāsa and of the Indian literature; to illustrate the allusions to the mythology and antiquities of India by citations translated from the best native authorities; to show, throughout, the relation of this play as a work of art to the Hindu canons of dramaturgy; and at least to assemble the data for the solution of the important critical question whether the Çakuntalā may not have served as the model play upon which the earlier of those canons were based.

The Commentary (Yoga-bhāṣhya) on Patañjali's aphorisms of the Yoga philosophy, translated from the original Sanskrit into English, with indices of quotations and of philosophical terms, by Dr. JAMES HAUGHTON WOODS, Instructor in Philosophy in Harvard University.

Of the six great philosophical systems of India, we can hardly say that more than two, the Sāṅkhya and the Vedānta, have been made accessible to Occidental students by translations of authoritative Sanskrit works. For Shankara's Comment on the aphorisms of the Vedānta system, we have Deussen's translation into German and Thibaut's into English. For the Sāṅkhya, we are indebted to the labors of Wilson and Garbe and Gangānāth Jhā for versions of the Kārikā and of the Tattva-kāumudī. The Yoga system is confessedly next in importance; and the Yoga-bhāṣhya, ascribed to Vyāsa, is the best and most thorough exposition of its fundamental doctrines. It is also the oldest; Garbe refers it to the seventh century of our era, and the evidence adduced by Takakusu of Tokyo may prove it to be considerably earlier.

In the preparation of his translation, Dr. Woods has had the benefit of Deussen's criticism; and he has revised his work under the oversight of Gangādhara Shāstrin and of his pupils in Benares; and he has constantly consulted Vāchaspatimiśra's sub-comment on the Yoga-bhāshya, and, as occasion required, the Yoga-vārtika of Vijñāna-bhikṣhu and other works of more modern scholiasts. It is hoped that this work will throw light upon the early history of the Mahā-yāna school of Buddhism.

The Talavakāra or Jāiminiya Brāhmaṇa of the Sāma Veda: critically edited in the original Sanskrit, with a translation into English, by HANNS OERTEL, Professor of Linguistics and Comparative Philology in Yale University.

In 1877, A. C. Burnell brought this Brāhmaṇa to the notice of European scholars. Soon after, he procured manuscripts, and turned them over to Professor Whitney. With the aid of pupils, Whitney made a transliterated copy of one, and himself collated the copy with the others. Since 1891, off and on, Oertel has been at work upon the restoration of the corrupt text of this Brāhmaṇa, and has published considerable parts of it in the Journal of the American Oriental Society (vol's xv., xvi., xviii., xix., xxiii., and xxvi.) and elsewhere. It is his intention to add to his translation systematic references to the parallel passages from the other Brāhmaṇas.
